

Colds

A cold is always the result of undue exposure to low temperatures. The rapid cooling of the surface, when not balanced by proper reaction, produces the congestion and inflammation of the nasal and bronchial membranes, commonly called a cold. As the slightest cold predisposes the individual to attacks of the most severe and dangerous character, the necessity for its quick cure need not be emphasized. Take as soon as the first indication of the cold appears and all dangerous results will be avoided. It not only cures a cold quickly but counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. This fact has been fully proven during the epidemics of colds and grip of the past few years. No case of either of these diseases having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, has ever been reported to the manufacturers or come to their notice, which shows conclusively that it is not only the best and quickest-cure for a cold, but a certain preventive of that dangerous disease—pneumonia.

There is no danger in giving this remedy to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug. It is pleasant to take.

BUSINESS PROMOTION ADOPTION OF FACTORY CLUB PLAN SUGGESTED

Bankers and Others Declare Proper Keynote to Growth Has Been Struck

OFFERS OF MEMBERSHIP

Publication in The Telegram Friday of the suggested formation of a factory club has met with approval all over the city and citizens are expressing themselves favorably on the proposition.

Among some of the expressions made are the following: "We have been waiting for a plan like this for some time," says W. L. Patterson, superintendent of Bradstreet's Company, said, in addressing Dr. J. L. Cooper, regarding the matter: "I read in The Telegram with much interest your idea of the organization of a 'Citizens' Factory Club,' and wish here to state that you have struck the keynote. I heartily endorse your views and to begin the roll of membership put me down as a member. This is the thing Fort Worth needs, and needs badly. We are a city growing in population rapidly, but to make a business city of Fort Worth we must have factories and small ones along with the big ones. You have my co-operation in this matter."

J. W. Spencer, president of the Farmers and Mechanics National bank, said: "It's a fine idea and I want to see it succeed. You can put me down as favoring the proposition. I will take $100 worth of stock to start with." Hon. S. H. Fry, member of the state penitentiary board, said: "Capital idea. It would be a good thing and will succeed, I am sure. Look at the many enterprises that have started in Fort Worth on small capital. They have all grown to large institutions, and paying ones at that."

A. N. Evans, real estate dealer, said: "I heartily endorse the movement and hope that it will succeed. I heartily endorse the suggestions of Dr. Cooper and believe that they are the bottom of making Fort Worth a great manufacturing center. Start these enterprises in a small way and they will grow to large proportions."

E. Addington, representing the Boyles' Wholesale Commission Company, when seen, said today: "The establishment of small manufacturing enterprises will do more to build up a city than any one thing that I know of and the move is in the right direction and should succeed. It will build up Fort Worth a great city, and it can be done with little effort by following out the plans suggested in The Telegram article. This work can be carried on in conjunction with the industrial efforts of the different railroads who will gladly assist any manufacturing enterprise that may be undertaken by such a club. I hope to see it succeed."

W. R. Booth, attorney, also approves of the plan as suggested by Dr. Cooper. He says he will gladly aid the enterprise in any way that lies within his power.

James Harrison, cashier of the State National bank, is another prominent business man who is inclined to believe that the plan is a good one for Fort Worth.

CATTLE TRADING ACTIVE Stockmen in Vicinity of El Paso Have Made Many Sales Since Fort Worth Convention

EL PASO, Texas, April 1.—Returning from the convention at Fort Worth, the cattlemen have begun to get busy. A number of sales have been announced, and others are fast ripening. Some of the transfers of stock have been at notably satisfactory prices. The general feeling among the cowmen of this district appears to be encouraging in the extreme.

Field Bohart of St. Joe passed through the city this week, and immediately he had closed a deal with George Meadley for 1,500 yearlings from his plateau pasture at $11. The contract was for May delivery.

A. W. Wilson of Deming returned from the convention and immediately contracted for several bunches of ones and twos at $11 and $15. The cattle are to be turned over by a number of different stockmen.

T. J. Eaman of Kansas City came to El Paso from Alpine, where he looked over a number of bunches of cattle, chiefly two-year-olds steers, but he did not close any contracts.

Colonel Sheaf of Watertown, S. D., spent several days at the Riverside ranch at the close of the convention, and it is generally understood that he has closed a deal for all the cattle on that ranch from the two-year-olds upward, about 5,000 head in all.

Oscar Slavins and P. Nation, his partner, were in the city from Hutchinson, Kan., attending court.

Creswell, the Phoenix, Ariz., cattleman, is in the city to buy three-year-old steers to fatten on alfalfa near Phoenix.

By all odds the best sale closed in this section this season was that of Kingsbury of Colorado, who contracted for 3,000 two-year-old steers on board the cars at El Paso for $16. Considering the quality of the stock and the terms named this ranks as the star deal recorded up to this time. The contract was made with the Coronado Cattle Company.

A. B. Urmonst shipped two carloads of fat cattle to Kansas City for slaughter, from the bunch of stock which is being fed at the local stock yards.

Fifteen cars of cattle from the William Conner of San Marcos for the Mard Packing Company of Los Angeles and twenty-two cars from W. E. Dysart of Sweetwater for Cudahy at Los Angeles, passed through the city one day this week.

Five cars of fat cattle from the range were shipped through the city from Hammond, Texas, to Baylor Shannon, at Clifton, Ariz.

From Marathon, Texas, S. J. Hunt shipped a trainload of cattle through El Paso to Booneville, Mo. Dr. Mauldin, local government inspector, looked over the cattle before they were moved.

Henry Burns shipped 500 sheep through El Paso to C. Muhl of New Orleans, from Longfellow, Texas, completing a contract for 7,000 head of sheep. J. H. Nations of this city shipped a number of sheep from his ranch to J. W. King, Denver, Ariz. Dr. Mauldin, local government inspector, spent a day in Nogales, Ariz., investigating an alleged instance of smuggling a number of burros and other animals across the Mexican border. The burros were seized by the customs officers.

As the loco weed is a stranger to this section, William Coe of Alamogordo, N. M., is puzzling his head to account for an illness which has seized many of the cattle on his range. If the condition persists he has announced that he will ask for an investigation by experts. That the illness is caused by some poisonous weed he is convinced. He observed that it was especially prevalent among cattle eating in a certain locality. He attempted to prevent their grazing in that region, but experienced great difficulty in doing so. The cattle returned as soon as he drove them away, evincing a fondness for the vegetation. In every respect, Mr. Coe declares that the symptoms are identical with those of loco poisoning.

The best purchase of ranch property made in many a day was that of the Seis ranch, eighty miles west of Chihuahua, by Don Carlos Zuluaga. The ranch was bought from the widow of the former owner, after whom the ranch took its name. It included the ranch property over 220,000 acres of land, 4,000 cattle, 3,000 sheep, and 500 horses. The consideration named for the transfer of the property was $250,000 in Mexican money.

The report that Colonel W. C. Greene's cattle in Mexico are infected with ticks is an error. Dr. Bray, federal quarantine inspector, says he does not understand how such a report originated, as the cattle referred to are clean.

HILL COUNTY NOW SEPARATE DISTRICT

Bill Leaving Bosque and Johnson Counties in Eighteenth District Now in Effect

HILLSBORO, Texas, April 1.—The bill dividing the Eighteenth judicial district, forming Hill county into a separate district and leaving Bosque and Johnson to constitute the present Eighteenth district, became a law yesterday without the governor's signature, the time limit for his veto having expired. The act is without the emergency clause and therefore takes effect ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature. The act provides for six terms of court a year, the first to begin on the first Monday in September, next.

Judge Lockett in the district court has granted a new trial in the case of John Henson of Johnson county, who was tried here on a charge of venue from that county and convicted two days ago of manslaughter. The penalty assessed being two years in the penitentiary.

TELEPHONE GIRL'S HEART WAS DISPLACED

Flash of Lightning so Frightened Her That Death Followed After Several Weeks

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 1.—Members of the local medical fraternity are deeply puzzled over the case of Miss Mabel Rigney, a well known young lady of this city, who died last night from an affection of the heart.

It is stated that while working as an operator in a local telephone exchange, the young lady was so severely frightened by a flash of lightning which coursed along the wires that her heart was displaced.

Gradually she was taken with pains and for the last two weeks had been in intense agony, her heart beats constantly growing more rapid until just before death 182 pulsations per minute were registered.

GAY BROS. RANCH SOLD

33,920 Acres in Pecos County Brings $1 Per Acre
SAN ANGELO, Texas, April 1.—The big Gay ranch in Pecos county, consisting of 33,920 acres, was sold by a real estate agent here this week for Gay Bros. to Ed D. Miller for $33,920, or at the rate of $1 per acre. R. Willbur Brown of this place sold to S. J. Estes three sections on the El Paso for $12,400.

R. L. Carruthers has returned from his ranch in the Devils River country. He reports things fine down that way. He purchased 1,200 muttons from Clint Owens of Crockett county while away at most head. He expects to ship these muttons to market in May. They are in good condition now.

The concession made by the Lumber Carriers' Association in the wage agreement closed with the seamen and marine cooks and stewards, not to hire more women cooks, this season, while it has no material bearing on the present situation, is looked upon by the cooks as a first step in the direction of ultimately barring out women as cooks on all boats.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

THOUSANDS OF MEN AND WOMEN HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of The Telegram May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free by Mail

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fall to do its duty. If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt that they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. I have cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers.

Gratefully yours,
MRS. A. L. WALKER, 351 East Linden St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue, much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect, clear and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

How to Find Out If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is used in the leading hospitals, recommended by physicians in their private practice, and is taken by doctors themselves who have kidney ailments, because they recognize in it the greatest and most successful remedy for kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

EDITORIAL NOTE—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases of kidney, liver or bladder troubles, that to prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the Fort Worth Daily Telegram. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

Mrs. J. F. Hovenkamp Painfully Bruised in Runaway at City Park

In a runaway accident in the city park Friday afternoon, Mrs. J. F. Hovenkamp of Fifth and Penn streets, was knocked down by the running horse, the wheels of the buggy passing over her body. Though painfully bruised her injuries are not considered serious though the attendance of a physician was necessary after the accident.

Mrs. Hovenkamp, with her young daughter, Maud, and Miss Grace Maxwell, went to the park Friday afternoon to fish. The horse, hitched to the family phaeton, was tied to a tree. The animal succeeded in slipping off its bridle and was running loose with only a strap tied to its neck when discovered by Mrs. Hovenkamp. With instructions to her small daughter to get the bride, Mrs. Hovenkamp held the horse by the strap. The little girl got the bridle but instead of handing it direct to her mother, she climbed into the vehicle and attempted to reach over the dash board. The animal became frightened and ran away, dragging Mrs. Hovenkamp, who held to the strap, bolting across the park with the little girl in the buggy. At the pavilion the animal stopped, having run all the way from the river bank at the south side of the park.

TEN ELECTIONS WITHIN A YEAR

North Fort Worth Establishes New Record in Popular Suffrage—More Coming

Ten elections within less than a year will make North Fort Worth the banner suffrage city of the country. Ten elections are assured and exigencies may swell the number to still greater figures.

Beginning with the general democratic primaries, July 9, 1904, elections have followed each other in rapid succession, while several are still to be held before the next July 9 is reached.

A schedule of the elections is as follows:
July 9, democratic primaries.
July 14, election to determine issue of $100,000 waterworks bonds.
Nov. 8, general election.
Nov. 22, election to determine incorporation for school purposes.
Dec. 20, election of school trustees.
March 28, election to determine issuance of $23,000 school bonds.
March 28, election to determine levy of special school tax.
April 1, county stock law election.
April 4, election of city aldermen and city recorder.
May 6, election of school trustees, chosen in December acting only until the regular school trustee election date.
Provision of the Terrell election law requiring all ballot boxes to be kept one year from the date of an election and the further provision that polling places must be maintained in each of the four wards of the city has caused the city council of North Fort Worth to consider seriously the purchase of ballot boxes by the car lot.

CHAPTER I.

The sultan of Madrapore is a very big man, politically and physically. Politically, he possesses a seaboard which is not only extremely dangerous, but is also a source of constant annoyance, sometimes even of danger. He holds the powers of Europe. Physically he stands some six feet three in his sandals, which is a fair height even for an Arab; face long and aquiline; eyes small and a trifle too close together. When you looked into them, supposing he were angry, you would see all human probability understand what death means. At other times he was a suave, courteous gentleman.

When news reached England that his majesty contemplated a European tour, there was a considerable amount of speculation as to the reason which had prompted such a step. This was the first occasion upon which he had ventured beyond the borders of his kingdom, and it was said that the diplomatic negotiations which had brought it about had been of an entirely new and original description. He came accompanied by his prime minister, secretaries and an extensive retinue.

It was my fortune to be present at Victoria when he arrived and to be one of the first in London to catch a glimpse of him. How little did I dream then that I was to be instrumental in bringing to light one of the strangest episodes of his extraordinary career!

I had arrived early upon the scene and had endured two hours of drizzling rain and slushy pavement, to say nothing of the crowded presence of my fellow citizens. At last our own gracious prince emerged from the station, accompanied by a tall orientally-clad personage, followed by others attired in similar fashion. He looked about him at the concourse of people and then took his seat in the carriage that awaited him. Unfortunately the inclemency of the weather prevented the vehicle being open, so that the glimpse we had of him as he drove past was but a fleeting one. What I caught of it, however, led me to think that I could tell something of the man's character. I saw there pride, avarice and consummate cunning. I told myself that I should not care to fall into his hands, if by any chance he should have reason to feel vindictive towards me.

His highness did feel vindictive toward all creation. He had left his native land and, thirty days and nights ago, he had had a railroad ride at a speed that scared him and a sea voyage that had made him ill. Worse than all, he did not approve of the titled equerry who had been told off to attend upon him, and who, from the first, had treated him more like a spoiled child than a sovereign who ruled, and had the power of life and death, over some thing like six million people.

Knowing that he would be tired after his long journey, it had been arranged that he should spend his first evening in seclusion. On the morrow a round of galleys would commence, which would last almost without cessation until the termination of his visit. He was to be entertained at reviews, theatricals and parties, and was to witness a state ball at Buckingham palace.

Throughout the next morning his majesty was kept busily engaged in the reception of diplomatic, military and naval authorities with the true feeling and aid of all accord with his true feeling. During the afternoon he went driving, and in the evening was present at a performance given at one of the principal music halls in his honor. On this occasion he was vastly pleased, and at the conclusion of the performance ordered his grand vizier to purchase the entire corps de ballet and dispatch them immediately to his capital. When informed that this was impossible, he fell into a rage, and it was possible for him to be taken to a pretty pass when what he said was not taken as law.

Meantime London made him the hero of the day, forgetting that less than two years before three of England's bravest and noblest sons had been murdered in cold blood in his capital, and that he had demanded the punishment of those directly responsible for the inhuman deed.

And when his majesty drove through the cheering crowds in London he flattered himself that the trouble was forgotten and would never be recalled.

Having now given you a brief resume of his majesty's official doings, I come to what may be called the lighter side. Her grace of Bamboorough had issued invitations to a large number of guests to a garden party to meet his majesty the sultan of Madrapore. It was to be a gorgeous affair, and everyone was wild with eagerness to attend.

Though I have not been permitted the honor of her acquaintance, I have been informed that the duchess is a model hostess, and that her entertainments are marvels of taste and splendor. As for her daughter, the Lady Olivia, Bamboorough, when I tried to describe her I find that words fail me. She is the most beautiful woman in England, and that is saying a good deal.

I have been told that every eye was fixed upon her, and indeed in pure white, as she swept across the lawn to be presented to their illustrious guest.

I can quite imagine that the sultan, too, made a picturesque figure enough at that moment. He was a fine figure of a man, and his oriental dress looked every inch a king.

When she was presented to him he received her graciously, then turning to the duchess, he said in French, which he spoke more fluently than English:

"Madam, you have shown me much that astonished me, but you have kept your greatest treasure for the last. As they say in my country, 'Gilt is silver at first, but 'tis gold at the end.'"

"Your majesty pays me a compliment that I appreciate," returned the duchess.

Turning to the daughter he entered into animated conversation with her. As he talked his dark, piercing eyes were fixed continually upon her face. He told himself that he had never seen anyone like her before; and when she, accustomed as she was to kings and princes, dared to differ with him on a certain subject and spoke her mind fearlessly and to the point, he was not only not angry, but was delighted beyond expression. In all probability she was the first woman in the world who had dared to contradict him. His sultan would as soon have thought of flying as doing so, while the ladies of his harem would doubtless have been treated to the bowstring had they ventured upon such a liberty.

"Truly, these be strange people," he muttered to himself, "where no man goes armed, and women, unveiled, board kings to their faces."

AS HE TALKED HIS DARK, PIERCING EYES WERE FIXED UPON HER FACE.

beautiful as a sunrise in the desert." As he rode home afterward he told himself that he would not have believed that a N'zrani woman could have been so fair, and as he lay back on his cushions he began to dream dreams. What the Lady Olivia would have said had she known all that was passing in his mind I cannot say. Doubtless she would not have been very properly offended, but inexpressibly shocked.

Later in the evening the sultan was present at the state ball at Buckingham palace, and on two occasions he found opportunities of conversing with the Lady Olivia. His blood was fired, and bitterly did he lament the days of his ancestors, when it would have been possible for him to seize her and carry her off to be his so long as it might please him to bestow the light of his countenance upon her.

So sudden, and yet so great, was his passion that he ground his teeth with impotent rage as he watched her gliding down the room, her slender waist encircled by a prince's arm, and her lithesome figure swaying with the rhythmic grace to the music of the waltz.

When he left the palace to return to his own house, he was in an ugly humor and when he fell asleep it was to dream of her.

Next day at luncheon he again met the lady who had made such a deep impression upon his heart. There were many people there who would have given half their possessions to have been noticed by him; the Lady Olivia, however, seemed scarcely to realize the honor he was doing her. He noticed this and redoubled his attentions to interest her.

The situation was new to him, and had a piquant flavor.

That night he had made up his mind. Though the hour was late he summoned his grand vizier. For upwards of an hour they were closeted together, and, at the end of that time, the minister had received his instructions and was making his way back to his own apartment, shaking his head and lamenting the day that he had ever set foot in this accursed land.

"Has he not women enough already?" he muttered, "that he must set his heart upon this other? Well, well, Allah's will be done."

Next morning, in great state, he set off to keep an appointment with his grace of Bamboorough, who was quite at a loss to understand what the important business might be that was bringing the sultan's grand vizier to him.

In due course the grand vizier arrived in state, and was immediately conducted to his grace's study. If, in his heart, he had disapproved of his mission before, he did so doubly now. Assuming the best manner he could, and after working round and round the point with as much circumspection as only an Arab knows how to put into it, he gave the astonished duke to understand that the reason of his visit was to solicit the hand of the latter's daughter in marriage on behalf of his illustrious master.

For a moment the duke sat bolt upright in his chair, quite unable to believe that he had heard aright. Then he expressed himself fluently and to the point on the subject.

A quarter of an hour later the embassy withdrew sorrowful in the extreme. The proposed alliance had been declined. His majesty was furious, and for two whole days sulked in his house. And the angrier he grew the more determined he became to have the Lady Olivia for his wife. By hook or crook he vowed he would obtain possession of her.

A week later he left England and, after a brief sojourn in Paris, returned to his own country, swearing never to leave it again.

"Thank goodness he's gone," said his majesty had departed. "Now we can afford to laugh at the ridiculous affair, but it was no laughing matter at the time. Fancy Olivia as his wife!"

So much for his majesty the sultan of Madrapore's visit to England. My story is concerned with the sequel. And, after this preface, I will allow my extraordinary acquaintance, Roger Gavesson, to tell the story in his own way.

Before I do, however, let me give you a brief description of the man.

I met Gavesson first, three months after the sultan of Madrapore's visit to England. He was the possessor of a striking personality—a handsome if somewhat rakish face, a sharp and ready wit, wonderful ability to make himself liked by people, and an even more astounding audacity.

While he was by profession, or where he originally hailed from, nobody ever knew. He appeared to have an intimate acquaintance with most of the out-of-the-way countries of the world, and spoke six languages as fluently as he did his own. He was an excellent shot, particularly with a revolver.

Why he should have entrusted me with the following narrative I am at a loss to understand. Since I have it, however, I intend giving it to the world, and I shall wait to see what comes of it.

CHAPTER II.

The reasons which took me to Madrapore have nothing whatsoever to do with this story. I have been a wanderer all my life. I have seen life on the gilded side and on the reverse. I have fought for lousome graces on the clay floor of a Mexican shack for a meal, and I have dined in vice-regal state with my lord in the state parlor at Melbourne. I have slept in the Lhama Sera in Pekin, and I fancy I know as much, if not more, of Calcutta as any European for any European to know. I dined with the French governor once in Tonking, and was treated during my stay in that colony with the greatest courtesy; the following year, however, he very nearly jailed me, under another name, for the sin of being hard up and wanting something to do. You can see for yourself from these confessions that I am endeavoring to be candid with you. I remember an old fellow in Manila saying for me, "Never waste a lie; tell the truth whenever you can, and you'll get a reputation. Then, when you do want to lie, you will find that folk will believe you."

And with this preamble let me begin to spin my yarn.

As I have said, I was in Madrapore, and more than a little sorry for myself. I can assure you, I doubt if you would have known me, as I made my way, one fine morning, as very nearly jailed me, under another name, for the sin of being hard up and wanting something to do. You can see for yourself from these confessions that I am endeavoring to be candid with you. I remember an old fellow in Manila saying for me, "Never waste a lie; tell the truth whenever you can, and you'll get a reputation. CONFEDERATE BATTLE FLAGS

Cheerful things do happen. The vote of congress, a month or so ago, to return Confederate flags was one of them. It showed how much the north has improved in temper since 1865. The south is improving, too. Stupid arrogance on one side and blind haughtiness on the other have given away to human decency and some comprehension that the shield has two sides. Congress voted unanimously to restore the Confederate battle flags. Why should any man of heart object to the memories that are so deeply burned into men and women of the south? If their cause was mistaken, it was not less nobly upheld, and the deaths and privations which were endured for its sake were not less real. When Mr. Cleveland wished to return these flags, Governor Foraker of Ohio opposed the measure, not as he eloquently explained, "that I have affection for the dirty rags, but because they are emblems of treason, and are wanted for no other purpose than public parade, and to fire the southern heart with pride for a lost cause that ought never to be recalled except with shame, because the crime of the age." Foraker introduced the bill providing that the government mark the graves of the Confederate soldiers buried in the north. He has improved, along with the rest of us. The flag incident continues to give satisfaction everywhere, and it refreshes us to dwell part of the time on such indications of a spiritually better state.—Collier's Weekly.

It was a graceful act on the part of the congress of the United States to vote the return of the Confederate flags captured in battle during the time that tried men's souls, and the fact that the vote was unanimous makes the action taken but the more gratifying to southern people. There was no reason why these old flags should be kept in Washington. They were trophies of American valor over American valor. The people who followed those flags on many bloody fields were just as much American as those who captured them and now that the struggle has been over for forty years and our people have become reunited, there was no sensible reason why the old battle flags should not have been returned.

There was a great hue and cry raised by some of the fire-eaters of the north when the proposition was sprung during former years, but it was understood by the southern people. They knew that such tirades was but the stock in trade of some of the northern politicians, who could only hope to retain their political prestige through the inflammation of public sentiment and keeping alive the memories that belong to the past. Those flags represent nothing new but a memory. The dream of a divided nation has passed, and in its stead has arisen the most solid and indestructible national organization the world has ever seen. The people of the south are as loyal to the union and the United States flag as the people of the north, and when the war with Spain was declared that fact was amply demonstrated. No people in the union will rally to the old flag quicker than the people of the south and there can no longer be any question as to their loyalty.

These old flags that are now being returned to the people of the south represent nothing to them now but a memory and a sentiment. The day when they meant more has passed never more to return. The civil war was a great mistake. The people of the north and south have long ago agreed on that proposition. If more of the feeling now prompting the return of those flags had been displayed in the early sixties, the war would not have occurred. There would have been no secession and no attempted coercion. The people would have settled the trouble without appealing to the sword and the country would have been spared the dark trying days that followed.

The graves of southern dead in northern cemeteries have been marked by the national government. Southern women lay wreaths of the same kind of flowers on the northern dead who sleep in the south that they place on the mounds of their own beloved dead. There is a great national feeling now inspiring southern hearts which takes the place of all former sectionalism, and the idea of Americanism fills every heart with pride. Sectional lines have been obliterated, and the fires of patriotism burn just as brightly in the south as in the north. The graves of those old battle-scarred flags...

exert an additional salutary effect on the general situation. It was generous to give. It was a benediction to receive.

The most ominous development in the situation regarding the complications existing between this country and Venezuela is the report that comes from Washington that President Roosevelt has offered General Sherman Bell of Colorado an appointment in that country. If this report is true it means the deportation of Castro or the shooting of the whole Venezuelan nation. President Castro had best make up his mind to come immediately to time.

The legislative committee selected to investigate the workings of the beef trust in Texas does not appear to be setting the woods afire down in the vicinity of Austin. The claim is made that stockmen will not give up what they know, and this may be predicated on the fact that the committee has not yet gotten hold of the right stockmen.

There is a fine season in the ground now over all Texas, and never in the entire history of the state has the outlook for a bounteous crop year been more favorable than it is at this time. The indications now are that Texas farmers will make a plenty and to spare this year, and when the farmers are prosperous the whole country moves forward a notch or two.

The city of Louisville, Ky., has been indicted by a federal grand jury, on a charge of peonage. If the city should be found guilty on this very serious charge and sentenced to a term in the federal prison, how in the world would the honorable court go about the enforcement of its decree?

In the year 1892 the total divorces for all the New England states only amounted to $25, and in 1904 the number was increased to 3,000. Our New England friends are evidently departing from the straight hard way that was laid out by their progenitors when they landed at Plymouth Rock. Governor Folk says the Missouri idea means the enforcement of the law and Governor Folk is a very fine exponent of the Missouri idea. He has made himself a terror to the evil-doers of his state and has well won his present reward. But there is work for a Folk to do in every state in the union.

Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson is now threatening to make the race for governor of Alabama, and the trouble with the captain seems to be when he commences to run he never knows when to quit. He has worn out that hero idea to a complete frazzle in an unsuccessful effort to break into the politics of his native state.

Andrew Carnegie says that the demand for public libraries is falling off to such an extent that he will soon begin to turn his attention to the smaller colleges of the country. The effect of this announcement will doubtless be to bring more small colleges to the attention of the Laird of Skibo than were dreamed of in his philanthropy.

The month of March behaved very respectably this spring, giving us moisture when it was wont to give us stiff breezes. And the Texas prairies will soon be fairly "exploding with agricultural wealth," as Larry Chittenden, the poet-ranchman, so happily expresses it.

Admirers of Buffalo Bill are deeply grieved to see the sturdy old scout and showman descend to the level of the common play folk in mapping out his advertising campaign for the next season. The divorce racket has gotten to be awful common.

Field Marshal Oyama, in command of the Japanese armies, says that he is a soldier and not a politician, and consequently has nothing to do with the talk of peace. Still, the sturdy old warrior must realize that he has done much to make peace now possible.

Simultaneously with the announcement that Elijah Dowle has bought a big tract of land in Mexico for use in establishing a new Zion, there comes a declaration that the Mormons are preparing to move in force on the state of Illinois. Verily, the Lord loveth whom He chasteneth.

Russia's willingness to make the terms by which she will accept peace from Japan could not be more evident if she had been victor in the memorable struggle which the world hopes is soon to come to a close. The Russian officials talk just like men who had done all the fighting.

Vice President Fairbanks expresses surprise at the culture and refinement he found in the state of North Carolina on a recent visit. He is now thoroughly of the opinion that the term "tarheels" is only permissible in a figurative sense.

According to fashion's decree, men's pockets are to be made deeper and wider than usual this spring, but that fact will not deter feminine hands from finding their bottom just as they have been accustomed to do since pockets first came in style.

It is reported that the tobacco trust cleaned up a little matter of $52,000,000 in profits last year, and Commissioner Garfield will no doubt admit this is a fact if he chews.

The first census of the Philippines has been completed, but it will probably contain no reference to the good soldiers made such through the action of the United States soldiers.

A. H. MERRITT.

"Tired in the Morning"

This condition is unnatural. A healthy person gets up in the morning well rested, feeling fine and ready for the day's work.

If you get up in the morning tired, it simply means that your nerves have not rested and their restlessness has not allowed you to rest in the healthy, normal way.

"Tired in the morning," "Run down," "All worn out"—these signs are the warnings—they mean that your nerves need attention.

You must feed some new power to your nerves.

That is just what Paine's Celery Compound does. It feeds new power to the nerves and builds them back to healthy strength.

It makes new Nerve Force. It makes new vitality and makes life worth living.

That is just why for the past 18 years Paine's Celery Compound has been the most universally used tonic in the world.

A. H. MERRITT'S EXPERIENCE WILL PROVE VITALLY INTERESTING TO THOUSANDS.

"Two years ago I had a nervous disorder that completely prostrated me. I couldn't sleep, and would lay and toss about all night, arising in the morning more tired than ever, head heavy, eyes dull and every bone and muscle aching. I tried to get along without calling in a doctor, but was finally driven to it. He treated me for some time, but with no perceptible improvement in my health. Some one recommended your Paine's Celery Compound. The change it effected in my system was noticeable almost instantly. I gradually took on flesh. The 'all-gone' feeling left me. In less than six weeks I was fully recovered from what looked to me like an everlasting sickness. I feel actually grateful to you, as my health to-day is a testimonial of what your medicine can do. Yours very truly,—A. H. Merritt, 32 Music Hall Building, Boston, Mass., Feb. 12, 1904. Bandmaster First Regiment Band, Heavy Artillery, M. V. M.

Try Paine's Celery Compound to-day. Its effect is almost instantaneous—the nourishment and vigor given to the nerve system by Paine's Celery Compound is felt at once.

The patient feels this at once and gains confidence by it.

The stronger nerve forces have begun at once to make each organ of the body do the work that nature expects of it.

Two days' treatment with Paine's Celery Compound will prove its marvelous power.

For over 18 years Paine's Celery Compound has been the most universally used nerve vitalizer and tonic in the world.

Remember this—Paine's Celery Compound is the prescription of one of the most famous physicians this world has ever known, Prof. E. E. Phelps, of Dartmouth University.

All reputable druggists recommend and sell Paine's Celery Compound.

WITH THE CATTLEMEN

DISEASES OF CATTLE

The United States department of agriculture, through the bureau of animal industry, has just issued a special revised report on the diseases of cattle. The importance of such a work has been manifest for several years. Farmers, cattlemen and stock growers should understand the causes and treatment of the different diseases affecting cattle. There have been several editions of this book published since the work was first issued. It was prepared and published for the use of the farmer and stock grower more than for the student or veterinarian, but either can find much valuable information between the covers of the book, for it was compiled by some of the best known veterinarians in the country and every subject has been treated carefully.

As much practical information as possible has been brought together on the subjects treated, but it has been stated in plain and brief language. Readers who desire more detailed information are referred to the various special treatises. The book is illustrated and among the subjects treated are "The Administration of Medicines," "Diseases of the Digestive Organs," "Poissonings," "Diseases of the Heart," "Diseases of Young Cattle," "Diseases Affecting Cattle," "Diseases of the Feet," "Infectious Diseases of Cattle," and many other important subjects.

This work will be a great help to the farmer and stock grower and anyone desiring a copy should write their congressman for one as they are distributed free of charge as long as the supply lasts.

SUG ROBERTSON'S ADVICE

In an address before his fellow cattlemen of Texas, devoted chiefly to a discussion of the methods of packers as affecting the markets for cattle, A. B. Robertson, one of the big cattlemen of Texas, who believes he owes his success in life to the more favorable conditions that existed for cattlemen some years ago than now, wisely points out to them the changed conditions and that the purposes of the Texas ranchers must change to meet these changed conditions.

Recent developments indicate that the northern range pastures are to afford, year after year, less and less outlet for the productions of the Texas ranges, and this discerning banker and experienced cattlemen sees into the future and wisely advises the ranchers and breeders of Texas to grade up their cattle to a degree that their young stock will be in demand from the feeders of the corn belt of the north. He points to the fact that Texas calves and yearlings that have gone as feeders into territory adjacent to the Chicago market have given an excellent account of themselves.

Rich prizes carried off by the finished Texas yearlings and also by feeding calves at the international expositions of recent years are proof that Mr. Robertson's advice is sound and timely.

Texas ranchers should heed this suggestion regarding improved breeding and northern feeders may well turn their attention to the southern breeding grounds when looking for something that will finish quickly into a market-topping class of young beef.—Drovers Journal.

NEW CATTLE TAX RULE

MUSKOGEE, I. T., April 1.—The Indian Inspector has issued a new order, made by the secretary of the interior, covering the tax upon cattle grazed in the Cherokee Nation. The order fixes the tax of $1 a year on each head of cattle introduced into the nation and grazed upon unallotted lands. Where the owners of land have leases on allotments and the cattle are also allowed to range on public domain the owners of the cattle must pay to the tribal government a tax of 15c an acre on all lands so used. The order further states that the owners of the cattle must furnish information as to the number of cattle and the lands and that they must use all due precautions to prevent the herds from breaking in on the crops of the allottees. The order states that the tax applies to all cattle grazed upon public domain, whether owned by citizens or non-citizens. In case of refusal or failure of the owners to comply with the order the cattle are to be removed from the nation.

PRaises TEXAS BREEDERS

"Texas cattlemen treated their visitors this year to a genuine surprise in the excellence of their show of fat cattle and breeding stock held in connection with their annual convention," said Colonel W. E. Skinner, who returned this morning from a ten days' trip in the south. "The show would have done credit to any state in the union and shows that Texas is making great strides in breeding up her herds. Many of the cattle seen there were of the class that carry off the money at the international each year.

"The convention was a big one and one of the best I have attended in the south. Aside from the sale of Colonel C. C. Slaughter's cattle to John M. Boardman of the Pioneer Cattle Company at private terms little trading was done by northern men."—Chicago Drovers Journal.

THE WILSON CATTLE

The carload of Texas steers sold Tuesday at $5 were fed and exhibited at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show by J. B. Wilson of Dallas, Texas, and were awarded the first prize for the best carload of fat steers, three days and over. The best carload of Texas cattle received at this or any other market this year, and brought the record price for Texas cattle so far this year.

There were sixteen of them averaging 1,491 pounds. They were bought by the St. Louis Dressed Beef Company for Louis Scheffer, and will be slaughtered to supply the select hotel demand in St. Louis.—St. Louis Reporter.

Cleanings From the Exchanges

But one state shows a greater number of cotton gins than Texas. Georgia has 4,874, while Texas has 4,403. But Georgia only shows 1,903,503 bales ginned the last season, while Texas looms up with 3,098,908. No other state reaches one and a half million bales but Georgia and Mississippi, the latter having 1,676,953.—Gainesville Hesperian.

Texas is the greatest cotton producing state in the union, and possesses more up-to-date cotton gins than any other state in the union. The reason Georgia leads in number is because that state still uses many of the old horse-power plants and wooden presses which went out of style in Texas nearly twenty years ago.

The return of the captured Confederate flags to the various states has begun with hardly a stir of protest from the organizations which were so violently disturbed over a similar proposal less than twenty years ago. Not even the impetuous senator from Ohio has raised his voice, although he won his distinguished title of "Fire-Alarm Foraker" by his oratory in opposition to President Cleveland's order. Of course, all animosity and prejudice have not been eliminated, but the situation has improved so wonderfully within two decades that devout lovers of the union might exclaim with Simeon: "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word; for mine eyes have seen thy salvation."—Austin Tribune.

The return of the Confederate flags to the various southern states was a most graceful act that has won many expressions of southern appreciation. The war has been over now for forty years, our people have become reunited, the south has received northern immigration with open arms and sectional lines are being rapidly obliterated. Under the broad term of Americanism our people are now standing on common ground.

The woman who will leave her children at home of evenings and trot about town in every little card party, hugging and other amusements indulged in nowadays by church and "society" leaders, should own a poodle dog. She is not fit to rear a family of boys and girls. She no doubt means well, and could raise a family of poodle dogs or pet cats to perfection; but children need the love of a motherly woman. The husband who leaves his wife at home to look after the children night after night, while he takes in the entertainments at the opera house, is a husband only in name, and has no more conception of the meaning of the word wife than the wildest savage of the forest. He has no business with a wife. He should live alone in a hole in the ground. He is not entitled to the love or even the respect of a woman.—Mount Pleasant Eagle.

All parents owe a duty to their children which many of them fail to perform. Society is coming more and more to regard children in the light of an incubus, when they should be received as Heaven's richest blessing.

Never allow your physical standard to drop. Keep up your energy; walk as if you were somebody and were going to do something worth while in the world, so that a stranger may note your bearing and make a mark of your superiority. If you have fallen into a habit of walking in a listless, dependent way, right about face at once and make a change. You don't want to shuffle along like the failures we often see sitting around on street corners, lounging in a saloon, or loitering about the streets with their hands in their pockets and wondering why fate has been so hard with them. You don't want to give people the impression that you are discouraged, or that you are already falling to the rear. Strengthen up then! Stand erect! Be a man.—Cleburne Chronicle.

In other words, get a hump and a huddle on yourself and convince the world that you are a live one. Don't convert yourself into a standing advertisement for a tombstone factory. Shake off your lethargy and do things.

C. E. Russell, editor of the Chicago American (Hearst's paper), is out in an interview in which he claims that the only way to cure the trust evil lies in the election of an independent congress. If Mr. Russell is correct in his deductions it will be a long time before the country will get relief—partisanship is too strong in this country to admit of the remedy suggested by Mr. Russell.—Texarkana Texarkanian.

It does not require very skillful reading between the lines to decipher the fact that the Russell idea also embraces the making of William R. Hearst president of the United States. His article is about as ingenious political document as has been given to the public in some time. The young men in the employ of William R. Hearst appear to be on to their jobs.

ONE CERTAINTY

Some Fort Worth People Fully Realize it Now. When the back aches from kidney ills, When urinary troubles annoy you, There's a certain way to find relief; A sure way to be cured. Doan's Kidney Pills will do it. Fort Worth people endorse this claim. W. H. Devenport of 928 Jarvis street, the well known jeweler, who is associated with W. P. Kruckman at 507 Main street, and who is also known as one of the finest musicians of Fort Worth, says: "Kidney complaint bothered me for a period of at least two months. It made itself known by a constant soreness across the small of my back directly over the kidneys, which annoyed me when stooping or straightening up, particularly in the mornings, when I first got up, when my back was so sore and lame that it seemed that I could hardly move. The disease came on me gradually and I paid little attention to it at first, thinking it would disappear as quickly as it came, but this was not the case. Instead of getting better it kept getting worse, and one day I happened to be talking to a friend of mine, Mr. Thornton, who advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which he said had cured him of just such ailments and which had done the same for other persons that he knew. I stepped into Weaver's Pharmacy and got a box and began to take them as directed. A short course cured me, and I can positively state that there have been no symptoms of a recurrence since. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other."

WASTING AWAY

It's the small but constant loss of flesh that indicates physical waste—the gradual slipping away of healthy flesh, pound by pound, which no ordinary food seems to restore. Scott's Emulsion will restore it. This Emulsion is the greatest flesh builder obtainable. Scott's Emulsion first stops the wasting—that's one gain. Then when it supplies new flesh and takes one back to normal strength and weight, that's another gain and a big one.

AMUSEMENTS

Millar Bros. "Diorama" and comedy vaudeville sketch, "City Folks," drew fairly well at Greenwall's last night and is the attraction again for tonight. The pictures cover a wide range, are well colored, and include a large number of transformations. The comic sketch is laughable.

WHITE WHITTLESEY
The first appearance in this city of the young romantic actor, White Whittlesey, is likely to result in as great a success here as he has met elsewhere, judging by the advance reports received as to the talents of the young actor.

Whittlesey opens his special engagement at the Greenwall opera house at the Thursday matinee, April 6.

He will make his bow here in the famous romance, "Heartsease," in which Henry Miller won great fame and in which Whittlesey is said to be at his best. On Thursday night "Soldiers of Fortune" will be played.

For the road tour Whittlesey is playing "Heartsease," "The Second in Command" and "Soldiers of Fortune."

The productions of the Whittlesey company are up to the usual standard of excellence for which the name of Belasco, Mayer and Price is famous. The company carries every portion of the scenery required for the plays being presented, as well as most elaborate costumes and stage accessories.

The company supporting Whittlesey is a most powerful one and includes a trained choir for the rendition of the music in the plays.

Among those who are members of the Whittlesey company are Eugene T. Lawton, Virginia Brassac, Alfa Perry, Edith Campbell, Messrs. Harry D. Byer, Reginald Mason, Taylor Curtis, Erville Anderson, Carl Yoho, Charles Sherman, G. K. Mitchell, William Abram and Earle Williams.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. CITY BALL LEAGUE BEING DISCUSSED

Rock Island Team Urging the Formation of Six-Team Association

With the Panthers coveting on South Texas diamonds, professional baseball will take a temporary backseat in Fort Worth, and those who are interested in the sport must needs attract their attention for the next three weeks to the various amateur teams of the city.

Among the amateur sporting circles the formation of a six-club city league is being seriously discussed, and to this end a meeting of representatives from the different amateur clubs will be held in the Rock Island offices next week.

The Rock Island team is the moving spirit in the campaign for better amateur ball, and has gone so far as to acquire its own private diamond at Terrell and Sixth avenues. Next to Haines park this is the best ball diamond in the city. A back stop and other conveniences have been provided by the Rock Island boys. They will play their first game of the season, this afternoon with the Nelson-Draughon Business College.

Under the captaincy of L. M. Hogsett, who played with the Fort Worth professionals during the ante-season season at Haines park, the Rock Island team has made rapid progress, despite the fact that there have been few opportunities for practice.

In the game this afternoon the Rock Island will line up as follows: Baldwin, catcher; Hainrich, pitcher; Rock Island team has made rapid progress, despite the fact that there have been few opportunities for practice.

The Nelson-Draughon line up is as follows: Hogsett, catcher; Griffin, pitcher; Gore, first base; Randolph, second base; Galley, third base; Sutherland, short stop; Kay, right field; Garner, center field, and Smith, left field.

On the university campus this afternoon the Polytechnic College team will endeavor to defeat Fort Worth University, or vice versa, as this is the first game between these two teams this season, and is the official opening of the baseball season for Fort Worth University.

The line ups, as previously announced, will be: Polytechnic—Rogers, catcher; Dethridge, pitcher; Parsons, first base; Sensabough, second base; Speaker, third base; Leaman, shortstop; Manor, left field; Cavoness, center field; Dempwolf, right field. University—Nies, catcher; Thornberry, pitcher; Puckett, first base; A. Smith, second base; Kilgore, shortstop; Moore, third base; V. Smith, left field; Phillips and Ealen, right field.

For these we have no scruples in regard to Sunday baseball a good exhibition of amateur talent may be seen at Haines park Sunday afternoon, when the Armour team will play A. & L. August. The Armour fellows have a team equally as strong as the winning one of last year. A good game is predicted between the yellow suits and the clothing store men.

The respective line ups will be: Armour—Robinson, catcher; J. L. Duffy, pitcher; W. Lowry, first base; Ed Keibert, second base; Robert Stuck, third base; McAllister, short stop; Griffin, left field. L. Hogsett, center field; Cash, right field.

For next Thursday afternoon there is a game scheduled between Fort Worth University and the Entre Nous. This game will be the formal opening of the 1905 season for the Entre Nous players.

On April 21 the Entre Nous will go to Dallas to play the Hushey and Turner training school of that city. Several games will be played between these dates, but concerning them no announcements has been made.

The Entre Nous squad at present is composed as follows, though the line up is liable to minor changes: Flquet, catcher; White, second base; Bohon, first base; Grammer, third base; W. Stewart, short stop; G. Stewart, pitcher; Carnick, left field; Shedd, centerfield, and Anderson, right field.

Though no definite announcement has been made, it is understood that a game will be played in the near future between the Elks and the Entre Nous.

The team of the Denver Road is rounding into good form, though no announcement of games has been made yet.

Though not fully organized as yet, the railway postal clerks have some strong material out for this year's baseball team. Wray, last year's catcher, is out again this year, and in addition to him, a new man, Bourke, is trying for the position.

Both of last season's pitchers, Sullivan and Hudson, will play again this year. Ray will again hold down first, Davis will occupy the second bag, and the Denver Road is rounding into good form, though no announcement of games has been made yet.

The old reliable Hubert will play at sort and McDonald at third. W. T. Jones and J. C. Faucett are new candidates for the infield.

Clark Snowdon, formerly of Denton, is making a try for the outfield, while Rogers, McDeade and Breen, all members of last year's outfield, will again be seen in the gardens.

BEEN PREPARING FOR HEAVY TRADE

Portland Exposition as Well as Colorado Attractions Will Draw

General Passenger Agent A. A. Gilson of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railroad Company is in the northwest, looking after business for his road and visiting in Portland, Oregon, Friday.

There is to be a very heavy movement to the Lewis and Clark centennial exposition, which opens June 1 at Portland from this state and the southwestern and southeastern states. The most direct route will be the Denver City and the efforts of Mr. Gilson are to the end that his road will be in favor.

The Rock Island is also in line for much of this business and is now in the field with its representatives.

It is believed here that there will also be a large business to Colorado this year—larger than last year—and the Denver lines are doing their best to induce travel to the Rocky mountain resorts. The roads are already making elaborate preparations to handle the crowds beginning next month.

Colorado is figuring on getting the largest percentage of the pleasure seekers and tourists from the east.

The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and the national meeting of Epworth Leaguers will also be much to do in increasing the visitors to Denver and Colorado.

The special excursion tickets will be good from June 1 to Oct. 31.

CUT RATES ANNOUNCED

Special Reductions Will Apply During Odd Fellows' Convention

The Rock Island passenger department today issued a circular announcing reduced round trips in rates to many meetings and conventions.

On April 26 the Odd Fellows of this county will hold their reunion in Fort Worth, and the cheap rates apply from all distances within fifty miles of the city.

Other occurrences are: San Antonio, April 24 to 29, spring carnival; Waco, April 17 to 20, annual tournament of Texas State Sportsmen's Association; Austin, June 29 to 31, state convention of Christian Endeavor Society; Amarillo, April 18 to 20, Panhandle Stockmen's Association convention.

GOING TO CALIFORNIA

Large Number of Delegates Will Attend Los Angeles Convention

Texas is to send a large delegation to the national session of the Woodmen of the World, to be held at Los Angeles, Cal., April 18. It is expected that quite a number will go from Fort Worth.

The Woodmen of Colorado will go in a special train leaving Denver, April 14, the round-trip rate being $45. The tickets will be good for ninety days, covering diverse routes and all stop over privileges.

The delegates from Texas are considering going to Los Angeles in a special train, but whether this will materialize is not known now.

PUSHING "GULF SHORE" EXTENSION

The citizens of Gonzales are interesting themselves in the proposed extension of that road, known as the "Gulf Shore" extension from Gonzales. A committee has been appointed to confer with the officials of the Katy and ascertain what is expected of them in order to secure the extension.

SCRAMBLE FOR G. A. R. BUSINESS

The coming convention of Grand Army of the Republic, to be held at Denver this year, has caused a general stampede of western lines who are out individually for the business, having renounced all traffic pools previously made between the railroads.

C. W. STRAIN ARRIVES
C. W. Strain, the successor to W. A. Tuley as general passenger agent of the Frisco, arrived in Fort Worth Friday afternoon from Wichita, Kan., and today assumed charge of his new office. For the past two years Mr. Strain has been division passenger agent for the Frisco, and previous to that he was southwestern passenger agent for the company. He is well known in railroad circles. Mr. Strain states that there will be no changes in the people at the polls, and is pleased to get back to Texas and hoped that he would always remain in the Lone Star state.

MAN SAYS HE HAS FASTED 12 DAYS

Believed to Be W. A. Prendergast of Charleston, South Carolina

Officers Black and Gaddis found a man in a dazed condition at the corner of Fourteenth and Rusk streets early this morning. A note in the man's pocket contained the name of W. A. Prendergast, 179 South Akard street, Dallas. On a leaf of the book were instructions to notify P. J. Prendergast, 11 Ann street, Charleston, S. C. In case of serious accident or illness. He stated to the two officers that he had not tasted a bit of food for over twelve days.

For the past month circulars have been sent broadcast over the country asking the police to locate the man answering the description of the one picked up by the two officers. These circulars were signed by a sister of Prendergast who stated that she feared her brother had had a mishap. The circular states that he had left clothing and expects to Dallas to enter the employ of a large dry goods store, but had never reported for work and that she feared some harm had come to him. The man carried in his purse, which contained a one-cent piece, the picture of a woman.

In the pockets of the man were found a pair of scissors, a watch, pencils, a purse, a notebook and a number of letters and several pawn tickets. The man is well dressed. He talks intelligently on most subjects, but is unable to tell his name or where he came from and could give no explanation of his presence in Fort Worth.

Chief Rea sent a telegram to the address given in the notebook this morning and expects to receive an answer some time late this afternoon from Charleston. The man is undoubtedly the missing man whom the anxious sister wished to locate, for he answers the description given of the circular.

A negro boy passing the rear of the home of G. H. Colvin, 414 West Seventh street, at 2 o'clock this morning discovered a heap of rubbish on fire in the back yard. He at once awakened the family and an alarm of fire was telephoned to the central station and the department responded. The fire was easily extinguished without any loss more than the burning of a few boards to the fence. While the department was returning to the station a second alarm was sent in from the corner of Eleventh and Rusk streets. A run was made to that corner, but no fire was discovered. It was later ascertained that a chimney had caused the alarm to be turned. No damage was done.

Copyrighted, 1905, by the American-Journal-Examiner. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

1. LEANDER: "Oh, Lulu, how happy I feel on this glorious Easter morning. How proud I am of you. You look perfectly lovely in our Easter hat and gown."
LULU: "Oh thank you, Leander. And you look just fine in your new Easter suit."

2. CHARLEY ONTHESPOT: "A happy Easter to you. By Jove, Lulu, you do look stunning this morning."
LULU: "Thank you, Charley. Come and walk with us to church."
LEANDER (aside): "Confound that butter-in!"

3. LULU: "Why good morning, Archie. You look fine this morning. Come, join our walk to church."
ARCHIE: "I say, Lulu, you certainly are an Easter dream."
LEANDER (aside): "Great Scott! Another one butting in!"

4. CLARENCE: "Why, good morning, Lulu. Gentlemen, may I join the happy throng? Lulu, how lovely you are looking this morning."
LULU: "Oh, you flatterer! Yes, come, we are on our way to church."
LEANDER (aside): "Great grief! This is an outrage!"

5. LULU: "Where is Jack Huggard. Call him, Clarence. I wish to speak to him."
LEANDER (aside): "Ye gods! And I thought I would be her proud and only companion. They will hear something drop soon."

6. JACK HUGGARD: "Why, good morning, Lulu. If you will allow me to say so, you certainly do this lovely day credit. Where is Leander this morning?"

7. MALE CHORUS: "Why, he was here a moment ago. Why, Leander, what have you been doing down that coal hole?"
LULU: "The verger! What in the world could have interested you down there, Leander? Now look at you!"

8. LULU: "Yes, you boys can escort me TO church. Leander will take me home. He will be able to go home, fix himself up and be back by the time church is out. Poor dear, he is SO unfortunate!"
LEANDER: "Ye gods of ill luck! Joyful Easter time! BAH! Oh, that I were an egg and could let myself drop and break!"
