CONGRESS ADJOURNS

"OLD REBEL YELL" RINGS OUT IN HALLS OF CONGRESS AGAIN

MR. COCKRAN'S TRIUMPH OVER DALZELL AND THE REPUBLICAN LEADERS RALLIES THE DEMOCRATS TO BELIEF IN THEMSELVES

HIS SPEECH MARKS A NEW EPOCH

WASHINGTON, April 29.—No event of the session just closed has aroused the democrats and so thoroughly excited their enthusiasm as Bourke Cockran's speech of last Saturday. By that speech and particularly by the avalanche which descended upon John Dalzell at the first intimation against the orator's integrity, he established his place among the minority. It has been many years since the "old rebel yell" rang out in congress, but it had its place among the shouts and cheers of the house members on that day.

DISLIKE FOR THE LEADERS Another result of the remarkable scene was the giving of utterance by many republicans to a profound distaste for their leaders. The three bosses of the house machine, Grosvener, Payne and Dalzell, have not been over-popular with their followers for some time, and yesterday and today the disaffection broke forth in groans.

"What kind of leaders have we got?" cried one republican congressman, whose remarks were assented to by several others standing around him. "All they can do is to make us ridiculous. It was bad enough before, but now that a man like Cockran has come here he shows up the quality of their leadership. In addition to that, he was positively distressing. It is time for a change."

There is not the slightest doubt that Dalzell's rash interference, which met so tremendous a rebuke, was not alone his own act, but that of the republican machine. Immediately before he broke in, there was a conference between himself, Payne and Grosvener, and it was agreed that Cockran should be upset by an attack on his integrity, and Dalzell was selected to do it.

FEW SYMPATHIZE WITH DALZELL. Few of the republicans sympathize with Dalzell, but there is a general feeling of wrath against him and his associates that they should have led their party in the way of such a collision.

"After hearing that catastrophe yesterday, I am convinced that Dalzell is a chump," observed Colonel Bill Stretz of Texas. "The evidence is complete. Here was an Irishman speaking, and the crowd with him. Yet Dalzell butted in. Then the current opinion is that Cockran has greatly improved as a speaker since he was last in congress. Nothing that he ever said in his previous career has aroused anything like the wild, frantic, half-crazy enthusiasm which has been excited by his speeches at this session. In addition to that, he was not supposed to be such a tremendous force in give-and-take debate as he has now shown himself to be."

THREE GRADES OF RIDICULE. It was observed that he carefully graded his treatment of his victims. The first interruption came from the venerable General Benjamin F. Marsh of Illinois. General Marsh's interruptions were not heavy weighty, though animated by the plan of the house leaders to break Cockran up by casting suspicions upon his sincerity. Cockran treated the old gentleman with a contemptuous, weary good humor which utterly nullified the effect of Marsh's questions.

With General Grosvener there was another grade. Cockran met the General with a gentle shower of ridicule which aroused the peevish Ohioan's wrath; and when he became angry the ridicule continued and made a contrast with his laughter from the speaker's house. Sereno E. Payne brought forth a sharp retort from Cockran. The republican floor leader made a slur at John Sharp Williams. The retort from Cockran was no longer merely funny, it was a slash at Payne which made that statesman wince. In the deepest possible manner Cockran suggested the contrast between Leader Williams' popularity with his followers and Leader Payne's unpopularity with his. The reference was so stinging that Payne's face flushed, yet still Cockran was within bounds.

LEADERS AGREED ON ATTACK. It was after this that the republican leaders conferred, and agreed that Dalzell should openly attack Cockran's integrity. He did so, and then came the last gradation. Cockran went over Dalzell like a steam roller. No more crushing defeat has been met by any house debator in long years. The democrats were vastly heartened by what has happened. For the first time in many sessions they feel that they are not merely in a position of inferiority, but that on the floor they are superior to and have the advantage of the republicans. With Williams as leader and Cockran as orator they feel confident that they are giving the republicans the worst of it on about everything that may come up hereafter. What is more important, many rank-and-file republicans agree with them and are bitterly hostile to their own leadership.

INTERVENTION REFUSED BY RUSSIA IN SHARP TERMS

ST. PETERSBURG, April 29.—In the most categorical terms Russia has officially notified the world that she will not accept mediation to terminate war with Japan. The official notification, which accords with the authoritative announcement made by the Associated Press on April 25, is contained in a circular issued by the ministry of foreign affairs to the Russian representatives of foreign powers, which was gazetted in the official messenger today.

The circular denies the report that formal proposals have been made to the imperial government by any foreign power to use its good offices to restore peace, a denial which does not refer to the personal intimation addressed directly to the emperor by King Edward and by King Christian of Denmark, an account of which was given by the Associated Press. The text of the circular is as follows:

"The foreign press has recently been persistently circulating rumors concerning the intentions on the part of some of the European governments to undertake the friendly termination of the conflict between Russia and Japan. Telegrams have even been received here announcing that the proposals of such nature have already been made to the imperial government. You are empowered to deny this statement most categorically. Russia did not wish the war, and everything within the limits of possibility was done by her to solve the complications which have arisen in the far east in a peaceful manner, but after the treacherous surprise on the part of the Japanese government, which forced Russia to take up arms, obviously no friendly mediation can have any success. The imperial government will not admit the intervention of any power whatsoever."

WARM GREETING FOR RETURNED SURVIVORS

All St. Petersburg Does Honor to Seamen Back From Chemulpo Engagement — Are Received by Sovereigns

ST. PETERSBURG, April 29, 2:05 p. m.—Such an outburst of popular enthusiasm was witnessed today upon the arrival here of the survivors of the Variaz and Korietz as has not been experienced for many years. Undeterred by raw, rainy weather, as many as a hundred thousand people crowded the three miles of Nevsky from the railroad depot to Palace square. Roofs and windows were crowded with people, and the whole route was lined by soldiers, sailors and cadets from the military school. Every regiment was represented, as if the emperor wished all his fighting men to see how the brave are honored.

Grand Duke Alexis, as high admiral, received the heroes and a deafening storm of cheers burst forth as the weather-beaten seamen appeared in sight. Crews of the Variaz and Korietz were quickly mustered on the platform, each man wearing a St. George's cross. Grand Duke Alexis, attended by a brilliant staff of admirals, greeted the survivors of the Chemulpo engagement and Captain Roudeneff, commander of the Variaz, saluted and presented the grand duke with a formal report of the battle and number and state of health of the survivors. The grand duke, followed by Captain Roudeneff and the admirals, then passed along the ranks and saluted the sailor in the Russian fashion, saying: "Well done, my children," to which the sailors replied as one man: "We are glad to do our best for his imperial highness."

The formalities over, the high admiral was moved with emotion and embraced Captain Roudeneff and the other officers. It was now the turn of the deputations from the nobility and the municipality present to give addresses of welcome. The traditional bread and salt. Then began the triumphal march down the Nevsky of the officers and men of the Variaz and Korietz marshaled in two columns. The wildest enthusiasm prevailed and the sailors were showered with flowers.

Near the palace square stood the cadets of the military school. Those of the younger class, little fellows aged 7 years, forgot to salute, and instead took off their caps and cheered lustily. As the column of heroes approached the portals of the winter palace the emperor and empress came out on the balcony and greeted them and then retired to receive the visitors in the magnificent Nicholas Hall, which had been converted into a church. There special deum was sung. The service was attended by a brilliant assemblage, rendering all the more conspicuous the uniforms of the men who fought at Chemulpo. After the services all the sailors remained and banqueted as the emperor's guests, going later to the entertainments at the city hall and at the People's palace.

The penny-in-the-slot machine is not by any means a modern invention. In the old Egyptian temples devices of this kind were employed for automatically dispensing the purifying water.

EMPEROR WILLIAM WILL BUY PALACE IN VENICE. NEW YORK, April 29.—Emperor William has commissioned an agent to purchase for him a large, old historic palace in Venice, says a Herald dispatch from that city. The building is filled with art treasures. It is stated that the emperor intends to pass some weeks in Venice each year. The Hohenzollern, which has been visited by many Venetians, will sell today. The emperor has sent decorations to the mayor, the prefect, the head of the police departments and the major domo of the Morosini palace.

NAPLES SCENE OF A NAVAL DISPLAY

Occasion of President Loubet's Visit a Memorable One—The City Overrun With Visitors. Tremendous Enthusiasm

ROME, April 29.—Naples remembers no event in the last two years which compared with the scene of today, or when were gathered such enormous crowds of Italians and foreigners, the occasion being the visit of President Loubet of France. It is estimated that 20,000 people crowded the cafes or wandered about the streets all night, unable to get beds.

From early morning every position available for witnessing the naval review was completely occupied by the spectators, and the magnificent gulf of Naples was absolutely covered with craft of all kinds, from large yachts to humble fishing and rowing boats, and of all nationalities, each hoisting their colors, the French predominating. The spectacle of the French and the Italian squadrons anchored side by side was magnificent and most imposing.

The battleship Regina Margherita, having on board President Loubet, King Victor Emmanuel and the royal princes with their respective suites, appeared from the military harbor and was saluted by thundering hurrahs, booming cannon and the waving of handkerchiefs by the immense multitude. The Regina Margherita was followed by the torpedo gunboat Euridice, with the members of the diplomatic corps, headed by United States Ambassador Meyer on board, and by other ships carrying dignitaries of state, members of parliament and representatives of the press, etc.

President Loubet and King Emmanuel stood on the bridge of the Regina Margherita, and were saluted with strains of "Marseilles," and the royal Italian march. The weather, which yesterday was so unpromising, was glorious, bright sunshine gliding everything. The Regina Margherita passed twice between the squadrons, and President Loubet and King Emmanuel exchanged compliments on the perfection of the ships and the appearance of the men.

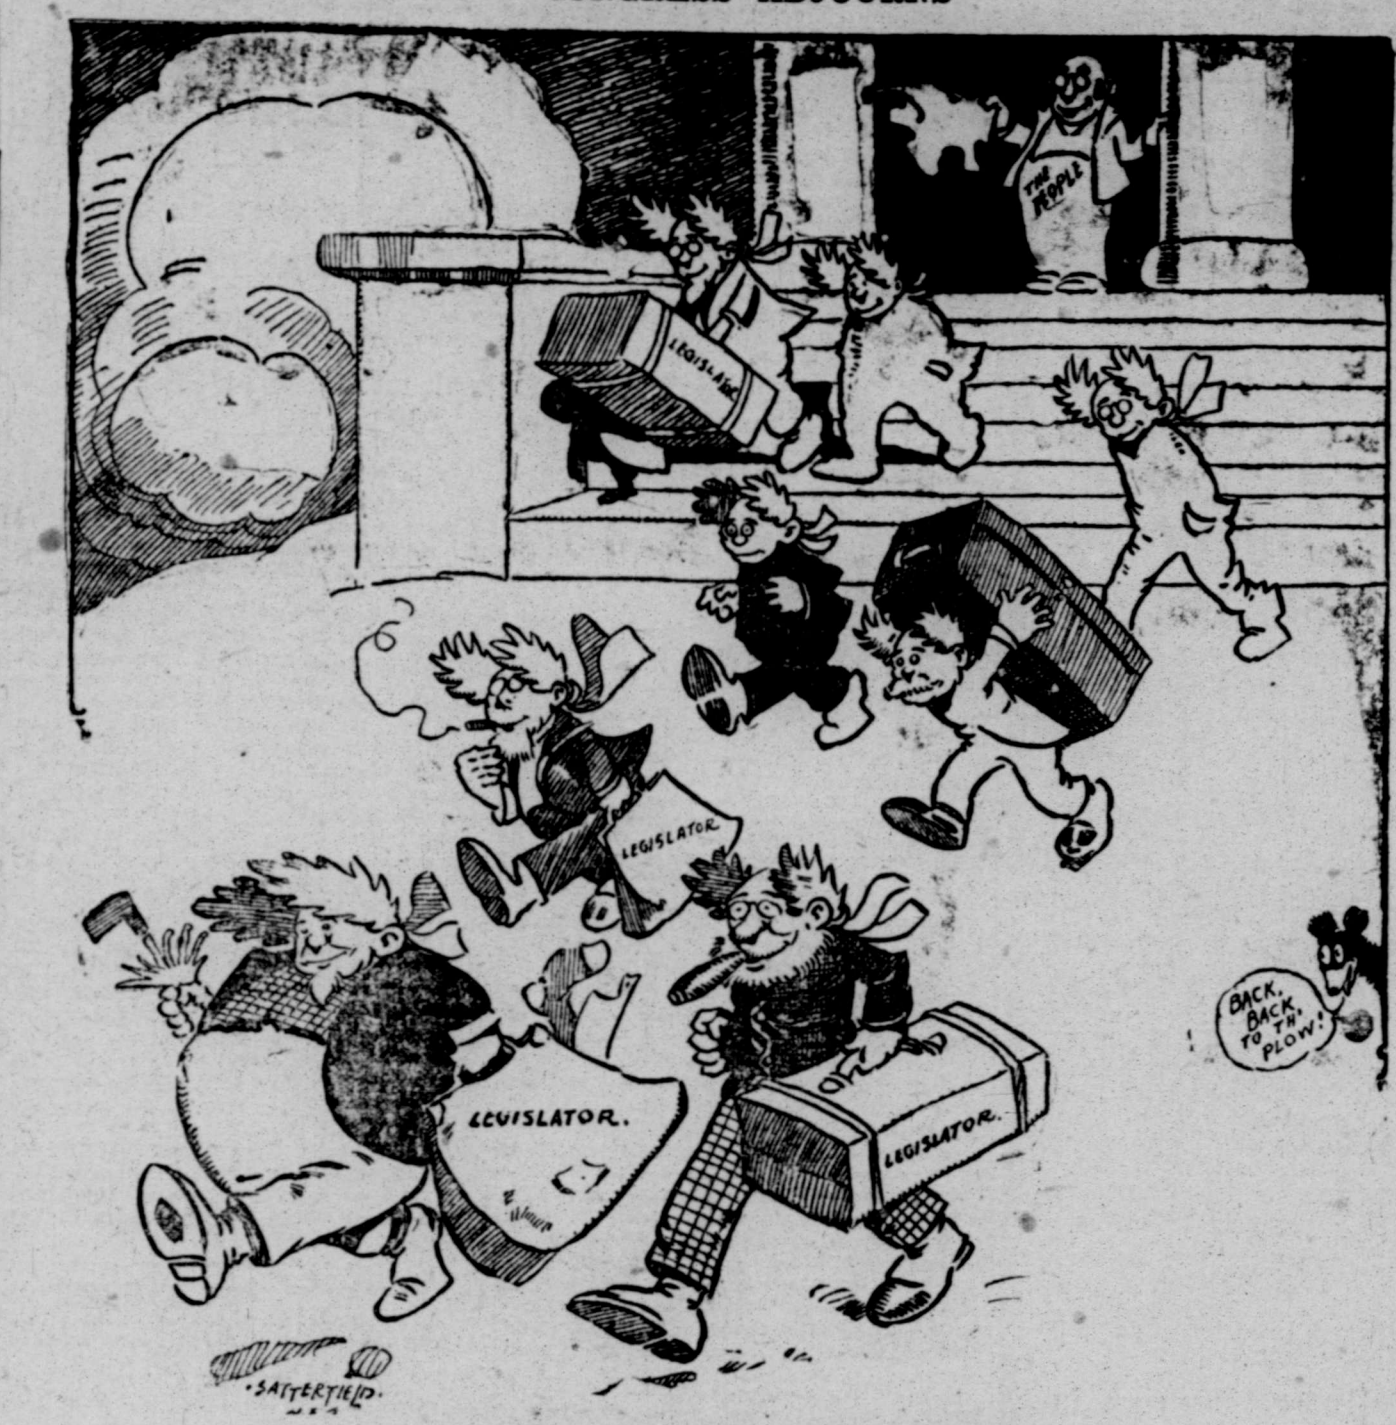

From the Regina Margherita President Loubet went on board the French cruiser Marsailaise, which is to carry him to France. He was saluted by twenty-one guns from each ship, and by cheers from all the crews. Secretly, after embarking on the Marsailaise, he was visited by the king with a last adieu.

Amid a scene of indescribable enthusiasm the French squadron left headed by the Marsailaise. The French ships were accompanied by six Italian battleships, and two squadrons of torpedo destroyers. As long as it was possible to distinguish salutations President Loubet and King Emmanuel exchanged farewell salutes while standing on the bridges of the two warships.

POLICE WILL CLOSE NEW YORK THEATERS. NEW YORK, April 29.—It has developed that several of the smaller theaters here have failed to complete alterations ordered by the city authorities immediately after the Iroquois disaster in Chicago, and it is possible several houses will be compelled to close on the 1st of May when their licenses expire.

The police department has taken a hand in the matter, and notice has been served on the recalcitrant members that no licenses will be issued for any theater at the expiration of the current period until a clean bill shall have been received from both the fire and building departments.

MARTIAL LAW WEST OF LIAO RIVER. PEKIN, April 29.—It is asserted on the best authority that Russia is about to enforce martial law west of the Liao river. The government is worried and the dowager empress has ordered the provincial governors to abandon her birthday celebration and to use the money collected for the purpose to equip 72,000 troops immediately.

"PARTING IS SUCH SWEET SORROW"

SCRAMBLE FOR FREEDMEN'S LANDS

Muskogee Crowded With People Who Are Taking Advantage of the Removal of Restrictions From Lands

MUSKOGEE, I. T., April 29.—That the great rush of people into the city of Muskogee on account of the restrictions being removed from the sale of Creek lands, was not anticipated by the business men, is evidenced by the fact that none of the stores have half enough help to wait on the trade, and the buggy supply in the entire city is fast diminishing. An elderly freedman who sells his land, buys from one to three buggies or carriages, in fact they seem to have a mania for buggies.

The clerks' office here report that they are receiving on an average of 100 deeds a day to be recorded. This figured on a basis of $10 per acre, which by the way is a conservative estimate, amounts to $120,000 per day in Muskogee alone. The negroes have been so used to getting money easy that they do not seem to understand that this is the last money they will get from the government. It is frequently the case here that a negro will get his money for his land and walk out, giving friends, first one and another $5, $10 and $20 bills.

The bidding on the full bloods' land seems to be entirely overlooked in the scramble for the lands of the freedmen. Some of the old real estate men in the city are holding back, saying that they do not care to load up on the freedmen lands at the price they are going at.

HIGH TIDE DRIVES FAMILIES FROM HOME

NEW YORK, April 29.—Twenty-five families have been driven from their homes in St. Raymond's park, Bronx borough, by the overflowing of water from the Cedric creek, caused by an unusually high tide. The property damaged is to the extent of several thousand dollars. Fifty persons had to be rescued from their flooded homes by the police. So quickly barely had time to escape. The houses were flooded and the water in many homes filled the lower floors, the foundations of many buildings loosened.

FRANCE NO LONGER DREAMS OF CONQUEST

BIZERT, Tunis, April 29.—At the reception tendered him by the municipality, M. Pelletan, the French minister of marine, declared that France no longer dreamed of conquests, and that her resources would hereafter be employed to fortify her present possessions. He did not believe, he said, that the country would be involved in war, and he feared no complications in the far east.

SALOON LICENSES ONLY IN BREWERIES' NAMES

CHICAGO, April 29.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Omaha, Neb., says: The Nebraska supreme court has decided that brewers cannot take out saloon licenses except in their own name. The ruling is likely to have far-reaching effect.

THE WEATHER. The forecast until 8 p. m. Saturday, for Fort Worth and vicinity—Unsettled weather tonight and Saturday, with occasional showers and cooler. The Washington forecast for the southwest, is as follows: Arkansas—Tonight and Saturday showers. Oklahoma and Indian Territory—Tonight and Saturday showers in western portion; colder Saturday. Texas—Tonight and Saturday unsettled weather and probably showers; colder in western portion tonight; colder Saturday.

A MOUSE STARTS THEATER PANIC

Woman Jumps From Her Seat and the Cry of Fire Was Raised

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—A miniature panic has occurred during a performance at the Standard theater. Only three or four children were hurt, and they not seriously. Several women fainted, but recovered quickly. The trouble occurred near the end of the performance, and was caused by the screams of a woman in the gallery, who had been frightened by a mouse. She jumped from her seat, and so alarmed those sitting near by that one of them cried "fire." Instantly the crowd rose and began to rush for the exits, but the actors got the orchestra to strike up an air which calmed the frightened people. Many already had reached the doors and there was quite a crush, but it was over in a moment, and the play was resumed.

GEORGETOWN REGRETS LOSING PROF. McSWAIN

GEORGETOWN, Texas, April 29.—The selection of Professor R. B. McSwain of this city as president of the Epworth University at Oklahoma City, Ok., was generally discussed here today, and while he was congratulated on his promotion, his removal is generally regretted. Professor McSwain came to Georgetown four years ago from Fort Worth and here forged to the front as an instructor in Greek and Biblical literature, taking rank with the foremost linguists in the country. He will leave here in June for Oklahoma City.

MAY PROMISES TO BE A GOOD BUSINESS MONTH

NEW YORK, April 29.—Advices from important commercial centers, while reflecting disturbance due to the prevalence of unseasonable weather, says the Interstate Commerce Commission, emphasize the basic strength underlying trade conditions with actual results considerably ahead of last year. Continued cold in the south and southwest has retarded wholesale trade, except for boots, shoes and rubbers, wherein extraordinary demand, keeping factories working over time. Excellent business is reported at the west in groceries, dry goods, hardware, machinery, hats and caps, territory tributary to St. Louis showing exceptional results because of rushing orders for "resumption week." Low temperature, while restricting spring business, is aiding merchants to close out heavy-weight goods, with the result that stock carried over will be unusually small.

DAN'L COX SHOT RESISTING AN OFFICER

Lies in Jail at Muskogee Morally Wounded—Sought on a Warrant Charging Him With Horse Stealing

MUSKOGEE, I. T., April 28.—Daniel Cox was shot and morally wounded at this city, while resisting arrest. Odum had a warrant for the arrest of Cox on a charge of horse stealing, and has been wanted for a long time by the officers, but has been successful in eluding them until today. Cox is now in jail in this city and there is no hopes for his recovery.

MAY DIVIDENDS WILL BE SMALLEST IN YEARS

NEW YORK, April 29.—Disbursements by industrial corporations for dividends in May will be the smallest for that month in a series of years, according to estimates compiled by the Journal of Commerce. The total based on returns thus far is only $1,981,457, against $21,925,597 in 1903 and $18,732,981 in May 1902. This change in the May dividend situation is easily explained. Last year the United States Steel Corporation paid a quarterly dividend of $3,306,496, but this year the disbursement will be reduced to $6,054,919, in consequence of conversion of preferred stocks into bonds. Other companies will disburse dividends on reduced percentages and several which paid last year will be missing from the list.

ABOLISH OFFICE FOR LACK OF SEEKERS

DERBY, Conn., April 29.—Because nobody wants to be postmaster the post-office at Killingworth, Conn., may have to be abolished. Congressman Sperry says he can get no one to accept the office. When the former office holder died a canvass of the town resulted in the finding of one citizen willing to accept. Before his appointment could be arranged he learned that the salary had dwindled to $12 a year with prospects of less with the establishment of rural free delivery, so he also withdrew.

MAY PROMISES TO BE A GOOD BUSINESS MONTH

While advance orders are somewhat backward, indications point to extraordinary activity during May if seasonable weather prevails. Enormous demand is reported for agricultural implements, farmers evidencing little alarm over the future. Labor troubles are retarding business in Alabama, Iowa, Colorado and parts of Pennsylvania and Ohio. This contributes uncertainty to a situation which will, however, be in a measure relieved by the agreement of the iron and mine workers, which becomes effective in Colorado on June 1. That will give partial assurance of fixed conditions for two years. In other sections, more or less trouble is being experienced, although interference is not general or calculated to extend materially. This is emphasized by the apparent willingness of mining organizations to modify their requests in accordance with restricted output and some evidence of business reaction.

GREAT FAIR ALL READY TO BE OPENED

About Noon Tomorrow President Roosevelt Will Press the Button

IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES

St. Louis Is Filled With Dignitaries and People From Almost Everywhere

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 29.—At noon tomorrow the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, upon which months of labor and millions of dollars have been expended, will become an accomplished fact. The great fair will be opened with exercises of a simple but impressive character. The completed program for the ceremonies is as follows:

9 a. m.—The board of directors of the World's Fair, the members of the national commission, the board of lady managers will meet in the office of President Francis at the administration building, where President Francis will receive the special gavel.

9:30 a. m.—The entire party will be escorted to the Louisiana Purchase monument, where they will be joined by the foreign commissioners, who will assemble earlier at the British pavilion; and the governors of states and state commissions and committees, who will first assemble at the United States government building. Secretary Taft, as the representative of President Roosevelt, will be escorted to the exposition grounds by a military guard. The committees from the United States senate and the house of representatives will have escorts provided who will meet them at their respective hotels.

10:30 a. m.—President Francis will call the assemblage to order, and the invocation will be made by the Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus of Chicago. An address by President Francis will follow. William H. Thompson, chairman of the committee on grounds and buildings, will present Isaac S. Taylor, director of works. The latter will deliver the keys of the several exhibit palaces to President Francis.

The transfer of the exhibit palaces to F. J. V. Skiff, director of exhibits, will then be made. Mr. Skiff will deliver an address.

Address by Thomas H. Carter, president of the national commission. Address by a senator and representative in behalf of the congressional committees.

Address on behalf of domestic exhibitors by Edward H. Hartman, president of the New York state commission. Address by William H. Taft, secretary of war.

At the conclusion of Secretary Taft's address, President Roosevelt will press an electric button in the east room of the White House at Washington, which will start all the machinery of the World's Fair in motion.

3 p. m.—Opening of "The Pike," immediately after a "parade of all nations," in which all the strange objects of the Pike attractions will take part.

The people of St. Louis today get a clear idea of the conditions that will confront them during the next six months. Passenger trains by the score rolled in all day, the governors and state commissioners and other distinguished visitors poured through the gates in what seemed a never-ending stream. The visitors who wore no gold lace and came merely to see, arrived by the tens of thousands. They came from all parts of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indiana and other states and territories still more distant. It was the first day of the coming rush, and it came like a tidal wave. Everybody was cared for promptly. All the distinguished guests were met by escorts and escorted to quarters previously set apart for their comfort and entertainment. Those of the multitude who had made no previous arrangement for rooms were compelled to hunt for what they wanted. The hotels were full, but not overcrowded. Hundreds of visitors sought cheaper accommodation at boarding houses and rooming houses. The bureau of information established at the railway stations and other public places were kept busy answering questions and providing quarters for those who applied for them.

The exposition grounds resembled a veritable beehive of industry. Hundreds and hundreds of workmen were literally working with their coats off getting things in shape and span shape for the opening day. A small army was employed in clearing the grounds of debris and rubbish, hundreds of others were putting the finishing touches to the decorations and the arrangements for illumination, while still others of a countless number swarmed through the great buildings and gave their attention to the final preparation of exhibits. From all indications this part of the great fair will be ready tomorrow with nearly every one of its many and interesting features in a completed state.

Another busy lot of men today were the fire and police forces, upon whom will devolve the welfare and protection of visitors and exhibits in the exposition grounds. Fire houses and police stations are located in various parts of the grounds and experts who have examined the arrangements along this line declare that no previous exposition has provided such ample protection.

CRUM'S NAME GOES TO SENATE FIFTH TIME

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Congress had been adjourned but a short time when President Roosevelt made the recess appointment of Dr. William D. Crum, a big game collector of customs at Charleston, S. C. This is the fifth time this appointment has been made, the senate having failed to take action one way or the other on confirmation.

Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, April 29.—The general quality of the cattle supply did not compare favorably with the average quality of the receipts at the hog division of the yards, and, although the market ruled steady on best killing cattle, there was no buoyancy in values, which, as a rule, follows light receipts of good fat killing stuff. There were no choice heavy steers, and the best good fed kinds, weighing from 920 to 1,460 pounds, sold at $3.75, while the medium weight and quality stuff landed around $3.50@3.65.

ferred, ruled strong and active, best bunches selling at a top of $4, with the ordinary kinds at $2.50@3.50. Bulls showed no change in values, and the light run crossed the scales at steady prices. The local market, with a moderate supply of good quality hogs offered, in the face of small declines at other points, opened strong and active, on which basis the bulk of the day's trading was done. Continued advances of lower and weak markets at Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis had a dampening effect upon local values and, with packers pretty well supplied out of their early buying, the market closed slow and weak, however, showing very little decline from morning values. Top hogs at Chicago today brought only $5, while good heavy hogs here, averaging around 252 pounds, sold with a top of $4.92 1/2, seven and one-half cents under the extreme top of the leading market of the country.

THE PARKER MEETING

The complexion of the Parker meeting at Dallas yesterday is an indication of the class of people in this state who are supporting the New Yorker for president, and there can be no better compliment to a candidate for the highest office in the land than the endorsement by such people.

There was an entire absence of what might be termed "ward politicians" or "political tricksters," the meeting being participated in by the wise, conservative, substantial men of the state. There was not one present but who has in the past proved his worth to Texas, and occupies some position of high standing in his home county.

Without question there is much reason to believe the people of Texas will give attention to this meeting. It was dominated by no man or set of men. Those who were present participated individually, there was no cut and dried plan carried out, there was no effort to do any man harm, but a laudable purpose to secure an instructed delegation from this state to St. Louis in the interest of Judge Parker, and the men who were there, Judge Templeton of Hopkins, Judge Tarleton of Tarrant, Senator Potter of Cooke, Col. Johnston of Harris, Editor McCollum of McLennan, Editor Ousley of Tarrant, William Capps of Tarrant, Editor Carver of Denison, are in fact men of good report in the localities in which they have their homes and their business interests.

No man has been presented to the people of Texas by better endorsers, and these men cannot fail to make an impression in Texas when the address to the people is issued. One feature of the meeting which will commend its action to the sensible and decent people of Texas is that it does not inveigh against Mr. Hearst, but in the speeches the action of that prominent newspaper man in his support of the party through his numerous newspapers was commended, and credit was given him for the good work he has always done in behalf of the party. Far from being against Mr. Hearst, the meeting had a tone of absolute opposition to Roosevelt and friendship and loyalty to Judge Parker.

Idle Lands and Idle Men Three millions of poor people, according to Commander Booth Tucker, are rotting and festering in the tenements of our great cities. They constitute our Israel in Egypt. Their numbers increase with a rapidity that threatens to make the disease of pauperism as chronic and severe in our land as in the oldest civilization of the eastern world.

Then, too, there is an immense and increasing army of men with families not actually in want, but who, in spite of incessant labor and strict economy, are unable to get ahead, to accumulate any property, to lay up a dollar for old age.

Every philanthropic movement only furnishes additional proof that the condition cannot be remedied by charity. The $50,000,000 now given each year by this nation in charity is merely affording temporary relief. It only puts off from year to year the real solution of the question, while constantly rendering it more complex and difficult.

The only real help to a man is that which helps him to help himself. When an infectious disease becomes fixed in a congested community, we take the people out of it and put them under new and pure conditions. That same principle is at the base of Senator Hoar's bill, now before the senate, for the relief of city poverty by giving the poor an opportunity to go to the country, to own a little land, and to work out their own salvation.

It is proposed that the public land of the West shall no longer be given away in great tracts to rich corporations, but that it shall be colonized by the poor; that the government shall loan money to poor families to enable them to get the land, to improve it and to stock it; and that this loan, with the price of the land, shall be paid in easy installments.

Paternalism? Admitted. Paternalism is precisely what pauperism requires. It was paternalistic in the government to help in the building of the railroads of the West, which opened a new empire to settlement. Surely it is pardonable paternalism to help the people to take possession of their empire.

It is no visionary, untried scheme. Its real author is Commander Booth Tucker, of the Salvation Army, and he has demonstrated in successful application of it in colonies in California and Colorado and Ohio that the plan works well. For several years the government of New Zealand has had the same principle in successful operation.

The marked characteristic of these aided colonists is that they feel their independence and the responsibility for their own financial success.

Their manhood is appealed to in being given opportunity to demonstrate that they have within themselves the elements of success.

Our nation has millions of acres of land that needs men. It has millions of men who need land. There are infinite possibilities of labor going to waste in idle pauperism, and the idle land needs this labor.

Only the strong hands of the government can properly bring the two elements together.

HE SPENT A MILLION Read about "Billy" Camp, "the best fellow in Chicago."

His brief career illustrates an old truth.

When he was twenty-one years of age William Camp inherited a fortune of a million dollars. It was cash in bank and securities readily convertible.

He spent it all in four years.

How? Just sowed it. He began every day with not less than $500 in his pocket. Sometimes he closed the day, or the night rather, with a solitary ten dollar bill—ten dollars was the smallest change he handled in four years. Sometimes he borrowed or drew another $500. It goes without saying that he had a host of "friends," male and female. He was "the best fellow in Chicago."

He was after pleasure and cheerfulness paid the full price and got it.

One morning Billy woke up in New York and found himself out of funds. His wife had secured a divorce. He was on the verge, broken in body and spirit. He got too much pleasure for his money.

But— The young fellow was made of good stuff inside. His manhood asserted itself. An invoice showed plenty of good clothes, a knowledge of the ways of the world and a disposition to redeem himself. He went to work as a traveling salesman. He has been on the road four years and has succeeded handsomely. He has even found a new wife and a good one.

Billy Camp came back to Chicago, sold some big bills and remarked incidentally that he was happy.

You see: He tried to find both pleasure and happiness in the same way—as a spendthrift and idle. He found the pleasure all right, lots of it. But happiness eluded him.

Billy Camp learned the lesson we must all learn—that the simple life pays best and that true happiness is to be found only in one's honest work.

That's all.

Colonel John L. Peeler of Austin is running for the legislature on the platform that the state should rebuild the dam. The dam was used to furnish power for the municipal lighting plant, and it is hard to understand why the state should do all this unless the state proposes to go into the system of ownership of utilities. Texas will not build it.

A Denver boy who was on the battlefield of Missouri when the explosion occurred writes home that target practice will be continued, as the men are afraid the public will think they have "cold feet" if they stop now. They have nothing to get "cold feet" about. It is when a fellow is winner that the refrigerator cools his extremities.

Dallas charged the Parker meeting $3 for the use of the council chamber in the city hall Thursday. Dallas certainly goes after the coin on every occasion.

Sully proposes to start a line of compresses throughout the South. Does he think he can squeeze more money out of the staple with a press than he can with a corner?

SEEN AND HEARD AT THE CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, April 29.—While walking up a street of East St. Louis, the day-after his convention recently renominated him for congress, Representative Rodenberg of Illinois was called over to the police station. A friend stated that one of the delegates who had voted for him the previous day was in duress.

The iron door flew open, and the erstwhile jubilant delegate, sobered from his celebration of the previous night, was conducted before the magistrate. "How will this case be?" inquired Rodenberg, preparing to go down in his jeans for the required amount.

The magistrate began to search the city ordinances, to ascertain what sort of a fine he must impose.

"If it please your honor," suggested the defendant in humble tones, "make it as light as you possibly can. When you come over to my town I will be light on you."

Mr. Rodenberg's delegate friend, who had been through such vicissitudes, was himself a justice of the peace.

Some strange things have happened out in the Kansas district which is represented in the house by Mr. Campbell. It has been discovered that men who a few days ago were poor are now rich. One of the most striking cases is that of a man named Fred Hetrick. He owned a farm near the town of Chanute, and had a hard time keeping the wolf from the door. He can neither read nor write, but oil royalties now amount to $500 a month. He has just completed the finest opera house in Kansas. It occupies half a block in Chanute. He said he wanted to leave something for a monument.

Mr. Hetrick gives a box party at each performance, and Hetrick himself is always behind the scenes, seeing how the actors and actresses do things. They are having the times of their lives, and Chanute has become one of the best theater towns in the west. Everybody has money and it is flowing like water—or oil. A widow who had been left 170 acres of land, with her limited means of cultivation, barely furnished bread for her family of small children, has sold her place for $5,000 cash. A man who held a lease on 160 acres and had a hard struggle to meet payments when they came due, transferred his lease and stock for $18,000. There are scores of like instances. Mr. Campbell declares there is nothing much the matter with his particular section of Kansas.

When Representative John Lamb of Richmond goes out to talk to the farmers of Virginia, he carries with him the familiarity with which he discusses agricultural affairs. Once he told a farmer constituent that he raised ninety barrels of corn and twenty barrels of cotton in one year, which brought forth the reply that if his district knew it, it knew it. Captain Lamb would have been kept at home, being too good a farmer to send to congress.

A few days ago the captain made another incursion into Virginia, and delivered an eloquent address to a rural audience.

"Captain," inquired one of those who had heard him, "how did you, a city man, get so much farming in your head?"

"Why, that's easy," replied the Richmond member. "What do you suppose I have been serving on the agricultural committee of the house six years for?"

Representative Hughes of New Jersey, a democrat of the Bryan faction, believes he has made a discovery which may prevent Grover Cleveland from being nominated for governor of that state. There is a provision in the New Jersey constitution that a governor must have been a resident of the state for seven years.

The figuring is pretty close, but Mr. Hughes says that after Mr. Cleveland left the White House seven years ago he sojourned in New York, of which state he was then a resident, for several months, before going to New Jersey. He has, therefore, been a resident of New Jersey only about six years. The term of the governor of New Jersey does not expire till January next and the question as to Mr. Cleveland's eligibility for the nomination is whether by that time he will have been in New Jersey the requisite seven years.

"Dear me! I don't even know your name."

"The governor gazed and bit her lip. 'A pretty hard case,' she murmured. 'It isn't!' cried Allena in wrath. 'It was just saintly when I kissed him.' 'You kissed him! You dreadful child! Come home at once. You! Judge Raceway's daughter! Why, the man might have had consumption—or germs. He may have given them to you!'

"He gave me his picture, anyway, and you and your old germs can go to pot," retorted Allena impudently. "Say, you needn't drag me along, Charlotte Spicer. I can walk."

Curly stood irresolutely in front of the saloon. The crowd jostled him, but he didn't move along. A flashily dressed man seized his arm.

"You're shaky this morning, boy," he accosted cordially. "Let's get inside. I'll break a small bottle with you. That will put you on your feet."

"I'm on my feet now," returned the other roughly. "Let me alone!"

His companion stared. "Curly!" he coaxed good naturedly. "Come on now. Don't stand here in the sun. Yes, yes, I know how a fellow feels sometimes. It's the nerves. Settle 'em, and you'll be all right."

"You don't know how I feel, Joe, and you never will," smiling queerly. "I've had an experience. Just say to the crowd that I've cut my hair, and the sooner they forget Curly the better it will please me. Say I'm Todd Shipman now, the same who came among you two years ago, when I was kicked out of college. Joe, I'm twenty-one today. Lord knows, I want a drink, but I don't take it. I've a little money coming, and I was going to 'blow' it in good shape, but something has changed my mind. You've been a good friend and square. Goodbye and luck to you."

The muscular figure straightened with a half friendly, half warning flash in the gray eyes.

A strong momentary pressure of fingers which were quick at dealing

A DOUBLE RESCUE

By ELLIOT WALKER Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"I'll kiss you for that!" cried the child tremulously. "I'd marry you if I was big enough."

Her arm clung about the man's muscular neck as he tried to dodge the impulsive caresses. Laughing faintly, he carried his light burden across the street, put her down in safety and beckoned to a white faced, horrified woman on the other side of the track.

Curly did not quite comprehend how he had done it. Just an instinctive leap, a clutch at the pink frock, and the trolley's tender had grased his leg as he jerked forward, trying to cast the little girl from him, with a flash of thought that he himself was gone.

Voices cursing the motorman, who was not in the least at fault; voices and hands applauding bumbled in his ear without meaning as he straightened up with a long breath of relief, his eyes on her grateful, childish face.

"Marry me, eh?" he whispered mischievously as he disentangled the clinging fingers. "Oh, no, my dear, you wouldn't; not if you were ten years older."

"I would! I'd be twenty-one then," holding his nose too clean hand with both her tiny ones. "I'm going to wait for you. Every day I'll remember just how you look, and—"

"You tot!" smiled her rescuer, hastily pulling from his breast pocket an envelope and extracting a card photograph from a rather soiled bunch. "Here, take this. Look at it once in awhile. That'll be thanks enough for me, and maybe you won't entirely forget a poor fellow who won't forget you in a long while. Bless your little white soul! I didn't know I had a soft spot left."

"Allena Raceway!" quavered the thin lady in black, coming up with a rush after painful indecision in crossing. "How dared you disobey me? Have you thanked the kind gentleman properly? Which is he, Allena?"

"He's gone," answered her charge, with a wall of disappointment, her glance roving through the crowd. "Oh,

"Yes, here I am," solemnly, with his hands clasped behind him. "I have had a talk with your father. He has given me permission to tell you my story, if—if you care to hear it."

"Of course I do." Allena's cheeks were glowing. "Let us sit down. Dear me! I don't even know your name."

"Shipman—Todd Shipman of Colorado Springs."

"Oh!" she gazed at him interestedly. "That day," began the man, his tone reverent, "the trustful embrace of a little child turned my steps. During all my struggle her face has been ever before me—an inspiration. I have been true to it. It has been my one thought to live and work for this date, this anniversary, that I might tell her what she did. You do not seem strange to me, but as I expected to find you. Goodbye! May God bless you!"

"But you will come again?" cried the girl, giving him her hands as he rose. "If I do," the deep voice trembled, "you—you will understand."

The fair head drooped and nodded almost imperceptibly; her fingers tightened on his. He bent his lips to them and stepped softly away.

"Mrs. Todd Shipman," murmured Allena as she heard the front door close. "Quite an attractive name!"

Vicious Vengeance. It was undoubtedly a mean trick of Sawyer. He was a big man, and when he came home late a few evenings ago and found his little friend, Ben Allen, with whom he shared his lodgings, asleep in the middle of their common bed he made little to do, but when he retired, with a little effort, he kicked his small friend on to the floor.

Ben said nothing at the time, but when a few evenings later he found that Sawyer had taken up a similar position in bed he determined to have his revenge.

Stealthily climbing over the huge form, he braced his back against the wall and, placing his feet against his friend's spine, gave a tremendous push. The effect was instantaneous, if not exactly what had been anticipated.

The big man moved, but the bed moved with him, opening a wide space between it and the wall, through which Ben disappeared.

The little fellow had shot himself out of bed.

Buckner in his "Psychic Life of Animals" speaks of thievish bees which in order to save themselves the trouble of working attack well stocked hives in masses, kill the sentinels and the inhabitants, rob the hives and carry off the provisions. After repeated enterprises of this description they acquire a taste for robbery with violence. They recruit whole companies, which get more and more numerous, and finally they form regular colonies of brigand bees. But it is a still more curious fact that these brigand bees can be produced artificially by giving working bees a mixture of honey and brandy to drink. The bees soon acquire a taste for this beverage, which has the same disastrous effects upon them as upon men. They become ill disposed and irritable and lose all desire to work, and finally when they begin to feel hungry they attack and plunder the well supplied hives.

One Man's Insane Idea. The writer once entered into conversation with the inmate of an asylum, at the request of the superintendent, who said he was a monomaniac and invited me to find out if I could the particular point of his insanity. "It is a rum subject to go mad on, I must say," he added, by way of helping me. I tried him on various subjects without success; in fact, he seemed better informed than myself, and I was turning to go when he tapped me on the shoulder and whispered in my ear: "It's a long time coming, isn't it?" "What is?" I asked.

"Why, the day of Pentecost, of course!" he answered.

And that was the only irrational thing he said during the whole interview.—London Tit-Bits.

Dear! I didn't even find out his name. I've got his picture, though, to remember him by. See, Charlotte."

"The governor gazed and bit her lip. 'A pretty hard case,' she murmured. 'It isn't!' cried Allena in wrath. 'It was just saintly when I kissed him.' 'You kissed him! You dreadful child! Come home at once. You! Judge Raceway's daughter! Why, the man might have had consumption—or germs. He may have given them to you!'

"He gave me his picture, anyway, and you and your old germs can go to pot," retorted Allena impudently. "Say, you needn't drag me along, Charlotte Spicer. I can walk."

Curly stood irresolutely in front of the saloon. The crowd jostled him, but he didn't move along. A flashily dressed man seized his arm.

"You're shaky this morning, boy," he accosted cordially. "Let's get inside. I'll break a small bottle with you. That will put you on your feet."

"I'm on my feet now," returned the other roughly. "Let me alone!"

His companion stared. "Curly!" he coaxed good naturedly. "Come on now. Don't stand here in the sun. Yes, yes, I know how a fellow feels sometimes. It's the nerves. Settle 'em, and you'll be all right."

"You don't know how I feel, Joe, and you never will," smiling queerly. "I've had an experience. Just say to the crowd that I've cut my hair, and the sooner they forget Curly the better it will please me. Say I'm Todd Shipman now, the same who came among you two years ago, when I was kicked out of college. Joe, I'm twenty-one today. Lord knows, I want a drink, but I don't take it. I've a little money coming, and I was going to 'blow' it in good shape, but something has changed my mind. You've been a good friend and square. Goodbye and luck to you."

The muscular figure straightened with a half friendly, half warning flash in the gray eyes.

A strong momentary pressure of fingers which were quick at dealing poker hands and Shipman's broad shoulders swung down the street. "Beats me!" meditated his sporting friend and, more softly, "Maybe he is right, though—twenty-one—birthday—new leaf—hum!"

"Show him in," said the judge, a bit testily. "Right here in the library, John. Turn up that lamp a trifle." He pored over the card. "Can't be Otis Shipman's son," he ruminated. "Let's see. Todd's a family name. Why, it was ten years ago that boy went off—goodness knows where—and glad they were to be rid of him, the wild rascal! Seems to me I heard he had done mighty well, but that didn't cure him, I imagine. Yes, I remember, a curly headed, gray eyed scamp, bright as a dollar. Too bad! Too bad!"

When the visitor emerged from the library after that hour of rapid conversation he went straight to the drawing room, and his host, with a puzzled visage, pattered upstairs.

Shipman stood under the great chandelier, a bronzed, well formed man, the rings of clustering hair low on his broad brow. He trembled at the sound of soft approaching steps.

"My father said you wished to speak with me," came a clear voice as a girl, tall, bright eyed and sunny haired, came quickly in without embarrassment, looking at him keenly.

"I do," replied the stranger. "I have every day for ten years prayed for this meeting that I might thank you."

"Thank me?" starting. "And for what, please? Oh," she cried, "I—I do know you now! You are my picture. I have it yet in a tiny frame. You who saved me when I was a little girl. So often I have wondered, dreamed, that I might some time see you again. And here you are."

"Yes, here I am," solemnly, with his hands clasped behind him. "I have had a talk with your father. He has given me permission to tell you my story, if—if you care to hear it."

"Of course I do." Allena's cheeks were glowing. "Let us sit down. Dear me! I don't even know your name."

"Shipman—Todd Shipman of Colorado Springs."

"Oh!" she gazed at him interestedly. "That day," began the man, his tone reverent, "the trustful embrace of a little child turned my steps. During all my struggle her face has been ever before me—an inspiration. I have been true to it. It has been my one thought to live and work for this date, this anniversary, that I might tell her what she did. You do not seem strange to me, but as I expected to find you. Goodbye! May God bless you!"

"But you will come again?" cried the girl, giving him her hands as he rose. "If I do," the deep voice trembled, "you—you will understand."

The fair head drooped and nodded almost imperceptibly; her fingers tightened on his. He bent his lips to them and stepped softly away.

"Mrs. Todd Shipman," murmured Allena as she heard the front door close. "Quite an attractive name!"

GOVERNMENT TO SAVE AN HISTORIC SPOT

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The war department is preparing to complete the section wall at Jamestown, Va., in accordance with the law recently passed appropriating $25,000 for that purpose. The James river has been steadily eating away the bank of the island, and except for the action of congress, the historic part of the island upon which Anglo-Saxon civilization first took root on the American continent would soon have been obliterated.

The engineer corps will at once begin the work of saving the island. This is the first step toward the celebration of its settlement, 200 years ago, which will take place at Hampton Roads in 1907.

It costs New York five times as much as it does London to maintain parks and recreation grounds.

SEPTIC TANK IS TO BE PUT IN USE SOON

Plans of New York Engineers Accepted and the Work Will Be Pushed as Rapidly as Possible

Yesterday afternoon Williams & Whitman, sanitary engineers of New York city, were notified that their plans for the contemplated septic tank sewerage system to be put in by the packing plants had been accepted. Plans and specifications were submitted by a number of the best known sanitary engineers in the country and after consideration here it was decided to take the plan of the New York engineers as stated above.

The grading work will begin Monday next and as soon as the necessary work has been done by the local force of men here the matter will be placed in the hands of the engineers for completion. The method as used by the packing houses since beginning their operations here has been unsatisfactory and has been the source of much trouble to the plants.

The septic tank method was introduced in practically its present complete form by Mr. Cameron, city surveyor of Exeter, England, about 1845. It consists of a grit chamber to catch gravel, sticks or rags or any other hard substances that are not classed as sewerage. From this chamber the sewerage passes to the septic tank. The tank is cemented water tight and banked below the ground to keep it from changes in the temperature, the top being covered with earth to exclude light. The entrance is from three to five feet below the surface of the sewerage of the tank in order that the bacteria which are not to disturb the entry may be quiet, so as not to disturb the bacterial layers, also that air may not be carried in nor any gases escape back to the sewer. A leather sum forms from two to three inches thick over the top of the sewerage in this tank, rendering the whole anaerobic. Below this in the zone of fermentation in which the sewerage is mainly clear and at the bottom is collected a thick layer of dark peaty matter of a small amount that during a period of a year's working it does not require to be removed. This insoluble organic matter is gradually broken up, the bacteria and the inorganic substances are kept in suspension by the gases and pass off in the flow. From the chamber the sewerage passes to the contact beds after being created or oxidized by passing in a very fine film over a weir. These contact beds are filled with coke of such size as not to pack or choke and so arranged with alternating syphons for filling and time syphons for emptying that each one is kept full for a period of about three or four hours. This acts in a double capacity, a species of bacteria work in the coke interstices, still further tearing apart and destroying the offensive sewerage and then there is aerobic action, which fixes and stops fermentation so the affluent is offensive to the taste or smell. To use the outlet of the discharge it is passed through a filter bed of coarse gravel before discharged into the creek or channel which is to finally serve as an outlet.

The outlet of this septic tank system will be approximately at the same place as the Marso creek as the present sewer empties but will do away with the obnoxious odors and poisonous influences which follow the flow from the ordinary system now in operation. This system will be wholly for the use of the packing houses at present as the stock yards company will continue the operation of their own system, which has in every way proven a success. People living along Marine creek and the river will be troubled very little as the output from the septic tank method will be on the nature of clear water with practically very little substance of a disagreeable odor or effect.

When completed the new system will cost between $25,000 and $50,000.

ENDEAVOR SOCIETY GIVE ENTERTAINMENT

The Intermediate Endeavor Society of the Christian Tabernacle gave an interesting entertaining at the church last night.

Beside an entertaining program, refreshments were served and every one had a pleasant evening.

One very unique feature was the appearance of four girls, members of the press committee, dressed in costumes made entirely of paper. Miss Calhoun was made entirely of paper, Miss Sharp in "The Telegram," Miss Teller in the "Record" and Miss Baughman in the "Christian Courier."

The program was as follows: Piano selection, Miss Ward; "Roast Turkey," a recitation, Wright Gains; address, Rev. Myers; piano selection, Nina Moody; "Jack Hornes's Pic," Harry Thomas; "Scotch Marmalade," a recitation, Ruth Ward; piano selection, Elizabeth Ward; vocal solo, Miss Nona Leach.

SCORSICANA WINS FROM FORT WORTH

Leads All the Way Through and Noses Out a Victory by the Score of 6 to 5—Winners Hit at the Right Time

CORSICANA, Texas, April 29.—Despite their first victory the Fort Worth Panthers did not fare so well here yesterday. The game resulted in a score of 6 to 5 in favor of Corsicana.

In the third inning Corsicana by good hitting, took the lead, but throughout the game Ward's men kept close behind them, which made the struggle snappy and interesting.

In the fifth McMurray got the first run for Fort Worth. For Corsicana Longley did the star work, getting four hits in four times up and bringing in three runs. The score:

OPENING GAME HERE TOMORROW

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock the Fort Worth Panthers will cross bats with the Paris team in the first home game of the season.

Before the game there will be a street parade, in which the managers and players of both teams and the president of the league will take part.

The Paris team will head the procession, seated upon the back of Queen Lil, the carnival elephant. An automobile will be next, in which President Aubey and Managers Ward and Miller will view the crowd. Behind them, in carriages, will come the Panthers, smiling pleasantly, but inwardly cherishing hopes of "smashing" Paris.

At the ball grounds, before the game, Mayor Powell will make an address on baseball, and on the future of the Fort Worth team.

The line-up for tomorrow will be as follows:

Fort Worth—Sullivan, left field; Retz, short stop; McMurray, catcher; Polndexter, right field; Wills, first base; Haidt, second base; Dunn, center field; Tullar, third base; Christman, pitcher.

Paris—Deskin, right field; McCollum, third base; Butler, center field; O'Connor, first base; Gaffield, left field; Quilisser, catcher; Dugan, second base; Zuke, pitcher; and Anderson, short stop.

FORT WORTH BOWLERS WIN

In a match game played at the Crescent bowling alleys last night the Fort Worth

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited. Few are entirely free from it. Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Eradicate it, positively and absolutely. This statement is based on the thousands of permanent cures these medicines have wrought.

"My daughter had scrofula, with eleven sores on her neck and about her ears. Hood's Sarsaparilla was highly recommended and she took it and was cured. She is now in good health." Mas. J. H. Jones, Parker City, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

team from Dallas by fifty-two pins. Charles Brown was high man for Fort Worth, with 196. A good crowd witnessed the game, which was interesting from the time the first ball was rolled until the fall of the last pin.

STATE SPORTSMEN'S TOURNAMENT
 Fort Worth will be well represented at the Texas State Sportsmen's Tournament to be held at Houston, May 2 to 6, inclusive. The Houston and Texas Central Railroads Company has authorized a round trip rate for Fort Worth of $10.95. These tickets will be on sale May 1, and for the morning train, May 2. The return limit is May 7.

The Central has also put on a reduced round trip rate for the opening of the league baseball season, which takes place at Fort Worth, May 1. The rate from Waxahachie to Fort Worth and return will be $1, Midlothian, 75 cents; Britton, 50 cents; Mansfield, 50 cents; and Kennedale, 50 cents. The train will reach Fort Worth at 8:15 in the morning, and returning will leave this city at 7:45 p. m.

FREIGHT FOR ST. LOUIS

The high water in St. Louis have impeded the shipment of cattle consignments to that city, and most of the railroads are now refusing to accept such freight.

A telegram received here today from a freight agent at St. Louis is to the effect that that road is in position to take all classes of freight shipments sent from Texas.

RETURN PASSES

The action of the railroads some time ago to the effect that no return passes would be permitted to shippers of live stock to market has been abrogated. This agreement has been frequently taken. This action has been brought about by the threat of the Iowa railway commission to issue an order reducing the rates on cattle shipments through that state.

Rather than suffer a loss of revenue through reduced rates the railroads will resume the issue of return passes to shippers of live stock. This action will no doubt put a much different phase on the position taken by the cattlemen over the abolition of return passes. The abolition of return passes had done much to prompt cattlemen to fight the railroads. Now that this order of the railroads has been abolished it is likely peace will be restored among the roads and the stockmen to a certain extent.

WIFE GETS DIVORCE FROM "BOB" TAYLOR

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 29.—Mrs. R. L. Taylor was granted a divorce from ex-Governor Robert L. Taylor in the chancery court today, after the depositions of a few witnesses had been read. The question of alimony was referred to the clerk and master for settlement.

Mrs. Taylor has served three terms as governor of Tennessee. Mrs. Taylor was Mrs. Alice Fitz Hill of Tuscaloosa, Ala., before her marriage to the ex-governor. A spot on Taylor's back had done much for former marriages, and this, it is alleged, caused the unhappiness.

STANDS OUT

The famous food Grape-Nuts is different from any other food in the world (see Canadian government analysis; sent on request) and the following case is an illustration.

"My husband was for years subject to dyspepsia. The distress almost unbearable, commencing at his throat and ending at the pit of his stomach. His retchings in the night would disturb the whole family and end in his throwing up a watery substance, accompanied by a feeling of great weight and burning.

"He gave up one kind of food after another until it seemed he must starve, vainly thinking each was the cause of his suffering. He was frequently taken with vertigo on the street, or wherever he happened to be, with all its distressing symptoms. He also had terrible headaches which would stiffen the muscles of his face until in 1896 he got so bad he could hardly articulate and could not remember the children's names at these times.

"By the advice of our family physician he gave up his business and for six years was cared for by his children. I had often urged him to try Grape-Nuts food but as he could not eat oatmeal or any of the cereal foods he had tried he had no faith in any, not knowing Grape-Nuts was different from all the others.

"One day he was suffering so and had seen nothing he could eat I asked him again to have some Grape-Nuts and he said, 'Give me anything you please.'

"So he ate a dish of the food and it agreed with him so well that he took it regularly each day, morning and night, for he began to get well and now he has used the food over a year and a half and would you believe it, actually lost weight at the store or shop ten hours a day and eats most all kinds of food. The brain trouble seems to have nearly left him, the headaches come only at longer intervals and then only after overwork.

"Although he is 68 years old he is now firmer than before and his complexion which was ashen and gray is fresh and the blood shows a rosy color through the skin. I look at him in amazement." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

People often look at the good effects of Grape-Nuts food in amazement but "there's a reason."

JURY FINDS JOE WOLF NOT GUILTY

It Took Them But a Short Time to Determine That He Was Innocent of Death of Hendrix Long

The Joe Wolf jury was out only a short time when it returned a verdict of not guilty. The finding of the jury was hardly a surprise, as it has been anticipated all along that the defendant would not be found guilty as charged by indictment. As stated previously, the testimony was purely circumstantial and not convincing at that. The state failed in its effort to connect Wolf in any way with the commission of the crime of murdering Hendrix Long. The defendant has never felt uneasy as to the results of his trial. His devoted sister has remained by the side of her brother throughout the trial of the case and took great interest in the outcome of the trial.

Wolf will now be tried for the murder of James Wilson. This case will probably come up in the near future, possibly during the present term of court.

On the 10th of May Henry Crews, who was indicted jointly with Wolf for the killing of Long, will be placed on trial, according to Crews' attorneys, who stated today that the defense was ready for trial.

Nun Daggett, a negro, was placed on trial yesterday afternoon on a charge of assault to murder H. Gates, in April, 1901. In the absence of counsel, Daggett conducted his own defense. The jury found him guilty and assessed his punishment at two years in state's prison.

Julius Robertson, charged with murder, and who has been in the county jail ten months, was yesterday granted bail on habeas corpus hearing in the sum of $1,200. He is charged with having killed Clate Perry in 1902. The case was continued by agreement. Both parties are colored.

WHOLESALESTERS TO ASK FOR RISK STREET

It is claimed that on account of the shortage of trackage the wholesale business of Fort Worth is materially hampered. During the past few weeks several gentlemen have investigated this city with a view of locating wholesale houses, but because of the fact that desirable trackage facilities are lacking, they were compelled to abandon their plans.

It is suggested that Throckmorton street would also furnish a desirable location for wholesale houses. Calhoun street would be acceptable for wholesale business.

It is suggested that the city council of Fort Worth take up the matter and grant Texas and Pacific to extend its line up Rusk street. This company now has a short track up this street, and by extending it to Ninth street it would afford the wholesale trade sufficient trackage for any sort of business that might be desired.

The suggestion is made that wholesale firms object to being compelled to pay drayage both ways because of the lack of proper trackage.

It is stated that Rusk street will never be anything but a business street, and for this reason it is suggested that the street should be used exclusively for wholesale business.

This matter is to be investigated soon by parties who are interesting themselves in building up the wholesale interests of Fort Worth.

They Want Railroads to Extend Tracks So They Can Have Business Houses With Switching Facilities

There is an agitation among business men in Fort Worth to the end that Rusk street, or a certain portion of it, shall be the interests of the wholesale trade of this city, and with this end in view, an effort is being made to have the railroads extend their tracks up Rusk street as far as Ninth street. At the present time these tracks extend only to Fifteenth street.

KINDERGARTNERS ARE IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 29.—The second annual meeting of the Texas Kindergarten Association began here this morning. Many women are present from the cities throughout the state.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, Mrs. A. J. Roe, Fort Worth; vice presidents, Mrs. F. S. Downs of Temple, Mrs. M. H. Wilson of Dallas, and Miss L. Winn of Dallas; corresponding secretary, Miss Myra M. Winchener, Fort Worth; recording secretary, Mrs. Gordan A. Taft, Houston; treasurer, Miss Jessie Davis, Temple.

The program today included addresses of welcome from various institutions of Dallas, and a response by Mrs. H. H. Cobb, president of the Fort Worth association. Business affairs, including reports of the officers, took up the forenoon and following a meeting of the executive board at 1 p. m., an informal reception is to be given at 4 o'clock at the Neighborhood house.

The program for tonight includes an address by Mrs. A. J. Roe of Fort Worth.

BUILDERS AND BUSINESS ISSUE

The city and county edition of The Telegram, to be issued at an early date, will be complete in every way. The moving into its new newspaper home is the particular occasion for the issue of this special edition, and efforts will be directed to the point of getting out a number creditable alike to the publishers and to Fort Worth. A copy of the paper will be put into the home of every taxpayer in Tarrant county, while many thousand extra copies will reach the farms and ranches of Texas cattlemen. An edition of at least 20,000 copies will be issued, and to advertisers the opportunity will be one that will be readily grasped. Phone 177 and an advertising man will call.

PRINTER TELLS OF MILITARY IN COLORADO

Edition of a Newspaper Is Confiscated by the Officers and Although It Was Ready for Mailing, Was Suppressed

F. G. Kartzke, one of the printers on the El Lavatore Italiano, the publication of which was suppressed by the militia at Trinidad, Col., reached this city this morning and in conversation with a representative of The Telegram, gave a graphic description of the attempt to muzzle the press in that section.

In some way, he says, Major Hill, who was in command of the troops in that section, learned that the paper in its regular weekly issue was about to commit some majesty in the manner of certain comments upon the actions of his superior and of the troops who had just arrived and placed the county under martial law.

The issue was to have been circulated upon Saturday, and the day preceding, the editor, Paggianni, was arrested and placed in the bull pen, together with one of the union leaders named Bartolo, and these men, together with Mother Jones, were later deported to La Junta.

Paggianni's arrest was not allowed to interfere with the issuing of the paper, and it was accordingly prepared by the remainder of the force and was all ready for mailing upon Saturday afternoon when a detail of militia surrounded the printing office, placed all the men under arrest, confiscated all papers and books in the office and seizing the entire edition placed the papers in a wagon and carried them off.

Later in the afternoon Kartzke and his companions were released by order of Major Hill. Then the men got together, and going to Florence, just outside the county placed under the drum head rule, resumed its publication.

All efforts made after the suppression to learn what disposition had been made of the papers proved unsuccessful, and with the settling of conditions in that section steps will be taken by the proprietor and editor against the militia officers responsible for its confiscation. A large part of the edition was intended for circulation outside the district placed under martial law, and these outside papers, it is said, were addressed and placed in the mailing sacks. Persons to whom these papers were addressed, it is claimed, did not receive them. Why they did not will be demanded by the publishers.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

New York capitalists are figuring on the establishment of a new steamship company to operate between Mexico, the Philippines and China, and representatives of the company are now in Mexico investigating matters in connection with the proposed enterprise.

The company behind the project, it is said, will be capitalized at $5,000,000. It is understood that the company will acquire, if possible, a line of coast steamers in order to insure control of practically all of the west coast business.

The line necessarily will be operated in competition with the steamers of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company, and will be placed in service between Port Stillwell (Topolobampo) and Hong Kong upon the completion of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad.

It is reported that the new company will attempt to get its boats in service before those of the Hamburg-American company commences operation, so as to get the inside track of the business which originates in Mexico.

WILL USE COLUMBIA TAP

The extension of the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railroad from Bobstown to Houston will probably enter Houston over the tracks of the Columbia Tap, according to the latest report from south Texas. This announcement has been made in connection with the building of the Rice Belt railroad to Houston, and since the Rice Belt line has been absorbed by the Brownsville road, it is said the same will be true of the latter line.

The report is confirmed by the recent movements of B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the Frisco board, and the predominant spirit in the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railroad.

PRODUCTION ALONG I. AND G. N.

The International and Great Northern Railroad Company has just completed an important canvass of land under cultivation along that road, and discovers that the results are very flattering. The work was done by the industrial department of the company which has just made its report. It shows that there are 1,316 acres in watermelons, 1,509 in cantaloupes, eighty-four in cucumbers, 1,193 in strawberries, 1,823 in tomatoes, 6,124 in potatoes, 701 in onions, 1,817 in other vegetables, 14,974 in peaches and 1,339 in other fruit.

SCALPERS WILL FIGHT

The Chicago ticket scalpers propose giving the railroads a little of their own medicine and are preparing to make a bitter fight against the industry which is to be brought by the railroads to prevent the brokers from scalping the low-rate tickets sold by railroads from northern and eastern points to the World's Fair at St. Louis.

The line of defense to be adopted by the brokers will be that the railroad companies have no remedy in a court of equity, but their remedy should be in damage suits against the scalpers. Discussing the matter, an attorney for the scalpers says he knows that eastern railroads have already issued tickets to St. Louis with stop over privileges at Chicago, and that literature to this effect is ready for distribution in the east. They claim that the same action is being taken by the roads from northern and southern points.

SANTA FE'S COAST LINE

A dispatch from Galveston to the Globe Democrat says that the Santa Fe has made arrangements to connect its main line with its recently acquired Cane Belt road by a direct route from Bay City to Alvin, which will mean the construction of sixty miles of track along the coast, a country not covered by an east and west line.

The Matagorda oil field, in which the Santa Fe is largely interested as a land owner, will be given a direct outlet to Galveston and Houston, which will reduce the route from 165 miles to sixty-five miles, and open up a new territory in a rich-producing rice, cotton and oil region of southwest Texas.

It is reported that further extension is contemplated west of Bay City, which will give the Santa Fe access to that portion of the southwestern coast of Texas, through which the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico is now building from Brownsville to Houston and Galveston.

It is well known that Cabalado, head of the Santa Fe, has been making investigations in and around the Matagorda oil fields for some time, and it is believed that his investigations have been in connection to these Santa Fe extensions.

BIG HOTEL IN THE WOODS

Tavern inside the World's Fair Grounds, Surrounded by a Forest, Offers a Luxurious and Restful Retreat

COMFORT AT THE WORLD'S FAIR
The comfort for the visitor to the exposition was never the subject for so much intelligent thought and preparation as it has been in the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis.

One of the features that can not fail to appeal to the visitor is the convenience and comfort afforded by the Inside Inn, a structure of 225 rooms, covering an area of 400 by 200 feet, wholly within the World's Fair grounds.

Probably no hotel ever built commands a view so diversified or grand. From the wide verandas that surround the mammoth structure a wonderful panorama spreads before one. Many of the state buildings, with their giant and magnificent structures, present their most attractive facades. Some of the foreign buildings may be seen, and the forest of towers and turrets, domes and minarets, rising above the great exhibit palaces and seen through the forests of tall trees that surround the hostelry, give token of the other glories that lie beyond.

A leisurely walk of five minutes will land the visitor on the main terrace in front of Festival Hall, the center of the "main picture" of the Exposition, the grandest spectacle ever produced by man.

Another five minutes' walk and the visitor may find himself on "The Pike," a most amusing, a full mile long, with the shows of all nations in gay and enticing array.

In the ten minutes' walk many of the main exhibit palaces have been passed. These comprise the largest and grandest collection of architectural triumphs ever assembled in any one place. Notwithstanding its close proximity to these scenes of gaiety and splendor, noise and confusion, the Inside Inn offers a delightful retreat. During the noon hour the visitor may retire for a brief rest and resume his delightful task of sight-seeing refreshed and all the more able to appreciate and enjoy the World's Fair wonders.

The rates at this hotel within the grounds are no higher than those charged elsewhere. A good room may be had for $1.50 per day, including admission to the grounds. Other rooms may be had up to $5 per day, according to the luxuries demanded. There is a restaurant in the building with a seating capacity of 2,500 persons.

RUNS BEHIND SEVENTY MILLIONS FOR YEAR

WASHINGTON, April 29.—According to the figures given out by Chairman Hemmaway of the appropriations committee, the regular and permanent annual appropriations for the fiscal year ending in June, 1905, made by the present session of congress is $781,574,629; the total estimated revenues for the fiscal year 1905 is $704,472,060. Chairman Hemmaway finds a bit of consolation in his statement that after all the government leaves unexpended at least 5 per cent of each year's appropriation. Allowing this to be true and deducting it from the grand total, the treasury would still face a deficit of over $38,000,000.

BIG CROWDS AT CARNIVAL ARE PLEASED

Weather Has Been Good and All Enjoy the Affair—Queen Lil Is a Feature of the Big Show

The crowds at the carnival have been increasing every night. There is more and more a generous patronage shown the various shows on the circus front, and the Gaskill Zoo and the Stadium are attracting larger crowds every night. The character of the exhibitions is such that ladies and children are especially entertained by them, and the Woodmen have been complimented all the way through for the merit of the carnival.

There has been good weather all the week, and this has helped the Carnival along. Manager Gaskill says that Fort Worth has turned out larger crowds than any town in which he has shown. Excellent order has prevailed throughout the week, and the pushing, crowding mass of humanity has been one great crowd of merry-makers. Confetti throwing awakens all the playfulness in nature, and it is a jolly "bunch" until a late hour every evening.

The leap into the tank of water and the loop-the-loop attractions are features of the Stadium, which continue to draw crowds. These performances have been had at 3:30 o'clock and 9:30 o'clock p. m. daily, but Saturday afternoon, because of the baseball opening, the Stadium will be opened for a performance at 2 p. m. This is to give all who desire a chance to see the performance and attend the ball game.

"Elephant Lil," the big quadruped of the Gaskill-Carnival attractions, which furnishes the attractions for the Woodman's Carnival, is conceded to be the best elephant in America. She is kind, obedient and perfectly harmless, and is a delight for ladies and children.

"Lil's" chief work is to give the ladies and children and carnival visitors in general a ride up and down the Esplanade, and there isn't a moment during the evening but what "Lil" is doing her share of the business, as you will always see from five to ten persons enjoying her promenade. "Queen Lil" seems to enjoy the promenade as much as any one else, for, according to her keeper, Crispo, the patronage of fine people in royal regalia recalls to her reminiscent mind the manner of her earlier life in the spice-laden zones of far-off East India land. "Queen Lil" is none of your ordinary elephants, if her keeper, Crispo's, narrative of her pedigree is to be regarded, for many years ago, when Rajah Dagonomy of Lagusa villa, near the city of Bombay, considered her his favorite beast, the carrying of aristocracy was a daily event in "Queen Lil's" existence. But the rajah fell ill one day, according to Crispo, and when later he died the settlement of his noble estate found "Lil" the property of an English officer. "Queen Lil" spent several years in Berlin, Germany, and quite a few in London; six years ago she was purchased by Mr. Gaskill and has had a real home with the carnival company ever since. "Queen Lil's" age is recorded at over 50 years at the present time. She is cared for much after the fashion of a thoroughbred race horse, and delicacies of the season are ever included in her elephantine menu, so long as Crispo is able to procure them.

In speaking of elephants the other evening, Harry Hardy, representative of the Gaskill Carnival Company and manager of Gaskill Carnival Company, said: "Yes, elephants cost a lot of money. 'Lil' cost $16,000, and not later than two weeks ago Mr. Gaskill was offered $19,000 for her, so you can readily see how one can tie up money in a zoo, but from the standpoint of the management she is the cheapest thing in the whole carnival outfit. She works every day, rarely gets sick, and never kicks or draws any salary. She is content to give her services for transportation, board and a chance to see the country. The latter she seems to enjoy as much as any of the people with the show."

TO RECONCILE TAMMANY TO JUDGE PARKER

NEW YORK, April 29.—Strong efforts are being made by the friends of Judge Alton B. Parker to bring about a reconciliation between Tammany Hall and David H. Hill at the meeting of the democratic state committee in Albany Saturday, so that the campaign for Judge Parker, which is to be begun immediately may be free from the bitterness of factional strife.

It was said on good authority today that Tammany is quite anxious for a reconciliation provided that it can be brought about without humiliation. Charles F. Murphy has admitted that Mr. Hill is in control of the state again, and all that keeps him and Hill at arm's length is said to be the unwillingness of either side to make the first advance.

This situation has been taken by the men who induced Mr. Hill to allow Tammany to name a delegate and an alternate at large in the democratic state convention after he had positively refused to do so. They believe that Tammany ought to be consulted in the campaign, and they will use every endeavor to bring about a better feeling.

KESSLING OF BRENHAM LOCATED IN MEXICO

BRENHAM, Texas, April 29.—The Brenham man who has been missing for ten days, being last heard of at St. Louis, has been located in Mexico. Postmaster W. E. Dwyer has received a letter postmarked Sabinas, Mexico, which when opened contained a letter addressed to Mrs. Adolph Kessling about her husband, who mysteriously disappeared from St. Louis on April 13 and whose absence has caused so much speculation here, officers having been sent to St. Louis to look for him.

The letter is written by Jose Wedelich at Estacion De Sabinas, Coahuila, Mex., April 25. In it he recites having met Mr. Kessling, who finally admitted his identity and said he was hunting land.

Wedelich says he should be looked after, "as he is bothered or not right." Mr. Kessling, he said, left for Eagle Pass, where Finn Bryan went to get him.

There was a meeting of the creditors this afternoon for the purpose of agreeing just what steps should be taken to protect his creditors during his absence and in the event of failure to find him.

It was thought best to appoint a receiver to manage the business for the

ROADS BACK DOWN ON PASS QUESTION

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 29.—The pass agreement adopted by western roads a few months ago, by which all lines carrying cattle shipments agreed to discontinue the practice of granting shippers of stock return passes, has been abrogated.

The Iowa railroad commission threatened to issue an order reducing the rates on cattle through Iowa. Rather than suffer a loss of revenue through reduced rates the railroads will resume the issue of return passes.

Owing largely to sanitary considerations the Pullman Company has adopted a new standard sleeper which little resembles the ornate cars built a few years ago. The new standard is severely plain and is devoid of all scroll and grill work.

Nervous Women

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, the Blues, Sleeplessness and Nervous Irritability arises from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of Depression or Restlessness and Irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the ovaries and between the shoulders. Loss of voice, nervous dyspepsia. A tendency to cry at the least provocation. All this points to Nervous Prostration. Although you may not know it, in nine cases out of ten this is caused by some uterine disorder, and the nerves centering in and about the organs which make you a woman influence your entire system. Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can as easily be cured as the two women whose genuine letters follow, and thousands of others.

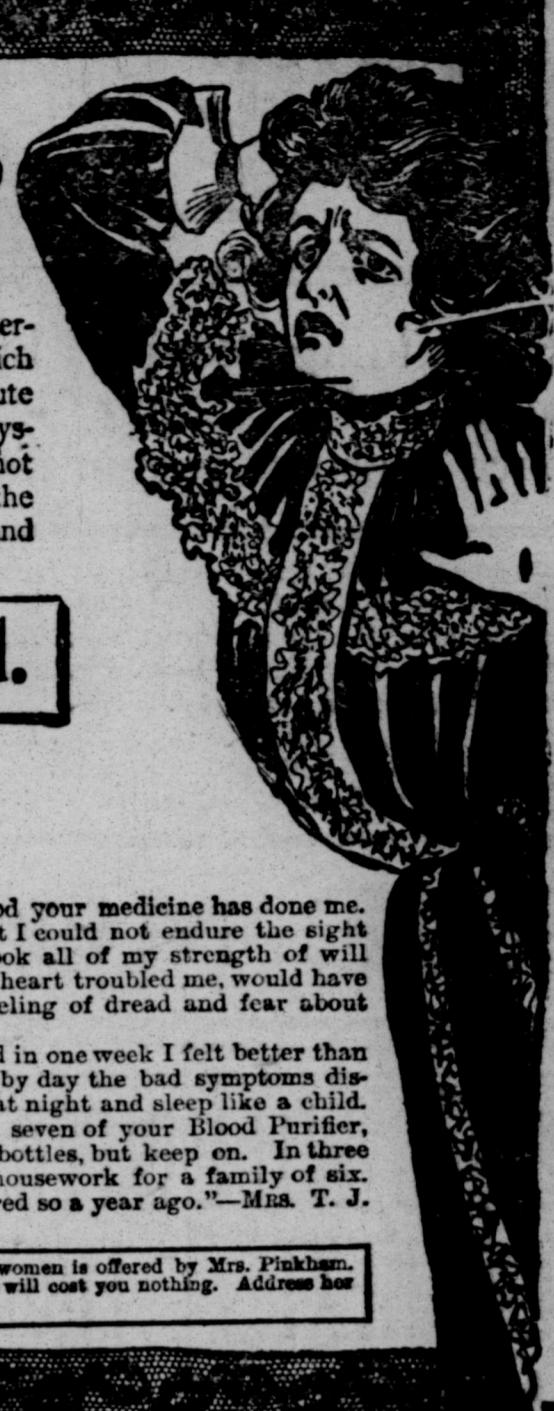

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Words cannot tell what I suffered before taking your medicine. I am 28 years old and the mother of four children, the last two being only 16 months apart. I was all run down, had fainting spells, palpitation of the heart, and was so bad with womb trouble that I could not be on my feet but a short time before I would have to lie down. Also was troubled with leucorrhoea. I was nervous and could not sleep, and at times wished I could die. A friend insisted on my giving your medicine a fair trial, which I did. I began to feel better before the first bottle was half gone, and after using five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three packages of Sanative Wash, I was a different woman. I owe my good health to-day to you, and I will never suffer again while you make such good medicine. I will always speak a good word for your remedies. My little girl was troubled with her kidneys, and one bottle of your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured her."—MRS. KITTIE B. PETERSON, Jenison, Mich.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I want to thank you for the good your medicine has done me. When I wrote you last July I was so weak and nervous that I could not endure the sight of work. I was in a terrible condition, so nervous that it took all of my strength of will to keep from convulsions. The doctors did me no good. My heart troubled me, would have spells of skipping beats and would flutter. I had such a feeling of dread and fear about me all the time I was afraid to go anywhere.

"I commenced taking your remedies as you advised me, and in one week I felt better than I had in a whole year before, and the gain was steady. Day by day the bad symptoms disappeared. My appetite returned and I was able to go to bed at night and sleep like a child. In all I took nine bottles of your Vegetable Compound and seven of your Blood Purifier, and would say to all suffering women, do not stop at a few bottles, but keep on. In three months I was able to return home, and have since done the housework for a family of six. It does not seem possible that I am the same person that suffered so a year ago."—MRS. T. J. ### TRUSTS WILL LAST SAYS J. P. MORGAN

Though He Thinks Economics May Develop Something Else in Time

PARIS, April 29.—J. Pierpont Morgan has engaged the entire second floor of the Bristol hotel overlooking the Place Vendome. He has been much pestered by calls from promoters.

"So a trust of that sort doesn't interest you?" was the parting shot of a theatrical director whom I heard as I was ushered into the magnate's presence. Mr. Morgan said to me:

"France will pay for the war in the Far East. Russia will ask for a loan. She will get it here and nowhere else. England will not loan money to Russia, neither will Germany. This talk about the czar's vast wealth is rot. There is plenty of money in France. Everybody has some. The American spends more money than any man in the world; the Frenchman saves more. America will lend either to Japan or Russia. She can use her money to better advantage than by lending it to either country. America is prosperous and always will be comparatively so, despite fate and demagogues. I expect the war to last for six months. The peace proposals will be made by France and England, which Russia will accept.

"How can you stop war? Men will fight. It is their nature. Perhaps after generations of cultivation of the spirit of peace, something can be done to stop war.

"Yes, trusts will last through our time. They are the modern form of political economy as assumed. In time economics will develop something new. I am not here in behalf of the International Steel trust or any other business. I am here merely for health and a holiday. I have come to consult a specialist. I am going to Aix-les-Bains next week.

"I am not buying pictures now. It is a modern craze to call all other pictures spurious. Some are, but many are not. The connoisseur can no more be deceived in an old picture than a judge of horses can be deceived in buying horseflesh."

Mr. Morgan does not look robust. He appears worried and ill. His daughter is with him. An amusing fact of his visit is that owing to recent telegrams from New York describing a slump in certain companies in which Mr. Morgan is interested, some of the Paris shopkeepers think his credit is impaired and many send his purchases C. O. D. to the hotel. One flower dealer refused to leave a bouquet of lilies until it was paid for, which must have amused Mr. Morgan. The financier is besieged by promoters and callers desirous of selling him objects of art.

Meeting at Dallas Yesterday a Quiet Affair and Representative of the Best Citizens of Texas—Resolutions Adopted

DALLAS, Texas, April 29.—The meeting in this city yesterday in the interest of the candidacy of Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, was probably one of the most representative political meetings ever held in this state. It was a quiet, conservative meeting of representative gentlemen, and the address which has been issued to the people is in such choice language that it will not fail to be effective.

Those attending the meeting were: Clarence Ousley, editor Fort Worth Record; R. M. Johnston, editor Houston Post; Dr. G. W. Lareford, Houston; S. M. Nixon, Luling; Judge M. A. Spoons, Fort Worth; L. M. Standifer, Houston; W. B. Wortham, Austin; John B. Reagan, Rusk; Judge Howard Templeton, Sulphur Springs; Babe Henderson, Sulphur Springs; A. P. Norman, representing Jefferson Club, Galveston; J. T. Lucy, member of state executive committee, Austin; State Senator C. L. Potter, Gainesville; John L. Wortham, financial agent state penitentiary; Clarence Stewart, member of legislature, Grapevine; W. J. Bule, editor Enterprise, Waxahatchie; B. C. Murray, Denison Gazette; R. S. Carver, Herald, Denison; Murrell Buckner, Dallas; M. T. Lively, Dallas; W. D. Williams, member legislature from Tarrant county; J. W. Blake, Dallas county; T. J. Groce, Galveston; J. M. Reiger, Dallas; James Hays Quarles, editor Telegram, Fort Worth; William Capps, chairman county executive committee, Fort Worth; Q. T. Moreland, member state executive committee, Fort Worth; W. H. McWilliams and A. R. McCollum, Waco.

The morning session was a brief one. A committee on program was appointed and adjournment for lunch followed. When the meeting reassembled in the afternoon, Clarence Ousley for the committee made this report of an address:

"Your committee on program and resolutions recommend the following as the sense of the Central Parker Club of Texas:

"To the Democrats of Texas: We conceive the supreme democratic duty of the hour to be party harmony upon the cardinal principles of Jeffersonian democracy. We stand firmly against any repudiation or disavowal of any party policy of the past, but we stand as firmly against the needless revival of factional differences on issues that are not pertinent to the operation of the government at this time.

"The peril we confront is the heedlessness and lawlessness of the present executive who has trampled upon precedent in our foreign relations, made law equality which imperil the social peace of the south and the ultimate welfare of the unfortunate race which, until his elevation to office, had become reconciled to the necessary and logical relation which established for a third of a century has preserved the negro and sustain Anglo-Saxon civilization.

"We believe with Hon. John H. Reagan, the democratic statesman and patriot of half a century of wisdom, in his letter to Hon. William J. Bryan:

"I believe as earnestly as you do in the great body of the doctrines you have been advocating, but I am not so afraid of the limited number of democrats who disapprove these policies as to be afraid to send a convention with them. Surely 6,000,000 democrats need not be afraid of 300,000. While 300,000 may not be able to elect a president, they with the influences they can command, can surely defeat the election of any one on a platform antagonizing their views.

"With me it is not a question of whether we can defeat any faction of the democratic party, but whether we shall by uniting all democrats secure an election which will restore the constitution, good government, and the best interests of the people of this great republic."

"In brief, we believe that Rooseveltism is the paramount issue of this campaign, and that it is necessary to unite all democrats upon that issue. We believe that New York is necessary to success. We accept and heartily approve the choice of New York democracy as the most available man for the presidential nomination and pledge our best efforts to his cause, and invite all democrats to join us in sending an instructed delegation to St. Louis pledged to the eminent jurist, lofty citizen and stalwart democrat, Alton Brooks Parker, whose loyalty and party regularity are thoroughly established."

Signed: Clarence Ousley, C. L. Potter, J. W. Blake, I. M. Standifer, S. M. Nixon, Wm. Capps, L. J. Mercer, W. B. Wortham, R. M. Johnston, Howard Templeton, committee.

in the Pasteur Institute, and to make an inspection of that institution with a view of establishing one in connection with the lunatic asylum at Austin of which he is the superintendent, said yesterday that the plan of the building had been about completed and that the contract for its construction would perhaps be let next week.

The last legislature passed a bill making an appropriation of $5,000 for the establishment of the kind in Texas but owing to the embarrassed condition of the general revenue fund from which the appropriation was to be paid, the governor did not see proper to release the amount until now.

When the contract has been let operations will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

Dr. Worsham remarked yesterday that the Pasteur Institute people in Chicago treated a large number of people from Texas for hydrophobia every year and expressed regret that the state was to have one as they would, of course, lose this business.

Dr. Worsham became a student of the treatment, saw several rabbits inoculated with the virus, witnessed the treatment of several patients and is now thoroughly prepared to conduct the institute successfully. In fact, he is so conversant with the whole system that he discusses it as learnedly, even to the minutest detail as if he had made it a special study all his life.

He thinks Mr. Morgan's treatment was entirely successful.

SENSATIONS IN A SUBMARINE BOAT

LONDON, April 29.—A seaman who took part in a trial of No. 2 submarine in Stokes Bay gave a thrilling account of his experiences.

"The sensation when the boat was diving," he said, "is a very singular one. You can distinctly feel the increased pressure caused by submersion.

"There is plenty of light, and through the glass scuttles in the conning tower a sort of greenish haze slants in at a depth of two fathoms. You can tell by peering through one of these portholes whether the sky is cloudy or whether the sun is shining on the surface.

"The first under-water sensation is one of numbness, brought about by the feeling of utter helplessness which comes to a man in that cramped interior.

"There is no perceptible motion of the boat, even when she is running at her full submerged speed of seven knots. The sense of silence is profound.

"Singing in the ears was my chief trouble, and there was also a terrible sensation of nausea. All the men who go down in the submarines speedily grow very pale. This is due, I think, to the foul vapors which are generated there."

CRIME IS RAMPANT SINCE HANGINGS

CHICAGO, April 29.—Two men were shot, five persons were slugged and seven robbed in a mad orgy of crime yesterday that has swept the city since the hanging of the street car bandits.

From every part of the city came reports of robberies and holdups and the police made arrests in several cases.

PARKER DEMOCRATS MEET IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 29.—The Parker democrats from all over the state are holding a conference in Dallas this afternoon. Judge Howard Templeton, of Sulphur Springs, was elected temporary chairman of the state Parker club. Meeting is in progress.

State board of embalmers is in session here today to examine applicants. There are about fifty to examine.

SUMMER IN THE EAST

It is estimated that there will be a larger travel to the eastern resorts this year than for several years. The New York Central Lines will offer a marvelous train service and anticipate that their facilities will be taxed to their utmost capacity.

SIMMONS WILL HANG NEXT MONDAY

AUSTIN, Texas, April 29.—Ten thousand eyes were turned toward the Travis county court house this morning, ten thousand ears were placed to the ground to hear every syllable of the proceedings of the trial of Henry Simmons for the outrage and murder of pretty Lula Sandberg near Manor on the 21st.

At 11 o'clock Simmons was brought into the court house to answer for his inexpressible wickedness. He is stalwart in form, but his step was unsteady, and he was ashen and frightened. A jury was empaneled in a few minutes, composed entirely of white men, and the prisoner was asked to plead.

With quivering lips and faltering voice he answered, "Guilty."

To establish the degree of his crime the court commenced taking testimony. He was identified as being in Manor on the day the atrocious murder and outrage were committed, with razors in his possession.

The jury in the murder case of Simmons returned a verdict of guilty in three minutes and assessed his punishment at death. Simmons, through his lawyer, Belvin Rector, then advised the court that he was inclined to waive his rights under the law of thirty days, provided he was given a few days in which to be baptized and make his peace with God. The court replied that under the law that if Simmons insisted on his rights he would have that time.

A minute later Simmons' lawyer announced that he had not made up his mind what he would do, whether he would waive any of his rights. The court then adjourned and ordered the prisoner back to jail.

In five minutes after being returned to his cell Simmons said to the jailer: "I murdered and outraged that girl and for my crime I ought to die and go to hell. I waive my rights under the law and want to be hung at once."

This was reported to the court, the prisoner returned to the court room and he was sentenced to be hung next Monday, May 2, between the hours of 11 o'clock and sundown.

PAPER MISSING FROM OFFICE OF CLERK

Court house employees in the district clerk's office are at a loss to understand how an important court document could mysteriously disappear and no one know nothing of its whereabouts. Shortly after the city election in North Fort Worth this month the city council met to canvass the votes, as the race for mayor was a tie. L. G. Pritchard, one of the candidates, swore out a writ of injunction against the council to restrain them from opening or otherwise interfering with the ballot boxes used in the election. Nothing was done at the meeting of the council regarding the mayoralty race, and at the hearing of the injunction case the following Friday Presiding Judge Moody of the election filed his answer, giving forth the facts of the casting of the ballots and stating the cause, etc., of the tie between the two candidates for the office of mayor. This answer was filed in the Seventeenth district court, and shortly afterwards was taken out by Messrs. Capps & Canty, attorneys for Mayor Farmer, who had the matter in their hands. They returned the document, but were not credited with its return at the time, and when it was called for a few days ago by another attorney it was found missing and so far no trace of it can be had.

THEY ARE DELICIOUS. GIVEN AWAY AT PITMAN'S.

IN THE COURTS

DISTRICT COURTS

A jury was empaneled in the Forty-eighth district court this morning for the trial of the case of the Fort Worth Light and Power Company vs. San Jacinto Oil Company et al. The suit has been brought to recover because of alleged failure on part of the defendants to fulfill a contract to supply the plaintiffs with a stipulated amount of oil.

The jurors for the week in the Forty-eighth district court not connected with the above case were dismissed for the balance of the week.

Gus Zimmerman, who was recently brought here on a charge of horse theft, was admitted to bond in the sum of $750, which he gave.

In the Seventeenth district court the assault to murder case of the state vs. Lovie Robinson, a negro, is on trial. The defendant is charged with carving one Time Beckham, who is now serving time on the county road for a similar offense upon Lovie Robinson.

On May 2, the Mildred Clifton murder case will be trial in the Seventeenth district court. The Andrew Crews murder case is set for hearing May 10, and G. H. Dashiell will be tried for assault to murder May 12.

TWO ARRESTS MADE

Albert Ables, colored, was arrested about noon, charged with burglary and theft. He is accused of entering the home of Brice Frazier and taking a diamond stud valued at $135, a ring and several other articles. Ables was taken before Justice of the Peace Terrell. He was held in the sum of $200 in the burglary case and $400 in the theft case.

Ed Blunt was arrested after a long, hard chase by the officers on the north side today. He was discovered in the stable of Professor W. M. Tremble in the act of carrying off a saddle which had been placed in a sack. Blunt was brought to Fort Worth and jailed.

CASES FILED

BOY VICTIM OF TARGET RIFLE

Kendall Farmer, the 13-year-old son of Joseph Farmer, living about eight miles from this city, died early this morning as the result of the accidental discharge of a target rifle several days ago.

The boy together with several companions from White Settlement, near his home, had been shooting at a mark when the gun was suddenly discharged, the bullet lodging in his body. Medical aid was given as soon as possible but before the physician could arrive the little fellow was very weak from loss of blood. He continued to sink gradually until his death at 7 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be held at the home of his parents.

AN INJUNCTION AGAINST THE MACHINISTS

New Mexico Judge Issues Order, Far-Reaching in Its Effects, Restraining Santa Fe Strikers From Interference

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 29.—Judge B. S. Banker of the district court issued an injunction upon request of the Santa Fe Railroad against the machinists, boiler-makers, their helpers, apprentices and metal workers now on strike, restraining them from in any manner interfering with the agents and employees of the company in the management, movement or operation of the company's engines, cars and all other machinery and appliances.

They are also enjoined from interfering with men who are taking the places of the strikers, and are restrained from entering upon the company's right of way and other grounds and property. The injunction is the most far-reaching ever issued by a court in this territory.

NORTH SIDE TO HOLD ELECTION TOMORROW

Tomorrow the election for mayor in North Fort Worth is to be held, and there is much activity among the friends of the opposing candidates. Jim Farmer, the present incumbent, and L. G. Pritchard,

At the regular city election there were 400 votes cast. It is not believed that so many will be cast tomorrow, as the interest is not as great when there is but one office being voted for. Some believe that but about 350 votes will be polled. The chief interest today in the affair is the question which has been brought up from a legal standpoint regarding the payment of poll taxes for some of the voters. The records of the office of the tax collector show that on January 7 and as late as January 27, L. G. Pritchard, as agent for citizens in Marine, paid numerous poll taxes. Mr. Pritchard is now a candidate for mayor, and the question has been raised, what effect the Terrell election law has on such a matter. Section 22 of the law says: "But in no event shall any candidate for office, nor any one who is actively espousing the cause of any candidate for mayor, be allowed to pay any poll tax for another."

Mr. Pritchard was asked about the matter today. He said to The Telegram: "I paid something over 100 poll taxes, but when I did so it was in January prior to the law taking effect. I received the money from a man in Fort Worth, who gave it to me from a fund which was raised for that purpose."

"Did you have written orders from the voters for you to represent them in paying the poll tax?" he was asked.

"I did, sir," he replied.

"How did you come to get it?" he was asked.

"I told them I thought I could get their poll taxes paid, and got orders for the collector to issue to me as agent," he replied.

"Were all these poll tax receipts delivered to the persons for whom they were issued?" he was asked.

"Not all of them. I have some of them in my office now, as the people have moved away. I gave them to the persons for whom they were issued as they called for them," he replied.

"When you gave these poll taxes, did you tell them why you were paying them, and who raised the money?" he was asked.

"I did not tell them anything about that," he replied.

"Were you then a candidate for office?" he was asked.

"I was not at that time," he replied.

Just what effect this will have on the election is not known, but some of the Farmer advocates are looking up the law today to decide whether these votes can be challenged or not at the polls.

Mayor Farmer will probably be absent from the polls tomorrow. His nephew, living eight miles west of town, died at 7 o'clock this morning, and he has gone to the home of his brother to attend the funeral. On this account there is a belief that he will not be able to attend the election day.

GRAND JURY AT WAXAHACHIE THROUGH

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, April 29.—The grand jury for the February term of the district court completed its labors and adjourned this afternoon. The final report of the jury as approved by the court shows 237 bills of indictment returned during the term, an increase of thirty-five over the last grand jury's report. Of the total number of bills returned eleven were for felony cases.

WEATHER FORECAST

Showers in many sections of the north, central and southern portions of the state occurred yesterday and in the vicinity of Beeville a good soaking rain occurred, the total rainfall being about two and one half inches. This morning rains are reported at the railroad offices as falling along the Rio Grande division as far west as Baird and a light drizzle being reported from that point westward to Big Springs. Light rains are also reported as falling this morning along the line of the joint track.

In addition to the good rain in the vicinity of Beeville light precipitation occurred yesterday at Brenham, Brownwood, Corpus Christi, Cuero, Dublin, Hearne, Lampasas, Luling, Taylor, Weatherford and Wharton.

Cloudy weather was reported from all the cotton bulletin stations this morning and rain is falling at Brenham and Dallas. Locally continued unsettled weather is predicted to follow the rain of this morning.

MAY CONDITIONS OF LAST EIGHT YEARS

The following data, covering a period of eight years, have been compiled from the weather bureau records at Fort Worth, Texas. They are issued to show the conditions that have prevailed during the month in question, for the above period of years, but must not be construed as a forecast of the weather conditions for the coming month:

TEMPERATURE
Mean or normal temperature, 73 degrees.

The warmest month was that of 1899, with an average of 73 degrees.

The coldest month was that of 1903, with an average of 70 degrees.

The highest temperature was 95 degrees, on May 10, 1901.

The lowest temperature was 34, on May 1, 1903.

The earliest date on which first "killing" frost occurred in autumn, October 23, 1900.

Average date on which first "killing" frost occurred in autumn, November 18.

Average date on which last "killing" frost occurred in spring, March 18.

The latest date on which last "killing" frost occurred in spring, May 1, 1903.

PRECIPITATION (RAIN OR SNOW)
Average for the month, 4.29 inches.

Average number of days with .01 of an inch or more, 10.

The greatest monthly precipitation was 6.58 inches in 1900.

The least monthly precipitation was 1.84 inches in 1903.

The greatest amount of precipitation recorded in any twenty-four consecutive hours was 2.96 inches on May 26, 1900.

CLOUDS AND WEATHER
Average number of clear days, 8; partly cloudy days, 19; cloudy days, 4.

WIND
The prevailing winds have been from the south.

The average hourly velocity of the wind is twelve miles.

The highest velocity of the wind was fifty-eight miles from the west on May 16, 1901.

Official in Charge.

CONDITIONS IN COTTON REGION

Showers have fallen over the north, central and southern portions of the Texas district; quite heavy local showers occurred in the southern portion; 2.28 inches at Beeville was the heaviest reported. The weather in the eastern states is partly cloudy and warmer.

FORECAST

The forecast for Texas east of the one hundredth meridian, issued at New Orleans, is as follows:

North—Tonight and Saturday, unsettled weather and probably showers; colder in west portion tonight; colder Saturday.

South—Tonight and Saturday, showers; colder in the west portion and on west coast.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

Forecaster George Reeder issued the following statement of weather conditions this morning:

A low pressure area is over the east slope of the Rocky mountains, extending southward over Texas; it is giving unsettled weather with rain over portions of the middle west and Texas. The showers in Texas, while not general, cover quite a large portion of the western and southern portion of the cotton district; light rains have also fallen over the northwest portion including the Panhandle district, though very light up to 8 o'clock this morning.

The weather is colder over the Rocky mountain plateau region, with light snow in Northern New Mexico. Clear and cool weather prevails in the trans-Mississippi section.

WEATHER RECORD

Following is the weather record for the last twenty-four hours—minimum and maximum temperature, wind in miles per hour at 8 a. m. and rain in inches:

DROUGHT IN THE VICINITY OF PECOS

Cattle From That Section Being Sent to Indian Territory. 125 Cars Pass Through Fort Worth This Morning

An extended drought in the vicinity of Pecos, Texas, is causing the wholesale shipment of cattle from that section to territory points and Kansas. One hundred and twenty-five cars of cattle from that section of the state passed through this city last night and this morning over the Texas and Pacific and further shipments are expected to follow as the grazing there is practically exhausted.

Men accompanying the shipments of cattle report that the drought is almost unprecedented, no appreciable rainfall having occurred since last September. Conditions they say are so bad at present that the shipment of the cattle is the only way to save them. Heavy shipments of cattle over the joint track are also reported this morning to Kansas City in readiness for the Monday market.

Fifteen cars passed through this city this morning booked to Kansas City from Del Rio; a train passed through with about twenty cars from Van Horn billed to the same destination; a train was made up in this city for St. Louis and a train of twenty-five cars passed through over the Santa Fe headed for territory points.

NORTH SIDE AND ROSEN HEIGHTS

Nash Furniture Company.

Tonight at the Marine school house a delightful and interesting musical program will be rendered by the young people of the North Side, assisted by Messrs. June Melton, Jack Knight, Walter Emmerson and J. M. Wallace of Fort Worth. Some of the elite of the North Side society will appear as Japanese girls, in the charming chorus, "My Japanese Cherry Blossom," while others of the dashing belles of the little city will give the "Pretty Maiden" chorus from "Florodora." Another number to be rendered will be the "Gypsy Chorus," by both girls and boys, the musical program ending with a night song by little girls with their dolls. Refreshments will be served.

TRACKS LAID TO MARINE

Sam Rosen has completed the track of the Rosen Heights street railway to Marine and a large force of men is now busy stringing the trolley wire, which will complete the construction work of the line from Rosen Heights to North Fort Worth. As soon as the trolley work is finished, which will be about the first of next week, Mr. Rosen will then put on two cars, which will run on regular schedule from the heights to Twelfth street, where passengers can transfer to the traction company's lines for the city.

This will serve as a great convenience to residents who live on Rosen Heights and have business either around the stock yards or in Marine.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

Mrs. S. O. Lindeman and daughter of Dallas and Mrs. J. B. Elliot of Sedalia, Mo., spent the first of the week with Mesdames J. F. Williams and E. P. Reynolds.

The daughter of Mr. Walter Carson has been sick, but is now better.

Myron Hayward leaves this week for Portland, Me.

Mrs. A. C. Chase and daughters, Edna and Estelle, spent Wednesday on the South Side.

Mrs. E. P. Reynolds entertained at dinner Tuesday. Those present were Mesdames Elliot, Lindeman, Mock, Davis and Williams, and Misses Mary Threat and Edith Lindeman.

Mrs. C. H. Custer and Miss Nellie Williams spent Sunday at Newark.

Mrs. W. F. Stewart and daughter, Miss Maude, have returned from Houston.

Miss Emily Colston of Louisville, Ky., is visiting in North Fort Worth.

F. B. Clogston will leave soon for his home in Eureka, Ky.

James Lockson of Beeville, Texas, is now located in North Fort Worth.

NO SURPRISE AT ABANDONED BABIES

Officials at Union Station Are Getting Used to Finding Them There—Rev. Morris' Trip Into the Territory

Had the train upon which the Rev. I. Z. T. Morris left yesterday with ten children to be placed in homes along the line of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road been a few minutes later, he could have secured another addition to his party, as one woman at the station heard of his mission too late and rushed out into the train shed with her baby, hoping in this way to secure a home for it.

The woman had come from the western part of the state and was on her way to Chickasha, I. T., to rejoin her parents at that place, her husband having died and left her without any means. She appeared quite down-hearted upon finding that the train had left.

This incident, coupled with the remark made by Rev. Morris before leaving that he had more homes than orphan children, served to recall the fact that a number of children, in all a total of three, have been abandoned at the Union Station by their parents, and although no such case has been reported for many months, the employees state that it has ceased to create surprise when such an occurrence happens and the little ones are immediately turned over to the police department.

UNIQUE WAY OF CARRYING CHILD

That the Indians are not the only race having an unique way of carrying their children was demonstrated at the Texas and Pacific station yesterday when the matron discovered in one corner of the waiting room a Polish woman carrying her babe, which was without a particle of clothing, wrapped in a big feather pillow having a strap wound around it, by which the woman carried it.

The pillow was a large one and loosely filled, so that by folding it over the child the little one was completely covered and kept as warm as any her to millions.

To the matron the woman stated that she was on her way to Denver, Colo., to join her husband, who had emigrated to this country some time ago, and then saved his earnings so that she might follow.

CATTLE MOVING TO TERRITORY FOR GRASS

Cattlemen Delay No Longer in Hope That Rains May Make Texas Pasturage Sufficient, and Movement Is Now On

John L. Pennington, live stock agent for the Frisco in Texas, said this morning that every day cattlemen were arranging for the movement of their cattle to pastures in the territory. The work of moving the cattle to pasturage has been delayed in the hopes that sufficient rain would come which make unnecessary the taking of Texas cattle into the territory country, but in this the stockmen of this state have been disappointed and the movement is now fairly under way. It is expected that the number of Texas cattle that will go on grass in the territory country will be very large.

There has been scattering rains over the cattle country in the state, but not enough to warrant the cattlemen keeping their stock on home ranges.

This morning the Denver road officials received information that light rains have been falling for a day or so all the way from Fort Worth to Texline. In some places the precipitation was as much as half an inch. Even this light fall will be of vast benefit to stockmen and farmers in the Panhandle country.

WOODEND AND COMPANY IN HANDS OF SHERIFF

NEW YORK, April 29.—A deputy sheriff today took possession of the office of Woodend & Co., members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, on an attachment for $4,818, in favor of Harry C. Johnston, who held a judgment for that amount.

"The firm of Woodend & Co.," says President Randolph of the Consolidated Exchange today, "is composed solely of Dr. W. E. Woodend." Up to a few days ago the firm had extensive wire connections to branches in various cities and it was generally supposed to be doing a large business. It is said today several attachments against Woodend & Co. had been issued. At the home of W. E. Woodend, who is a physician, it was said that he is too ill to see any one except his physicians and intimate friends.

CAN STAY FIVE DAYS LONGER AT FAIR

Ten Day Tickets From the Southwest to St. Louis Have Been Extended by Railroads in Passenger Association

It will be welcome news to Texans and others in the southwest to know that the Southern Passenger Association, through the impurities of the railroads comprising that association, to know that the limit of the ten-day tickets has been extended five days longer. These tickets have been placed on sale at $21.40 from Fort Worth for the round trip to St. Louis. The local railroads have been notified of the extension of the limit. The Rock Island was informed of the change today, and other roads will no doubt be notified promptly.

This extension will give ample time to sightseers.
