MISS HELEN GOULD SPENDS MOMENTS IN THE CITY

Daughter of the Former Wizard of the Railroad World Passes Through Fort Worth on Her Way to the West

Miss Helen Miller Gould, the philanthropist and benefactor of railroad Young Men's Christian Associations, has visited Fort Worth and is now speeding across the state in a special coach for El Paso, after a short stop at Big Springs, to inspect the railroad Y. M. C. A. at that point.
The thought of assistance from her in a financial way toward the establishment of an institution of that nature for this city, where three Gould lines center, has gone glimmering with her. Fort Worth is evidently as far from the establishment of such an institution as it was before her visit. At least the only assurance the distinguished guest would give that Fort Worth was worthy of her assistance in that line was in answer to a query put to her by one of the Fort Worth citizens, who runs the gauntlet of her party and her servants and succeeded in getting into the car, and made bold to ask her if she was to help Fort Worth in establishing an institution of that nature. She said: "I am always glad to help in an undertaking of that kind, but I cannot say that I will say anything now." Another question was then put to the lady, but she heeded it not, as she was busy talking to a party of railroad men.
Miss Gould reached the city over the Denver road at a few minutes after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in car AI of the Missouri Pacific line. She was accompanied by the Denver general Superintendent Dolan. In her party are Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Lougee, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ward and Messrs. F. B. Shipp and G. D. McDill, all of New York, and Mrs. Taylor and daughter of Philadelphia, her aunt's cousin. Most of the men of the party are connected with the Y. M. C. A. in railroad work, and are making the tour with Miss Gould over the country to visit the various points where these institutions have been established.
The party left New York a week ago Monday, and came to the west after a short stop at the exposition at St. Louis. From there they went to Denver and then to Childress, and on to Fort Worth. From here they are to stop at Big Springs, and then on to El Paso, from which point their destination is unknown, but it is surmised that the return trip will be made so as to include Palestine and Texarkana in this state, as it is known Miss Gould is very anxious to see the buildings at those two points, which she assisted in building. The party of this city was accompanied by Vice President and General Manager L. S. Thorne of the Texas and Pacific.
Upon the arrival of the train here over the Denver quite a large party had assembled at the Texas and Pacific depot to get a glimpse of the noble woman. However, Miss Gould had evidently given orders to the effect that she was not to be looked upon as a curiosity and many of those who were waiting at the yard had to see her no further. Her car was immediately taken by a switch engine to the main track in the yards and coupled onto an engine behind the private car of Mr. Thorne. Miss Gould's party upon the arrival of the train at once came out of the car and greeted some of the old friends of the city, and after a short stay of the car for a few minutes and shook hands with Mr. Thorne, J. W. Everman, assistant general manager of the Texas and Pacific, and with Vice President and General Manager Leroy Price of the International Harvester Co. Miss Gould then returned to the car with the officials of the two roads, and spent the time during the switching in conversation with them.
When the car had been switched to the main track several Fort Worthites went to the car to greet her and to ask her concerning her visit here. She had little to say concerning the city and only gave the information cited above to one citizen concerning the railroad Y. M. C. A. An attempt was made by the press representatives to interview her, but none of the representatives succeeded in doing so and they were informed that Miss Gould was not giving out any interviews on the trip and had evaded any attempt to get an expression from her. Also that she had nothing to say and wished to spend the short time at her disposal here with the officials of the several roads. However, it was handed down from one of the party that she expected to return to this city at the end of the trip and that time she would probably be in a position to say something regarding the establishment of a railroad Y. M. C. A. here. It was also stated that the plans of the party had been materially changed and that the party had originally intended to stay in Fort Worth over night, but had changed their plans before leaving Childress. The reason for this change was not given.
On the rear platform of the car were several large stalks of cotton, which had been gathered along the route and presented to Miss Gould by some admirer. The interior of the car was also decorated with a few cotton blossoms and some of the staple ginned this year. In the car every convenience was provided for the comfort of the party. Just before the train started Mrs. J. W. Everman came in from Dallas and hurried to the car.
As the train started from the depot, Miss Gould came to the rear platform and waved an adieu to all. She remained on the platform until the train had passed from the depot and waved to all who doffed their hats. Miss Gould is an unassuming woman and dresses as plainly as any woman can. She wore yesterday a plain white shirt waist and a black skirt, and her hair was a plain street hat of the sailor variety and from its sides were hanging a black veil of the English pattern. No jewelry of any kind was apparent except a small cluster diamond ring on her left hand. Miss Gould is a sweet-faced woman. She is as unassuming as any woman in America and makes simplicity her motto.
There are about four hundred thousand German settlers in Brazil, most of whom are Brazilian subjects, but who send their children to German schools, which are maintained for the purpose of training them in German habits and a love of Germany.

OF INTEREST TO THE STOCKMEN

At a meeting of the board of control of the National Live Stock Association, just held in Denver, it was unanimously determined that there would be no successor appointed to the late Charles F. Martin as secretary until the January meeting of the association. It is understood that quite a number of applications have already been filed for the position, but a committee consisting of Fred P. Johnson, George W. Ballantine and George Goulding has been appointed to take charge of the affairs of the organization, and Mrs. Helen Kennedy, who was Mr. Martin's stenographer, has been placed in charge of the secretary's office as clerk. Some radical changes in the organization are in contemplation, which will be taken up at the next annual meeting. These changes contemplate bringing the cattlemen and sheepmen together in some kind of a compact, acceptable to both interests. At present these two interests are more or less at variance, and the majority of the members of the association are sheepmen. As a national body the sheepmen have the National Wool Growers' Association and the cattlemen last year organized the Interstate Cattle Growers' executive committee. It is now planned to get these two interests together, each to maintain their respective organizations, but to also be represented with the railroad and other mutual interests in the national association. It is expected that the January meeting of the association will be one of the most largely attended in the history of the organization. The National Wool Growers meet in Denver every year, and the cattlemen will be delegates to both conventions from all over the United States. Harmony is expected to be brought about as a result of the two conventions. In discussing the general situation, President Hagenbush of the National Live Stock Association said: "The live stock industry is undergoing a great evolution, especially in the west. There seems to be a general feeling among stockmen that the time has come when the National Live Stock Association must become a more national organization. It has been in the past in securing results for the industry. At no time since its birth has the necessity of a strong organization been so apparent to every one. We seem to have reached the point where there are no longer any sheepmen or any cattlemen, but we are all stockmen, and the only proposition now is, how to secure the best and most practical results for the good of our industry. Range business has already changed entirely from what it was a few years ago, and no one can say where it will finally end. There are many great questions connected with the proposed changes at the next convention and all who have their money invested in live stock are anxious that an organized effort be made to bring conditions to a more settled basis. The meeting in Denver in January will bring together not only prominent live stock representatives, but will aim to attract as well all the varied allied interests correlative to the live stock business. It is generally understood that we were coming for a good time but now the character of the meetings is greatly changed and the coming convention will be a strictly business proposition from start to finish. Of course, business will not object to some entertainment as not to conflict with the business of the convention."

75 in Every Hundred of Refused Life Insurance on Account of Kidney Trouble.

Warner's Safe Cure

Secures Life Insurance for Thousands Once Rejected—"I prescribe it in My Practice, and regard it as a Most Wonderful Cure for Kidney Troubles."

Dr. Reade, in his interview, went on to say: "In the course of my life I have examined many thousands of men and women for life insurance, so that I speak from experience when I state that more are rejected on account of weak kidneys than for all other diseases put together. In fact, nearly every second person has kidney trouble, though very few even suspected its presence until they came up for examination. Many of those I had refused returned later on and were accepted, the most careful examination failing to discover the slightest trace of kidney disease in their systems. I always asked how they were cured, and invariably the answer was, 'By taking Warner's Safe Cure.' For many years I have prescribed Warner's Safe Cure in my practice with marked success, and my professional friends use it exclusively. I believe in it firmly and recommend it as a wonderful cure for kidney, liver and bladder diseases."—S. J. READE, M. D., 1471 Seneca Street.

Cures Kidney Diseases.

Kidney troubles creep into the system unawares. Before you know it they are deep-seated. Do not neglect yourself if you have backache, rheumatic aches and swellings, drowsiness, loss of appetite, stomach trouble, bad complexion and other troubles, frequent desire to urinate and painful passing of the water, a brick-dust sediment in morning urine after it stands 24 hours; or, if a woman, bearing down sensation, painful periods, fainting and other so-called female sickness. These all tell you your kidneys have been diseased for months, for such outward symptoms seldom show themselves until the poison has penetrated the organs and the danger point is reached. Warner's Safe Cure is the one certain and unailing remedy. It not only removes the first symptoms, but cures advanced cases of Bright's Disease and used in hospitals. You can buy it at any drug store or direct; 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle. If you have any doubt as to the development of the disease in your system, send a small sample of your urine in a bottle to the Medical Department, Warner Safe Cure Co., Rochester, N. Y., and our doctors will analyze it and send you a report, with advice and medical booklet, all entirely free.

SUBSTITUTES AND IMITATIONS are worthless, and generally dangerous. Get the Old Reliable Warner's Safe Cure recommended by doctors for over 30 years.

LEGISLATION OF THE NEXT SESSION DISCUSSED

Secretary Woodhead of the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce Writes to the Board of Trade Here

D. Woodhead, secretary of the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce, has addressed a letter to Secretary E. B. Padlock of the Fort Worth Board of Trade regarding two matters which will come before the next legislature, which, it is claimed by Secretary Woodhead are of vital importance to the business interests of Texas. He suggests that all commercial organizations act promptly and favorably in regard to them. It is also suggested that representatives from Tarrant county be asked to support the measures.
The letter from Secretary Woodhead says, among other things: "A bill will be introduced entitled, 'Home Rule for taxation,' and the purpose of this measure is to have the legislature submit to a vote of the people of Texas an amendment to the constitution which will permit all towns that choose to do so, to exempt from taxation for a term of years all manufacturing enterprises which may locate in such localities. This will not be a burden on the farmers, nor the country resident, as this law will not exempt any factories from paying state and county taxes, but only exempts them from paying city taxes. It will have a ten-deny to encourage manufacturing industries to locate in Texas.

"The other bill is one to prohibit the selling of railroad tickets and other classes of transportation by ticket scalpers. Such a bill was introduced in the last legislature and passed the senate by a large majority. It was also passed by the house committee, but it reached the house too late to be voted upon by that body during the last session."
The Beaumont Chamber of Commerce has already endorsed these laws and an earnest appeal is now being made that similar commercial bodies through Texas do likewise.
The latter bill has met with the approval and support of L. J. Storey, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, who is doing what he can, personally, to have it enacted into law.
R. D. Bowen of Paris was chairman of the committee on the commercial bills in Texas who had charge of the bill during the last legislature, and he has been invited to again act in this same capacity, as he is familiar with all details of the matter.
The above measures will come before the next meeting of the Fort Worth Board of Trade, which will be on Tuesday, November 8, which is the regular annual meeting, and at which time officers for the ensuing year are to be elected.

TALK OF LINE TO MINERAL WELLS IS REVIVED

Property Owners Want to See a Trolley Road to the Pinto County Resort and Offer Inducements

J. W. McCracken of this city, who owns considerable property at Springtown, Parker county, is very much interested in seeing an electric railroad built from Fort Worth via Springtown to Mineral Wells, and believes that it will not be long before this road will be constructed. He was seen today and stated that not only himself, but others influential in the business world, are interested in this matter and are ready to back it with their money.
He referred especially to Cleora Smith, one of the wealthy men of Mineral Wells, and who is also associated with the Western National bank of Fort Worth, as being very much interested in a line between the two cities. Mr. Smith, says Mr. McCracken, is sufficiently interested in the enterprise to take stock in a company that will build the road to the amount of $100,000.
Mr. McCracken says that he will guarantee to secure the right of way from Fort Worth to Mineral Wells, about fifty miles, at a very nominal sum. The fact that the Rosen line is now about ready to begin operations would afford a good connection with a line to the wells, and this alone, says Mr. McCracken, would save a company at least $100,000 to begin with. He also says that Mr. Smith and another gentleman have about perfected plans for the building of a street car line in Mineral Wells, the motive power of which is to be gasoline. Mr. Smith has only recently returned from the east, where he went to investigate the working of this method of locomotion. He reports that he found it perfectly satisfactory, and Mr. McCracken says that if the interurban from this city to Mineral Wells is built it will no doubt be run with this kind of power. With terminals in Mineral Wells and Fort Worth the company to build the line between the two points will have the advantage of not being compelled to buy their way into either city, as plans can no doubt be made with companies at either end of the line. Mr. McCracken believes that the matter will soon be taken up by some one who will build the road connecting Fort Worth with Mineral Wells.

FORT WORTH HORSES WIN

Very few people in Fort Worth are aware of the fact that the two horses who won in the races at Dallas yesterday are animals bred and raised on farms within four and five miles of Fort Worth. The Yalidine, owned by Bill Parks of Waco, which carried off the honors in the 2:30 trot for a purse of $200, was bred by Dr. Abney, who lives four miles north of the court house, while Bessie K. bred by Knight Bros. of this county, but now the property of Mr. Mitten of Corsicana, won the 2:10 race.
Thus far this season Bessie K. has won a total of $10,000 in purses and stakes. It is a remarkable winning record. Out of eight stakes she has won seven. She lost the latter at Kansas City, but in this she was second.

The notion that hunters should wear green attire to escape notice by animals is no longer considered tenable. In Scotland the hunters wear a dress of many colors. Experiments made in the British army have also shown that green and ammunition wagons on hills most easily escape detection if they are painted blue, red and yellow.

European inspectors take snapshots of men engaged on public work. The photos, in some cases, are more eloquent than any report could be. One showed a group of thirty men on a road paving job. Two of the thirty were at work.

The patents in the Dunlop-Welch pneumatic tire expired at midnight on September 16, and were solemnly burned in a silver dish on the stroke of 12 at a banquet in the Hotel Cecil, London, while an orchestra played a dirge. Four hundred men attended the banquet.

ON THE SAFETY OF OVEREATING

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat
I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough?
The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that they would always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more.
But the question is, how much more?
Just when to stop?
That's the point.
The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.
It is inexact and unscientific.
It is likely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.
And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of the diseases from which humanity suffers today.
What is disease?
It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair.
Some organs lack strength to carry on the special work for which it was created. Where shall it find the strength it lacks?
In drugs?
Ten thousand times, NO!
Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.
No, in food.
"But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day."
True, dear friend, but you don't digest it.
And food, undigested, is mere poison.
So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.
The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is, that their action does not depend upon stimulative drugging.
They can not create a habit.
They contain no ingredients to "pick you up," "tone up your nervous system," or furnish wild energy, by calling out your vital reserve force.
They create new strength, force and energy—our of your Food.
If taken starving, they will do you no good at all.
So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.
The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.
And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength or vital force, is caused by starvation.
Of two evils, it is better to overeat (and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets), than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital force.
For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease—poisons, and microbes.
Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expose himself to dangers, the mere thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a lane fit.
Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.
So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result, you will be astonished to find how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you will get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and wade away after leave you in peace, health and comfort.
There's more truth than poetry in all this. Eat it once.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The county commissioners' court at this morning's session acted upon road matters exclusively and transacted the following business: The petition presented the court by W. A. Gunn and others, asking the court to establish a new road, to be an extension of Louisiana avenue, which is to connect with the Burleson road, was favorably considered. The jury of view named is L. C. Calhoun, J. H. Sears, R. L. Arm, J. D. Chapman and J. K. Coons. This is the road which has several times been referred to in The Telegram, which is very much desired by the business men living to the south and southeast of Fort Worth. It is asked that the county people will be better able to reach the business center of this city.

Another road authorized by the court is the Arlington Bradshaw crossing to the Trinity river, the petition being presented by R. A. Young. The jury of view in this instance is J. H. Thompson, J. S. Hill, John Gunter, J. L. Lee and E. F. Hutchinson.

FORT WORTH WINS THE FIREMEN'S CONTEST

Fort Worth's fire department covered itself with glory at the Dallas fair grounds yesterday afternoon, winning the paid firemen's contest from San Antonio and Sherman, both of which cities had their best teams entered.

The contest was so arranged as to present all the features of fire fighting. The firemen were obliged to rise, dress and get their teams out at the sound of a gong, then rush pell mell to the scene of the supposed fire, 1,000 feet away, run out 150 feet of hose, attach it to a plug and throw a stream of water, the time being taken from the sound of the gong until the splash of the water.

This was done by the Fort Worth team in one minute and eleven seconds, almost less time than is required to name the various details of the contest. This time, although remarkably fast, was considerably lengthened by the low water pressure obtainable yesterday.

The men comprising the Fort Worth team were: Ferguson, captain; Clawson, Dunwoody, Brown and Pulliam. Dallas did not enter the race yesterday, but will give an exhibition against them today. Unless the water pressure is better, giving them an advantage, it is almost sure they can not equal the Fort Worth record.

THE FAITH THAT WAS IN HIM

The late Senator George Frisbie Hoar of Massachusetts was as fine a type of rugged and honest American manhood as the history of our great country affords...

I have no faith in fatalism, in destiny, in blind force. I believe in God the living God. I believe in the American people, who do not bow the neck or bend the knee to any other, and who desire no other to bow the neck or bend the knee to them.

I believe that the great God who created this world has ordained that His children may work out their own salvation, and that His nations may work out their salvation by obedience to His laws, without any dictation or coercion from any other.

Those are the words of one of God's own noblemen. They sprang from a heart that was not attainted by thoughts of worldly pomp and power...

He believed that the great God who created this world has ordained that His children may work out their own salvation by obedience to His laws...

He believed that a republic is greater than an empire, and here is a timely rebuke to those members of his own political party who are such rampant imperialists and expansionists.

Senator Hoar believed that the United States had already become a world power long before it started on its present course of brag and bluster.

But above all, Senator Hoar believed this old world of ours is daily growing better, in the face of adverse evidence so plentiful to the contrary.

"Margery usually brings me my cup of tea," explained Miss Bull, "and she did not come this morning as usual. I was anxious. When the alarm came I went to look for Margery in her room. The key was in the door, but the door was locked. I released Margery."

"Oh, the key was in the door," mused Quex. "It would seem, then, that the deceased simply turned the key and left it. Humph! I wonder why she locked the girl in?"

"I can't say," "I wonder if her death has anything to do with your affairs?" Brendon looked up suddenly and with a stern, flushed face.

REAL ESTATE

There is some talk of building during the next few months several modern apartment houses on the latest and most improved plans. The demand for dwelling houses near the center of the city has caused persons who have money they wish to invest to think that such a method of investing it would be a good way.

While the city has several apartment houses, at the same time if the Chicago or New York style of putting up these buildings was followed and the buildings erected were built in such a way that many families could live in them in comfort without the disturbing influence of each other's presence, the buildings of that kind would pay and pay well. Plans are now being considered toward that end and several persons have been heard to express themselves as willing to take a suite of rooms, if the buildings erected are suitable and in a desirable locality.

The idea of rent houses as a good investment is as strong in Fort Worth as it ever has been. The erection of about ten new ones by one party on the south side has again attracted attention to this. Renters are to be had at all times and there are many people continually moving into the city and evidently very few moving away the demand is greatly increasing. Rent houses are not plentiful at the present time and many investors are having more erected.

The new Reynolds' building, corner Eighth and Houston streets, which is now receiving the finishing touches on the inside for occupancy by February 1, is to be occupied by Kress & Co. of New York for the basement and first floor. The firm is to establish a large mercantile business.

The building formerly used by the Texas Anchor Fence Company, on South California street, has been repaired and is to be occupied by amacaroni factory, which expects to begin operation at once. The plant will employ nearly twenty-five persons the year around when completed.

SCROFULA

Swollen glands, tumors, white swelling, sores, pustular or scaly skin eruptions, flabby muscles, brittle bones, weak digestion, emaciated, ily-nourished bodies, are some of the well-known earmarks of Scrofula. Scrofula is inherited. Parents too closely related by the ties of blood, or tainted with consumption or blood poison, may look for signs of Scrofula in their children. The middle-aged often have it, but children are the chief sufferers. Scrofula breaks down the vital forces, and the blood becomes so weak and poor that it does not nourish the body. The remedy in all scrofulous affections must be one that purifies the diseased blood, builds up the weak digestion, increases the appetite and gives new life's forces. No medicine has won so much fame as a blood purifier as S. S. S., and its tonic effects upon the system are not equalled by any other remedy. It makes the weak, tainted blood rich and strong, and drives out of the circulation all tubercular deposits and morbid matter that cause the glandular swellings, sores, abscesses, tumors and other horrible symptoms that make Scrofula so dreaded and dangerous.

Write us fully about your case. Medical advice will cost you nothing.

AMUSEMENTS

"When a Man Marries" is not as good a play as "Two Men and a Girl," but there is one redeeming feature which no man can lose sight of. It gives the frustrated men of this country an opportunity to see just how they are picked to pieces by the wives, mothers-in-law and female friends of the family, during a season of what has been designated by some more or less profane person as a "domestic hen party." "Dick" Larkin, having a particularly good cast by Tim Murphy has a mother-in-law, and the manner in which she persuades her daughter that she is mistreated is something terrific. The tricks that are vain which have made the heathen Chinese so peculiar according to Bret Harte, are not a circumstance when compared to the resources of the mother-in-law in building about this son-in-law a wall of circumstantial evidence which it would be hard for the most energetic to disprove. The natural thought of man that the women folk in his household "search him" while he sleeps, is shown to be a fact by one of the scenes in this play, and while the women in the houses near the center of the city may have consolation out of the exposure of their methods and manners, it was a delightful entertainment for the men, the unmarried ones finding out just what comes to a fellow when he marries, and the married ones having an opportunity to see "just how it is done."

The strong company which Mr. Murphy carries this season presents the play well and it was enjoyed by all.

CROPS IN TEXAS

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 12.—The following is the general summary of crop conditions in Texas as shown by reports of correspondents to L. H. Murdoch, section director for Texas of the United States department of agriculture:

Weather Condition.—As shown by the accompanying chart, there was practically no rainfall during the week, which for the time of year, is rather unusual. The need of rain is becoming quite general and, in many of the central counties, somewhat urgent. Although a moderately cool wave over-spread the state on the 6th and 7th, bringing some relief from the abnormally high temperatures of preceding weeks, the average temperatures of the week just ended were above the normal.

Cotton.—The strong sunshine of the week was very effective, owing to the entire absence of plant foliage, in causing the mild temperatures of preceding weeks, the average temperatures of the week just ended were above the normal.

Corn.—Good progress was made in the gathering of corn and in many places this work has been completed.

Rice.—Excellent results were accomplished in the cutting and harvesting of rice during the week. The yield is generally good.

Sugar Cane.—The sugar cane crop is maturing nicely although rain would be beneficial, especially in some of the eastern counties. The harvesting of cane will be commenced soon in the coast district.

Miscellaneous.—The seeding of wheat was continued throughout the week although this work is being accomplished with some difficulty and in places delayed, owing to the dry condition of the ground. Rain is badly needed for this work and for the young plants. The forage crops of the western and northwestern counties are doing well. Gardens are generally suffering for rain. Ranges and cattle are in excellent condition.

"DEVIL'S AUCTION"

Manager Yale's claim that the "Devil's Auction" is the oldest in name, yet the newest in point of novelty, can well be substantiated in this, the twenty-third edition of this famous spectacle, as everything is new from the till now. The new feature is retained until it is rung down on the beautiful transformation scene "Amor" (Love) at the close of the performance. Every act, novelty and feature being new, all the scenery, properties, etc., are retained. The play is presented and the theater-going public of Fort Worth certainly have a treat in store for them on Friday night, October 14, at Greenwall's opera house.

"A GIRL FROM DIXIE"

Lovers of music and bright spontaneous wit, who have been satiated with the average musical comedy, it is said, should welcome "A Girl From Dixie," the new Shubert production at Greenwall's opera house, Saturday matinee and night, October 15. While classed among the musical comedy productions, it is, in reality, a comedy drama with a strong thread of consecutive thought and action, embellished with musical numbers.

"THE SIGN OF THE CROSS"

The real theatrical event of the season is the engagement of Wilson Barrett's great English play, "The Sign of the Cross," next Monday matinee and night, October 17, at Greenwall's opera house. This is the big English production that for six years has been held in the cities and is making its first appearance in the one-night stands this year. It is one of those stellar attractions that cities like this get only through the good fortune of circumstances. "The Sign of the Cross" is one of the strongest and most impressive dramas that was ever staged. It deals with the persecution of the Christians in the time of Nero and the scenes depicted thrill hearts of the Christian people of today. The play is in four acts and will be staged here in the same elaborate style it is put on in its engagements in the cities. It is without any question the largest and most elaborate production brought to this city in years and with the reputation it has, the interest in its author and the great reverence for the story that is enacted, it is an exceptionally notable event and there is no question but that it will have a record-breaking audience.

AMELIA BINGHAM

AMELIA BINGHAM carries with her the presentation of her successful comedy, "The Frisky Mrs. Johnson," which will be presented at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee, Oct. 19, a production which is entirely built of wood and as solid as it is possible to build even in these days of advanced ideas in stage architecture. The production was never built for traveling, but when Miss Bingham decided to make her present tour she elected to take production complete in every detail, with her which she had used during the long run of the play at the Princess Theater, New York city. It is doubtful if a production of this kind has ever been seen with a traveling company before. Her character in "The Frisky Mrs. Johnson" is described as being that of a hearty, wholesome and practical woman, honest, brave and unaffected and above all most likeable. Miss Bingham brings with her the original company. The play is well spoken of as being full of bright epigrams and decidedly cleanly, a bright, breezy comedy without any of the trace of suggestion usually found in imported plays. MOVEMENT HERE TO HELP THE UNIVERSITY

Meeting of the Board of Trade Decides That Six Committees Are to Be Appointed to Take Up the Work

J. E. Mitchell was chosen chairman of the meeting at the Board of Trade held last night in the interest of improving the Fort Worth University.

Mr. Mitchell stated that it was hoped to secure all the way from $12,000 to $20,000.

"We need new buildings," said Mr. Mitchell, in opening the meeting, "and we need them badly."

Dr. George MacAdam, president of the university, spoke of the work and said it was important that something be done, if the university is to succeed, in the way of improvements.

The enrollment in this year in the art, music and literary departments is from 400 to 450, equal to the number enrolled last season.

W. E. Connell said that $50,000 or $100,000 would be necessary to put the university in proper shape.

Dr. MacAdam said he believed that the university would eventually prove a great success, if the proper improvements were made.

In order to make a success of the movement to secure money for the university, Captain B. B. Paddock suggested that thirty or forty of the business men interested in this particular matter be selected to take hold of the movement to raise the money, which he said could certainly be done.

President Washer of the Board of Trade moved that six committees be appointed to begin the work of soliciting funds, to be composed of four each. This

MAN OF THE MOMENT IN MANCHURIA IS THE CHINESE VICEROY

CHINESE VICEROY OF MANCHURIA

Written for The Telegram by Douglas Story. (Copyright, 1904, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

MUKDEN, Manchuria.—The most interesting figure of the moment in the east is neither Russian nor Japanese, is a Chinaman, the chung choong, or Chinese viceroy of Manchuria.

To earn his approbation and the approval of Peking, the Japanese pushed on their advance north of their natural frontier at Liao Yang. In the hands of this man, the viceroy of Manchuria, the tartar general of Mukden, the keeper of the imperial tombs, the guardian of the sacred palace, lies the key to the political situation in Manchuria.

Fifteen million Chinese wait the indication of his pleasure. The safety of the long lines of Japanese communications from Dalny to Liao Yang, from the Yalu to the Taitsho, and of the longer lines of Russian communication from Mukden to Manchuria lies at his disposition.

Quiet of manner and gentle of voice, it is difficult to realize that the tartar general of Mukden condemns to death each year in his yamen a thousand of his subjects. Each afternoon of my five months' stay in the province of Mukden two or three, sometimes five or six, bedraggled Chinamen were decapitated in the barren potter's field beyond the Little West Gate of the capital.

In the outer courts of his yamen I have seen such exhibitions of torture, such bastinadoings and slippings, such racking of joints and twisting of muscles as turn my heart sick at the recollection.

Yet is the viceroy himself essentially a mild-mannered man, a literateur and a patron of the fine arts. The first time I was received by him was an occasion of much ceremony. I was ushered in between long lines of mandarins, through the central doors that open only for those whom his excellency deigns to honor.

MANDARIN GUARDING PALACE CONTAINING EMPEROR'S CONGRATULATIONS

The chung choong, robed in the imperial yellow of his office, alone seated himself with me at the table in his reception pavilion. Pig-tailed retainers served sweet champagne and cakes, fruit and the customary tea.

We talked much of the situation and the troubles of his people. I asked how long he had ruled in Manchuria. His answer was brief but significant: "Six unhappy years!"

In those years his province has been devastated by three wars, his capital has been sacked by the mob and occupied by the Russians, his power has been flung from him, his life has been demanded as the price of his part in the Boxer rising, his royal state has been exchanged for the condition of a prisoner, he has contemplated suicide.

His suicide undoubtedly would have been effected had it not been for an excess of filial piety. His mother was still alive, an aged lady of some 80 years. To his Chinese mind it would have been an unworthy thing to take this world before the mother who bore him. So he lived.

Besides, he had no son to do his memory fitting honor, to worship at his grave. As Mencius has said: "There are three things which are unfilial, and to have no posterity is the greatest of these." The chung choong could not depart this life with so great a sin upon his conscience.

Accordingly, some weeks before my arrival in Mukden, he put away his barren wife and adopted a more probable heir. When last I was received by him, on August 17, I asked after the health of this lady. The viceroy's face beamed with gladness. "Three weeks ago she bore me a son."

Most severely has the presence of the Russians in Mukden. His yamen has been a privileged center of espionage. He himself has taken a delight in refusing buildings for hospitals, in placing difficulties in the way of his most unwelcome guests, in propounding nasty political problems for solution. Whichever combatant holds Mukden bears the responsibility for all the indignities thrust upon the Chinese by the exigencies of the military situation. The chung choong cannot wield full power in a province occupied by troops of another nation, and yet whoever removes that power from him incurs the danger of the enmity of China.

The Russians have dealt wisely with the problem, have respected the sanctity of the imperial tombs, have preserved from harm the treasures of the sacred palace. Their task has been no light one, has been performed with considerable success. The viceroy's last anxious query of me was, "Do you think there will be a battle at Mukden?" The Japanese are now at the gates. If they win in the fight, to the victors, will be the spoils of a most heavy responsibility.

The First National Bank of Lubbock, and the management of the concern has changed hands.

Harvesting of the forage crops is in full blast, and good yield reported. Cotton picking will open up next week. It is believed the yield will exceed one-third of a bale per acre, if we do not have a freeze for two weeks.

According to a report recently issued by the census bureau the boll weevil, or Anthonomus grandis, as it is technically known, destroyed 739,360 bales of the Texas cotton crop last year. At 10 cents a pound—and prices for futures went as high as 18 cents during the late bull campaign—this amount of cotton would be worth $36,988,800.

Remember that we do a general fire, plate glass, liability and tornado insurance business and represent none but the best kind stock companies, the representative ones of the United States, such as the following:

Phoenix of Hartford, Connecticut, with a cash capital of two million and with assets double that amount.

Orient of Hartford, Connecticut, with a cash capital of a half million, and with assets five times that amount.

Camden of New Jersey, established in the year 1841.

American of Boston, established very nearly a hundred years ago, in the year of 1818.

When you place your insurance with such companies as the above you can rest easy at night and have your mind free, for in case you should be so unfortunate as to lose your home or household belongings by fire or lightning it wouldn't be any longer than it takes to make up the proofs of loss before you would have the cash with which to rebuild your home or replace your furniture.

When you have any good vendor lien notes or wish to borrow money on good improved city property, remember we do that, and let you have the money for several years at the low rate of interest of 8 or 9 per cent.

JAMES J. BRADY COMES TO TELL OF SHOW Happy Head of the Department of Circus Literature Reaches the City Two Days Before the Attraction

It can not be said that the world tipped a little with the weight in this section of the country, but there is today in Fort Worth a "hefty" little fellow who does tip the scales in matter of importance, and so important is he that when he reaches the vicinity of a newspaper office all doors open to welcome him and every glad hand is outstretched to greet him. In California the newspapers say that he gives the glad hand, but in Texas others give him the glad hand, because he is the prince of his profession, and the best fellow in shoe leather. This personage is none other than James J. Brady.

The name may not carry much weight with the general public, because the general public does not come in contact with Brady, but with the newspaper men who know him as a writer, as a former newspaper man and a genial, whole-souled companion, his name is the open sesame for all that is good for man, internally, externally or eternally.

Mr. Brady is the gentlemanly representative of the department of literature and information, disseminated through the columns of the daily press for the Ringling Brothers' circus. There was a time when such a position carried with it the very ordinary designation as "press agent," but Mr. Brady has left the newspaper desk and has formed a combination with the Ringlings. It has been necessary to increase the title commensurate with the honorable position which his personality has created, and therefore the lengthy explanation of his duties with the "big show."

Newspaper men do not like Brady because of any mercenary reasons. The public must understand that one occupying his position does not make the contracts for the advertisement, therefore there's not a cent in his acquaintance. But Brady has revolutionized things. When he was in the newspaper business and ordinary people were press agents, the notices which were sent out about a show were written with a rubber stamp, and were remarkable exhibitions of alleged literature. Brady changes this. He writes stories about the animals and about the people and about the tents. These are stories which tell something, they explain the great system of circus building and circus tearing down, of animal life and of animal origin. He studies nature so that he can know nature, and when he writes a story of this kind it is a lesson for the young and old. It is interesting, because it tells something in a manner which engages the heart, and has made a criticism where it is stated that a chorus of thirty girls is well trained in the marches and evolutions of an opera, and then he calls attention to the great circus system which includes several hundred men and women who come and go and melt into each other as the ripples on the ocean disappear as they spread out over the great glassy surface. He writes of hundreds of men who tear down, remove hundreds of miles and rebuild in ten hours the great city of tents.

But there is but one Brady, and the one is here today, being greeted by his friends who remember him from former visits, and who are glad to see him. His stories last year in The Telegram were interesting reading, but now he is just two days ahead of the show, and has made a trip across that stretch of country between here and El Paso, and he was not in the story humor today. Generally he works a week ahead. Brady was asked this morning for a good story. He said he just could not write it now, but got down to facts, and this is what he says about the coming attraction: "The circus in all its modern glory will spread sail and add buzzing life to Fort Worth Friday next. It is the greatest show of the kind in existence, a seasonal without its employment would be keenly felt by more than the young people of Texas. Ringling Bros.' 'World's Greatest Shows' will arrive in Fort Worth from Weatherford shortly after midnight Friday, and before the early riser has had his morning coffee, the 'white winged
