THE CONVICT SYSTEM

Commenting upon a recent editorial in The Telegram, in which the present convict system of the state is criticised, the Dallas News has this to say:

It is somewhat remarkable that, when people discuss this convict labor question, they invariably dwell on its complicity when placed in workshops. That seems to attract so much attention that the subject is not elaborated further. Yet there are hundreds of convicts in this state actually in competition with cotton-picking children and with tenant farmers. The convicts are hired out to farmers or plantation owners to cultivate cotton which includes everything from planting to picking. The cotton industry furnishes many people with all the money they have from year to year. The cotton-growing part of the world is not extensive, hence the price of the staple depends on what this part will produce each year. The bale of every farmer depends on that, yet the state, gathering taxes from the farmers, places convicts on land owned by the state and makes them produce cotton which, to some extent at least, lowers the price of that which the farmer raises. There may be only a small reduction in price on this account, but if the price depends on the size of the crop the fact that the convict bale is an extra bale lowers the price to some extent. There is one place in which the convict cannot compete with honest labor, and that is on the roads. That is where he ought to be put.

The Telegram has on several occasions made the exact point to which the News has reference. When the bids were made some time ago looking to a renewal of the contracts for convicts on private farms, The Telegram urged the governor to interfere and prevent the penitentiary board going again into partnership on a basis which would bring the penal labor in direct competition with the overworked and underpaid farm hands of the state, and it was then shown the great injustice being done the free man who is earning his bread in the cotton, corn and wheat fields, in the sugar cane industry, and other classes of agricultural pursuits. The Telegram believes that it is upon the public roads the convicts should be placed. The old road law which cheapens the independence of the rural resident by subjecting him to a system of enforced labor upon the public roads under direction of an "overseer" is a relic of frontier days, and should no longer be countenanced. County commissioners draw large sums each year as overseers on public roads, and their efforts at road building are ineffective, because they are not experienced in the work. They absorb much of the revenue raised by the taxation upon the citizen, yet the citizen must do his share of the work, and receive no wage in return.

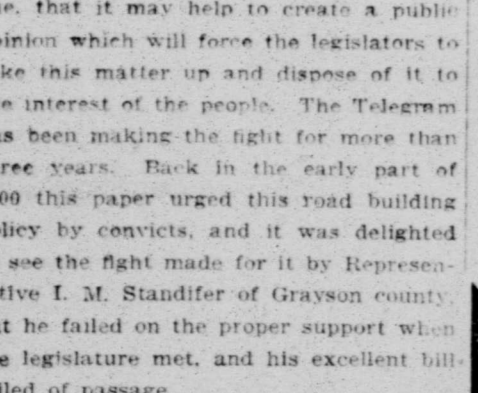

Let the road and bridge tax of each county be applied to the expense of guarding, feeding and clothing convicts, while engaged in road building, and put expert road builders—civil engineers—in charge of the work, and two good purposes will be accomplished, one is the convict is not in competition with the free man and the other will be the building of roads which will be a benefit to all the people of Texas.

The argument of the News is a good one, and The Telegram hopes to see it push the campaign through its every issue, that it may help to create a public opinion which will force the legislators to take this matter up and dispose of it to the interest of the people. The Telegram has been making the fight for more than three years. Back in the early part of 1900 this paper urged this road building policy by convicts, and it was delighted to see the fight made for it by Representative I. M. Standifer of Grayson county, but he failed on the proper support when the legislature met, and his excellent bill failed of passage.

doors here have been open every day and refugees from the fever frightened town have been welcomed and cared for. They came seeking safety, they found it. They had their money and they were allowed to spend it. Come again, San Antonians. Fort Worth is the healthy section of the state.

Whether it is right or wrong to issue an injunction, when once issued it should be respected until dissolved, and Judge David E. Bryant of the federal court is proceeding to convince an east Texas sheriff of that point. Those who have violated state court injunctions have failed to be called down for the contempt, but the federal court is a different proposition.

Has the Denison Herald heard the report of the local option injunction suit, which was decided by the higher court? When everything is closed up in Denison, Thompson, come down and have one with us.

SOME FREE PASS VIEWS

(Waco Tribune) Why should a legislator, of all men, have a free pass over a railroad? The state gives him liberal mileage to and from his home. If he does any other riding why shouldn't he pay "even as you and I?"

The legislative candidate pledged to vote against the acceptance of free passes (the penitentiary the penalty) by any state, county, city or precinct official is the man who ought to be elected next year. And men with courage to make the pledge are the ones who will be elected. A legislator, who also drew the liberal mileage the state allowed him, told us once that he didn't think the free passes accepted (and used) over railroads had any influence whatever in deciding his course of vote on legislation affecting railroads. He was a man who either didn't know himself or was lying—and there are many of his sort.

An assessor of taxes can get free passes on railroads, but up to date collectors of taxes pay their way. The reason for this discrimination, as explained by The Fort Worth Telegram, is simple. It is because the roads fear that if they don't comply with the assessor he will put their assessments higher. So they take no chances and therein show their human wisdom. Make it a penitentiary offense for any state, county, city or precinct official to accept, or any road to offer such officials free passes.

WHAT PAPERS SAY

OF W. D. WILLIAMS

During the sittings of the last legislature Hon. W. D. Williams of Tarrant county introduced and fought very hard for a bill that would impose a tax upon intangible assets of corporations. The bill passed the house all right but died in the senate. Mr. Williams stands for re-election before the next democratic primary and has this plank in his platform, together with the anti-free railroad pass business. If Mr. Williams would insert a plank in his platform in favor of working convicts on the public roads of Texas we believe he would have a combination that would be hard to beat.—Venus Times.

Tuesday evening's Telegram is authoritative for the statement that Hon. W. D. Williams will again stand for re-election to the office of county representative from this county. It is a fact, and a shameful fact, that every man of Mr. Williams' ability and integrity, that serves in the legislature of the great state of Texas, does so at a great pecuniary sacrifice. The idea of W. D. Williams working two or three months, as he did last spring, for $2 a day, bearing his own expenses, in Austin and supporting his family in Fort Worth is ridiculous, and this fact almost deterred him from running again. It will be remembered that Mr. Williams did a great deal of hard work to get a bill through the legislature taxing the intangible assets of corporations, and came near succeeding; got it through the lower house and would likely have put it through the senate had not his opponents succeeded by dilatory tactics in preventing action thereon till the legislature adjourned. A desire to try this bill again, and to give the "lobby" and "free pass" practice a black eye constrains Mr. Williams to run again, even though it be a great personal sacrifice.

If W. D. Williams can do what he thinks he can do in a second term in the legislature, we predict it will be bread cast upon the waters and that two years hence the people of Texas will give him an office that has other and more valuable appointments pertaining thereto than "Hon."—Arlington Journal.

Cleanings From the Exchanges

We are informed that the former editor of the Herald, L. E. Michelet, has been served with a writ issued by virtue of an order made by one Judge W. H. Pope of Beaumont, restraining the publication of the order of the commissioners' court declaring the result of the prohibition election on the 12th of September last. Call again gentlemen! The Herald has made a contract with County Judge Maroney who selected this paper to publish that court order four successive weeks and if these presses around here don't burst and ain't bursted, that contract will be carried out notwithstanding all of the injunctive retroactive judicial laws.—Lufkin Herald.

Do the people believe that such disrespect for a court is conducive to good order? When newspapers and people show such contempt, it is time the courts were prepared to enforce the orders. A district judge does not do his whole duty if he overlooks such a thing.

The Fort Worth Telegram is the first daily paper in the state to make a fight on the free pass system.—Mt. Pleasant Times-Review.

And it will keep it up until the finish. The Times understands that there will be as many as three candidates for the legislature from Austin county next year. It so happens that the representative job in the Twenty-ninth legislature is going to be unusually important. Questions will be brought up in which the people of Austin county will be considerably interested and they will want to be sure of the man they give the job to. There cannot be too many candidates for the office.—Belleville Times.

Make them tell you the platform. Ask them if they will vote against corporation courtisies.

The third house, commonly known as the lobby, has heretofore played no inconsiderable part in the law making of Texas. What we need for legislators is a class of men who have honor enough about them to repulse these schemers.—Venus Times.

The next legislature will be different from those which have gone into history. The people are in the saddle.

In ten years time cotton will no longer be "king" in Wise county. The high potentates that are now waging a warfare for supremacy are fruit, hogs, poultry, truck crops and diversified farming. Sandy lands are also keeping step with the reform of the farming order, and proportionally advancing in price.—Wise County Messenger.

Cotton is no longer king. The Texas farmer is diversifying and his hog crop will bring him money in the Fort Worth market.

The Fort Worth Telegram is making a good fight against the free pass courtisies extended to officials.—Pilot Point Post-Signal.

Get in line and help. No one paper can win the fight. All are wanted on the side of the people.

A Miner's Deference

(Original)

There were three women in the coach, and when night came on one of the passengers, a rough miner, insisted on every man getting outside that each woman might have a seat to herself on which to sleep. When we were seated on the coach top, I offered the polite miner a cigar and remarked: "You treat women with great respect out here."

"That's 'cause there's so few on 'em. They'd oughter pass a law ag'in their comin'."

"I suppose it was your admiration for the sex that leads you to treat them so unselfishly."

"Not a bit. It's my advice, stranger, for any man to let 'em alone. I never had but one experience with any on 'em, and that was enough for me. It was when we was workin' in Zigzag gulch. There was a lot of us there washin' out considerable ore and all doin' well. One day a grizzly headed ole feller come along totin' a gal. She was the fust specimen we'd any on us laid eyes on for months. Stranger, d'y remember when y' was a boy and went into a store to buy a pocketknife? Among hundreds on 'em the knife y' bought didn't look especial fine, but when y' got it home away from the rest on 'em, great Scott, how it did shine! Well, that's the way it was with the gal. There wasn't no more on 'em to compare her with, and we was only used to each other's hairy faces."

"The ole man said he'd come out to dig for gold, and his daughter was goin' to do his cookin' for him. It wasn't long before I seen that the gal was givin' me a preference to all the other men in camp, and I felt just as if I was bein' filled with laughin' gas. I was as proud and happy as if I'd struck a vein of pure gold. Pauline—that was her name, Pauline Maryweather—she was as dead stuck on me as I was on her. Only one thing troubled me. She wouldn't take no notice on me except when we was alone and no one to see us. She said her father never would consent to her marryin' no miner and was hopin' to make a strike and marry her to some big gun in the east. However, at last she consented to let me try what I could do with him, and I did."

"Mr. Maryweather, I said, 'I am in love with yer daughter and want her for my wife. I got $2,000 worth of dust in my shanty, and when I git double the amount I'll go east, set up a store somewhere and live respectable.'"

"You jist let my daughter alone," he said, "or I'll put more lead into yer vitals than y' got gold in yer cabin."

"When I tole Pauline about it, she looked sad, but didn't say nothin', and I begun tryin' to persuade her to run away with me. She was dead set ag'in it at fust, but at last she come round and laid out the hull business herself. I was to go down to the fork of the creek and wait there for her. One thing she insisted on. She said if she once made the more her father'd never forgive her. She trusted me, but there might be some slip, so she would not stir unless I'd let her carry my dust. This looked reasonable, and the night before we was to dig out I met her in a lonely place up the creek and turned the dust over. She seemed mighty disconcerted and clung to me as if somepin awful was goin' to happen. At last she kissed me goodby, makin' me promise once more that I wouldn't fail her, and then we separated."

"Waal, we was to meet at 4 o'clock the next afternoon. I was at the fork by 3, and 'bout a quarter to 4 my heart begun to beat like a drumstick, beatin' faster and faster till my watch stood 4 p. m. Then it beat at the same gait till a quarter past 4, and, seel'n' Pauline didn't show up, it begun to slow down. I waited till 5, and then, concludin' that the ole man had got to the deal, I went back to the gulch. "Things was a-workin' as usual except I missed seven of the most successful miners there was among us. I set down on a stump to rest, and while I was a-settin' there Dick Tutt, one of the missin' men, walked in lookin' 'bout himself kind of suspicious. Ther, from another direction come Phil Triggs. He 'peared mad at somepin, and makes straight for his cabin. While he was there along comes Tom Bannard. Triggs comes out of his cabin and yells, 'What's become of that ole galute, Maryweather?'"

"He was tole by the miners that Maryweather and his daughter had left the place a leetle before 4 o'clock with a big sack that it tuk the two on 'em to carry."

"Waal, the game was out. The gal had made love to the seven of Zigzag gulch's wealthiest citizens and got every one on 'em to turn over his dust except Triggs, who suspected somepin and insisted on takin' his'n to the meetin' place hisself, instead of which he buried it and left a bag of sand in its place, so that in his case the thieves didn't get nothin'."

"A couple of year after that I went to Kansas City. I did nothin' for the fust day but stare at the women; they looked so purty. Then I got used to 'em. One day on the street I met a reheaded, frowzy, freckled gal with a pug nose. And who do you suppose she was? Pauline Maryweather. I tell you, stranger, what you want to do with wimmen is to treat 'em as you would a leopard—stroke 'em mighty soft, and don't get in the way of their claws. And if you think one on 'em purty jist set her up along side some more on 'em."

GARDINER FORBES.

Don't fool with a cold; no one can tell what the end may be. Pneumonia, catarrh, chronic bronchitis and consumption invariably result from neglected colds. Nothing can be compared with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as a quick cure for colds and influenza, and by its use these diseases may be avoided.

We Will Buy

A 50c Bottle of Ligozone and Give It to You to Try

We will pay your druggist for a bottle of Ligozone and give it to you if you need it. And you do need it—either to get well or keep well. When we are so liberal, so fair with you, will you be as fair with yourself? Won't you learn what liquid oxygen can do?

We Spend $500,000 Kills Inside Germs

To Give Ligozone Away

This remarkable offer appears in every great newspaper in America. The cost of the offer, we expect, will reach $500,000. We pay that price to convince those who suffer from germ troubles that Ligozone does kill germs. We will gladly pay for your test if you will let us prove it to you.

Our reason is this: Ligozone is new in America and millions who need it don't know of it. There is everywhere suffering which Ligozone could stop, and sickness which only Ligozone can cure. In every hamlet there are lives which Ligozone alone can save. Our plan seems the right way—the best way to quickly let the sick ones know it.

We paid $100,000 for the American rights to Ligozone—the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. And we spend fourteen days in making each bottle, using immense apparatus and employing the best chemists in Chicago. Yet we give you a full size bottle, and pay your druggist ourselves for it. Your part is simply to send us the coupon. Then our only request is that you tell your sick friends what Ligozone does for you.

Just Oxygen

Ligozone is simply liquid oxygen; no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent twenty years in learning how to liquify oxygen. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in stable form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Ligozone does that. Oxygen is the blood food, the tonic, the scavenger of the blood. It is oxygen that turns the blue blood to red in the lungs. It is oxygen that eliminates the waste tissue and builds up the new. You could not live three minutes without it. Yet an excess of oxygen is certain destruction to germs; and it is the only germ killer which isn't harmful to you.

That is why we paid $100,000 for the American rights. We first tested it for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. We proved, in thousands of the most difficult cases obtainable, that it never fails in a germ trouble. We cured with it all the diseases which medicine never cured. We demonstrated, beyond any man's doubt, that it would do more for sick humanity than all the drugs in the world combined. Then we staked our fortunes and our reputations on it.

Ligozone is now endorsed by the best medical authorities; it is prescribed by every physician who knows it. It is employed in every hospital where it is known. And it must be employed by those who succeed, for there is no other way to destroy the cause of a germ trouble.

We are doing our part to let the sick know of Ligozone. We are spending $500,000 to give it away. If the sick will do their part—if they will ask for it—those diseases which are caused by germs will end. And they can rarely be ended without it.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. Every trouble in this list is caused by inside germs, and medicine cannot destroy them. Medicine often aids Nature to overcome the germs, and cures in that way. But those results are indirect and uncertain. They depend on the patient's condition. And there are some of these germs which Nature, aided to the utmost, never destroys.

Ligozone kills all the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. It destroys the cause of the trouble invariably, and the trouble then must end. In any stage of any disease in this list, the results are so certain that we send to every patient who asks it, an absolute guaranty:

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

- Asthma
- Hay Fever—Influenza
- Abscess—Anemia
- Kidney Diseases
- Bronchitis
- La Grippe
- Blood Poison
- Liver Troubles
- Bright's Disease
- Malaria—Neuralgia
- Bowel Troubles
- Many Heart Troubles
- Coughs—Colds
- Piles—Pneumonia
- Consumption
- Pleurisy—Quinsy
- Colic—Croup
- Rheumatism
- Constipation
- Skin Diseases
- Catarrh—Cancer
- Scrofula
- Dysentery—Diarrhea
- Stomach Troubles
- Dandruff—Dropsy
- Throat Troubles
- Eczema—Erysipelas
- Tuberculosis
- Fever—Gall Stone
- Tumors—Ulcers
- Gout
- Women's Diseases

In nervous debility Ligozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drug can do.

First Bottle Free

If you need Ligozone, and have never tried it, please send us the coupon below. We will then send you an order on your druggist for a full-size bottle free, and we will pay your druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Ligozone is and what it can do. To accept it places you under no obligations whatever.

No sick one can neglect such an offer and be fair to himself. The very fact of the offer must convince you that Ligozone does as we claim. We would surely not pay for a bottle and give it away if there was any doubt of results. You want those results—you want to be well. Won't you let us, at our expense, show you the way?

Ligozone is sold in two sizes—50c and $1.

CUT OUT THIS COUPON

For this offer may not appear again. Fill out the blanks and mail it to the Liquid Ozone Co., 221-223 Kinzie St., Chicago.

ance on the St. Louis fair as there was in Chicago in 1893, the railroads will be required to haul into St. Louis over 7,700,000 people over normal business next summer. Within 600 miles of Chicago in 1893, in fifteen states, there was a population of about 27,000,000. It is a coincidence that this was about the total attendance at the Chicago exposition. Within the same radius of St. Louis now there is a population of eighteen states and territories of about 36,000,000 people, including about 4,000,000 negroes, leaving a population 5,000,000 greater for St. Louis than Chicago had to draw from in 1893.

TWO MORE RAILROADS

Muskogee, I. T., Promises to Become an Important Center

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Muskogee will soon have two new railroads besides a new electric line. The Muskogee Southern is now being constructed by the Kenefick Construction Co., which company has just recently completed the Ozark and Cherokee Central railroad. This road will connect with the Kansas City Southern.

The Muskogee Union railway, also in the process of construction, will soon be ready for operation. It will connect with the Missouri Pacific railroad and with the Santa Fe. Both of these roads will then run trains into Muskogee. The construction company that is now engaged in the construction of the Muskogee Union will take up the construction of the Muskogee street railway just as soon as their work on the former road is completed. When these lines are completed Muskogee will take on the appearance of a railroad center, as she will then have connections with the Frisco, Katy, Missouri Pacific, Santa Fe and Muskogee Southern.

OFFICERS GET WHISKEY

In a Man's Room at Muskogee and Arrest the Occupant

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—One day the past week Marshal Bennett and United States Commissioner Leekley searched the room of Guy Barton in the Meekin building and found secreted in his dresser twenty-seven pints of whiskey. The officers at once arrested the man and spilled the whiskey. Barton was bound over to await the action of the grand jury and his bond was fixed at $2,000. He will be charged with introducing and selling liquor in the Indian Territory, contrary to the law of the United States relative to that offense. The charge against him is rather serious, owing to the fact that this law is so generally violated and the officers are so desirous of putting a stop to its flagrant disregard.

COTTON AT MUSKOGEE

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Cotton continues to come in here and will doubtless continue to do so while the present weather lasts. Although the season is far advanced, yet it is generally conceded that this section will produce a fair yield. The heavy frosts of the past few days have materially brightened the outlook of the cotton situation. The cotton gins are all actively operating. Cotton is selling on the streets of this city at 3 cents per pound.

EXPERIMENT A SUCCESS

Importation of Northern Cotton Seed Proves Profitable

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—L. H. Peters, a ginman of this city, last winter had a number of carloads of cotton seed shipped here from the Indian Territory to be distributed for planting purposes. Mr. Peters said yesterday that so far as he knew these seed had given entire satisfaction. He says the experiment has clearly proven that by the planting of northern seed the cotton will mature from two to four weeks earlier than native seed, yields more to the acre and makes more lint to the hundred pounds than any cotton he ever ginned. In view of the fact that boll weevils have made their appearance in Ellis county Mr. Peters advises farmers to buy northern seed next year and plant early.

Keating; commander, Robert Joseph; lieutenant commander, Fenton Chevis; record keeper, August Young; finance keeper, Thomas Harris; physician, Dr. W. P. Ball; sergeant, Charles C. There will be a business men's kindergarten given here Tuesday, October 27.

FROST AT GEORGETOWN

Removes the Danger of a Yellow Fever Epidemic

GEORGETOWN, Texas, Oct. 26.—Yesterday a heavy frost was reported in this section, which greatly improves the yellow fever situation. County Collector W. H. Eaves, who made the trip from Taylor to Georgetown overland early yesterday morning, reports the frost a certainty. There were no daily papers received here yesterday and the town was without the news of the world. Guards are on all trains on the Houston and Texas Central, International and Great Northern and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas and no passengers from San Antonio, Hondo, Laredo or any other infected points are allowed to get off in Williamson county. There are still a number of people from this city in San Antonio at the fair.

Music and Drama

A report has gained circulation throughout the state that the special scenery car of the Eben Holden attraction had been damaged in a railroad wreck in the territory. Manager Greenwall received this telegram this morning:

F. H. Greenwall, Manager Fort Worth: Correct the false statements that the Eben Holden company's special scenery car and big production was damaged in the Choctaw wreck. Henry Rorton is not hurt as reported. The company was delayed, losing the Little Rock date Friday night, but played to big business in Hot Springs Saturday.

Atkinson & Wildes Managers. Mr. Greenwall says there will be nothing to interfere with the coming of the production for its date in this city.

"PICKINGS FROM PUCK"

The names of Willard Simms as the star, and Messrs. Ollie Mack and Joseph M. Gaites as managers, is guarantee enough to the public that their latest offering, "Pickings from Puck," is an assured success. This musical travesty comes to Greenwall's opera house tonight. It is bright, racy and brilliant in wit and music, with fun that flows in a natural and uninterrupted stream from the pens of Clarence Simms and Theodore Northrup. Mr. Simms is supported by a clever company, composed of the brightest comedians on the stage, and a bevy of the prettiest girls obtainable. The scenic and costume embellishments are beautiful in the extreme.

"EBEN HOLDEN" Messrs. Atkinson and Wildes will present Thursday night, October 29, E. F. Rose's dramatization of Irving Bacheller's popular novel, "Eben Holden" at Greenwall's opera house. This will be the first presentation to Fort Worth theatergoers of this delightful drama and no doubt the house will be packed.

The Kansas City Times had the following to say: "Eben Holden," a dramatization of Irving Bacheller's popular novel, is the attraction this week at the Auditorium. Although produced here yesterday for the first time, of the play itself little need be said. Every one is familiar with the novel and the story of New England farm life. Like "David Harum," it is well suited for dramatization and merits the tremendous success which it has met. The play follows the book closely and presents in a most interesting manner the story of love on the Long Pine farm. It is, of course, chiefly a character sketch of which the central figure is Uncle Eb.

DE WOLF HOPPER

Laura Joyce Bell, the wife of Comedian Digby Bell, and one of the best known character players on the American stage, will appear in De Wolf Hopper's production of "Mr. Pickwick," the musical travesty of the Charles Dickens' masterpiece, when it comes to Greenwall's opera house, Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee, October 30 and 31. Mrs. Bell interprets Mrs. Bardell, who will be remembered by readers of Dickens as the most conspicuous and laughable creation of the Pickwick Papers. The company comes here with a record of three months at the Herald Square theater, New York city. The original cast and production will be in evidence during the coming engagement. Seats on sale Wednesday at 9 a. m.

TRAINS ANNULLED IN SOUTH TEXAS

Quarantine Restrictions May Be Abolished This Week in Fever District

The International and Great Northern and the Houston and Texas Central railroads have annulled several trains on account of the state quarantine regulations, and it depends upon the removal of these restrictions when train service will be restored. All trains in South Texas are more or less affected by the quarantine. The annulled trains of the International run between Palestine and San Antonio and between San Antonio and Hearne. The fast train between Laredo and St. Louis is still in operation, and while passengers are forbidden to take passage thereupon for any point within the state, there is no law prohibiting them taking passage to any point in another state.

Railroad officials express themselves that the quarantine will be lifted early this week and that the normal condition of traffic will be restored. As it is now the annulment of trains all over the south part of the state is enough to paralyze passenger traffic, and result in great loss to the railroads affected.

The Sunset Limited from the west is now carrying a quarantine inspector whose duty it is to see that the train passes through San Antonio without stopping and that no suspicious characters board the train at Converse, which is now used as the terminal station. The east bound limited also carries a quarantine officer through San Antonio.

The other railroads are carrying inspectors, but their operations are not so extensive as those on the Sunset Limited.

It has been a long time since the Texas railroads have been tied up as they now are in South Texas.

WILL ABOLISH POSITION

The position of assistant engineer of maintenance of way of the Southern Pacific Atlantic system, now filled by D. K. Colburn, will be abolished Nov. 1. On that date Mr. Colburn will become superintendent of bridges and building for the Atlantic system, headquarters at Houston. Engineer Cushing will continue at the head of the maintenance of way department.

PUSHING SARATOGA EXTENSION

The Santa Fe will push the work of getting into the Saratoga oil field and more than 100 teams will be put to work on construction at once. It is reported that the Saratoga branch will defect from the Silsbee branch either at Bragg or Lelavale, both of which are west of Kountze. About fifteen miles of track will be required for the extension.

TO BE A SHAKING UP

The promotion to the head of traffic of the Rock Island-Frisco combination of B. L. Winchell occasions the belief in railroad circles here that there are to be a number of "shaking ups" before the hypinated road settles down to regular every-day business. The appointment of a traffic manager for the Central-East and West lines will be made by Mr. Winchell, provided these two roads are taken in by the Rock Island-Frisco. There is still speculation as to who will receive the appointment, but the one most talked about is D. B. Keeler, traffic manager and vice president of the Denver Road of this city. However, nothing definite has as yet been made public by Mr. Keeler as to whether he wants the place.

ROCK ISLAND RUMOR

The news from New York is to the effect that the Rock Island, or Moore Bros' syndicate, is said to have entered the market on the bull side. In the past six months there have been many rumors that this crowd was in trouble and that much of the severe summer liquidation forced by the unprecedented shrinkage in values came from this source. These reports were denied and the Moores were doing nothing speculatively in the market. When the Rock Island people bought the Frisco and planned to put off the big $250,000,000 of the Rock Island bonds, their settlements were generally credited. The Moore people are said to have accumulated large blocks of Rock Island and also of Atchison, besides taking a big speculative line of many leading railroad issues.

WORLD'S FAIR TRAFFIC NEEDS

The railroad men who are at the head of the passenger traffic business are very much worried, as has been previously stated in The Telegram, over the equipment needs of the World's Fair season, and the inability to secure what passenger coaches will be needed in time for the opening of the big exposition. All railroad companies are giving rush orders for equipment, but this does not get the cars, and the opening of the fair will see many railroads poorly equipped with rolling stock for use during the exposition season.

One railroad passenger official is quoted as saying that some of the lines into St. Louis will be hauling people in box cars next summer. If there should be as large attend-

MILITARY CAREER OF FORT WORTH MAN

Lieutenant Walter B. Elliott, who is in charge of the army recruiting station at Houston, is well known among the early citizens of Fort Worth where he once lived and was prominent in both business and social circles. He was here from 1885 to 1890 and there was no more popular young man in Fort Worth than he.

Lieutenant Elliott was engaged in the drug business, his partner being George Dashwood. The two also managed the Fort Worth opera house. Before this, however, he was manager of the telephone system. He left this city in 1891, and the next heard of him he was connected with the United States army.

Recently the Houston Chronicle published a lengthy story about Lieutenant Elliott, giving a detailed account of his military career which reads like a romance. Lieutenant Elliott is a soldier of fortune and misfortune. On one hand he has a record seldom achieved by one of his station in the regular establishment. On the other hand his strict devotion to duty has placed him in a position lower than should have been accorded him. Five times during the war in the Philippines he was mentioned in dispatches and three times he was wounded during the progress of one of the most vigorous campaigns waged in the insular possessions of the United States.

But for the unfortunate occurrence of a Mexican rebellion at a time that was crucial to his advancement, he is no more than a first lieutenant today, when he might have been major or at least a captain. Up the line from private to captain, Lieutenant Elliott has filled all the positions, faced all the circumstances and battled with all the conditions in times of peace, that made his name a synonym for bravery and courage in times of war. He has fought luck and lost; opposed governors and won; faced Filipinos and gained a record. When Major Pershing heard of his achievements in the island of Mindanao, he said: "Captain Elliott is a soldier after my own heart; he is a man I want to meet." Discussing this incident and the life of Lieutenant Elliott, the Chronicle says:

When Major Pershing took command in the southern islands of the group around about the piece where Captain Elliott had commanded before him, the record of the man now recruiting officer in Houston was maintained but not excelled.

Major Pershing took forty-four; Captain Elliott captured the most important Filipino general operating in the south; fought not only hostile bands of soldiers, but organizations of assassins; fought seventeen battles in command of a small force; negotiated with consummate tact and to all practical purposes brought under subjection a hotbed of insurrection that renewed itself with his departure.

And Lieutenant Elliott is by adoption a Texan. He was born in Alabama, but later removed to Fort Worth. There he engaged in the drug business and was at one time a partner in the management of an opera house in that city.

At the outbreak of the Spanish war he accepted the commission of first lieutenant in the Sixth Missouri regiment and proceeded to Cuba with his regiment, taking part in the occupation formalities. After being mustered out in May, he accepted a commission as captain in the Fortieth United States volunteer infantry in August, 1898. It was with this command that he gained the attention of his superiors, together with fame in the United States and throughout the army. Leaving the United States for the Philippine islands in November, 1899, the Fortieth volunteer regiment arrived in Manila five weeks later. After service with Bell's expeditionary brigade in the North and South Camarines, Luzon, Captain Elliott, with his company, took part in the occupation of Cagayan, Mindanao, in April.

In command of detachments, Companies I and K of the Fortieth infantry, Captain Elliott met and defeated a detachment of insurgents at Agusan hill, Agusan, Mindanao, the following month. From that time on existence was strenuous. In June Captain Elliott was wounded in the right leg by an arrow fixed from a bent tree along a path through the jungle. At the time he was in action against the insurgents at Macalambas. It required five weeks for the wound to heal.

After being mustered out of the Fortieth infantry while still in the Philippines, June 20, 1901, the gallant officer was made first lieutenant of the Philippine scouts, serving through July and a part of August, 1901. On the day following the completion of duty with the native scouts came the appointment as first lieutenant of the Thirtieth infantry. In August, 1902, Lieutenant Elliott was transferred from the Thirtieth regiment to the Twenty-third regiment, after almost a year of detailed duty in organizing and commanding the Forty-ninth company of Philippine scouts. Between September 1, 1901, and June 30, 1902, Lieutenant Elliott served as acting quartermaster, ordnance officer and commissary at the post of Oroquieta, Mindanao.

Since Lieutenant Elliott has been on service in Houston he has been transferred from the Twenty-third to the Seventh infantry. The nature of the work done by Lieutenant Elliott (then Captain Elliott) in Mindanao was the most trying imaginable under present day conditions. After the organized bands of insurgents had been driven from the sea coast zone, secret bands of assassins were organized, pledged to "war to the knife." Against these men the combat was fierce. In the darkness of the night soldiers were stabbed to death and shots were fired from ambush. The air was charged with death, and a moment of carelessness meant a period to the sentence of existence. Plots were laid and frustrated. Criminals were captured and hanged. It was a battle in the dark against assassins that were nerve racking and terrible.

It was near a station where Lieutenant Elliott spent the most eventful portion of his life that Lieutenant Overton recently met death in a massacre.

COLONEL HARRIS STARTS ARGUMENT

Gives Reasons for Opposition to Paying for Monuments to Soldiers

The meeting of Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, yesterday was more spirited than for some time. It was the result of the discussion in favor of medallions for the Confederate women of the south.

Colonel Abe Harris has always been opposed to Lee camp paying money for monuments, when there are the living members who need attention. He said: "We have in our midst Confederate mothers who are not able to care for themselves, and we should take all the money we can spare for building homes, for these good women."

Colonel Harris then referred to the efforts made three years ago to take up the matter of a home for indigent Confederate women. He was one of the committee, but nothing tangible resulted from the movement. Such homes, he said, are maintained in four or five southern states, and he thought it a shame one was not established in Texas.

Colonel Harris said provisions and fuel for the living was much more sensible than monuments for the dead.

Judge J. C. Scott heartily indorsed the position taken by Colonel Harris. Judge C. C. Cummings said that to his knowledge, there had never been a worthy case of charity reported to the camp that was not at once relieved. He said you never see a Confederate soldier begging, yet many a sack of flour and many a cord of wood is supplied by Lee camp during the course of a year.

Commander Taylor was in favor of being charitable and said those who thought the camp was not administering charity were not well informed.

This whole discussion was invoked by an appeal to Lee camp, from Turner Ashby camp of Winchester, Va., asking for a contribution of $3 towards erecting a monument at that place in memory of the women of the south.

Reports were made by committees on the death of comrades. Resolutions on the death of the late Comrades Laney and Harris will be read to the camp at next Sunday's meeting.

Colonel Duke Goodman, who was appointed to confer with the Dallas committee regarding medallions for Confederate women, reported that an informal meeting had been held, and it was agreed to make the movement a national instead of a local one, and Adjutant General Mickel will be asked to issue an order that will place the matter before the next session. He also reported that Senators Culberson and Bailey expressed the belief that the federal government would donate some of the brass cannons captured during the war out of which to make the medallions.

The camp then passed a resolution expressing profound gratitude of the camp for the recent visit of Sterling Price camp of Dallas, two weeks ago. Frank V. Terry was thanked by resolution for a lot in the new cemetery.

SHORT MEETING OF SONS

There was a very large attendance on the meeting of the Sons of Confederacy yesterday afternoon, but little business was transacted. The coming Miller entertainment was discussed.

A committee, composed of N. R. Tisdal, W. R. Parker and Ike J. Stockett, was appointed to look into prospective changes in the national constitution.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. TEXAS GRAPES FOR THE FAIR

Fine Exhibits Secured From the Irrigation District Near Barstow

T. Graham, collecting agent of the Texas World's Fair commission, is back from a trip through the west part of the state, in the vicinity of Abilene and Barstow, and secured from both these points some very fine specimens to be added to the display that will go from Texas to the fair.

Mr. Graham stated this morning that the country around Barstow was fast coming to the front as a fruit growing section, due to the fine irrigation system that has recently been inaugurated. Especially fine grapes are being raised near Barstow. One man raised enough grapes on thirty-three acres to bring to him a profit of $7,500. From this section of the state will go to the St. Louis World's Fair Texas raised raisins.

Mr. Graham states that the people in the Barstow country are raising almost exclusively alfalfa, cotton and grapes. An excellent display of products were also secured from the Abilene country.

Mr. Graham intended to make a trip to South Texas this week, but on account of the quarantine he has deferred his trip until such time as the quarantine shall be lifted by the state authorities.

The Texas display will not be shipped to St. Louis until January. The Texas building will not be completed until February.

NO NEW CASES OF FEVER ARE FOUND TODAY

San Antonio City Health Department Fails to Discover Any More Persons Afflicted With the Disease

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Experts failed to find a single new case of alleged yellow fever this morning. Not even a suspicious case was reported at the city health department. The total number of cases reported to date since October 20 is twelve, of which four have died.

The British army under the new scheme requires 50,000 recruits annually. According to the director general's report only 42,000 are examined annually, and of these about 22,500 are rejected, giving a deficiency of 5,500 per annum, which England hopes to make up by colonial assistance.

FORT WORTH MEN SAW LOU DILLON TROT

"June" Polk Is Enthusiastic in His Description of the Peerless Mare's Performance of Last Saturday

Alderman Wargoman, Fire Chief Jim Shaddox and "June" Polk returned to Fort Worth yesterday from Memphis where they attended the great harness meeting of last week. On Saturday they saw Lou Dillon, peerless trotting queen, break her own and the world's record by going a mile in 1:58 1-2. Mr. Polk is one of the leading horse and mule dealers of the Southwest, and he was full of enthusiasm over the big meeting.

"Do you know that Lou Dillon can't trot a mile in four minutes?" he asked. "Well, she can't. She's built like a runner and when she's jogging or warming up she gallops or single-foots. It is when she scores for the 'wood' that she begins to trot and when you see her quit loping and take her trotting stride you hair stands up. She's the most wonderful bit of horse-racing machinery I have ever seen. Her action is perfect. I was foolish enough to buy a pool on Major Delmar to beat her, but he couldn't even interest her. I honestly believe that if she had been extended in that race she would have 'distanced' him in the first heat. They talk about putting Ceresus against her. Ceresus, of course, is a grand horse, but he has no chance against her. She's a phenomenon, that's all. If the wind hadn't been against her Saturday she would have put the world's trotting record below 1:58."

PRAIRES BILLINGS

Mr. Polk was high in his praise of C. K. G. Billings, owner of the Memphis track. "The track is kept like a parlor," he said. "Twenty-two teams, drawing all kinds of track machines and sprinklers, keep the course in perfect shape, and the grand stand, promenade and betting ring are not equalled anywhere. Billings is worth about $50,000,000—owns the Memphis street car and electric lighting systems, the electric lighting system of Paris, France, and other big municipal utilities. He has a yacht that costs him $300 a day to maintain. He does things in the horse racing line on the same big scale that he does business. He is still a young man and one of the most genial I ever met."

"You see articles in the papers every once in a while about high salaried jockeys. Billings offered Ed. Geers $25,500 to drive his horses next year, but Geers declined."

ELLIS COUNTY TEACHERS

feated an enthusiastic interest in the proceedings. The meeting was called to order by County Superintendent E. D. Criddle, who acted as presiding officer until a permanent organization was effected. The following officers were elected for the year: J. T. Brooks, president; A. C. Stiles, first vice president; J. R. Edwards, second vice president; Miss Victoria Bradshaw, secretary.

VENUS ENJOYING A RAPID GROWTH

VENUS, Texas, Oct. 26.—Venus is a beautiful little town of about 700 inhabitants. It has an altitude of 900 feet above sea level, and is situated at the intersection point of the Santa Fe and International and Great Northern railroads, twenty-eight miles south of Fort Worth, and thirty-three miles southwest of Dallas. Venus is in the best cotton section of the black hand belt. The town is incorporated and has some of its best citizens at the head of the municipal government.

Among the progressive business institutions are the National Bank with a capital stock of $50,000. J. C. Smith is president and Major C. C. Marshall cashier. There is a loan and trust company with a capital stock of $10,000, with P. K. Thompson as president and general manager, and there are several stores of various kinds.

One of the best little schools in the state is here, known as Burnetta Colledge, with a corps of thirteen efficient teachers, with Professor A. P. Thomas as president and owner of the property, which consists of one large college building, with thirteen recitation halls all equipped in modern style. There is one large dormitory with thirty-two study and sleeping rooms and a large study hall, library, reception, music and dining halls. Thirteen of the foremost men of this vicinity are on the board of trustees. The college is noted for having many "thirteens." The telephone number is thirteen, there are thirteen members of the faculty, thirteen trustees and thirteen rooms in the college. But in spite of all this last year 233 students were enrolled, five of whom were graduated. This year, which opened Sept. 8, 200 enrolled, but this number will be materially increased.

Last year four different states were represented in this college, but the principal number of students were from Central and North Texas. This college was organized by the present president in 1895, the first session of the school was taught in the buildings in 1896 and every since it has been growing. Instead of the town of Venus having a school, all the public money is applied to the support of Burnetta and consequently a long school is had each year. The success of the school is largely due to the hard work of the citizens of Venus. Every one seems to try and lend it assistance. When new students are taken in from some other place they are welcomed by the young people and made one of the Venusites.

The town has four churches of the various denominations, as follows: Methodist, south; Presbyterian, Cumberland Presbyterian, Baptist, and the Disciples of Christ. Some of the denominations do not have buildings, but they are preparing to have suitable churches erected at an early date.

Several of the leading fraternal lodges and orders are here, the Odd Fellows and Masons being in the lead. They both own their own halls.

Cotton is the principal product of this section. From one-half to a bale per acre is about the average yield per year.

Since the International and Great Northern railroad has been built here the raising of hogs, and live stock of all kinds has been increased to a great extent.

METHODISTS ARE TO GATHER HERE

Northwest Texas Conference Holds Session Here November 11

On November 11 will commence the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in this city, over which Bishop W. W. Duncan will preside. The sessions will be held in the city hall auditorium and will be attended by at least 450 delegates, besides many other prominent members of the church in not only Texas, but from outside of the state.

Rev. S. H. Worlein, pastor of the First church, is chairman of the entertainment committee, assisted by the other Methodist preachers in Fort Worth. These divines are now working with great vigor to have the reception of the delegates as complete as it could possibly be. The program of entertainment has not yet been completed, but it will include a visit to the packing house district and the stock yards, which will be a novel sight to the preachers who are not accustomed to seeing such things. HE BELIEVES IN DIPPING

Borden County Ranchman Finds It Costs Only Seven Cents Per Head

GAIL, Texas, Oct. 24.—Andy Long has proved his cattle to the 49 pasture, six miles north of here. He has finished dipping, having dipped about three thousand head. He observes that the actual cost of dipping is only about 7 cents per head and it is claimed that this process used twice a year will keep cattle perfectly clean.

There has been several extensive fires up through Lynn county this fall, and the grass which has sprung up since the late rains makes the prairies look as green as a wheat field in April. Except in the burnt areas, the coat of grass for winter is fine.

J. H. Berry and J. S. Fritz went east last week with two cars of good horses, having loaded at Big Springs.

The dam of the city tank, which washed out a short time ago has been rebuilt. The tank is large enough that when once filled, the town will be abundantly supplied with water. Dr. Price moved in this week to get the benefit of the year's school. He has sold his ranch eighteen miles west of here and bought in Yoakum county, where he now has his cattle.

The election in this county on the prairie dog question went almost unanimously for extermination and the good work has already begun.
