ROUTE CRISIS IN THE AFFAIRS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND RUSSIAN EMPIRE

ADMIRAL OF THE BALTIC FLEET REPORTS THAT HE WAS ATTACKED BY TWO TORPEDO BOATS, AND HAVING SENT ONE TO THE BOTTOM HE NOTICED THE FISHING FLEET IN THE VICINITY AND CEASED FIRING—CLAIMS THE STEAMER WHICH REMAINED IN THE VICINITY AND OFFERED SUCCOR WAS A JAPANESE BOAT, AS NONE OF HIS VESSELS REMAINED BEHIND

Conference of Cabinet Officers in London—Russia's Failure to Agree That the Officers Responsible for the North Sea Outrage Will Be Punished Is Not Well Received in England and Upon This Point There Is Now Much Discussion—Russia's Ambassador Says That England Has No Right to Make Such a Demand, but That the Question of Punishment Should Come from the Imperial Government—Prince Who Is Officer on Russian Battleship Says Fishing Boats Surrounded Fleet and When Ordered to Make Known Nationality Answered Only with Evolutions, and Thereupon the Order to Fire Upon Them Was Given—Much Indignation on All Sides

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 27.—Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, in his report of the North Sea incident, says his squadron was attacked by two torpedo boats, one of which is believed to have been sunk. He declares he ceased firing as soon as he noticed the trawlers in the vicinity. Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's explanation of the trawler incident is as fully sensational as the news of the firing on the fishing fleet, which set all England aflame. He declares in the darkness two torpedo boats came upon the squadron from the direction of the fishing fleet. He opened fire and believes that he sank one of the torpedo boats, the other making off for cover among the fishermen. As soon as he noticed the fishermen, Admiral Rojestvensky ceased firing. He proceeded on his way without leaving any vessel behind, and says he believes the vessel which the fishermen reported as remaining on the scene for six hours without offering succor to the drowning was the other torpedo boat, either waiting for her consort or repairing the damage inflicted by the fire of his ship. In concluding his telegram, Admiral Rojestvensky expresses in the most warm-hearted way the regrets of the whole squadron to the fishermen who had suffered and to the families of the victims.

Admiral Rojestvensky's report was telegraphed from Vigo direct to the emperor, who received it last night. It was communicated this morning to Ambassador Hardinge by Foreign Minister Lansdowne himself. There are reasons to believe the British embassy is acquainted with the information which reached Russian authorities some time ago of the arrival at and the subsequent mysterious disappearance from Hull of twenty Japanese torpedo boats. It is pointed out in the original version of the incident as recited by the captain of the trawler Moulmein coincides clearly with Rojestvensky's. The captain said while the squadron was passing he suddenly noticed two torpedo boats which approached so near that he thought they intended boarding him, when they sheered off heading back for the squadron, almost immediately after the squadron opened fire. According to the account of Rojestvensky's report it specifically states there were no torpedo boats with the squadron when the incident occurred. If this is true, the statement of the captain of the Moulmein would completely corroborate Rojestvensky. In view of the entire complexion placed on the incident by Rojestvensky's report it is readily conceivable Russia may make representations to Great Britain and that the whole course of exchanges between the two governments regarding the affair may be altered.

Rojestvensky's version will likely create quite as much indignation in Russia as the fishermen's did in England. Further inquiry would seem to be indispensable in order to definitely establish to the satisfaction of both governments there has been no mistake. If it is conclusively proved that a couple of Japanese torpedo boats launched an attack on the Russian squadron from English shores or from the shelter of an English fleet, there is no doubt that the British government will promptly denounce this outrage and use every effort to punish the offenders. The sudden turn given to the affair by Rojestvensky's official report creates a most peculiar situation and approaching developments are being watched with keenest interest.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—All cabinet ministers have been instructed to hold themselves in readiness in case a cabinet council should be necessary. This led to the report that a council had been summoned, and naturally increased the popular excitement, as it is interpreted as an indication that the government is about to take a final step. No cabinet meeting has been definitely fixed, but one will undoubtedly be held before the government takes any action of important decisive character. Ambassador Benckendorff was early astir this morning, and after dealing with his correspondence, drove to the Lansdowne house to see the foreign secretary. While he was still there the French ambassador, F. M. Candolle, called, thus confirming the prevalent belief that France is doing her utmost to promote a satisfactory settlement. At 1:42 p. m.—Up to this hour there is no sign of an end to the deadlock over the question of the punishment of the Russian officers responsible for the North sea tragedy, so the Associated Press understands. As regards the British demand for punishment being an infringement of Russia's sovereignty and rights, Ambassador Benckendorff, in an interview with Lord Lansdowne today, maintained that such punishment should be taken on the spontaneous initiative of the emperor's government, and a demand from a foreign power that Russia shall punish her officers can not be entertained. In any event, it is impossible for the Russian government to mete out punishment without having before it the statement of facts as presented by its own officers. Count Benckendorff also pointed out the emperor's telegram, which is regarded by all Russians no less than a personal communication to King Edward than an expression of the sentiment of the whole Russian nation. There is no indication of Lord Lansdowne withdrawing his demand, and though the dispute has not yet reached the ultimatum stage, it will likely do so if today's passage without some recognition of the spontaneous initiative of the emperor's government. Russia's continued failure to comply with the British demand in this respect creates gloomier feelings in diplomatic circles, which shared with Lord Lansdowne yesterday the impression that Russia would eventually agree to this point. At the Lansdowne house the conference of the three diplomats lasted nearly an hour. Premier Balfour, who spent the night as the guest of Lord Salisbury at Hatfield House, Hertfordshire, returned to the foreign office at noon. It is now considered certain that the premier will summon the cabinet council for noon tomorrow, prior to his departure for Southampton, where there are reasons to expect he will either announce in substance any settlement that may have been arrived at with Russia, or in the absence of a settlement announce the nature of steps that will be taken by the British government.

FRANCE OUT OF IT
LONDON, Oct. 27.—A very definite impression prevails in diplomatic circles here France has given both Russia and Great Britain explicitly to understand she will not be involved should the disputants resort to hostilities.

ENGLAND HURRIES NAVAL REPAIRS
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Clerks at the foreign office and the admiralty were very busy working at high pressure until late in the night, cables the Herald's London correspondent. The first lord of the admiralty gave the officials special instructions to send with all haste to him, and the various heads of departments immediately on receipt certain telegrams from the continent. About a dozen of the chief experts at the foreign office remained in attendance

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Eminence, under the escort of a squadron of soldiers from the British legation, has just left his residence for the first time, says a Herald dispatch from Tangier. He paid a ceremonial visit to Sir Arthur Nicholson at the British legation. Eighty-five soldiers are leaving for Larache, to relieve that place, which is now being besieged by Sahakables. A vessel was chartered for the purpose.

TRANS-MISSISSIPPI CONGRESS
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 27.—The beginning of today's session of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress was devoted to a general discussion of topics presented in the papers read during yesterday's session. Necessarily the general review was limited, owing to the number of papers yet to be heard, but it was earnest and animated, embracing irrigation methods, cultivation of sugar beets, commercial aspect of the country, labor and capital conditions, government protection against floods and kindred topics.

FOR THE GLORY OF THE CZAR

THE "BATTLE OF THE NORTH SEA."

SIR CHARLES HARDINGE, English Ambassador to St. Petersburg.

England's representative at St. Petersburg, Sir Charles Hardinge, although one of the youngest diplomats, is one of the most brilliant in the English diplomatic service, and is capable of representing England in the present crisis. He entered the service as an attaché in 1880 and sixteen years later became secretary of the legation of Teheran, a rapidity of promotion almost unexampled. In 1898 he was appointed secretary to the embassy at St. Petersburg, and five years later he returned to London to enter the foreign office as under secretary of state for foreign affairs. Last April he was sent to St. Petersburg as ambassador. During his career he has held diplomatic appointments in Constantinople, Berlin, Washington, Sofia, Paris, Teheran and elsewhere. Sir Charles Hardinge is 45 years of age.

until a late hour, ready to inform the other departments of state immediately upon receipt of definite news. The admiralty was in communication with Portsmouth, Chatham and Devonport during Wednesday evening and special instructions were given to the resident clerk to remain on duty throughout the night. Half a dozen cabinet ministers were within call, a most unusual thing before the commencement of the annual series of November cabinets. The government has not consulted other powers with regard to any concerted action. The overhauling of warships at the home naval stations, which has been in progress for some time past, is being hastened by working over time. Never before have vessels in the reserve fleet been more in a condition of preparedness than they are at the present time.

At Portsmouth over time work has been ordered on board the battleship Triumph, purchased not long since from the Chilean government, which was damaged recently in a collision. The Triumph is one of the most powerful of the units of the home fleet and it is evidently the intention of the admiralty to bring that squadron to its full strength at the earliest possible moment.

Orders have also been given for the Good Hope and the Drake, of the cruiser squadron, to be got ready for sea again as quickly as possible. The overhauling of the heavily armed and armored cruisers Berwick and Kent, belonging to the "County" class, is being hurried forward at Chatham and is expected to be completed by Friday evening. The vessels will leave on Saturday to join the cruiser squadron.

The only two vessels attached to the cruiser squadron at present at Devonport are the cruisers Donogal and Monmouth both of which are under repairs in the dock yards.

Night and day shifts are working on the Donogal, which is having its gun mountings altered.

Orders have also been given that no work on vessels in commission or the fleet

COUNT BENCKENDORFF, Russian Ambassador to London.

Count Alexander Benckendorff, Russian ambassador to the court of St. James, who has become a prominent figure since the war with Japan, owing to the peculiar position of England, is doubly prominent in diplomat circles just now owing to the North Sea incident. He is a member of a noble Livonian and Esthonian family, and was born in Berlin in 1849. He was educated in France and Germany and began his diplomatic career in 1869 as an honorary attaché at Rome. In 1877 he retired. Two years later he married Countess Sophie Schouvaloff. The couple have two sons, one in the Russian army and the other in the bassaroff to Vienna, persuaded Count Benckendorff to return to the diplomatic service and he accepted a secretaryship. Ten years later he became minister to Copenhagen and last year was made ambassador to London.

VICTORIA, B. TWO CHICAGO BANKS IN THE IRON TRADE COMBINE ALL BUSINESS PRICES HAVE ADVANCED

President Perry Is Criminally Accused and He Thinks He Should Resign Position

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—The purchase of the National Bank of North America by the Continental National Bank, which was announced late last night after a meeting of the directors of both institutions, is effective at once. This action comes as the climax to charges connecting the name of President Isaac N. Perry of the National Bank of North America with the notorious buying of the Chicago Car and Locomotive Company works at Hegewisch October 9. The directors of Perry's bank had been in session almost continuously since Monday considering the insinuations against their president and, while they expressed confidence in Mr. Perry's integrity and were willing to accept his statement that the charges against him had been made by his enemies for the purpose of ruining him, the fear that the publicity given the case might have injurious effect on the bank is said to have led to the negotiations which ended in the merger. The National Bank of North America guarantees all the accounts, and it is understood that, based upon the character of the assets, the ultimate price will be worked out. If the book value of $123 per share of the North American proves to represent sound assets, the price as nearly as could be learned will be between $156 and $157 a share. The stockholders will receive approximately $18 a share above the book value. The transfer of assets will be made today and customers of the National Bank of North America will go to the Continental for the transaction of their business.

As to the working force of the American Vice President Reynolds of the Continental says: "We temporarily shall take over the junior officers and employees. We are under no obligation to retain any of them, but we shall not radically find the people needed."

Early today the directors of the North American gave out the resignation of President Perry, which they refused to accept. "To the Board of Directors—Gentlemen: In view of the fact that I feel that no person so accused, however innocent, should continue at the head of any bank. I desire to retire. And I therefore resign my position as president of the National Bank of North America and respectfully insist upon your ultimate acceptance of my resignation. Respectfully, ISAAC N. PERRY."

The resolution refusing to accept the resignation states that the board firmly believes in Mr. Perry's innocence of the charges made against him and that the success of the bank has been largely due to his personal efforts.

With the consolidation of the Continental and the North American the Continental will take rank as the second largest national bank in Chicago. The combined deposits will be over $55,000,000.

The Continental is known locally as the institution in which the Armours are heavily interested. Its president is John C. Black. Some years ago it absorbed the International Bank of the Bank of Commerce, both state institutions.

The Rising Tide of Demand Forces the Northern Pig Iron Figures to a Parity with the Southern

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Southern pig iron producers seem to have gauged the market correctly when they advanced their prices to what appeared to be prohibitory figures, says the Iron Age in its review of the week in steel and iron trades. The rising tide of demand has been sufficiently strong to carry northern prices up to a parity with southern and all sections have thus enjoyed a share of the heavy buying movement the past week. Sales are reported on the basis of $12, Birmingham, for No. 2 foundry, which two weeks ago would have been considered completely out of the question. Even this price, however, does not tempt the makers to book much business for next year's delivery. In fact, the northern as well as the southern pig iron makers are chary about taking contracts running far into next year because of the outlook as to coke and ore. It is quite certain that coke will not be procurable at the low prices ruling the past summer, and it is also asserted that the Lake ore shipments this year will not allow for much expansion of production by merchant blast furnaces during the winter.

While large foundry interests have been heavy buyers of pig iron, the greatest blocks have been bought by steel makers, particularly the manufacturers of plates, whose trade has been so decidedly improved by the numerous orders recently placed for steel and lake vessels. Nevertheless, the foundries have gone very well in the market and now the cast iron pipe makers are inquiring for a large tonnage. One machinery builder bought 20,000 tons the past week. The only branch of steel manufacture not really lagging is the rail trade, which will continue quiet until the price for next year is settled. No time has yet been fixed for a meeting of the manufacturers in sympathy with the course of the pig iron market prices on old material have shown quite an advance during the week.

DEALERS HAVE BOUGHT IMITATION STONES

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Supposedly high grade emeralds, which have been imported from Paris, have been discovered by several wholesale jewelers here to be only doublets of quartz, cleverly colored. The importers declare they have been paying many times the value of the stones. The fact was learned in time to save the dealers from serious embarrassment, as in a few days more the imitation gems would have reached the retail trade. The duty at 20 per cent was $4 a carat, which is said to be many times the real value of the stones. According to experts in the trade the stones without all known tests until some were accidentally placed near a fire. Then the color quickly vanished and the stones separated.

SUSAN B. ANTHONY GIVES SOME ADVICE

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 27.—Acting upon advice given in a letter of greeting from Susan B. Anthony, the Michigan Equal Suffrage Association, now in annual session here, adopted a resolution demanding that the word "male" be eliminated from section 7 of the state constitution. The section referred to is the one bearing upon elections and specifying what requirements must be met to entitle "male" inhabitants to vote at elections. The letter from Miss Anthony was dated Leavenworth, Kan., and was received with enthusiasm. It said: "To get that word out of the clause will settle the question of woman's equality for all time. Let the Federation of women's organizations and other women's organizations ask for the tidbits of suffrage if they like, but do you ask for the whole loaf every time."

MISS HORAN REFUSES TO SHOW LETTERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—At a continuation of the hearing before a commission appointed by the California courts, of testimony in the contest over the will of Miss Dolbeer of California, who met her death some time ago at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, Miss Elizabeth M. Horan refused flatly to produce three letters alleged to have been received by her from Miss Marion Warren, who fell heir under the will to Miss Dolbeer's millions. One of these letters, Miss Horan admitted was written to her from Paris, and contained a reference to the wealthy deceased woman's health and attorneys for the contestants decedent. It had an important bearing on her mental condition, it being the plan of the relatives to show that Miss Dolbeer was not responsible at the time she made her will. The lawyers were much nettled over Miss Horan's refusal and telegraphed to San Francisco, asking that the supreme court punish the witness for contempt.

THE SUBWAY HAS BEEN DECLARED TO BE OPEN

Great Engineering Achievement in New York Has Been Completed and the Concern Is Ready

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—New York's great underground railroad, the latest step in the movement toward rapid transit from the old city, was formally declared open and ready for business today. The last shovelful of earth has been turned, the last rivet set and the roadbed, rails and cars and mechanism has been inspected and pronounced in perfect condition by experts who watched the growth of the subway from the beginning to its completion. The ceremonies in connection with the opening of the tunnel, which are fixed to take place in the afternoon, are very simple. The civic celebration is planned to be held in the city hall, where addresses are to be delivered by Mayor McClellan and the men who had a prominent place in carrying out the enterprise, and where the mayor will formally declare the great tunnel ready for the public.

AN OFFER IS MADE

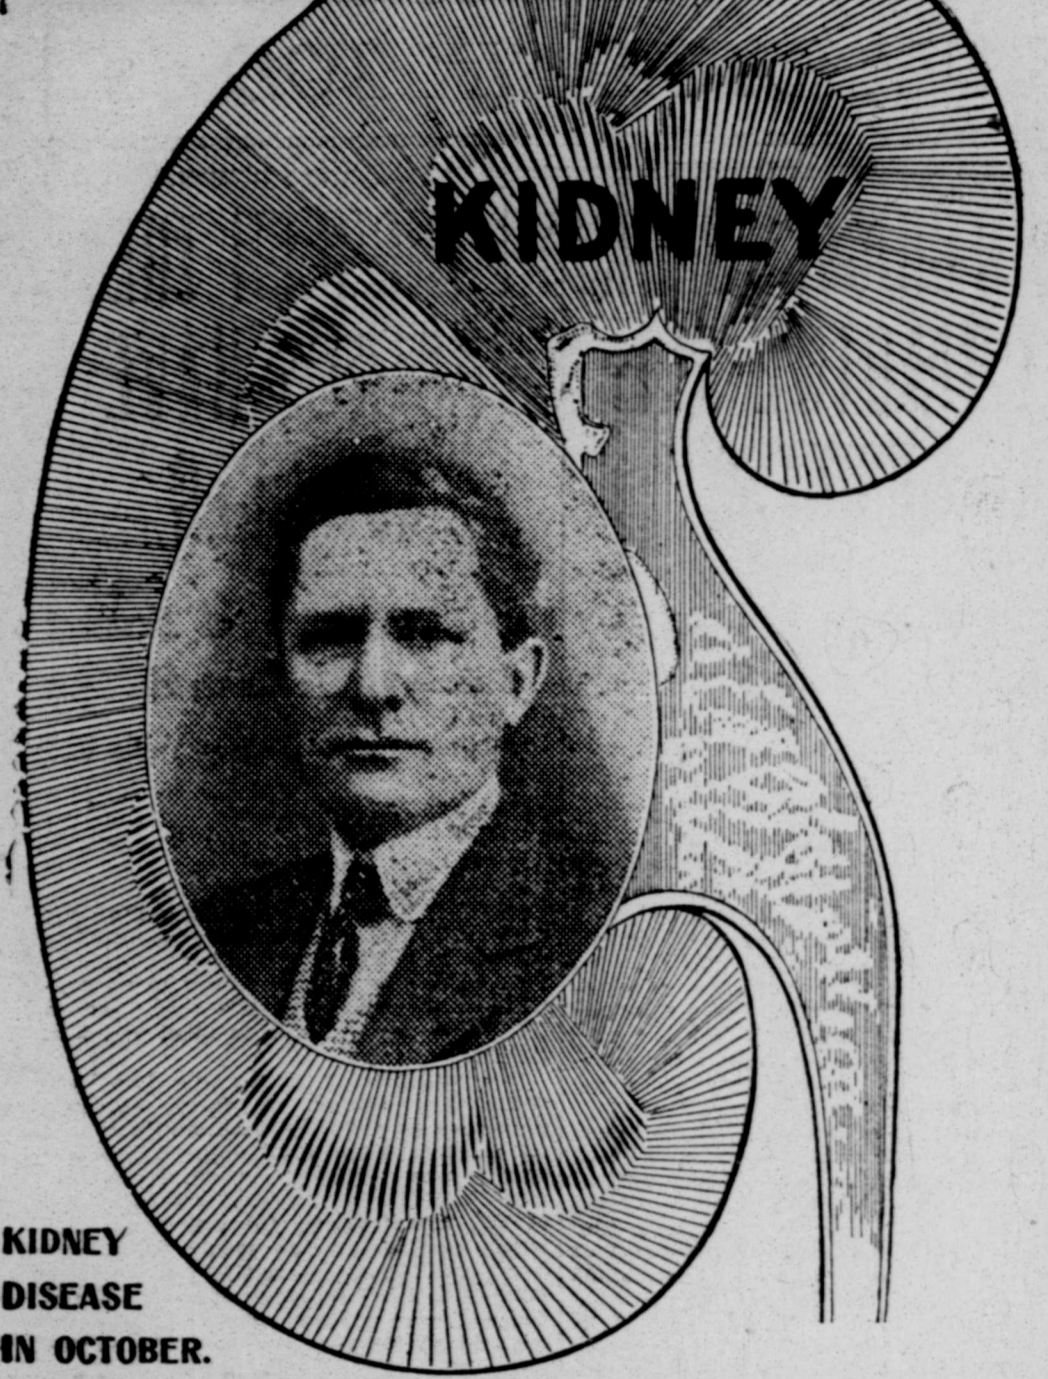

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—At a conference between Minister of Finance Terry and Lewandzky, a French financier, the latter has made, according to a Herald Buenos Ayres correspondent, a proposal for the conversion of the national 5 and 6 per cent debts. The offer was made on behalf of a French syndicate. No action has yet been taken.

The number of timber sleepers on the railroads of the world is calculated to be about 1,494,000,000, and their value is estimated at about $900,000,000. This item makes a serious drain on the timber supplies of the world.

DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS

CURED BY Pe-ru-na.

KIDNEY DISEASE IN OCTOBER.

Mr. F. B. Richards, 609 "E" street, N. W., Washington, D. C., War Correspondent, writes: "Exactly six years ago I was ordered to Cuba as staff correspondent of the New York Sun. I was in charge of a Sun despatch boat through the Spanish American war. "The effect of the tropical climate and the nervous strain showed plainly on my return to the States. Lassitude, depression and incessant kidney trouble made me practically an invalid. This undesirable condition continued, despite the best of treatment. "Finally, a brother newspaper man induced me to give a faithful trial to Peruna. I did so. "In a short time the lassitude left me, my kidneys resumed a healthy condition, and a complete cure was effected. "I cannot too strongly recommend Peruna to those suffering with kidney trouble. "To-day I am able to work as hard as at any time in my life."—F. B. Richards.

OCTOBER is notably the month of kidney diseases. The reason is: During the warm months the skin has been freely throwing off water in the form of perspiration. The cool days and cooler nights of October in a measure stop the action of the skin. The superfluous impurities must find their way out through the kidneys. This puts upon the kidneys a great strain of function. The passage of these poisons through the kidneys irritate them and excite Bright's disease. At this time the kidneys need some encouragement, some assistance. Peruna gives just this assistance.

It gently stimulates the kidneys to increased function, and thus guards against the possibility of disease. People inclined to weakness of the kidneys ought to use the precaution of taking Peruna during the month of October. At the first sign of kidney disease, such as scanty urine, backache, puffiness under the eyes, etc., Peruna should be taken. It may save months of sickness. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio, and he will give you the benefit of his valuable advice gratis. All correspondence strictly confidential.

ALEX MORE DIES YESTERDAY AT BROWNSVILLE JAPAN ADOPTS A BETTER POLICY IN KOREA

Southwestern Passenger Agent of the Frisco Has Been Ill of Paralysis and Passes Quietly Away

The news of the death at Brownsville yesterday of Alex More, southwestern passenger agent of the Frisco, with headquarters at Dallas, was received here today and caused profound regret in railroad circles where the deceased was well and favorably known, he having been associated with Frisco officials in one capacity or another for fully fifteen years. About two weeks ago Mr. More was stricken with paralysis and his condition was serious from the start. He was taken to Brownsville, where he continued to grow worse, death resulting yesterday afternoon. The general passenger department of the Frisco has not yet been notified of the death. Mr. More has been southwestern passenger agent for the Frisco about one year, coming to Dallas from the City of Mexico, where he held the position of general agent for the Frisco for a period of about fifteen years. Previous to going with the Frisco Mr. More was night chief of the Houston office of the Western Union, which place he filled for some ten or twelve years. No railroad man in the southwest was more favorably known than Mr. More.

It Indicates the Establishment of Closer Relations Between the Two Countries

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Since the arrival of General Hasegawa a more conciliatory policy, both military and diplomatic, has been adopted toward Korea by Japan, says a Herald dispatch from Seoul. This portends the establishment of closer friendly relations. The Japanese garrisons throughout Korea are, it is reported, to be increased to a total of 20,000 men. That number is considered necessary for the preservation of quiet in the provinces during the coming winter, owing to the extreme poverty of the people. The Korean crown princess is at death's door, but the court is said to have declined the services of the European physicians attached to the palace, relying on the Japs.

THIRTY THOUSAND DRY GOODS STORES (From Success.) In the United States there are about thirty thousand shops that sell dry goods. Two-thirds of these may be ranked as good stores, and about five thousand are establishments of a size which makes them important factors in the commercial and domestic life of their communities. The owners of almost all of these shops, the largest as well as the smallest, began obscurely. The majority of the most prosperous have attained their present success and magnitude during recent years, in which unsuccessful merchants have been wont to complain that the competition has been ruinous.

The last of the old-time convicts transported from Great Britain to Tasmania has just died. His name was Frederick Clarke, and he was sent to the colony in 1847 under a ten-year sentence. In a short time he did bushranging, bank robbing and enough other amusing little things to pile up over eighty-five years' worth of sentences.

RETAINED STORY OF THE BLOODIEST BATTLE IN HISTORY

(Written for The Telegram by Wm. A. Pritchard.) (Copyright, 1904, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

In the recent battle of Shakhke, the bloodiest engagement in the annals of civilized history, fully 25,000 men, subjects of the mikado and the czar, were slaughtered, and 50,000 of their fellows have been carried to the rear, broken, maimed and torn by shot and shell. It was a carnival of fire and blood lasting for two weeks. Days of impenetrable smoke and death-dealing shrapnel, and nights in which the somber sky was made lurid by the volume of flame belching from the mouths of 2,000 cannon whose missiles of destruction blazed a path of death and destruction through human walls. This is a page in history, written indeed by the sword dipped in the warm blood of civilized humanity. The line along which this international tragedy is being enacted might be described as presenting the appearance of a shepherd's crook, with its base at the shores of the Hun river as it flows north, northeast, above Yen Tai mines, with the straight portion extending due east for twenty miles, and with the crook dipping to the south and thence north-east, touching at Panshu, the scene of some of the bloodiest engagements of the battle. Through the greater portion of this line flows the Shakhke river. On the banks of this stream, a confederate of the Hun, have occurred the most sanguinary clashes of this conflict, and day after day its usually clear waters have run red.

The first day of October found the two armies, the one under General Kuropatkin and the other directed by Field Marshal Oyama, were resting after a battle, the most terrific the world has ever seen. Lao Yang and its red story was a thing of the past; the future was an unknown quantity. At Mukden, however, the Russian leader was not idle. In his breast there rankled the wound of a crushing defeat yet to be avenged. On the morning of October 2, having made all his preparations for the blow, Kuropatkin issued an order to his troops for a general advance on the foe. Reinforcements had arrived, and the battle-torn troops rested. Immediately the stronghold was a scene of bustle. Hurried movements everywhere, troops marching out of the great gates, cannons rolling through the streets to the accompaniment of martial music; all these actions and noises so uniquely peculiar to preparation for a great battle. Three days passed, and suddenly the sword was greeted with the news that the first success of the move had been attained by the czar's troops. Benipaise, to the southeast of the holy city, the point where the Japanese were massing forces for the advance on Mukden, had fallen beneath a Russian onslaught. It was an easy victory for the czar's troops, for the Japs were caught unawares, and were compelled to evacuate the position with haste. The loss on either side was insignificant. Five days more passed without further decisive engagements. But neither side was idle. From Mukden large forces were marching to positions already arranged along the twenty miles and more of country which was to see the great conflict. Field Marshal Oyama was not found unprepared. Seeing in the taking of Benipaise signs of a concerted action, he too ordered a general advance, and the morning of October 10 saw 280,000 Japs marching toward Mukden, and the 275,000 Russians marching from Mukden.

This same day, far to eastward, five miles north of the Taitsze river, the force under General Mitschenko, which had been victorious at Benipaise, suddenly appeared. Their point of attack was Shampintaisze near Panshu. Again the Japanese were caught unawares, and victory fell into the hands of Russian forces. The losses were heavy, for Mitschenko had opposed to him the ablest of the formidable Kuropatkin, who never gave up as long as the slightest hope existed. Hardly had the first signs of dawn come across the sky on the morning of October 11, a day which marked the fate of thousands of Russian and Japanese, when a cannon in the Russian center belched forth a challenge of fire to the forces of General Oku opposing. The challenge was accepted. Another and another cannon took up the fight, and before an hour had passed the heavy old muzzles of the formidable Kuropatkin, who never gave up as long as the slightest hope existed. Hardly had the first signs of dawn come across the sky on the morning of October 11, a day which marked the fate of thousands of Russian and Japanese, when a cannon in the Russian center belched forth a challenge of fire to the forces of General Oku opposing. The challenge was accepted. Another and another cannon took up the fight, and before an hour had passed the heavy old muzzles of the formidable Kuropatkin, who never gave up as long as the slightest hope existed.

The history of the 14th, 15th and 16th days of October is one of magnificent valor displayed by the men of Kuropatkin, who held the ground they had occupied in the face of onslaughts indescribable for their fury. Time and again the forces of the mikado were hurled against the wall of opposing Russians, but at few points was the attack brought to bay, and the result was a temporary victory for the Russians.

Since the 16th numerous small engagements have taken place; that is, small in comparison to the enormous engagements of the days described, and in the majority of cases the Japanese have proven victorious. On the 17th rain began to fall, and before night the rivers were swollen to flood height, and practically impassable. The roads too were flooded, mud and water, and nothing of particular import could be accomplished. Then began an enforced rest, and through the 20th of the month this rest continued. What the outcome will be in the future is hard to tell. If the past is to be taken as a portent of the future, the Russian hope is destined to be dashed, and Mukden will fall into the hands of the Japanese.

THE WAR NEWS

SWEDES FIRED AT LONDON, Oct. 27.—The correspondent of Lloyd's at Gofte, Sweden, telegraphs that the Swedish steamer Aldebaran, from Hull, reports that she was fired at by a supposed Russian warship in Skagerack at 10 o'clock in the evening of October 21, but sustained no damage.

UP TO WALLS OF MUKDEN MUKDEN, Manchuria, Oct. 27.—There was an artillery fight on the night of October 26 on the north shore of the Shakhke river directly south of Mukden. Cannoning, which was heavy, continued today. The Russians are attacking the Japanese positions. The fighting, it is believed, will continue up to the walls of Mukden.

FISHING FLEETS ALWAYS NON-COMBATANTS ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 27.—President Angell of the University of Michigan, addressing his class in international law, referred to the North sea fishing fleet incident as follows: "It was one of the most extraordinary blunders ever committed in the history of international relations. Russia is wholly in the wrong for the reason that fishing vessels are always exempt, even in the event of war between two nations. In the last war between France and England fishing vessels were declared exempt for the reason that their capture could in no way influence the ultimate outcome of the struggle. This rule is now recognized as international law.

INSISTS THEY THOUGHT WERE TORPEDO BOATS PARIS, Oct. 27.—A dispatch from Vigo, published here today, gives another interview with Prince Keretelli, an officer on board the Russian battleship Imperator Alexander III, giving further details of the North sea incident. He says the transport Anatol was entering the waters off Hull when she suddenly observed herself to be surrounded by numerous boats which she took for torpedo boats. The transport gave the signal of alarm to the remainder of the fleet and the Russian battleships thereupon surrounded the unknown boats, cutting off their escape. They were ordered to make known their nationality, but answered only by evolutions. The admiral's ship immediately ordered them to be fired upon, and then continued its route, without being alarmed as to the results of the encounter, because it was believed the encounter was with torpedo boats bought by Japan in England. Prince Keretelli added that before the Russian cannonading began a single shot was distinctly heard coming from the direction of the unknown boats. As Admiral Rojstevsky was leaving the palace of the military governor of Vigo yesterday, the dispatch adds, an old man stepped forward and kissed the admiral's hand. The admiral responded by kissing the old man's forehead. The crowd which witnessed the incident loudly applauded and the admiral appeared to be much affected by the popular ovation. The admiral of Vigo addressed the admiral in the name of the city and the nation, wishing glory to Emperor Nicholas and prosperity to Russia.

OFFICIALLY PUBLISHED ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 27.—Two imperial decrees are published in the official messenger this morning, the first of which is covered by Viceroys Alexieff's order of the day, announcing the appointment of General Kuropatkin to chief in command of the Russian forces in the far east, and the second is addressed to General Kuropatkin as commander-in-chief of all the military and the naval forces at the scene of the war. It concludes with these words: "Your military experience, strengthened by your action in Manchuria, makes me feel confident you will break the obstinacy of the enemy's forces at the head of your glorious army and thereby assure to Russia peace in the far east."

time limit for the receipt of Russia's reply has been fixed, it is generally understood today that the route of the Russian squadron past Gibraltar will be barred by the channel squadron commanded by Vice Admiral Lord Charles Berosford. At 3 o'clock this afternoon Lord Lansdowne expressed his belief that a peaceful settlement will be had.

BUSINESS IS DEPRESSED BERLIN, Oct. 27.—Business on the bourse today is depressed, owing to the Anglo-Russian negotiations in regard to the North Sea incident.

NO INQUIRY YET BERLIN, Oct. 27.—Russia has not yet sounded Germany in regard to unlocking the Dardanelles by international consent so the Black Sea fleet may issue forth. The foreign office in making this reply to the Associated Press inquiry says it is not aware such is the intention on the part of Russia, though, of course, it does not know whether representations have been made to other governments. The foreign office, in response to such a request, had nothing further to say on the subject.

TWO SIDES TO IT LONDON, Oct. 27.—Ambassador Benckendorff paid another visit to Lord Lansdowne at 3 o'clock this afternoon, presumably to discuss Rojstevsky's report. This caused considerable bewilderment here, since, while the statement that two torpedo boats were among the fishing fleet is generally scouted, there is beginning to be evidence of some disposition to believe in the possibility that there is another side to the fishermen's story.

SONG FOR ALL SOULS. (Robert Loveman, in Leslie's Monthly Magazine for November.) God bless all poor souls today, Those who weep or those who pray; Those who sing or those who sigh Underneath the roof-tree sky; North, or east, or far, or near, Kinsmen linked by a tear.

Thou, thou, art my brother, say God bless all poor souls today, Love and love doth reign alway; Bold or brave, or weak or worn, Jewel-decked or tatter-torn; Beggar, prince, or clown or king, Weeping bird with bruised wing.

THE PIVOTAL STATE

Indiana is generally regarded as the pivotal state in the impending national election, and until quite recently, it was also considered a doubtful state. Since Bryan made his masterly campaign among the Hoosiers it is believed the state has been wrested from the republicans and may now be safely classed with New York as a democratic state.

Mr. Bryan delivered fifty-four speeches in Indiana within the period of eight days, and it was a magnificent campaign. He not only woke up the democracy, but he stirred up the republicans as well. The purpose of turning him loose in Indiana was to overcome the existing democratic disaffection, and he has unquestionably brought all his former followers into line.

Grover Cleveland will make another speech in behalf of the democratic national ticket, in New York, on November 2. Snow fell out in the Alpine country a few days ago, and this is the second season of the kind for the state this year.

Count Cassini says that Russia "will win in the long run." As a matter of fact Russia has already won in every run she has yet made. As long as the Russian lunatic fleet is abroad on the high seas, all the small fisher craft had better hug close to the shore.

Christmas packages for your friends and loved ones who may be with the soldier boys in the Philippines, will be shipped free of charge from San Francisco. President Roosevelt has sent out an invitation to the various powers of the world for a second peace conference. The time and place will be named later.

The celerity with which Russia got out her official regrets in connection with the blowing up of English fishermen, shows that she keeps the article close at hand for immediate action. It is now announced that 80,000 men have fallen in the ten days' fighting around Mukden, and it is evident from these figures that the war god is exacting a high price from both armies.

A well known southern authority says the present cotton crop will not fall short of 12,000,000 bales, and may reach 13,000,000. But the producers are standing pat for 10 cents, just as if it was a 10,000,000 crop. The Russians are burning Chinese houses for fuel in Mukden, and in that way the sons of the Flowery Kingdom are made to contribute to the hot time that is prevailing in that old town.

ADVICE TO FIRST VOTERS

Tomorrow THOS. E. WATSON, candidate of the populist party for president, presents the claims of his party to support, especially from the young men of the country. Populism was a big thing a few years ago. Its adherents say they expect a great revival this year.

the sincerity about these extracts from Mr. Bryan's campaign speeches in the state of Indiana that must remove all apprehension that he is carrying a knife for the national ticket. It is true that he blundered badly at the St. Louis convention and furnished the enemy with some of its choicest campaign material, but in the main fight he has made in Indiana and is making in West Virginia, Mr. Bryan has cleared himself of all suspicion.

Indiana is naturally a democratic state, and under normal conditions can be depended to come up with a safe democratic majority. It is true that Dudley once boasted of his ability to vote them in blocks of five in that state, but those good old republican days and methods are over. Indiana would have gone democratic in the two previous national elections had it not been for the disaffection of the gold wing of the party.

Now that the financial question has been eliminated from the campaign and a gold democrat is the nominee of the party, it is but natural the gold element should return to the party fold. While the silver element was more or less disgruntled over the existing state of affairs, it was a master stroke of policy that prompted the sending of Mr. Bryan into the state, and almost divine inspiration that prompted his utterances.

Whether the republicans are beaten or not, the fact is very clear that the whole outfit is badly scared.

Japan has an admiral by the name of Hoho, but he is not a relative of the American family of the same name. Grover Cleveland will make another speech in behalf of the democratic national ticket, in New York, on November 2. Snow fell out in the Alpine country a few days ago, and this is the second season of the kind for the state this year.

Count Cassini says that Russia "will win in the long run." As a matter of fact Russia has already won in every run she has yet made. As long as the Russian lunatic fleet is abroad on the high seas, all the small fisher craft had better hug close to the shore.

The Russians are burning Chinese houses for fuel in Mukden, and in that way the sons of the Flowery Kingdom are made to contribute to the hot time that is prevailing in that old town.

Thomas Tibbles says his party hopes to capture but one state this year and that is Nevada. Mr. Tibbles is the populist nominee for the vice presidency, and is too modest entirely for his party. James H. Tillman of South Carolina, who leaped into prominence by murdering Editor Gonzales, is to quit the law for the ministry. If he can preach like he can shoot, his ministry ought to be very effective.

"Craw-craw" is a new disease just introduced into this country from South Africa, and is transmitted through the medium of a kiss. Young men and ladies should beware of this danger by avoiding all labial indulgence. General Luke Wright, governor of the Philippines, says Judge Parker lies in regard to conditions in the islands. While General Wright is generally regarded as a democrat, he talks very much like an angry republican.

is considered necessary to make some kind of a showing. But a republican campaign in democratic Texas is one of the useless things that could be very well dispensed with. In the Fort Worth Telegram of Sunday there is a good cartoon, showing the president in the act of riding through the constitution of the United States. If he had been shown as riding over the American people the picture would have been complete in every detail.—Terrell Transcript.

The cartoon referred to is generally regarded as one of the strongest and most striking yet developed in the campaign. Its strongest lays in the fact that it portrays the president in his favorite role and it struck at the very root of the situation. Senator Hanger of Fort Worth is the only Texas democrat who has accepted the defl of Cecil Lyon's hippodrome aggression and has gone against the whole shooting match in joint discussion. There's gray matter sufficient in that head of Bill Hanger, and it will be a pitiful looking old hippodrome when he finishes with it.—McKinley Gazette.

And the republican aggregation presented very much the appearance of a mutilated 30-cent piece when Senator Hanger got through with it. Chairman Lyon having opened the republican state campaign in this city before an audience of empty seats, can now proceed to cork his bottle of ginger and set it away for another two years.—Fort Worth Telegram.

It is opened by a corker, can opener or cranker.—Terrell Transcript. Neither. He used the same instrument with which Samson is alleged to have done such mighty execution among the Philistines. One enthusiastic republican paper in Illinois says that if Roosevelt is elected president this time that there will be fewer railroad accidents. This is the saddest promise of the entire campaign and should be looked into carefully.—Austin Statesman.

It is conceded by all well posted republicans that President Roosevelt is the author and finisher of all the good things that come to the American people. Without him at the helm this old earth of ours would tip over and things would hereafter run backward. Of course, there will be fewer railway accidents if Roosevelt is selected, for Mr. Roosevelt is an accidental president, and don't want any more accidents to happen.

Tom Taggart's statement that democratic majority in New York this year would be the largest ever known in that state is borne out by the fact that registration is the greatest in the history of the state. This means that independent voters are preparing to vote, and when independent voters are satisfied, they don't vote.—Beaumont Journal.

New York seems sure for the democracy this year, and if the state does go for Parker it means that other eastern states will be found in the same list sufficient to insure democratic success. What's the matter with a "jint-debate" between Colonel Cecil Lyon and Colonel Cyclone Davis? Each seems to be spilling red ink, but they have not discovered each other yet. They are about the same size and a scrap between them would make an interesting sidelight on the political situation in Texas.—Bonham Favorite.

As Lyon and Davis are both engaged in making war on the democratic party, it is hardly possible they could be induced to lock horns. They are almost two of a kind. If a man's pappels will not bark when he tells them to, they are the most ungrateful lot of pups. Luke Wright's snarling at Judge Parker in defense of his master, Teddy, is nothing more than what was to be expected of the men whom the president made, at no cost to himself, except the substitution of any quality of conscience he may have had while engaged in the work.—Texarkana Courier.

And Governor Wright is a southern man and an alleged democrat. It seems to be a clear case of the ox knowing his master's crib. Governor Wright may be a simon-pure democrat, but it is clearly evident that if such is the case he is not working much at it now. The Hon. William Sulzer of New York in a speech made before the lower house of congress some time ago, the question of trust being up for discussion, expressed himself in the following opinion: "The trust question was the most important in American politics. He further said that the republican party was insidious in the position it now assumes for party purposes, and political advantage. Its attitude is too flimsy and transparent to deceive anyone.—Honey Grove Citizen.

If New Jersey is the mother of trusts, the republican party is the father of the big combinations. Under republican rule they are rapidly becoming stronger and more dangerous. LOOK BACK AND SEE WHAT YOU LOST. Orison Sweet Marden in "Success." Just look back over the day and see where your energy has gone. See how much of it has leaked away from your in trifles. Perhaps you have wasted it in fits of fretting, fuming, grumbling, fault-finding, or in the little frictions that have accomplished nothing, but merely rasped your nerves, made you irritable, crippled you and left you exhausted.

You may have drained off more nerve and brain force in a burst of passion than you have expended in doing your real work. Perhaps you did not realize that, in going through your place of business like a mad dog through a china shop, you pulled out every spigot and turned on every faucet of your mental and physical reservoir, and left them open until all the energy you had stored up during the night had run off. Look back and see whether your scolding, fault-finding, criticizing, nagging and what you call "reading the riot act" to your employees, has helped you in any way or accomplished anything. No; you only lost your energy and self-control, your self-respect and the respect and admiration of your employees.

THE YELLOW HOLLY

BY FERGUS HUME, AUTHOR OF "THE MYSTERY OF A HANSOM CAB," ETC. Copyright, 1903, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

George Brendon attends social gathering of shabby London gentility at Mrs. Jersey's boarding house, with his friend Leonard Train, a boarder in the house. His object is to learn from Mrs. Jersey her supposed knowledge of his birth. Mrs. Jersey is mysteriously murdered during the night. Twigs of yellow holly which Brendon wore in his buttonhole (given him by his sweetheart Dorothy Ward) found by Train, beside cold body. Inquest reveals nothing. Train and Brendon had slept together and though Train can not reason out how Brendon had passed out of the room during the night (because Train had locked the door in a way that Brendon could not get out) he suspects Brendon guilty of the murder. Dorothy's mother, who hates Brendon and looks on his suit for Dorothy's hand with disfavor, speaks of yellow holly in Brendon's presence. Brendon claims he is grandson and heir to Lord Derrington, but the latter denies claims because of belief that Brendon's mother's marriage had never been recorded. Lola Voley, a music hall dancer, loves Brendon because of service performed for her. Lola learns of Brendon's love for Dorothy and confesses that she has hired a detective, Bawdsey, to watch Brendon, because she, Lola, fears Brendon's success in proving his birth will draw him from her.

At a dinner party given by Mrs. Ward, Derrington meets Brendon for first time. The latter thinking the former knows him not, Train is present and while Brendon and Derrington are testing each other Mrs. Ward draws Train's story of the night of murder and Train's conclusion of Brendon's guilt and the story of finding of yellow holly at side of body. Train inadvertently connects Brendon with crime. Mrs. Ward is now satisfied. The guests bid the hostess good night. Bawdsey goes to board with Miss Hall, who succeeds Mrs. Jersey as landlady. He secures rooms Leonard and Brendon occupied on a pretext. Tells fascinating tales of travel and adventure to Miss Bull. She likes him and shows him courtesies. Bawdsey requests Brendon to visit him at home. Brendon comes. Discusses crime. Mrs. Ward, Lord Derrington, Dorothy and Lola Voley. Bawdsey tells of love for woman and having been hired by her to watch him. Secrets revealed to Brendon by Bawdsey. Tells Brendon he is apt to be arrested charged with crime, if he doesn't leave the country. In Claims Lord Derrington and Mrs. Ward are both anxious to have him leave England.

Bawdsey tells Brendon how Mrs. Ward got information of the crime. Bawdsey accuses Brendon of being in Mrs. Jersey's room about the time of the crime. Brendon admits he was in the room at 12 o'clock. Bawdsey shows Brendon a secret passage-way. A discussion follows of the murder of Brendon's father and of Mrs. Jersey, and it is thought the murder of both was done to keep secret of Brendon's birth. Brendon tells why he visited Mrs. Jersey to get truth of his parentage. Brendon decides to call on Lord Derrington. Brendon's father, Percy, is shown up. Evidence of a letter showing of legitimacy of Brendon is shown. Brendon calls on Lord Derrington. He shows crafty lord that he holds best hand. He bargains with him and gets partial admission of his parentage. In discussion of death of Mrs. Jersey both admit being in the house on night of crime. Brendon seeks information of records. Derrington admires Brendon and concludes to make his heir, but to test him out he will continue to fight him. Dorothy becomes worried at the coupling of Brendon's name with Lola, the Spanish dancer. Derrington tells Mrs. Ward. Advises her to say less. The two get into a heated discussion concerning the guilt of Brendon, and who murdered Mrs. Jersey. Dorothy, Mrs. Ward and Vane go to see Lola dance. Derrington joins the party in the box. A discovery as to who sent the yellow holly.

CHAPTER IV. K OWLASKI was a large, fat, good natured blackguard of a man, quite without principle. He came from some remote village in the Balkans. In his early days he arrived in London penniless and strove to make a living by selling toys in the street. Then he turned scene shifter at a music hall and while thus engaged educated himself to write and read and to speak English with wonderful fluency. Also he saved money and speculated in a small way, having a marvelous instinct of picking out lucrative ventures. Shortly he became stage manager; one thing led to another until he became proprietor of the very music hall which had witnessed his humble beginning. When he first set eyes on Lola he had guessed that it would pay to invest money in her. The success of the ballet proved that Kowlaski was right, as usual, and he smiled his oily smile when he saw the crowded houses and looked over the receipts. The ballet would run for more than a year. He was sure of that, and set about some other business now that the music hall was flourishing. It was at this point that Lola demanded a week's holiday. Kowlaski whimpered. He usually did so to make people think he was weak, but under his apparent weakness he was possessed of an iron strength. Having great experience with women, he thought to control Lola, but was being gifted with a superlative temper, laughed in his face. All his cleverness could not make her swerve from the point. "I want a week to myself," she said doggedly. They were talking in French, as Kowlaski could swear more easily in that tongue and wanted freedom of speech. "But, my dear child"—Kowlaski was always paternal—"it will not do. You are the draw, and if you go out of the bill the people will not come to my house." "I don't care. I want a week, and a week I will have." "Why do you wish for this week?" "That's my business." Kowlaski tried reproaches. "If you were a grateful woman!" "Ah, bah! What of gratitude? You wanted me or would you have seen me die in the gutter." Kowlaski began to whimper. "You will ruin me, my dear. It cannot be done." "It must be. I want it to be done." In the face of this obstinacy Kowlaski gave in. But first of all he tried threats, and Lola threatened to throw a chair at him. He finally agreed that she should have her week, and Lola walked out of the office without thanking him. That was the last he saw of her for seven days. He made the most of her absence, declaring that she had been called away to nurse a dying mother and would reappear with a broken heart to keep her engagements with the public. Bawdsey saw this notice. It was the first he had heard of Lola's escapade, and he went at once to her rooms in Bloomsbury to ask where she was going. Lola had already gone and, according to the landlady, had left no information as to her whereabouts. Bawdsey was disappointed. He saw that Lola had taken every precaution to hide her trail and that there was not much chance of finding her. However, he went to see Kowlaski. The manager began to talk of the dying mother, and Bawdsey shut him up. "Rubbish! That's for the public. I want to know where she is." "My dear, I do not know," said Kowlaski, and for the first time in his wicked old life he told the truth. Not to be beaten, Bawdsey sought out George Brendon. But George was as ignorant as the manager and the landlady. "I haven't the slightest idea," he said when Bawdsey asked, "and, to tell you the truth, I don't see why you should try to find out. I don't see what right you have to control her movements." "Did she write and tell you where she was going?" "No, and if she had done so I should not tell you," replied George, annoyed by the man's persistence. "You may as well be civil to me, Mr. Brendon. You know that I am your friend." "Oh, I've heard all that before. But people who talk much of friendship and gratitude are generally humbugs." "I am not," said Bawdsey quietly. "See here, Mr. Brendon, Lola is in love with you." "That's my business. Leave it alone." Bawdsey took up his hat. "Oh, very well. If you will not be civil I cannot help you to learn who killed your father." "What?" George sprang from the table at which he was writing and seized the man's arm. "Do you know that?" "Gently, Mr. Brendon. No, I do not know, but—" "Then what do you mean by saying—" "We had better have a chat," said Bawdsey and sat down. "But I wish to know where I stand. Lola loves you. Do you love her?" "No," said Brendon, seeing that he would have to humor the man. "I am engaged to marry Miss Ward." "Will you help me to marry Lola?" "Willingly, though, to tell you the truth, I know very little about you, and to make that girl marry you—" "Oh, Lola can look after herself, Mr. Brendon. If she becomes my wife she will have the upper hand. But I am so deeply in love with her that I am willing to play second fiddle. Can't you dispossess her of this infatuation for you?" "See here, Bawdsey, if you can persuade this woman to get over her liking for me and to marry you I shall be delighted. I do not know where she is just now, but it is my impression that she has gone away because she is afraid of me." "Afraid of you? Oh, that's absurd!" "No, it isn't. The other morning she saw Miss Ward, and there was a scene in the park." Bawdsey hung his red head. "I fear that is my fault," he confessed. "I pointed out Miss Ward to Lola and—" "And it was I who foolishly mentioned that Miss Ward sometimes took a walk in the morning in the park." "Oh," said Bawdsey, "I mentioned that also." "Did you wish Lola to see Miss Ward?" asked George angrily. "No. Nor did I intend to say anything about the walking in the early morning. I simply pointed her out in the box to Lola so that Lola might see there was no chance of your marrying her." (Continued Tomorrow.)

SAVED HIS LIFE. J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Lintment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other lady affected. I also had a lump in my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Lintment. The first application gave me great relief; two fifty-cent bottles cured me sound and well. It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." 25c. 50c. $1.00. H. T. REV. H. D. AVES IS TO BE BISHOP IN MEXICO

Rector of Christ Church, Houston Is Selected to Have Charge of the Church Work in the Republic

Mexico is to have a bishop of the Episcopalian faith, whose residence will be Mexico. The house of bishops of the Episcopal church, in convention assembled at Boston, named Rev. Henry D. Aves of Houston, Texas, to be missionary bishop to Mexico, to have supervision over the English-speaking congregations.

At present Dr. Aves is rector of Christ church at Houston, one of the largest in the south, and is a minister well and favorably known over the state. It is not known in Texas when the doctor will begin his new duties, but it is believed it will be about the first of the year.

Just what the duties of Dr. Aves will be have not, as yet, been stated, but it is known, however, that he will act in a supervisory nature over the missions of the different parts of the republic, adding thereto the work of a missionary in fields where none existed so that they, in conjunction with the efforts of the rector, may secure more converts, as well as take better care of those already identified with the church.

The bishops deemed Mexico especially needful of a higher ecclesiastic and this led to the appointment of Dr. Aves, who will doubtless do much to further religious work in the republic. Dr. Aves is one of the strongest men in the church in Texas.

E. T. Jeffery, President of the Denver and Rio Grande, Advanced to Head of Operating Department of Gould Lines

HAS CONFIDENCE IN HIM
George Gould Has Decided to Give the Control He Has Held Over to His Personal Representative in This Territory

E. T. Jeffery, president of the Denver and Rio Grande, has found new favor with George J. Gould, and now comes the announcement of his appointment to the position of operating head of the Missouri Pacific and all allied lines.

For some time it has been known that Mr. Jeffery had the full confidence of Mr. Gould in all railway affairs and their business and personal relations have grown closer, and closer. Mr. Jeffery's office at 159 Broadway adjoins the private sanctum of the head of the Gould system and the fact that he has accompanied Mr. Gould on the last two tours of inspection of the Gould lines has indicated the high position Mr. Jeffery holds with the head of the Gould lines. Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Gould have reached New York upon their return from a trip over the lines of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain roads.

Mr. Jeffery's new position places him in complete control of one of the largest railroad systems in the country. He will be the managing head of all allied Gould lines and will have absolute power, occupying practically the same position Mr. Gould has held, in fact he will be the personal representative of the Goulds in the conduct of the vast railway affairs of the family. It is understood he will for a time continue as president of the Denver and Rio Grande since October 1, 1904. He began his railway career with the Illinois Central as general superintendent in 1885 and became general manager, resigning in 1889 upon appointment as commissioner of the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago until his selection by George Gould as head of the Rio Grande roads.

FRISCO BUILDS A SPUR
The Frisco Company has had a force of laborers at work constructing a spur from the main line in North Fort Worth to the Fort Worth Ice and Cold Storage plant in the west part of North Fort Worth. When completed the spur will be about a quarter of a mile long and is built to facilitate the business of the cold storage plant, which is not now able to get its products to the Belt Line.

GOOD BUSINESS TO SAN ANTONIO
City Passenger and Ticket Agent McDonald of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas this morning stated that his line had an excellent business out of Fort Worth to the International Exposition at San Antonio last night, the train being well crowded with people from this city and surrounding country. The parties who left for the Alamo City went there for the purpose of being in attendance on what has been designated "Katy Day." The round trip rate was $5.

BACK FROM THE NORTH
General Live Stock Agent Galbreath of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas returned yesterday evening from a three day trip through the north, most of the time spent at Sulphur Springs for the benefit of his health. Mr. Galbreath reports that conditions are improving somewhat in regard to cattle movements, money affairs and health than from Texas more for pleasure and health than business, consequently paid little attention to live stock matters during his absence.

COTTON PICKERS IN DEMAND
It has been reported that there is less demand for cotton pickers in the territory country than conditions justify, but at the Rock Island general passenger office it was learned this morning that large numbers of pickers are wanted for the past two weeks the daily shipment of whites, negroes and Mexicans, both men and women, have reached as high as fifty, and in many instances the number has exceeded this. An order was received at the general offices of the company today to ship to Duncan, I. T., company pickers and a skirmish is on today to have that number of pickers ready to be sent to the Territory tonight.

There has been any amount of trouble experienced in North Texas to get all the pickers that have been asked for, and the majority of this class of labor comes from South Texas, where the cotton crop has been cut short. However, a large percentage of the movement comes from Louisiana. The employment agencies have been besieged for a month or six weeks with orders for pickers.

It is said today that there will be plenty of cotton picking in the Territory country to last until Christmas or holiday times. A report, however, has been received here that frosts a few days ago have done some damage to the Territory section, which may reduce the demand for further large shipments of pickers.

LETTER TO GEORGE W. BURROUGHS
Of Fort Worth.

Dear Sir: The cheapest thing in the way of sending anything over the world is a postage stamp; and the cheapest way to send what is not whitewash; paint. Do you happen to know—it don't belong to your business to know about paint, you know—do you happen to know that most of the paint in the world is put out with lime and clay and sand and water and air? They do stuff it out in the can; but not on the house. They make more gallons to sell or to buy; more money to pay for painting; and more money for putting it on; a great deal more money for putting it on; but no more beauty; more rust; decay; disappointment; loss.

Drop in your paint, because it's all paint, no sham, and full-measure. Yours truly,
P. S.—Brown & Vera sell our paint.

DON'T DRY LEAVES IN BOOKS
Not long ago a magazine gave a formula for preserving autumn leaves. Press them between the leaves of two books and then another. You have no idea how damp each book will be come in a short time.

Such treatment of books ought to be considered against the law. Why? Books are our best and truest friends. To dry leaves in a good book is very like making a towel of one's father. When desirous of preserving autumn leaves lay them flat between blotters; or the blotters place a flat board and at the end of the first day, and again at the end of the second if the leaves are not quite dry.

After the leaves are thoroughly dry apply varnish with a soft brush. The formula for the best varnish is as follows: One-half oz. white varnish, 1 oz. boiled linseed oil, 2 1/2 oz. spirits turpentine. Spread on brush and spread leaves over them to dry.

AMUSEMENTS

When the announcement was made that J. H. Huntley's company would appear at Greenwall's, and it was further stated that the company would play at popular prices, it was evident the general public did not take much interest in the matter because the audience last night was small one. Had the theater going public known, however, that leading this popular priced attraction is a lady with an ability as an emotional actress which places her in the front rank, there would have been more present.

The company presented "Woman Again Woman." It is a melodrama with much of the emotional, quite a little comedy and the mean women and mean men who help to make life burdensome for those who are trying to do good.

Miss Louise Carter is the star of the attraction. She is a bit of woman who looks well from the front of the house. In the first act there is nothing so very attractive about her, and the audience watches the action of the play with the idea that it is one of the ordinary popular priced attractions. But when the second act unfolds, and there is an opportunity for some acting, it induces an interest on the part of the audience which can not be noticed. Miss Carter gives one of the neatest and prettiest scenes of her life one would care to see. She is assisted by Mr. Jossey in this, and Mr. Jossey is by no means a mean actor. As the play proceeds Miss Carter has the opportunity for magnificent work in the emotional line, and she certainly fulfills every requirement. She is first-class in every particular. Critics will disagree as to which is her best work. Some may think the second act, where she is the mother and wife, is a better piece of acting, while others may like the emotional part where she in a rage attempts to strangle the woman who has wronged her, but at both parts of the play she is good. At the close of the fourth act last night she was so exhausted by the manner in which she had worked herself into the part, that it was necessary to carry her to her dressing room.

The Huntley company is a good one. Even the doctor, who makes but one entrance and that but for a few moments with a few lines, carries his part well. Mr. Jossey, the male lead, is a man of fine physique, has a good voice, and his acting is deserving of ever commendation.

This afternoon the company is playing "Inherited" and tonight it will present "Cumberland 61," a military drama.

"THE BURGOMASTER"
A prima donna who has a romantic history is to be seen at Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee and night, October 29, when W. P. Cullen's big production of "The Burgomaster" will be the attraction. She is a real

MISS MAE FRANKLIN, With "The Burgomaster."

German countess, Olga Regina, Countess von Hatzfeldt, and she is a first cousin of the Prince von Hatzfeldt, who married the daughter of the late Col. S. P. Huntington, the great railway magnate. The countess' father, Edmond, Count von Hatzfeldt, was forced to flee to this country on account of a duel in Germany, and went on the stage to support himself. He married Anna Auer, mother of the present countess, and later deserted her. She and the little Olga came near starving to death, but the child was put on the stage, and made such speedy progress that she now owns a beautiful home on the Hudson. She is a woman of great beauty, only 23 years of age, and her voice is of fine quality. She does not use her title in advertising herself. When "The Burgomaster" played in St. Louis a short time ago, Miss von Hatzfeldt, on account of her rank, was made a special guest of the German commission, sent by Emperor William to represent him at the World's Fair.

"IN OLD KENTUCKY"
"In Old Kentucky" with its elaborate scenic equipment and all the features that have gone to make the unending popularity of this play, and the very best acting company that has ever appeared in it, will soon pay a visit to this city. There seems to be no signs of the closing of the successful career of this remarkable play, and indeed it is likely that the charming drama with its many thrilling episodes and novel features will live to receive the approbation of the children's children of the present generation. There is a human interest in the play which may be in a measure responsible for its hold upon the public, and it is always presented by an excellent acting company. The exciting horse race has long been acknowledged the most realistic episode of this description ever shown on the stage. The frolicsome pickaninies have frequently been imitated in other productions but never with the degree of success achieved in this play. Their remarkably life-like scene exactly fits the atmosphere of "In Old Kentucky." This is the twelfth year of continuous prosperity for "In Old Kentucky," which comes to Greenwall's opera house Monday matinee and night, Tuesday, November 1, 1904. Those sweet singers and ebony-colored funmakers of Dixie land have been recognized for years as a high class standard attraction and one that has scored a phenomenal popular success with theater goers in all sections of the country. OF INTEREST TO THE STOCKMEN
HOLDING SCABBY CATTLE
El Titus, general live stock agent of the Santa Fe, says that thousands of cattle have been kept off the market this year by the government's mange restrictions.

The number of cattle held up on account of this cause will mount into the thousands, continued Mr. Titus, "and, in some cases the course of the government has worked considerable hardship, but the end desired is the betterment of the entire industry and is a worthy one." Mr. Titus stated that few of the western states were free from the scabbies and the only localities of the western range states that were free were the high mountain sections, Colorado, Western Kansas, Eastern and Northern New Mexico, the Panhandle of Texas and other states were all sufferers, he said, and the pasture men of Middle and Eastern Kansas were even indirectly affected for the reason that several of the rangeland had engaged pastures in those sections of Kansas last spring when they were told by the government inspectors that the cattle were infected and could not be moved.

El Titus looks for a marked improvement in these conditions next spring, for the rangeland have taken the evil in hand and are working for clean herds and the eradication of the scabbies, using the dip recommended by the bureau of animal industry, and other precautions necessary. Mr. Titus said that the cattlemen were becoming reconciled to the regulations and that it would not be long before they acknowledge that the campaign waged by the agricultural department against the scabbies, even though it does now cause them to complain at times, was in their best interest.

Speaking of the cattle to come out of the Panhandle this fall and early winter Mr. Titus said that there was according to his information, a considerable number of cattle yet to come. This is principally the stuff of pretty fair quality.

THE OKLAHOMA REGULATIONS
The following is amendment No. 1 to the Oklahoma live stock quarantine proclamation, as issued by the governor and now in force:

1. No cattle shall be received for shipment by any railway company for Washington or Roger Mills county until same have been inspected on pasture or ranges by an inspector of this board or an inspector of the bureau of animal industry. All cattle must be accompanied by a written permit from such officer as above indicated.

2. In accordance with amendment No. 14, to B. A. L. order No. 121, no cattle from above territorial line and south and east of the federal quarantine line shall be allowed movement into the Ponca reservation.

3. In accordance with amendment No. 16 to B. A. L. order No. 21, no cattle shall be moved from Greer, Roger Mills, Canadian and that part of the counties of Oklahoma, Logan and Payne, and of the Otee, Missouri and Ponca Indian reservation in Oklahoma, lying west of Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway lying west and north of said restricted district until after having been inspected and found free of infection by an inspector of this board or an inspector of the board of animal industry.

4. On account of the prevalence of Texas fever infection on cattle in township No. 13, north, range 6, west, no cattle originating therein will be per-

(For whom should the young American, voting for the first time, cast his ballot for president? With what party should he ally himself? These questions have been answered by six men of national repute. Secretary Shaw answers for the republicans; National Chairman Taggart for the democrats; Presidential Candidates Debs, Swallow and Watson for the socialists, prohibitionists and populists; while J. Lincoln Steffens makes reply as a young man who has made national fame as a worker in the cause of good government and true citizenship.—Ed. Telegram.)

Why should the first voter cast his vote for the republican party? Frequently the best way to determine what should be done is to eliminate what should not be done. Young men are usually patriotic and always hopeful. They learn at the hearthstone and in the school room that the forces of right and wrong are in eternal warfare, and soon thereafter learn that the contest between wise and unwise public policies are also eternal and equally relentless. In these unceasing contests the young men of today will be the principal participants. An eminent lawyer and patriotic citizen of Kentucky, John Mason Brown, once told President Roosevelt that at the breaking out of the civil war his mother brought him the sword which his father had carried in the Mexican war, and said to him, "My son, this is the sword your father carried. I hope you will draw it on the side that defends the flag for which your father fought, but for one side or the other, draw it you must." The best way to decide which army is most worthy of success is to ascertain which army is most apt to fight for principle. Intuition ought to lead a young man to know that those who have usually been right on public questions are far more likely to be right in the future than those who have always been wrong. The democratic party first met in national convention in 1832, and passed the following resolution: "Resolved, That it be recommended that in place of a general address from this body, the several delegations in this convention make such declaration, by address, report or otherwise, to their respective constituents of the objects, proceedings and the result of this meeting as they may deem expedient." What we now denominate "platform" appears then to have been called "general address." The republican party was organized at Jackson, Mich., July 6, 1854, and here is its clean-cut, positive declaration: "Resolved, That in view of the nemine danger that Kansas and Nebraska will be grasped by slavery and a thousand miles of slave soil be thus interposed between the free states of the Atlantic and those of the Pacific, we will act cordially and faithfully in unison to avert and repeal this gigantic wrong and shame." "Resolved, That in view of the necessity for battling for the first principles of republican government, and against the schemes of an aristocracy, the most revolting and oppressive with which the earth was ever cursed or man debased, we will co-operate and be known as 'republicans' until the contest be terminated." The birthmark of expediency and principle thus declared are still discernible not only in the platforms of the respective parties, but also in their nominations and in the management of their campaigns. I would exhaust the limit of space assigned me were I to enumerate the platform experiments on which the democratic party has sought to win campaigns, but if required to cite the instances when post election policies tallied with convention utterances I would present to the young men of the country a sheet of virgin paper. Early in the spring of this year the democratic convention of Alliance, Ohio, passed the following resolution: "Resolved, That we, in convention here assembled, do hereby instruct our delegates to the state convention to use their influence and power in support of the Kansas City platform of 1900, with such eliminations and additions as may be presented as obnoxious to old-time democracy and the masses of the people." While the grammar is somewhat involved, it was evidently the purpose of that democratic stronghold that the party should continue to consult sentiment rather than attempt to create sentiment. In two campaigns the democratic party had demanded the free and unlimited coinage of silver, but this year as a matter of expediency it did not reaffirm, retract or apologize for its previous silver planks, and when the distinguished candidate telegraphed

CROPS IN TEXAS

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 27.—The following is the summary of crop conditions in Texas as shown by the reports of correspondents to L. H. Murdock, section director of the United States department of agriculture in Texas: Weather Conditions—The weather of the week was very favorable for harvest, but unfavorable for seeding. The rainfall was confined to the eastern half of the state and was generally too light to be either an adverse or favorable condition. A general rain would be beneficial and in many eastern, central and southern counties is urgently needed. The temperatures of the week were somewhat below the normal in consequence of a cool wave which overspread the state on the 19th and 20th, causing light frosts but without injury as far south as Lampasas county. Cotton—Excellent progress was made in the gathering of cotton and at the close of the week the amount remaining in the fields in the north-central and northeastern counties is estimated at from 10 to 20 per cent; elsewhere this work has been practically completed. Corn—The gathering of corn was general throughout the week and this work has been completed in many places. The yield is generally satisfactory and some improvement is noted in the late corn in a few western counties. Rice—The harvesting of rice is being rapidly completed and the thrashing is well advanced. Sugar Cane—The cane crop is now ready for cutting and this work has been commenced in a few places. The crop is generally good. Wheat and Oats—The sowing of wheat and oats was carried on wherever practicable but this work is generally being done with difficulty and in many places delayed on account of the dry condition of the ground. In a few of the northern counties early sown wheat is coming up and growing nicely, but generally rain is badly needed. Miscellaneous—Pastures and fall gardens, with few exceptions, are being adversely affected if not ruined by the dry weather and stock water is becoming very scarce in many places in eastern Texas. Already provision is being made in the French budget for the large increase which will become necessary in the corps of officers of the navy when the naval program of shipbuilding now being carried out becomes complete in 1908. The French war fleet will then consist of 28 battleships, 25 battleship-cruisers, 12 armored coast-guard ships, 6 first-class cruisers, 15 of the second and 13 of the third class, besides smaller craft, among which will be 60 submarines. The corps of officers will begin to be increased next year.

PULLMAN PAYS NO TAXES IN THIS COUNTY

The Sleeping Car Company Maintains an Office Here and Headquarters, but Not a Cent Is Given Up

It is learned here that influential forces are at work in the interest of having passed the next legislature the intangible tax bill that was introduced at the last legislature by Representative W. D. Williams. Since last year there has been a favorable opinion created regarding the measure and the belief is shared by many prominent politicians in this county that the bill will certainly pass at the coming legislative session. A prominent railroad man approached a representative of this paper today and asked if he knew the amount of taxes the Pullman Palace Car Company pays to the treasury of this county. If you don't know, I can tell you that this company pays not a cent. "Texas needs just such a law as that promulgated by Representative Williams to permit the collection of intangible taxes," said a county official today, discussing the matter. He stated that the county was being duped every year by corporations, principally the Pullman, which makes no rendition, but takes out of the state annually millions of dollars, on which it pays no taxes in Texas. The official referred to will go to Austin in a few days to make an investigation into the conditions relative to assessments of intangible properties and discover if possible, if there is any way to get after the corporations which avoid taxation in the state. He added that these companies have the advantage of the protection of the state while doing business under her laws, and he believes it no more than right that such companies should pay taxes on their net earnings off the people of Texas. Further discussing the matter the county official said that the tax which would be paid by these corporations under such a law would be sufficiently large to supply the deficiency that is reported in state funds at the present time.

NORTH SIDE AND ROSEN HEIGHTS

Nash Furniture Company.
November 19 has been appointed by Mayor Pritchard of North Fort Worth for the holding of the special election to determine the wish of the citizens regarding incorporation for school purposes. Official proclamation announcing the date has been posted at the city hall. After referring to the action of the city election in ordering the election and its purposes, the proclamation announces the date and names J. G. Smith as presiding officer for the same.

From the general trend of opinion there seems but little doubt that the measure will be voted upon favorably at the coming election, and that the schools of North Fort Worth will be separate institutions at the opening of the next school term.

LIGHT VOTE
An extraordinary light vote will be polled in North Fort Worth, both at the coming general election and at the school election, according to the wise ones politically.

That this will be the case they deduce from the fact that a large number of the old employees of the packing houses who were qualified voters left the city during the continuance of the strike to secure situations in other places, while those coming in and taking their places have not been legal residents a sufficient time to become qualified voters.

The same effect will be seen in the school incorporation election, the requirement for voting in it being a six months' residence.

NORTH SIDE NOTES
Alex Bower and family of North Fort Worth have returned from a visit to St. Louis.
G. L. Harris yesterday received a telegram announcing that his brother, F. L. Harris, aged 47 years, had died at Byrnes, near Valley View, Clay county yesterday morning. Deceased had been a sufferer from consumption for many years and his death was not unexpected.

THE MOVEMENT OF MEXICAN ORANGES
The movement of Mexican oranges has commenced and already twenty-six cars have passed through Fort Worth over the Texas and Pacific railroad. On each car a duty of $210 was paid, making a total duty of $5,460 on the twenty-six cars. The oranges thus far moved came from San Luis Potosi and Rio Verde and are destined to Kansas City, from which point the consignment will be distributed. The Mexican oranges usually come first from the extreme southern section of the republic, but this is not the case this season as the present shipments are from states further to the north.

The Mexican orange crop this year is said to be a very good one and the fruit exceptionally sweet. Two Fort Worth parties are interested in growing oranges in the republic, and are now getting ready to make shipments.

The Prize Winners!

The Telegram begs to report that the three following are the winners in the Third Classified Misspelled Word Contest:

Mabel Crabtree, 703 Samuels Avenue.
Mrs. Moore, 404 West First Street.
Mr. Clark, 805 Texas Street.

Checks have been prepared for these prize winners. Many other correct answers came in, but the three who received awards were first received. The envelopes, as they came into the office, were numbered and opened in order of numbering. The first three numbers, which had the correct answers, were made the winners. The "officially" misspelled words were in the Telegram Saturday, and were four in number. Some errors other than the official errors appeared, but these did not count.

Another contest is now on. It started with last Sunday's issue. Some day during the week "officially" misspelled words will appear. The conditions are stated below. Several hundred replies came during the past week. Try for one of these prizes this week.

Three Cash Prizes

To stimulate interest in The Telegram classified pages, three prizes of $1.00 each are going to be awarded EVERY WEEK to the three persons who will each week find certain misspelled words on this page in one of the seven issues of each week. Only the business manager of the paper will know on what day the words will be misspelled. It may be Monday. It may be Tuesday. It may be Wednesday or Thursday or Friday. Saturday or Sunday. The misspelled words will appear only on one day of each week. New prizes will be awarded every week. The three who get correct answers to the paper first will receive the awards. There may be two words or names misspelled. There may be three or even four. Maybe more. No one will know except the business manager and none but him will know what the words are.
