ARE DEBTS IN BRUSSELS

Report From Belgium Declares
Mrs. Chadwick Owes $30,000 to Merchants There

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—The total amount of securities deposited by Mrs. Chadwick with the Wade Park bank has been found to approximate $10,246,000. The highest estimate placed on them heretofore had been $12,000,000. Herbert W. Bell, who as receiver for the common pleas court took charge of the securities deposited with the Wade Park bank declared today he found them to be nearly double what he at first supposed.

When asked if they possessed value, Mr. Bell said with a smile: "Well, I don't care to pay much for any of them." Yesterday's investigation by the county grand jury into the affairs of Mrs. Chadwick was resumed today. The third indictment against Mrs. Chadwick is in connection with the Carnegie note, $5,000,000, which is among the securities left by her with the Wade Park bank is said by Mr. Keeler to be among the probabilities.

DECLARES MRS. CHADWICK SPENT MONEY IN BRUSSELS

BRUSSELS, Dec. 12.—In a futile search in this city for Leroy S. Chadwick, Etoule Dolce asserts it has been discovered that he left many debts in Brussels, notably $15,000 due to a jeweler and $12,000 owing to lace merchants. Mrs. Chadwick while in Brussels lived expensively, her hotel bill alone amounting to $50 per day.

DR. CHADWICK VAGUE

Only Definite Statement is That Wife
Gave Him no Fortune

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick of Cleveland, Ohio, whose wife, Cassie L. Chadwick, is held a prisoner in New York charged with frauds of a financial nature, has been living here quietly for some time, occupying quarters in a hotel in the center of Paris, but owing to the notoriety of his wife's affairs, he has observed the greatest seclusion.

Dr. Chadwick is somewhat beyond middle age, of slender build and his face is very pale, giving him the appearance of an invalid, which he explains is the result of a recent serious attack of Roman fever.

He has a keen visage and alert and rather nervous manner. He frequently reiterates his desire to avoid attracting attention, mainly on account of his daughter, a prepossessing girl of 19 by his former wife.

"I do not think it desirable to enter into details," he said, "until I return to America, as there have been so many misstatements that I do not know just what are the facts and what is fiction. There is no truth in the report that Mrs. Chadwick settled a large sum on me. Do I look like a man of millions?"

Asked concerning reports that Mrs. Chadwick in reality is Lydia De Vere, he answered:

"The first time that I ever heard that name De Vere in this connection was when I saw it recently in the papers. Only once before had I heard the name Madame De Vere. That was years ago at a post mortem examination at which I assisted on a woman of that name, who was said to have been a fortune teller. I only recall this from a peculiar surgical situation which the post mortem developed."

Questioned upon the financial aspects of his wife's affairs, Dr. Chadwick replied:

"The financial matters in the case do not affect me in the slightest. They speak of bonds being found. I would like to know what these bonds and papers look like."

The doctor was shown a publication stating that the alleged securities embraced those of several millions of dollars signed or indorsed with the name of Andrew Carnegie.

"I don't know Andrew Carnegie personally," replied Dr. Chadwick, "Does your wife know Mr. Carnegie?" the doctor was asked.

"I would rather not discuss Andrew Carnegie," said the doctor.

A number of questions of similar purport concerning individual financial transactions failed to elicit a specific response.

MRS. CHADWICK INDICTED

Two Counts for Forgery and Uttering
Forged Papers Returned

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 12.—Trouble for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick increased as the grand jury yesterday indicted her twice for forgery and uttering of forged papers.

This cut shows the profile of Mrs. C. L. Chadwick, the Cleveland woman who has borrowed more than $1,000,000 on alleged signature of Carnegie and the men whom she influenced to give her the money without examining securities.

ing forged paper, and her old-time friend, I. Reynolds, took the stand in court during the bankruptcy hearing and made evident his intention to shield and protect her no longer.

The formal indictments voted against Mrs. Chadwick are based, one upon the Carnegie note for $5,000,000, which was made payable at the office of Andrew Carnegie in New York city, and the other upon the Carnegie note for $500,000, which was payable at the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Under each indictment are two counts charging forgery, the other uttering of forged papers.

Information of the indictments was at once wired to New York by County Prosecutor Keeler and he requested that Mrs. Chadwick be immediately re-arrested if she secured bail on the other charges hanging over her.

The examination of I. Reynolds, treasurer and secretary of the Wade Park bank, before Referee Remington in the bankruptcy court, failed to disclose any asset that might be secured by Receiver Laeser, appointed by the federal court, but brought out from Mr. Reynolds, in reply to questions:

"She told me she was the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie."

Later Mr. Reynolds, in detailing his transactions with Mrs. Chadwick, said:

"In all of my transactions with Mrs. Chadwick I believed, from what she told me, that Andrew Carnegie was backing her, and that all of her indebtedness would be paid."

DALLAS LABORER'S BODY FOUND ON TRACK

Police Doubt Theory of Accident and Begin Investigation—Came to Dallas from Houston

DALLAS, Dec. 12.—Frank Marquez, a Mexican laborer, was found lying near the Texas and Pacific tracks east of Haskell avenue last night, with his skull crushed and his right leg severed above the ankle.

From the nature of the wounds the police are not satisfied that his death was accidental one, declaring that in no condition could the man have been struck by an engine or car so as to produce the injuries.

An investigation is being made along the theory that the man was first killed and his body then placed on the track. The body was found by Lee White of 221 Hill avenue while walking to his home. The dead man was employed at a railroad camp near the Fair grounds, having come here but a short time before from Houston.

EL PASO, Texas, Dec. 12.—Tucson, Ariz., has elected L. H. Manning as mayor on an announced policy to close all public gambling, giving him a big majority. This will be the first time in the history of the town that the gambling houses have been closed in that city.

VARDAMAN DISAGREES WITH MR. WILLIAMS

Sensational Utterance at Jac's on Carnival
Opposed to Views of Minority
Leader in House

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 12.—Governor Vardaman made the opening speech at the cotton and corn carnival yesterday. After welcoming the visitors he branched off into politics and made a very sensational utterance. In touching on the attitude that southern representatives had assumed in the fight against the reduction of the southern representation, the governor said:

"And instead of going to the congress of the United States and saying that there is no distinction made in Mississippi because of color or previous condition of servitude, tell the truth and say this: 'We tried for many years to live in Mississippi and share sovereignty and dominion with the negro, and we saw our institutions crumbling; we saw the public funds squandered; we saw the civilization that our forefathers had fought for passing away, and the law of self-preservation being the first law, we observed it. We rose in the majesty and high type of Anglo-Saxon manhood and took the reins of government out of the hands of the carpet-bagger and negro, and, so help us God, from now on we will never share any sovereignty or dominion with him again.'"

The remarks of the governor have created a sensation, in that they are diametrically opposed to the views of the minority leader, Congressman John Sharp Williams, of this district.

QUESTION OF HOLDING COTTON WILL BE CONSIDERED TONIGHT

MUCH INTEREST AT SHREVEPORT IN MEETING TO BE HELD BY COTTON MEN AFTER ADJOURN-
MENT OF THE CONVENTION

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 12.—Important papers by government experts were read at today's sessions of the National Cotton Convention. Dr. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture, is scheduled for an address. Dr. Howard personally represents Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, and what he said is listened to with profound interest. Others on the program are Dr. Hunter and Dr. Stubbs, director of the Louisiana experiment station.

Many delegates arrived over night, swelling the total now here to more than 200. There is much discussion among the delegates upon the mass meeting held immediately after the close of last night's session. At least two-thirds of the delegates present participated in the proceedings for the purpose of taking some sort of action to check the present decline in cotton.

Speeches were made by Harvey Jordan of Georgia, D. Smith of South Carolina and others, advocating immediate remedial action.

A resolution will be offered at another meeting tonight, urging farmers to hold cotton for higher prices and to reduce the acreage next year.

Colonel Peters of Texas, president of the Texas Cotton Growers' Association, who was last night elected permanent chairman, called the convention to order at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Howard of the bureau of entomology of the department of agriculture, was the first speaker. He reviewed his wife's story of the fall weevil since his first appearance in southern cotton fields up to the present time. He was followed by Dr. Hunter.

Dr. Stubbs, director of the Louisiana experiment station, next addressed the convention. He reviewed the work of a state staff in attempting to destroy the weevil in Louisiana and efforts to prevent its further spread.

"What the weevil has done, what the weevil may do and what the weevil must not be allowed to do," was the subject of a paper by Professor Connell, editor of the Field and Farm, published at Dallas, Texas.

A general discussion of the weevil and cotton conditions followed the reading of Professor Connell's paper.

Adjournment was then taken until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

CATTLEMEN'S CASE SERIOUS SAYS WITNESS

Murdo MacKenzie Declares
Better Service for Shippers Is Imperative

TELLS ABOUT PRICES
Cost of Production and Transportation Greater, While Prices Are Less

Judge Preuty of the interstate commerce commission began taking evidence in the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association hearing case against railroads of the country at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The first witness placed on the stand being Murdo MacKenzie of Trinidad, Col., on behalf of the cattlemen's contentions.

To questions propounded by Attorney Sam H. Cowan for the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association regarding cattle prices, Mr. MacKenzie said that cattle had declined in value the last few years from $5 to $4 per head. He was asked to give a recap of cattle prices as far back as 1894. In this year, he said, the average price of a cow was $18.84; in 1898, $19.56; in 1899, $23.42; in 1900, $15.67 to $14.44; in 1901, $14; in 1902, $13.26; in 1903, $12.65, and 1904, $12.25.

These prices were given as a fair representation of the average prices cows brought on the Kansas City market, being net prices after deducting all expenses of raising, shipping.

The following figures of the average weight per car load were testified to by Mr. MacKenzie: In 1894, 25,050 pounds; in 1897, 23,955; in 1898, 22,750; in 1899, 22,650; in 1900, 27,730; in 1901, 19,700; in 1902, 19,675; in 1903, 22,415.

The average number of pounds carried in a car during the present year was not announced by Mr. MacKenzie.

Mr. Cowan asked if the expense incident to handling cattle has increased since 1897.

"The reply was that it had. That lands formerly bought for 50 cents an acre now cost from $2 to $3.50 per acre. There has, witness stated, been an advance everywhere where cattle are grazed. The grazing charges have also gone up from $1.50 to $3.50 and also.

He stated that the majority of cattlemen now in the business are not making a profit while large numbers of those engaged in the industry have failed and in many cases there are cattlemen at the present time pressed with mortgages, and the rate of interest many of them are paying is from 8 to 10 per cent. Witness stated that many stockmen are now paying this rate.

PRICE OF TWO-YEAR-OLDS

Mr. MacKenzie was asked the range of price of two-year-old steers in 1888 and 1889, and answered that it was $27 to $28 for Panhandle steers. These same steers sold today for $22.50, and the prices have been going down ever since the foregoing dates. The prices quoted in the foregoing are for "top" stuff. The average, he said, will follow the "tops."

ADVANCE IN FREIGHT

Asked to advance in freight rates, Mr. MacKenzie gave the following statement showing charges for thirty-six foot cars, the car usually used in hauling cattle:

In 1894 the railroads charged $62.37 per car to Kansas City; in 1897, $57.75; in 1898, $59.75; in 1899, the method of charging per car was changed to 28 1/2 cents per hundred pounds, which made a car to Kansas City cost $62.70. In 1900 there was an advance to 21 1/2 cents per 100 pounds, making the cost per car to Kansas City $59.45, and this rate continued in effect until 1903, when it was again advanced to make the cost per car $75.90. This latter rate, witness said, still prevails, making a difference of $18.25

ORGANIZATION CAUSES PROLONGED DEADLOCK

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 12.—After a deadlock lasting several hours over the question of permanent organization, the national boll weevil convention in session here last night elected Colonel E. S. Peters of Texas president and Professor J. H. Connell of Dallas, as secretary. After listening to addresses by Harvey P. Jordan of Georgia and D. E. Smith of South Carolina, the convention adjourned until Tuesday.

The deadlock over permanent organization began yesterday afternoon at the close of an address by Harvey P. Jordan of Georgia, president of the Cotton Growers' Protective association of the United States.

The wrangle started over the question of making a permanent organization before the credentials of the delegates had been passed upon. Finally adjournment until 8 o'clock in the evening was taken, and at the session beginning at that hour permanent organization was effected.

Following is the program for the remainder of the week:

Second day, Tuesday, Dec. 12, 9:30 a. m.—Address, Dr. L. O. Howard, chief bureau entomology, representing Hon. James Wilson, secretary United States department of agriculture; "The Boll Weevil Situation." Dr. W. D. BARBED WIRE TOO MUCH FOR DON COSSACKS

Japanese Adopt San Juan Tactics to Complete Discomfiture of Cavalry

STOP AT GUNS' MOUTHS
Skirmish Develops Resourcefulness of Mikado Soldiers and Bravery of Foes

MUKDEN, Nov. 1.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—There was an unknown and unheralded fight when the Don Cossacks set out to confound the arm-chair strategists and prove that cavalry could take a modern battery of quick-firers supported by infantry. That they failed was due only to another development of modern warfare on which they had not counted, barbed wire that hung up their charge under the very muzzles of the guns.

The Third regiment of Don Cossacks, a proud band of a century ago, came from the officer who was sent by General Kuropatkin to personally congratulate the dead colonel on the dash and discipline of his men.

The Third regiment of Don Cossacks was sent forward on October 17 to reconnoiter the villages of Panpausen and Tzintziantun, which nobody ever heard of before and whose location was of no real interest to anybody, except that they were in the direction of Lianliantun, where the fight took place. The Japanese in the two villages first named were taken by surprise. Panpausen was cleared by a whirlwind charge, in which there was a great deal of miscellaneous shooting from broseback and snatching and snatching in the streets.

In Tzintziantun the Japanese had just stilled down to dinner when the regiment swept in with a clatter of hoofs at one end of the village and the enemy charged at the other. There was not even a semblance of defence, and the bearded riders, hungry and thirsty with their morning's work found dinner laid for them in the native huts with half drunk cups and glasses and scarcely tasted plates of food, while in the window ledges stood open jars of sweetmeats and preserves from Japan. They were flushed with success and comfortably feeding, when a battery of eight quick-firers, considerably disturbed them by shelling the villages from some trenches in front of Lianliantun.

It was a reckless, perhaps unnecessary thing to do, but the colonel decided he would get the guns just to show that it could be done. Away went the regiment, charging in open order in the face of a heavy fire from the battery, and later coming under a hail of lead from the two companies of infantry that were supporting the battery on each flank.

Neither the shrapnel bursting overhead nor the infantry fire sufficed to break up the charge. Indeed, the few bullets that got home were one of the wonders of the charge. The charge was made by the battery and it looked for a moment as though the Cossacks would be able to ride down the gunners, when at the foot of the trenches at the very muzzles of the guns the horses were brought up by a series of cleverly concealed barbed wire entanglements, too broad to jump and too heavy to be torn up. It was here the captain of the leading squadron was literally blown out of his saddle by a shrapnel, twenty-eight men were wounded almost all done under the guns and ten killed, mostly during the retreat, when all of the wounded and most of the dead were borne away on their comrades' saddles.

The retreat was even more orderly than the charge. The colonel was shot through both legs, but stuck to his saddle until his horse was killed under him. He managed to mount a second horse and this one was also killed. Then a Cossack swung from his own horse, helped the colonel into the saddle and ran by the stirrup until they were out of range. Some dead horses and two dead Cossacks were the only trophies left in the hands of the enemy. The Don's took their repulse gamely enough, but the colonel more seriously asserted that barbed wire is not legitimate warfare.

BRITT-NELSON FORFEIT IS UP

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—Jimmy Britt has placed a check for $2,000 in the safe at Harry Corbett's, and Battling Nelson has done the same. One thousand dollars of the amount in each case will be a weight forfeit, and the other thousand will be an appearance forfeit. Teddy Murphy, manager for Nelson, had a conversation with Britt at the Olympic Club last night. Murphy said: "I understand that you want to fight with the understanding that when the referee orders a break no punching is to be done, and that you are opposed to the idea of hitting so long as an arm is free, and put in a blow if you can in the breakaway."

"Allow me to tell you," said Britt, "that you misunderstand. I am ready to fight any old way. The straight rules suit me. If you want to hit when you can and take care of yourself in the breakaway and at all times you want just what I want."

BISHOP WILSON ARRIVES

Will Preside Over Colored Methodist Conference Opening at St. Andrew's Church Wednesday

Bishop Luther D. Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal church, who is perhaps the last white bishop who will preside over a colored conference, is in the city to attend the conference which opens tomorrow at St. Andrew's Methodist church on the South side.

Bishop Wilson, whose home is in Baltimore, is making an extended trip through the south and after the meeting in this city will go to Mexico to visit the churches of the denomination in that republic. As at present arranged, the colored churches of the denomination while having their own ministers and minor officers, are under control of white bishops. At the next quadriennial conference, however, it is confidently expected colored bishops will be established for such churches the matter having been discussed at the recent conference in San Francisco.

Bishop Wilson will be at the Worth for the remainder of this week and will preach at St. Paul's Methodist church next Sunday night. Bishop Wilson is himself a southern man, his father having been a slave-holder. His slaves, however, were manumitted shortly before the civil war. Rev. T. C. Huff, D. D., assistant corresponding secretary of the board of church extension of the M. E. church, is also here to attend the conference.

CHEMICALS USED TO KEEP OYSTERS

City Health Department Discovers Traces of Formaldehyde and Salicylic Acid

The latest move of the health department is to have the oysters of Fort Worth investigated. John B. Hawley, the city engineer, in whose department is employed Dr. Boettcher, a chemist, who made the recent examination of milk sold in Fort Worth, was instructed to make an analysis of oysters offered for sale. The investigation shows in one case that there have been some chemicals used to preserve them. This examination was made on the strength of innumerable reports by reliable citizens that from time to time they had been poisoned by eating the bivalves.

The report given to Dr. Chambers by City Engineer Hawley is as follows: Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 11, 1904.

Dear Sir:—Our chemist last evening secured a sample of oysters, by purchase, and during the night and today we have made a careful examination thereof, for salicylic acid, boric acid, formaldehyde, etc., and found a very faint trace of formaldehyde and salicylic acid, barely enough to call a trace.

We suppose, from the very large showing of iodine fumes while evaporating for other tests, that some proprietary preservative, containing small amounts of salicylic acid, formaldehyde and potassium iodide was used.

There is hardly enough showing on test to warrant prosecution, but enough to indicate that more tests should be made. Respectfully,

JOHN B. HAWLEY, City Engineer.

TWO SMALL FIRES

Twenty-Five Dollars' Worth of Damage Done at T. & P. Roundhouse

An alarm of fire at 2 o'clock this morning called Companies 2, 3 and chemical to the Texas and Pacific roundhouse, where a box car of wood had in some manner caught on fire. The fire was easily extinguished. Damage done to the car and contents amounted to about $25. A fire in the office of the Rosen Heights Land company, corner Rusk and Fourth streets, was on fire shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Companies 1, 2, 3 and chemical made the run. No damage was done.

POSTAL FORCE INCREASED

Forty Additional Men for Holiday Rush Granted S. M. Gaines—Will Handle Christmas Mail Rush

Forty acting clerks additional have been allowed this division of the railway mail service from Dec. 15 to Dec. 31, because of the extraordinary run of mail being experienced.

In speaking of the matter Superintendent Gaines said that the amount of mail being handled now was unusually heavy even for the holiday period. At the close of November all the chief clerks at the division points in the southwest were instructed to forward estimates to the department of their needs for the holiday rush. The estimate for this division was forwarded to the department in letters of Dec. 1 and Dec. 5 and the additional force allowed as requested.

The holiday season will also place many of the clerks subject to emergency duty, but Superintendent Gaines states they will not be overworked and quotas six hours and fifty-five minutes at the maximum working period on the division. The crush of mail at Denison, which caused the starting of a petition for increased service was a crush of mail from other divisions and not under the supervision of the local division headquarters. With the promised addition of force little doubt is felt as to the ability of the department to handle the immense Christmas traffic promptly and without delay.

NEW GIRLS' DORMITORY

Eids Will Be Received for Three-Story Structure at Polytechnic College

Sealed bids were received today for the completion of the girls' dormitory building at Polytechnic college. They will probably be opened tomorrow and an award made, after which time the work will be begun. The present quarters occupied by the girls comprises only the southern wing of the main building, which when completed will occupy a ground space of 110 by 70 feet, and will be three stories in height. The building, which will be a modern brick, three stories high, will afford roomy quarters for 120 girls. The building is specially designed for dormitory purposes and will be handsomely finished.

TWO CHILDREN DROWN

Girl of Four Tries to Bath Younger Sister and Both Perish

BALLINGER, Texas, Dec. 12.—Two children of Leo Markowitz, a prominent merchant of this city, were drowned about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Both were girls, aged 2 and 4 1/2 years.

It seems that the mother had just bathed the child and was preparing to bathe the little one when the older child asked permission to do that service, and as the mother left the bathroom to get the little one's clothing the elder locked the door, put her in the tub and turned on the water. It is supposed that when she saw the little one struggling she climbed into the tub and both succumbed before assistance reached them.

THE LAND of OPPORTUNITY OIL SIGNS IN WELL AT CHILDRESS. Strata of Blue Clay and Limestone Similar to That Over Beaumont Field, Discovered by Denver Road Drillers. In boring an experimental well at Childress the Denver Road may uncover another Texas oil field. A twenty-five foot strata of blue clay and shale corresponding in every respect to the strata covering the famous Beaumont oil fields has been reached and great excitement prevails in the vicinity of the well which is progressing rapidly.

THE WEST ISN'T FILLED UP YET. Never in history has the west had the benefit of a greater amount of advertising than that enjoyed in connection with the opening of the Rosebud Indian Reservation and the taking effect of the Kinkaid bill; the former throwing open almost four hundred thousand acres of fertile public lands, the latter making an entire square mile of land in the western part of Nebraska available to the homeseeker with no expense but the $14 necessary for land office fees. The thousands who have visited the Rosebud country as a result of this advertising have been strongly impressed by the miles of cornfields and thousands of acres of small grain which stretch across the rolling prairie lands from Chicago to the Missouri river. Said one such traveler the other day, "I can see that the west is getting greater, bigger and stronger and more thickly settled every year," a statement that goes without dispute.

NEW HUMBLE OIL WELL PROVES STRONG GASSER. Derrick Swept Away and Column of Mud and Oil Thrown 200 Feet in the Air. HUMBLE, Texas, Dec. 12.—Higgins wells No. 2 has capped the climax as a gasser. Yesterday afternoon, after drilling pipe and bit had been taken out of the well, the greatest eruption ever known except of volcanic origin occurred in the Higgins No. 2. The entire upper portion of the derrick was swept away like chaff and the mud, sand, rock and oil went up with cyclonic velocity at a height of 200 feet. At 6 p. m. the column of debris was at least 200 feet high and the spray reached at least fifty feet higher. Immense pieces of rock and gumbo, some of them over six inches in diameter, were coming up. An engineer at the well north-west 150 feet from it, who was gashed by a broken arm by falling rock and the roof of an engine house, made of 1x12 board, was broken through. The drillers in the field think Higgins No. 2 will more than probably blow in a gusher of good oil, as a large quantity of oil has already come up and the blow-out is cleaning the well nicely. All the old companies and numbers of new ones are crowding the field, and derricks are as thick on the Humble field as at Sour Lake. The gold production of the entire Abilene district for the present year is estimated at $25,000,000.

county officials. The alleged theft is said to have occurred while Rose was asleep. William Hunter, a musician at the Standard theater, was arrested at 4 o'clock this morning by Special Officer George Turner on a charge of aggravated assault. He is said to be wanted in Dallas county. Richard Zimmerman, clerk at the police station, is unable to be on duty as a result of a gripe. Citizens of Farmersville, Collins county, have sent circulars to the police, asking for their assistance in apprehending the persons and also the goods stolen at that place several days ago. They offer a reward of $300.

FIRE CHIEF IS THANKED

Mayor of North Fort Worth Expresses Gratitude for Aid. Chief J. H. Maddox of the Fort Worth fire department received the following letter this morning relative to the assistance given North Fort Worth at their fire Monday afternoon. The Fort Worth department sent the chemical engine to the scene and the firemen aided the fire fighters across the Trinity. Mr. James H. Maddox, Chief Fire Department, Fort Worth, Texas.—Dear Sir: One behalf of the citizens, the city council, and the business men of North Fort Worth, we desire to thank you and your city's firemen for the valiant services lent us at our fire of Monday afternoon and are truly grateful to you and yours. Thinking you again for the services rendered, we beg to remain, very truly yours, J. T. PROCTOR, City Secretary.

FORT WORTH HEALTH GOOD

City Physician's Monthly Report Shows but 21 Cases of Infectious Diseases Reported During Month. The month of November health report just completed by Dr. Rufus Chambers, the city health officer, shows Fort Worth to be an exceedingly healthful place in which to reside. During the period just closed the report shows that only twenty-one infectious cases were reported. Three of these were diphtheria, ten scarlet fever and eight typhoid fever. During the month 27 white persons died, 12 males and 15 females, and 10 negroes, 6 males and 4 females. Of this number 28 were residents of Fort Worth and 9 were not. In the same length of time there were 30 births among the white, 19 males and 11 females, and only 5 among the colored population, 3 males and 2 females. According to the report the white population made an increase of three births over the deaths, while the colored population made a decrease of two. The report shows the city to be in a fit sanitary condition.

BURGLARY AND HIGHER FINANCE. Isn't the Chadwick case a striking illustration of the higher finance, the Wall street method, the wiles of the promoter and the devious ways by which the graduates of the school of getting rich make millions without rendering an equivalent?

"Honest" burglary is no longer a money making trade. Here and there a bandit holds up a train and gets a few thousands, or, perhaps, a system full of leaden pellets. The holdup man still prospers, but humanity is becoming wise and no longer carries money in large amounts.

The new pitching rule proposed by baseball magnates will require the pitcher to put the ball through a space equal to a hole 17 inches square, at a distance of sixty feet. There will be many bases on balls under such conditions.

Senator Cockrell evidently considers himself a "dead one." He is quoted as saying: "I appreciate the pleasant things that have been said of me by my friends and the newspapers. It is not often that a man hears such nice things about himself at his funeral."

Advertising pays, but the kind Thomas W. Lawson worked on Amalgamated copper is not. The stockholders, when T. W. finished with the warning to the people, coppers looked like thirty cents.

Instead of General Miles' appointment as adjutant general of Massachusetts being a rebuke to the president, maybe the president thinks the $3.50 shoe is on the other foot.

If Uncle Henry Davis had put his money into railroad fares at a cents a mile instead of trying to travel on a presidential train he would have gotten a better run for his money.

Thunder bricks are going through Fort Worth, billed to Austin for street paving. It is not until some of these bricks were being stopped in Fort Worth for the car track repairs.

At the memorial services by the Austin club last Sunday, Nat M. Washer of San Antonio, formerly of this city, delivered the eulogy. It was a beautiful sentiment, well prepared.

Most any of us might have thought of it before Mrs. Chadwick did, but could we have carried it to success? That's the question.

The world's stock of gold represents $25,000,000,000. The list time figures accurately represent the amount of it we have left to spend on Christmas presents.

The Katy railroad is to be well advertised. The head of the passenger department in St. Louis is named as co-respondent in a divorce suit.

If we would all go on the cash basis this Cassidy Chadwick system could not be a very good policy.

to society, to his promise, to his manhood and to her womanhood as to strike her, he deserves a punishment which should brand him publicly before the people. However, it is hard in many instances to convict these people. Woman is of a sympathetic and forgiving nature, and she does not always push the prosecution. There are instances in this state when outsiders have been appealed to by a wife for protection, and when the husband has been called on to answer for the crime, she goes before the court and insists that it is a mistake and he had not struck her. What can be done in a case of this kind? However, there are chances to convict some of these men, and if the fear of the whipping post is put before them, it is very likely they will think twice before they will risk a violation of a law such as is recommended by Mr. Roosevelt.

A former jail associate of Mrs. Nation in Kansas is trying to break into the state house in Kansas with a news stand. She does not believe it proper for the state house guide to sell cigars in the capitol corridor, and to bring up a point as to the right he has there, she has made a request that she be allowed to operate a news stand. This has been denied her, and she insists she will do so, the refusal of permission to the contrary notwithstanding. She even says she thinks she will finally get in jail on account of this affair.

Members of congress are not very enthusiastic about the maneuvers at Manassas last summer. They have discovered that much of the maneuvering was by handsomely gowned women of rare beauty, who were guests at social functions on the field of battle, and they cannot understand how privates can learn to be fighting men when the officers are touching wine glasses with fair woman.

The Fort Worth Trades Assembly has endorsed Mayor Powell's proposition to amend the city charter to provide for the referendum. The mayor goes to the home and the fireside with government affairs when he discusses such a measure and the members of the Trades Assembly realize the force and effect of it.

The ex-manager nodded. "They are hard pressed," he said. Then, looking up quickly: "You could name your price if you wanted to close out the stock of goods on hand, David."

It was in the afternoon of the same day that Kent found a note in his key-box at the Clarendon asking him to call up 124 Tejon Avenue by telephone. He did it at once, and Penelope answered. The key-box note had been placed at Elinor's request, and she, Miss Penelope, could not say what was wanted; neither could she say definitely when her sister would be in. Elinor had gone out an hour earlier with Mr. Ormsby and Miss Van Brock in Mr. Ormsby's motor car.

When was he, David Kent, coming up? Did he know they were talking of spending the remainder of the sum of Brezeland Inn? And where was Mr. Loring all this time?

Kent made fitting answers to all these queries, hung up the carphone and went away moodily reflective. He was due at a meeting of the executive committee of the Civic League, but he let the public business wait while he speculated upon the probable object of Elinor's telephoning him.

Now there is no field in which the inconsistency of human nature is so persistent as in that which is bonded by the sentimentally narrowed horizon of a man in love. With Ormsby at the nodus of his point of view, David Kent made no secret of his open rivalry of the millionaire, declaring his intention boldly and taking no shame therefor. But when he faced about toward Elinor he found himself growing hotly jealous for her good faith; careful and fearful lest she should say or do something, not strictly in accordance with the letter and spirit of her obligations as Ormsby's fiancée.

For example: at the "conspiracy dinner," as Loring dubbed it, Ormsby being present to fight for his own hand, Kent, as we have seen, had boldly monopolized Miss Brentwood, and would have committed himself still more pointedly had the occasion favored him. None the less, when Elinor had begged him privately to see her before moving in the attack on the jumbo, he had almost resented the implied establishing of confidential relations with her lover's open rival.

For this cause he had been postponing the promised visit, and thereby

THE GRAFTERS BY FRANCES LINDE COPYRIGHT, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FOUR, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS. The scene of the story is in the new west and has to do with its development and its politics. David Kent, a brilliant young lawyer with a conscience, casts his lot with the new people, Hawks, a shrewd politician, works for election of Bucks for governor. Bucks is supple to Hawks' will. Loring and Ormsby, two easterners play a pretty part in the story. (Continued from Yesterday.)

For a fitting moment the cast-iron smile faded from the impassive face of the attorney general and an unrelenting devil came to peer out of the colorless eyes. Then Meigs rose catlike and laid his hand on the doorknob. "Do I understand that you refuse to move in a matter which should be the first duty of a good citizen, Mr. Kent?" he asked, purringly.

"I certainly do refuse to fall into any such clumsy trap as you have been trying to bait for me, Mr. Meigs," said David Kent, dropping back into his former curtness.

The door opened slowly under the impulse of the womanish hand. "You have a task of some magnitude before you, Mr. Kent. You can scarcely hope to accomplish it alone." "Meaning that you would like to know if the fight will go on if I should chance to meet another drunk cowboy with a better aim?" it will.

The door closed softly behind the retreating figure of the attorney general, and Kent released the spring of the night latch. Then he went to the dropped portiere at the farther end of the room, drew it aside and looked in on a man who was writing at a table pushed out between the windows.

"You heard him, Loring?" he asked. The ex-manager nodded. "They are hard pressed," he said. Then, looking up quickly: "You could name your price if you wanted to close out the stock of goods on hand, David."

"I shall name it when the time comes. Are you ready to go over to the Argus office with me? I want to have a three-cornered talk with Hill-droth."

"In a minute. I'll join you in the lobby if you don't want to wait."

It was in the afternoon of the same day that Kent found a note in his key-box at the Clarendon asking him to call up 124 Tejon Avenue by telephone. He did it at once, and Penelope answered. The key-box note had been placed at Elinor's request, and she, Miss Penelope, could not say what was wanted; neither could she say definitely when her sister would be in. Elinor had gone out an hour earlier with Mr. Ormsby and Miss Van Brock in Mr. Ormsby's motor car.

When was he, David Kent, coming up? Did he know they were talking of spending the remainder of the sum of Brezeland Inn? And where was Mr. Loring all this time?

Kent made fitting answers to all these queries, hung up the carphone and went away moodily reflective. He was due at a meeting of the executive committee of the Civic League, but he let the public business wait while he speculated upon the probable object of Elinor's telephoning him.

Now there is no field in which the inconsistency of human nature is so persistent as in that which is bonded by the sentimentally narrowed horizon of a man in love. With Ormsby at the nodus of his point of view, David Kent made no secret of his open rivalry of the millionaire, declaring his intention boldly and taking no shame therefor. But when he faced about toward Elinor he found himself growing hotly jealous for her good faith; careful and fearful lest she should say or do something, not strictly in accordance with the letter and spirit of her obligations as Ormsby's fiancée.

For example: at the "conspiracy dinner," as Loring dubbed it, Ormsby being present to fight for his own hand, Kent, as we have seen, had boldly monopolized Miss Brentwood, and would have committed himself still more pointedly had the occasion favored him. None the less, when Elinor had begged him privately to see her before moving in the attack on the jumbo, he had almost resented the implied establishing of confidential relations with her lover's open rival.

For this cause he had been postponing the promised visit, and thereby postponing the taking of the final step in the campaign of intimidation. The unexplained telephone call decided him, however. He would go and see Elinor and have the ordeal over with.

But as a preliminary he dined that evening with Ormsby at the Camelot Club, and over the coffee had it out with him.

"I am going out to see Miss Brentwood tonight," he announced abruptly. "Have you any objection?" The millionaire gave him the shrewdest of over-looks, ending with a deep-rumbling laugh.

"Kent, you are the queerest lot I have ever discovered, and that is saying a good bit. Why, in the name of all the propitities, should I object?" "Your right is unchallenged," Kent admitted.

"Is it? Better ask Miss Brentwood about that. She might say it isn't." "I don't understand," said Kent, dry-tongued.

"Don't you? Perhaps I'd better explain: she might find it a little difficult. You have been laboring under the impression that we are engaged, haven't you?" "Laboring under the—why, good heavens, man! it's in everybody's mouth!"

"Curious, isn't it, how such things get about," commented the player of long suits. "How do you suppose they get started?" "I don't suppose anything about it, so far as we two are concerned; I have your own word for it. You said you were the man in possession."

Ormsby laughed again. "You are something of a bluffer yourself, David. Did you let my little stagger scare you out?" David Kent pushed his chair back from the table and nailed Ormsby with a look that would have made a younger man betray himself.

"Do you mean to tell me that there is no engagement between you and Miss Brentwood?" "Just that," Ormsby put all the nonchalance he could muster into the laconic reply, but he was anticipating the sequent demand which came like a shot out of a gun.

"And there never has been?" Ormsby grinned. "When you are digging a well and have found the water, it's folly to go deeper, David. Can't you let 'good enough' alone?"

Kent turned it over in his mind, frowning thoughtfully into his coffee-cup. When he spoke it was out of the mid-heart of manliness.

"I wish you would tell me one thing, Ormsby. Am I responsible for the present state of affairs?" Ormsby stretched the truth a little; partly for Elinor's sake; more, perhaps, for Kent's.

"You have done nothing that an honorable rival—and incidentally a good friend of mine—might not do. Therefore you are not responsible."

"That is putting it very diplomatically," Kent mused. "I am afraid it does not exonerate me wholly." "Yes, it does. But it doesn't put me out of the running, you understand. I'm 'formist' to you yet; rather more stubbornly than before, I fancy."

Kent nodded. "That, of course; I should think less of you if you were not. And you shall have as fair a show as you are giving me—which is saying a lot. Shall we go and smoke?"

He smiled inwardly at the good lady's definition of "legal advice." If he were in Mrs. Brentwood's place, he would not write again; nor would he pay any attention whatever to any similar proposal from any source. Had there been any other?

Mrs. Brentwood confessed that there had been; that a firm of Boston brokers had also written her. Did Mr. Kent know the meaning of all this anxiety to buy in Western Pacific when the stock was going down day by day?

Kent took time for reflection before he answered. It was exceedingly difficult to eliminate the personal factor in the equation. If all went well, if by due process of law the Trans-Western should be rescued out of the hands of the wreckers, the property would be a long time recovering from the wounds inflicted by the cut rates and the Gulford bad management.

In consequence, any advance in the market value of the stock must be slow and uncertain under the most skillful handling. But, while it might be advisable for Mrs. Brentwood to take what she could get, the transfer of the three thousand shares at the critical moment might be the death blow to all his hopes in the fight for retrieval.

Happily, he hit upon the expedient of shifting the responsibility for the decision to other shoulders. "I scarcely feel competent to advise you in a matter which is personal rather than legal," he said at length. "Have you talked it over with Mr. Ormsby?"

Mrs. Brentwood's reply was openly contemptuous. "Brookes Ormsby doesn't know anything about dollars. You have to express it in millions before he can grasp it. He says for me not to sell at any price."

Kent shook his head. "I shouldn't put it quite so strongly. At the same time, I am not the person to advise you."

The shrewd eyes looked up at him quickly. "Would you mind telling me why, Mr. Kent?" "Not in the least. I am an interested party. For weeks Mr. Loring and I have been striving by all means to prevent transfers of the stock from the hands of the original holders. I don't want to advise you to your hurt; but to tell you to sell might be to undo all that has been done."

"Then you are still hoping to get the railroad out of Major Guilford's hands?" "Yes." "And in that case the price of the stock will go up again?" "That is just the difficulty. It may be a long time recovering."

"Do you think the sale of my three thousand shares would make any difference?" she asked. "There is reason to fear that it would make all the difference."

She was silent for a time, and when she spoke again Kent realized that he was coming to know an entirely unsuspected side of Elinor's mother.

"It makes it pretty hard for me," she said slowly. "This little drib of railroad stock is all that my girls have left out of what their father willed them. I want to save it if I can."

"So do I," said David Kent, frankly; "and for the same reason."

Mrs. Brentwood confined herself to a dry "Why?" "Because I have loved your elder daughter well and truly ever since that summer at the foot of Old Crocydon, Mrs. Brentwood, and her happiness and well-being concern me very nearly."

"You are pretty plain-spoken, Mr. Kent. I suppose you know Elinor is to be married to Brookes Ormsby?" Mrs. Brentwood was quite herself again.

Miss Hargood tells how she was cured of Fallopian and Ovarian Inflammation—and escaped an awful operation by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for four years with what the doctors called Salpingitis (inflammation of the fallopian tubes) and ovaritis, which are most distressing and painful ailments, affecting all the surrounding parts, undermining the constitution, and sapping the life forces. If you had seen me a year ago, before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and had noticed the sunken eyes, sallow complexion, and general emaciated condition, and compared that person with me as I am today, robust, hearty and well, you would not wonder that I feel thankful to you and your wonderful medicine, which restored me to new life and health in five months, and saved me from an awful operation."—Miss LIZZY HARGOOD, 1022 Sandwich St., Windsor, Ont.

Ovaritis or inflammation of the ovaries or fallopian tubes which adjoin the ovaries may result from sudden stopping of the monthly flow, from inflammation of the womb, and many other causes. The slightest indication of trouble with the ovaries, indicated by dull throbbing pain in the side, accompanied by heat and shooting pains, should claim your instant attention. It will not cure itself, and a hospital operation, with all its terrors, may easily result from neglect.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. Before I wrote to you telling how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money in medicine besides, but it all failed to do me any good. My menses did not appear in that time, and I suffered much pain. I would daily have fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing down pain, and was so weak that it was hard for me to do my work."

"I used your medicine and treatment as directed, and after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my menses appeared, my womb troubles left me, and I have been regular ever since. I used fourteen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier together, and am now restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you, I would have been in my grave."

"These few lines may lead others who suffer as I did to try your remedies."—Mrs. T. C. WILLIAMS, R. R. No. 1, Manning, Iowa. Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women. Women should remember that they are privileged to consult Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., about their illness, entirely free.

Cleanings From the Exchanges

Radium, it is said, will clarify diamonds. One is stout as hard to get as the other.—Austin Statesman. Give us the rind and we can afford to buy clear diamonds.

The chicken breeders of this county are now getting busy preparing to handle a large trade the coming season, which will open about Jan. 1 and continue through May. The local demand for fine poultry is greater now than ever before, and good breeding stock is extremely scarce.—Bonham Favorite. Statistics show that a hen farm is a valuable investment, and every year more people are turning to the production of poultry. As long as Swift and Armour are turning out hams some one must produce the eggs.

Two men who stole Mrs. Astor's garter buckles thinking they had made a good haul must have felt cheap when they learned the value of the articles was less than $10.—Gainesville Messenger. Garter buckles are never of value in the possession of a man.

Some Bonham husbands have worked out a scheme which manifests greater ingenuity than was supposed to exist in the sleepy capital of Fannin. They entered into a conspiracy with a certain merchant of the town, who has put on bargain sales at his store between the hours of 3 and 7 a. m. During these early morning hours china-ware, stove pans, nutmeg graters, etc., can be purchased at a discount of 5 per cent, and a visitor who happened to be out of bed so early would readily conclude that all the women of the city are Catholics and that high mass is never neglected. One of the overjoyed husbands informed the Signal man during a recent visit to the town that he had been the first to see the morning fire since the inauguration of the scheme. This is an unfair advantage to take of unsuspecting wives and the Signal ex-president a show. He is the president of the United States and Fort Worth is in the jurisdiction thereof. It is the greatest state in the Union, and it is the greatest city in the world while he is here he will give us an entertainment in keeping with his high office. Fort Worth never does things by halves.

The tendency of the times is to encourage the news which reaches the bedside at twilight. It has today's news today, and it comes to you at the close of a busy day, when it is a part of the luxury of the evening at home.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE THE ORIGINAL remedy that "kills the Dandruff Germ." GOING! GOING!! GONE!!! Herpicide Will Save It. Herpicide Will Save It. Too Late for Herpicide. A MAN'S WIFE dandruff is a contagious disease. First is infection, then after weeks or months dandruff appears, followed by itching scalp and falling hair. Newbro's Herpicide kills the germ and cures every stage of this disease except chronic baldness. Marvelous results follow its use. An exquisite hair dressing.

GOOD WEATHER FOR PAINTING

IS NOW HERE. No danger from blistering by the hot summer sun. A house painted now will last a year longer. Let us give you an estimate for Honest Workmanship.

DID POLITICAL QUARREL LEAD TO MURDER OF GABRIEL SYVETON

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Gabriel Syveton, a nationalist member of the chamber of deputies, was found dead in his house on the afternoon of Dec. 8. He had been asphyxiated by gas, due to the stuffing up of a chimney in a gas heater. Henri Rochefort, the veteran journalist, a warm friend of Syveton, declares the latter was murdered.

All day Thursday Syveton's appearance in the chamber of deputies had been eagerly and expectantly awaited. On that day his formal expulsion from the chamber expired. He had been expelled as the result of an assault upon General Andre, minister of war, during which Syveton slapped Andre in the face. It had been expected that Syveton would come back to renew his battle against Andre, and the nationalists, his supporters, were on hand to back him up strongly. There was great disappointment at his non-appearance, and the news of his mysterious death has created a tremendous sensation.

GABRIEL SYVETON.

Andre is known as the "most criticized man in France." He is a radical socialist and anti-Catholic. He has instructed officers and men in the French army to address their superiors in "a familiar and conversational style." He is hated by many men high in French politics.

Rochefort declares that Syveton was certain of acquittal, when tried for his assault upon Andre, and was put out of the way by his enemies as the only means of getting rid of him. Others declare that Syveton expected to get at least two years' imprisonment as punishment for his assault on the war minister, and committed suicide. The authorities say Syveton's death was accidental. In any event, sensational developments are expected to follow his tragic death.

MEXICO TO WAGE WAR OF EXTERMINATION ON YAQUI

Bloodythirsty Deeds of Indians Who Have Always Maintained the Purity of Their Breed—Caught a Bunch of Yaqui and Shot Them—All to Get the Murderers.

EXECUTION OF THE YAQUI

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 13.—In addition to trying to lift his financial self by his bootstraps, by declaring that two 45-cent pesos, or Mexican dollars, make fully one United States dollar, President Diaz has decided to wipe the Yaqui Indians off the map of Mexico.

The "business world" set up a howl, and now every hamlet in Mexico is full of soldiers, preparing to go gunning in earnest for the Yaqui.

The Yaqui, of all Indians, is in a class all by himself, in that, from time immemorial, he has preserved the purity of his breed. No matter how miscellaneous the breed of all other peoples one meets in Mexico, the Yaqui is pure Yaqui.

There are several thousand Yaqui along the Yaqui river, where they have baked their pancakes in their crockery ovens, slept in their mud huts, and fought for their native lands for hundreds of years.

While the Yaqui can be called barbarous in some of the tastes, nothing can surpass the sangfroid of the officials who deal with him. Recently, over near Guaymas, in the state of Sonora, the Yaqui killed and horribly mutilated three young men whom they caught out riding. The authorities caught a suspected Yaqui.

PISTOL CHAMPION A YOUNG PHYSICIAN

DR. I. R. CALKINS.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 12.—Irving R. Calkins, the new revolver champion of the United States Revolver Association, declares that his success primarily is due to his determination to avoid the "kiss," as both balls are going in the same direction. If, however, the first object ball should take the side cushion first, a "kiss" will usually result, as the balls will be going in opposite directions.

A NEW BUSINESS COLLEGE

BRANCH OF DRAUGHON'S SCHOOL TO BE LOCATED HERE

Lease Signed for the Third Floor of the Ford Building—Will Open for Business Jan. 2

Denison Herald, Dec. 10. The lease was signed yesterday for the establishment of a branch institution of Draughon's Practical Business College in this city.

Much of the success of securing this institution is due to the efforts of J. H. Gardner, who has had the negotiations in charge for some time.

The school in Denison is the eighteenth belonging to the Draughon's series of business colleges over the south, whose fame and reliability are well known.

The Draughon's Practical Business College company is a very strong one, having a capital stock of $200,000.

The above announcement shows that Fort Worth is headquarters for one more large concern. Draughon's Practical Business College of this city recently moved into their handsome new quarters near the depot, in the Bank of Commerce building.

The Christmas Telegram will be issued Sunday, Dec. 18. It will be a paper of excellence throughout and will rank second to no regular issue of any newspaper ever before printed in Texas.

ORDINANCE NO. 924

An ordinance to provide for the attaching of grease traps to pipes running into the sewers.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Fort Worth:

Section 1. That from and after this date all drains or drain pipes running from hotels, restaurants or boarding houses where the cooking is done, or where ten people is done, or manufacturing plants using grease, into a sewer or sewers of the city of Fort Worth shall be provided with suitable grease traps, and in case of any kind from running into the said sewers, and this ordinance shall apply not only to drains or drain pipes hereafter put in, but to drains or drain pipes now in existence.

Section 2. That the use of any grease trap after the same shall have been approved by the city engineer as suitable for the purpose for which it is intended to be used, shall be deemed a compliance with Section 1 of this ordinance.

Section 3. Whenever any person owning any property of the character hereinbefore described shall fail to put in a grease trap as herein provided within ten days after notification by the city engineer, then it shall be the duty of the city engineer to disconnect all such pipes as are not provided with grease traps as herein provided and not to permit the owner of such property to again connect with the sewer until payment in full shall have been made to the city for the cost of the disconnection, and notice to the occupant of the property shall be deemed notice to the owner.

Section 4. Any person using any drain or drain pipe connected with a sewer or sewers of the city of Fort Worth which shall not be provided with grease traps as herein provided, shall in addition to the foregoing penalty be also guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.

Section 5. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith, to the extent that they are in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 6. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication as required by law.

Filed Dec. 2, 1904. JOHN T. MONTGOMERY, City Secretary.

Recorded in Ordinance Book E, page 117, Dec. 6, 1904.

BILLY KERSANDS' MINSTRELS
The Billy Kersands minstrels were in Fort Worth Monday night. Today half of those in attendance are still laughing at the many comic things the members did and said at Greenwall's last night. The company is splendid and one of the best colored minstrels on the road. The opera house was packed to see the troupe and to enjoy an evening with the inimitable Billy and his co-singers and co-dancers.

Last night was the second visit of the company to Fort Worth. The aggregation was here about two months ago, but the theatergoers did not hesitate to go again and enjoy over again the many laughable new songs and dancing.

"THE SILVER SLIPPER"

John C. Fisher, proprietor and producer

MURRAY AND MACK
What more assurance could be demanded by theatergoers than the fact of a New York Casino show being offered with Murray and Mack in the principal roles of the merry musical comedy, "An English Daisy."

The company will number just forty people, and twenty of 'em are girls. It is claimed that the title of the "American beauty chorus" is very appropriately bestowed on this organization. Murray and Mack in "An English Daisy" come to Greenwall's opera house Friday night, Dec. 16.

"THE VIRGINIAN"
The sale of seats and boxes for "The Virginia" will open Thursday at 8 a. m. The play is to be seen here at Greenwall's opera house, Saturday matinee and of "Florador" and "The Silver Slipper" does not believe in the old theory of "letting well enough alone," and since the first production of both of these pieces has been constantly putting in fresh songs and new comedy scenes of the most striking and vivid quality. With "The Silver Slipper" he has built up a performance which, in addition to being altogether superb from a spectacular point of view, fairly bristles with hilarity and melody to the end, and one event of interest follows so closely upon the heels of its predecessor as to keep the spectator on the edge of his seat without an instant's cessation. "The Silver Slipper" will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee and night, Dec. 11.

night, Dec. 17. It is a dramatization of Owen Wister's widely read story of the same name, and the popularity of Mr. Wister's novel has been so great that there seems little doubt as to the welcome which its stage version will receive here. The authors of the dramatization have preserved all the charm and beauty of the unique romance between the cowboy hero and the Vermont school teacher. It is said, and there can be no question as to the pleasing qualities of the play. The two lovers are to be impersonated by Dustin Farnum and Helen Holmes. The principals of the New York cast will all appear during the engagement here.

WHY DOES

A BABY CRY?

Because it is either hungry or in pain. Properly nourished it will usually grow up right and be comfortable—that's the principal thing for a baby. If its food lacks strength and nourishment add Scott's Emulsion at feeding time. A few drops will show surprising results. If a baby is plump it is reasonably safe. Scott's Emulsion makes babies plump.

A NEW BUSINESS COLLEGE

BRANCH OF DRAUGHON'S SCHOOL TO BE LOCATED HERE

Lease Signed for the Third Floor of the Ford Building—Will Open for Business Jan. 2

Denison Herald, Dec. 10. The lease was signed yesterday for the establishment of a branch institution of Draughon's Practical Business College in this city.

The suite of rooms secured for the school are on the third floor of the Ford building, formerly occupied by the Waters Pierce Oil company.

Denison has been chosen for this branch on account of its advantages in location. Much of the success of securing this institution is due to the efforts of J. H. Gardiner, who has had the negotiations in charge for some time.

The school in Denison is the eighteenth belonging to the Draughon's series of business colleges over the south, whose fame and reliability are well known in Nashville, Tenn.

The Draughon's Practical Business College company is a very strong one, having a capital stock of $300,000.

The above announcement shows that Fort Worth is headquarters for one more large concern.

The Christmas Telegram will be issued Sunday, Dec. 18. It will be a paper of excellence throughout and will rank second to no regular issue of any newspaper ever before printed in Texas.

SWAYNE CASE REPORT

Eight Members Committee Practically Unanimous for Impeachment. WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Eight republican members of the house judiciary committee, Representatives Parker of New Jersey, Jenkins of Wisconsin, Alexander of New York, Littlefield of Maine, Thomas of Iowa, Gillett of California, Pearce of Maryland and Warner of Illinois, have submitted to the house their views in the case of Judge Chas. Swayne of the Northern District of Florida.

While disagreeing in some places with the views submitted for the full committee last week by Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, they say that the question of charging $10 a day for expenses has been brought out for the first time in the additional testimony taken since last session and held before the committee.

This makes the committee practically unanimous for impeachment, although differing on the ground.

The government in India has offered a prize of $165 to all officers who will learn and pass an examination in the Tibetan language.

ORDINANCE NO. 924

An ordinance to provide for the attaching of grease traps to pipes running into the sewers.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Fort Worth:

Section 1. That from and after this date all drains or drain pipes running from hotels, restaurants or boarding houses where cooking for more than ten people is done, or manufacturing plants using grease, into a sewer or sewers of the city of Fort Worth shall be provided with suitable grease traps, that is grease traps which will prevent grease of any kind from running into the said sewers, and this ordinance shall apply not only to drains or drain pipes hereafter put in, but to drains or drain pipes now in existence.

Section 2. That the use of any grease trap after the same shall have been approved by the city engineer as suitable for the purpose for which it is intended to be used, shall be deemed compliance with Section 1 of this ordinance.

Section 3. Whenever any person owning any property of the character herebefore described shall fail to put in a grease trap as herein provided within ten days after notification by the city engineer, then it shall be the duty of the city engineer to disconnect all such pipes as are not provided with grease traps as herein provided and not to permit the owner of such property to again connect with the sewer until payment in full shall have been made to the city for the cost of the disconnection, and notice to the occupant of the property shall be deemed notice to the owner.

Section 4. Any person using any drain or drain pipe connected with a sewer or sewers of the city of Fort Worth which shall not be provided with grease traps as herein provided, shall in addition to the foregoing penalty be also guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.

Section 5. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith to the extent that they are in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 6. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication as required by law.

Filed Dec. 2, 1904.

JOHN T. MONTGOMERY, City Secretary.

Passed under suspension of rules, Dec. 2, 1904.

JOHN T. MONTGOMERY, City Secretary.

BILLY KERSANDS' MINSTRELS
The Billy Kersands minstrels were in Fort Worth Monday night. Today half of those in attendance are still laughing at the many comic things the members did and said at Greenwall's last night. The company is splendid and one of the best colored minstrels on the road. The opera house was packed to see the troupe and to enjoy an evening with the inimitable Billy and his co-shouters and clog-dancers.

Last night was the second visit of the company to Fort Worth. The aggregation was here about two months ago, but the theatergoers did not hesitate to go again and enjoy over again the many laughable new songs and dancing.

"THE SILVER SLIPPER"

John C. Fisher, proprietor and producer

MURRAY AND MACK
What more assurance could be demanded by theater goers than the fact of a New York Casino show being offered with Murray and Mack in the principal roles of the merry musical comedy, "An English Daisy."
The company will number just forty people, and twenty of 'em are girls. It is claimed that the title of the "American beauty chorus" is very appropriately bestowed on this organization. Murray and Mack in "An English Daisy" comes to Greenwall's opera house Friday night, Dec. 15.

"THE VIRGINIAN"

The sale of seats and boxes for "The Virginia" will open Thursday at 8 a. m. The play is to be seen here at Greenwall's opera house, Saturday matinee and of "Floroden" and "The Silver Slipper" does not believe in the old theory of "letting well enough alone," and since the first production of both of these pieces has been constantly putting in fresh songs and new comedy scenes of the most striking and vivid quality. With "The Silver Slipper" he has built up a performance which, in addition to being altogether superb from a spectacular point of view, fairly bristles with hilarity and melody to the end, and one event of interest follows so closely upon the heels of its predecessor as to keep the spectator on the qui vive without an instant's cessation. "The Silver Slipper" will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee and night, Dec. 14.

night, Dec. 17. It is a dramatization of Owen Wister's widely read story of the same name, and the popularity of Mr. Wister's novel has been so great that there seems little doubt as to the welcome which its stage version will receive here. The authors of the dramatization have preserved all the charm and beauty of the unique romance between the cowboy hero and the Vermont school teacher, it is said, and there can be no question as to the pleasing qualities of the play. The two lovers are to be impersonated by Dustin Farnum and Helen Holmes. The principals of the New York cast will all appear during the engagement here.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 12.—Secretary anon announces that the stewards of the grand circuit will meet at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, Dec. 15. At this meeting the racing dates for next season's light-harness race meetings in the grand circuit will be awarded.

WHY DOES

A BABY CRY?

Because it is either hungry or in pain. Properly nourished it will usually grow up right and be comfortable—that's the principal thing for a baby. If its food lacks strength and nourishment add Scott's Emulsion at feeding time. A few drops will show surprising results. If a baby is plump it is reasonably safe. Scott's Emulsion makes babies plump.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S BOOK TELLS THE PITIFULLY PATHETIC STORY OF HER LIFE

THE ACCUSATION AFTER THE DEATH OF HER HUSBAND AND THE SOLITARY CONFINEMENT IN A MISERABLE AND SMALL DUNGEON AFTER HER RELEASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Florence Maybrick's own story is in print. It is literally her own story and it is pitifully pathetic. It is dignified and womanly throughout, and despite the inexpressible agonies she has suffered in 15 years imprisonment, it is without a trace of bitterness.

In a foreword she quotes from the sketch of her ancestry written by Gail Hamilton, which proves that she is descended, on both paternal and maternal sides, from good American stock.

"He then left the room. What did he mean? How dare he humble me thus in presence of a stranger?"

"Toward night of the same day I said to the nurse, 'I wish to see my child.' She took me to the nursery. My voice was weak, and I thought perhaps she had not heard. 'Nurse,' I repeated, 'I want to see my children.' She walked up to my bed, and in a cold, deliberate voice replied: 'You cannot see Master James or Miss Gladys.' Mr. Michael Maybrick gave orders that they were to leave the house without seeing you. 'I fell back upon my pillow, dazed and stricken, weak, helpless and impotent. Why was I treated thus? He breathed in seeking a reply to this query. At last I could bear it no longer, and my soul cried out to God to let me die. A third dreary night, and the day broke once again. I was still prostrate. The dull pain at my heart, the yearning for my little children, was becoming unbearable, but I was dumb.

"Suddenly the door opened and Dr. Humphreys entered. He walked silently to my bedside, felt my pulse, and without saying a word, left the room. A few minutes later I heard the tramp of many feet coming up the stairs. They stopped at the door. The nurse advanced, and a crowd of men entered. One of them stepped to the foot of the bed and addressed me as follows:

"'Mrs. Maybrick, I am superintendent of the police, and I am about to say something to you. After I have said what I intend to say, if you reply, be careful how you reply, because whatever you say may be used as evidence against you. Mrs. Maybrick, you are in custody on suspicion of causing the death of your late husband, James Maybrick, on the 11th inst. I made no reply, and the crowd passed out."

"In the same simplicity of language she tells a straightforward story of her complex trial, her sentence to death, and the commutation to life imprisonment. Her first nine months in prison was in solitary confinement, which she describes:

"I followed the warder to a door, perhaps not more than two feet in width. She unlocked it and said, 'Pass in.' I stepped forward, but started back with horror. Through the open door I saw, by the dim light of a small window that was never cleaned, a cell seven feet by four."

"'Oh, don't put me in there!' I cried. 'I cannot bear it.'"

"For answer the warder took me roughly by the shoulder, gave me a push, and shut the door. There was nothing to sit upon but the cold state floor. I sank to my knees. I felt suffocated. It seemed that the walls were drawing nearer and nearer together, and presently the life would be crushed out of me. I sprang to my feet and beat with my hands against the door. 'For God's sake, let me out! Let me out!' But my voice could not penetrate that massive barrier, and exhausted I sank once more to the floor."

"She tells the story of the 15 years imprisonment in all its heartrending detail. She relates with enthusiasm the efforts made by her powerful friends in America, France and England to secure her release, of the obstacles in their way and of their final success.

"The book has been written in a quiet cottage in the mountains of New York

FROM MRS. MAYBRICK'S LATEST PHOTOGRAPH

—the Thurstons, the Ingrahams, the Philipps, and the Holbrooks of New England, and the Campbells and Chandlers of Georgia.

She tells of her marriage at 18 to James Maybrick, of their residence in Liverpool, of the birth of their two children, of her feeble health and of the shock of her husband's sudden death. She plunges directly into the tragedy of her life.

"Slowly consciousness returned. I opened my eyes. The room was in darkness. All was still. Suddenly the silence was broken by the bang of a closing door which startled me out of my stupor. Where was I? Why was I alone? What awful thing had happened? A flash of memory! My husband was dead! I drifted once more away from the things of sense. Then a voice, as if a long way off, spoke a feeling of pain and distress shot through my body. I opened my eyes in terror. Edwin Maybrick was bending over me as I lay upon my bed. He had my arm tightly gripped, and was shaking me violently. 'I want your keys—do you hear? Where are your keys?' he exclaimed harshly. I tried to form a reply, but the words choked me, and once more I passed into unconsciousness.

"It is the dawn of a Sabbath day (May 12, 1889). I am still lying in my clothes, neglected and uncared for, without food since the morning of the day before. Consciousness came and went. During one of these interludes Michael Maybrick appeared.

"Nurse," he said, "I am going up to London. Mrs. Maybrick is no longer

THE MARKETS

NORTH FORT WORTH, Dec. 13.—Trains were late in reaching the stock yards this morning and as a result not enough cattle were on sale during the early hours of the day to attract much attention from buyers, who seemed to be waiting to see what the late trains would bring in before doing any great amount of bidding. Consequently but very few cattle crossed the scales before 12 o'clock.

When all trains were in, however, the market became more active and trading ruled about in line with yesterday's close, which was about a dime lower on steers and 5c to 10c off on cows.

Several loads of moderately well-fed steers were among the offerings and in fact the bulk of steers received were of good quality.

Cows of all classes were on sale, the general average in quality being from fair to good. Salesmen who had cutters to dispose of were complaining of a slow and draggy market at a decline, while other grades of steers commanded unchanged figures.

Not many bulls were among the arrivals of cattle, speculators making the bulk of the supply as soon as shown on the market, at stationary prices.

Calves were scarce, and trading on all classes ruled unchanged from yesterday.

Receipts of cattle for the day were estimated at 2,500 head, against 4,088 the last Tuesday, 2,715 for Tuesday a month ago and 2,551 for the same day last year.

Traders in the hog yards were again favored with a good, active market. At the opening of the day's business only 570 hogs were in the yards, but during the day enough more arrived to increase receipts to about 750 head, as against 757 for today a week ago, 90 for Tuesday a month ago and 15 for the corresponding day last year.

Buyers had plenty of orders for good quality hogs, and all offerings showing fresh and quality were snapped up early at prices strong to a shade higher than those paid yesterday.

The bulk of the supply yarded was from Texas points, and as a rule the quality of the offerings was better than that of yesterday.

Hogs started moving toward the scale house at an early hour and by noon practically everything in the yards was sold and weighed.

Twenty head of handy twenty-eight-pound Christmas roasters, brought in by W. M. Patterson, sold at $5 per hundred pounds, while the top price paid for hogs was $4.70. Marion Allen of Marietta, I. T., obtained this price for fifteen head of sorted 40-pounders, likewise Carson & South of Welborn, who sold forty-eight head, averaging 226 pounds.

Driven-in sheep, 125 in number, constituted the day's supply in the sheep division of the yards. J. R. Dendinger sold to Swift & Co. 109 head, averaging eighty-eight pounds, at $4, which was the top sale.

Sheep receipts a week ago today were 254 head, as against 151 for the same day in November and seventy-six for the corresponding Tuesday last year.

Receipts of cotton at the leading cumulative centers, compared with the receipts of the same time last year:

Cutting Prices Cutting Tailoring

Tailoring is peculiar in this: The buyer buys on faith, and what he sees when buying represents only a small part of the agreed price.

Any cutting in price may easily be covered by sacrifice of work or trimmings, and "cut price" in tailoring really means "cut tailoring."

Our cutters and tailors are doing the same excellent work as early in the season—our assortment is still complete and our reputation will be preserved by paying enough for our work to preserve it.

Our prices are always right. Suits Tailored to Taste $20.00 to $40.00

CHIEF MADDOX DECLARES IN FAVOR OF VIGOROUS LAW ENFORCEMENT

SAYS THAT IF ELECTED MARSHAL HE WILL CLOSE DIVES, AND CLEAN CITY OF DANGEROUS AND DISREPUTABLE CLASSES

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 12, 1904. To the Citizens of Fort Worth: I believe I am filling the position of chief of the fire department creditably and to the satisfaction of the citizens of this city, but most of the years of my manhood have been spent as a peace officer in Fort Worth and all my ambitions lie along the lines of an officer's duty to the public, hence I am a candidate for the office of city marshal of Fort Worth, subject to the primaries to be held Dec. 15, 1904.

IT WAS NO DREAM

Even Though Nearly Incredible For twenty years I suffered with piles, sometimes being confined to my bed for days at a time. The relief received from doctors, both in the United States and Mexico was temporary and more frequently I received no relief; other medicines had no effect; it was a continual drag; I was fit for nothing. I finally tried Pyramid Pile Cure; first application was magical; I could not believe I was awake next morning. I experienced a relief I had not known for twenty years.

The Village Creek Country club, an organization of young people, enjoyed a dance at the central fire station last evening. About twenty couples were present. The dance was arranged by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Purvis and T. W. Wrenn.

A birthday party will be given by the ladies of the Kentucky Avenue Baptist church at the residence of Mrs. T. A. Collup, 716 Missouri avenue, Friday evening, Dec. 16, 1904. Unique invitations consisting of a small sack attached to a card have been issued. Guests are requested to place in many pennies in the sack as they are years old.

At 10 o'clock this morning the fire department was called to 402 Milo street, where a vacant house belonging to Dr. M. L. Talbot was on fire. Little damage was done by the blaze. The house has not been occupied since Sept. 15, 1904, and that time has been on fire three times. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

The D. O. C. Club will hold a bazaar Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Weltman, 822 Taylor street. The bazaar is for the purpose of raising money to provide a Christmas tree at the orphan's home. Last year the members of the club, all of whom are children, raised the funds to provide for an Easter egg hunt at the orphan's home. The bazaar is an annual affair.

A man, boy and two young women reached Fort Worth last evening from Benton Harbor, Mich., traveling overland in a covered wagon. They are known as "Israelites," and are preaching the salvation of the body as well as that of the soul. Services were held on the corner of Main and Fifth streets last evening and will again be held there tonight. The party left the northern city some four months ago. They expect to go to Galveston and then along the coast, coming north in the early spring. The boy, named Jesse, is only sixteen years of age, but is the preacher for the party. He is one of the famous Israelite colony at Benton Harbor. The people are peculiar in that they use but one name and both men and women have hair of unusual length.

RADICAL CHANGES IN FRISCO FORCE

Radical changes are scheduled to occur in the Frisco family Jan. 1, when several of the high officials will step down and out and others go on up higher.

The passenger department of the Frisco is to be reorganized according to the statement of President A. J. Davidson, who is reported to have asked for the resignation of Bryan Snyder, passenger traffic manager, to take effect the first of the New Year.

It is understood that in connection with this resignation Alexander Hilton, now general passenger agent of the Frisco at St. Louis, will be advanced to the position of passenger traffic manager of both the Frisco and Eastern Illinois systems, with headquarters in St. Louis.

It is said to be problematical who will succeed Mr. Hilton as general passenger agent of the Frisco. It is not believed that W. H. Richardson, now general passenger agent of the Eastern Illinois, will be his successor although he has been mentioned in connection with the appointment. The Frisco's only assistant general passenger agent is J. C. Lovrien of Kansas City, and the promotion may fall on him.

TO HANDLE MEN

To Do So Successfully One Must Acquire Self-Control A foreman in a great locomotive works tells how he acquired self-control after it had been lost through the coffee habit.

"I was myself obliged to write you about Postum Coffee," he premises. "I have been a great tea and coffee drinker for over forty years and can say that it made me almost a total wreck. I am a night foreman in the American Locomotive works, and I take my sleep with me; also a bottle of tea or coffee. In a night it got to be so that there was not a fit for over a year, but that I would have a headache or heartburn or both. I went to the doctors almost every week to see if they could do something for me. They said it was the tobacco habit that did the mischief.

"So I gave up tobacco, but it did not help me any. I got so nervous that the men under me did not like to work for me, and I used to use them as men ought to be used. I was nervous, irritable and would find fault all the time.

"Two months ago I took dinner with some friends who gave me what I supposed was a cup of coffee. They explained that it was Postum Coffee and I had used it about six months and that during that time I had no headache such as she was formerly subject to, and that she felt so well all the time. That evening I took a package of Postum home with me and began using it.

"The result proved that the doctors were wrong—it was not tobacco but tea and coffee that upset me. During the two months that I have used Postum I have had neither headache or heartburn, my nervousness has left me and I have gained fourteen pounds in weight.

"Use this if you want to, as I have got twenty-four families to drinking Postum instead of coffee. They saw what it had done for me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The Frisco has many employees in its passenger department that would make excellent general passenger agents, but just who will get the plum, remains to be seen.

RAILROAD CONSTRUCTION IN 1904

While the present year has been one of retrenchment and curtailment of railway operation in every avenue, still the year has seen a great deal of construction work done in all sections of the country.

Referring to this feature of the railroads of this country, the St. Louis Globe Democrat says: The construction department of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad has changed 29.35 miles of track; built 55.4 miles of new road and 86.35 miles of second track. The development of the south and southwest is being pushed very vigorously by the construction of railway lines into new territory. An increase of more than 400 miles, or 19 per cent, is reported by the St. Louis and San Francisco as a result of new construction during 1904.

The most important construction work of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois in the fiscal year 1904, according to President Davidson's annual statement, was that of the new Chicago and St. Louis line, known as the Eastern Illinois and St. Louis railroad. On the Woodland-Villa Grove cut-off and the Findlay-Pana extension the company has spent $2,935,069, and this has added eighty-two miles of new line. Hunt's extension cost $53,551 and added seven miles of new line.

Upward of $8,000,000 was spent in 1904 by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy upon new construction and maintenance. The new line from Okaloosa to Tracy, Ia., to connect the old line between Burlington and Western with the branch from Albia to Des Moines, was completed. A line from Old Monroe to Mexico, Mo., was built, connecting with the Alton, and thus furnishing a through line from St. Louis to Kansas City. More than $300,000 was spent in Iowa in reducing grades, including land and new second track.

FAVORS STOCK SHOW FIRST

William Anson Says Fort Worth's Energies Should be Concentrated on Making Big Event a Success

"I think The Telegram is taking the right position in its utterances regarding the fat stock show," said William Anson of the Fort Worth Horse and Mule market. "While this city is now considered the headquarters of the live stock interests of the southwest, nothing will assure that fact more than the permanency of an annual show of the best blood in the live stock interests of the country. I do not think it well to divide the energies of the city by giving a small carnival or anything of that character which has no permanency and no substantial reason for existence. With a permanent fat stock show we can expect always to have the cattle-men convening in this city as the two go together, and a show of this character will bring to the city the most substantial men of the southwest. A carnival is but an opening for the fakers of the country to come here and to take the money from their money, without a proper return therefor.

"We have just made arrangements to have here the best breeding stock in the country in the mule line. We will have a jack and stallion sale in this city next spring during the fat stock show, and we are now in correspondence with the breeders of the finest stock in the north and east. These men will send their best stock here for the occasion, and it will be a show in itself. In this country where the people require the best in the mule line, such a display will be of incalculable benefit in teaching them something about the strain in draft animals which are needed in heavy work." The Telegram position regarding the fat stock show and I hope the citizens will see it in the proper light and give the affair the best support.

The Christmas Telegram will be issued Dec. 15. Watch for it.

The Man About Town

By JAMES HAYS QUARLES

Judge N. A. Steadman, general attorney of International and Great Northern, with headquarters at Palestine, is in the city today on a business trip, and while here made social matters somewhat of a feature.

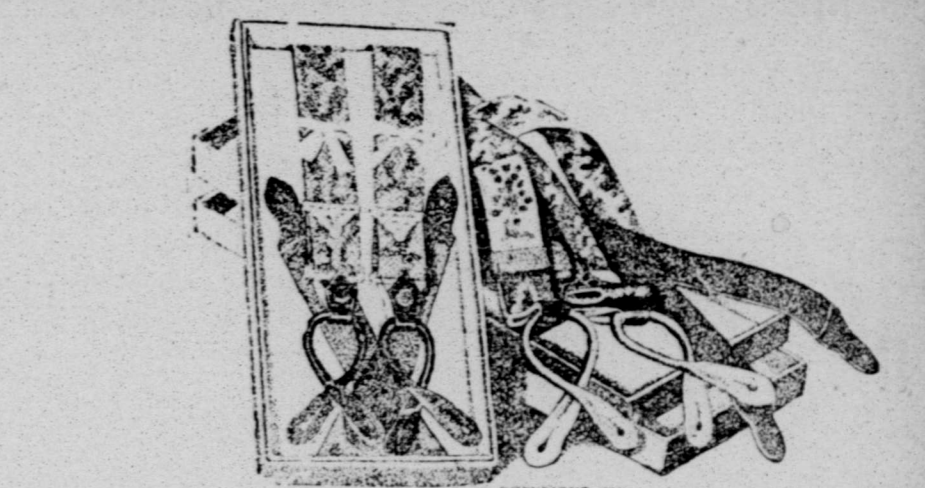

Fort Worth is the former home of Judge Steadman. He was at one time on the district bench here, and while a resident of this city was appointed a member of the Texas railroad commission. He soon tired of that position and resigned. Judge Steadman has not been in good health during the past few months. On account of this he has been given a vacation until Jan. 1 and for weeks he has been out in the woods with dog and gun, seeking the exercise and health which come with the open air. A rumor gained circulation that he would resign his position, but this morning he declared this to be without foundation. His vacation has been interrupted for a time by the meeting of the interstate commerce commission in this city. He has a matter which is involved in the present hearing on which he and Judge Cowan, representing the complainants, have agreed, and it was to get this agreement into the record that he visits Fort Worth at this time. While here he received a warm greeting from his old friends, many of whom speak to him familiarly as "Alex," and in this way his visit is made very pleasant.

"Fort Worth is much improved," he said this morning. "I am more impressed with the improvement along Houston street than in any other section. I can remember that Houston street appeared for awhile to be forgotten, but I see that it is building up in brick now and appears to be a busy thoroughfare. I have always liked Fort Worth, and it is pleasant to visit here, because the associations of former years were so delightful to me."

"I never realized what a good thing the city was doing in maintaining an efficient fire department, until the blaze of yesterday in North Fort Worth," said former Alderman T. E. Murray today. "When I was in the city council I always supported fire department measures, and now I can see the benefit of it. I see it possibly because it comes home to me. I have a large hotel building in North Fort Worth which I have just cleared of indebtedness and it is quite an investment to me, and the efficient work of Chief J. H. Maddox and the department yesterday saved it for me, and while appreciating the work they have done in this matter, I must say that the council has wisely built up this excellent department of the city. It is an expenditure of money which benefits all of the city, and excels, and systematized as it is now it is one of the most valuable municipal assets."

"I confess that I like the proposition of Mayor Powell in regard to the referendum in regard to franchises," said Henry C. Scott, president of the Fort Worth Light and Power company, who is in the city on a business trip. "Most people would think that a corporation would oppose such a measure, but I do not. I am satisfied that when such matters go before the people there is not much danger of it going far wrong."

"How about your franchise," he was asked. "It has ten or twelve years yet to run and we are not discussing it now," he said. "However, if it was to be renewed we could get before the people with it as well as before the council. We are an institution of Fort Worth, and I can hardly think that when a settled concern handling a public utility makes a fair proposition that the people will endorse it if it is submitted to them.
