

100 YEARS OLD STRONG AND HEALTHY.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey Saved My Life from Bronchitis Six Years Ago and Has Kept Me Strong and Healthy Ever Since.

Mrs. Roberts Doesn't Look a Day Over Sixty. Reads the Papers and Sews Without Spectacles.

"I write this letter to thank you for what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done for me. In 1904 I had an unusually severe attack of Bronchitis, and the best doctors said I would surely die, because I was such an old lady and there was not enough vitality left in my body to resist the disease."

"My son saw your advertisement and bought a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for me. It saved my life. It brought back my strength, and I have not been sick a day since."

The average length of life is less than 50 years. The census shows there are only 3,526 women in the United States who have passed the century mark.

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY PROMOTES HEALTH AND LONG LIFE.

It is an absolutely pure distillation of malt, a gentle, invigorating stimulant which builds up a worn-out, run-down, weakened, diseased constitution and keeps it always in condition to resist disease.

If you wish to keep young and strong and have your face the glow of perfect health; if you wish to live to a great age and to retain undimmed the use of all your faculties, if you would enjoy life to the fullest and be independent in old age, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as directed, and take no other medicine.

No other medicine or combination of medicines will do what Duffy's will do. It is prescribed by 300 doctors and used in over 2,000 hospitals.

CAUTION.—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Unscrupulous dealers, mindful of the excellence of this preparation, will try to sell you cheap imitations and malt whiskey substitutes, which are put on the market for profit only, and which, far from relieving the sick, are positively harmful.

Sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Medical booklet free. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, New York.

Capt. B. B. Paddock Makes a Strong Address on the Subject of Home Industries to a Large Meeting Last Night

The entertainment last night at Labor Temple under the auspices of the Woman's Union Label League was largely attended.

The walls of the meeting-room were hung with advertisements of home manufactured articles of every description and a long table display showed various articles, which were made here.

Captain Paddock spoke of one of the purposes of the Woman's Label League which was to secure the same wage for persons engaged in the same employment without regard to sex. He said he did not believe a woman should work for less than a man.

After he had finished the floor was cleared and a dance followed.

Monday Night—The Brothers Byrne in "Eight Bells."
Tuesday Matinee and Night—Sadie Martinot in "His Excellency the Governor."

HUSBAND'S CARELESSNESS WITH LETTERS COST HIM HIS WIFE

Much to please the eye, nothing to tire the ear is the secret of the success of "Eight Bells," the entertainment to be presented at Greenwall's opera house Monday night, Feb. 29.

The Brothers Byrne in "Eight Bells," is one of the good ones on the road. Miss Sadie Martinot is under the management of Jules Murray and in "His Excellency, the Governor," she has a fine play.

SLEEP IS PRICELESS

But it can be obtained by simple methods. Are you a hard worker? Are you overcome with fatigue at the end of each day?

MISS SADIE MARTINOT

"His Excellency the Governor," to be presented at Greenwall's opera house Tuesday matinee and night, March 1, had its initial American production at the Lyceum theater in New York and its first night is described by the Sun of this city as "An unmercifully witty play."

TIM MURPHY IN "A BACHELOR'S ROMANCE"

Tim Murphy who plays Greenwall's opera house Thursday, March 3, tells a fairly good story on his agent. It seems that theatrical contracts are made a year and sometimes two years in advance.

"DO IT TODAY"

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it today!"

company free to play in the new house. Accepting the inevitable, Mr. Murphy's agent waded through snow banks for several blocks to the residence of the manager of the old opera house and handed him a twenty-dollar bill in payment for a release from the contract.

AL. H. WILSON

The attraction at Greenwall's opera house Friday matinee and night, March 4, will be Al. H. Wilson, the favorite dialect comedian and golden voiced singer.

PLAYS COMING SOON

In "Running for Office," the clever musical comedy, written by George M. Cohan, a member of the well-known family, The Four Cohans, Manager Fred Niblo has one of the largest traveling organizations in the theatrical line.

COSTUME FOR AN AFTER-

"ACCESSORIES OF SMART GOWNS COMBINE DELICATE TONES AND AIRY TEXTURES" — "QUAINT AND PICTURESQUE STYLES TO CONTINUE" — "NOVEL SHOULDER WRAPS MORE DIAPHANOUS THAN EVER BEFORE."

By Our Special Correspondent, Miriam Spier.

The accessories and fripperies ordered by the smart world for the glorious Easter display, are this season more than ever summy and delightful. A fairy-like airiness distinguishes many of the lighter wraps, some of them being in the brightest hues, matched by hats as startlingly gay.

The majority of the hats which will be seen, however, will be in the lightest materials, the best of the models being of lace, tulle, net, flower and Panama or chip. Some fetching hats of black chip are trimmed only with white plumes, these going with ravishing afternoon gowns of flowered French muslin or chiffon. For similar use are pure white chip or cream Panama hats with black plumes. Some of the more expensive models are all in pale saures and faint pinks.

As to the dressy shoulder wraps that are absolutely necessary to a dainty toilette, those of the hour are indeed fantasies, and a revelation for the eyes to feast upon. The deep pointed shawl effect is the predominating shape, though there is a variety of styles to select from.

They roses in garlands, sprays and miniature bouquets trim many of the prettiest creations. These, in chiffon, may be had by the yard or spray, with foliage and without. The art of artificial flow making has reached a high degree of perfection but an overuse of even the most natural confections often spoils the handsomest gown.

Accordion-plaiting and laces in profusion continue in great favor, particularly for accessories. For the pelaciness which are in such high vogue, accordion-plaiting is used in a variety of ways. A wrap of this order has a deep-pointed lace yoke from which falls a wide accordion-plaited frill of taffeta in the same shade as the gown with which the wrap is to be worn. The yoke and bottom of the frill are edged with fringed taffeta ruching.

Charming indeed are the scarfs, soles and fichus this season. The fichu, both as a frock drapery and as a separate shoulder wrap, is exhibited in all degrees of beauty. The "1839" modes have surged to the front and with them has come the fichu, for in no fashion can the desired long shoulder line be more successfully emphasized than by the use of these quaint and demure shoulder draperies. The perfect adjust-ent of these charming creations is achieved by tucks, folds and shirings.

The fichu is generally used as an evening or afternoon extra scarf, as a supplementary accessory for the trimming of gowns or as a permanent trimming. There are many pretty models in lace, mousseline, crepe, gauze and net suitable for dressy wear. A stylish example is made in pale-grey crepe de Chine. Deep fringe, knotted heavily at the ends of the long scarfs, and at the ends of the bottom of the gown in front. The distinctive feature of this exquisite accessory is the wide border of chrysanthemums, embroidered in various shades of gray, above the fringe.

One of the latest fancies is the lace scarf made on the same model as the flat marabou or ostrich feather scarf, but composed entirely of myriads of narrow lace ruffles that overlap each other on the net foundation. The rich, creamy-tinted lace is preferred to pure white for this dainty affair. Worn with a thin dusty veil, this scarf would be charming, though it would also appropriately accompany a white or delicately colored dress. This lace scarf may also complete an evening gown. Parisiennes are seldom seen without a light and graceful wrap. It should be worn across the back and hang over the elbows.

Muffs are no longer designed for the sole purpose of keeping the hands warm. They are part of beauty's armor, like Cupid's bow or the lance of the mediaeval knight.

Fashioned of lace, chenille or net, tulle wreathed with flowers or entirely of blooms, some of the evening muffs of the season are of indescribable coquetry. In the winter resorts of summy clime, such kinds are now being carried, as a bouquet or fan is carried, and picked up or put down as the occasion requires. The muff is usually designed to be carried with a particular gown or hat, as was one of white tulle with a cluster of humming birds against its flat front. The gown, which was for evening use, was likewise of white tulle, with skirt and bodice festooned with a narrow velvet in the jewel green of the birds; a shoulder-wrap carried out the same effect and made the costume complete.

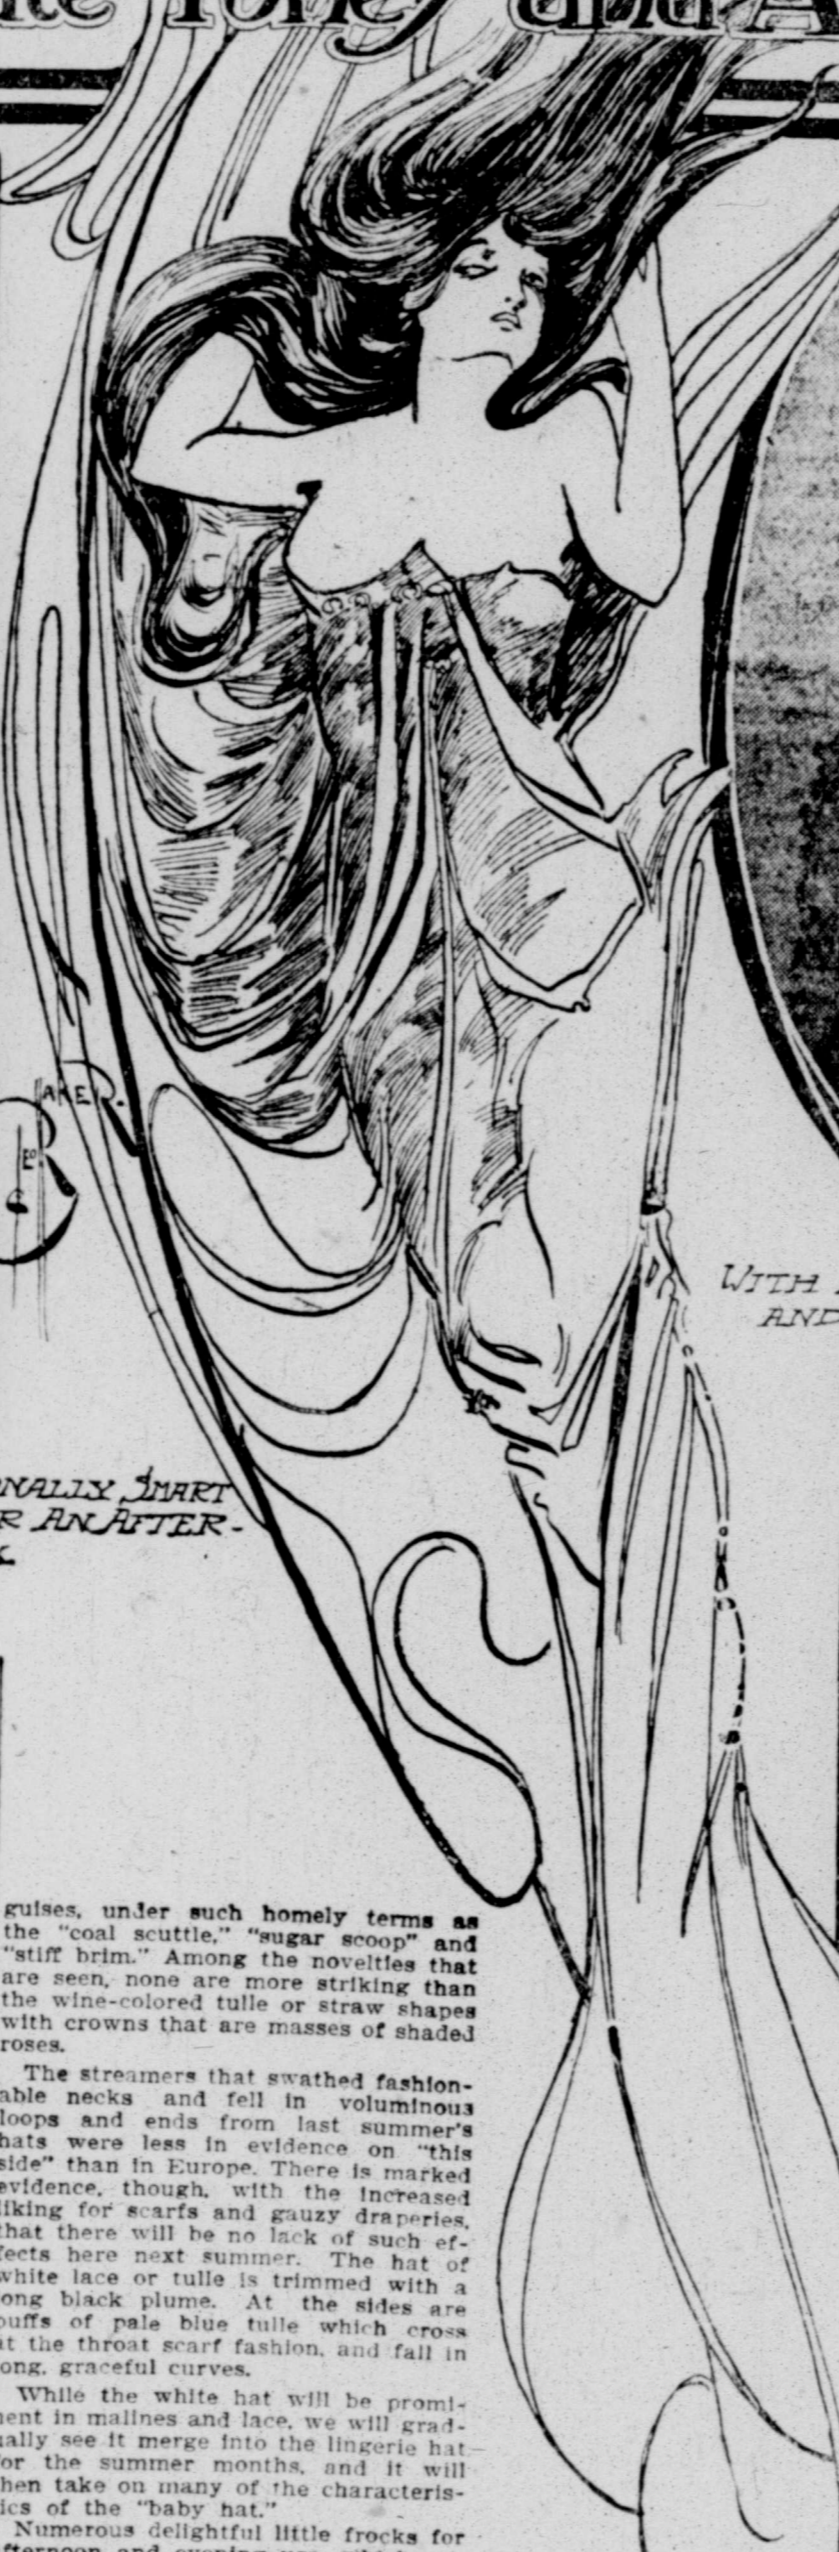

Without a doubt many of the styles, yes, we may say all the styles point to a continuation of the quaint and picturesque. The poke bonnet is back again in all its simplicity, and scoop shapes there are, to be sure, some that recall the old favorite. The first seen of the poke bonnet for a long time common use, was in 1894, and it has been known since then, in its various guises, under such homely terms as the "coal scuttle," "sugar scoop" and "stiff brim." Among the novelties that are seen, none are more striking than the wine-colored tulle or straw shapes with crowns that are masses of shaded roses.

The streamers that swathed fashionable necks and fell in voluminous loops and ends from last summer's hats were less in evidence on "this side" than in Europe. There is marked evidence, though, with the increased liking for scarfs and gauzy draperies, that there will be no lack of such effects here next summer. The hat of white lace or tulle is trimmed with a long black plume. At the sides are puffs of pale blue tulle which cross at the throat scarf curves, and fall in long, graceful curves.

While the white hat will be prominent in millinery and lace, we will gradually see it merge into the lingerie hat for the summer months, and it will then take on many of the characteristics of the "baby hat."

being carried to the tropics, are made of the lightest materials, trimmed most coquettishly with ribbons, laces and flowers. Everything savors of a tone of elaborateness and elegance.

For afternoon concerts and driving, a number of exquisite wraps are seen which, however, are muffs only in name. The most fragile textures are used for these, tulle, silks in delicate colors, lace, chiffon, etc.

Even when a gown is low necked, a hat is designed for it, it being the fad for women to keep their heads covered in the big hotel gatherings which distinguish the winter resorts.

No elaborate arm covering exists that does not suggest the sweet folds of forty years ago, just as the long loose evening cloaks suggest the Colonial period. The ruffled ruchings, too, used on gowns, and especially as headings or borders for other trimmings are likewise ancient friends returned, having been last seen in the seventies.

An extreme picturesqueness of the sleeve is a salient feature of the dressy bodice and the dainty novelties, offered in the leading shops, as an accessory, to be added or not, as the occasion demands, are indeed enhancing. This adjustable sleeve is a wide elbow-length bell of narrow lace frills applied to accordion-plaited chiffon. Such sleeves are the chief challengers for admiration in a bodice, which is perhaps in need of a change in design.

An effective toilette designed for a petite blonde of unusual beauty is a shoulder wrap, chapeau and parasol to match. Combined with chiffon, the finest lace inserting and edge in the richest cream shade are employed for this beautiful set. The wrap was made with a row upon row of the accordion-plaited inserting and lace; the wide stole ends falling nearly to the dress hem, these to be tied in a single knot in front or to be worn perfectly straight.

The delightful and picturesque hat was rather large, suggestive of the "poke" shape, and made also of endless rows of the accordion-plaited lace and a wreath of the daintiest and finest blus, roses and forget-me-nots artistically interwoven on the crown and brim. While, soft ribbon in the palest shade of blue was brought from the back of the hat and gracefully tied under the chin or to the side in an exquisite bow and long end. The parasol was carried out in a similar effect with the same delicate blossoms appearing here and there. In design this particular set is to the last degree, Parisian, and wit out a doubt invaluable to the wardrobe when a trip to the fashionable resorts is contemplated where a fair number of the elegantes now go for a portion of the winter season.

No toilet is complete, either for street wear or dressier occasion, without a shoulder wrap or drapery of some kind. Now that our furs have been laid aside, we don the more comfortable ruff of lighter weight and material.

Ruchings, chiffon, liberty silk or any of the softer fabrics are used and as these materials come in every conceivable shade and quality, their use is limitless.

Descriptive Review of Above Styles.

WITH DISTINCTION STYLE AND BEAUTY.

Exceptionally jaunty is this little Continental hat of blue and brown straw. The brim flares off the face in the most approved manner and is slashed at each side where straw cords and buttons add to the military appearance. A short full ostrich feather falls from the right side of the crown with telling effect. The large sleeves, odd shaped cape, and elaborate stitching incorporate the new season's style idea in a handsome suit. The neck-piece with shoulder-cape effect and long stole ends is made of multitudinous ruffles of chiffon daintily edged with narrow ribbon.

EXCEPTIONALLY SMART COSTUME FOR AN AFTERNOON STROLL.

The style and cut of this handsome mark it as one of this season's best offerings.

The short Eton jacket displays a natty vest white cloth embroidered in bright colored silks and threads of gold, while the large sleeves are finished with cuffs of a distinctly original pattern. The entire suit is extensively braided and ornamented with gold buttons.

hat of rough white straw is trimmed with soft ribbon and gold tipped quill. The elaborate shoulder cape with its long stole ends is rendered even more exquisite by the fluffy feather edging and narrow velvet ribbon.

CORRECT FOR ELABORATE FUNCTIONS.

An example of the handsome lace capes favored by Fashion for spring and summer wear, is here exhibited in an elaborate rose pattern, and reaches about the waist front and back. This style of cape creates a graceful long sloping shoulder effect of the 1839 period of dress.

The hat of rough white straw has a wide brim, bent up slightly at each side but fitting at the back quite snug. Fine black lace ruffles cover the under brim softening the edge. Small dull green berries and foliage form a striking garniture.

A MODISH RECEPTION GOWN.

A general air of elegance pervades this entire costume.

The gown of dotted net is lavishly trimmed with rich lace and narrow velvet ribbon. The elaborate shoulder cape in its sheer daintiness, is a triumph of artistic beauty. The neck piece made of soft satin is trimmed with lace, velvet applique and a chiffon ruff. The soft is a captivating mass of ruffled chiffon tied about with velvet ribbons. Most picturesque in outline is the graceful hat which is raised at the left by a high side bandeau from which fall a cluster of ostrich feathers.

Is this lovely costume for spring. The hat is a combination of the close black straw braid, with low crown and wide brim. The broad sweeping lines of the hat and its trimming composed of soft silk and skillfully pointed wings of novelty cloth is elaborately ornamented with fancy braid and buttons. Lingerie cuffs of sheer lace finish the cuffs. The filmy bow of dotted chiffon is further embellished by narrow black satin ribbons adroitly knotted.

SUPERB IN ITS TRIMMING OF LACE AND RIBBON.

Sheer fabrics exquisitely trimmed is the order of the day. The above illustration is an exemplification of this delightful idea. The new cape with its trimmings of silk lace and narrow ribbons is further enriched by deep shoulder ruffles of platted chiffon. The huge puffed sleeve of mousseline-de-sole is finished at the wrist make it a thing of beauty. The suit with a tight cuff of lace from which fall double accordion ruffles. The handsome medium sized hat is made of fancy black straw, a wreath of black and white ostrich tips surround the crown.

Fate of Minting Dies.

"All the United States forward to the mint at Philadelphia at the close of each year," said a former Treasury official, "the steel dies used in coining the various denominations of gold and silver coins for the year and bearing its date and the Philadelphia mint distributes to the branch mints at the same time the new dies for the coming year. All coinage dies are made at the Philadelphia mint and are returned there at the end of the year to be destroyed."

"The dies are round pieces of steel, three inches long and sloping to the top, on which is cut the case of the coin it stamps, with the date. The dies are collected and taken to the blacksmith shop of the mint, where, in the presence of the Superintendent, the collector and the assayer, they are heated red hot in the forges and hammered out of shape with sledge hammers on anvils, and after having given currency value to million of money, are cast aside as worthless, except as scrap."

MISS MANHATTAN.

NEW YORK, February 27th, 1904.
 "You will be lifting your skirts from the front instead of the back as the fashion is now," was the prediction of one of our best dressmakers uttered not so very long ago, and though women poo-pooed the idea at the time they are already beginning to find themselves in the position of being forced to abandon the old time graceful method of raising their trained gowns.
 The new fashion that calls for extra full skirts is entirely responsible for this change, and it's a wonder to me why anybody with half an eye to artistic lines could ever be persuaded to give up those long clinging sheath skirts that were so universally becoming. But there is no use to wall over what cannot be helped. Somebody started the fashion of making people look like their grandmothers, so we can only make the best of a bad bargain.
 If you notice carefully the women you meet on the street you will see how amateurish some of them are in the management of their skirts. They haven't yet learned the new wrinkle which makes one feel rather foolish.
 In the first place, if you want to lift your skirt according to accepted rules, you have to forget all about the back of it, leave it really to take care of itself, and fasten your mind on the front broadness of velvet or silk which must be clutched in both hands a little above the knees, and then raised slightly and drawn toward the front. If you are dexterous you may be able to manage the back too, but the chances are that this part of your gown will drag on the street or go fluttering out in a most unruly manner.

 Now with both hands busily engaged in manipulating your gown, how are you ever going to carry an umbrella, a sunshade, a purse, unless it has a chain attachment, or anything in fact? The truth of the matter is that you will have to keep your hands, as well as your mind, entirely unburdened, except for this lifting process. Maybe after women have had a season or two of the full skirts they will have grown skilful. Let us hope so.
 One dressmaker thinks she has hit upon a pretty good solution of the difficulty by making the dropskirt walking length, so that, when milady essays to lift her yards and yards of dress she isn't encumbered with an extra separate lining. This obviates some of the difficulty, but not all, and besides it looks a bit awkward to see this difference between the length of the underskirt and that of the outer.
 Another very serious drawback to lifting a full skirt is that it makes a woman look dumpty. Now that shoulders are drooping and long sleeves are extremely full and waists blouse very much over broad belts that confine skirts which are apt to be thick around the hips, every line tends to take away from the height, so that when several yards of material are gathered together and bunched up just below the waist, it isn't at all surprising that even a tall, slender woman feels at least five or six inches shorter than she looked last season.

It may be that the tall woman has had her day, and now her smaller sister is to enjoy an inning, but it wouldn't be quite safe to draw this conclusion. There is too much beauty in the tall willow figure, and painters are too fond of immortalizing her to have her go out of style. No, such a fate is not in store for the woman of five feet eight, but one well might say she seems to have awaited her hour in the 1830 vogue.
 A pretty figure goes for almost nothing nowadays. All this fulness of sleeves and skirts conceals every line but a part, now and then, of the waist. It is really lamentable, but then it is not our province to discuss fashions, though we should be forgiven for any lapse, especially when it has such a tremendous effect upon the looks and movements of woman-kind.
 There is one saving grace about this clumsy skirt lifting and posing, and that is its relation to evening gowns. Then of course the slight dip in the back may look after itself and welcome, but if a woman lifts her arms just a trifle, catches her skirt at the sides in the very tips of her fingers, and then holds her arm ever so little akimbo, there cannot help being a suspicion, yes more than a suspicion, of the coquettish and the picturesque in the effect produced. On the whole it's rather fascinating, and almost reconciles one to accepting the style with all its disadvantages for the sake of this charming feature of it. One next looks expectantly for the appearance of high heels and buckles, lace mitts and huge ruffled bonnets tied with strings. These may come, but until they do, let us make the most of these pretty large hats and turbans that were never more becoming.

What do you suppose the fashionable woman has managed to do with her stole? Nothing more nor less than to wear it with the two ends twisted around her wrists cut fashion, and with the loose ends left to hang as they will. By this clever little arrangement it has enabled them to find some excuse for slipping the stole over their delicate shoulders and winding it around their bare arms in the evening. This fad probably originated with those lucky women who are spending the first part of the year in southern resorts. Nearly all of them took their smaller pieces of fur, and just before they started away from New York there was a renewed interest in toles, especially those of ermine. For street or carriage wear, when carrying a muff, the stole is held in the same manner, which after all has some point to recommend it, for the arms are not encumbered, the hands are left free, and the stole doesn't get an opportunity to blow and flutter about in a distracting way.

New Stocks and the Sailor Blouse

All the latest models for Spring neck wear have the most astonishing bows under the chin, regular four-tiered ones, you might call them. They are the same in silk as in cotton and linen and it looks as though women had grown weary of narrow close-fitting shaped bands with their inconspicuous tabs and points. How the majority of the feminine population will take to those exaggerated bows is more than even an expert on predictions can say. Their effect is somewhat astonishingly good and make certain recesses at least two years, while others find them frightfully unbecoming.
 There is always a plain fitted stock underneath and then the bow is fastened on separately and tied with one loop and two ends in front. The ends are cut in a point and if the material is soft they fall rather gracefully, but in taffeta and toulaine they stand out in a stiff and forbidding manner. There isn't as much to recommend this new neckwear as one might wish. It's bunched to begin with, and will be anything but cool and comfortable with summer shirt waists. My opinion is that the natty sailor blouse will have everything its way this coming season, and there will be no stiff bowed stocks seen with it. As it's name implies, the sailor blouse is loose and rather full, but not clumsily built. Everything about it, from the trim buttoned cuffs and yoke to the collar and narrow four-in-hand ties which should properly be knotted sailor fashion, it is tailor made, and smart. When made of coarse white vesting that has a silky finish to Syrian Doilies.

At a smart luncheon given the other day by one of New York's famous hostesses the glistening Chippendale table was partially concealed beneath a large centre square and several smaller ones of curiously woven fabric in which many colors were blended. The guests marvelled at the beauty of the table set, and one who was a trifle bolder than the rest remarked about it. The doilies looked to be solidly embroidered in long silk stitches with rows of open mesh here and there, just like a Kis-Kellin, and all around the edge was a very short fringe, evidently of the foundation material, which did not show at all in the square, with little knots and ends here and there of silk. Finally the hostess told of her discovery and since that day the Syrian quarter of New York has been beset by breathless women bent on getting more of those centre pieces and doilies. The prices asked for them is ridiculously small in comparison with the effect they produce, and the suave Syrian assures you that they are made entirely by hand. This, of course, may be doubtful, but it would take an expert to decide the question.

Odd Novelties of Feminine Fancy

All sorts of novelties may be picked up now if one will spend the time to seek them out. That's the main point about these little oddities and fads, one must seek them and find them before others do.
 From the Orient come the materials for a handsome work bag which was cleverly designed by an American woman who visits her Chinatown thoroughly. There are so many attractive articles that no one knows what to do with or how to use to be picked up there, that whenever something really useful and ornamental, like the novelty shown here makes its appearance, there follows a general rush to Motz street and the whole Chinese district.
 An embroidered silk cap, the sort that is worn by Chinese merchants of standing, whose rank is indicated by the little red button on the top, forms the foundation of this bag which may be used for any number of purposes, though it was originally intended to fill the place of the old-fashioned work bag or box. Lavender brocade was the material with which the hat was covered and besides the narrow brocaded band on the extreme edge, there was a black satin one that met the lavender. In the front of the hat and on the pale silk was embroidered a crescent in gold thread. On the rim of the hat was sewed the circular part of a large brocaded green silk handkerchief, of one small sort that you can pick up for a very small sum if you don't let them raise the price on you. A circular hole large enough to fit the circumference of the hat brim was cut out of the centre of the silk square and this was neatly gathered to the edge of the hat.

 Then the four sides of the handkerchief were spread out and a gathering run round just as if one were inscribing a circle, and through this was run some of that flat black silk braid or cord which Chinamen use to braid their queues. Two long lavender silk tassels fastened through fancy gold filigree ornaments and showing colored stones, were caught to opposite sides of the hat.
 So much liked is the Oriental scheme of decoration that card cases have recently made their appearance in the hands of some of our most up-to-date women. One of these little receptacles for pasteboard was mounted on the outside with black taffeta on which was embroidered a large dragon in gold thread and with jewelled eyes. The decoration folded on the upper side while the under one was plain. The lining, too, was of silk, though of a brocaded pattern and there were two little compartments either side of the fold for cards and flat trifles.
 I don't know when there has been such an energetic industrial spirit among the so-called society set as has been evinced lately since the fad started for making one's own card case out of pieces of the gown one likes best or out of scraps of old brocade. Some of the quaintest and prettiest little novelties have been pieced together this way, and later mounted in gold and sometimes even in costly gems.
 One of the largest silver and goldsmiths here is laying in a supply of fancy mirror hooks and cases in anticipation of the demand by those who haven't had the time to fashion trifles for themselves. A few of these have plain gold rims around the upper half of the case, other have diagonal ornaments of gold filigree, and several showed scrolls of precious metal while not a few were daintily hand embroidered in colored silks. One can find beautiful pieces of old Japanese, Chinese or Bulgarian work, and it requires so little that the material itself is not expensive, and with a plain or simple lining, it is quite easy to mount these cases and finish them for oneself, that is, if the person had a certain mathematical exactness about her work and knows how to join pieces with a blind, but lasting stitch.

 Bead work is resorted to with very good effect in the fashioning of these little receptacles, and the variety of designs which might be suggested or recommended is so extensive that I can scarcely go into details. Pompadour patterns are very good, and the regulation Indian designs lend themselves admirably to these objects. The bead affairs, too, can be mounted at home. In the first place the outer covering is skillfully padded and cut with the greatest regard to exactness. Then a flat bit of lining silk is stretched over this and next two pieces that have folded edges are laid with this part toward the centre and the two folds nearly two inches apart. These form the pockets. If another pocket or compartment is desired then two shallower pieces of the folded silk may be laid over the former set. The silk is turned neatly under all around the edge, just as the outer piece has been turned, and if the two sections match perfectly in size, they are next sewed together with the finest of blind stitches. Those who are not eminently successful in this feminine accomplishment, that of sewing neatly, usually have to resort to a narrow cord or some fancy binding to hide the unsightly stitches. It would never do to have them too obtrusive.

The New Classic Wreath.

Headresses formed of leaves have been among the society woman's most cherished belongings, but for some time now they have been considered just a bit common, and therefore not in the highest favor among the wealthy smart women. The classic wreath, is, however, unique in many ways, and happily solves the problem for the young woman who cannot, or does not want to, ornament her head with flashing gems.
 It requires features of an almost pure Grecian type to wear the wreath successfully, to all others it is extremely trying. In the first place this wreath goes all around the head without any break whatever. It is made of a single row of leaves very much like the laurel ones which crowned greater if not more beautiful heads. The leaves fit rather closely to the head except just in front where they appear to stand up like a tiara. If you wear your hair low in your neck, try it, or if it is done in a certain way on top such a wreath will look well, but with the hairdressers most cherished and, to his mind, smartest figure, never!

THE REALM OF SOCIETY

"Was I there?" said Hawthorne; "Did I lead the old owl? Not upon your crown portrait? High society, my dearie, does not charm me as a sister. When I was a shabby youngster, depending on my leisure moments trying on a new tuxedo. Or attending dancing lessons. I am not the gushing creature that I was back in the eighties. And the waltz and the waltz. Have for me quite lost their glamour. Don't imagine for a minute that I couldn't, if I wished to, cut right in among the dandies. Dear me, yes, I get a thousand urgent, pressing invitations. Coaxing me to bring my sewing. And, perhaps, to stay to supper. But, with true Bohemian candor, I reply in clear, ringing tones: 'Mon cher, I'm sorry, but that while baby dear is teething I just can't get out much, somehow. It is not that I am biased.' 'Against the folks with high-toned cognomen, so far from it! They are interesting critics. Like the rest of us, but lately I have read the exhortations of the Rev. J. Watson and others in the dead swell upper circles. One must be a real live one. And your Uncle Hawthorne isn't quite the same, my dearie. As he was when Miss Gabeha. First became his sparring partner. Say, I guess I never told you how I dooned my evening rattle— How I led the first cotillon. Ever held among the dandies. It was in the rear of a family— In the year of drought and famine. Gibebe Mantau had written. All the land of the Oldways. And the crops were bum that autumn. Well, the matter of our village. Hoping to revive the spirits. Of his somewhat groggy people. Came to me and said, 'Hi, lister! (It is what he always called me.) I was as high with his honor. If our people need more ginger; I have thought the matter over. And decided that a shindig will be just the proper caper. You must manage the cotillon. Old Ray View can play the fiddle. Send for him, and start the doings.' Talk about your swell cotillions. There was one that was a hummer. 'Twas so long ago I cannot recollect the various figures. But here's one that I remember: Young-Man-Kill-the-Gurgling-Redeye. Cried to the left, saluted. Kissed himself goodnight, then halted in a corner of the ball room. While the various couples present. Punctured him with poisoned arrows. Arrows of assorted colors. Each of which hues corresponded to the badge worn by some couple. Then while Kill-the-Gurgling-Redeye started swalling up, he polka'd. Daily up and down the ballroom. 'Twas the strains of Aunt Sarah's freedom me if I have heard you. But I couldn't help recalling. How I used to hit the high spots. When I was a social lion."

The notion of the ladies of All Saints' Hospital Association, in deciding to equip immediately an emergency room for the care of persons in need of prompt medical attention, will be appreciated by every generous-hearted citizen. The work of this association has heretofore been directed to completing their building and having it free from debt before going to the public for assistance in supporting it. The hospital was built by the late Mrs. J. B. Stoddard, who had decided to wait no longer. The recent success of the result of an unseemly squabble between medical authorities, or if that be not the case, of criminal indifference on the part of "somebody," has done more to bring home to the public the importance of this philanthropic work. They have a little money in their treasury.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK

Food is not Worthless Unless Digested. Some Stomachs Must Have Help. Food taken into the stomach when from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is waste and not food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes, and a great many dyspepsias are only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work, although they must be given less food in other words they must be given more. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do his own work to cut down his business, or for a man who is unable to do his own work to cut down his work. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Like wise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help in the form of a medicine that will do his work for him. Stearns' Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great deal of the work that they themselves do. They are identical with those of the digestive ducts and secrete the stomach and they simply take up the work and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do. This is Stearns' Dyspepsia Tablets. They are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unusual or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves do the work and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body. How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means the body and brain get all the good, nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year old baby. A strong, healthy stomach will be properly fed and this applies to the brain as well as the body. Stearns' Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and begin its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair. Stearns' Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that is just as good. Their unequalled success has placed them with the record of every one.

They have all the equipments in the way of bedding. They have, besides, many maternity appliances. In a few days the room will be secured. It is hoped that it will be near the medical college. In it will be installed a professional nurse. These will be physicians in attendance, who will place their profession and its obligations above any technical definition of city or county jurisdiction. This is but one branch of the work the All Saints' Hospital Association has planned. It is one that will give the public, that is some times slow to recognize unselfish consideration to a noble cause an opportunity to see whether or not it is deserving. It will be known as the Laura J. Clayton Emergency Room. The thousands in Fort Worth who know of the sick, the needy, the suffering, that were ministered to by that kindly soul, that generous heart, that tender charity of her whose good deeds are ended, but which consecrate her memory, will believe that the emergency ward has been well named. They know that no call for aid was ever denied. No hungry was ever unaided. No sick or aged were sent elsewhere unaided. If her own pocket book happened to be empty she sent those with pocket books not empty had an opportunity to "cast their bread upon the waters." And the emergency room will turn none away. Neither religion, nor money, nor residence will be enquired into. If any can pay and is willing to pay the money will be given. It will make it possible to serve more and better. But humanity will come first. The recent disclosures of the lack of provisions for the care of the poor or unknown victims of accident or catastrophe has made every citizen blush with shame. We would call it a disgrace to civilization if it existed elsewhere. This blot on our good name will be removed by the work of the All Saints' Hospital.

The leading topic of conversation of the week past has been musical comedy at the theater. Two attractions, with the face of approval of the west and east, have precipitated themselves upon us and we attended joyfully to keep up our end of the good thing. It will be a long time before we get over the "Wizard of Oz." At a club meeting this week a late comer began, "Who saw the Wizard of Oz?" A chorus of "Is." "Well, I want somebody to roast it for me." "Yes, I have just finished. Do you not smell burning hay?" The disappointment universally expressed was vented upon the conglomeration of wit that seemed to have been in cold storage for some time as well as upon the incompetent cast people who rattled off their lines so that they could not be heard or understood. But the special ground for condemnation was in the reprehensible efforts to play to individuals in the audience. Just what part of the world, and what class of people tolerate such unseemly vulgarity and stupidity is not known to this theater going public. It is said that in certain sections of New York city known as the East side, such practices are common. But no one has attended the Manhattan or other first-class theaters have been so insulted. The audience and gentlemen attending a public performance are entitled to protection from such crude buffoonery. If the actors themselves have not a glimmering idea of the manners that prevail among well-bred people, they should be in some quarter a power strong enough to hammer into their craniums this most necessary bit of knowledge.

Against the Wizard we had The Runaways. The machinery of a big factory in a town not far from Philadelphia, broke down one day and no one in the engineering department could find out what to do with it. They sent to the big city for an expert machinist. He worked with it two days, sent in a bill for a considerable sum, and went home. In a day or two the machinery broke down again. Another expert was sent for with a reputation of the former experience. At last some one told the superintendent that there was in the town a young fellow who was something of a tinker. In fact the neighbors considered him a genius. Why not give him a trial. The superintendent sent for the boy and asked him if he could fix the machinery. The boy did not say much, but looking around his little shop. In an hour or so he returned with a screw, a nut, and a wire. In twenty minutes the mammoth machinery was running as if there were not half a day to make repairs that had kept the plant idle for more than a week. The boy was told to send in his bill. It read: For repairs, $27.50. For a screw, nut, and wire, 25 cents. Total, $28.00. The superintendent asked the size of the bill. The boy was asked to itemize the account. He did it then read: Materials, $2.50. For knowing how, $25.00. The Runaways.

Mrs. Trammell was the champion of a box party for "The Wizard of Oz" last Tuesday evening. The occupants of the box were Miss Annie Anderson, Miss J. W. Hardy, Miss Margaret Hardy and Miss Colburn. A number of ladies met with Mrs. D. W. Godwin Thursday afternoon to organize a new bowling club. Mrs. W. C. French was elected president, Mrs. C. C. French, vice president, and Mrs. Felix Galtier, secretary. The club will be called the Wednesday Bowling Club, and will play Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 5 o'clock at the present bowling alley. The following are the members of the new club: Mesdames J. B. Slaughter, W. R. Thompson, Bertram A. Rose, Frank Weaver, Jerry Ellis, W. T. Harlow, W. L. Orr, W. C. Connell, L. R. Stanbery, D. W. Cook, Hazzard, Slaughter, Connell, Hazzard, Zane-Cetti, Fikes, Bessie White, Eleanor Williams, Samuels, Almoe, Crandell, Gentry and Pendleton. The Marguerites met with Miss McCarthy last Thursday morning, and a number of guests being present to enjoy the game and the company of pretty Marguerite. Mrs. Roselle won half a dozen embroidered handkerchiefs, the club prize, and Mrs. Walton won a gold bell, the guests' prize. Those present were: Misses Critchfield, Faggitt, Van Zandt, Hunter, Ochsner, Wolcott, Delaney Evans, Mae Evans, White, Samuels, Murray, Pendleton, White, Bessie White, Drake, Connell, Mesdames Roselle, Walton, Winter, Van Zandt, Mitchell and Dawson. Mrs. R. Shannon entertained Friday evening with a "Kentucky" dinner, the guests being Kentuckians by birth, matrimony or migration. There were beautiful appointments to set off the choicest viands known to a Kentucky matron. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Adams, Miss Gentry, Miss Izora Williams and Mr. Lilley. Mrs. Saunders, Miss Saunders, Miss Stoddard and Mrs. Davis have tomorrow for a trip through the southern part of the state. They will visit San Antonio, Austin and other places of interest that the two dear maidens from Connecticut may have further chance to see us and to receive of Lone Star gallantry and hospitality. On last Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5 Mesdames W. F. Stierley and Young Yates, assisted by Miss Stierley, entertained the Peninsula club with a luncheon at the Peninsula club with Mrs. M. J. Washington Tea party at the home of the former in a most charming manner. The house was beautifully decorated, the parlor in the club colors, pink and white, while from the ceiling, the walls of the library floated the national colors. The mantle and piano were banked with jonquils, whose perfume permeated the whole atmosphere. In the midst of the room stood the historical cherry tree laden with fruit, which were picked by the guests, Miss Tolksdorf securing the most cherries, and carrying off the trophy, a silver halbrun. Mrs. Yates was the guest of honor, contentment in the guessing contest securing a dainty little handkerchief. The guests were then ushered in the dining room where Mrs. Yates presented each guest with a little hatchet, cut down the cherry tree, a little hand-painted hatchet went to Mrs. Geer in a cut with Mrs. Boaz. Mrs. Geer then responded in a neat little toast to our course, luncheon was served to the following: Mesdames M. R. Sawyer, A. H. McCarty, H. E. Sawyer, Boaz, Boyd Clarke, M. L. Bogert, F. D. Hill, Arthur Cowen, J. Ginnouch, Gamble, Boaz, Strong, Boaz, Alexander, John Kee, Agnes Gun, E. Stewart, Everett, Wyatt, E. B. Sawyer, Ed. Stierley, J. R. Wattam, W. R. Stierley, W. W. Heath, Misses Yarbrough, Yates, Stierley, Little Yates, Ruth White, Bonney. During the afternoon, Miss Sawyer favored the guests with several songs and Miss Stierley gave an interesting recitation.

The Maids and Matrons placed with Miss Critchfield at the residence of Mrs. Irvy Dunkin Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Florence Smith with the assistance of Dutch figure studies. After the appetizing luncheon it was announced that Mrs. Cameron would be the next hostess. The play of the afternoon was "Miss Smith, Van Zandt, Bogert, Harlow, Laura Hogsett, Edgington, Mesdames C. Winter, Moffett, Cole, Cameron, Burns and Pettigrew. Mr. George West will entertain with cards next Tuesday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. A. Callaway, in honor of Miss Stevenson, who is the guest of Miss Allie West. Miss Allie West has issued invitations for a progressive luncheon in honor of Miss Stevenson for next Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Miss Mabell Slaughter entertained with a colonial fancy dress party last Monday evening in honor of Miss Saunders' houseparty and other visiting young ladies. All the young ladies were in costume with powdered hair, bonnet, ruffles and quilted satin petticoats, and throughout the house were flags and other patriotic decorations. The diversification was a literary love tale, the prize going to Miss Looney. A two-course luncheon of salad and ice in patriotic guise was served to the sixteen guests. Commander Tisdal of the Trans-Mississippi department, Sons of Confederate Veterans, has appointed Miss Nancy Leach sponsor for the department for the Nashville reunion. Miss Bessie Yates has been appointed chief maid of honor. No more than a dozen guests were invited. The children of the Confederacy enjoyed a Washington birthday dance in their rooms in the court house last Monday evening. There were Virginia reels and quadrilles with some grown-ups to share the fun. There was a tidy sum added to the piano fund, for which the games were given. Miss Molyne Connell entertained with a six-hand high ball last Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Saunders and her guests. Miss Yates and Miss Stoddard of Connecticut and Miss Maxwell of St. Louis. After the game and a two-course luncheon, Miss Edgington and Miss Drake went for the first prize, a Haviland cup and saucer. Miss Yates and Miss Stoddard prize a Christmas edition of "Hazel" went to Mrs. Roselle. Miss Slaughter was awarded an art deck of cards. Those present were: Mesdames Maxwell, Stoddard, Davis, Saunders, Slaughter, Binson, Van Zandt, Langert, Drake, Binson, Fry, White, Lucile White, Hunter, Critchfield, Stripling, McCarthy, Hattie Mae Anderson, Ross Anderson, Annie Anderson, Ashburner, Winters, Ochsner, Hornby, Shugart, Waples, Connor, Yates, Ellis, Mesdames Roselle, Van Zandt, Winter, A. J. Long and Galves.

Wednesday evening at Greenwald there were a dozen seats paid for, and within the boundaries were a company of the merry folk that laughed joyously with and at Arthur Dunn and his friends. The party was given by Mrs. Annie Polk was the hostess of this theater party, and afterwards a delightful theater supper of six courses was enjoyed. Her guests were Misses Anne Smith, Elmer, Tracton, Dr. Maxwell, Will Crawford of Dallas, Frank Reynolds, Herman Gehagen, Warren Andrews and John Miller. The supper succeeded to the merry spirits that had marked the performance and around a table with violets as favors, with a basket heaped with the rich purple of the English violet as a center piece, wit sparkled and humor bubbled over as the delicacies were served as its accompaniment. The place cards were shields, with the crest of the Field family, with violets in water color as decorations. On these place cards was a note written by the place card, and responded to most gallantly by the men: Here's to you, friends, through what fate holds in store, Dark days may come, may your bright ones be more, And may the good God e'er let some kind heart say: To put a hand on your shoulder in a friendly sort of way.

Mrs. A. J. Anderson and Miss Anderson will entertain tomorrow afternoon in honor of Miss Hopper and Miss Samuel. In the evening the house party will have a number of men friends. The Crescent and Bohemian Bowling Clubs played with great enthusiasm Friday afternoon.

When the curtain rose Wednesday evening on "The Runaways," admiration was much occupied in its efforts to expend itself upon a delightful beauty on the stage, and there was heart-breaking loveliness in both of the lower boxes. What wonderful masculine voices were that "The Runaways" in the very most ever, and he could not do it. "The Runaways" deserves all good things, but it is limited that analysis of this superlative satisfaction will disclose that the brilliance and beauty of the play is due to the fact that the play is in such good humor that he saw Arthur Dunn and his widows, through magic glasses.

The German given by the Imperial Club in their rooms Friday evening last Monday the study was Mural Painting and American Art in Europe. Papers were read by Mrs. George West, Mrs. Thornhill, Miss Bess White and Miss Calloway. The club will be entertained next Monday afternoon by Mrs. Duncan S. Ross. An interesting program will be rendered by members of the club, and the director has arranged a contest in which the young ladies will be given an opportunity to prove their familiarity with the painters of America.

The West Side Whist was entertained by Mrs. H. C. Edgington yesterday, Mrs. Conroy winning the first prize and Mrs. Callaway the second, both prizes being handsome pictures. Mrs. Meek will be the next hostess. A course luncheon was served to Mesdames Conroy, Calloway, Mitchell, W. R. Edgington, Taylor, Meek, Templeton, Wray, Fodick, McCabe, W. R. Thompson, Childress, Mullins, Ware, Nell P. Anderson and Waples.

In box A were Miss Saunders, Miss Maxwell, Miss Davis, Miss Stoddard, Messrs. Martin, Saunders, Moore and Paddock. In box B were Dr. and Mrs. Thompson, Miss Samuels, Miss Reynolds, Miss Hopper, Dr. Chilton, Dr. McLean and Mr. Egan.

The figures of the German were led by the regular club leader and were intricate and graceful. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jere Van Zandt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Malcolm Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waldor, Mr. and Mrs. Glendene Wardlaw, Misses Hunter, Chalk, Wilkes, Andrew Anderson, Stripling, Van Zandt, Wilson, of San Antonio, Millican, Bragg of Hillsboro, Connor, Googins of Chicago, Gibson of Dallas, Labatt, Waples, Beal, Lowrey of Colleyville, Edgington, Jenkins, Davis of Connecticut, Maxwell Fry, Pendleton, Crossman, Bonner of Oak Cliff, Foster of Denison, Malone, Pikes, Crowley, Shugart, Stagenon of Ennis, Fossick of Alabama.

A full dress German at the Commercial was danced by a large number of guests Thursday evening. A salad supper was served at 12 and afterward dancing was continued until a late hour. The Merry Wives played with Mrs. John King Friday evening, violets being the decorations and luncheon. The prize for the winning club player was a sofa pillow, with etching of a girl's head in black and white. The guests' prize was a Haviland cup and saucer. The evening was a success, and was won by Mrs. M. N. Hart. The souvenir, a bunch of violets, tied with violet satin ribbon, was won in a cut with all the guests by Mrs. Conroy. The score cards were enamelled pictures of figures in fancy costume, and the scoring was done by Miss Anne Field and Miss Flora Lee Blair. A salad course with frozen punch was served to Mesdames Stephens, Berney, Ellis, Van Zandt, Collett, Mitchell, Connor, McArt, Ware, W. R. Thompson, Fodick, Templeton, Olive Edgington, Scott, Burton, Burney, McLean, McCabe, Bibb, Childress, Akers and Hawes. Mrs. Hawley will be the next hostess.

The Harmony club met with Mrs. Belle Campbell last Wednesday with an interesting round table talk on "Lizet," and theory lesson which was conducted by Mrs. West, the president, in the absence of Guy R. Pitner. The roll call was answered by current musical events and the club listened with interest to the criticisms of the leading papers of Europe and America on the playing of Ottaker Malek, the famous Bohemian pianist who will appear shortly in Fort Worth. In all these criticisms Malek is placed among the greatest of living pianists. The club will give an open meeting on March 25.

The Women's Auxiliary, N. A. R. P. C. will meet next Thursday with Mrs. G. Graves, College avenue. It will be "Bible day" and the program will be a Bible program. It will be as follows: The Women of the Bible, Mrs. Terrell; Life of Paul, Mrs. Graves; Promises of the New Testament, Mrs. Follett. The roll call will be answered by promises in the Bible.

The Elks and their friends enjoyed a German in their club rooms Monday evening, celebrating with due enthusiasm the day and the dance. A feature that added much to the dancing pleasure was the presence of the Faust minstrel orchestra, which came over after the performance and played with unceasing good nature and with tempting rhythm and melody for the remainder of the evening. The dancers were Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Rall, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rall, Mr. and Mrs. Stonestreet, Mrs. Loebnitz, Mrs. Mitchell, Dr. and Mrs. Robbia, Mr. and Mrs. McCart, Mr. and Mrs. Dorr Cobb, Mrs. Herford. Misses Ashburne of Waco, Smith of Belton, Crossman of Chicago, Reynolds of Tennessee, Long, Bibb, Massie, Kird, Drake, Wilson of San Antonio, Edgington, Dunlap, Crittenden, Watkins, Messrs. An interesting program will be rendered by members of the club, and the director has arranged a contest in which the young ladies will be given an opportunity to prove their familiarity with the painters of America.

Prosenals

The Women's Auxiliary, N. A. R. P. C. will meet next Thursday with Mrs. G. Graves, College avenue. It will be "Bible day" and the program will be a Bible program. It will be as follows: The Women of the Bible, Mrs. Terrell; Life of Paul, Mrs. Graves; Promises of the New Testament, Mrs. Follett. The roll call will be answered by promises in the Bible.

Clubs

The Harmony club met with Mrs. Belle Campbell last Wednesday with an interesting round table talk on "Lizet," and theory lesson which was conducted by Mrs. West, the president, in the absence of Guy R. Pitner. The roll call was answered by current musical events and the club listened with interest to the criticisms of the leading papers of Europe and America on the playing of Ottaker Malek, the famous Bohemian pianist who will appear shortly in Fort Worth. In all these criticisms Malek is placed among the greatest of living pianists. The club will give an open meeting on March 25.

THE RATIONAL CARE OF THE COMPLEXION

BY CHRISTINE TERHUNE HERRICK

Author of "Cradle and Nursery," "First Aid to the Young Housekeeper," "Housekeeping Made Easy," "What to Eat," "In City Trains," etc.

Was there ever a woman who did not wish to be good looking? If so, she must have been in the childish phase...

When I speak of care of the complexion I do not mean that one must devote herself constantly to this work...

Her figure she has been able to retain in spite of exercise and she is still a beautiful woman...

In order to get the best results for the face, it should be cleansed at bedtime...

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier of food...

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better it is not a drug at all...

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health...

sponge should not be used for the face... The best judge, say it is impossible to keep a sponge entirely clean...

Now comes the cold-cream. A little should be taken on the finger tips and rubbed into the skin...

I have spoken of this kind of thing being done for the preservation of the complexion...

A great many women have a tendency to double chin as they advance in life...

Lace Week at The Fair!

New Lace Masterpieces From St. Gall, Plauen, Baussels, Lyons, Calais and Nottingham

Probably more striking and novel in design and texture than ever before are the laces that the lace masters of the Old World turned out for the season of 1904.

From St. Gall come the Novalty Laces with those exquisite color combinations and that delicate design.

From Plauen come the same character of goods, but in more popular priced variety.

From Calais come the ever popular silk and cotton Laces.

From Nottingham come the Valenciennes, Point de Paris and other cotton sorts used so extensively for wash dresses and lingerie.

From Brussels we receive these beautiful Allovers, Medallions and Motifs.

From Lyons has come a fine assortment of new Chiffons and "net top" Laces that will be most popular this season.

Madras Waistings

1500 yards of Madras Waistings in odd lengths, 3 to 14 yards in a piece, light grounds, all colors of stripes, regular 18c and 25c values, and splendid material for Shirt Waists and children's dresses.

A WAR ON FINCH

At McKinney, the capital town of Collin county, Finch is under the ban, and the Baptist church has instructed its members to refrain from playing the innocent game.

"Finch" was popularly supposed to be altogether harmless when it was introduced in McKinney and many were no doubt this innocently led into engaging in the game.

In view of the truth from Lake Saranac, it must be admitted that these 100,000 lives are sacrificed to ignorance and official indifference.

What may be accomplished by action is shown in the fact that in New York state the mortality from this cause was reduced 18 per cent last year.

Like results have been secured in Germany and France and England, all going to sustain Dr. Trudeau's belief that "in 100 years from now consumption will, or should be, impossible, except through criminal carelessness."

New York state is now building an immense sanitarium for the treatment of this disease. Something of the same sort ought to be done by every state in the Union.

Consumptive camps, established at public expense, would have far-reaching effect, not only in benefiting the actual patients, but in educating the general public in preventive measures.

The salvation of the infected individual and his restoration to the powers of useful citizenship would justify the cost. But the good that would accrue to any community from the removal of causes of contagion must as far outweigh this other as the number imperiled exceeds those upon whom the disease has already taken hold.

Are You Deaf? Deafness is an affliction that not only impairs the usefulness of its victim, but robs him of many of the sweetest joys and pleasures of life.

Have You Catarrh? Catarrh is one of the most constant distressing conditions that the race is subject to.

If You Suffer from Asthma Causes sleepless nights, paroxysms of pain, choking and coughing, the Southwestern Specialists have cured thousands, and will be glad to furnish you with all the references you may desire.

Do You Suffer from Rheumatism? Have you been a sufferer a long time from these awful pains? Have you tried many forms of treatment without a permanent result?

IF YOU MEET

A person on the street but once or twice a year, you pass without noticing him in the least.

If you pass this person every day, you will notice him and perhaps commence speaking to him. It is the same with advertising. If you see an advertisement in the paper but once a year, you will hardly notice it.

Do you keep your goods and name before the people every day? If not, now is a good time to commence.

The Telegram goes to thousands of the best homes in this community at reading time.

Mastering Consumption

Wm. B. Kenny's remarkable letters from Lake Saranac, N. Y., describing from the viewpoint of a skilled newspaper man, the practical results of the treatment there given to consumptives, must give hope and gladness to uncounted thousands.

Mr. Kenny has been unhampered by any scientific theories; he has had no prejudices or preconceived notions to sustain or combat; he has gone to Lake Saranac to get the absolute truth as to results—to get the plain, impartial truth, that's all.

If it could be proved to him, beyond doubt, that consumptives can be cured, he was ready to examine the proofs. These proofs he was compelled to accept, and he presents them to the public in three of the most interesting letters ever written on the subject.

What is being done there in the Adirondacks can be done elsewhere. There are no peculiarly curative qualities in that climate. All authorities agree that climate has little to do with it. Fresh air, good food and rest—the three essentials, may be had anywhere.

A hundred thousand lives are taken annually in this country by consumption. In view of the truth from Lake Saranac, it must be admitted that these 100,000 lives are sacrificed to ignorance and official indifference.

The same rule applies now. Therefore, fluence as Christians, for the sake of our beloved church and its work, and for the sake of those who might be led astray, should abstain from engaging in this game at any and all times, and especially when prizes are offered.

Therefore the church going people of McKinney must stop the pleasure in which they have so long been engaged, and the game which has interested them at their social gatherings is cast aside.

A poll was taken by the World last night at the banquet of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association to ascertain the individual opinions of news-paper editors and publishers of the whole country as to which of the possible democratic candidates for president whose names have been mentioned would be most likely to carry the doubtful states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana and Illinois, and also what issues will be prominent this year.

The vote was as follows: Cleveland 10, McKinley 8, Bryan 7, Roosevelt 6, Taft 5, Cannon 4, Hearst 3, Lodge 2, Sherman 1, Tamm 1, Wilson 1, Fairbank 1, Gurnea 1, McMillan 1, Carter Harrison 1, David R. Francis 1, Richard Olney 1, Gorham 1, G. W. Wall 1, C. C. Wall 1, Francis M. Cockrell 1.

The Cleveland voters gave as prominent issues the following: Tariff 10, Panama canal 10, Expansion 10, Foreign policies 10, Old-fashioned democracy 10, Conservatism 10, Trusts 10, Expansion 10, Panama canal 10.

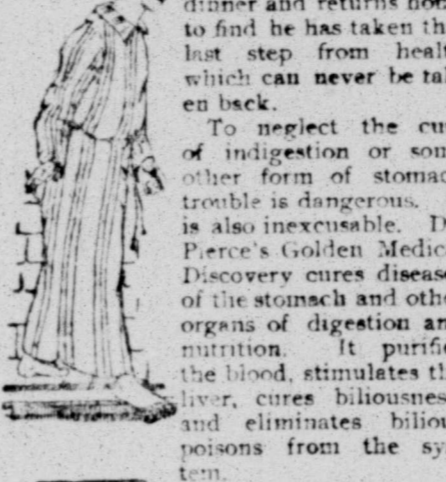

The Harrison supporters voted the trusts as the uppermost issue. Gray's adherent gave the trusts, Germania's expansion and tariff, Olney's the tariff, Francis' the tariff, Cockrell's the tariff and trusts and Wall's the tariff.

A newspaper man in Waco publishes his announcement for office as follows: "Homer D. Wade, candidate for Representative in the Legislature from McLennan county (two to be elected). Does he expect to be both of the elected?"

It would be awful if the Bull gets in the China shop, although Uncle Sam has kindly put Hay between the pieces. Houston has a political campaign on for city offices and the newspapers have

ONE STEP MORE

Will be fatal to the sleep-walker. Will he draw back or will he take the final, fatal step? A great many people are just like the sleep-walker. They are diseased. The disease is progressing day by day. The time comes when one more step away from health is fatal.

To neglect the cure of indigestion or some other form of stomach trouble is dangerous. It is also inexcusable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and eliminates bilious poisons from the system.

"The name I would like to give your Golden Medical Discovery I cannot utter in words of delicate with pen," writes Jas. E. Ambrose Esq., of 102 1/2 Mifflin St., Hunkindon, Pa. "I was taken ill with what our physician said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you, and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

You can get the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, paper covers, free by sending 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The anxious public is still waiting for James E. Wells, state chairman, to announce the date of the meeting of the state committee. Will he act any time soon?

A fellow with just half an ear to the ground could tell that opposition to nepotism will cut a great deal of ice in the next campaign.

Well, the treaty has been ratified. It was against our judgment, but we cannot control the senate and its boss—Roosevelt.

NEARLY FORFEITS HIS LIFE A runaway almost ending fatally, started a horrible ulcer on the leg of J. P. Ormer, Franklin Grove, Ill. For four years it defied all doctors and all remedies. But Bucklen's Arnica Salve had no trouble to cure him. Equally good for Burns, Bruises, Skin Eruptions and Piles. 25c at W. J. Fisher, druggist, and Reeves' Pharmacy.

Reduced Prices For a Few Days

As many good people are not able to pay the prices of a first-class specialist, New York Doctors make the following low prices, which will enable every sufferer in this vicinity to take the necessary treatment and be cured. This proposition will be open but a few days, and will not be repeated again.

Are You Deaf? Do You Suffer from Cancer? Do You Suffer from Nervous Troubles? TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT. When we promise a cure we mean just what we say. We know the exact conditions and just what trouble we are to deal with.

Do You Suffer from Cancer? Or a chronic sore of any character, a steady pain and suffering, a trouble that is appalling in its consequences? Do You Suffer from Nervous Troubles? Thousands of men are today nervous, impotent wrecks because they cannot find the right treatment for the diseases peculiar to men.

Stricture Neglected or badly treated Stricture is progressive, soon involving in its destructive course the whole Genito-Urinary system. Cutting, stretching, tearing or dilating are harsh and savage reminders of old fogeyism.

Specific Blood Poison Prompt and heroic treatment is the only kind that should ever be use in combating the "king" of bad diseases. Only temporary relief can come from Hot Springs baths, specifics, mercury, potash or other mineral mixtures and poisons.
