ALABAMA WILL SEND NEGRO TO CONVENTION

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 10.-The epublican state convention met here today. There was an unusually large attendance. Very few negroes were in evidence when the convention opened. The purpose is to select four delegates at large to the national convention, one of whom it is conceded will be a negro, and to name candidates for presidential electors, nominate state officers and elect an executive committee. The convention will also recommend a line of action to the county organizations with reference to the nomination of county tickets. W. E. eral counties regarding the selecting of delegates. The decision of the state committee will be appealed from in several counties, notably in Montgomery county, where S. H. H. Washington, colored, was placed on the temporary roll by the committee over C. H. Scott. A hot fight also is expected over the chairmanship of the state executive commitee. International Revenue Collector J. O. Thompson, one o the president's referees, is a candidate for the place, but former Congressman W. F. Aldrich, another referee, is fighting him on the ground that a state chairman should not be an office holder.

Louisville Story Makes Out the English Novelist as Something of a Cad

That is an idol-stattering story that is going the rounds of the press concerning the experience of Charles Dickens, the novelist, during his sojourn in Louisville, Ky., says the Memphis Scimitar Lovers of this greatest of story tellers have delighted to think of him as a kindly, simple gentleman possessing a combination of all the charms that he attributes o the characters in his books. But the thing of a cad, or, as his contemporary, Thackeray, would term it, a snob.

The story goes that in Louisville he stopped at a hotel of which the proprietor was Colonel Throckmorton, a courtly It is said that Col. Throckmorton knocked on the door.

"Come in!" said Dickens, gruffly. Looking up, he saw Throckmorton.

"Well, what do you want?" he asked bluntly, for he had his English ideas about the standing of an inn keeper. "I thought I would ask if there was anything I could do for you." No! not a d-n thing!" Dickens an wered, churlishly, not looking up from Col. Throckmorton was growing heated about the collar at this time. However, he thought he had been misunderstood, and again asked Dickens if there was anything he could do for him. "No. Didn't you hear me?" answered Dickens, growing excited and gazing at the landlord as if he were a bellboy. there is anything I want I'll ring for it.

You can go.' That was enough, Col. Throckmorton walked quickly over to Dickens, grasped his coat collar and pulled him out of the chair. Dickens' manuscript fell all over the floor and the ink spattered on the carpet. He was game, however, and the men fought all over the room, with the result that the novelist emerged with a black eye.

All this may not be true. Yet such trifling stories make an indelible impresion upon the mind, and wherever this is read it will detract from the reverence in which the memory of the great novelist is held.

Supposing that it is true, some allowance may be made for the Englishman's habit of thought toward the humble innkeeper of his native land and for the Englishman's bluntness of speech. But ven at that, the incident shows that Dickens was tacking in the power of ap-

When the procession which marched own Houston street from the headquarters at Fifth street to Front street hence to Main street and up Main street to the court house reached the last point the big motor cars each dragging several trailers, were boarded by the provision men and their wives and daughters or sweethearts and the trip made to Handley proceded by the baggage car piled to the roof with baskets full of lunch so that the banner "The Members of This Association Feed All the People of Fort Worth' might well have been carried upon the car without any danger of estimating what the baskets were able to do. At Lake Erle, every one secured a good shady place for his family or firm headquarters and then after a number of selections by the band all gathered around President Harry Adams who on behalf of the association made everyone present welcome and urged them to enjoy themselves. Mayor Powell was to have followed in a short address but owing to a called meeting of the city council held this morning was unable to be present. S. Jackson and Julian Capers were both on hand, however, and kept the crowd in an uproar with their witty program recitations and musical selection were rendered by Misses Bessie Craig, Minnie Luther and Higgenboth-

Throughout the morning on the later cars arriving at the park additional picnickers kept coming until by the time the basket lunch was ready to be served fully 5,000 people were enjoying themselves in the grounds. A greater part of this number was formed by the grocers and butchers and their employes, but in addition to these many of them had invited a large number of their friends and the 1.750 invitations printed were exhausted early this morning. These invitations did not include the invitations issued as an association to the Dallas grocers and butchers, to the packing houses and to the flour mills. so that the number of guests were at least 2,000. At noon everything else gave way to the lunch, at which time it became apparent why so many baskets were needed, but even the appetites of grocer and butcher boys sharpened by a parade and a morning in the woods was not enough to greatly diminish the supply and it is predicted by those present that the baggage car will have to make a return trip unless late ar- the book, "The Road to Wellville."

Help Your Physician To Help You With Food

The intelligent thinking person don't take food and drink that damages the body and destroys the doctor's best efforts. To help yourself help your physician by using only wholesome, nutritious and useful food. Otherwise the cleverest doctor will fail for he has no foundation to work on.

Food that does the right thing and has no waste with which to do the wrong thing, but builds brain and nerve matter as well as flesh, is Grape-Nuts, undisputedly the most scientific food in the world. When you eat Grape-Nuts you employ a food expert, for this food bristles with scientific reasons.

One minute reading will prove the principles of

and ten days' trial of the food will show in renewed brain, nerve and physical force the truth of these claims. (Remember, the weakest stomach can handle this food.)

> If you want more proof before trying Grape-Nuts let us send you a copy of the recent analysis by the Canadian Government of eleven of the best known cereal foods showing Grape-Nuts tremendously superior to all others. This remarkable document is full of valuable information to anyone who is lacking in health or brain energy. Ask us for "The Canadian Analysis." There's a reason.

Grayson County People Interested in This Case Now Returned to Sherman

J. C. Shelton et al, which was reversed and remanded by the Fifth court of civil appeals in chambers at Dallas Saturday, was returned to the docket of the trial court here, a case in which are interested a large number of Graythe Chinese emperor's nephew to open- try at the coronation of King Edward. son county people, representing the membership of the two Grayson county circles to the aggregate number of 1,500 or more. The suit was filed in this county on February 17, 1903, by the appellee, J. C. Shelton to recover on a certificate on the life of his daughter, Miss J. L. Shelton, issued by the appellant on December 12, 1901, alleging that by the terms of said certificate defendant was pledged to pay to her beneficiaries one dollar for each member in good standing at the time of her death; that she died on January 11, 1903; that there were 750 members in good standing at that time; that $750 had been collected and deposited in the Merchants' and Planters bank at Sherman; that said sum rightfully belonged to plaintiffs as beneficiaries of the deceased and prayed to recover this amount together with damages and interest.

In answer to this petition, defendant denied generally and plead specially its constitution and by-laws, which provided that only persons in good health and between the ages of 18 and 60 years were entitled to membership and alleged that deceased was not in good health at the time her application was filed; that in reality had consumption; that defendant's agents did not see her at the time, but that the certificate was issued on the statement of plain-tiff, J. Shelton, to the effect that she was in good health. On trial of the case, the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff, awardng the amount stated, $750, whereupon defendant being denied a new trial, appealed with the result stated. Deceased having had a certificate in Home Circle No. 2, suit with similar allegations, was filed and judgment secured. This case is now pending in

W. C. T. U. Commissioner to the Philippines Is to Make an Address at the Tabernacle This Evening

At the Christian church tabernacle tonight, there will be an address by Mrs. Carrie Faxon, commissioner of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union to the Philippine islands. Mrs. Faxon has been in the Philippines about two years. She was sent by the national convention of the W. C. T. U. which met in this city more than two years ago. All who attended the fare-we: I meeting in the opera house on that occasion will remember well the scene She was bidden God speed on her journey, and with tear stained eyes the women in the national convention sung "Blest Be the Tie" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Mrs. Faxon, speaking of the conditions in the Philippines, said this morning: "The condition in the islands is not according to the general idea of American manhood." The head of the demoralizing influences is the liquor traffic, and next to this comes the querida system. which is the worse vice we know of This system is a form of the social evil. The Young Men's Christian association is doing a good work. Most of the Americans there are discharged soldiers who have se cured positions in civil life."

Mrs. Faxon, will, in her address to-night, discuss the social evil and the liquor traffic in the islands.
