Russians Also Claim to Have an Equal Position With the Japs in a Village Which Is Claimed in Japanese Reports to Have Been Taken

AT RUSSIAN FRONT, via Mukden, Oct. 17, 1:45 p. m.—On Saturday at midnight the Valukolusk regiment moved out of its position north of Shakhe to capture the village of Fishingpu. The Russians crept up quietly and then charged with bayonet, clearing out the Japanese at the south end of the village. But at the other end stood the Buddhist temple which the Japanese had converted into a fortress. They dug a deep trench around the stone walls and surrounded them with wire entanglements, making it impossible to storm the temple, so the Russians brought the artillery under cover of darkness and tried to break the walls at a distance. Heavy fire was heard from the Russian center and right on the 14th, considerable stronger than the firing at Liao Yang. The Russian losses up to the evening of October 13 are estimated at 15,000.

WAR CORRESPONDENT TELLS THE STORY

BERLIN, Oct. 17, 11:51 a. m.—Colonel Gaedke, war correspondent of the Tageblatt, telegraphs from Mukden when he left the battlefield yesterday at 3:30 p. m. a general engagement was in progress which was not yet decisive although not unfavorable for the Russians.

The battle opened at 7 o'clock in the morning, twelve miles south of Mukden. At 2 p. m. he heard heavy artillery firing in the mountains eastward where it is understood General Stakelberg was attacking the Japanese right.

An immense number of wounded were arriving at Mukden. On this, the eighth day of fighting, the weather is fine.

Colonel Gaedke sent another dispatch dated Saturday which was detained at St. Petersburg describing the operations on the Russian right which he accompanied. He says after four days' hard fighting with heavy losses the Russians reached a point at the base of the precipitous heights of Tumin Pass which were occupied by the Japanese. The Russians were only about 300 to 500 yards distance from the Japanese positions and intended storming them on the morning of the 13th, but an order to retreat arrived during the night. The Russians fought with admirable persistence and skill. Their artillery is somewhat greater than that of the Japanese in the number of guns and far superior in effectiveness.

The infantry and artillery co-operated with great success. In retreating from the pass the Russian forces got away without firing a shot. Wounded were carried away on stretchers. Inwardly the Russian fire was heard from the Russian center and right on the 14th, considerable stronger than the firing at Liao Yang. The Russian losses up to the evening of October 13 are estimated at 15,000.

NEARLY THIRTY THOUSAND RUSSIANS RECAPTURE LONELY TREE HILL

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 17.—General Sakhharoff telegraphs the Russians yesterday recaptured Lonely Tree hill, south of Shakhe, and captured eleven Japanese guns and one quick firer.

It is the feeling at the war office today is slightly brighter, as it becomes evident that the Japanese have not cut off any Russians and General Kuropatkin is able to stand like a stone wall. The right wings of both sides are believed to be greatly exhausted by their long sustained efforts. The main fear is the unexplained quiet on the Russian left may presage some strategic stroke of which Kuropatkin has not yet been apprised. One of the aides of General Gripenberg, who is in command of the second army, said to the Associated Press this morning:

"Even if Kuropatkin had been badly defeated, provided it does not end in a rout and disaster, in my opinion the offensive movement should be approved. Only by hammering away early in the morning reports that the Japanese Kuropatkin is simply preparing the ground for us when we arrive with the second army."

CANNONADING ON THE FRONT TWENTY-FOUR SHIPS IN THE BALTIC FLEET

FAKKEBERG, Langeland Island of Denmark, Oct. 17.—The Baltic Sea fleet cannonaded the southern extremity of Langeland Island this morning. The Danish cruiser Meimdal exchanged salutes with the Russian flagship and then accompanied the Russian vessels to the northward. The fleet comprises twenty-four ships. Shortly after five o'clock the vessels anchored in Langeland belt between Fakkeberg and Bojkyke to take in coal. Three steamers were awaiting them.

New York Minister Makes a Strong Plea for International Arbitration and Urges Nations to Discontinue Wars

MONEY AND HUMAN LIFE

Shows That These Struggles for Supremacy on Land and Sea Are a Burden Upon the Population and Upon Strong Boxes of Participants

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—In a sermon at the Church of the Ascension Rev. Percy Stickney Grant has extended a strong plea for international arbitration and predicted that before many generations have passed nations will find war, with the constantly increasing deadliness of the weapons, too costly and too destructive for civilization.

"Every generation will," he said, "put its cold moral and more brains into what itself is bound to put an end to all wars between the great nations of the earth."

WAR AND PEACE NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Although declaring that all wars have not resulted in evil. Dr. Minor J. Savage, comparing "War and Peace" before his congregation in the Unitarian church of the Messiah, has asserted that if there could be some sort of understanding between England and America those two nations could keep the peace and lift the civilization of the planet, but in order to do it, he added, they should need to be strong in arms and strong in navies. "No patriotic American is willing to concede," said Dr. Savage, "that the war of the revolution was a wicked war. The war of 1812 was not an evil, nor the civil war. If there ever was a selfish war it was our late war with Spain."

"We must recognize that there are certain admirable qualities in human nature that are trained in the midst of conflict. Obedience, hardihood, readiness to sacrifice, consecration to some great end and without regard to cost, the development of the heroic qualities—those have been in the past peculiarly associated with war and there are a few great names in the world that the world would be poorer were it possible to forget. "I do not believe that war will cease to exist for a hundred or five hundred years. But I do believe that this condition of peace is the ideal, and that we are working toward it. War was for any cause. Today no civilized nation thought of apologizing for going to war for any cause. Today no civilized nation dares defy the public moral sentiment of the world."

SEVERAL INJURED IN AN AFFRAY

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 16.—An affray occurred at Tuscola, twenty miles south of here in this county, yesterday afternoon in which Tom Gallimore, white, was stabbed severely several times in the back, and two Mexicans were shot, one of them receiving a load of bird shot in the left side a little to the front of the arm pit. The trouble arose over a settlement for cotton picking, and several were involved actively. One of the Mexicans is under arrest, while the remainder of the participants are yet at large. A detachment of men from Abilene was immediately called for, and three or four officers went to Tuscola from here, but on their arrival the excitement had subsided.

DALY'S ESTATE IS TO BE SOLD TO CLARK, JR.

MISSOULA, Mont., Oct. 17.—It is said by persons close to him, that William A. Clark Jr., youngest son of Senator William A. Clark, has completed negotiations for the purchase of the famous Bitter Root breeding farm of the late Marcus Daly, and that the papers have been actually drawn, but are yet unsigned. They are in the shape of a "bargain and sale" deed in which young Marcus Daly agrees to sell the entire 27,500 acres, together with the beautiful private home of Mrs. Daly, located on the ranch, as well as stables and all other improvements when he (Daly) arrives at the age of 30 years. In his will the late Marcus Daly stipulated that the property should not be sold until this age had been attained. The consideration price is unknown, but will range well toward $2,000,000. The purchase is presumed to anticipate the entrance of young Clark into the turf arena with a string of horses which he will breed at the Bitter Root ranch.

SLOCUM HORROR REPORT WITH ROOSEVELT

President Directs That Responsible Officials Be Removed and That the Suggestions Be Carried Out

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The report of the United States commissioner of investigation upon the disaster of the steamer General Slocum, appointed June 23 last, by the then secretary of commerce and labor, George B. Cortelyou, and consisting of Lawrence O. Murray, assistant secretary of commerce and labor; Herbert K. Smith, deputy commissioner of corporations; George Usher, supervising inspector general of the steamboat inspection service; General John W. Wilson, U. S. A., retired, and Commander Cameron McR. Winslow, U. S. N., has been made public.

In connection with the findings of the commission, presented in the report, President Roosevelt, to whom the report was submitted, has written a letter to Secretary Victor H. Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor, summarizing the report and directing him to carry into effect the recommendations of the commission. He also directs that Robert S. Rodie, supervising inspection of Second district steamboat inspection service, and James A. Dumont, assistant H. Barrett, local inspectors in charge of the port of New York, be discharged from the service, the commission holding them directly responsible for the laxity of the steamboat inspection to which the Slocum disaster was directly attributable.

The commission makes many recommendations for laws regulating the construction of vessels and to give adequate authority to the department of commerce and labor, and to enforce more strictly regulations as to safety appliances, etc. Legislation will be asked along the lines suggested.

In his instructions to Mr. Metcalf, the president says: "According to this report it appears that in addition to the two assistant inspectors who are now on trial the supervising inspector of the Second district, Mr. Rodie, and the two local inspectors of the port of New York, Messrs. Dumont and Barrett, should all three be removed for laxity and neglect in performing their duties. As regards the conduct of Mr. Rodie, Mr. Usher dissents from the conclusions of the four other commissioners. I agree with the conclusions of the other four, and neglect where the consequences may be so terrible as they have proved to be in this case, can not be passed over even where there has been good conduct in other respects on the part of the men implicated."

Accordingly the three officials named will be removed from the service. Moreover, you will please direct their successors in office at once to conduct a thorough examination of the entire inspection force of the port of New York, with the object of weeding out all the men whom such examination shall show to be unfit to perform the very arduous and responsible duties of their positions. In order that I may be informed as to the exact condition of the service in all its parts, I direct you to order a searching investigation, in accordance of the investigation of the commission, into the conduct of the central office and of every outside subdivision of the service save that in New York.

You will also make such changes in the regulations as are recommended by the commission, and you will therefore call a special meeting of the board of supervising inspectors for this purpose. You will also recommend before congress that the law be changed in this city the particulars recommended by the commission. I wish particular emphasis laid upon the proposal of the commission that there be created by law a special body thoroughly to investigate the laws which are supposed to provide for the safety of passengers on steamboats, especially on excursion boats, where the prime causes of danger are overcrowding and the flimsy, highly inflammable character of the superstructures."

SAFETY DEVICES ARE IN THE THEATERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—As a precaution against disastrous fire, automatic alarm lines running direct to the fire department are being installed in Chicago theaters. The wires are connected with the sprinkler systems, and when the atmosphere becomes heated beyond a certain degree the alarm is turned in automatically. Thirty-six registers, controlling as many theaters, are being added to the fire alarm instruments now in the service of the city. As soon as an alarm starts the alarm rings in at the city hall. Without waiting for further notice the nearest engine company to the fire is sent to the scene.

"SHEKEL DAY" IS OBSERVED BY MANY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Five thousand Hebrews have observed in this city the third "Shekel Day" of the Zionist movement in the United States by paying a fee of 25 cents and enrolling themselves as members of the association. Two thousand new members were enrolled at the Zionists' headquarters and 2,000 additional names were received by 100 young men who canvassed the whole of Greater New York with member slips.

The registration of the name and payment of fees confirms the franchise to the Zionists for the next Zionist congress. The total membership here is now about 10,000.

THE JAPANESE ARE CONTINUING ADVANCE

TOKIO, Oct. 17, noon.—It is reported from reliable private sources that the Japanese are continuing the advance and they occupied additional positions south of the Shakhe river. The left army occupied Wufukiatun at noon yesterday, dislodging four or five battalions of Russian infantry and several batteries of artillery and crushing repulsing a subsequent counter attack. The artillery from the center and infantry from the left army are harassing the Russian retreat. General Oku attacked the main strength of the Russian right basis at Chien Pass and Chuantgtsou and is now operating to block the Russian retreat along the railroad.

MORE GUNS CAPTURED

TOKIO, Oct. 17.—It is reported here Major Takahama's battalion captured fourteen guns at Sanchiatzu on October 16. This makes a total of thirty-four guns captured by General Nodzu's center army since October 14.

SEVEN ATTACKS MADE

TOKIO, Oct. 17, 2 p. m.—The Russians (directly) assailed General Oku's left column yesterday and made several counter attacks, all of which were successfully repulsed. At sunset, when the last telegram was sent from the field, the Russians were advancing for the seventh attack. Field Marshal Oyama reported the Russian losses in these attacks heavy.

WANTS NO MEDIATION PARIS, Oct. 17.—Owing to the renewed suggestions of leading English newspapers that the overwhelming victory of the Japanese makes the time opportune to propose mediation, the foreign office here says official information shows Russia will not consider mediation from any quarter what-ever, being more than ever determined to vigorously prosecute war.

THE BATTLE RESUMES AT BREAK OF DAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 17, 1:55 p. m.—The official reports received by the war office this morning are in complete accordance with the reports of the Russian press. The Russians are still on the right bank of the Shakhe river. The pressure on the Russian left has been seeking to break through the Russian center, evidently in order to get possession of the railroad and cut off the Russian army from Mukden. Unofficial reports say the Russians have some success at Shakhe yesterday where General Kuropatkin again took the offensive. While admitting the Russian losses are very heavy, the official reports say the staff declares reports of Russian losses are exaggerated while their own are minimized.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT AT SHAKHE

While the tales of the death and the slaughter of the battles have plunged the nation into grief and the exact situation of Kuropatkin's army is not clear, it is probably must be regarded as critical. It is evident the wild stories of rout and cutting off of the whole corps, etc., are needless. Kuropatkin is still desperately trying to stem the tide and there is nothing but admiration for the heroic figure of the Russian commander personally directing the fight of his battered legions.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT AT SHAKHE

Indeed, the latest official dispatches almost revive the hope that he does not stop the battle will be irretrievably lost, as he personally launched attack after attack against the Japanese strong positions on Lone Tree Hill south of the Shakhe river, at last carrying it by storm and obtaining some revenge for the loss of his third artillery brigade by capturing eleven field pieces and one machine gun.

STYLISH COIFFURES AND HOW TO MAKE THEM

THE SEMI-LONG COIFFURE

Written for The Telegram by Madam Nannette Fallopp.

Some months ago the seemingly natural order of things was reversed, the low hair dress being adopted for day and the high coiffure for evening wear. This condition still exists. However, there has been a combination of the two and the semi-long coiffure is recognized as the latest style in Paris. This may be made up of a wavy pompadour (and by the way the pompadour is more than ever in favor), three soft puffs of medium size forming the left side and the top of the hairdress, a soft, puffy figure eight forming the right side, and a larger figure eight below. When finished this coiffure is beautiful and artistic, although really quite simple.

In order to combine the pompadour with the low coiffure a number of combs and hair ornaments are brought into use. The number of combs is usually limited to three.

Puffs are much worn in both high and low coiffures, a helpful style to the woman with little hair. Much less may be used for each puff if the hair is carefully "raided" before rolling. If you must be your own hairdresser a few suggestions may not come amiss. Hair does not dress so well immediately after a shampoo as it does a few days later. Wash the hair two or three days at least before attempting particular hair dress for some special occasion. Then train the hair down by using the brush, unless the hair is oily and does not require it.

TYING THE HAIR
In dressing the hair first divide it, bringing forward sufficient for the pompadour; then tie the back hair. Straps and rubbers are injurious, are liable to slip, to cut the hair, and if exposed are unsightly. Tie it with a strand, separated from the side of the hair. (See Fig. 1.) With the left hand hold the hair close to the head, with the right separate a strand from the quantity, and while the fingers of the left still encircle the mass of hair, hold this separate strand between the first finger and thumb of the left hand; with the right carry the end up (thus leaving a loop between the thumb and finger), around the hair close to the head two or three times; then twist the loop and this end together and secure with a hairpin. After tying the back hair, dress the pompadour and then arrange the knot.

LOW COIFFURE

If your features are regular you may wear the following coiffure, which is modish and yet quite simple. After dividing off sufficient hair for the pompadour, secure the rest of the hair at the nape of the neck with the tie previously described. Separate the front hair into two parts, but do not leave a distinct part; fluff the hair carefully on the under sides, so that the shape of the head is clearly shown at the crown. Separate the back hair, roll into vertical puffs, making them extend from side to side, a little lower at the center, meeting the pompadour rolls. At the head of the puffs place a large comb, horizontally. Side combs may be placed diagonally as a finish to the pompadour.

With the pompadour just given may be worn another and simpler low-hair dress. (See Fig. 2.) After tying, divide the back hair into two parts. Twist the hair on the right side toward the left and make a loop, turning it up and outward to meet the end of the pompadour roll; spread it a little and secure with bone pins. This will leave an end hanging in the middle. Twist the left hair toward the right, making a similar loop on the left side. Finish with a loop lower down, made of the two ends.

This is a near approach to the English "bun," which has long been clamoring for recognition here. With it a fluffy little curl or two at the temples, is especially becoming. The side combs make a pretty finish.

HIGH COIFFURE

With the high coiffure (see Fig. 3) the regulation pompadour is worn, with any slight deviation that may make it individually becoming, and the knot is placed high on the head and as close as possible to the pompadour. The waved pompadour is in high favor. There is very little change in the "knots," only in the manner of placing them. After securing the back hair well up on the head by tying it with the strand of hair, tie a knot in the hair and turn it over, forward, secure with pins, and bring the end around below the knot as a finish. A high comb is a fitting finish for this style of coiffure.

Two circulars have reached this city simultaneously, which taken together show that R. R. Hammond and C. R. Gray have succeeded each other in the management of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois and the St. Louis and San Francisco lines of the Frisco System.

The first circular announces that the office of Second Vice President Hammond had been moved to the La Salle street station in Chicago, where he would assume the title and duties of general manager, vice C. R. Gray. The other circular contained the announcement that Hammond, having moved to his new Chicago offices, the duties heretofore performed by him would be assumed by C. R. Gray.

THE DENVER CASE

Attorney M. A. Spoonst left yesterday for Austin to represent the Denver road in the case of the state against it, set for tomorrow at Austin. This is the case in which the state charges the road with irregularity in the issue of bonds, the extreme penalty for which would be the forfeiture of charter.

The road was originally notified to appear before the commission on the same day and show cause why the attorney general should not institute proceedings for violation of the stock and bond law in the issuance of the bonds for the Greenwood-Brady extension without the approval of the commission.

This hearing, it is announced has been postponed by the commission at the request of the Denver until the general date in November.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

Vice President Hovey of the Rock Island is in Austin. L. B. Simmons, traveling passenger agent of the Denver at Amarillo, is in the city.

Henry Smith, general agent of the Mexican National road, with headquarters at San Antonio, is in the city. This road has recently abolished the division paymaster system and established a pay car system covering the entire route.

Live Stock Agent Comer of the Katy is at Waco. The work of transferring the Frisco general offices to the seventh floor of the Wheat building is progressing rapidly. This morning the quarters of the passenger department were moved.

HIS OWN EXPERIENCE

Famous Soldier Points Out the Difficulties of the Winter Campaign and Shows How the Czar's Army Is Better Prepared

(Written for The Telegram by Nelson A. Miles, Lieutenant General, U. S. A., Retired.) (Copyright, 1904, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

The history of winter campaigning, both in Europe and this country, has proved it to be most difficult, and in some cases, disastrous to the army. The illustrations of this is found in the winter campaign of Napoleon in 1812.

He gathered a large army of about 600,000 men, mostly from the south of Europe, invaded Russia from Poland in the last part of June of that year, and after eighty-four days of marching and a severe battle, entered Moscow. The Russians, retreating, sacrificed their capital by burning the city. They then laid waste the country and destroyed everything that would afford food or shelter to the enemy. A severe winter came on. Napoleon was forced to abandon the country, and in this retreat lost 450,000 men. His down-fall dates from this disastrous campaign. During the entire retreat in Russia his army was exposed to the snows and storms of a most severe winter, that proved more disastrous than the incessant attacks of the active enemy, who were accustomed to the severity of the climate and were more suitably equipped.

The sufferings of our ancestors in the revolutionary war, occasioned by the severity of the winter climate and the great scarcity of suitable clothing and equipment, is familiar to all readers of that historic time. The misfortunes and ill success of the military operations along our northern border were occasioned partly by the difficulty of the winter in that country during the cold months of the year.

During our great civil war winter campaigning was abandoned, although in a few instances marches were made by the armies in winter. The battles fought during the winter months, as the rule, it was found impracticable, and, in some instances, impossible to move troops.

The effort to move the army of the Potomac in midwinter, in 1863, resulted in utter failure, owing to the fact that the rains, frosts and mud rendered the clay roads of Virginia impassable. Until within the last few years a winter campaign against the Indians was considered quite impossible. The old custom of moving troops over the plains in the summer and going into winter quarters in the autumn made the Indians active in summer and gave them security during the cold season. Several expeditions against the Indians were attempted by moving troops out of warm and comfortable quarters in winter, but these resulted in great suffering and some loss of life.

In my own experience I have found that if troops have been in the field from summer or autumn to midwinter they endure the winter much better. They gradually become inured to the severity of the climate, and as the cold weather gradually increases in severity day by day, their systems become accustomed to the change without serious injury. It is singular to note how nature guards the life of animals in the extreme northern zone of our country, horses and cattle usually take on 200 pounds more weight in winter than in the southern country, the hair, too, growing thicker and longer and giving them much more natural protection. The same is true of wild animals—hence the finest furs come from the coldest countries.

In our own country we have both the hottest and the coldest military stations in the world. In Northern Minnesota, North Dakota and Alaska the rigors of winter has reached 66 degrees Fahrenheit below zero and some reports have paced it as low as 70 degrees. Our troops have campaigned in Northern Dakota where

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purposes.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and furthest acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal is the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit. A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent, I repeat, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

CHAMBERLAIN'S

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this most common ailment. It always cures and is pleasant to take. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia.

the mercury thermometer freezes and the spirit thermometer has registered as low as 70 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

I have found that in order to enable troops to endure that severe climate it was necessary to take every precaution and to equip them with as much care as though they were going on an expedition to the Arctic regions. The soldiers cut up woolen blankets and made under garments, caps and masks, and when they could afford fur-lined Indian moccasins the men wore two or three pairs at the same time. Buffalo fur and wool-lined canvas overcoats were required.

When the command was fully equipped, the fact that they carried rifles alone saved them from military appearance, other wise they might have been mistaken for a body of Eskimos. With their masks on it was impossible to distinguish one man from another.

We marched north in December to near the Canadian line, crossing the ice of the frozen rivers with heavy laden wagons and artillery. We not only got accustomed to the severe cold but the northern blizzards as well—the wind blowing in every direction at the same moment and the air filled with blinding fine snow flakes. On one occasion it was impossible to see any of the landmarks in the country and the command marched entirely by map and compass. Compared with one of those northwestern blizzards, an ordinary snow storm seemed but an atmospheric nuisance.

The marches were usually made in the early day, and in the afternoon, the troops sought shelter in the valleys, ravines or timber, and by making fires by night, managed to make themselves to a certain extent comfortable.

I remember, however, an incident in crossing the high divide between the Missouri and the Yellowstone rivers, that the troops for three nights bivouacked in the snow without a piece of wood to build a fire for cooking or to keep themselves warm, yet in spite of all this not a life was lost nor was there a single case of amputation resulting from the intense cold weather. This favorable result was due entirely to the careful advance preparations and an abundance of wholesome food and warm clothing.

In crossing Manchuria and Siberia I found the climate of that section not as severe as that of our own extreme northern country. The winter was more like that of northern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, in fact, like that of the northern middle west. During the journey from the Pacific to Moscow, we had a thermometer outside of the car on the side of the train and the lowest it registered was 99 below zero. The snow was not deep nor the wind severe. There was not a snow plow seen on a locomotive until we commenced to go north toward Moscow in Russia, nor did we pass a single snow shed such as is frequently found on the railroads in our own country.

I was much impressed, however, by the natives of that distant region, both the wild tribes and the more civilized people. They were strong, hardy races, apparently in the best physical condition and suitably clad to endure the severity of the climate. Wherever it was possible they carried furs or skins of animals for their outer garments and plenty of warm woolen underclothing.

Siberia has been pictured and described by writers as an intensely cold region. This is quite true of its extreme northern part, but the theater of war, where the Japanese and Russian armies are now contending, is not a country of that character.

A winter campaign will, however, be severe on the Japanese troops, as they come from a warmer country, and are not accustomed to endure the rigors of a hard winter. If an attempt is made to winter their army in the region of Mukden or Vladivostok, this circumstance should be advantageous to the Russian forces.

The Russians have, moreover, vast numbers of strong, hardy horses, accustomed to live in that region, they are utilized for harassing the Japanese troops and their lines of communication. The Japanese are more deficient in horses than any of the civilized nations. Human labor is cheap in Japan, that they pay but little attention to their horses, and I have never traveled in any country so destitute of this resource.

The operations of the campaign must during the winter be carried on at a disadvantage to the Japanese, or they may be forced to abandon part of the country they now hold.

An Afro-American stock company, composed of negroes, has been organized in San Bernardino, Southern California. It proposes to bring to that part of the state all the southern negroes who have the will and the money to make themselves independent as ranchers and orange growers.

Egypt's imports of textiles in 1903 were valued at $24,785,880, which was about one-third of the total value of the country's imports. Great Britain's share was nearly $15,000,000; Austria-Hungary's, $2,186,000; France's, $2,035,000; Italy's, $1,780,000; Turkey's, $956,000; that of English colonies in Asia, $962,000; Germany's, $955,000.

A Liverpool sugar expert has been making a thorough investigation into the practicability of attempting to raise sugar beets in that country, and now announces that 1,000,000 acres of land in the United Kingdom are suitable for the purpose. He has made over 1,000 experiments to test British soil and climate, and they have satisfied him that these essentials are even better adapted to the production of sugar than those of Germany.

One of the most remarkable men in the United States is a convict in Sing Sing, where he edits the prison paper, the Star of Hope. He is there for burglary, but in his time has been lawyer, reporter, confidence man, secretary to a khedive of Egypt, preacher, forger and politician. He is an Englishman by birth.

RAILROAD NEWS

PASSED THROUGH HERE

A. A. Robinson, the president of the Mexican Central Railroad of Mexico, passed through Fort Worth last evening on his return to New York from a three months' sojourn in the Mexican Republic. He traveled with a party of officials in a private car, which came in on the Texas and Pacific from El Paso at 7:30 Sunday night. The party was immediately switched to the Santa Fe and at once left for the north over that road. None of the party had anything to give out further than that they thought Mexico one of the greatest of countries and prosperous in both industrial and agricultural resources.

THE MARKETS

NORTH FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 17.—Receipts of cattle today were heavier than for some time, over 100 cars were in for the early market, with several trains still back, and the total receipts were estimated to figure close around 4,500 head.

The market was a little slow opening, but there was a good demand from both packers and feeder buyers, and when cattle started to the scales sales were fully steady with yesterday, with the bulk at a range of from $2.50 to $2.50.

Butcher stock composed the bulk of supplies, the quality of which was fairly good. The opening trade ruled active and steady, but this was only on account of packers wanting a few to start killing.

The later market was weaker and at the close sales were fully 10c lower than the close Saturday.

Bulls found a fair demand and selling ruled fully steady, mostly going at a range of from $1.50 to $1.75. Some few choice sold up as high as $2.

Liberal supplies of calves arrived and of fairly good quality. There was demand enough from both packers to clean up the bulk of supplies and selling ruled fully steady with last week.

Receipts of hogs were liberal today, with about twenty cars in. Total receipts figured close around 1,500.

Messages came in quoting weaker market at other points and buyers here were bidding accordingly.

Salesmen held on for some little time, but as the run increased trading started and selling ruled anywhere from 5c to 15c lower than Saturday.

The top was $5.10 today for sorted hogs, with the bulk going at a range of from $4.50 to $4.90.

IN THE COURTS

Mugg & Dryden vs. the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company was on trial this morning and went to the jury at the afternoon session of the court.

Verdo W. Wood vs. L. B. Weinman, a suit for partition, was filed in the office of the district clerk.

THEY WERE MARKED TO SUIT W. J. BRYAN. W. J. Barow, special agent of the census bureau, who is in the city, had an interesting experience in Dallas while waiting with his grips to catch an Interurban for this city, showing that ex-Governor Hogg is not the only Bryan man left in the state.

Mr. Barow's grips are very modest affairs and bear merely the inscription, "W. J. B., Washington, D. C.," to prevent loss.

A Dallas county farmer who had remained to see the finish of the Fall Festival was passing the corner where Special Agent Barow was waiting for his car. The Interurban pulled by the car, which he, he pulled up, looked them and their owner over carefully and said: "Well, I know that ain't William Jennings Bryan, and I reckon those ain't his catches, but I'll be glad if they ain't marked like Bryan's ought to be."

Through the Skin TO THE BLOOD.

Some of the most stubborn diseases enter into the system through the pores of the skin. The juices of Poison Oak and Ivy and other noxious wild plants, when taken into the circulation, break out afresh each season, and linger on for years unless antitoxic and driven out of the system.

POISON OAK FOR EIGHT YEARS. When eight years old I was poisoned by handling poison oak, and it would break out on me every spring for eighteen years. Some one recommended S. S. The diseases that enter the system by absorption or through the pores are as deep-seated and dangerous as any, and cannot be reached by washes, salves, soaps or other external remedies. The blood must be purified before getting permanently rid of the disease. S. S. S. acts upon the blood, ridding it of the original poison and restoring it to a healthy, normal condition. S. S. THE CAMPAIGN ISSUES

On the eighth day of next month the people of the United States will decide as to whose hands they will commit the destinies of this great republic for the next four years, and as a matter of fact at this time there is no indication that either of the two great political parties has any great amount of advantage over the other.

The two candidates for the presidency stand on the same platform on the financial question, both being pronounced gold standard men, so that there is no financial issue this time. The democrats are making their fight with the constitution as the great campaign slogan.

Another strong card in the democratic hand is the well known antagonism of the party toward those great combinations of capital popularly designated as trusts. It is claimed by the party managers and campaign orators that the republican party is responsible for the birth and growth of these great national evils, and the fact that practically every one of them are outspoken in their advocacy of the republican national ticket is pretty conclusive evidence that there is an affinity existing that can only be explained by the existence of some mutual understanding.

The liberal contributions made by these trusts to the national republican campaign fund is additional conclusive evidence that the ox knows his master's crib. It is true that the republicans have taken advantage of the newly created cabinet officer, secretary of commerce and labor, to arm themselves with ammunition calculated to make the trusts shell out, but that is no evidence of party antagonism.

The author who wrote "Memories of a Baby" has just got one. However, it is too late now to revise the book. It is actually surprising how anxious we all are for harmony when the other fellow can be induced to do all the harmonizing.

On the subjects of the tariff the two parties also greatly differ. The republican party stands for the principles of protection, which enables the manufacturer to sell his products in a foreign country much cheaper than to his home people, and which has been a powerful factor in the upbuilding of the great trust evil.

erected around the industries that have already grown from a precocious infancy to the point where they can practically defy the government, should be pulled down and every tub made to stand on its own bottom. That the people of the United States are as much entitled to low prices as those of Mexico, and that these great manufacturing interests must be compelled to do the clean thing by their home people, by being placed in a position where they can no longer take refuge behind the robber tariff.

The race question is another important issue so far as the south is concerned. The platform declaration of the party on this question also serves to demonstrate its desire to make it a campaign issue where it can be used to advantage. The democrats have very promptly met the issue all over the union with the declaration that it has no feeling of enmity toward the negro, wants to see him thrive and prosper, but he must remain in the place nature created him to fit and adorn.

Another question of much moment on which the two parties widely differ is that of the Philippines. The republicans stand for retention of the islands indefinitely, on the theory that there must be no pulling down of the American flag where it has once been erected, which means the practical bondage of the Philippines. The democrats take the broader view of the situation that our mission is but to give liberty and independence to these people, and it must be done as soon as they are in position to receive it.

These are the main differences between the two great parties as developed in the campaign, and The Telegram has endeavored to state them clearly and simply so that they may be readily understood. Their comprehension can only result in the determination of the masses to fall into line with the great party of the people in the fight it is making for constitutional government.

A SHYSTER

Last week in New York a minister brought to the president of a traction company the sum of $550 to be credited to the "conscience fund."

The money was received by a woman who had sued the road for damages and got a judgment, but confessed that she was not injured.

The woman was the victim of a "lawyer," who, knowing all the circumstances, advised her to swear falsely in order to make a case against the company.

But the woman had trouble with her tender conscience and returned the money.

Presumably the attorney has not been conscience stricken because he advised perjury, or because of the verdict, or his fee. His identity is protected by law.

That lawyer is a "shyster."

Shyster is a good English word for a tricky attorney who lives by means of sharp practices. His ways are dark, but his tricks are not always vain. Sometimes he is caught at his tricks and disbarred from practice, but not often.

He is of the type that haunts the police courts and jails and preys upon petty criminals. Or if he is of higher degree he is perhaps an adept at the manufacture of testimony or the manipulator, if not the briber, of juries.

Every bar has its shysters.

And, for that matter, so has every profession. There are shyster preachers and quack doctors and false teachers and subsidized editors.

The shyster is a counterfeit.

And his existence in society proves the genuineness.

Hold the fort, for I am trying to come.—Kuropatkin.

Port Arthur's fall seems to be one long, sweet Indian summer.

That quickly fatal whisky sold in New York is simply a short cut.

Carrie Nation has left Kansas. There is now almost nothing the matter with Kansas.

With Leap Year only two months and a half yet to run, several decisive engagements are imminent.

The author who wrote "Memories of a Baby" has just got one. However, it is too late now to revise the book.

It is actually surprising how anxious we all are for harmony when the other fellow can be induced to do all the harmonizing.

The professor who claims that, owing to its topography, half of Kansas is crazy, is an Iowa man. Maybe this is merely another Iowa idea.

The husband of the woman that can cook good soup always believes away down in the bottom of his heart that she will go to heaven.

Again the information is given out that the Baltic fleet has sailed, and its mission will be fulfilled when it falls into the hands of the Japs.

From what The Telegram can learn of the political situation in this congressional district, Candidate Mallett has not yet set the woods on fire.

was over. Wisconsin is believed to be safely in the democratic column this year.

A regular army officer reports to the secretary of war that bad whisky inflames the troops. The United States army seems to be keeping up with the scientific world in discoveries.

The plan to electrocute Ohio murderers by clockwork will not entirely relieve the warden of a painful duty. It will still remain for him to fix the clock of the condemned man.

"Silk" O'Loughlin, an American League umpire, is running for the state senate in Rochester, N. Y. He doesn't care what they say about him. He's heard it all in the last three summers.

One Yonkers, N. Y., man worth $40,000,000 and another worth $15,000,000 want to go to the national house of representatives. Are the millionaires acquiring a contempt for the United States senate?

The Japanese claim that the Russian losses in the big fight that has been in progress for the past several days will exceed 40,000. Such figures as these serve to remind us of the truth of the Sherman definition of war.

Chairman Lyon may send negroes into the different congressional districts of this state for the purpose of organizing them politically, but he can not furnish them with poll tax receipts.

There are a number of constitutional amendments to be voted upon at the November election, and the voters should post themselves as to their provisions in order to be able to judge them intelligently.

Senator Culberson, by his splendid speeches for the national ticket, has added new laurels to his crown, put Texas in more favor with those who have little knowledge of the state and made votes for the national democratic ticket.—Corsicana Sun.

Senator Culberson is recognized as one of the strong men of the nation, and never fails to attract favorable attention wherever he appears. He is a man of strong mentality and very engaging manners, which constitutes a combination that never fails to please.

The friends of Governor Hogg will regret exceedingly that he used such intemperate language in his Dallas speech. The force of the position which he took with reference to railroad consolidation bills was greatly weakened by the violent abuse which he hurled against every person who disagreed with him upon this question.—San Antonio Gazette.

Governor Hogg's friends always give him credit for good intentions and devotion to the interests of the masses. It is his enemies who are the most troubled over his public utterances.

The county and district courts in Texas are falling into disrepute, and it is largely because the press does not call public attention to the rotten conduct of some of the judges. There is prevalent the idea that it is wrong in the press to criticize the acts and to discuss the general conduct of the court judges, and this idea has controlled the press to the great injury of the people. A rotten, lazy or ignorant judge should be exposed so that the people can dispose of him at the first opportunity. A sorry judge is the greatest enemy to our public welfare; and the press should never fail to warn the voters by directing attention to his shortcomings.—Tyler Courier.

There is no question but that some inferior material finds a place on the Texas bench, and the people are to blame for all that. Too much time is consumed in the trial of cases as a general thing, and some plan should be evolved by which court business could be despatched with more speed. So far as press criticism is concerned, all public officers are legitimate subjects for such action, but when it is done it should be accomplished in the proper manner. Personal abuse is a form of criticism that is too often indulged in.

The Army and Navy Journal accuses Colonel Cecil A. Lyon of Texas of tying up the entire army shipments at Manassas by insisting on a private car for his horse. Even if Lyon is guilty of any such folly, he is no worse than the man who ordered the maneuvers at an enormous expense to gain nothing.—Denison Herald.

Colonel Lyon's regard for his horse is not so great as that of the English king for horse flesh upon a certain memorable occasion when he offered to barter his kingdom for an animal. Colonel Lyon only wanted a private car for his steed, and as a close personal friend of the national republican administration, and chief distributor for the state of Texas, he was entitled to the honor. His demand was only in keeping with the general Rooseveltian policy. It makes no difference so long as the people have to pay the freight.

George B. Cortelyou, some time secretary of commerce and labor, has made no record as a dragon-slaying St. George. He let the octopus grow fat, and as manager of the national republican campaign fries the fat.—Houston Chronicle.

Chairman Cortelyou is doing the work his chief evidently had in mind when the new department of commerce and labor was created. Judging from the present situation that bureau was especially created to perpetuate the republican party in power and it will be no fault of Mr. Cortelyou's if it fails in its mission.

Speaker Cannon predicted that Colonel Bryan would not dare to enter the Indiana campaign for fear of losing the legislative ticket in his home state. Speaker Cannon was giving the voters hot air. And now the peerless is getting ready to invade Speaker Cannon's state to assist Carter Harrison to hold the radical democrats in line. Gold democrats stand without hitching this year.—Dallas Times-Herald.

With the national party organization entirely in their hands, the gold wing of the democratic party should stand hitched. It is the silver wing that has reasons for doing the bucking.

THE YELLOW HOLLY BY FERGUS HUME, AUTHOR OF "THE MYSTERY OF A HANSOM CAB," ETC. Copyright, 1903, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

(Continued from Yesterday.) An evening party. Woman mysteriously murdered. Mystery as to cause of death. A question of title and rank. Police investigate. No clew found. At the party a woman had given another piece of yellow holly. Near dead woman similar piece found. Fried knows Mr. interest one present had in woman, as he thought she could tell Brendon of his birth and title, which had been denied him. This friend, Leonard, questions Brendon about the twig. Does not suggest that he committed the crime. Mystery enshrouds the whole affair. Brendon is questioned as to why the woman gave him the holly. Both Brendon and Leonard leave the city. Will of deceased read by lawyer. Lord Derrington's interest in dead woman brought out. Miss Bull decides to continue boarding house in Miss Margery's name. Mrs. Ward comes into the story. A sly looking widow. Wishes her daughter to marry for money. She loves Brendon. Brendon when calling is requested by Mrs. Ward to tell story of crime. Mother of Dorothy tells Brendon daughter would make a bad match to marry him. A scene. George knew the room well. It had been used by his grandfather as a breakfast room, and many a meal had he enjoyed at that very table. As the furniture had been sold to Lord Derrington, together with the house, the table was the very article of furniture at which Mrs. Jersey had been stabbed when seated. Brendon looked from the table to the door and wondered if the assassin had entered stealthily with a bared weapon and had stabbed the wretched woman before she had time to turn her head. But on second thoughts he was inclined to think that the assassin had been in friendly conversation with Mrs. Jersey before inflicting the fatal stroke. Even in the short distance between table and door Mrs. Jersey would have had time to spring to her feet and give the alarm. "No," thought George as he seated himself; "what I said to Train is correct. The assassin engaged Mrs. Jersey in friendly conversation and then watched for an opportunity to strike from behind." He would have continued trying to puzzle out the circumstances of the crime but that Miss Bull entered, accompanied by Margery. The little old maid looked whiter and more haggard than ever, but her eyes gleamed brightly, and she seemed to be in perfect health. Margery, now being the nominal head of the house, appeared more important, but she kept her eyes on Miss Bull's face and in all things took her orders from this superior being. "How are you, Mr. Brendon?" said Miss Bull, smiling in her prim way, but without offering her hand: "I did not expect to see you again." "Why not?" asked George quickly. Miss Bull shrugged her thin shoulders and fastened her beady eyes on his face. "Many of the boarders left on account of madame's murder, so I thought you had done the same." "I was only a visitor, Miss Bull. Had I been a boarder I should not have left. The murder did not scare me." "No," replied Miss Bull indifferently: "I don't suppose it did. I only talked for the sake of talking." Brendon was rather embarrassed how to begin the conversation, especially as Margery was present. Something of this showed itself in his manner, for Miss Bull drew Margery's hand within her own and nodded affably. "Miss Watson is the head of the house," she said. "Do you come to see her or me, Mr. Brendon?" "I come to see you," said George, hoping she would send the inconvenient third away. But she did nothing of the sort. "In that case Margery can stop as my friend, Mr. Brendon. Anything you say before her will go no further. She keeps my secrets." Margery stooped and kissed the old maid's hand. Miss Bull patted her head and turned cheerfully to her visitor. "Yes, Mr. Brendon?" she said in an interrogative manner. Again George felt awkward, but judged it best to plunge into the middle of the matter and get it over as soon as possible. "You called to see a certain Mr. Ireland," he said, "about the lease of this house. I have come to ask you why you did so." Miss Bull stopped patting Margery's hand and her lips tightened. "I don't see what business that is of yours," she said tartly. "On the face of it, Miss Bull, I admit that the question sounds impertinent. But I am anxious to learn something about Mrs. Jersey's early life, and since you know something—" "I know nothing," interrupted Miss Bull quickly. "Absolutely nothing. I came here as a boarder many years ago, and, as is my custom, I kept myself to myself. Madame and I did not get on well together. She was not a lady." Evidently it was impossible to learn anything from so secretive a woman. Nevertheless George tried another tack. "Do you know if Mrs. Jersey left any writings behind her?" He asked this because it struck him that Mrs. Jersey might have been tempted to write out her relations with the Vane family. Miss Bull did not reply to this question herself. "That is not my business," she said. "Miss Watson took possession of her aunt's papers." "They were in a green box," said Margery artlessly. "What did they consist of?" asked Brendon. "You need not answer that question, Margery," said Miss Bull quickly, and from that moment Margery preserved a lamplish silence. George rose in despair. "You will not help me," he said, taking up his hat. He saw nothing for it but to go, yet he hesitated to abandon the chance of learning something from Miss Bull. He stared at her pinched, white face and wondered if it would be any good appealing to that love of romance which is inherent in the heart of every woman. Old and withered as Miss Bull was she might soften under the influence of a love tale. Brendon disliked telling his business to strangers, especially anything regarding Dorothy, whom he looked upon as a sacred vestal not to be lightly mentioned. But he could not speak in the presence of the girl Margery. She was such a sullen animal that to mention his love in her presence would be like casting pearls before swine. He therefore turned to Miss Bull, who stood with folded hands, eying him frigidly. "If I could see you alone," said Brendon. "Miss Bull," said George deliberately, "what I am about to tell you, being my own private business, I must ask you to keep to yourself. I am engaged to be married." "Indeed, and what interest can that have for me, Mr. Brendon?" "This much. I am anxious for certain information, and from what Mr. Ireland said you alone can give it. To put the thing in a nutshell, I am in love, and you can forward my marriage if you will." "Who is the bride, Mr. Brendon?" said Miss Bull. "She is not a bride yet. She never may be," replied the young man gloomily. "For if she does not become my wife she will accept no one else. I can trust her implicitly. Her name is Dorothy Ward." Miss Bull rose, with an ejaculation, and her face grew red. "Is her mother the Honorable Mrs. Ward who married Lord Kamsome's son?" "Yes. Do you know her?" asked George, surprised at her emotion. "I have heard of her," replied Miss Bull, resuming her seat with feigned indifference, but with barely concealed agitation. "Dorothy Ward. A handsome girl. I have seen her in the park." "She is as good as she is beautiful," cried Brendon enthusiastically. "I'll take your word for that," said Miss Bull in a softer tone. "Mr. Brendon, I will help you. Don't ask me why. Perhaps it is on account of your romance, perhaps because—because—her hand clinched itself, and she fought down an outburst—"no matter. I will do what I can to forward the marriage. What do you wish to know?" "About Mrs. Jersey." "In relation to Lord Derrington?" "Yes. He was the landlord of this house, I believe." "He was and is. It was leased to Mrs. Jersey, furniture and all, by the year." "By the year," said Brendon, surprised. "Why not a seven years' lease in the ordinary way?" "I cannot say. I am only telling you what Mrs. Jersey's lawyer told me. Lord Derrington bought this house from Mr. Ireland, who sold it on account of the last owner." "He did," said George. "The last owner was Mr. Anthony Lockwood; he was"—George had it in his mind to state that Lockwood was his grandfather, but the time was not yet ripe for such a disclosure, and he said nothing at the moment. "He was a singing master," he finished rather lamely. "Mr. Ireland told me all about him." "That is all correct, so far as I know, Mr. Brendon. I dare say you wish to know why I saw Mr. Ireland. I did so on behalf of Margery Watson, as I wanted the girl to continue the boarding house. I like the poor creature, and when her aunt died she was left very badly off." "Didn't Mrs. Jersey leave any money?" "No. She lived principally on an annuity from Lord Derrington." "Ah," said Brendon, his suspicions becoming more and more confirmed, "so he allowed her an annuity. Why?" "I can't tell you that. But with the death of Mrs. Jersey the annuity naturally ceased. I asked Mr. Ireland about the lease and then sought out Lord Derrington. I represented to him the position of Margery Watson, and he was good enough to renew the lease in her name on my security." "Still by the year?" asked George. "Still by the year. So now the poor girl can live." "You are a good woman, Miss Bull, to help her in this way. It shows you have a good heart," said George. "Well, Miss Bull"—he rose—"you have told me what I want to know. I hope to make use of it. In return for your confidence I should tell you"—

Remember that we do a general fire, plate glass, liability and tornado insurance business and represent none but the best old line stock companies, the representative ones of the United States, such as the following: Phoenix of Hartford, Connecticut, with a cash capital of two million and with assets double that amount. Orient of Hartford, Connecticut, with a cash capital of a half million, and with assets five times that amount. Camden of New Jersey, established in the year 1841. American of Boston, established very near a hundred years ago, in the year of 1818. When you place your insurance with such companies as the above you can rest easy at night and have your mind free, for in case you should be so unfortunate as to lose your home or household belongings by fire or lightning it would be any longer than it takes to make up the proofs of loss before you would have the cash with which to rebuild your home or replace your furniture. When you have a good vendor lien notes or wish to borrow money on good improved city property, remember we do that, and let you have the money for several years at the low rate of interest of 8 or 9 per cent. OUR OFFICE IS LOCATED IN THE VERY HEART OF THE CITY, AT 112 WEST NINTH STREET, BETWEEN MAIN AND HOUSTON STREETS, DOWN STAIRS. WE HAVE BOTH TELEPHONES. NEW PHONE NO. 988. OLD PHONE NO. 532 1-RINGS. Only three men have enlisted in the United States army at the recruiting station here so far this month. They are Eugene A. Hall, Fort Worth, age 27, enlistment; Reuben D. Robertson, Farmington, Mo., age 23, and Charles E. Perkins, Louisville, Ky., age 30. One enlisted in the hospital corps, another the cavalry and the other the infantry. Many men have been examined, but few men who offer themselves can come up to the requirements now demanded. No more men will be accepted for the infantry or cavalry here. Men will now only be taken for the artillery either coast or field.

LECTURES ON THE HOLY LAND ARE POPULAR

Rev. J. F. Boeye Continues the Series and a Large Number Are Attending Each Sunday Night

Another large crowd of interested people filled St. Paul's Episcopal church last night to hear Dr. J. F. Boeye's lecture on Beyrout, Lebanon, Tiberius and Cana. Dr. Boeye has been interesting large audiences during the past six months, with stereoscopic illustrations of many important points of interest in Palestine which he took personally while on his recent trip to that country.

Beyrout, he said, was the leading educational center of Palestine, where are centralized many of the leading schools and educational institutions of protestantism, preparing to invade the darkness and superstition of the interior.

Beyrout, he said, is the commercial center of the western coast of Asia, and has a population of 100,000 people.

Beyrout is the gate to Palestine and the terminus of the railroad to Damascus.

The lecture was a general description of the country contiguous to Beyrout, interestingly descriptive of everything he saw with his own eyes.

The mountains of Lebanon, Lake Galilee, the Jordan, Hermon's Peak, the ruins of Capernaum, the city of Magdala, Tiberius and many other historical points were referred to at length by the speaker.

These lectures will continue Sunday evenings.

NOT MCGREGOR

A. J. Rosenthal Who Will Speak at Opening of Campaign Declares Houston Candidate Will Be Defeated

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED

Believed That Meeting at City Hall Will Be Well Attended—No Democrats Have Yet Accepted Offer of Division of Time for Discussion of Issues

A. J. Rosenthal of Galveston was the first of the republican cohort to arrive for the opening of the state campaign in this city tonight. He reached this city yesterday from Galveston and spent yesterday evening with Dr. R. Chambers, with whose father he was in the legislature.

He will be one of the speakers at the meeting tonight and last night expressed a desire that a large number of persons differing in political belief with him would be present.

"It's not the republicans I want to talk to, but the democrats, populists, socialists and those who can be brought into the fold. I also hope a large attendance of ladies will be had at the meeting."

He also declared his willingness to divide his time with any of the democratic leaders, as has been offered in official announcement.

This morning while at the Worth with Lon Barkley awaiting the arrival of Cecil Lyon from Sherman, Mr. Rosenthal admitted that in his opinion MacGregor would fall in election from the Houston district. As reasons for this belief he gave the opposition of the labor element, which it was unnatural to suppose had become appeased since the recent strike car strike in that city, and the fact that MacGregor would be unable to carry the negro vote.

The condition of the negro vote is quite a surprise here. In view of the superior ability of the negro delegates when he was a candidate for state chairman at the convention in this city.

The meeting between Mr. Rosenthal and Dr. Chambers was a pleasant one. The republican leader, Colonel A. J. Chambers was a member, and Mr. Rosenthal was there from Fayette county. One a democrat and the other a republican did not interfere with a warm friendship which existed between them, and after they found the opportunity to assist each other, Mr. Rosenthal not being such a bitter partisan that he could not assist his friend with some pet measure, and Colonel Chambers being liberal enough to help along the republican when he could.

While a member of the legislature with Colonel Chambers Mr. Rosenthal seconded the nomination of Coke for the senate.

Mr. Rosenthal lived in Fayette county for years. He was at one time cashier of the First National Bank of LaGrange. Later he moved to Galveston and is now in the customs service. He is one of the youngest looking men in the republican party, but in this because he is well preserved in mind and complexion, and his coal black beard gives him a distinguished appearance.

The meeting tonight at the city hall will be held promptly at 8 o'clock. A. J. Rosenthal and W. H. Atwell both of whom are known as among the most able speakers of the party in the state, will address the meeting. Short talks will also be made by the leading candidates upon the ticket, beginning with the nominee for governor.

The members of the Roosevelt Central Republican Club who have made the arrangements for the meeting, will attend each member wearing the panther badge of the organization.

The farmers' committee is composed of A. Lyon and candidates on the state ticket, reached this city this afternoon and all are looking for an enthusiastic meeting.

ARLINGTON BANK GETS THE GOIN EAVES HAD

The Former Assistant Cashier Turns Over the Amount He Has on Hand to the Institution

The Citizens' National bank at Arlington is better off by $2,695 than it was Saturday, when Sheriff John T. Honea, acting in Fort Worth from St. Louis, having in custody W. R. Eaves, who is under indictment on an alleged charge of embezzling from the above bank in January last the sum of $7,856, while assistant cashier.

Eaves all along contended that the money he brought back with him was not any part of the amount the bank claims to have lost.

From what could be learned Saturday night Eaves had no intention of turning over the $2,695 to any one, but after holding several conferences in secret with the officials and his relatives Eaves finally concluded that he would turn the money over to the bank, which he practically did this morning, giving Sheriff Honea an order for it in the interest of the bank.

President Thomas Spruance of the Arlington Citizens' National bank was this morning called up by Office Deputy John Kaiser and informed what Eaves had done.

For a time this morning there was a slight conflict regarding the money, as Eaves had given his attorneys an order for $500 as attorney's fees, but later in the morning the prisoner countermanded this order.

Soon after this action Deputy United States Marshal Thomas was admitted to the jail and served a Federal court warrant on Eaves, as he has been indicted by the Federal court at Dallas, charging him with violating the national banking laws while in the performance of the functions of assistant cashier of the Citizens' National bank at Arlington.

Late last evening the wife of Eaves came over from Mineral Wells and was permitted to see the prisoner. The meeting of the two was quite affecting, as they had not seen each other since the latter part of last January.

The minimum penalty for offenses like this, which Eaves is charged is two years in the state penitentiary, and the maximum twelve years.

There still remains at Highland Park, Ill., a few of the old bent trees which once marked the Pottawatomie trail. One theory declares they were bent to mark the direction of Lake Michigan, while another says they point toward the mound where once burned the council fire.

FARMERS HAVE A COMMITTEE HERE TO CONFER

Has Not Been Decided Where the Next Sale of Cotton Will Be Held, But Fort Worth Is Trying for It

The committee appointed by the Farmers' Union of Tarrant county July 25 for the purpose of conferring with citizens of Fort Worth with a view to holding the next public sale of cotton in this city, is in Fort Worth today and will probably meet during the afternoon to complete plans for the sale, which will probably be held during the present month.

The farmers' committee is composed of W. R. Buckner of Grapevine, W. T. Hudson of Kennedale and A. J. Reynolds of Azle. The latter gentleman, however, has not yet reached the city.

Mr. Buckner was seen this afternoon and asked regarding the coming sale. He replied that it was a difficult thing to say just how much cotton would be sold at the next sale, as most of the farmers who he had knowledge are inclined to hold their cotton for better prices, as there is a decline just at this time. He also stated that farmers are waiting the result of the presidential election, and the outcome as to who is elected president will determine whether cotton will be sold or held. He believes that if Roosevelt is elected farmers will not be so timid and will turn their product loose.

"I am a democrat, but I believe that if the republicans win, it will be better for us farmers," said Mr. Buckner.

Mr. Buckner stated that it was not decided whether the next sale is to be held in Fort Worth or elsewhere. He said it

POLICE NEWS

The police were busy all day Sunday and today. In that length of time many arrests have been made for trivial violations of the law. On Sunday fifteen arrests were made. Some were for being drunk, others for aggravated assault and disturbing the peace, sleeping in public places, gambling, trespassing, carrying knuckles and for being suspects. The merry-go-round was kept on the jump almost the entire day and night.

As a result of this renewed activity in police circles this morning, when court was called the dock presented a motley array of talent. When the clerk of the court called each case and the prisoner arose to make his plea of guilty or not guilty men and women in all walks of life were seen facing the court and many nationalities were represented among the prisoners. The cases were all minor ones and were disposed of in the usual way. Some appealed the cases, a few were fined on promises of good behavior, others were assessed various amounts for their transgressions of the law and several cases were continued until later in the week.

Yesterday morning as Officers Walker and Howard were walking their beat on Upper Main street the voices of men shouting were heard. Investigation proved that a game was really on and, of course, the police slipped in and arrested all they could get of the colored persons in the game, which amounted to four players. The men tried to escape, but were unable to do so.

NEW LIQUOR LAW

Bartenders Alliance Will Offer Measure at Next Session of Legislature Looking to Abolishment of Bad Features

ANNOUNCED BY HUSTED

National Organizer Admits That Is Object of Present Visit and Outlines Measures That Will Be Contained in the Bill to Be Presented

In an interview this morning Lem Husted, national organizer of the Bartenders' Alliance, stated that his mission to the state was to investigate the conditions and see if it was possible to save for his craft the cities that are at present "wet," and to regain some of those that have been lost, and that after visiting all of the principal cities in Texas he finds that the opposition to the selling of liquors come from those who oppose the manner in which many of the saloons are managed rather than from any other cause.

Finding such the conditions, he says he has decided to attempt having passed at the next legislature a bill that will eliminate all of the bad features now existing. Asked for an outline of the bill, he said it would resemble a great deal the law now in force in Pennsylvania, which calls for a thousand dollar license from all who engage in the selling of spirituous or malt liquors; that a person taking out this license must first have resided in the state two years, and in the county one year; that no saloon would be licensed within two blocks of a church or school; that the dive features would be eliminated; there could be no gaming of any kind beneath the roof of any saloon; no chairs or tables within a saloon; the hours for closing would be 11 at night for every night except Saturdays, which would be 12; all saloons would be closed Sundays, and the violation of any one of these features would forever bar a man from again engaging in the saloon business in the state.

He says he has talked with a great many saloon men on the proposed measures and find that many favor it, realizing that the opposition at present is due principally to the manner in which saloons are conducted.

In this matter he is acting officially for the Bartenders' Alliance and that organization has given its indorsement to the step.

Mr. Husted goes from here to Dallas, where he will remain several days, and from there to El Paso, and then works his way to San Francisco, arriving there in time to represent the Fort Worth Trades Assembly November 14 at the convention of the American Federation of Labor, assisting C. W. Woodman of this city, who was designated by the Texas Federation of Labor as a delegate to the American Federation, with instructions to bring the next convention to Texas. Fort Worth has been put forward as the city in which the convention of 1905 should meet and Mr. Woodman was selected to lead the fight for Texas because he is believed to be the strongest man in Texas in the labor movement. The selection of Mr. Husted to assist him was a wise move on the part of the Trades Assembly, as he is from Kentucky and of influence on that section, and he will be able to carry that section for Texas.

STREET WASHER IS AGAIN USED

The Sweeper Superseded Last Night on Houston Street With Good Results and Merchants Are Rejoicing

The street flusher, which had temporarily been placed on the shelf by the street sweeper, was again put into service last night on Houston street by Commissioner Renfro, the result being apparent this morning.

The street was thoroughly cleaned for practically the first time since the sweeper was put in operation, the accumulated dirt being washed into the gutters and there easily shoveled into carts.

Main street is scheduled for a similar performance tonight and the washer will be kept in regular service. Speaking of the matter this morning, Commissioner Renfro declared himself as heartily in favor of the washer as opposed to the sweeper method.

Merchants along the street also expressed great satisfaction at the change, finding not only that the street was much improved in condition but that their stores were freed from the usual coating of dust following upon the passage of the disease producing sweeper.
