THE HIGH WATER

Rains During Past Two Days Have Again Flooded Lowlands Along the Santa Fe in Arizona

NEW WORK DESTROYED

Passenger Trains From California Are Again Tied Up—Some Places the Conditions Are as Bad as They Were a Week Ago

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 8.—Rains the past two days again flooded the lowlands along the Santa Fe Railroad tracks from Belen to Rincon. The repaired track between San Marcel and Socorro is washed out again in many places and conditions south of here are as bad as they were a week ago. Train service in this section is again interrupted. Passenger trains from Santa Fe have been held up here, owing to new washouts to the south and can not be sent out to detour through Texas.

THE LOCAL SITUATION

Word was received at the local Texas and Pacific offices shortly before noon today that the Santa Fe had suffered a severe wash out in New Mexico near El Paso, but later this was denied and a second telegram stated the road had suffered there from the high waters, but that the damage would be repaired by tonight, so trains of the road could be started east from El Paso over the Rio Grande division of the Texas and Pacific.

At the Texas and Pacific depot last evening, as well as at the Santa Fe there were trains plenty. Starting at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and ending at 11:45 last night the two roads had six heavy passenger trains for the west. Everyone of the trains carried from eight to fourteen coaches and were heavily loaded. The passengers were all given an opportunity to get something to eat at this point and almost everyone of them availed themselves of the opportunity to do so. As a consequence, there was another heavy rush on the Santa Fe and the hotels, but eventually all were fed.

The trains from the east were three in number and the first Santa Fe came in at 7:40 last night. The other two following late in the night. All of these trains were pretty well loaded and had many coaches.

The Denver is again running their trains clear through and is again on schedule time. The Rock Island and the Santa Fe are also now able to handle their trains for the north and are running on time.

Today ten Santa Fe trains are expected from the west. The first train to reach here will be late this evening and the others will follow, making it so trains will arrive at almost all hours of the night. There is to be, as is known, five trains sent to the west today of the Santa Fe. Whether the trains are to succeed in getting on to the Santa Fe tracks beyond El Paso where the new wash outs have occurred is not known now, as the rain is reported as falling in torrents near there.

RUSH OF MAIL

It was thought that the heavy rush of mail was over or at least the greater part of it had been handled yesterday. This, however, was not the case, and the mail has again grown to such proportions that it is almost out of the question for the transfer office to handle it. Over four hundred pouches were sent by the clerks at the Texas and Pacific depot last evening and this morning and still more is coming. Some of these clerks are on the verge of nervous prostration from long and continual strain, to which they have been subjected, and which has been given them in the past twenty-four hours by the addition of other clerks, but as the mail each day seems to get larger and more complicated the work is just as heavy and as hard as it was before.

WIRES ARE BUSY

In the telegraph offices of the companies handling the bulk of the business and especially in the west end office in the Texas and Pacific depot, as well as the Western Union office, the sending of messages has been very heavy and there has been a minute in the day when the wires have been dead. The work is very hard on the dispatchers and the operators, but they are gamely sticking at it and praying that the rush will soon be a thing of history.

The longers around the depot have practically all gone. The trains have taken those who desired, out in both directions and the faces which for several days were becoming familiar to the depot habitués are now only memories of the first days of this week. The work of the baggage rooms has resumed normal proportions and the men employed there are mighty glad of it. The baggage coming in on the extra trains is carried through and no longer handled at the baggage rooms, which makes it much easier on the men.

ALL ARE DEAD

DESSAU, Germany, Oct. 8.—It is now known that all thirteen miners imprisoned by the sudden rush of water and mud in the Leopold Brown coal mine near Koethen on Thursday are dead. The bodies of the men can not be reached.

LOREE WILL REST

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—L. F. Loree, former executive head of the Rock Island properties, has left Chicago permanently for New York. He refused to discuss his future, but it is said he will take a long rest in an effort to regain his health.

WALMER CASTLE, Oct. 8.—According to a report given out at 9:51 o'clock Lady Curzon is slightly better this morning.

Shepherds started the fire which, in the last week of August, caused a damage of $600,000 francs on the island of Corsica. It lasted three days and destroyed many vineyards, orchards and other valuable grounds.

FOR A PEACE TREATY

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—It is believed that a peace treaty with Bolivia will be signed within a week, says a Herald dispatch from Valparaiso de Chile. Negotiations are being carried on in La Paz under favorable auspices. Congress will begin a special session October 10.

The president's message contains thirty bills, most of which have been made to Brigadier General Humphrey, quartermaster general, regarding the conduct of transport service, and that a searching investigation is being made by a board consisting of three army officers. It is added that an upheaval in the department is anticipated.

A COMPLAINT OF THE TRANSPORTS IS MADE

Service Is Not Satisfactory and a Searching Investigation Is Being Made—An Upheaval Expected

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 8.—The call today states a complaint has been made to Brigadier General Humphrey, quartermaster general, regarding the conduct of transport service, and that a searching investigation is being made by a board consisting of three army officers. It is added that an upheaval in the department is anticipated.

NOTHING IS HEARD OF STOCKMAN OF BONHAM

Is Believed at His Home That He Has Been the Victim of Foul Play—Search Is Now Being Made

BONHAM, Texas, Oct. 8.—Up to a late hour last night nothing had been heard of the whereabouts of Will Biggerstaff, the stockman who disappeared from his home near Gober last Monday, mention of which was made in the Thursday's Telegram.

Mr. Biggerstaff, when he left home Monday morning, told his wife that he would return in about a couple of hours. When at night her husband failed to return, Mrs. Biggerstaff became alarmed and friends and relatives were soon scouring the country.

Mr. Harry Biggerstaff, who lives in Bonham, was communicated with and at once entered into the hunt for the missing man.

Later developments disclosed the fact that the missing man went direct to Ector Monday, and turned his horse over to Deputy Sheriff Bat Allen at that place, requesting him to send it to Bonham and have it put up in a wagon yard. This Mr. Allen agreed to do himself, as he was coming to Bonham that night. Biggerstaff told the officer that he was going to Sherman and would go to Bonham next day over the Katy and ride his horse home.

But instead of going to Sherman, it was learned that Biggerstaff purchased a ticket of the agent at Ector for Belts, telling the agent he was going to Norman, Ok. But if he went to that place he has not yet been located, and telephone communications have thrown no light upon the situation.

His strange disappearance has excited quite a great deal of interest and excitement at Bonham, and Gober, and a small army of men are scouring the country.

When last seen by the Texas and Pacific agent at Ector he was plainly dressed, wearing a black hat, black shirt and black vest, with a pair of corduroy pants. He is a man about five feet eight inches high, dark complexion, and weighs about two hundred pounds.

Biggerstaff has a wife and two children, and is connected with one of the best families in Fannin county. His wife is almost crazed with grief, and the entire community stands in dread of the probability of his fate when the news of his whereabouts is learned.

It is the opinion of officers here that he is the victim of foul play.

MONTANA FOR PARKER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Chairman Taggart of the democratic national committee received a dispatch from Montana today stating the labor organizations in that state had endorsed the Parker and Davis electoral ticket, which Taggart says, means the electoral vote of Montana for the democratic ticket.

Senator Patterson of Colorado is scheduled to speak at next week in Utah and Montana after which he will return to Colorado. Georgia will speak next week in Illinois making speeches at the principal points in that state. Senator Tillman will also be in Illinois.

Charles Towne is scheduled to speak in Paterson, N. J., on October 10.

HONG KONG BUYING AMERICAN FLOUR

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 8.—A local flour mill has received an order from Hong Kong for 80,000 sacks (2,000 tons) of flour, which is said to be for the Japanese government. Twenty thousand sacks of this will be sent this month by way of Portland and the balance from Tacoma and Seattle. The same mill has just completed a shipment of 60,000 sacks for Oriental ports.

An Italian of a Gang of Robbers Is Shot by His Companions and Dies After Being Taken to Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—An Italian picked up by the police on the east side died at the hospital from a pistol shot through the body. He was partially identified as a member of a gang who shot a countryman to death and mortally wounded two others in attempting to rob them near Brewster, N. Y., late Thursday night. The robbers descended upon a cabin filled with reservoir work, and fled after the shooting, having secured $600. The man who died here is believed to have been wounded in a quarrel over the division of the spoils. He was crawling along the street when found.

In opening a new pier at Menal bridge, a Welsh waterer place, Mr. Lloyd-George said that of the $70,000 the pier had cost $12,500 had gone in legal expenses. Before a local authority could go to parliament, lawyers had to be engaged.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE AND BLOWS OUT OWN BRAINS

Newark Man Believes She Has Deceived Him, and After Writing Many Letters He Is Chief Actor in a Tragedy

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Believing he had been deceived by his wife, Alfred Fryer, manager of a hay and produce company, shot her fatally early today in their home at Newark, N. J.

Fryer then turned the revolver on himself and blew out his brains, his body falling across that of his wife.

The only daughter of the couple, 9 years old, was sleeping in an adjoining room at the time the tragedy occurred. Awakened by the shots she rushed into the room, only to see her father fall dead.

Mrs. Fryer was still alive when the police arrived, but died soon after she reached the hospital.

The little girl ran, in her night clothing, to a neighbor's house for aid. She said her father, who was only 35 years old, had remained up later than usual writing letters. Mrs. Fryer was shot as she slept.

Letters from Fryer were found, accusing an unnamed young man of wrecking his home.

The couple were well known in Newark society and occupied a handsome home.

GILLESPIE'S NAME OFF TICKET

J. R. Curl, secretary of state, has sent County Clerk R. L. Rogers a copy of the state ticket to be used at the approaching election.

There appears on this ticket a grievous error, in that the name of O. W. Gillespie, who is the democratic nominee for congress from this district, does not appear, but in its stead the name of "C. A. Culbertson for the United States senate," appears.

The county clerk has written Secretary of State Curl regarding the error, but no response has yet been received.

The point raised from Austin that nominees for office, who have been nominated by either convention or primary elections, must pay the expense of printing the official ballots, has never been brought up in this county.

This expense in Tarrant county will be borne by the county, and not by individual nominees.

The nominees, however, paid the expenses of the primaries at which they were nominated.

The people of Portland say the government building at the coming Clark and Lewis exposition will surpass the one at St. Louis, and that the main exhibition building will "establish a precedent."

THE MEXICANS BUY FOUNDLINGS IN ARIZONA

Babes Are Sent Out From New York and the Greasers Take Them—Citizens Form an Indignation Society

SOLOMONVILLE, Ariz., Oct. 8.—District Attorney Rawlins of Graham county, has made the following statement of the troubles at Clifton and Morenci over the alleged sale of foundlings sent out from New York city for adoption by the Mexican families concerning which many sensational stories have been sent out:

"The persons to whom the children were consigned were in every case Mexicans and not of the better class either. Sixteen of the children were given out at Clifton and the agent then proceeded to Morenci with the others. After he had left Clifton a feeling of indignation arose in the American population and a meeting was called. A committee of twenty-five citizens was named to recover the children from the Mexicans. Accompanied by a large crowd of citizens this committee visited the Mexican huts and demanded the babes. In every case the Mexicans were willing and glad to give them up. Tuesday afternoon the citizens of Morenci met and decided to give the children into the possession of the sisters departed with twenty-four babes."

RATE WAR IS OVER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Price cutting in plate glass insurance rates and commissions, which has been demoralizing the business for some months, is about to be abandoned. At a meeting here of leading underwriters, the general situation was discussed and it was finally agreed to appoint committees to consider the question of organization, rates and commissions. Little difficulty is anticipated by those present arranging a compact between the leading commissioners.

FINEST THEATER IN SWITZERLAND IS TOTAL LOSS

Short Circuit of Electric Light on the Stage Starts a Conflagration Which It Is Impossible to Check

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Fire has destroyed the theater at Basle, says a Herald dispatch from Geneva. It was the finest play house in Switzerland, but only four blackened walls remain.

There was no loss of life as, fortunately, the fire occurred at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Modeled on the Neues theater in Vienna, it seated 1,500 persons, contained the latest fire proof appliances and possessed exits everywhere.

After the performance Thursday night everything was left in order and supposed safety, the fire curtain being lowered. The fire began, as in the Troquos theater at Chicago, behind the stage, and within a short time the safety curtain melted. Then the fire spread to the stalls and galleries, the roof falling in within half an hour.

Two firemen were injured seriously and were carried to the hospital. The walls of the theater were very thick, otherwise the financial loss would have been most serious.

The theater was insured for $15,000 but the scenery and wardrobes of the artists were not insured. A valuable library and the musical instruments and costumes were destroyed.

The cause of the fire was a short circuit in an electric wire.

THE AUTO RACE

Start Was Made Promptly at Six O'clock When Driver Campbell Shot Out From the Line in Stevens' Machine

NO THIRTEEN IS IN IT
Unlucky Number Is Omitted by Design—First of Serious Accidents Resulted in Death of the Driver—A Narrow Escape

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Heath won the auto race and William K. Vanderbilt cup by one minute and thirty-six seconds and it is believed many records were broken. Heath covered the last and tenth round in twenty-seven minutes and five seconds. Albert Clement was second and Lytle third. Up to near the end the leader made an average speed of about sixty miles, when the areas of control are deducted. This speed was maintained, including curves and other dangerous places, where it was necessary to reduce speed to the minimum. Figuring those deductions the leader at times made ninety miles an hour on the level straight stretches, and some experts say he passed the grand stand at Westbury at the phenomenal speed of 100 miles per hour.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Promptly at 6 o'clock this morning the first car shot away from Westbury, Long Island, in the 300-mile automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup. There were eighteen starters. Number 13 was omitted by design. The start was made promptly at 6 o'clock.

As Driver Campbell shot out from the starting line with S. B. Stevens' sixty horsepower machine a cheer went up from the crowd on the grand stand and hundreds gathered on either side of the course. A. G. Vanderbilt's machine did not start in the race. It got out of order at Garden City before starting for Waterbury and could not be repaired in time.

C. E. Duerr's car broke its main drive wheel passing Queens and was taken out of the race. Before the first machine went off on its 300-mile journey, the grand stand was packed with spectators and thousands of people lined the course eager to catch a glimpse of the whirling machines as they flashed by. The course of the race is exactly 30.24 miles in length. It is an elongated triangle, the apex of which to the west is the village of Queens. The course is to be covered ten times.

At Mineola a car driven by Gabriel flashed across Long Island railroad track almost directly in front of a moving train missing the pilot of the engine by less than thirty feet. For a moment it seemed an accident was inevitable but the speed of the machine was so great it dashed across the rails in safety.

Arents and his machinist were thrown from their machine and injured as a result of a broken tire. Both men were taken to the Nassau County hospital. It was the first serious accident of the race. It occurred on a stretch between the turn at Queens and Westbury when the tires slipped from Arents' machine and he and his chauffeur, Carl Meuser, were thrown violently to the ground. Arents is not seriously injured but his chauffeur is badly hurt. Meuser, Arents' chauffeur, who was injured when the machine overturned, died later in the hospital.

Gabriel had a second thrilling escape from collision with a train. This time it was at Queens. The passenger train stopped at the station and unluckily passengers and had received the signal to go ahead. The station is only about 100 feet from the roadway. On receiving the signal that the track was clear the engineer started up and the locomotive reached the middle of the crossing when Gabriel's car rushed down the road. A shout went up from the crowd gathered at the crossing and a signal waived to the engineer to back the train. The lever was promptly reversed and as the locomotive started back Gabriel's car was thrown violently to the ground, missing the machine by less than two feet.

HE BIDS FAREWELL TO HIS FORMER COMMAND

KHARKOFF, Oct. 8.—A touching scene was witnessed here when General Dragomiroff, former governor general of Kiev, bade farewell today to the famous Fourth division, which he led across the Danube at the time of the Russo-Turkish war. The old veteran was so moved he could hardly speak. Finally he gave the order for the division to form around him in a hollow square and addressed the troops, wishing them success and expressing the hope they will do their duty well in the Far East, as their fathers did on the Danube. He also advised the soldiers to stand by each other and sacrifice their lives for their comrades. The troops were greatly affected by the general's words. Dragomiroff then kissed the colors and the color bearers shook hands with the officers and then bowed low to each battalion, murmuring, "Farewell, God bless you and bring you back safely."

SOFT DRINKS IN THE TERRITORY ARE ANALYZED

Parties Selling Them Are Under Arrest—One Drink Is a Fort Worthite and Is Under the Ban

ARDMORE, I. T., Oct. 8.—Analysis of "Sun beam," "Longhorn," "Vigorous" and "Fort Worth" and other territorial drinks, made by Professor DeBarr at the Oklahoma university on samples furnished him by Marshal B. H. Colbert, shows them to contain more than 2 per cent of alcohol and therefore cannot be sold lawfully in the territory. The report further states they contain more alcohol than lager beer. Marshal Colbert today ordered arrested all parties engaged in selling these drinks. Twenty arrests were made in Ardmore, all of whom waived examining trial and were bound over to the grand jury. At least 150 parties are selling these drinks in this district now.

TEACHERS HAVE AN INSTITUTE THIS MORNING

An Interesting Meeting of All Those Employed in Public Schools—The Officers Have Been Elected

The teachers of the Fort Worth public schools held an institute meeting at the high school this morning. Professor Alex Hogg presided. The meeting began at 10 o'clock with a prayer by Rev. H. A. Boaz, president of the Polytechnic College.

After the prayer Miss Menefee rendered a vocal solo, accompanied by Miss Nadine Spouts. Vocal solos by W. A. Hemphill and Rollin M. Pease followed. The teachers then began the business of electing officers for the institute.

Professor L. M. Hammond, principal of the Fourth ward school, was elected vice president of the organization and Miss Christine Matthews was elected secretary. Professor Hogg, of course, retains his position as ex-officio chairman.

The assembly next discussed the question of furnishing data concerning their meetings for the newspapers. A general discussion in regard to the attitude of the newspapers toward the teachers and the public schools was also gone into. In this discussion there were talks by James Hays Quarles of The Telegram and by Professors McGee, Harris and Hammond.

The teachers decided to allow the newspapers to select their own methods of reporting the future meetings. Either the papers could send a man to do the required work or appoint some teacher to take notes for them.

Rollin M. Pease of the Fort Worth University then sang a solo.

The next feature on the program was an interesting talk made by Professor R. L. Paschal, principal of the Fifth ward school, on "How to Catch and Prepare Insects for Mounting and Preservation." Professor Paschal made a very interesting and instructive talk on the subject, illustrating his remarks by specimens of mounted butterflies and insects.

A pronunciation test among the teachers, conducted by Professor G. W. Harris, principal of the Sixth ward school, was held next. This test was nothing more nor less than a "spelling bee" only the teachers did not stand in a line and go to "head" or "foot," according to failure or success, the test being simply to pronounce the words as the leader spelled them.

how a school of this kind would benefit pupils and parent alike. "For," said he, "the father when he sees his son is to be removed from the public schools, will exert all the influence in his power to reform him and not encourage him in his disobedience, as is often the case."

The opinion of the teachers in general seemed to be that the only solution of the incorrigible pupil problem was to eliminate such pupils from the schools.

The concluding remarks of the morning were made by Superintendent Hogg. Professor Hogg cautioned the teachers to be careful in making out the monthly reports of the pupils. "Do not let us have parents say that they find mistakes in the reports, as has been the case on several previous occasions," said Professor Hogg.

"I have ordered sixty new ten-inch dial clocks for the schools," said the superintendent, in conclusion. "Those of you who have been without timepieces will be supplied immediately."

MACHINERY COMPANY HAS BEEN CHARTERED

The John T. Abbott Machinery Company of this city was chartered this morning at Austin with a capital stock of $20,000. The incorporators of the new company are John T. Abbott, Adrian Bonquist and Adam H. Hardman of this city.

When seen this morning J. T. Abbott announced that the company would be merely a continuation of the present firm of the same name and that the business would be followed along the same lines.

The company has been incorporated, as is the purpose of those interested to carry on its affairs on a larger scale and much new machinery will be added and other improvements made in the company's plant at 1206 Houston street.

A general machinery business will be carried on by the new corporation.

Rev. B. C. Horton, Sulphur Springs, Texas, writes, July 19, 1893: "I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Horehound Syrup and they have proved certainly satisfactory. IN THE COURTS

A vacation air pervaded the various courts today, whether it was on account of the circus in town or not could not be ascertained.

In the Seventeenth district court Malvina Johnson was on trial charged with assault to murder. Grant Le Roy was declared not guilty of the charge of assault to murder.

H. S. Patterson, who was on trial, charged with burglary, was also declared not guilty. The jury is still out with the Andrew Crews case.

NOTES

There were no new suits filed in any of the courts up to the noon hour. Sheriff Honea and Deputies Hamill Scott and Purvis returned from Dallas last night, where they appeared before the grand jury in the case of Garrett, who was arrested here last week, charged with the theft of a horse and surrey from Dallas. Garrett was indicted yesterday by the grand jury. George and Robert Marlow and other witnesses from Fort Worth went over to testify in the case.

AD OF INTEREST OF STOCKMEN

F. R. Garrison, a prominent stockman of the Higgins country, says: "There will be quite a good many cattle shipped from any part of the state a little later on. There are very few steers in that country as most of them were shipped north last spring, but there are a great many calves and the bulk of the cattle that will be moved will be cows. Up to the present time there have been but few shipments made, but along about the latter part of this month they will begin to move."

TEXAN IS BOOMED FOR PRESIDENT OF LEAGUE

Oscar Pogue of Blum Will Likely Be Next Head of the Four-class Postmasters—A Congressman Pledged

Oscar Pogue, postmaster at Blum, Texas, and president of the State League of Fourth Class Postmasters, was in the city this morning on his way to St. Louis to attend the national convention of fourth class postmasters to be held in St. Louis October 12.

This morning he discussed with great earnestness the claims of the fourth class postmasters to be placed under the civil service commission as announced in The Telegram of several weeks ago and declared that immense strides were being made in that direction.

"We have secured," he declared, "the promises of all but three or four of the Texas congressmen to support us in this step, which we will endeavor to bring before the next session of congress."

"Members of the league in other states are working equally hard and have secured similar promises from numbers of congressmen in their commonwealths. Therefore it would seem that we will at least have a majority in the lower house."

"The newspapers generally are supporting us in the measure which shows its merit upon its face, and our clipping bureau has collected a great volume of news items and editorials on the subject, including the recent article in The Telegram."

Two delegates will attend the convention from each state, Postmaster E. F. Cosgrove of Venus, together with Postmaster Pogue, being the Texas delegates.

A warm fight is being made by the friends of Postmaster Pogue to have him chosen national president of the organization at the coming convention and the Texas league has prepared souvenirs for distribution reading, "Oscar Pogue for National President."

An invitation to the body to meet next year in this state has been extended by the citizens of Austin and will be presented to the convention.

Grass on the Arizona ranges is said to be waist high in many places, and stock is getting to be in fine shape again after the terrible drought of last spring. Water holes that have been empty for the past year are now full, and the promise of good grass all the winter is now making the ranchmen of that section feel good. It is now claimed that the losses from the drought over the territory as a whole will not exceed 5 per cent, but that does not comport with the terrible stories that came from that section earlier in the season.

"Bred in Texas and fed in Illinois," is the way Joseph Collins, of Paris, Ill., placarded a shipment of Panhandle steers he had on the Kansas City market a few days ago. They were high grade Herefords, such as go out from Texas every day in the year, and shows that the northern feeders are not now attempting to conceal the fact that the best stuff they send to market was bred in Texas. Such incidents also serve to demonstrate the fact that cattle can possess no higher recommendation than to have been bred on the Texas range.

THE SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS NEW TEACHER

Miss Henrietta DeGore of Newark, N. J., Is to Have Charge of Domestic Science and Will Give It Her Whole Time

At a special meeting of the city school board held yesterday evening in the office of the mayor, Miss Henrietta DeGore of Newark, N. J., was engaged as teacher of the domestic science department of the schools at a salary of $70 per month.

Heretofore the domestic science work in the schools, has been under the direction of the Department Club, the teacher being engaged by them and devoting only a portion of her time to the work. Much of the money for the work was furnished by the club, although a yearly appropriation to be dispensed by them was made by the city.

In speaking of the matter this morning Professor Hogg said that it was his opinion and that of the board, as well as of Principal Williams of the high school, that the work in this department should be enlarged and that a teacher should be employed who could devote her entire time to the work so that every girl wishing it would have an opportunity to take the cooking course.

At the same time it was sought to bring this department as the others directly under the school management and the election was had as a result.

Members of the Department Club attended the meeting of the school board and discussed with them the needs of the domestic science department.

The past courses in this line have met with the greatest favor and it is stated the present step has been taken with a view of still further enhancing its success.

At that time I made the fact known to citizens of Fort Worth so that others suffering from kidney complaint in any of its various forms might have the benefit of my experience. IDENTITY OF THE BODY IS NOW POSITIVE

The Remains of Mark Adams Reached Here This Morning From St. Louis—Mother and Sister Sure of Identification

The body, supposed to be that of Mark Adams, found some days ago in Creve Coeur Lake, St. Louis, arrived here this morning over the Katy flyer.

Field Farrer, who went to St. Louis to investigate the case, did not accompany the remains to Fort Worth, but remained in St. Louis to look into the case further and to appear at the continued hearing of the St. Louis county coroner, who was to make an investigation yesterday.

The body, on its arrival here, was carried to the Gause undertaking parlors, where it was viewed by a large number of people during the day. Among those who looked at the corpse, which is badly decomposed, was the mother, sister and brother of Mark Adams. The relatives are positive of the identification and say the remains are those of Mark Adams.

They identified the cuff buttons, and also the clothing as that of Adams, because it was marked "E. P.," a peculiar mark, the marking having been done under peculiar circumstances known only to members of the family.

The burial will take place this afternoon from the Broadway Presbyterian church, at 4 o'clock.

Another identification was a sear over the left eye, which was the result of a horse kick.

It is learned today that Adams took with him when he left Fort Worth $359, which was to be used in a certain horse deal. It was intended that the Evans' string of horses was to be transferred from the St. Louis race course to the Brighton Beach tracks, but the move had been delayed from some cause or other.

The investigation into the death of young Adams is being prosecuted in St. Louis, but whether the mystery will ever be solved remains to be seen.

HEARST IN LINE

There are a whole lot of people who have labored under the impression that William Randolph Hearst was sulking in his tent on account of his disappointed presidential ambition, and that he would extend no help or comfort to the cause of democracy this year. But little did they know the energetic young congressman. He made a gallant and aggressive canvass for the nomination for himself, and when the star of his hope went down into defeat at St. Louis, he publicly announced that he was for the nominee and would do all in his power for the success of the ticket. Since that time Mr. Hearst has been in the Canadian northwest, on a trip for pleasure, rest and recreation, and that fact gave rise to the belief that his absence was premeditated, and inspired by the desire to knife the national democratic ticket. But Mr. Hearst is a democrat, as well as a defeated aspirant for the presidential nomination, and his democracy is not of the kind that would suggest retaliation for fancied injuries at the hands of his party. He is built on bigger and broader lines, and shows the manhood and democracy there is in him by a ringing address to the democratic clubs of the country, of which he is the president, immediately upon his return from the Canadian trip. Mr. Hearst says in part:

"I hope that every official and every individual member of every club in our association will do all that he can—and more than ever before—to promote and expound the interests and the beliefs of genuine Jeffersonian democracy. I call upon all members of the clubs to begin earnest campaign work immediately, to re-organize where re-organization is necessary, and especially to respond promptly and energetically to every suggestion that may come from the national management of the democratic party."

"I have offered my services and those of my newspapers to the managers of the democracy and insofar as I have felt justified as your president in so doing, I have offered the much greater influence of the national association of democratic clubs, pledging the honest co-operation of all the members to further effort on lines of that genuine democracy in which a majority of the American people believe."

"There are special reasons why the democrats of the United States should assert themselves and work energetically in this campaign. "First and foremost this is the paramount duty before us—we must restore the government of this country to the hands of the people for whom and by whom the government was created. "As democrats we are interested especially this year in repudiating and approving by earnest, sincere work, the charges made against us."

The claim is made that Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department at Washington has awarded the contract for the free seed distribution of congressmen, not to the lowest bidder, but to an Ohio firm who will clean up $40,000 on the deal at the expense of the government. The contract is for $180,000, and is about as fraudulent proceeding as the government could engage in. If free seeds, why not free clothing and free grub?

Looking in the Glass

COLUMBIA'S HALLOWE'EN. BY EDMUND VANCE COOK

Miss Columbia, on the night we know as Halloween, Peeped within the looking-glass to see what should be seen. Tip-toed backward to the glass and swiftly looked around. How her candle trembled and her blood ran cold and colder. For sure enough her future mate was just behind her shoulder.

Promptly at the mystic hour, she stole, without a sound, Tip-toed backward to the glass and swiftly looked around. How her candle trembled and her blood ran cold and colder. For sure enough her future mate was just behind her shoulder.

Miss Columbia's future mate showed snarled ivory rows. Which rose and fell and flashed and gashed defiance at their foes. She looked again upon his face and presently desecrated. A beaky brow whose ebbing hair was pretty near low tide.

Again, it seemed a southern type and just about to Pop; Again its abstinence preferred a Swallow to a drop. Again it seemed a Social chaf, who offered her his soul, Provided she would put it under government control.

Once more she looked upon the face which glimpsed behind her back. And as her candle sputtered out, behold, the face was black! And Miss Columbia sought her rest upon that Halloween. A little doubtful as to what the augury could mean.

The information has gotten out that Judge Parker is a greater admirer of Governor Hogg, and that he regards Hogg as one of the south's greatest men. Now, then, this news will almost paralyze Tom Hall and a few other railroad lawyers in Texas—Tyler Courier.

It is not surprising that Judge Parker should be an admirer of Governor Hogg when he has come to know the man personally. The sturdy honesty and great ability of the man must appeal with great force to all who come to know him as he actually is.

The republican leaders of Texas say they will try to induce Senator Fairbanks to visit Texas. We hope they will do so at once. It might afford us relief from the torrid heat. If the visit is postponed until late in October it will do us no good. We are liable to have a cold wave at any time then.—Houston Post.

Our republican friends should wait until the top crop of cotton is fully matured before bringing Fairbanks into this state. The fall in temperature induced by his coming would occasion heavy losses all over the cotton belt of this state.

The Journal joins with every honest citizen of Texas, as well as every good democrat, in the hope that the amendment to the Terrell election law proposed by Representative Love will be adopted at the next meeting of the legislature. It proposes to eliminate the convention entirely, and the further the convention is removed from the nomination of candidates for office that much nearer will the primary election and party nominations be brought to honesty and by the same ratio will the will of the people be obeyed. Let every question be decided by ballot and then let the man who receives the greatest number of votes become the candidate. No honest man can oppose this simple method.—Beaumont Journal.

The Terrell election law will be an issue in the next state legislature, and its fate is problematical. The fact that its enemies were able to tack on so many amendments during its passage may be accepted as an indication that it is going to feel cold steel when it is again up for consideration. The political grafter is not yet fully resigned to the situation.

F. W. Seabury of Rio Grande, Starr county, who is slated for the speakership of the next Texas house of representatives, says the coming session of the legislature will be a long one. We hope it will be long enough to develop somebody in it with brains enough to devise some ways and means to extricate the state from its miserable condition financially, and to provide methods to prevent it from getting into such a slough again. But from a look over the prospective personnel of the house we don't have much hope of such development.—Orange Tribune.

The Tribune should not form a too hasty conclusion. The next legislature contains many new men, and it is possible they may redeem many of the errors of its predecessors. Let us watch and pray.

Former Senator Hill has set the pace for other democratic orators in placing before the people the action of President Roosevelt in the Panama affair. He strikes out from the shoulder, openly accuses the executive of lawlessness and produces the record to prove it. His speech was an exceptionally strong one, even from this talented and experienced statesman.—Austin Statesman.

Senator Hill's speech was a very able effort, and showed the great Panama steal up in its true light. He placed the responsibility for the act where it legitimately belongs, and proves that it was Roosevelt's ambition to shine that was at the bottom of the whole affair.

"What the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina" will not be given even in a whisper at the legislative day banquet. Governor Davis is a Rock River Baptist and Governor Lanham a prohibitionist. True, an aristocratic Baptist church at Little Rock expelled Governor Davis for dram-drinking, but the Rock River church reinstated him and defied the Little Rock disciplinarians. Governor Davis is opposed to nepotistic practices and as Governor Lanham is running on the same platform the two should be friends as well as neighbors and drown their sorrows as well as their joys in celery tonic libations.—Dallas Times-Herald.

With Lanham's tears and Davis' mouth both in evidence at Dallas, the banqueters ought to feel somewhat exhilarated even if the usual trimmings are cut out. Governor Lanham may be a prohibitionist, as the Times-Herald states, but what was it he said to the San Antonio brewer?

Various newspapers are asserting that Jim Davis, the prohibitionist, is going over the state challenging the democrats to trot out a man to meet him in joint debate. That's queer. Those who favor prohibition in these parts always said that there was nothing political in the movement in Texas—that it is all purely moral in its tendency and its tone. If that be true, then pray why is Jim Davis seeking to devour some democrat in debate?—Denison Herald.

Perhaps Jim is only trying to earn his salary. But this much is morally certain—if the prohibition question is kept out of state politics, it will be due wholly to the action of the democratic party. A state prohibition campaign is one of the things that democracy is very wisely striving to steer clear of.

Parties make a republic. Without parties, this government would be a despotism ruled by the men in control of the machinery. If the people were offered no choice, if one all-powerful political organization were in control of the nation, if there were no organized opposition, the forms of popular government might as well be abolished. But the presence of an opposition, even though weak, keeps the party in power on its good behavior. The ruling party dare not arouse the anger of the people, lest in their wrath the people put the opposition into the offices.—Austin Tribune.

And parties also unmake a republic, as is attested by the acts of the party now in power, which is rapidly bringing the situation to a climax in this country.

The next legislature may be impudently submitted a prohibition constitutional amendment to the people, but that will be all. Texas has more important matters on hand now than that of engaging in a non-sensical prohibition fight.—Fort Worth Telegram.

It is not improbable that the next legislature will be petitioned to submit such an amendment, in which case the courage of the members will be put to a severe test, because the prohibitionists will push the women to the front to carry their point. During the pending of a measure at a recent session, a legislator who was an anti-prohibitionist, was so strongly besieged by ladies that he weakened at the last moment and went over to his friends, the enemy, with the remark: "I can't fight a whole regiment of men, but I can't fight women."—San Antonio Express.

The next legislature will hardly submit the amendment, even if the ladies of the state are active in its behalf. They will realize the harm that must come from a bitter fight over this question and will tell the promoters of the measure that in local option they have a remedy for the evils of which they complain.

Secretary Morton wants to drop from the navy officers who do not pay their debts. President Roosevelt wanted to coerce the South American republic to go on running up a fresh deficit every month.—Houston Chronicle.

It is a mighty good idea for every man to pay his debts, and where he can do so, and will not, it is proper to use compulsion. But with its record for reckless extravagance, the government will find it a hard matter to bring its employees down to a debt-paying basis.

CROPS IN TEXAS

The fruit men at their meeting at Tyler have perfected a state organization and have elected officers for the ensuing year. They are not to try the experiment of letting the fruits they raise be handled by the association, but a number of the members have voted to let a general manager handle some of it and to follow instructions in the packing and shipping of the fruit. The meetings have been rather stormy ones on account of some of the members being possessed of a soreness at the thought of taking away from them some of the profits by co-operation, instead of increasing them.

On the 10th of the month a Good Roads convention is to be held at Beaumont. Many farmers and those interested in the maintenance of the good roads are to attend.

One thousand barrels of Texas apples have been given away at the St. Louis exposition. Certainly no better way has ever been thought of to advertise the apple raising possibilities of the state.

A large granary near Hillsboro was destroyed by fire on Thursday night. The building was full of grain.

The first bale of cotton ginned this season and coming from the Staked Plains country has been handled. The cotton sold for 9 cents a pound and the owner received a price of $7.50 beside.

At Greenville so far this year 6,200 bales of cotton has been marketed.

New corn is being placed on the market at Ballou. Many of the farmers have not yet had time to gather the corn, as they have been too busy with the large cotton crop.

Near Kopperl, the army worms have gotten into the cotton and are destroying the foliage of the plants and in other ways damaging the cotton. In some places, it is said, they are eating the volunteer oats and the crab grass after finishing the cotton.

About eight thousand bales have so far been delivered at Farmersville this season. Farmers are sowing the wheat in the Iowa Park country. The soil at the present time is in fine shape. The cotton crop is somewhat backward and will not all be gathered for some time yet.

Farmers about Middlethian are holding their cotton for a better price. The leaf worm is eating the leaves off the cotton and also from the fruit trees, but the farmers are inclined to believe that in the former case this will hasten the ripening of the cotton and make it ready to pick that much sooner. The prevailing low price of cotton has caused the farmers of Fannin county to hold back the cotton until at least they can receive 10 cents. The cotton receipts at Ennis up to Thursday evening were 7,015 bales.

Very little cotton is being sold at Burleson on account of the low prices prevailing for the past week. The farmers not only there but over the entire state are holding their cotton for a better market price.

A French firm is about to place on the market a novelty in postal cards. To an ordinary pictorial card is affixed a very thin transparent gelatine disc, on which is impressed a gramophone musical record. A hole is pierced through the center of the disc, and the post card can be placed on an ordinary "talking machine" and played in the usual way. The fact that about four million deaths from fevers, mostly malarial, are caused in India every year indicates the stupendous importance of the mosquito problem. It has been proven that people dwelling in houses sited a mile from the breeding grounds of the anopheles variety of mosquitoes are practically free from malaria.

A ROMANCE OF THE CRESCENT CITY

By CARRIE ELIZABETH LOGAN. (Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.)

Cle Jansen did not join the frenzied women in their denunciation of the Union fleet approaching New Orleans. She remained calmly and contemptuously viewing the strange scene from the gallery of her father's home. Viola Convers leaned forward, exulting in the thick black smoke that announced the burning of cotton on the crescent levee.

"Cle, you are an icicle. Hear them cry 'Burn the town!' They are willing to suffer the most frightful death for the beloved cause."

"Those who shout would be the first to yell in terror at the flames," said Cle, quietly.

Lucile Jansen was a banker's beautiful daughter. Her home was one of the finest on Prytania street, an old mansion with a spacious garden, where magnolia and fig trees bloomed. She was intensely patriotic but un-demonstrative. Her hair was glossy black mass with blue high lights, while her skin was of ivory whiteness without color. Black eyes and proudly cut features gave a regal severity to her perfect face.

Lieutenant Merriman, accustomed to the courting and petting of northern belles, was surprised at the unflattering reception of Union officers by lovely southern girls. Actual insult stopped after General Butler issued his famous "Woman Order," but ladies continued to vacate a street car when a Union officer entered, or affected nausea at the sight of a blue uniform. It was hard to have the pretty faces turned steadily to the walls when Harmon passed the galleries of their homes, but it did not actually grieve him until he caught a glimpse of Lucile Jansen reading by the fountain in her old-fashioned garden. The young officer fell desperately in love.

A block below the Jansen home was General Butler's headquarters. Mr. Jansen had cruelly beaten a young female slave named Lucy. He was warned not to repeat the offence. This aroused the ire of the old banker and again Lucy felt his heavy cane.

Lieutenant Merriman was sent to carry out the general's orders. A chair was placed on the sidewalk in front of the house. There the banker was forced to sit in the sun all day.

Under such unfavorable auspices Harmon Merriman met Cle Jansen. When not on duty he found occasions to stroll up Prytania street, carrying back pictures of the girl, who never noticed him by word or sign.

A fierce tropical rain descended upon the city and the levee broke. Cle and Viola were out shopping. They could not descend from the carriage, as the water was a foot deep in the streets. From headquarters the young lieutenant watched the carriage drive up and stop. Miss Jansen's head appeared. Then the carriage drove on. Lieutenant Merriman rushed down stairs to assist the maiden when the carriage returned. It took Miss Convers home; and she waded to the stoop. Cle meant to be equally brave, but when her carriage halted, there stood that detestable Yankee officer, knee-deep in water, cap in hand, in the pouring rain. She hesitated.

"Pray let me assist you, madam," said the lieutenant with grave respect. Pride in appearance prevailed, and she motioned him imperiously to the carriage door. He carried his lovely burden to the dry steps of her house. She dismissed him with a gracious "thank you."

Harmon was ordered to search the Jansen house for arms. Cle had dressed for dinner in the long, flowing white gown she affected. A knot of red ribbon in her black tresses and at her slender waist proclaimed her sentiments. She was sitting at the piano in the darkened parlor when the doorbell rang. Looking up she saw Lieutenant Merriman. Was it reflection from the red ribbon, or did a marvelous color creep into her soft cheeks? She did not move. Lucy answered the bell.

"Laws, Miss Cle, dis Union nian wants to search the house."

"Tell him to do it." She did not raise her eyes to the man waiting eagerly at the parlor door.

"But," he commenced. Cle rose abruptly and disappeared in the darkness of the further room. He searched and found nothing.

People in New Orleans had plenty to eat, but those in the country were starving. Cle heard that her aunt life. Humbling her pride she went with Viola to ask for a pass. Passes had been so much abused that General Butler gave Harmon Merriman orders to refuse all, and the luckless lieutenant was powerless to grant the appeal of the beautiful girl he loved.

"You will let an old woman die of starvation! What is your price?" Harmon flushed. "Money cannot buy my honor. Tell me where your aunt is and I will go to her succor."

There was such a tumult of feeling in Cle's hitherto unemotional soul, despair, remorse, gratitude, that the queenly beauty fell on her knees and kissed the lieutenant's hand.

Harmon was at the Episcopal church, opposite headquarters, when the service was stopped because the pastor omitted the prayer for the president. Like other officers, he was in plain clothes. Cle recognized him and hissed "Spy!" as she rustled past him in a silk dress that had seen better days.

This was Cle's last insult. The banker sickened under his misfortunes and lost his eyesight from the spread of cataracts. One night the Jansen home took fire. Cle helped her father, and sent the frightened Lucy for help. Lucy alarmed the federal headquarters, but nothing could save the old home.

Morning found the proud girl in General Butler's parlor. Lieutenant Merriman stood at the window.

"I have a wealthy uncle in Washington who would care for my poor father, if I could get through the lines."

"That is impossible, unless you go as the wife of a Union officer."

"Never," said Cle, paling with anger.

"and compel your love by my devotion." Cle knew she loved him. "Don't tell father," she whispered, as she yielded to the pressure of his arm. "Let us take him safely to Washington."

CITY COUNCIL

Tax Rate for the Year Was Fixed at One Dollar and Seventy-five Cents Per Hundred at Regular Meeting

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

Pay of Members Was Increased From Three to Five Dollars Per Day, and Alderman Lehane Pays a High Compliment to the Members

Placing of the tax rate for 1904 at $1.75 per hundred dollars, increasing the pay of the city board of equalization from $3 to $5 and granting additional franchises to the Rosen Heights car line were the principal affairs transacted by the city council at an interesting session held last night.

Things that were not done also formed an interesting chapter of the session, the meter question developing into so warm a fight that a postponement was taken on the matter until the return of the city engineer. An application of the Rosen Heights line for privileges to extend its tracks on Front street about fifty feet further than at present granted them was also held over for another session.

The session opened with the report of the claims committee allowing payment of accounts to the amount of $29,234.29, including $6,407 for the city schools. The report was adopted.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

A report was received from City Attorney Orrick regarding the work of the board of equalization of taxes. He reported that though it proved necessary for the city to make a bold stand in a number of cases, no serious difficulty was met but in one case, and that that had been arranged without danger of contest. As a result of the work of the board has announced an increase in revenues from personal property alone would be $35,000, and about $17,500 from real estate. The report was received and filed.

A petition was next heard and granted allowing the members of the board an increase in salary from $3 a day to $5 for each of the eighty-five days during which the sessions were held. Alderman Lehane, in approving this report, complimented the board a high compliment, averring that three other men of equal ability could not be gotten to serve in the position at the $3 salary.

The official tax list for the year was then presented, showing the figures as first correctly printed in the Telegram of yesterday.

CHIEF MADDOX TO GO

Chief Maddox of the fire department was granted permission to attend and participate in the firemen's contests at the Dallas fair, taking with him a hose cart five men, his wagon and three horses. The best wishes of the council were also voted to attend the firemen in the contests in which they are expected to carry off first honors.

The August and September reports of City Physician Chambers were received and filed.

Report on the value of the Trident and Worthington water meters, respectively, was read and filed, being taken up later, when that matter came up for discussion.

THE ROSEN LINE

An ordinance granting the Rosen Heights line permission to cut across the city property near the wire bridge so as to strike the street at the nearest point from the Rosen bridge, also to construct their track on the south line of Bluff street instead of in the center of the street, according to the former franchise, was presented. Attorney R. W. Flournoy explained the objects of the company and the purpose of the ordinance was passed under a suspension of the rules. Another section of the ordinance, permitting the extension of their line to Front street, was referred to the streets and alleys committee, their representative stating that there was no immediate urgency regarding this part of the franchise, which was desired merely to afford greater opportunity to relieve congestion of traffic at that point.

A petition from residents along May street from the corner of the street to Tenth avenue, asking for an extension of the water mains, was referred to the water works committee.

THE EDINGTON AGREEMENT

A report was next filed with the council stating an agreement reached between Captain H. C. Edgington and the board of equalization of taxes, by which Captain Edgington agrees to an assessment of $50,000 on personal property, and an assessment of $50,000 on the property of the Texas Loan and Reserve Company for the year, agreeing to pay the same without contest in consideration of all back personal tax claims being released by the city. The action of the board was adopted by the council.

A petition for the grading and grading of Rosedale streets was next read and referred to the streets and alleys committee.

Application of J. W. Bell to become a special policeman at half pay, was referred to the police committee.

THE TAX LEVY

The tax levy ordinance was next taken up and the rate fixed at $1.75, divided into 25 cents for streets and water; 25 cents for school purposes; 60 cents for interest and sinking fund and 65 cents for general fund. A poll tax of $1 was also declared. A 1 per cent discount on taxes paid by December 1 and 2 per cent on those paid by October 30 is allowed. After February 1, 1905, taxes will be declared delinquent and subject to 1 per cent penalty for every month thereafter.

THE METER BIDS

Water meters were taken up, being the subject for a heated debate between Alderman Lehane and Moreland. Alderman Lehane urged speedy action as the night was the twentieth anniversary of his marriage, and he wished to be with his family. Alderman Moreland said that under the circumstances, the council would excuse Alderman Lehane. Alderman Lehane, however, declined to be excused while the meter question was up.

On request, the report of City Engineer Hawley and Superintendent Calhoun of the water works was read.

Alderman Lehane and Moreland took different meanings from the report. Alderman Lehane favoring the Trident meter if the city had meters, to which is opposed, and Alderman Moreland favoring the less expensive Worthington meter, in view of the company's guarantee. He finally moved that the Worthington bid be accepted, but Alderman Lehane moved that the matter be held over for the next meeting, when the city engineer would be present, and his motion was carried.

The bids were as reported at the time of the special meeting of the council, held to consider the same matter.

Adjournment was then had.

AMUSEMENTS

The large dramatic attractions which tour the country have no place during a performance for vaudeville, and specialists are set out, the attention of the audience during the evening being closely fixed on the thread of a story in which the illustrations are true to life and living, and the words which unfold the happening are spoken. But the popular price attraction offers something more than the play. Between the acts there is not the wait which larger shows bring about, but there is singing, dancing, etc. The specialties presented by the Stater Theater Company are above the ordinary, and chief of them is the singing by Miss Leona Stater. Miss Stater sings after the first act, when she is not in the cast of the play being presented, and her singing is of the high class. It is not of popular songs with a jingle or of negro melodies with badly pronounced words, but music of the highest order, and those who heard her last night enjoyed the two numbers to the fullest extent. She is a vocalist of ability. Her gowns, too, are handsome, and stately and tall, with the stage appearance of a prima donna, she certainly pleases.

Last night the company presented "Tennessee's Partner," one of the most delightful comedies ever written. It was well given, and well received. Miss Ruth Gay has the part of Tennessee Kent, and a charming little soubrette she is. The play was well cast. Mr. Benton being in the leading character.

The DeArmond sisters, who are good singers and dancers, gave specialties. They are two Fort Worth girls, who were taught by Professor Harry Foote, and their work is pleasing.

Tonight the company will close its engagement with "A Gambler's Daughter."

MR. TIM MURPHY

Tim Murphy, who has long been one of the greatest stage favorites, and who possesses an individuality that distinguishes him as a comedian of the very highest type, is to appear here on Monday and Tuesday nights, October 10 and 11, at Greenwall's opera house, in two new comedies which have so far been most pronounced successes. On Monday night, October 10, he will give "Two Men and a Girl," Frederick Paulding's romantic play, which is said to be the most complete blending of comedy and romance in each play Mr. Murphy will be seen in a role congenial to his peculiar ability and well worthy of his distinguished efforts.

As every one knows who at all follows the theater, Tim Murphy is a comedian of the highest standard, and while delightfully frolic in the portrayal of comedy roles, is still possessed of unusual ability in characters of a more serious type. His work is at all times framed by what more than one distinguished critic has termed—genius—and he has proven in every thing he has done in the past his mastery of the line he follows. In "Two Men and a Girl," he offers a reflection of comedy and sentiment, which as given by him is perfectly delightful, while in "When a Man Marries" he is the embodiment of dignified amusement through his own original methods.

Mr. Murphy claims to have this season the very best supporting company he has yet had, the selection of the members having been made in view of the representation of the two plays. Among the list is Dorothy Sherron, whose charming person is well known to the public, and who has hitherto won her much recognition. She will have the principal supporting role in each of the two plays.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 8.—All the halibut fishermen of this port have gone on strike and three steamers are without fishing crews. The trouble is about wages. The men have been paid 25 cents per fish and the company has adopted a new rule for paying them 1 cent per pound for fish. The latter method of payment the men have refused to accept.

THE STOCKMEN SAY HUNTERS ARE A NUISANCE

They Object to the Sport in Their Pastures—Very Little Trading Is Being Done in San Angelo Country

SAN ANGELO, TEXAS, Oct. 8.—Complaints are being made by some ranchmen of hunting in their pastures by men with dogs. Seaton Keith is advertising in the local papers, requesting that such practices be stopped, as they injure his stock. He claims that last year $2,000 damage was done his stock by this reprehensible custom.

The hunting is done at night as a rule and usually along streams in search of coons, wild cats and the like. Keith's ranch on Lipan affords very good sport in this line, but much to the detriment of the stock. Complaints from certain sections of the stock country are made as to damage being done by wolves. Coyotes do not kill much stock beyond young calves or lambs, but the large lobes or "loners" create considerable havoc, as no animal is too large for their vicious teeth and fall victims to the voracious wolves. Trappers are hired to exterminate them and the ranches are speedily rid of the worst members of such stock-killing packs of wolves.

Little trading is being done through this section at present and the stockmen do not expect any great activity here for some time yet. Since the washouts and floods in the territories, the Santa Fe agent here will not accept stock for shipment to that country. Consequently some shipments are being delayed. J. E. and S. H. Henderson have been holding 1,200 steers here for a week, waiting for their acceptance for shipment to Kaw City, Okla., where they will run them on rough feed through the winter.

Fall shearing is going on still and has not been entirely concluded, although a great deal of the wool has come in to the warehouses here. The fall clip, while not anything like as heavy as the spring clip, is yet a considerable one in this western section. There are a good many sheep being bought and sold among the stockmen and the sheep business appears to be on the incline for the first time in years. If the sheepsman get the good price for their wool, the fall clip will undoubtedly be more of an increase in their numbers out in this section.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain. This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting. This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc. Allay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

The Glory of Maternity.

Nature, if left alone, will cure for itself; this might have been true at pre-historic times, but since for ages it has not been left alone, but has been bound down and fettered by the observations and mandates of society, it can no longer cure for itself.

At no time does the truth of this appeal to us more strongly than at that period of a woman's life when she is about to become a mother.

Nature must be assisted at this crisis, and for this very contingency has been devised that the muscles and tissues imprisoned and weakened as they have been by the stress of our higher civilization, may fulfill without undue suffering and possible lasting harm, the functions for which the Creator intended them.

Mother's Friend by its kindly office softens and relaxes these parts and enables the mother to be, to pass through the parturient period and actual crisis with practically no suffering to herself and an easy delivery of her offspring.

It is applied externally as a massage, and is a non-irritating, soothing, and most efficacious treatment. It is sold in all drug stores. The book "Motherhood" sent free on request.

BUFFALO MESS

Coatsworth, the Prosecutor, Will Go After the Public Thieves Regardless of Politics—The Exposures

AFTER THE BIG GUNS

Public Now Looking for Action Against Those Who "Cut Up Big Melons"—Some Details of the Rottenness of the Pan-American City

Written for The Telegram by Jacob Waldeck, Staff Correspondent of the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Two men, a stalwart private citizen willing to fight against corruption and a conscientious public official, are chiefly responsible for the trouble that has come to the hoodlums.

It was an ill fate for the hoodlums that placed Edward E. Coatsworth in the district attorney's office at the time of these disclosures. Big, honest, able and fearless, he is just the type of man politicians prefer not to see in the role of prosecutor. Coatsworth is the first democrat elected to the district attorney's office in this county since 1877. He is a native of Buffalo, 36 years old, rich, independent and a man of high character. Confidence is expressed on all sides that he will get to the bottom of all crookedness that can be reached regardless of whom the disclosures may affect. All of the men thus far indicted are republicans, but Coatsworth has not been subjected to criticism even on that score. With a red-hot campaign in progress the indictments may be a long way toward deciding great political issues, but it has not been said that Coatsworth had that fact in view. A republican newspaper published pretty close together in the same column the fact that the indicted men are republicans and a report that Coatsworth may be the democratic candidate for mayor next year. The district attorney was indignant over the insinuation and promptly issued this statement:

HE WANTS EVIDENCE

"I desire to call upon any resident of this city or elsewhere to furnish me with any information, proof or matter of evidence of any description against any public official, democrat or republican, of the past or the present, and I will present that evidence, proof or information to the grand jury without reservation, and I will prosecute just as diligently and honestly any indictments that the information and evidence given to me will warrant, as I have already presented the evidence in the cases upon which the present indictments have been found, and as diligently and honestly as I intend to prosecute them.

"I have no person, democrat or republican, to protect, nor any wrongdoing of any description to cover up."

With all that has been accomplished, Coatsworth is exceedingly modest. Beyond admitting that he is pursuing the investigation, he will say nothing of the future. There are no threats and no boasts. And it is this quiet assurance of the man that most worries the hoodlums. They have a deadly fear that if Coatsworth lights on them it will be with crushing effect.

Coatsworth never held office before and was not particularly conspicuous in the affairs of his party, but he seems destined to go the way of his law partners. The firm was Tabor, Sheehan, Cunneen & Coatsworth. Tabor became state attorney general, Sheehan was elected lieutenant governor and is now chief of Judge Parker's presidential campaign cabinet, and Cunneen is the present attorney general of the state. With the disposition everywhere to reward men who accomplish important results in the interest of pure government, there's no telling what will be in store for Coatsworth if he does well with the present crusade.

HEAVY WORK AHEAD

The heavy work is ahead. The fact that the men have been indicted does not establish their guilt. They will make bitter struggles to secure acquittal. And if they are convicted, their offense will be petty compared with many other cases of municipal corruption.

Two are accused of having accepted $50 for their support of the request of a firm in the suburbs to connect its plant with a city sewer. It is reported that the money was to have been divided among five aldermen, but that five or six of the number were cruelly frozen out.

Two ex-aldermen are alleged to have demanded $500 for their votes on a sewer contract, one high-flyer is said to have sought a fee of $2,225 in connection with the purchase of a school site, one is charged with having solicited a $25 bribe for his vote on a coal contract, and another is alleged to have made a deal whereby he was to receive 50 cents a load for cinders used by a contractor in resurfacing a street.

The keenest public interest attaches to the future. Folks are curious to learn whether or not the grand jury will talk or whether there is a season of retribution for big guns at hand. Reports are thick of combinations of contractors and aldermen to loot the treasury on a large scale. Officials higher than aldermen are mentioned in connection with these deals. There are said to have been "melons" cut that yielded as high as $25,000. A high official is charged with having milked a city fund, though probably under cover of law, to the amount of $50,000 or $75,000. Two officials are alleged to have supplied the city contrary to law. Charges in connection with the South Buffalo sewer, which started the crusade, do not figure in the indictments.

These matters are being thrashed out before the grand jury in secret, and before a council committee of investigation in public. Taxpayers and hoodlums are awaiting the outcome with eager interest.

A LAWYER EXPLAINS IT

Attorney E. C. Randall is the man to whom credit is due for the exposure of hoodlum methods among the aldermen. He began the work as a duty to clients. He has kept at it as a duty to the public. When Randall began to tip up the aldermanic way of doing things it was without the slightest notion of posing as a reformer. The work was strictly business. Publicity necessarily attended the work and it attracted the attention of many people with grievances. They had been kept out of their rights, blackmailed and otherwise bedeviled by aldermen, and there never had seemed to them to be any short road to a remedy. Randall's style appealed to them. It offered hope and so they rushed to him with their grievances. A sense of public duty moved him to accept the burden.

Intimate acquaintance with wrongdoing in a score or more of cases has pretty well qualified Randall to act as an authority on conditions here. For the benefit that may come to other cities, he was asked to tell the underlying cause of the corruption here and the way to reform.

"Conditions in Buffalo," he said, "are the same as in every large city. No better, no worse. Custom makes common law. Common law makes common practice. The conditions here have come about under the practice whereby men in city councils seek perquisites just as the laborer goes out to earn $1.50 per day. They pocket this money with the same satisfaction that the laborer does his honest dollar.

"I got into this matter as the attorney for 103 citizens who protested against the construction of a sewer in South Buffalo. The sewer was to cost $74,000, nearly all of which was to be paid by my clients. It was chiefly for the benefit of one man, whose assessment was only $2,400. The protest of my clients had merit. We appeared before the aldermen with dignity, character and earnestness. Our arguments were ignored, and the measure for the construction of this sewer was passed. I learned afterwards that the whole thing had been fixed and that they had the necessary thirteen votes pledged, even before they listened to my arguments. Then the matter went to the council. About that time a sewer contractor came to me with the information that there was jobbery in the contract. Shortly afterward another man told me of collusion among sewer contractors to keep up the prices of work. I asked him if he was sure about it and he simply laughed.

"You don't need to go away from your own street, West Ferry," he said, "in order to learn how the thing is done. There was $24,000 graft in the West Ferry street job."

Mr. Randall detailed the result of his investigation of the methods pursued by the aldermen and contractors in the construction of sewers. They insisted upon building the South Buffalo sewer at a cost of $74,000. He found that some time before they had rejected a bid of $54,000 for doing the same work. It is now pending in the council, and if it goes through, somebody will get a rake-off of $7,000.

BIDS FOR A SEWER

Bids for the West Ferry street sewer were asked three times before the project was satisfactory to the aldermen. On the first offering the lowest bid was $32,464 and on the second $34,500. Both these bids were rejected. When the contract was advertised again and the lowest bid was $55,900. It was accepted.

"The public works department," said Mr. Randall scornfully, "claimed to have made an estimate that the job could not be done for less than $55,000. I denounce that estimate as fraudulent."

John Harker made the bid of $34,000 for the West Ferry street sewer, but the contract was denied him because he refused to pay $4,500 blood money to aldermen. Other cases in which prices were boosted have been found.

Randall gave the collusion among contractors as a reason for not building the South Buffalo sewer. A committee was appointed to learn whether there really was a combination of the contractors.

"I heard no more about it," he said, "until one day I got a telephone message to come over to the city hall and prove my charges.

"What charges?" I asked.

"Your charges of collusion in connection with the South Buffalo sewer."

"It was an unexpected call, but I accepted the invitation. I had no evidence except the affidavit of one man and the city records, but I told them that I was ready. In order to get at the facts in the case I gave them a drag net list of men whom I wanted called as witnesses. With this material I went to work digging for evidence. It did not take long to strike pay dirt and the investigation soon found on a serious aspect. The most important evidence was either heard by the committee in secret or given direct to the district attorney. The result is found in the report made a few days ago by the grand jury.

"The men indicted have simply received the crumbs that have fallen from the big thieves' table. You know in every crusade it is the little fellows who are caught first. There may be a department in the city government that is honest, but my attention has not been called to it.

"Since this matter came up the people have come to me with evidence of all kinds of graft, bribery and corruption. I have now under investigation twenty-six specific charges. Some of these involve large amounts of money.

"Similar conditions exist in every large city. Graft has entered into all of our municipal governments. The education of many office-holders seems to have been that they are fully entitled to perquisites. This has become so general that to demand graft seems to have become almost legitimate.

"The work that has been done here has demonstrated what any attorney of ordinary ability and courage can accomplish in any of the large cities of the country. When the exposure was brought to bear upon those engaged in it and the newspapers to stop. This pressure was, of course, exerted without avail. All that an attorney requires is the support of the people and a power to show up fraud, punish wrong-doers and promote good government."

NOON LUNCHEONS
To Interest the Women

A bright young business woman who lives in a big city says:

"This is in reference to noon lunches for working women. I have had much trouble about my lunch, getting rather tired of the cold lunches I brought and which are not very appetizing by the time the noon hour comes.

"I had heard so much about Grape-Nuts I determined to try that food, so had a local creamery deliver half a quart of cream to the office every day at noon and this with Grape-Nuts of which I kept a pkg. In the office, I found added greatly to the meal.

"Then gradually I ceased to use anything but the Grape-Nuts and cream and for the last four months have had nothing but this for lunch and am perfectly satisfied, am better and stronger in nerves, body and brain and enjoy the glow of perfect health.

"My lunch now costs me about 6c a day and I have gained 25 pounds. I hope some working girl who is bothered about what to have for lunch will profit by this." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Try Grape-Nuts ten days and prove for yourself what a scientifically made food will do.

Accident This Morning Which Results in Injury to Carl Newton, Aged Seven Years—Was Unavoidable

Carl Newton, aged 7 years, was quite painfully injured by being run down by a bicyclist who was coming down over the Jennings avenue viaduct about 9 o'clock this morning.

With his brother, Ross Newton, Carl was crossing the street near Pendry's grocery, when the bicyclist came pell-mell down the street from the viaduct. He was going at such speed it was impossible to check up, and while he called to the boys to look out, it was of no avail.

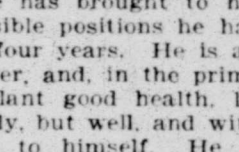

Carl was struck by the wheel on the left side of the waist and leg, and hurled violently to the ground, his head striking the rails of the street car track.

The wound on the calf of the leg is an ugly one. It is not believed the boy is seriously injured.

He was picked up by Mr. Pendry and carried to the home of his parent, 1012 Monroe street, accompanied by the bicyclist, whose name was not learned. He said, however, the accident was unavoidable and he deeply regretted it. He helped to care for the injured boy.

TWENTY YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE HAPPINESS

Alderman and Mrs. J. F. Lehane Are Surprised by Their Friends—Many Handsome Presents Are Sent to Them

The twentieth wedding anniversary of Alderman J. F. Lehane and Mrs. Lehane, who was Miss Katie Mullaney of Houston before her marriage, was celebrated last night at their residence, 1405 Huffman street, in a way entirely surprising to Mr. and Mrs. Lehane, although planned for many weeks by his fellow workers in the Cotton Belt road and members of the city administration.

Following the adjournment of the council, Alderman Lehane changed his hat but arrived there but a few moments in advance of his friends, who poured in to congratulate him and his wife upon the anniversary.

City Ticket Agent John Adams of the Cotton Belt was the first to get the float out of the preliminary congratulations and hand shakings, and on behalf of the local Cotton Belt force and a large contingent from Dallas, who came over for the occasion, presented Alderman Lehane with a handsome diamond stud.

On Alderman Lehane's last birthday, Mrs. Lehane remembered him in a similar way, the gift, unfortunately later being lost. In view of this fact the Cotton Belt boys requested Mrs. Lehane to make the transfer of the gift to her husband which was accordingly done to the delight of all present.

Scarcely had the alderman adorned himself with the jewel to his entire satisfaction when City Secretary Montgomery, on behalf of himself, Messrs. J. H. Maddox, W. E. Biddeker, John P. King and J. W. Renfro, called his attention to a handsome leather couch sent by them as a token of friendship. J. E. Mitchell sent out a beautiful cut glass water carafe, and other friends took advantage of the occasion to evidence their esteem by gifts.

Alderman Lehane responded with difficulty to the good wishes of his friends, endeavoring to express the pleasure given both himself and wife.

The guests were made to feel perfectly at home and remained until late hours with Mr. and Mrs. Lehane, and upon leaving, wished them continued happiness and divine permission to celebrate their fiftieth anniversary in their happy home.

John F. Lehane was born in 1858 in County Kildare, Ireland, and from the date of his birth came to the United States at the age of twenty-five years ago. He early entered into the business of rail-roading and his aptitude for the work, his energy and his thoroughness have combined to make his advancement and success constant and marked. Locally he is first service in the Texas and Fort Worth and the Santa Fe in minor positions, and then was appointed the auditor for the Fort Worth and New Orleans. His service with the Fort Worth and New Orleans Company was followed by a connection with the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company, and later with the Texas and Fort Worth.

In 1884 he was offered the chance to better his position in the railway world and went to Corsicana as the agent of the Cotton Belt, a change which, as the result has proven, was much to his good. In 1897 he was transferred to Fort Worth with the duties of commercial agent assigned to him. He was in 1899 tendered the important position of general passenger and ticket agent. Not long after this appointment he was given additionally the yet more responsible office of general freight agent, thus combining the management of the money producing agencies of a railway under one personality. His management has been approved by those in authority, and the revenues of the road speak most eloquently of the ability he has brought to his work in the responsible positions he has now filled for over four years. He is an almost tireless worker, and, in the prime of life, with redundant good health, he does his work quickly, well, and with no seeming fatigue to himself. He is also the alderman for the Fourth ward of the city of Fort Worth, and fully does all of his duty in that position with the same thorough attention to detail that has marked his railway work.

As a city official his career has been marked by the greatest frankness and straightforwardness. He never fails to voice his full sentiments, and meet every issue squarely, either on the floor of the council or in private gatherings, and has made a great executive record as chairman of the water works committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Lehane have a son and two daughters at the home, who celebrated with them the happy event.

NORRIS & ROWE SHOWS HAVE BIG CROWD

Parade This Morning Was Satisfactory and There Is a Big Audience Under Tent This Afternoon

Today the city is the storm center of fun and frolic, brilliant scenes and gaily attired. The cause is the appearance of Norris & Rowe's combined animal show and circus carnival. This coalition of forces has projected a magnificent program for the delectation of the hundreds of out of town and townspeople who are prepared to enjoy circus day to the fullest extent. The program this morning proved more than satisfying and promises made in advance were more than fulfilled. The street pageant attracted hundreds of people and the pavements were lined from curb to curb. Hearty applause was frequently heard along the line of march as the circus manager, wisely prepared in advance to take good care of the thousands who were soon to besedge the ticket wagon. That this forethought was necessary is best evidenced by the crowded condition of the tents this afternoon.

On all sides is heard unanimous approval of the entertainments offered this season by Messrs. Norris and Rowe. The program proved a veritable feast of novelties, high class circus acts and exhibitions of what can be done by the animal trainer in his education of wild and native beasts. Upon entering the new manager's tent, there will be big surprises that Messrs. Norris and Rowe really did acquire a complete new menagerie. This combined with the one they had last season, makes it larger and more interesting than any ever seen here. A good half hour can be profitably spent in watching the animals. In the big tent proper, the most notable features were the daring aerial acts of the famous Belford family, the Flying LaVans, Melonette, LaNole and Melonette, a sensational high wire wire act, the Groh Family, the eight Okla Japanese Troupe, Mile Amy, George Sother, the clever rider, the McDonald Bros., the performing elephants, sea lions, dogs, monkeys, bears, ponies and so many other attractive and interesting features that it is simply impossible to enumerate them all.

From the talk aroused by the success of the show this afternoon, the indications are that there will be big attendance tonight. Towards that end, Messrs. Norris and Rowe are making every preparation to provide comfort for their patrons. Every one is assured a seat and there will be plenty of guides to show them the wonders of the menagerie.

Tonight Professor Smith's orchestra and band will be in the big tent, presenting an extra feature by giving a special concert. Popular and classical numbers will be happily blended and this should make a pleasing promenade.

A WHEELMAN RUNS DOWN A BOY AT THE VIADUCT

Accident This Morning Which Results in Injury to Carl Newton, Aged Seven Years—Was Unavoidable

Carl Newton, aged 7 years, was quite painfully injured by being run down by a bicyclist who was coming down over the Jennings avenue viaduct about 9 o'clock this morning.

With his brother, Ross Newton, Carl was crossing the street near Pendry's grocery, when the bicyclist came pell-mell down the street from the viaduct. He was going at such speed it was impossible to check up, and while he called to the boys to look out, it was of no avail.

Carl was struck by the wheel on the left side of the waist and leg, and hurled violently to the ground, his head striking the rails of the street car track.

The wound on the calf of the leg is an ugly one. It is not believed the boy is seriously injured.

He was picked up by Mr. Pendry and carried to the home of his parent, 1012 Monroe street, accompanied by the bicyclist, whose name was not learned. He said, however, the accident was unavoidable and he deeply regretted it. He helped to care for the injured boy.

CIRCUS ENJOYMENT HAS SAID ENDING FOR A GIRL

After Witnessing Parade Is Run Over by Grocery Wagon on Main Street and Severely Injured

Having just witnessed the circus parade, to view which, she, with a number of other children, had been taken, little Cordie McLin, the 9-year-old daughter of J. A. McLin of 810 Maddox avenue, was severely injured at First and Main streets this morning by being run over by a grocery wagon.

Mrs. McLin, with the child, and a number of friends with their children, were standing at the corner of First and Main streets after the procession had passed waiting for a car to return home. As the car approached, the child started forward and breaking loose from her mother, who was holding her by the hand, she dashed directly in front of the approaching team. The front wheels grazed her face, pushing her to one side, but one of the rear wheels passed directly across her body. Luckily the wagon was empty and the driver being on the front seat, there was comparatively little weight on the rear of the wagon. The driver at once jumped from his seat and carried the little girl into the office of Dr. Newton, where her injuries were dressed. No bones were broken and her injuries, though severe, are not considered serious.

The little girl showed the greatest fortitude while her injuries were being attended to and beyond complaining that the medicines applied burned, she made little outcry.

The ladies who were in the party escorted the driver of the wagon from the blame and said the occurrence was purely an accident. After receiving attention, the girl was removed to her home.
