

MUKDEN NOW IN HANDS OF JAP FORCES

Oyama's Victorious Army Marches Into Ancient Manchurian Capital—Russians Are Panic-stricken

THOUSANDS TAKEN PRISONERS BY JAPS

Pursuit of Retreating Army Continues, Troops Fighting Desperately in a Blinding Storm of Dust

TOKIO, March 10.—The Japanese troops occupied Mukden at 10 o'clock this (Friday) morning.

YINKOW, March 10.—Mukden fell at 10 o'clock this (Friday) morning. The Russians are panic-stricken. Thousands of prisoners and enormous quantities of stores and guns have been captured.

Battle Continues in Storm

TOKIO, March 10, 11 a. m.—The following telegram has been received from the Manchurian army headquarters in the field:

"In the direction of Sing Ching for some days our force has been attacking the enemy, who is making an obstinate resistance in strong positions. Finally in the neighborhood of Tieta our force at 3 o'clock Thursday morning completely dislodged the enemy, whom they are now pursuing.

"Our force in the vicinity of Machunian continues in hot pursuit of the enemy toward Fushun.

"In the direction of the Shakhe and east and south of Mukden we entirely pressed the enemy to the basin of the Hun river.

"We stopped on the left bank, attacking the enemy's strong fortifications west and north of Mukden.

"Our attack against the enemy, who is obstinately resisting, is being pushed vigorously.

"A heavy dust storm obscured the sun Thursday, and as a consequence the darkness precluded seeing any distance."

Tieta Captured by Japs

TOKIO, March 10, 11 a. m.—Reports from Manchurian army headquarters says the Japanese have captured Tieta. The Russians are vigorously holding and defending their fortifications north of the Hun river. A dust storm is interfering with the battle.

Fushun Occupied by Japs

TOKIO, March 10.—Fushun was occupied by the Japanese last night. Fighting continues on the heights north of Fushun.

Casualties Enormous

NEW CHIWANG, March 10.—General Kuroki is advancing northwest and forcing the Russians against General Nogai's army.

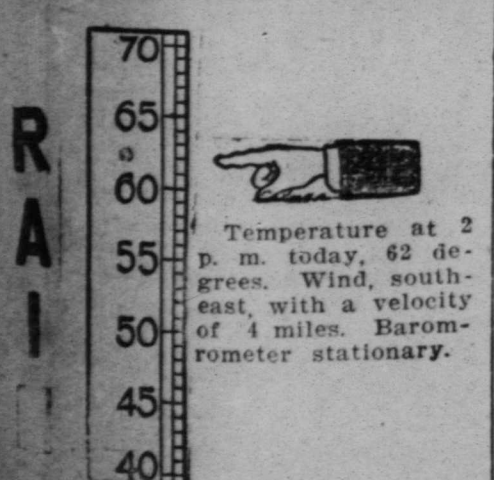

The casualties on both sides have been enormous. The Russian Sixteenth army corps was practically annihilated at Tatchekiao. Eight thousand Russians fell at Liukannpao.

Many Guns Captured

TOKIO, March 10.—It is unofficially reported that the Russian strength west of Mukden consists of two corps. The Japanese who destroyed the railroad are pressing the Russians northward, and a portion of the Japanese center which is pressing the Russians northward along the Mukden road is now engaged six miles north of the Hun river. The extreme Japanese right is within five miles of Fushun.

Nearly all the Russians' heavy guns and many field guns have been captured. The Russians seem to be moving eastward toward Fushun, with the object of retreating north.

JAPS FIRED ON COMRADES TO DECEIVE RUSSIANS

Desperate Ruse to Get Within Enemy's Lines Is Said to Be Without Parallel in World's History

ST. PETERSBURG, March 10, 2:10 p. m.—The extent of the disaster to General Kuropatkin's army is yet unknown here, but most sinister reports receive credence and the public believes Field Marshal Oyama has succeeded in closing his iron ring around at least a large portion of the army.

All hope of Kuropatkin waiting for an opportune moment to strike and convert defeat into victory has been abandoned even by the military critics and the papers in a dolorous strain chronicle the last and worst reverse to Russian arms. The only consolation they find is that the Russian troops have been conquered by a wonderful foe, declaring there is something uncanny about the desperate expedients which the Japanese successfully employed at Dushantun, when during the storm Japanese lines actually faced about apparently firing into their own reserves, deceiving the Russians and backing into the Russian wire entanglements before the ruse was discovered. The history, military men say, does not have a parallel for such desperate fanatical valor. The papers at the same time are filled with recriminations. Russian diplomacy is blamed for not including in the theater of operations the territory west to the Simintin road, which Field Marshal Oyama used to accomplish his bold turning movement. The Russians, however, while admitting Kuropatkin's faults as a strategist, insist that the responsibility should not be shouldered by him alone.

WHARTON TAXES PAID IN FULL

Increased Valuation to Amount of $100,000 by the Board of Equalization Accepted

The A. B. Wharton tax appeal has finally been settled by the payment in full by Mr. Wharton of taxes on personal property to the amount of $121,400, which amount was first rendered by the board of equalization. The taxes on this personal property amount to $2,124.50.

Mr. Wharton rendered his personal property at $21,400, which amount was raised $100,000 by the board of equalization. Mr. Wharton then filed his appeal, in which he set forth that he was not a resident of Fort Worth at the time covered by part of the assessment and that some of the property was non-assessable. No action was taken on the appeal and the matter has finally resulted in the payment of the taxes in accordance with the valuation of the board.

SERIOUS FLOODS IN NEW MEXICO

All Santa Fe Trains West Being Held Indefinitely at Albuquerque

TWO BIG DAMS DESTROYED

Many Stretches of Track Are Washed Away and Bridge Is Threatened

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 10.—All Santa Fe trains for the west are held at this point indefinitely. Heavy rains to the west and south have swollen all streams along the Santa Fe, Pacific and Rio Grande divisions of the Santa Fe and the line is badly crippled. The Big Blue water dam on the Rio San Jose and the Cubero dam on the same stream have gone out and the floods have played havoc with the Santa Fe tracks, which closely parallel that stream for nearly two miles. The huge bridge at Rio Puerto station, where the railroad crosses the Rio Puerto, buttressed with immense stone walls at an enormous cost a year ago, is so badly damaged it is impossible to get trains across it. The track along the Rio Grande near Lajoya, south of this city, near the confluence of the Rio Puerto with the Rio Grande, is badly damaged, large stretches being completely washed away. Five hundred Indians and Mexicans are at Rio Puerto to save the bridge and get the track open for business.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL IS APPROVED

House Advances Measure to a Third Reading—Opinion Divided on Pipe Line Bill

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, March 10.—Almost the entire session of the house yesterday was consumed in debating a committee bill from the senate proposing to require certain public utilities to make annual reports just as is now required by law of railroads.

PIPE LINE BILL

It would appear that the report that all interests had agreed to a compromise pipe line bill, as reported from Beaumont, was an error as to some oil interests, as was evidenced by the following telegram received by Senator Decker yesterday:

"Representative Masterson has a letter giving facts regarding the so-called compromise pipe line bill. No one but the pipe lines approve the multiplicity of purposes. Hang on to your one purpose bill. It has the support of every producer."

Senator Decker asserted that it was his opinion that the senate would not recede from its position in support of the one-purpose bill.

DEBATING FRUIT PESTS

T. V. Munson of Denison, one of the largest nurserymen and fruit growers in Texas, writes Judge J. C. Witcher, his representative in the house, in regard to house bill No. 164, under date of yesterday, as follows: DENISON, Texas, March 4.—Hon. J. C. Witcher, House of Representatives, Austin, Texas.—Sir: I have received a copy of the house bill No. 164, and have carefully examined and considered the same. In my opinion, such legislation is practically useless and a burden without adequate results, because, first, while the honest nurseryman would observe the law, he would also keep his premises and stock free from such diseases without the law, while the dishonest dealer, who usually buys "job lot" goods, irrespective of their character and quality, because he can get them cheap, will be provided with certificates, and apparently obey the law, yet will introduce infested stock, unless the policing of the state should be so thorough at all entry ports and other places to arrest and rigidly inspect all shipments into the state, beside visit, inspect and destroy all infested trees and plants, in all the orchards, private and public grounds and nurseries of the state. Even then the spread of the disease into the state of the San Jose scale, could not be prevented from nearby regions or from places in place in the state from already infested localities, owing to birds carrying the minute insects and eggs on their feet, as is well known, and also their being carried by winds, more or less. Second, it has been demonstrated in France and other countries under the most rigid quarantine laws, that the Phylloxera insect of the grape, which spreads far less rapidly than the San Jose scale and is less difficult to control, that continued to spread from a few isolated points until it overran France entirely, and some other countries in Europe and its destructive effect is now prevented by grafting the non-resistant grapes upon resistant roots. Another example of the failure of the quarantine law against insects is that of the Gypsy moth, a much larger insect, that appeared in a few localities in the east a few years ago, and at once was rigidly quarantined and immense expense put forth to destroy it without avail, and it is now spreading to many regions. Third, we have many other diseases far more serious than the San Jose scale and root knots, such as mildew and black rot, in the grape, pear blight, apple scab, peach borers and many other diseases that might be mentioned of orchard and farm crops, of which there is nothing said in house bill No. 164, and they are as difficult or even more difficult to destroy and prevent than the San Jose scale, yet entering fruit growers and farmers have discovered means at their hands by which they control these pests so as to make a success of their business. Fourth, the fund of $2,000 provided by the bill is totally inadequate to such. I consider that the only adequate, permanent means of control of such pests is by thorough education of the people through bulletins and agricultural press, how to identify and abate the pests. Very respectfully yours, T. V. MUNSON, Nurseryman and Fruit Grower.

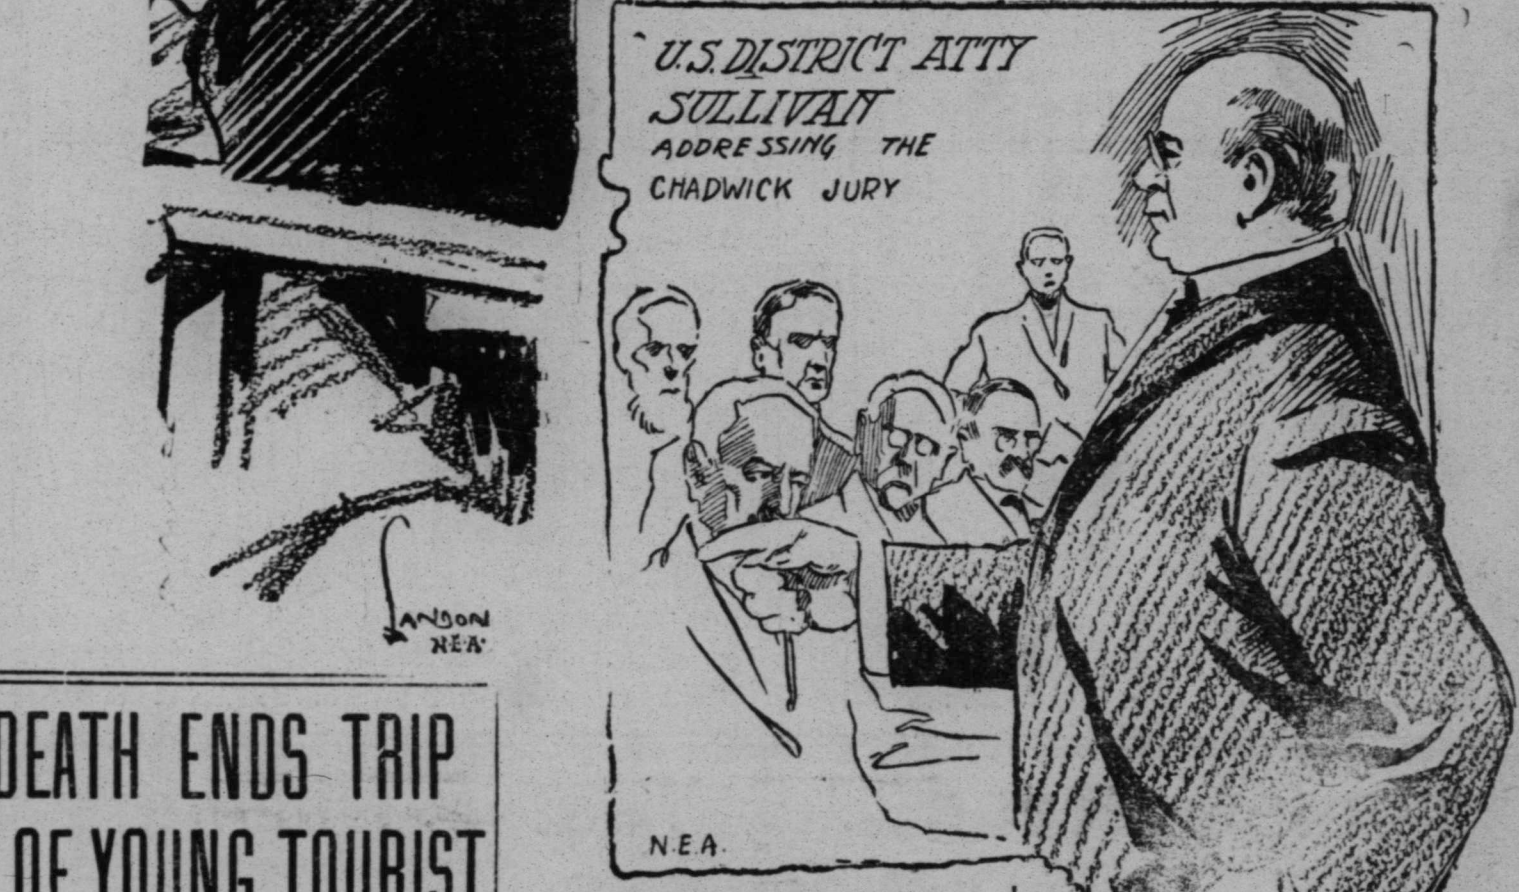

Infant's Body in Well

WAXAHACHE, Texas, March 10.—The body of a white infant, apparently three or four days old, was found in an abandoned well this morning on the farm of J. C. Kimmell a few miles south of Midlothian. The child was not removed from the well until a justice of the peace arrived from May Pearl.

NEW PACKING CO. FORMED

CHICAGO, Ill., March 10.—A new packing concern, which, according to Alderman Milton J. Foreman, its attorney, will invest $1,000,000 or more in the manufacture of dressed beef and kindred products, has been incorporated at Springfield under the name of the Western Packing and Provision Company. Attorney Foreman, Jacob Levin, a lawyer, and Joseph F. Grossman are named as incorporators. The capital stock is placed at $200,000, but this, Alderman Foreman says, is only a beginning.

Attorneys for Prosecution and Defense Agree on Unlimited Arguments After Conference Today

ANDREW CARNEGIE OUT OF THE CASE

Will Not Be Called to Testify and Attendance Fee Is Now Ready—Judge Overrules a Motion to Quash

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 10.—It is probable the Chadwick case will not be given to the jury until some time on Monday. When the court opened this morning Judge Taylor asked the counsel for both sides to indicate the length of time they would require for their arguments. He had no desire, he said, to limit the arguments in any way, but he wished the attorneys to reach an agreement of some kind. After a conference it was agreed that arguments should be practically unlimited.

Andrew Carnegie is now definitely out of the present trial of Mrs. Chadwick. If she should be acquitted this time Mr. Carnegie might appear at a subsequent trial, but as far as the existing case is concerned, his pay is waiting for him and he is at liberty to go home.

United States Marshal Chandler yesterday made out a check for $64.50 to Mr. Carnegie's order, and it is held in the marshal's office pending Mr. Carnegie's call for it. If he does not call it will be mailed to him.

The defense yesterday made a desperate effort to have the case taken from the jury and a verdict of acquittal rendered by the court. After arguments lasting throughout the greater part of the day Judge Taylor just prior to the afternoon adjournment overruled the motion. The defense also attacked two counts of the indictment, and asked that certain parts of the testimony offered by the government be stricken out. An admission from the judge that he did not regard the two counts as "good" was the extent of the satisfaction secured by the defense. The acquittal of the defendant was asked on the ground of the indictment charging her with covering up to commit an offense against the United States, in that she conspired with Beckwith and Spear to certify illegally checks of the Oberlin bank.

It was claimed by the attorneys for the defense that Mrs. Chadwick, not being an officer of the bank, could not certify checks, and that she could not be charged under the law with conspiring to commit an offense in conjunction with others, which she had not the power to commit alone.

In stating his contention to the court, Judge Wing, for the defense, said: "The charge in this case is not certifying checks. It is conspiring to certify checks. A conspiracy between an official of a bank and a person not an official of the bank to certify checks is impossible for the reason that it requires two to conspire, and the person not a bank official, not having the power to certify checks, cannot conspire to certify them."

He claimed also that Mrs. Chadwick could not be punished, even granting the allegation of the state, that the checks had been illegally certified. There was in the United States statutes, according to the speaker, no punishment provided for others than officials of national banks for fraudulently certifying checks, and therefore no other person could be punished for certifying them or of conspiring to certify them.

"Now, let me get at this," said Judge Taylor. "Suppose a married woman conspires with a married man to marry that man to another woman, thus contracting a bigamous marriage. It is impossible for the woman conspiring to marry the other woman. Do you, therefore, claim that she could not be punished for conspiracy to commit bigamy because it was impossible for her to do so?"

and during the year 1903-04, inclusive, they were $3,153,334,292.

In addition to the statement made by Mr. Hemenway on Saturday, he submits additional figures and documents on governmental expenditure. He says:

"Under the operation of the latter statute and the provisions of the sinking fund law the public debt has been reduced since April 31, 1875, at which time it reached its highest point, $2,756,421,571, to $1,280,255,997 at the close of February, 1900, or more than $146,000,000 in excess of the liberal requirements of the sinking fund law.

"During the four fiscal years (1897-96) of President Cleveland's last administration there was applied to the sinking fund only $13,400,047, or an average of little more than $3,000,000 per annum.

"During the eight fiscal years (1897 to 1904) of the administrations of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt the aggregate amount applied to the fund was $237,516,669, or an average of nearly $30,000,000 per annum.

"Another permanent annual appropriation which does not affect the ordinary receipts and expenditures of the government is for the redemption of circulating notes of national banks that are retiring or reducing circulation. These redemptions are made out of deposits of the sum of money acquired by law for that purpose and the estimated amount that will be paid out of these deposits for these redemptions during the fiscal year 1905 is $30,000,000."

"Speaking of the expenditures, Mr. Hemenway said: 'The sum total of these annual appropriations for the support of the government for the fiscal year 1905 is large, and when to it is added the amount of authorized requirements of the sinking fund, which represents material things that we have had, including arms and munitions of war used by our armies in preserving the union, and when there are also added the amount that may be used in redeeming bank notes and the amount carried in miscellaneous accounts, it makes the substantial sum of $181,478,914.

"These figures represent, indeed, a large sum of money, but they likewise represent a great and rich nation of people. The wisdom and honesty of the appropriations is not challenged and they are guaranteed by the presence of Theodore Roosevelt at the head of the government.

"I am advised by those most competent to judge that the deficiency in the revenues of the government for the current fiscal year will not exceed $18,000,000. This deficiency is brought about by unforeseen expenditures in two directions, namely, $12,000,000 on account of new ships for the navy and also in the probable expenditure of $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 for the postal service over the postal receipts for 1905. These excessive expenditures on account of the postal service are largely accountable to the rapid installation of the rural free delivery service throughout the country. It will show an increase of revenues during the next fiscal year."

"Mr. Livingston, after giving various expenditures, says: 'We have, and the country has, a spectacle presented of appropriations made at this session of $181,478,914, with predicted revenues for the ensuing fiscal year of 1905 amounting to only $725,590,535, a deficiency of $42,888,395, a broad enough expanse between the buckle of expenditures and the tongue of revenues to startle the plain and common people who bear the burdens of taxation.

"During the four years 1892-1896 of Mr. Cleveland's last administration, supported by a democratic congress for only two years of that period, the total appropriations for purposes of government amounted to $2,018,343,753.

"During the four years, 1902 to 1906, of republican government under Mr. Roosevelt the appropriations have ranged up to the almost incomprehensible sum of $3,153,334,292, or $1,136,990,538 of increase for the present quadrennial period over that of the last democratic administration, which closed only eight years ago.

"The most general analysis of the appropriations made for each of the two quadrennial periods mentioned brings out with staggering force the criticism against the spirit of militarism that characterizes the latter period.

"Under Mr. Roosevelt for four years, 1903 to 1906, the people have had of their substance appropriated for the army $215,791,961; for the navy $255,574,975; and for fortifications $28,753,456, or a grand total of $700,120,393.

"Under Mr. Cleveland we were called upon an appropriated during the four years, 1893 to 1896, for the army $25,272,632; for the navy $100,330,818, and for fortifications $9,275,592, or a total of only $205,946,342.

"Contrasting with Cleveland's administration the appropriations to that of Mr. Roosevelt, we find that a strenuous government, dominated by the policy of a 'big stick,' costs under Mr. Roosevelt $220,412,329 more for the army, $258,184,157 more for the navy, $147,477,563 more for the fortifications, and $147,477,563 more for the combined military purposes $498,074,059 more than did the same objects under Mr. Cleveland's last four years of office—a sum large enough to erect a public building in every city and town in the country, with no more expense to the harbors and waterways, so necessary for the promotion of our commerce, or it would have been sufficient to construct 200,000 miles of perfect roadways through the whole land.

"The democratic party does not indorse these excessive expenditures for military grandeur and display. And it is confessed that their indulgence has brought about a condition of public treasury that means either increased taxation, or the issue of bonds in order to meet the fixed currency needs of the country. The daily treasury statement shows at this time an excess of $24,000,000 of expenditures over revenues for the current year and if the same ratio of widening the gap between receipts and expenditures continues throughout the year, a total deficit of not less than $36,000,000 is inevitable with the close of the fiscal year."

THE POOR PACKERS

Pity the poor packers! They are in a trust, but it is a benevolent trust. They fix prices on live stock and packing house products, and they observe these prices religiously, but it is all for the sake of the dear people. They exact rebates from the railroads which their competitors cannot secure, but that is merely a way of serving the consumers of meat.

At least Commissioner Garfield, after investigating the packing trust under orders of the president, has "found" these things to be true. He has discovered that the packing companies are not over-capitalized and that they make small profits. He declares that comparisons between the cost of live stock and the cost of meats mean nothing.

The recent inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt as president of the United States is said to have been the most costly and glittering pageant that Washington ever saw. Compare the account of the Roosevelt inauguration with that of Thomas Jefferson, an account of which is as follows: "At his first inauguration Jefferson was escorted from Conrad's boarding house, which still stands on New Jersey avenue, to the steps of the capitol by a battalion of regular soldiers and a battery from Alexandria."

It is fearful to contemplate to what extremities the poor packers of the country might have been reduced had it not been for the Christian act of Commissioner Garfield in calling the attention of the country to the burdens under which they are laboring. The packers are a patient and long-suffering people. For about three years now they have only been making a net profit of $1.50 per head on the cattle they have been killing, according to the official finding of Commissioner Garfield, while the producer has been muleketed out of an average that may safely be placed at $5 per head.

Rev. William Dewitt Hyde, president of Bowdoin college, says that "God is changing His mind all the time about the world because He is a living God and the world is a changing world." If God knows all things, why is it necessary for Him to ever change His mind? The trouble with some of our very learned college men is that they are evidently progressing rapidly to the point where they are about ready to give the Creator a few tips as to the proper manner in which He should run the universe. A little learning has been alleged a dangerous thing, but it appears that much learning is infinitely more dangerous from the fact that it leads us into the paths the angels themselves fear to tread.

Frank S. Monett of Ohio, employed by the people of Kansas as a trust buster, alleges that every railroad doing business in the Sunflower state is a member of a big trust. If Mr. Monett can prove his allegations and bust the combination he will prove to be a man very dear to the Kansas heart. But unfortunately, it is not always as easy to prove things as it is to allege them. Judge Parker made some very sensational allegations with regard to the trust business about the close of the recent democratic national campaign, but those allegations were never backed by more than the word of Judge Parker, and he was an interested party.

Many farmers are now planting cotton, with the idea that early planting will be limited to the interests of the boll weevil. It is reported that in many of the big black land counties the acreage will not be materially reduced. It is reported that Mrs. Carry Nation has changed her domicile from Bleeding Kansas to Oklahoma, and in that case it may be truly said that the loss of Kansas is Oklahoma's gain.

pay such large enforced tribute to the poor packing interests of the country, and during that time the cattle industry has suffered as it has never suffered before. The poor men engaged in the packing business have continued to fix the prices on every hoof of stock sold on the different markets every day in the year, and when a bid is refused on one market and the cattle are shipped to another, the buyers for the packing houses on the other market are promptly advised of the refused bid and govern themselves accordingly. When the shipper arrives at the last market he only finds himself more completely at the mercy of the poor packers than he was before, and there is nothing left for him to do but divide the shipment between the poor packers and railroads and come home with a feeling in his heart for those poor packers that is not taught in the Sunday schools.

That Garfield report has aroused the ire of the cattlemen all over the country. Its unfairness is such that they can't resist it bitterly from the fact that it enables the packers to go under cover and point to the fact that they are just about the most badly maligned people that are doing business on the whole face of the earth today.

The Pittsburg Dispatch says: "The death of the venerable former Senator Reagan of Texas will reopen the question of whether he or Senator Cullom of Illinois was the author of the interstate commerce law, which is now commanding such important supplementary clauses. Mr. Reagan has been described for years by the stereotyped suffix of being the sole survivor of the cabinet of the Confederate States government. He was something more. He was a member of congress and introduced the tentative draft of the interstate commerce bill, which marked a distinct advance in government regulation and elicited wide discussion. When the house had passed it Senator Cullom interposed some amendments. In the foolish heat of partisanship credit was ascribed to him for the bill. It is always difficult to discover the precise authorship of beneficial laws. The inspiration may be found anywhere; the transient chairman of a committee receives the laurel crown. Inspection of the annals of congress at the time carries the credit to Judge Reagan for the respects in which the act was positive and characteristic." Coming from a republican paper, the credit given Judge Reagan for what he has done for the entire country is quite graceful and will be appreciated by all friends of the Old Roman.

The measure introduced in the state legislature which sought to increase the salaries of the judiciary has been killed, and a valuable service was rendered the state when that was accomplished. When the problem of raising sufficient money to meet existing expenses has to be disposed of it is very unseemly to seek to add to the difficulties of the situation. True, and yet that of our district judges do more work for less pay in proportion than most any other class of public officers.—Bonham News.

All of which may be very true, but as a matter of fact no district judge is sentenced under a state statute to perform this work for life. He offers himself a voluntary sacrifice upon the altar of his country with a comprehensive knowledge of what such action involves. He has expressed a willingness to do the work for the prevailing salary and there has been no promise, either specific or implied, that there will be any additional emoluments. There is not a district judgeship in Texas that cannot be ably filled within ten minutes after the resignation of any of the present incumbents.

Williamson county is now shipping a few hogs to Fort Worth to market. The packeries there want 500,000 more Texas hogs and will buy a fat hog any day whether he has been fed on corn, alfalfa, corn or slop. The packeries do not wait for northerners to buy and kill hogs.—Georgetown Commercial.

There is always a ready market and ready cash in Fort Worth for every hog that can possibly be produced in Texas. This may appear somewhat hogish on Fort Worth's part, but Fort Worth has big packing plants that must be operated regularly in order to earn money on the investment. These packing plants are continually clamoring for more hogs and have to go outside the state to get them. Texas people are making a great mistake in not producing more hogs and better hogs.

The reports of parents taking up the quarrels of their children with the children of a neighbor, and fatal results following are so frequent that it appears some men are not possessed of the wisdom that is supposed to be gained with years. It is well for a parent to be always watching and ready to protect his children, but it is hard to suppose a case where trouble between little fellows reaches the importance of being participated in by grown people.—San Antonio Express.

Every crow is alleged to be of the firm opinion that its offspring is the lightest colored, and every parent is of the opinion that his child is the most perfect. It is easy to see the faults and failures of other men's children, but too many of us are wedded to the belief that our own can do no wrong. The fact that it is our own child covers a multitude of sins and we impute perfection where there is much rascality. It is a pretty safe proposition that all children are more or less bad and before taking up the cudgels in behalf of our own we should calmly investigate and go about the proceedings in decency and good order. There is no sense in grown people falling out and resorting to hostilities over childish rows.

An elderly man who appeared as a witness in a London court could not tell the name of the street in which he lived or the number of the house. When the judge expressed surprise the witness said, "I didn't know there was any need to know, as long as I could find my way home."

Cleanings From the Exchanges

June 3 has been made a legal holiday by the state legislature in honor of Jefferson Davis' birthday. In our opinion legal holidays are getting entirely too numerous. The masses of the people can't afford to lose business on such days. If they expect to make a living and it is getting to the point already that a person must carry a list of legal holidays around in his pocket and look at them every few days in order to know which is his day off, it is time to stop. We would like the very much to celebrate Jefferson Davis' birthday, because we feel that he was a martyr to what he felt was a just cause. Yet when we notice from time to time how many of our men pay no attention to the numerous legal holidays we feel constrained to speak our honest convictions on the subject, especially when we consider that the Lord has given us a day of rest which is not always observed as it should be.—Gilmer Echo.

There is no doubt but that the legal holiday business has already been carried to excess, and if the lick is kept up much longer it will soon be necessary to lengthen the years in order that all occasions may be remembered. At present 955 days constitute the limit, and some event or birthday can already be found to fit every one of them.

Texas can never enforce its criminal laws, minimize crime or protect communities in their right to self-government so long as the criminal court of appeals is composed of the present judges. A majority of the judges of that court have never received a case with the idea of dealing out justice from either a common-sense or legal standpoint, but with the view of constraining language or invoking far-fetched technicalities which will nullify laws or permit a criminal to escape. Certainly the great majority of the people of Texas are cognizant of conditions as they exist and yet they re-elect these same judges every time they are renominated by lawyers who lack the moral courage to oppose them in convention, for fear the candidate will take vengeance when his official life is prolonged.—Beaumont Journal.

The Texas court of criminal appeals can make no law, and it is not to blame that numerous cases are reversed on technicalities and errors originating in the lower courts. The court of last resort has to deal with these cases from an entirely disinterested standpoint, and by so doing often invokes the wrath of those who are more partisan.

The measure introduced in the state legislature which sought to increase the salaries of the judiciary has been killed, and a valuable service was rendered the state when that was accomplished. When the problem of raising sufficient money to meet existing expenses has to be disposed of it is very unseemly to seek to add to the difficulties of the situation.—Fort Worth Telegram.

A LEGACY of HATE

By LOUIS TRACY Copyright, 1904, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

SYNOPSIS. After a quarrel with his cousin David, Sir Alan Hume-Frazier is found murdered at Beecheroff Hall, near Stowmarket. Acquitted of the charge of murder, David requests Reginald Brett, lawyer-detective, to find the real murderer. They visit Beecheroff, now occupied by the late baronet's sister, Margaret, and her Italian husband, Signor Capella. Capella accuses his lover Helen Layton, David's former mistress, of the murder. Under her father's aid and later meets Helen, declares his love and attempts to marry her. David appears and soundly thrashes him. Brett learns that Capella is familiar with Japanese weapons, like the one used to kill Sir Alan. Winter, a Scotland Yard detective, finds a man who saw the real murderer of Sir Alan and shows Brett a typewritten note supposed to have been written by the guilty person. Capella leaves suddenly on a secret mission to Naples, followed by Holden, one of Brett's men. Mr. Jiro, a Japanese, who knows more than he tells, is asked to translate an inscription on the weapon used by Sir Alan's slayer.

Brett drew a long breath. So this was Margaret's secret and Capella's vengeance! He was aroused, as from a dream by Mr. Holden's steady voice. "Mr. Beecheroff always held that the Signorina di Orvieto was his true wife, for their marriage was only prevented by a most uncalculated and unnatural threat of incurring her father's dying curse if she dared to wed a Protestant. Eighteen months after her death he married Miss Somers at the British consulate, and revealed his real name and rank—Sir Alan Hume-Frazier, baronet, of Beecheroff, near Stowmarket, England. His lady adopted the infant girl as her own, and local gossip had it that this was a part of the marriage contract, whilst the ceremony took place at an early date to give color to the kindly pretense. The pair lived in a distant suburb, at Danzelle here (another church fixed the spot), and in twelve months a boy was born, birth registered locally and in the British consulate. After four more years' residence in Naples, Sir Alan and Lady Hume-Frazier left Italy with their two children. Mr. Capella found two of their old servants, Guseppe Conti and Lola Rintesan, and five had to die by violent means. Who arranged that?" "Neither you nor I can tell." "That's right, sir. I know that Mr. David or Mr. Robert never lifted a hand against their cousin, yet, unless the Lord blinded my eyes, I saw one or other in the avenue when I tried to lift Sir Alan from the ground." "You said nothing at this time?" "Would you have me speak of wraths to a Suffolk jury, Mr. Brett? I saw no mortal man. 'Twas a ghastly for sure, and if I had gone into the box to talk of such things that day had discredited my evidence against Mr. David. I might have hanged him instead of savin' him."

"Suppose I tell you that the man you saw was no ghost, but real flesh and blood, a Japanese descendant of the David Hume who fought and killed the first Sir Alan in 1763, what would you say?" "I would say, sir, that it had to be, were it ever so strange."

"Have you ever in gossip about family records heard anything of the fate of the David Hume I have just mentioned?" "Only this, sir. My people have lived on the Highland estate longer than any Hume-Frazier of them all. My father remembered his grandfather saying that a man who was in India with Clive met Mr. Hume in Calcutta. There was fighting apace, the French, an' Mr. Hume would neither strike a blow for King George nor draw a sword for the French, so he sailed away to the east in a Dutch ship, and he was never heard of afterwards."

This was a most important confirmation of the theory evolved by the lawyer. For the rest, Fergusson's reminiscences were useless. (To be Continued.)

FEMALE TROUBLES

New York's Most Successful Specialist in Woman's Diseases Says: "Nearly Every Case of So-Called Female Weakness and Painful Periods Is Due to Kidney or Bladder Disease of Some Form."

Not exactly sick. Just dull, listless, without energy, hope or ambition. Can't go about your work with the old-time vim and spirit. Easily tired. Your rest is disturbed, digestion poor. Have headaches now and again, and pains in back and loins. If a woman, your monthly visits are painful, delayed or suppressed, and you have other female ills. Sometimes you even faint. It's hard to go up stairs. You don't understand your condition, nor realize your danger. The plain, simple truth is that

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Mrs. D. Morrow, Secretary Numismatic Society, London, Ont., Canada, writes: "Gentlemen—Two years ago I began to gradually lose my health. I became nervous and hysterical. I lost my appetite and it seemed impossible for me to obtain a good night's rest. I lost flesh, became emaciated, hollow eyed and suffered with frequent heart palpitations. My complexion became sallow and muddy, and I had a haggard expression. I felt as though life had lost its charm and I did not care to live. Warner's Safe Cure changed all this. It came as a blessing to my home. I felt better as soon as I started to use it, and within a month I was like another woman. New life, health and vigor returned to me, and a new light and happiness came to my life. Your medicine did all this for me, and is certainly worthy of great praise."

Thousands of men and women have kidney disease and don't know it. You can tell by letting a little morning urine stand in a tumbler 24 hours. If it becomes cloudy, has a reddish-brown sediment, or particles float about in it, your kidneys are affected and you haven't a minute to lose. Get a bottle of Warner's Safe Cure at the nearest drugist's, and begin taking it as directed. It will cure you, and it's the only medicine that will not injure your system. 50c. and $1.00 a bottle at all drugists. If after making this test you have any doubt as to the development of so-called kidney cures that contain narcotics. They injure the tissues and do not cure. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free. Warner's Safe Cure Co., Rochester, N. Y. WARNER'S SAFE PILLS move the bowels gently and aid a speedy cure.

Backache, "The Blues"

Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief

How often do we hear women say: "It seems as though my back would break," or "Don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts?" These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention. Backache and "the blues" are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some uterine derangement. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the ablest specialists agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for woman's ills known to medicine.

The following letters from Mrs. J. C. Holmes and Mrs. Emma Cotrely are among the many thousands which Mrs. Pinkham has received this year from those whom she has relieved. Surely such testimony is convincing. Mrs. J. C. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I have suffered everything with backache and womb trouble—I let the trouble run on until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to be about, and then it was commenced to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved, I should have taken it months sooner—for a few weeks' treatment made me well and strong. My backaches and headaches are gone and I suffer no pain at my menstrual periods, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain."

Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 109 East 12th Street, New York City, writes: Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills are dead, and five had to die by violent means. Who arranged that?" "Neither you nor I can tell."

"RUDOLPH AND ADOLPH"
The making of a farce that will arouse interest from the rise of the curtain and compel laughs until it falls is no simple task. A few seasons ago Broadhurst and Currie launched the musical farce, "Rudolph and Adolph," on the theatrical scene, and at once it scored a success. Since then, however, the show has been pruned, enlarged and otherwise improved until now it ranks as one of the most popular theatrical pieces touring the country and local theater goes it has an opportunity to see it at its best on Monday, matinee and night, March 13, at Greenwall's opera house. Its story concerns the actions, adventures and mishaps of two uniquely droll Germans, who become chief actors in a case of mistaken identity. The plot of the piece is rapid and takes them into the utmost grotesquely funny plights. The characters are all drawn with a view to their mirth-provoking proclivities and laughter is constantly on tap. Interspersed through the farce are some of the newest and best songs, dances and cleverest specialties.

"A TRIP TO EGYPT"
The many lovers of musical comedy in this city will have an opportunity to see the first production of the latest and best show of the kind at Greenwall's opera house Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Wednesday matinee, March 14 and 15. The Shea Amusement Company, which has the reputation of sparing neither case nor efforts to make its companies and plays the best in America, will present the novel fantasy, entitled "A Trip to Egypt," by C. Herbert Kerr, author of the great success of last season, "The Beauty Doctor," "Papa's Baby," and other popular priced musical plays. This will be the entire original production and with every member of the original cast of forty people as given and booked for all the largest cities and produced under the personal direction of the author.

ELECTRIC PUMPS ADOPTED

Dynamos For Extra Water Supply Will Also Furnish Lighting Power For City Park

The water works department has decided to use electrical power to operate the pumps at the experimental wells west of the city. To this end special dynamos will be installed at the water works and the power transmitted by a wire line to the motors installed at the wells.

An one hundred and fifty horse power dynamo, which will generate an alternating current of 2,300 volts, has already been ordered as well as poles for the line. At the water works a special engine will be put in.

If the plan proves successful it is proposed to install additional dynamos and motors for the operation of other wells which will be put down. In addition to this electric lights will be put in the city park and operated by the same power.

ENDORSE STAND OF PRESIDENT

Texas Lawmakers Hope Beef Trust Investigation Will Aid Government

AUSTIN, Texas, March 10.—For the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment of the present house of representatives on the subject of President Roosevelt's attitude toward the beef trust and the probable result of the efforts of the joint committee of the house and senate appointed to make investigation as to the monopoly in Texas, a Telegram reporter interviewed a number of the members of the house yesterday, who expressed themselves briefly as follows:

W. O. Murray of Wilson County—I hope the committee will discover facts enough in its investigation to make a strong report to the two houses that will enable the people of Texas to eradicate this great evil from the land. I approve of the stand President Roosevelt has taken in regard to this monopoly.

W. B. Ware of Donley County—I favor taking all the steps possible to unearth this great combine in Texas. The decline in the price of cattle is owing to its manipulation of the market, and the crushing in the price of fresh meat is owing to the same cause. I endorse the action of the president in the stand he has taken against the trust.

G. S. Gray, San Saba County—I hope the committee will find facts sufficient to enable the proper authorities to smoke this trust out of Texas if it is operating here. I am in sympathy with the president in his efforts in this direction and think it will result in good. To make the effort entirely successful the state and Federal authorities will have to co-operate.

C. F. Greenwood of Hill County—I hope the investigations of the committee will lead to the discovery of facts locating this enormous and grinding trust in Texas. In fact it does exist here, and crushing it to pieces is what we need, and may be some time crushing our cattlemen. The step is in the right direction, and I trust the objects sought to be attained will be successful.

F. D. Love of Williamson County—It is a known fact without much evidence, as many things are known, that the beef trust is operating in this state, and I most sincerely wish the joint committee may succeed in bringing these facts to light, that this enormous and grinding monopoly may be suppressed.

R. D. Thompson of Hunt—I understand this joint committee is in possession of some facts justifying the conclusion that the beef trust is operating in Texas and that they will discover others and that money will be placed in the hands of the attorney general to prosecute it to the limit of the law. Steps should be taken without delay to resist the formation and development of this oppressive trust. Influence in Texas. Delay in our opposition only strengthens the grip of this mighty monster, and lessens the power of the people to resist and dislodge it.

R. E. Carswell of Wise—I know something of the purpose of the committee in a general way, and of the beef trust as a general proposition, but nothing definite. I hope, however, the disclosure of the committee will be helpful to the stock interest and people of the state, and result in the expulsion and suppression of this octopus in and from this state.

J. F. Onlon of Bexar—There seems to be no doubt but that the beef trust is operating in Texas, and controlling the price of cattle on feet and fresh meat; but up to this time it is one of those strong suppositions that has not been legally demonstrated. I hope the work of this joint committee will unearth facts that will enable us to make this legal demonstration and suppress this gigantic and oppressive monopoly. If we can, then in that case we can build home industries to a far better advantage.

HOG RAISING POPULAR

President Tom Frazier of the Swine Raisers' Association of Texas was in Fort Worth Thursday with a load of red Duroc-Jersey hogs, to the raising of which he confines his efforts. Interest in hog raising is booming all over the state, he declares, especially in East Texas, where fine stock is being largely introduced. Mr. Frazier has been lecturing along the line of the Cotton Belt and International and Great Northern. In the lot brought to this city he had a 4-year-old sow from which an average of forty-five pigs per year has been raised.

GOOD BLOOD TELLS ITS OWN STORY

And tells it eloquently in the bright eye, the supple, elastic movement, the smooth, soft skin, glowing with health, a body sound and well, an active brain, good appetite and digestion, refreshing sleep, energy to perform the duties and capacity to enjoy the pleasures of life. The blood is the most vital part of the body; every organ, muscle, tissue, nerve, sinew and bone is dependent on it for nourishment and strength, and as it circulates through the system, pure and strong, it furnishes to these different parts all the healthful qualities nature intended. When, from any cause, the blood becomes impure or diseased, it tells a different story, quite as forceful in its way. Itching, burning skin diseases, muddy, sallow complexions, disfiguring sores, boils, carbuncles, etc., show the presence, in the blood, of some foreign matter or poison. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Contagious Blood Poison and Scrofula, are effects of a deeply poisoned blood circulation. These may either be inherited or acquired, but the seat of trouble is the same—the blood. S. S. S., a purely vegetable blood remedy, cleanses and purifies the circulation and makes it strong and clean. Under its purifying and tonic effects all poisons and impurities are expelled from the blood, the general health is built up, all disfiguring eruptions and blemishes disappear, the skin becomes soft and smooth and robust health blesses life. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison and all diseases of the blood are cured by S. S. S. TO ENTERTAIN CONVENTION

New Program Committee Appointed to Secure Attractions for Annual Smoker

At a meeting of the entertainment committee of the Cattle Raisers' convention, which was held in the Board of Trade rooms Thursday afternoon, it was decided to secure the Childress hall, corner Fourth and Houston streets, for the purpose of holding the cattlemen's smoker on the second night of the convention. The committee recommended either the Eagles hall or the hall named, but owing to the fact that it is doubtful whether the Eagles hall can be secured it is decided to rent the one first named. The smoker will be given on the evening of March 22.

In regard to the vaudeville entertainment for the smoker the committee appointed Wednesday afternoon for this purpose declined to act and another committee, comprising John King, James O'Dowd, Dr. J. L. Frazier, Jacob Washer and J.

AMUSEMENTS

A clean, wholesome play is "Cousin Kate," full of bright wit and keen observations of men and women. Woven into these observations is a sweet, tender love story that ends with the "happy ever after."

Cousin Kate is a strong, independent woman of 29, writing and practicing individuality apart from love and matrimony. A chance meeting on the train with a congenial fellow traveler sets her to thinking that maybe there are other things worth while. Full of this new sentiment she advises, with great success, her young relative to send for the author she does not love and that has been sent away. The Young Relative does this. Developments bring to light that the suitor is Cousin Kate's fellow traveler. It does not take long to straighten out the complications. The Young Relative confesses to a heart sentiment for Another, and the Fellow Traveler makes a successful appeal to Cousin Kate and "all ends well."

The play is such a one as brings relief after tragedy or over-much musical comedy. It is restful and entertaining, the kind to brighten after a day of hard work or worry.

COOPER'S MOVING PICTURES

Cooper's Motion Pictures comes to Greenwall's opera house tonight and tomorrow matinee and night. The Cedar Falls Gazette said:

An audience that filled every seat in the downstairs portion of the Packards opera house theater witnessed and applauded the moving pictures and vaudeville specialties last evening. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Cedar Falls fire department and will be repeated this evening. Every one was curious to see the reproduction of the great run in this city several weeks ago and there was much applause when the great film depicting the life of a fireman began to throw the life-size pictures on the screen. Starting with the call at night the men leaping from their beds, and the harnessing of the horses, the series presented thrilling runs in a score or more cities and following the runs came scenes at the burning buildings—rescues and leaps for life, concluding with the maneuvering of a fire boat near the Anchor Line docks in New York. The run and showing of the Cedar Falls department compared very favorably with those of the larger cities and the pictures were very distinct.

There were numerous other pictures, including humorous scenes and moving panoramas, that delighted the spectators. The dedication of the St. Louis Exposition with the great parade was one of the most interesting and instructive. John Murphy's songs and dialect stories, Miss Ray Herbert's song and dance ap-

ENGLAND ON THE EVE OF MOMENTOUS ELECTION

Balfour Will Soon Be Forced From Power, New Parliament Chosen, and Liberals Put in Control of Government Machinery

BY JOHN VANDERCOOK. LONDON, March 10.—For the last 15 months everyone in England has from day to day expected to see the cabinet resign and the liberals step into power.

ARTHUR J. BALFOUR.

Since then he has never been given more than a day's grace by the prophets, but has held on in spite of everything.

When the last election was held, near the end of the Boer war, the conservatives secured a majority of 150 over both liberals and Irish nationalists.

Under the English constitution, parliaments may continue for seven years, or they may be dissolved at any time and a new election ordered.

Under the English constitution, parliaments may continue for seven years, or they may be dissolved at any time and a new election ordered.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN.

full seven years, his majority would gradually dwindle until it disappeared altogether.

AN EASY WAY

To Keep Well. It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare.

Professor Wilechows gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one."

My physician first advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestive, peptone and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, all sized packages at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a 50-cent package will often do $50 worth of good.

The real purpose of his holding on has been to enable Joseph Chamberlain to convert the country from free trade to protection. Balfour has adopted a neutral attitude, so as to hold the support of conservative free traders as well as the new protectionists, and keep the chair warm for Chamberlain, who in the event of a protection victory would be the next prime minister.

But Chamberlain's campaign has up to date been a miserable failure. He made the great mistake of not sticking to the ideas or theories of American protectionists, that protection should be for manufacturers and for the workingman.

Every one being sure that the liberals will win, all are interested in the real purpose of his holding on.

H. CAMPBELL BANNERMAN.

who the liberals are: The nominal leader of the party is Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman. He is a quiet, plodding Scotchman, who never does or says anything the least bit brilliant, or is ever able to get a spontaneous cheer out of a crowd.

The most likely candidate at this time for the liberal premiership is Lord Spencer. He is a strikingly handsome man of genial manners, and has done good party work in the upper house, where there are scarcely a baker's dozen of liberals out of a membership of 400.

LORD SPENCER.

of these liberal peers attend to their duties, while very few of the Tory peers attend to theirs, the liberals make a fair showing.

Lord Spencer, however, is an old man, and his political ideas are those of Gladstonian liberals, long before Chamberlain appeared on the scene with his protection schemes.

The strongest fighter in the liberal ranks is Lloyd George, the leader of the Welsh contingent in parliament.

LLOYD GEORGE.

quent, and is said to be the only man in England who can make Chamberlain squirm. Whenever he speaks in public he is received with tremendous enthusiasm.

THE SHADOWED LIVELY

Why Blondes Are Rapidly Disappearing, and Brunettes Taking Their Place on Earth

At a recent meeting of the Anthropological Society of London, England, Dr. Shrubsole brought forward some very remarkable statistics, showing that the blond type of woman is rapidly going out of existence and the brunette type taking its place.

This is even more noticeable in America than in England, and more in the south than in the north. In this country, the change from blonde to brunette can even be noticed in blonde women who immigrated here in early life, and nearly always in their children; a delicate shadow, seeming to be drawn over the complexion, deepening from year to year.

The extinction of the blond type of beauty, according to Mr. Henry Balfour is principally due to the fact that blondes are much more subject to the diseases of early childhood, such as measles, diphtheria, scarlet fever, etc.

On the other hand, it is a fact, proved by the thousands of letters received daily by the Ladies' Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., (Proprietors of "Wine of Cardui" for female complaints), that a much larger number of brunettes than of blondes suffer from disordered functions of womanhood; such as menstrual irregularities, pain, suppression, flooding, falling of the womb, ovaritis, abnormal discharge, inflammation, displacement, miscarriage, barrenness, nervousness, headache, backache, etc.

In view of the statistical facts, two vital questions suggest themselves to the thinking mind: Are blondes born to suffer? Are brunettes born to suffer?

Science is trying to negate the first question by the treatment of germ diseases with the new anti-toxins. The second has already been solved by Wine of Cardui—woman's own tonic, if you could read through, from beginning to end, the vast correspondence with women of every age and condition of life, which is handled by that great institution, the Ladies' Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., you would begin to appreciate the great value of the institution to sick women.

Pitiful tales of suffering and distress, describing years of pain and illness, praying for help, after physicians and medicines had failed.

Answers to these, containing free medical advice, and simple instructions how to successfully treat these dreadful diseases in the privacy of their own homes.

Letters received later from these same women, who had been restored to health, through following these directions and by the use of Wine of Cardui, giving thanks that such a medicine for suffering women had been brought to their notice.

If you could read these letters, you would surely be convinced that Wine of Cardui is what you need, today, for your female pain, weakness or sickness, and would waste no more precious days or hours, but get a bottle at once, at your druggist's, and begin to take this wonderful home treatment for all sick and suffering women.

In doubt, write us freely, describing every symptom of your trouble, whatever it is, and we will do all we can for you. All letters kept confidentially secret and replies sent in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Ladies' Advisory Department, Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

thiasm. There is nothing so about him or his views. He was arrested at a time when to be one meant to have stones thrown at you in the streets. He has bitterly opposed the government education measures and in Wales led a movement to protest by non-payment of taxes. The rank and file would be delighted to see him prime minister, but the old hands in the liberal party would be afraid of him because of his youth and radical views.

A perhaps more possible man is Winston Churchill, who is now older than the younger Pitt was when he was prime minister, during the Napoleonic war. Up to recently he has been a conservative, though a staunch free trader. When Chamberlain came out for protection he opposed him, and when Balfour wavered and leaned in the Chamberlain direction, Churchill bolted his party.

Many conservative free traders have followed him, and it might be that he could succeed at the head of a coalition free trade cabinet. Churchill's father, Lord Randolph Churchill, was one of the most brilliant and meteoric figures of modern England. He was called "the daring of democracy" and there seemed nothing to prevent his ruling the British empire. Suddenly, as every one remembers, he abandoned his parliamentary career, retired from public life and shortly died. His son has inherited many of his father's qualities. He is said also to possess common sense and persistence, which he inherited from his American mother. Winston Churchill is also something of an advertiser, which may likewise be an American trait. One of his friends recently said of him: "Winston advertises himself as simply and unconsciously as he breathes." When he went to the Boer war as a newspaper correspondent he promptly was captured, and a few days later figured in a spectacular escape. He has been doing something spectacular ever since. To become prime minister before he is 35 would be more sensational than other events of his career, though very much in the same line.

The new parliament will probably be elected in March, and if the liberals can secure a clear majority over both Irish and conservatives, they will have plain sailing for at least a few months. Should they not have this clear majority, and be obliged to depend upon the Irish nationalists, there will be a three-ring circus, with John Redmond as ringmaster. Redmond is the most powerful parliamentary free lance the old halls of Westminster have seen in many a day.

LEGISLATURE TO ADJOURN APRIL 1?

Cottrell Resolution Likely to Carry Despite Spirited Debate in House

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 10.—The house today indulged in a spirited debate over the resolution of Representative Cottrell introduced some time ago, which was called up, providing for a sine die adjournment of the legislature on April 1. Speaker Seabury appealed to the house not to fix a date for adjournment, as it would result disastrously to many important measures of a general nature now pending. Representative Terrell of Travis favored the adjournment of the legislature, as he said it was long enough to be in session.

After considerable debate, a motion to table the resolution was defeated by a vote of 52 to 44. It is likely the resolution will be adopted.

A resolution was adopted in the house providing that the house meet at night to consider local bills.

The senate passed to engrossment a bill today to legalize the dissection of unclaimed human bodies for the advancement of medical science.

This body also passed a bill permitting members of the University of Texas to practice law without further examination.
