

UNION PRINTERS LEAVE DISPATCH

Denison Editor Discards the Label and Explains His Reason for So Doing

DENISON, Texas, June 12.—Editor Scholl of the Dispatch surrendered his union label to the typographical union yesterday. His main printers left him. In his address to the public Scholl says: "In discarding the union label from its columns the Dispatch has no apologies to offer. It does it from a sense of justice to the workingman. To the non-union man has as many rights as the union man. That's horse sense. Hence no label."

The most singular features of the whole matter is that three months ago the labor union made the Dispatch their official organ. About one month ago they put in the Industrial Record and dropped the Dispatch.

DENIES THAT ALL ARE FREE AND EQUAL

Chicago Man Talks About a Falseness in the Declaration of Independence

CHICAGO, June 12.—Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus has delivered the baccalaureate address at the Auditorium to the graduating class of Armour Institute.

"There was never a more interesting falsehood than 'All men are created free and equal,'" he said. "The declaration of independence was the work of an hour of intense excitement and on every national anniversary this phrase is misquoted. When it is taken from its context it is false.

"Freedom is something to be won. Men are not born free. Every power into whose control a man comes is a conquered freedom. There are no equals in this universe of God. God is no socialist.

"The problem of problems is to get a humanity that is energetic and militant—that is restful. The world needs men who can observe the approach of tremendous coming events as the engineer does the engine, and still remain placid in the face of this force. Get the utmost efficiency into life with the least waste just as in the principles of physics. Put your methods into life so as to make the engine of life go ahead accurately and with power. The young man of today has an errand unto the world and must make himself a captain."

PREACHER INVEIGHS AGAINST A SYSTEM

He Urges University Students to Go Into Politics and Bring Reformation

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—In his baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the University of Pennsylvania the Rev. William C. Richardson of St. James Protestant Episcopal church, one of the wealthiest and most fashionable in this city, has denounced the method of filling Senator Quay's seat by appointment as an encroachment on freedom. About 2,000 students and the trustees of the university heard the sermon.

"It is within the power of you, young men," he said, "to reform those conditions. Go into politics and become leaders. When the professors and students of our great universities assume control we shall have justice in our government.

"Not only are political questions dependent upon your attitude, but it is within your power to modify the conditions that now prevail in connection with the terrible divorce question.

"Can mere legislation cure this evil?" he said, "not while the very roots of the plant of life are polluted. People must be shown different ways of making money and of spending it; they must be shown the evil resulting from a lust for gain. The older generation cannot influence, but you young men can."

THIS WOMAN HAS TWO HUSBANDS; WANTS ONE

She Seeks Aid of Court to Be Relieved of Peculiar Position in Which She Finds Herself

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 12.—Mrs. Cora Angelman of 938 Sunbury street has discovered that she has two husbands. This was shown in her petition for annulment of her marriage to Eugene Angelman, filed Saturday in the superior court.

Charles Chesire, the other husband, is living at Beaumont, Texas. Mrs. Angelman is still living with her second husband, Eugene Angelman.

Mrs. Angelman sets forth in her petition that it was through no intent of her own that she became a bigamist. On May 26, 1891, she married Chesire, at Henrietta, Texas. Later he went away and as she did not see him nor hear from him for seven years, she concluded that he must be dead.

On June 10, 1901, she married Angelman at San Diego. She had one child by her first husband.

So far as could be learned it is not because of unhappiness in her second marriage that she has petitioned for annulment of her marriage. She is compelled by law to do it, having discovered that she has two husbands living.

Her second marriage is annulled. Mrs. Angelman will be free to secure a divorce from her first husband on the grounds of desertion and can then remarry Mr. Angelman.

She has not expressed her intention to do so, but she is still living with Mr. Angelman, while petitioning for the annulment of her marriage. It seems probable that she does not desire to leave him.

Mr. Angelman was induced to appear at the door of his residence last night after repeated summons. In reply to the first question he slammed the door shut and locked it. That was the only answer that could be secured as Mrs. Angelman's intentions in asking for annulment of her marriage to him. She was supposedly within at the time, as they have been living together up to the present time.

The first husband is not supposed to be playing any part in the affair except that of an objective factor. The time which had expired after his marriage to Mrs. Angelman, before she entered into a second matrimonial contract, was sufficient by statutory limitations to warrant her in considering herself free. Mrs. Angelman's only mistake seems to have been in not securing a divorce prior to her marriage with Mr. Angelman. She considered herself a widow at that time and did not take the trouble to institute divorce proceedings.

JAPAN HAS A FINE MEDICAL SERVICE

LONDON, June 12.—A dispatch from Mukden states that the Russian soldiers habitually speak with contempt of the quality of the Japanese troops. The Japs, they say, are good coolies, but only in that respect are they excellent; but all the evidence that has reached the Russian headquarters as to the Japanese hospitals and the medical and surgical arrangements generally is unanimous as to the excellence of that part of the enemy's equipment.

Two men of the Eleventh Russian regiment, which suffered so severely at Mukden, were managed to escape through the enemy's lines, and have reached Mukden. These men speak in enthusiastic terms of the manner in which the Japanese treat the Russian wounded. The Japanese army doctors, they say, are splendid, and they personally saw to the comfort of all the Russian wounded. Each Russian officer taken prisoner is supplied with a separate tent, and is allowed to superintend the preparation of the food for the Russian wounded.

Temporary assistance is given to the Japanese wounded in splendidly arranged field hospitals. About 450 Russian wounded were carefully attended to in the Japanese camp, and the relations between them and the enemy's troops were excellent, based, says the correspondent, "upon the true comradeship and friendship of mutually respected soldiers." The Japanese doctors removed the wounded from the field of battle without regard to nationality.

As it was practically impossible to remove all the wounded from the ground to the field hospital without those whom surgical aid would most likely cure were taken in hand first, and the more serious cases were given first aid in the field. Whenever a wounded man was discovered, whether Russian or Japanese, he was placed on his feet, and if able to stand unsupported for a few seconds he was taken on a litter to the hospital.

Cruelties were undoubtedly perpetrated on the Russian wounded, but the misdeeds were invariably Chinese, who are bitterly anti-Russian. It is said to be a common remark among the Chinese, "If the Japanese win in this war we will send baskets full of Russian ears to Peking."

WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH BOY OFFENDERS?

City Judge Prewett Can Not Handle Youngsters Who Do Not Behave on Streets

With the closing of the city schools the police court is each day assuming more the appearance of a juvenile court, and Judge Prewett is in a quandary as to what to do with the youthful offenders.

Of course it would be easy enough for him to treat them as the older offenders, fine them and cast them into jail, but the effect in such a case is worse than letting the child go free.

"I am always puzzled to know what to do in the case of a little boy," said the judge, speaking of the matter after having let one little man go with some good advice. "In the majority of cases the boys who are brought here have parents who will not correct them, so turning them over for home correction is futile. On the other hand, if we place them in detention with the older prisoners we are in all probability sowing in them the seeds of a later criminal life, which will prove more harmful than letting them go unpunished for their small offenses."

That the judge, however, will not be imposed upon by a precocious youngster relying upon his leniency to youth has frequently been shown when little rascals who have been given several chances have been fined together with the men.

Chief Rea and other members of the police department have also given the boy question much consideration, and the only satisfactory conclusion that can be reached is that a home or reformatory for the youngsters should be established. This, however, would entail great expense and until the boys become more frequent offenders the matter will have to worry along.

HOW THEY "DEPORT" OUT IN COLORADO

(H. J. Richmond, a reporter on the Morning Record of Victor, Col., and special correspondent of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, wires the following account of his deposition in that city.)

CANON CITY, Col., June 12.—Upon attempting to board a train for the scene of an expected battle at Glenbrook, I was covered by a rifle in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Henry Dahl.

Dahl told me to get out of the district or be killed. I discreetly walked away and was followed fifty yards and again admonished to leave.

I went up Bennett avenue and was met by seven members of the vigilance committee who told me to leave the district under penalty of death. They also advised me to notify Editor Kyner of the Record to leave.

I went to Victor and saw Kyner, who said: "You can leave if you think best, but I will stand my ground." I advised Kyner to have his office guarded by the military, but he did not think conditions serious enough to justify it.

Sheriff Bell and the military assured me protection. I told them they meant well but they could not protect me. Not wishing to leave a widow and two orphan children in camp I concluded to leave.

Subsequent developments in the demolition of the Record office by a mob convinced me that I was right.

I left Victor at 8:30 that night on a train for Canon City. On board was Lieutenant Cole of company K, and three soldiers. I went out on the rear platform. Lieutenant Cole put a six-shooter in my face, and told me never to return to Cripple Creek. Cole is secretary of the Victor Citizens Alliance.

When the train reached Ora Junction, ex-Chief of Police P. McDermott of Victor, came in and sat at my side. He said he was going to Pueblo and Denver and thence to Bisbee, Ariz. I asked: "Are you wanted?"

"Not that I know of," he replied. McDermott said that he had seen Lieutenant Cole on the train. He had previously arrested Cole for assault and thought that Cole would play even.

The train reached Canon City at 10:52. Cole and his orders came into the smoker and searched the passengers, including McDermott.

The latter had no weapon but was arrested and thrown into the Fremont jail for being a union sympathizer. He was brutally treated.

I telegraphed to Victor and then learned of the wrecking of the Record office.

The following morning I telephoned Editor Kyner, who told me that he intended to resume publication of the Record. He asked me to contact back and said that the civil and military authorities had positively promised protection.

However, these authorities are powerless to protect anything in the present state of excitement. I refused to return.

SOCIALISM THE CAUSE SAYS GENERAL BELL

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., June 12.—General Bell has given out a statement concerning his action in deporting strikers and the cause leading up to the same. He attributes the recent troubles growing out of the miners' strike, and the strike itself to the socialist element in the Western Federation of Miners who, he says, captured the organizations two years ago. He declares that the federation has made unionism a secondary consideration and that the organization, root and branch, is being made a vehicle for the promotion of socialism. The leaders, he asserts, have not been deterred by cause "weak and willing members to commit any crime to strike terror to property owners or workmen who refuse to abide their dictates."

As the head of the organization, "responsible only to the governor," the general continues, "it became his duty to effect this result. The arrest of every man in the district belonging to the federation was ordered. Unless they were able to show a clean bill of health they were placed in the bull pen and held or deported. The deportation of federation men," General Bell declares is a "military necessity. They are not being deported because they are union men or to destroy unionism, but because it is believed they are a menace to the peace and welfare of the district."

Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, June 13.—With a record-breaking run of marketable cattle, and a long string of transient stuff in today, the market opened slow and weak with morning trading $2.10 to lower, the latter decline being more in evidence during late forenoon trading. Up until a late hour this morning several of the sublimed did not show up on the yards, and with more than enough cattle to go around and still more in flight, buyers did not show any anxiety to start trading. At 1 o'clock not over 1,500 head had been weighed with probably that many more sold and in the hands of the buyers.

Calves, while in liberal supply, showed no material change in value, and with the demand fair, sold on a steady market with a comparatively good demand. Good light veal calves sold at $3.25 to $3.50; good medium calves at $3.50 to $4, and the common kinds at $2 to $2.50.

In comparison with the heavy run of calves, the receipts of hogs was disappointingly small today, with the general quality poor, in fact below the average quality of like receipts, and on the strength of higher markets in the north, salesmen were at a disadvantage in making the sales on the general bulk show up favorably with the opening advance.

There seems to be very little chance for a satisfactory termination of the present hearing of the Texas cattlemen before the interstate commerce commission now in session in St. Louis. The cases in that respect are still being argued against the southwestern lines charging high rates and giving poor service. The hearing was commenced in Fort Worth a few weeks ago and was adjourned to St. Louis to give the railroads time to prepare evidence on their side in the case. It was requested again last Monday but an adjournment was taken until Friday to enable the commission to attend to other business. It becoming evident that the railroads could not finish within a week's time, there have been forty or fifty railroad officials in attendance and the meeting is one of the most interesting ever held before the commission.

The "beef trust" investigation by the department of commerce, or properly speaking the federal government investigation into live stock and meat trade conditions, is drawing to a close. STOP IT. What is needed to settle the trouble at Cripple Creek and vicinity is a visitation from Uncle Sam's regulars. Those are the boys that teach respect for the law wherever they go.

Conditions in Colorado have gone from bad to worse. They are no longer tolerable. The trouble that begun several years ago over what few know now or care about, has finally culminated in murder—not of individuals, but of men by the dozen.

The disgrace is no longer on Colorado alone, the entire nation shares in it.

Let no man raise his voice against the persecution of the Jews in Russia or the massacre of the Armenians in Asiatic Turkey while such cowardly, horrible crimes as that which resulted in the death of nearly a score of men at Cripple Creek are possible in America.

No man can sanction the outrages in the Cripple Creek district. The interests of everybody demand that the disorder and lawlessness there shall be stamped out. Let the measure of force to that end be just as heavy and abrupt as the occasion demands.

PHOTOGRAPHS FOR THE FAIR. The people should co-operate with Captain Paddock in his purpose to place a panel of Fort Worth views in the Texas building at the World's Fair.

It seems that Dallas will be well supplied with auditoriums next year, but there's no such thing as being too well supplied. This city is the home of conventions and the art and musical center of the southwest—Dallas Times-Herald.

Dallas' claim to being the art center of the southwest in view of Fort Worth's possession of an original Inness picture is preposterous. We will knock down to nothing less than a Botticelli or an Andrea del Sarto, so there!

Joe Bailey has spoken for Parker, and that about settles it so far as Texas is concerned. The Pilot isn't hurting about Parker, but it's for Bailey against the world—Brazen Pilot.

Senator Bailey is the John Alden of the campaign. Judge Parker is the Miles Standish. Everybody knows Priscilla was not for the latter.

despot might be if he had a little more power. The thing to do is to supersede Bell with somebody who is not concerned more with his own importance than in coping with the situation.

It is a fact that Southern boys carry off all the highest honors at West Point this year. The states at the head of the list are Mississippi, Tennessee, and North Carolina.

Chicago's plan of celebrating the Fourth by having a physician and a fireman assigned to every child who wanted to shoot off firecrackers and pin-wheels failed because there were not enough of the medicines to go round.

Fort Worth is the only city in the southwest that offers the World's fair visitor a choice of a half dozen trunk lines of railroad that will carry him direct to his destination.

Look for a big battle soon in the far east. The preliminaries are over and both contestants stripped for action. It is not unlikely to be the bloodiest battle of history.

Now they have drawn Kansas into the Colorado war. Verily the Sunflower state never is satisfied unless she is bleeding or drowning or drying up for herself or somebody else.

Philander C. Knox has his reward. It is a nice fat Senatorship. The trusts are not unmindful of those that serve them well.

In the absence of anything else we are pleased to know that Judge Parker is calm and unruffled by the progress of events.

Fort Worth is nothing if not up to date, but as yet the hoodlums haven't made a practice of stopping the automobilists.

The first free public band concert was given at the City park yesterday afternoon. The Sabbath was not perceptibly broken.

The Parker band wagon looks full up, but where is the music, and who knows where the thing is headed for?

We can't stand this worry and uncertainty much longer. Won't somebody please get Colonel Polk a job?

Roosevelt declines to commit himself on the Colorado situation. So does Parker.

Nashville has fallen.

Cleanings From the Exchanges

It seems that Dallas will be well supplied with auditoriums next year, but there's no such thing as being too well supplied. This city is the home of conventions and the art and musical center of the southwest—Dallas Times-Herald.

Dallas' claim to being the art center of the southwest in view of Fort Worth's possession of an original Inness picture is preposterous. We will knock down to nothing less than a Botticelli or an Andrea del Sarto, so there!

Joe Bailey has spoken for Parker, and that about settles it so far as Texas is concerned. The Pilot isn't hurting about Parker, but it's for Bailey against the world—Brazen Pilot.

Senator Bailey is the John Alden of the campaign. Judge Parker is the Miles Standish. Everybody knows Priscilla was not for the latter.

The Houston Post is one of the best newspapers on earth, and is always up to date. The paper of Monday that came to this office had a red ant rolled up in it right next to the paragraph which stated that Hearst was out of the game.

General Bell says he has between thirty-five and forty union men in the bull pen who will swing for the killing of the men in the Independence depot explosion. This rough-riding, unbridled militia officer is doing his part in keeping up the disorder in Colorado.

THE KIDNAPED AMERICAN HAS LIVED THERE LIKE A PRINCE

Dr. Perdicaris Had the Finest House in Tangier, Owned a Yacht, Gave Fine Dinners—Many Times a Millionaire—His Home in the Morocco Mountains From Which Place He Was Kidnaped

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 13.—Mr. A. G. Otis, who has been stopping a few days in St. Paul, tells a most interesting story of a visit to Dr. Perdicaris, who is now in the hands of Raisuli, the brigand chief, in Morocco.

Mr. Otis, who was formerly a well-known lawyer of this city and who is a brother of Judge Otis, has traveled all over the world and has for the last few years been spending much time hunting and fishing in Northern Minnesota, where he has a hunting lodge near the Lake of the Woods.

"It was in 1892 that I first met Dr. Perdicaris," said Mr. Otis. "I was on my way to Italy and crossed over to Tangier in order to meet Dr. Perdicaris. I had a letter of introduction to him from his agent in America. Dr. Perdicaris is the holder of large interests in this country and he is many times a millionaire. He is an old Harvard man and his father was the Greek minister to the United States, while his mother was a noted American beauty of her day. He is a most delightful gentleman to meet and is an artist of some note.

"When I arrived in Tangier from Cadiz I went to the French hotel. There they told me that Dr. Perdicaris had the most beautiful residence in the city and that I would find him a fine fellow. While walking in the streets later in the day he was pointed out to me by an Englishman. I took this chance to present my letter and was very heartily greeted. With Dr. Perdicaris was Mrs. Varley, the beautiful English lady whom he afterwards married. After we had talked for some time, he invited me to call at his house that evening and I accepted the invitation.

"The house at which I arrived was by far the most handsome in Tangier, and I found gathered there one of the most pleasant little parties it has ever been my good luck to meet anywhere. Among those present were young Mr. Varley and Miss Varley. Mr. Varley is now with Dr. Perdicaris in the hands of the brigands. Miss Varley had just returned from a visit to the court of the sultan at Ham. She showed me a handsome dagger that the sultan had given her on her departure. She did the honors of the house and showed me the different points of interest, of which there were a great many. One room contained one of the most beautiful and costly collections of tapestry in the world.

"About 10 o'clock the wide dining room was thrown open and we all went to supper. Here I drank the first champagne I ever found anywhere in the world. While at supper Dr. Perdicaris told me that he had a yacht on the Mediterranean sea, and that he was soon going to sail for his summer house in the mountains of Morocco, near Aduln. He asked me to come, and so I made the trip with him.

"I can never tell you how beautiful the nights were upon the lovely Mediterranean. After a most delightful sail we arrived at Aduln and made our way to the handsome villa in the tall hills. I found twenty-five soldiers on guard here and supposed that everything was most secure. But it was from this place that Dr. Perdicaris and his son, Mr. Varley, were kidnaped the other day by a band of Moors.

"When I got over to Gibraltar on my way back to Italy, I was told by the English officers there that Dr. Perdicaris gave the finest dinners and the grandest balls of anyone living along the straits, and that people came from far and near to attend them, many coming from Rome and Paris and Cadiz and Gibraltar. The officers at the fort and on visiting warships always made it a point to go, and no one that evening and I accepted the invitation.

"Dr. Perdicaris has important interests near Trenton, N. J., and he is in every way an American citizen. He should be protected by this government, and the brigands should be made to pay dearly if any harm comes to him."

GEN. MILES SAYS THERE IS NO ARMY TO RELIEVE PORT ARTHUR

It Would Be the History of Metz Repeated, With Possibly a Sedan Following It—Russia Will Be Embarrassed Until General Kuroki's Army Is Dislodged—The Japs' Well-Planned, Well-Conducted Campaign

(By Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., Retired.) NEW YORK, June 12.—The skillful, scientific war, pressed vigorously on both sea and land by the Japanese, still continues. At first it was enterprise and dash, but since it will generally be admitted that it has been a well-planned, well-conducted offensive campaign.

The secrecy and celerity of the Japanese movements have been very creditable and effective. The reports of heroic encounters, sharp skirmishes and personal sacrifices are of little moment compared with the reports that "a division has been mobilized," or such "an army corps has been prepared," "left Japan, landed on Korean or Manchurian soil." These are the significant reports that mean the concentration of the great army on foreign territory in readiness for the attack.

Several strong writers have predicted that the occupation of Port Arthur would control the Yellow sea and threaten the stability of China. Lord Salisbury took a different view, regarding it of little importance, possibly considering it diplomatically "sour grapes." In one respect he was correct. It did not control—it never controlled the Yellow sea, but the power controlling the Yellow sea would more likely control Port Arthur.

The reports indicate that it is now in a state of siege by the naval and land forces, and also one report states that a large Russian force or army is to be sent to its relief. The latter is most unlikely. It would be the history of Metz repeated, with possibly a Sedan following it. A large force or army is not likely to be sent to the relief of Port Arthur with the possibility of a Japanese army closing in on the narrow peninsula behind it, thereby cutting off the possibility of its being supplied or its escape.

Port Arthur being located on an extended arm of a mountainous peninsula, was never any great advantage to the Russian empire, but rather a position difficult to maintain. Its principal advantages were its landlocked, safe harbor. A port contiguous to the main land in the vicinity of Vladivostok or Newchwang would be far more easily defended.

At present the Russian forces are much divided on the outer circle of the horseshoe. Their objective is not any one of the threatened positions, but is the Japanese army occupying the Yalu valley. Until General Kuroki's army is dislodged, destroyed or captured, the Russian position will still be embarrassing.

The Russian people are naturally patient and deliberate. Their slow, continued retreat on the invasion of the master mind of war, Napoleon, to their capital, their serious defeat in the great battle outside of Moscow, the sacrifice of their capital, did not shake the fortitude and loyalty of the Russians, and when fairly aroused the fury of their retaliation was destructive to the ambition of the Great Corsican, as well as the sacrifice of the hundreds of thousands of lives.

Their tenacity in the Crimea was most expensive and exhausting to the three great powers that were contending against them, and it took some time in the Russo-Turkish war to develop a Schoboloff.

RUSSIA TELLS UNCLE SAM NOT TO SEND BIG FLEET TO TURKEY

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Russian ambassador, Count Cassini, unofficially informed Secretary Hay this afternoon that his government would view with great disfavor the sending by the United States of an American fleet to Turkey with a view to enforcing payment of long-standing missionary claims.

Russia is the dominant power in Turkey. She contends that the sending of such a powerful fleet as is contemplated would practically amount to an interference with the old world powers; that it would have a profound effect on the impressionable Orientals, and that it would tend to disturb the balance of power in Turkey. This announcement of the Russian ambassador followed the tacit admission by Secretary Hay that this government's program was to disband the combined European and South Atlantic squadrons and to dispatch the fleet to Turkey.

The ambassador intimated that there might not be any objections to sending a few warships, but that the policy outlined might result in a formal protest from his government. The decision to send a fleet to Turkey was made by the president and the announcement of Count Cassini will be referred to him.

Candidates for admission to West Point Military Academy, if between 17 and 18 years of age, must not fall below 5 feet 2 inches in height and 100 pounds in weight; if between 18 and 19 years, 5 feet 3 1/2 inches in height and 105 pounds in weight; if over 19, 5 feet 4 inches in height and 110 pounds in weight.
