Dr. Cooper stated he had already said a good deal through The Telegram. He thought the factory movement a good thing and that such an organization was necessary for the up-building of a city...

"If a factory club should be organized and its members helped to establish new industries here it is only a matter of time until the returns from the investments will be many. It will help to bring people here and give employment to all and that is what Fort Worth needs...

Mayor Powell moved that Dr. Cooper be made the chairman of the meeting. A. M. Billingsley was elected secretary. The chair then called for voluntary discussion. Oswald Wilson, United States statistician, spoke of the benefits to be derived from such an organization...

J. W. Spencer, president of the Farmers and Mechanics bank spoke in lines favorable to the movement. "There are times when there is a depression in the growth of a city," said Mr. Spencer. "The laborer has no work, the dry goods merchant can't sell his goods and the physician has no patients..."

C. W. Woodman, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, was asked to give his views on the proposition. He spoke of the factories in Fort Worth at the present time and called attention to the fact that the Fort Worth citizens were not giving them the patronage they deserved...

W. F. Sterley, general manager of the Denver City railroad, was asked to express his opinion of the movement. He called the attention of his listeners to the fact he had seen Fort Worth grow from a hamlet to its present size. During this time he had seen the large factories of the city today in many cases start with a very small beginning...

er possible to aid the cause. He then moved that a committee of five be appointed by the chair to prepare a constitution and by-laws and to plan ways of permanent organization...

Chairman Cooper appointed on the committee W. R. Booth as chairman and C. W. Woodman, Oswald Wilson, W. T. Sterley and N. B. Moore. Mayor Powell then moved that all of those present at the meeting pledge themselves to respond to the call of the chair for the next meeting and to try to bring a friend with them...

Before the adjournment of the meeting, which was an enthusiastic one, others present addressed the meeting on the factory proposition and told what a club of the kind suggested could do for the up-building of Fort Worth and her workingmen in the citizens generally...

Factory Club Committee Selects Name and Outlines Plans—Mass Meeting April 17

MOVEMENT IS GIVEN SHAPE

A fully attended meeting of the committee appointed to arrange plans for the Factory Club met this morning promptly at 9 o'clock and gave a definite shape to the movement.

After considerable discussion it was decided to recommend the "Home Factory and Industry Club" as the name of the organization to be formed.

A subcommittee consisting of W. R. Booth, Dr. J. L. Cooper and Oswald Wilson was then appointed to prepare an outline of plans and by-laws to be submitted to a meeting of the committee to be held Monday night at the office of Judge Booth.

On the following Monday night another mass meeting will be called at the city hall, at which time full plans will be submitted by the committee to those present and permanent organization effected.

Members of the committee which met this morning were W. R. Booth, chairman; Dr. J. L. Cooper, A. A. Billingsley, Oswald Wilson, C. W. Woodman, N. B. Moore and W. F. Sterley.

GERMANS DECLARE FOR "OPEN DOOR"

Notifies U. S. of Desire to Give All Nations Equal Chance in Morocco

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Germany has clearly outlined to the United States her Moroccan policy.

Acting under instructions from Berlin, Baron von Speck Sternberg, the German ambassador, called at the war department yesterday and left with Secretary Taft a memorandum to the effect: "Germany stands for the 'open door' in Morocco as in the Far East for the preservation of the status quo and for the safe-guarding of the commercial and trade interests not only of Germany, but of all trading nations of the world..."

Secretary Taft, without committing this government on the subject, thanked the ambassador and promptly forwarded the memorandum to President Roosevelt.

This information has been conveyed to the United States because of the sensational reports abroad about Germany's attitude.

After presenting the memorandum the secretary and the ambassador had a long conversation on the subject of Morocco, Baron Sternberg calling attention to the commercial importance of that country to the trading nations and emphasizing the international importance in Germany's opinion, of the preservation there of the "open door."

PRESIDENT BEATS TIME FOR "DIXIE"

Stirring Melody Interrupts the Opening of His Speech at Waco

40,000 CHEER ADDRESS

City Park Filled With an Immense Crowd of Citizens and Visitors

Special to The Telegram.

WACO, Texas, April 6.—Amid the thunder of cannon, the shrieking of steam whistles and the huzzahs of thousands of people the special train bearing President Roosevelt rolled into the station here shortly after 9 o'clock today.

The President was escorted to the Katy Park, adjoining the depot, where an immense assembly awaited him. His reception here was a revelation. Hats, handkerchiefs, umbrellas and flags were waved by the people.

When the president started to speak the band had commenced playing "Dixie" and he beat time enthusiastically. He said he had come to Texas a good American, but would go away a better one. He paid a glowing compliment to the greatness of Texas. He strongly impressed the need of a compact and disciplined National Guard and expressed gratification at the interest shown in this organization in Texas.

"But the true greatness of Texas," he said, "is in the hearts, women and children who are animated with honest purpose and courage and balanced by common sense."

Particular gratification was expressed at the fact that heroes of the blue-and-gray were mingled in the crowd. The closing reference was an expression of gratification at the magnificent reception everywhere accorded him.

Practically every business house in Waco was closed at 8:30 o'clock this morning, to remain closed until 10:30, to allow employees a chance to get off. The postoffice was closed during the time the president was here, the public and private schools turned out en masse and joined the big crowd surging toward the Katy park adjoining the passenger station on Eighth and Jackson streets, where the exercises were to be held.

The park, containing many acres, had been carefully laid off by the general committee, and one section was set aside for the schools of Waco, another for the general public and a section on the east side of the park was cut off by fencing for use by the negroes, and they were there by thousands.

A. B. Burnett does not endorse the movement, neither does S. H. Cowan, attorney for the Texas Cattle Raisers' association. The latter said today that the efforts of the legislature to appropriate money to be used in investigating the trusts is not specifically to probe the beef trust, but to go to the bottom of all violations of the anti-trust law, without reference to any particular alleged trust.

EDWARD STARTS TO JOIN QUEEN

Will Go to Marseilles by Way of Paris, Meeting President Loubet on the Way

LONDON, April 6.—King Edward started today to join Queen Alexandra at Marseilles by way of Paris, where he will meet President Loubet. The Marquis of Salisbury accompanied the king as minister in attendance. Not much attention was paid here to the suggestion from some quarters of the subject of the king's visit to France may be preliminary to an Anglo-French alliance.

PRESIDENT PROVES A GOOD "DRAWER"

Even optimistic local advance estimates as to the size of the crowds which greeted the president on his southwestern trip have been exceeded. Estimates of the crowds which saw him Wednesday are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Location, Number of people. Includes Parsons, Kan. (5,000), Winita, I. T. (10,000), Muskogee, I. T. (15,000), Atoka, I. T. (5,000), Durant, I. T. (6,000), Caddo, I. T. (5,000), South McAlester, I. T. (10,000), Sherman, Texas (5,000), Denison, Texas (5,000), Plano, Texas (2,500), Van Alstyne, Texas (3,500), Dallas, Texas (20,000).

PETITION ASKS NO INVESTIGATION

Commission Men Oppose Bill Appropriating $15,000 for Trust Inquiries in Texas

Opposition to Representative Fitzhugh's measure appropriating $15,000 for the purpose of trust investigation in this state has developed at the North Fort Worth stock yards, a petition to the legislature on the subject having been circulated Wednesday evening.

The petition is as follows: "We, the commission men cattle raisers and citizens of Texas, and especially of Fort Worth, petition you, the members of the legislature of the state of Texas, to refrain from making the appropriation of $15,000 for the purpose of investigating the live stock industry of Texas."

Signed by the following: Cassidy-Southwestern Commission Co., Ed. F. Smith, Evans-Montague Commission Co., Geo. R. Barse Commission Co., Geo. W. Saunders Commission Co., Godall-Crowley Commission Co., International Commission Co., National Commission Co., North Texas Commission Co., Russell-Plato Commission Co., W. H. Weeks live stock agent Frisco; T. E. Short, live stock agent Rock Island; E. B. Harrod, cattleman; Stockmen's Cotton Oil Co., Charles E. Hicks, cattle feeder; Fort Worth Horse and Mule Co.; J. W. Montague, Manager O'G cattle Co.; Gibbs & Galdridge, cattleman; R. H. Brown, cattleman; George Simson; John S. Grant, alderman; N. D. Clark, cattle; Cook & Simmons, horse dealers.

There is much opposition to the movement on the part of the leading stockmen here, who openly assert that such action is an insult to the Texas legislature, besides being uncalled for, inasmuch as the Federal action has authorized the investigation of trusts, if they exist.

Four dogs were killed by officers of the police force Wednesday afternoon on account of having the appearance of suffering from rabies. For a time during the afternoon Clerk Newby, at the Central station, was kept busy answering the telephone, to which people had rushed asking an officer be sent. Calls in some cases were of most frantic nature.

Officer Sam Garrett killed two dogs on the South Side early in the afternoon, and while he was gone Officer Maxey killed another on Rusk street. Later in the day a call came from the home of Robert C. Fuller, 812 Macon street. Officer Bilderbeck, upon his arrival there, found a dog which was apparently mad. The dog attempted to bite Mrs. Fuller and the officer before it was killed.

It is believed a mad dog in the city has bitten the other animals. No marks, however, were found upon the animals killed. It is likely the catching of untagged dogs, which was discontinued during the winter, will be recommenced at once.

Troops Occupy Village of Kuyasu—Russians Fail to Dislodge Them

TOKIO, April 6, 1 p. m.—Imperial army headquarters, reporting today, says: "Part of our Kulpun force, engaged in driving the enemy, occupied Kuyasu, three miles northeast of Mienhuachieh, on the afternoon of April 4. On the afternoon of April 3 the enemy with mounted artillery and machine guns advanced south from the direction of Tawo, on the Fenghua road, and on the morning of April 4 opened the bombardment on Chincheastun. Simultaneously a large force of infantry advanced from the vicinity of the main road. Two other columns are detouring to cover both of our flanks. They approached within 400 meters of our position, but at 6 o'clock in the evening were entirely repulsed. Our casualties were twenty-seven men wounded. The enemy's loss is uncertain, but it is estimated to be over 200 killed and wounded."

UNIVERSITY NAMES ORATOR

WAXAHACHE, Texas, April 6.—In the local oratorical contest held Wednesday afternoon Trinity University determined who will represent the university in the oratorical contest in Fort Worth April 21. H. W. Jones was declared winner. There were but two contestants.

Albert Midlane, author of that popular hymn, "There's a Friend for Little Children," and about a hundred other hymns, is still living at Newport, Isle of Wight. He recently celebrated his 80th birthday.

Those who have seen President Roosevelt since his arrival in Texas will agree that this picture is the best likeness of him which has been printed in the state. The large head, full face, powerful arms and hands which are striking features of the president's appearance, are particularly well brought out.

AUSTIN VISITED THIS AFTERNOON

President Addresses the State Legislature—Goes to San Antonio Tonight to Attend Rough Riders' Reunion

Never was more cordial welcome extended to honored guest than the enthusiastic greeting which has marked the visit of President Roosevelt to Texas.

Last night the president fell asleep in Dallas with the cheers of more than 20,000 loyal Americans still ringing in his ears. Before he awoke this morning, his special train had pulled silently out of the yards just as the sun began to rise over the Texas prairies.

Austin was reached just before 3 o'clock this afternoon and from that hour until 6:50 o'clock tonight the president will be the guest of the Lone Star State capital. While in Austin the president is scheduled to address both houses of the legislature. He will be welcomed by Governor Lanham, introduced by Speaker Seabury of the house of representatives.

Just before 7 o'clock tonight the president's train will leave for San Antonio, which will be reached about 9 o'clock, and the first objective point of the long journey began Monday morning will have been reached.

Friday will be the president's most strenuous day since his inauguration. He will review the federal troops at Government Hill, review the Confederate and Grand Army veterans in Travis Park, and afterward at Alamo plaza he will be formally welcomed to the city. Then he will speak to what is expected to be the largest crowd ever assembled in San Antonio. Immediately after the address, the president's reunion with the members of his rough rider regiment will begin.

It will last until 5:30 o'clock. At that hour the president will address the rough riders at a banquet. He is scheduled to leave San Antonio at 9:30 o'clock and come from there directly to Fort Worth, arriving here Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

SHERMAN WELCOME WARM

SHERMAN, Texas, April 6.—President Theodore Roosevelt reached Sherman yesterday at 4:12 p. m., and departed at 5:53 o'clock. Thousands of people lined the sidewalks of Mulberry, Travis and Houston streets, and congested Comstock Plaza.

"Our soldiers, you did your duty, and you did it well, as true Americans and as you thought was right. I am glad to see you here together, an exemplification of the ideal that we wish to see in all our people. In my veins flows the blood of both northern and southern ancestry, and I am glad of it." The remainder was lost in the cheers of the old soldiers of both sides, who were with difficulty restrained from crowding up to the president.

One old gray-haired southerner, with tears in his eyes, cried out, "God bless you for that, Mr. President." "My friends," he said, addressing the crowd, "I can't tell you how glad I am to be in Texas again. I was here some years ago raising a regiment for defense of the flag and the sons of grand old Texas showed they were worthy sons of brave old fathers. If you are as glad to see me as I am to see you, we will call it square."

About this time a little one in its mother's arms began to cry and the president stopped his address, and attracted the attention of the child, moved his hand and the baby laughed in glee. The president laughed.

5,000 IN DENISON CROWD

DENISON, Texas, April 6.—Fully 5,000 people greeted the president of the United States as his train pulled into the union station here at 8:32 yesterday afternoon. The tracks had been cleared of all obstacles for three blocks and this space was packed with a congested mass of humanity that surged about the president's car and defied all efforts of the police to keep it back.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT

To The Telegram.

Recently I heard a young girl say she would not walk across the street to see President Roosevelt, nor would she turn her head toward extending to him the hospitality of the city. I heard of a good boy's saying that his father would whip him if he should lift his hat to the president. Such radical utterances shocked me. But the children are not at fault. The blame utterly unable to see two sides to a question, just that long we may expect the out-croaking of such ugliness as I have referred to.

Far am I from recommending acts of servility. This is yet a free country, even in a democracy; and in a democracy there is no call for prostrations. Yet there is a respect that rightfully attaches to high station honorably won, and there is a regard which should be shown President Roosevelt—whether we do or do not agree with his politics, his racial theories, or his international ethics.

Let us notice some of the qualities which should insure President Roosevelt the respect of all thoughtful people.

We should respect him and teach our children to, because he is clean of character. His social life is without a blot. He not only preaches the virtues that make and sustain a pure home life, but he also practices them. The eloquent address which he recently delivered before that national gathering of women is full of sound sentiments, and deserves the proud study of every mother and daughter in this land.

Not only is he clean socially but there is no doubt that he is untainted politically. I do not believe he is corrupt. I do not believe he would use a dollar obtained "by vile means." That we have many such men does not lessen the respect which is due every one who is pure and strong enough to walk through this commercial, mammon-loving age without stain.

We should show President Roosevelt respect also because of the splendid public services he has rendered. He served New York, state and city, ably—and how the grafter growled! He served the nation in the navy department. He went forth and helped chase the Spaniards out of this hemisphere, and was just as heroic as the little war gave him a chance to be. And there is not a man who knows him but believes that if he were needed he would shoulder his gun or mount his horse and stay in the field until the nation's last armed foe expired.

Not only is his social life above reproach, his political career unstained, and his services distinguished, but he is courageous in a high moral sense. He has shown himself courageous enough to cross the powerful railroad interests of the country. He has the courage to say that if the great packers are guilty of conspiring against the people no guilty one shall go unwhipped of the law. He had the courage to try to settle the coal strike, at a time when his political future was in the balance, and he could have dodged the responsibility. He had the courage to oppose unionism, when he saw the unions were unreasonable in their demands.

President Roosevelt is entitled to our respect and the respect of our children because of his ability. He is a graduate of Harvard, and has studied assiduously all his life. His experiences have been varied, fitting him for the discharge of important duties. Are not statesmanship and learning of any worth? And more, he is broadening. There are unmistakable evidences of it; and so long as a man is growing, give him a chance. He has appointed a negro to a high place in New York, rendering consistent his firm stand for Crum in Carolina. He has but recently favored the descendants of some of our heroic dead. He has expressed a desire to act justly toward the south, and boasted of his southern blood. And now he is to visit us, not as inferiors, but as his fellow countrymen. Who can say with any semblance of reason that he is not entitled to every courtesy, or that in honoring him we shall not manifest our better selves?

Let every father give his son a little talk about how to behave on April 6, and every mother perform a similar duty by her daughter. No matter if we did vote for Parker—I did, and would do it again. No matter if we never can believe his statements about Jefferson Davis—and I never can. No matter if we do oppose his social or racial theories—and no worthy son of this southland ever will. No matter if we feel that his aggression in Panama was a shameful breach of international law. He is today the president of the whole United States. His career as a whole has been endorsed by a large majority. And as he is clean of character, patriotic, courageous, able, let us not allow the day to pass and his lesson be lost to our children.

DECORATIONS DISPLAYED
Presidential Banquet Receives Premature Exposure.

Decorations for the president's reception were displayed profusely on Throckmorton street this morning from the city hall to the Texas and Pacific station. The display was confined largely to the center of the street and was prematurely caused by the running away of a large horse attached to a wagon of the J. J. Langerver Company.

Before the frightened animal could be stopped a wagon, valued at $200, which it was drawing, was completely wrecked. The horse was an extra one hired because of the rush of orders for decorations.

THOUSANDS AID IN DALLAS WELCOME

President Calls State "Garden of the Lord"—Banquet Follows Address

DALLAS, Texas, April 6.—President Roosevelt's special train arrived at the union depot at 6:45 o'clock. A crowd numbering thousands cheered as he stepped from the train platform, waving his hat in response to the greetings.

He was met by Colonel John N. Simpson, chairman of the local committee on arrangements, and was escorted to a carriage by Colonel Simpson, Mayor Barry and Secretary Loeb.

The route of the carriage to the speaker's stand just east of the Oriental Hotel was lined by thousands, who were kept back by the police and military.

In front of the speaker's stand in a space a block square was a crowd which overflowed to side streets and alleys. The crowd probably numbered 12,000 to 15,000. Probably 7,000 to 10,000 who had seen the parade could not get within sight of the speaker's stand.

The president, after being introduced by Mayor Barry, said:

"Mr. Mayor, and You, My Fellow Americans: It has been indeed a pleasure for me to come today within the limits of this mighty and beautiful state. This afternoon I have passed through a veritable garden of the Lord, and it is only a few weeks since that I did my part in helping in the growth here when I signed the bill under which the Trinity river was improved, and I am mighty glad to do it, for I think that we Americans have learned the lesson that whatever is good for some of us is good for all. We are all going to go up and not down, because we are going to go together, and I have been impressed even more than by the beauty and fertility of your state by the grandeur of its people, and surely no president could be so touched by any greeting as by the greeting such as this with this wonderful array. I had expected a good deal of you, but nothing like this. This wonderful array, and, above all, what I know and believe that you will not mind my saying, above all to be greeted by the men who, when the hour of trial came in 1861 sprang to arms whether they wore the blue or whether they wore the gray, proved the sincerity of their devotion by the valor with which they risked their lives. Oh, my fellow countrymen, think what a blessed thing it is that now every man in this land can feel the same pride in the valor and devotion of those who fought for one side as in those who fought for the other. And in a sense claim to be by blood at least a typical president, for I am half southerner, half northerner—I was born in the east and I have a great deal of the west in my spirit.

"The city which has left you as a heritage of honor not merely the memory of the mighty deeds done in it, but the men of the north and the men of the south; it has left us also as an inspiration the way in which those men when they were through turned to the callings of peace and wrought out in peace success exactly as they had wrought it out in war.

PROBLEMS CHANGE
"The problems change. One generation faces different difficulties faced by its predecessor, but the spirit in which these problems are met is forever the same. You, the men of the Civil war, you who wrought deeds of deathless fame, who left memories of honor that will last as long as this nation, you fought with muzzle-loading, percussion cap muskets and rifles, with cannon that you could afford to put out in the open when you wanted to shoot at your foe. You fought still in the shoulder to shoulder tactics. Nowadays men must fight with different weapons, men must fight with different tactics, but the spirit in which they must fight, if they are to win, must be the spirit that sustained you alike in triumph and in defeat.

"The outward problem changes; the outward means of solving that problem change, but the heart of the man who has to solve it cannot be changed. We must show as a nation now the same spirit that has been shown by the mighty men of time past under penalty of failure. If the need arises, and show it in peace; show it in the days that are with us all the time instead of waiting for the heroic days that may never come.

"I will ask you men of the Civil war if it isn't a fact that as a rule the man who was a good soldier was the man who did each day the little things of that day; the man that you wanted was the man who when his soldier was no longer kicking him, didn't say 'Wasn't that so?'

TRAINING OF CHILDREN
"One of the things that has pleased me most, passing through the part of the state that I have passed through this afternoon, was to see the care that you are giving to the education of the children, to see the schools, public schools and private schools, which you have built and in which your boys and girls are being trained. And don't forget that besides the training of the school must come the training in the family. And right here, one point I want to dwell on, do not, for the sake of your own child, get into that foolish attitude of mind which will make you think that you are doing well by your children if you teach them to shirk difficulties instead of overcoming them. It isn't a kindness to a boy or a girl to train them up simply to have an easy time, a good time—not to train them up in the duties that would make them fit to be men. What would you do if you were for your own child, brought in the Civil war, you had been trained up to believe that if you met a difficulty the proper thing was to lay down or run away? And you don't like, do you, for an occasional foolish father—I am sorry to say, an occasionally foolish mother—who brings up the boy or the girl on the theory that all that's necessary is to have an easy time and to dodge difficulties?"

"It is necessary for the next generation to be able to rise level to its duties and you cannot make it rise level if you do not give it the proper training, and remember always that this life is certain to contain much that is hard, much that is unpleasant. The man who leads a soft life isn't the man who cares to look back at his life afterward. What are the days you look back upon with pride? The days you had an easy time? Not a bit. They are the days when you had to call on every ounce of manhood that was in you, but when you can thank the Creator that you made the call and that the manhood was there. Isn't that so?"

A hearty yes was the response. "Eradically," continued the president. "Then give your children the supreme blessing of having these qualities that they may call upon them whenever the need arises themselves. It isn't a kindness to a child to train him so that he cannot meet a need that arises. I do not believe that we ought ever to try to delude ourselves with the thought that we can ever make life easy and yet keep it worth having. The worthy life is the life of effort. You have made this great state of Texas what it is because your forefathers had in them the spirit that recognized in a difficulty something not to be flinched from, but to be overcome.

"I cannot sufficiently thank you for the way you have greeted me today. I am more touched by it than I can express and I come to the soil of this state, hallowed by the great deeds of great men, I come knowing your people already and believing in them.

"I shall go away with this feeling. A couple of years ago I went from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The average American, the average citizen of this mighty state, this wonderful commonwealth which borders on the Gulf and after all, while there are small differences, the fundamental fact and a mighty pleasant fact, is that wherever you find the average American, the average citizen, the average man, it is his unity, not the diversity, that is the great fundamental fact in our national life. I shall go away a stronger and better American for having been in this state of strong and good Americans in this mighty commonwealth of Texas. I thank you."

THREE HUNDRED AT BANQUET
After the president had rested an hour and fifteen minutes guests of the banquet were admitted to the hotel parlors. President Roosevelt was escorted to the banquet room. The banquet was one of the most elaborate and successful affairs that has ever been given in Texas.

Besides the president and his party there were 300 prominent Texas citizens, 150 from Dallas and 150 from other Texas cities.

In responding to the toast, "The President of the United States," President Roosevelt said in part:

"Gentlemen, let me say a word of serious thanks to you and word as to my accountability as a steward to you. No man is fit to hold the position of president at all unless as president he feels that he represents no party but the people as a whole. And so far as in me lies I have tried—I have tried and shall try to handle myself that every decent American citizen can feel that I have at least made every one of his own principles in his own way. If he tries to model himself on some one else he will make a poor show of it, and my own view of it has been that if I have got to choose between taking risks by not doing a thing or doing it, I will take the risk of doing it from Panama down."

"I have been a very close student of Texas history. The history of your state has always held a peculiar fascination for me. I had begun to read certain historical studies connected with the westward growth of our people many years ago, before I became prominent in public life. My purpose has always been when I left your life to take the studies up, so I want you now that you have not seen the last of your when I am through four years hence I am coming along down here and get at certain facts that I wish in order to write—make a history of the early history of Texas.

"However little some of you may think it, when they come to take into account what I have been on the Caribbean sea, in the future they will find that I have been carrying out just exactly the duties of the Texas who made Texas great, and while there are several features of that policy, all of them coming in together, yet as regards its most important features, as regards what was done in Panama, I want to say that while it was glorious to deserve the approval of my countrymen, and while I was very glad to be elected president, I would without one moment's hesitation have given up the second term of my presidency rather than not have got the Panama canal."

At the conclusion of his address the president was given a handsome loving cup, the presentation speech being made by W. H. Atwell, United States district attorney. Other speakers at the banquet were: Sloan Simpson of Dallas, toastmaster; George N. Aldredge and ex-governor J. S. Hogg.

CHICAGO SUES THE STANDARD OIL CO.
Wants $40,000 Penalties for Alleged Violation of Gasoline and Naptha Inspection Ordinance.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 6.—The city of Chicago has filed suit for $40,000 against the Standard Oil Company. The bill is based upon the alleged non-payment of inspection fees by the Standard Oil Company.

It is claimed that the company has for years refused to pay for inspections made by the city under an ordinance regulating commerce in naptha and gasoline. Representatives of the Standard Oil Company hold that gasoline and naptha are not products of petroleum and that the ordinance does not apply.

CATARRHAL COLDS THE TERROR OF SPRING

Pretty Girl Praises Per-na For Colds and Catarrh.

Miss Aline Fay, 921 Tenth St., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have been susceptible to colds for a number of years. I have found in Peruna a remedy which has greatly reduced the discomfort I experienced with colds.

"I have not only found it good for colds, but it is good for catarrh, and an excellent tonic."

We have on file thousands of testimonials like the ones given here.

We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of enthusiastic letters of thanks Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving for his famous catarrh remedy, Peruna.

A SUSCEPTIBILITY to colds constitutes in a multitude of people a serious infirmity.

They catch cold every few days. Cold after cold comes on, keeping them continually sneezing or coughing, or troubled with some other disagreeable symptom.

To break up this susceptibility to catching cold is one of the achievements of medical science.

Dr. Hartman has done perhaps more than any other living doctor to instruct the people how to avoid catching cold. A cold towel bath in the morning, the gargling of salt water in the throat, and many other hygienic regulations original with the Doctor have been promulgated for many years.

But the Doctor's success in combating the susceptibility to catching cold is without doubt more due to the use of his remedy, Peruna, than to all other measures combined.

A person who has this susceptibility is obliged to take a course of Peruna according to the directions on the bottle.

This not only clears the system of any lingering cold, but hardens the respiratory membranes against further cold-catching.

DOES NOT FEAR A COLD WITH PE-RU-NA ON HAND.
Miss Bessie Luckey, 3126-A Clifton Place, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"I took Peruna some time ago, when I was all run down from a neglected cold and overwork, and in two months it restored my strength in a remarkable manner.

"I consider it a very remarkable medicine and I do not fear a cold and its consequences now as long as Peruna is to be had."

Mr. Joseph Clark, U. S. Senate Folding Room, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I contracted a severe cold. I purchased a bottle of Peruna, and in a short space of time I was entirely rid of the disease.

"Whenever I feel myself taking a cold I always take Peruna."

Those who take Peruna do not catch cold.

CHIEF REA ADVISES CARE OF VALUABLES
Extra Duties Entailed on Police Force Saturday Will Make Field For Pickpockets.

"The crowd which will assemble in the city to see the president Saturday morning will be one foreign to the local police," said Chief Rea this morning. "We understand the character of the crowd which comes here for the cattle convention for it is an annual affair, but Saturday we will have a new and unknown element to deal with. A large number of the local police officers will be engaged in protecting the president and party, which will leave an insufficient number of police to handle the pickpockets and grafters.

"For this reason I suggest that all persons leave their money at home and securely lock up all their jewelry before leaving the house.

"In gatherings of all kinds the pick-pocket and grafter is always to be found. Saturday will be no exception. All those who do not exercise care with their money and valuables are liable to be relieved of them."

Take Care Of Your Heart.

It is the engine that forces the blood to every part of the body; this blood conveys the nourishment that makes flesh, bone and muscle; it also carries off the worn-out particles. If the heart flutters or palpitates, it is weak, and is working imperfectly, so that the body does not get this nourishment; it also fails to throw off the impurities, and they remain to poison the system.

If it is irregular, skips beats, or is painful, the heart is probably "leaky" and the circulation poor. These conditions are dangerous. You can make your heart well, and keep it so, with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, which is a heart medicine and tonic that strengthens the heart nerves and muscles.

"I have been a sufferer for years from nervousness and weak heart, and I have tried all the doctors in the community. They all told me that I had heart trouble, but they failed to help me. My druggist prevailed upon me to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and Restorative Nervine, saying that if the first bottle did not benefit me he would return the money. Every dose helped me from the time I began taking it, and after awhile my trouble was gone entirely."

RAILS DELAY CAR LINE
Work on Arlington Heights System Waiting Mill Delivery

John L. Breathitt of Shreveport, La., was in Fort Worth Wednesday. Mr. Breathitt is one of the capitalists who recently purchased the Arlington Heights property. He is here for the purpose of having a survey made for the new car line into Fort Worth from that suburb.

In discussing the matter of the car line yesterday he said the company would start building of the line as soon as material could be delivered on the ground, but that it had had some trouble in getting any assurance of an early delivery of rails, as most of the factories in the east were at present working overtime and unable to handle orders at once. Work on the line is to be pushed with a vim just as soon as the rails can be received.

While the company has only secured the right of way to the city limits from the county commissioners, it is probable that it will ask the city council at Friday night's meeting for a franchise to enter the city. Over what route has not as yet been divulged.

Property South of St. Joseph's Infirmary Transferred Wednesday

Mr. Keith said Wednesday that it was probable he would have the land staked off into lots and open it for homes. The property is just outside the city limits and heretofore has been used for farming.

OF ALL THE PEOPLE

President Roosevelt has come south with the right kind of sentiments in his heart for the southern people. In his speech made at Louisville Tuesday he said:

"For in the question of foreign and internal politics the points upon which there can be no proper division on party lines infinitely exceed in number those upon which there can be such division, and Governor Beckham, I shall do all that in me lies to justify the hope to which you have given expression and try to show myself the president of all the people of the United States. (Prolonged applause.)

"And, naturally, I feel particularly gratified at seeing here today, joined in this procession, the men who wore the blue and the men who wore the gray. (Laughter and applause.)

"In the dark days—now keep just as quiet as you can, you won't be able to do anything more than me anyhow (laughter and applause). In the dark days each of you fought for the right as it was given you to see the right (a voice: "That's right") and each of you have left us the right to feel proud not only in your valor, but in your devotion to what you conscientiously believed your duty (great applause). And now we are all one (cheers and prolonged applause), and as a reunited people we have the right to feel the same pride in the valor of the man who conscientiously risked his life in the Confederate uniform that we have in the man who fought in the blue (applause); and as I passed by your ranks, oh my friends of the gray, today, and saluted the flag of our common country held up by a man in the gray uniform, I felt that indeed we are one, and that we have been able to show mankind that the greatest war of the century can be followed by the most perfect union that any nation now knows (great applause).

That declaration that he intends to show himself the president of all the people of the United States implies much for the people of the south from the fact that considered in connection with his former kindly actions it discloses the fact that President Roosevelt is first a man, second an American and third a republican. He knows that the south is hopelessly democratic from a political standpoint, and that he has nothing to thank the south for in the enjoyment of the political success that he has been able to achieve. Our votes and our influence have been solidly against him, but he ignores that fact and comes among us with the manhood necessary to assure us that he proposes to be just as much our president as the president of any other portion of this great republic. He is broad enough to concede the right of the people of the south to express their preferences against him, and at the same time assures us that he will be just as much our president as he is of the east, the north or any other section of the country.

And the president speaks kindly, of the men who wore the gray. He concedes that our people took up the sword in defense of what they believed to be the right. He would have the reunited country do homage equally to the valor of the men who wore the gray and the men who wore the blue. Their deeds of valor are a common heritage. Such kindly sentiments as these can but meet with a warm and quick response from every southern heart, for they breathe the proper spirit. The president has started out well on his trip to the south, and both the southern people and the president will be the better for his coming.

When President Roosevelt was a younger man than he is now he made some strictures on southern people that have been perpetuated in some of his writings. This fact has prejudiced some of the ultra against him, but in the great majority of instances these matters are looked upon simply as an expression upon matters as the president saw them at that time and before his mind had broadened as it has in his maturer years. Judging from the expressions he is now making and his uniformly fair and considerate treatment of the south and southern people, it is a pretty safe assumption that those expressions would be quite different if they had been penned at a later period in Theodore Roosevelt's life. We should remember that the mother of the president was a southern lady, and his tenderest feelings must be of this section. In a speech at Charleston on April 2, 1902, President Roosevelt said:

"The wounds left by the great Civil war, incomparably the greatest of modern times, have healed and its memories are now priceless heritages of one alike, to the north and to the south. The devotion, the self-sacrifice and lofty daring and high devotion to the right as each man saw it, of the north or of the south, of the men and women of the early '60s now shine luminous and brilliant before our eyes, while the mists of anger and hatred that once dimmed them have passed away forever. All of us, north and south, can glory alike in the valor of the men who wore the blue and of the men who wore the gray. Those were iron times, and only from men could fight to that terrible finish the terrible struggle between the hosts of Grant and Lee. To us of the present day, and to our children and children's children, the valiant deeds and high endeavor and abnegation of self shown in the struggle by those who took part therein shall remain forever to mark the level to which we in our turn must rise whenever the hour of the nation's need may come."

The people of the south and the people of Texas make no mistake in showing honor to Theodore Roosevelt. His public utterances all proclaim him to be a man of fairness, justice and righteousness. He stands today for many of the principles that are dear to the southern heart, and he is a man who has the courage of his honest convictions. He is a forceful man, and a man of unswerving integrity. In all the political fights that have been engaged in by the president there has not been one whisper that could be construed as a reflection upon his private character. He is a man among men.

Texas welcomes the president of all the people and extends him the glad hand. May his stay in this state be altogether as enjoyable and beneficial as it is possible to make it. All Texans will unite in doing their part to make it so.

Russell Sage has been so affected by the Oyster theory that his retirement from Wall street is announced.

The citizens of Dallas and thousands of visitors were afforded an opportunity to see the Real Thing yesterday.

Mayor Wells seems to have been able to save his political bacon in the St. Louis municipal election only by a very close rub.

The intention of President Alexander of the Equitable Life Insurance Company seems to be to compel its vice president to Hyde out.

Governor Bob Taylor is threatening to abandon the lecture platform after this season, but the public is growing accustomed to these farewell tours.

Dallas presented the president with a beautiful silver loving cup, and Fort Worth admirers will give him a handsome diamond pin. Fort Worth can always be depended upon to shine.

Fort Worth democrats gave Chief Maddox a majority that was plenty large for the purpose. And the new chief goes into office with the kindest feelings for all Fort Worth people.

Governor Herrick made a very happy speech before the Texas legislature and said so many nice things concerning the state that it is suspected he is developing a bad case of Texas fever.

Senator Bailey thinks the time may come when the republican party will be able to make a much better showing in Texas, but the senator is evidently not seriously alarmed over the nearness of that time.

Commissioner Garfield has returned from a trip to Mexico, and announces he will at once begin an official investigation of the oil trust in Kansas. The people of the Sunflower State should see to it that no slacked lime is left in Mr. Garfield's vicinity.

The Southern Pacific merger bill has passed both branches of the state legislature, and is now up to the governor for his signature. And still the clarion voice of James S. Hogg has not yet been heard in protest against this unseemly proceeding.

Fort Worth must be clothed in her Sunday raiment next Saturday in honor of the distinguished visitor who will be in our midst. Every business man along the line of parade should unite in decorating his place of business in honor of this occasion.

There are lots of men in Texas who are actually spoiling for office. They are so anxious in that respect that they cannot refrain from making announcements of their desire nearly two years in advance of any election. This disposition should not be construed as an evidence of patriotism, for it is only a very keen appetite for pie.

Chicago may have her faults and really be one of the most wicked cities on this continent, but her people are still sufficiently level-headed to elect a democratic mayor. Carter Harrison may have been afraid to tackle the situation again, but Judge Edward F. Dunne took up the fight and led the democratic cohorts to a splendid victory.

Judge Terrell of Austin is the man who placed a muzzle upon the Texas press, but he insists that as two of the big Texas dailies are satisfied, the balance of the newspapers have no kick coming. There are some other papers in Texas besides those two which have brought joy to the heart of Judge Alexander Watkins Terrell.

Texas has a legal hanging just often enough to serve to remind the public that human life cannot be taken with impunity in this state. It is true that some of the red-handed murderers are permitted to escape, but there are enough executions to serve as a warning that all cannot hope to escape the consequence of their crime.

War correspondents now seem to be experiencing just about as much difficulty in bringing about peace as they did in provoking actual hostilities. Having killed off the greater portion of the Russian army and started the survivors in rapid retreat homeward, they are prepared to award all the honors and glory to the Japanese army, but those cold blooded Russians will not stand hitched in the peace procession so carefully arranged for them. They keep on insisting they have not yet had enough.

A BID FOR FREEDOM BY GUY BOOTHBY

"If the deed had to be done, was it not better that I should do it? It would take time more during that time it was possible I might discover some way to save her. Surely there must be some way, if only I had time."

"I consent," I said hoarsely, "coward that I am."

"And by Allah, thou shalt not regret it," he answered. "For I will trust thee as I have never trusted man before. And now I will tell thee how it is to be done."

"Thou wilt leave here at daybreak tomorrow, and an honorable escort shall accompany thee to the sea. Much money thou shalt take with thee, and more shall be sent thee to an address that shall be given thee in London. Thou shalt live as a rich man, which shall help thee to do that for which thou hast been sent."

"This a difficult task I have set thee, but where is the honor where no difficulty is to be found?"

"But how am I to get the lady here?" I asked. "For the task seemed too great to be accomplished."

"That is for thee to discover," was his rejoinder. "Surely he who has done so much as thou, will find some way. I fear not to leave it in thy hands."

"I can only do my best," I said. "It is not in the power of man to do more."

"One other word in thy ear. Bear it in mind always that thou art being watched. Everything thou doest will be known to me, and should there be any wrong back to its old cruel tone 'thou play me false, I swear by the prophet, those who are watching thee will slay both thee and her.'"

"This was more than I had bargained for, but I was not going to let him see that I attached much importance to the threat. He clapped his hands and a man made his appearance and, at a signal from the sultan, withdrew the manacles from my wrists."

"Go with my servant," said the sultan, "and thou wilt find that I have provided for thee."

I made my obeisance and accompanied the man from the ante room. We reached a richly-carpeted doorway, which the man, with a respect he had been very far from showing me before, drew aside for me to enter. Considering that I had not performed my ablution since the day I had quitted the city, and that my dress was unfit to be seen, it may be easily realized how delighted I was to see water placed ready for me, while, in a corner of the room was the luggage I had left at my lodgings prior to my flight."

I set to work, and soon was an Englishman once more. So far as I could see, all my belongings were intact, though how that came about was more than I could tell. Among them I was rejoiced to find a pipe and some tobacco. In less time than it takes to tell, I was seated on the cushions, puffing away with a contentment that only a man can know who has been without a smoke for a long time. I was in the act of filling my pipe for the second time when a man entered to inform me that the governor, my old friend the kaid, craved the honor of an interview with me.

I had the man show him in, and almost immediately he entered my presence.

"Let us get the interview over as soon as possible. I have no cause to love you, and I don't care to spend any more time in your company than I can help."

The old rascal's grief was very great. It was all a mistake, he asserted. He had only acted according to instructions. He had always been my friend, and would prove it now, if I would only permit him an opportunity. If there was anything I required, he would procure it for me without delay.

I told him that there was. I had so much enjoyed the dates and water which had been my daily portion during my imprisonment that I should like to be served with some at once.

He stared at me with astonishment, and gave the order.

Then he turned to me and, flopping down on his knees before me, began to wail. From what I could gather from his disjointed discourse, the sultan was far from pleased with him for not grinding more taxes out of the wretched inhabitants of the city. He had threatened to remove him from his office. He had done his best, he assured me, and to prove it, he added with a naive tone that was sublime, "I have flogged upwards of 100, burnt many Jews on the hand, and silt the nose of another; but it is of no use. They say they are poor men and cannot pay. Speak for me to my master, O my friend, and I will reward thee to the best of my power."

He had just finished the recital of his woes when the servant returned bringing with him a bowl full of dates. If those which had been served to me had been bad, these were possibly worse.

"It may be in thy mind, O kaid, that but a few days ago I appealed to you for better food, saying that I could not eat this fruit. Your answer was that anything was good enough for a Nizrani dog, and that if you had your way you would let me starve."

Again he fell to protesting his friendship toward me, but I cut him short.

"If you wish me to put in a good word for you, let me see you eat these dates, and give me your opinion of them."

As I knew of old, he was a dainty feeder, according to Madraspe notions, and his stomach revolted at the notion of such a meal. Nothing he could do or say would persuade me to let him off, I declared. "If they should, or I would tell all I knew of him to his majesty."

Thereupon, with such grace as he could command, he set to work upon his unwholesome task. When he was perhaps a third of the way through, he declared that he could eat no more.

"It won't do, my friend," I said. "Go on!"

At this moment the man who had been deputed my attendant entered with a meal consisting of savory course-cousous, a chicken and fruit, with a bottle of champagne. How that bottle of forbidden liquor happened to be in the place I cannot say, nor did I lose any time surmising. I went at the exquisite dinner with great gusto.

"I could see that he scarcely knew what to say to me. It is seldom that the tables are turned so completely as they had been in this case."

"I have come to thee, O my friend, to restore to thee that which those dogs of Shalhan took from thee."

He handed over not only that which the escort had robbed me of, but also the money I had handed myself, with a considerable sum added to it. Much to his amazement, I pocketed only what was my own and returned the balance to him.

"My lord is not offended with his servant," he said with a whine. "It is not enough, I will bring more."

he it was who introduced me to her. He, poor fellow, was shot by accident in the highlands. As I was to start at daybreak I expected momentarily to receive a message bidding me wait upon the sultan. But the quaint old Moorish lamp hanging by chains from the ceiling had been lighted some time before the messenger invited me to follow him to the sultan's apartment. (To be Continued.)

Cleanings From the Exchanges

The boldest man in Texas, the man who always has the courage of his convictions and the nerve to give public expression to his honest sentiment regardless, is in the city to attend the banquet in honor of President Roosevelt. At the Houston convention he gave credit to Theodore Roosevelt for the good that he had done and scored the congressional trust leaders for side-tracking paramount issues in order to flaunt publicly the negro domination scarecrow to obscure from view Pat McCatten and his followers. James S. Hogg stated the truth at the Houston convention, what he predicted has come to pass and when the president of the republic meets this gigantic Texan tomorrow he will be in the presence of a man of his own caliber.—Dallas Times-Herald.

It has not required much time to vindicate the few remarks made at Houston by J. Stormont Hogg. He had the nerve to speak his honest convictions and elicited a vociferous howl from those who felt the keenness of his thrusts, coupled with the most vigorous denunciation. But from the mountain top of fulfilled prophecy Governor Hogg can now look down upon his calculators with that serenity that usually accompanies the "I told you so."

You are only a steward in charge of what you seem to possess. In a few years, at best, you will step down and out and another will take your place. The land on which you live and all the broad acres of which you may be possessed are only loaned to you, and the terms of the contract are such that you may be dispossessed at any time and in charge even before the end of your natural life if you fail to be a wise servant and go to abusing your privileges. It is sad to see a man possessed of all of the good things of life and made to enjoy them even as well as his mental servants enjoy them.—Devine News.

It is hard for some men to comprehend the stewardship idea. They go through life with the idea that they should accumulate all the riches of the earth, only to realize in the end that they can carry none of it with them when they shake off this mortal coil. There is more in life than the accumulation of wealth.

The announcement that Dallas, Texas, is to give the president a banquet where seats will cost $25, and that San Antonio is giving one where they cost $12.50 per plate, and that other places in charge even in both cases for seats, indicates that after all Texas is not slow in the matter of coughing up, even for Teddy.—Austin Statesman.

The Dallas banquet was limited to 200 guests, of which Dallas furnished 100. The remaining 200 were invited from different sections of the state, and their plates were paid for by the Dallas 100. So, it will be seen that Dallas was quite generous after all.

Last year the "reorganizers" reorganized the democratic party and were a great deal of fuss made about it. Now Mr. Bryan announces his purpose to "reorganize the democratic democrats." Mr. Bryan will find that there is a hard job ahead, just as the "reorganizers" found a hard job last summer, and a harder job after they captured the national convention. It would appear to a man up a tree that what the democratic party most needs is harmony and a purposeful democracy ready to give up knives, hatchets and the like and work for the interest of the party and country.—Sherman Register.

What the democratic party needs is rest and quiet from the manipulations of some of the political leaders. The party was very nearly reorganized to death last year, and has not yet recovered from the effects of that reorganization. When the party is suffered to conduct its affairs along proper and natural lines it never fails to show up at the polls in good shape, but when it falls into the hands of scheming politicians the result is always disastrous. Mr. Bryan should not attempt to reorganize the democracy. He should simply place himself at its head and lead it to victory, trying to avoid all the errors that have been made in the past.

The visit of the president to Texas is demonstrating one fact and that is that partisanship is strong, patriotism is much stronger. It was said that when the present queen of England came from Denmark as the bride of the prince of Wales, the poet-laureate wrote that though England was composed of many different nationalities, yet they were all Danes in their welcome to the new princess of Wales. So on the occasion of the visit of the president to Texas, it might be said with equal force that though we are composed of many different parties, yet all are Americans in our welcome of the chief magistrate of our country. Let the pessimist who has grave fears of the stability of our government take notice of this fact.—Terrell Transcript.

The visit of the president to Texas has served to demonstrate that Americanism is greater than partisanship, and that fact speaks well for the future of this republic. We are all rapidly coming to the point where we can get above the narrowness with which we have heretofore been afflicted, and see things in a much fairer light.

A DANDY FOR BURNS Dr. Bergin, Pana, Ill., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment, always recommended it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. It is a dandy for burns. Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns, bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency." 25c, 50c and $1. Sold by Covey & Martin, 810 Main street.

Advertisement for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Text: 'Colds A cold is always the result of undue exposure to low temperatures. The rapid cooling of the surface, when not balanced by proper reaction, produces the congestion and inflammation of the nasal and bronchial membranes, commonly called a cold. As the slightest cold predisposes the individual to attacks of the most severe and dangerous character, the necessity for its quick cure need not be emphasized. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of the cold appears and all dangerous results will be avoided. It not only cures a cold quickly but counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. This fact has been fully proven during the epidemics of colds and grip of the past few years. No case of either of these diseases having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, has ever been reported to the manufacturers or come to their notice, which shows conclusively that it is not only the best and quickest cure for a cold, but a certain preventive of that dangerous disease—pneumonia. There is no danger in giving this remedy to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug. It is pleasant to take. Price, 25c; Large Size, 50c.'

TEACHERS ASKED TO BRING PUPILS

Letters Sent Them by Committee Requesting That They Assist at Welcome

CARRIAGES ARE ALLOWED

Committee Announces Those Who Will Ride With Guests in the Procession

Letters were mailed last night and this morning to every teacher in the Fort Worth public schools, asking them to assist in making President Roosevelt's reception a success by bringing the children of their grades to the court house to view the parade. It was also suggested that as many of the parents as possible be asked to accompany the children. This method was taken by Judge N. B. Moore, who has charge of this feature of the parade, because of the fact it was impossible to see each teacher personally. It is expected all the teachers will readily agree to the request and that when President Roosevelt passes the court house at least 5,000 pupils of the public schools will greet him with cheers and the waving of flags.

The entire court house grounds are to be used for the children and every precaution is to be taken that no harm befalls them.

Colored school children and their teachers are to be massed at the city hall when the president passes they are to sing "The Star-Spangled Banner." The schools have been practicing on this piece for several weeks and some excellent singing will be heard.

ELABORATE DECORATIONS According to assurances given the committee having the matter of proper decorations in hand for the parade Saturday every business house in Main and Houston streets is to be decorated for the event.

Dr. J. L. Cooper, who will have the entire front of his store covered with the largest flag in the state of Texas, the flag being thirty-five feet in length and twenty feet wide. At each corner of this immense flag is to be a lithograph of the president.

The contract was let late Wednesday afternoon for the decoration of the Texas and Pacific passenger station. The sum of $250 is to be expended in decorating this building.

POLICE ESCORT An order was posted this morning at police headquarters by Chief Rea, requesting all city policemen to make arrangements for the use of a horse Saturday morning on which to ride during the parade given in honor of President Roosevelt.

Preparations are also being made to secure horses for some of the Dallas policemen who are to be present and take part of the men have been asked to get their accoutrements in the finest kind of shape and their uniforms as well.

ORDER OF CARRIAGES The committee to whom was given the power to decide who should be the occupants of the carriages in the parade Saturday morning have completed the list.

The first carriage will contain President Roosevelt, Mayor T. J. Powell, Sam Davidson and Secretary Loeb. The second carriage will be occupied by four of the president's party. In each of the other carriages until all of the visitors are cared for will be two of the party and two or more citizens.

The third will contain Congressman Oscar W. Gillette and Judge Edward R. Meek, the fourth David T. Bomar and J. N. Winters, the fifth Major K. M. Van Zandt and William Capps, the sixth B. Paddock and N. B. Moore, the seventh Clarence Guseley and three of the visitors, the eighth Professor Alexander Hog and Truman H. Comer, the ninth Frank Stanley and Sam H. Cowan, the tenth Hon. William Hanger, W. D. Williams and C. D. Reimers, the eleventh W. A. Deodun, James L. Cooper, Dr. William Rounds and S. B. Hovey, the twelfth W. C. Forbes, J. C. Martin, Dr. C. P. Brewer, L. M. Barkley and Clyde Jack.

THE CATTLEMEN'S FRIEND

Letter of Association to President Refers to Him in That Term—To Decorate

In conformity to a resolution adopted by the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association during its late meeting in Fort Worth, Secretary Lytle Wednesday prepared a resolution extending to President Roosevelt the hearty thanks of the association, acknowledging the interest he has taken in legislative matters looking to a betterment of the live stock industry of this country.

In the resolutions the president is referred to as "The Cattleman's Friend." The resolutions were delivered to S. B. Burnett, who carried them to Dallas Wednesday and presented them to the president in person.

Secretary Lytle is having a large banner prepared which is to be stretched across Main street, bearing a suitable inscription as the sense of the association, welcoming the president to Fort Worth.

S. B. Burnett, who is to be one of those who will extend to the president a warm welcome on his arrival here Saturday morning, returned from the Territory Wednesday morning.

Mr. Burnett went to the Territory to perfect plans and necessary details for the president's wolf hunt, which will take place in the great pastures of W. T. Waggoner, and not in the pastures of Mr. Burnett, as has been erroneously stated.

Mr. Burnett said today that there were plenty of wolves to be found in the Waggoner pasture. He will be one of the president's hunting party and will leave with the chief executive's party when it starts from Fort Worth Saturday morning.

AMUSEMENTS

WHITE WHITTLESEY White Whittlesey, the young romantic actor, who is under the management of Belasco, Mayer & Price, will be seen at the Greenwall opera house tonight in "Soldiers of Fortune." Whittlesey comes here with a splendid record from other cities and is likely to become as big a favorite here as he is elsewhere. The Galveston News said: "Like Lord Lochinvar, White Whittlesey has come out of the west and in the realm of histrionics he is capturing his audience the same as the bold lord did in the field of love."

"There is no resisting the admiration that is elicited for the dashing, graceful and handsome Whittlesey, who has made such a success on the Pacific slope, but who is thus far without renown in the east, and until his present advent was little known in the south. This is because, however, of the fact that in the theatrical world he has had but little, if any experience behind the footlights in the metropolis or sister cities. But when he does there is no gainsaying the prediction that he will meet with favorable criticism."

"This is because Whittlesey is so natural in his portrayal of the characters essayed. And they are all of human interest, too, if this newspaper term may be applied in the theatrical world. His plays deal with events in which emotions of the heart are awakened. In the way of comparison, he may be likened to the popular Tim Murphy. 'Heartsease' is a pretty little romantic comedy with the scene laid in the eighteenth century, when men were ever ready, yeager, to take up the sword in vindication of honor for the hope of winning the love of my lady fair. Not only is it a good portrayal of conditions and customs of the time, but there is cleverly interwoven such an amount of dramatic incident as to give it tone and furnish opportunity for the display of talent. And that opportunity is taken advantage of not by Mr. Whittlesey alone, but by other members of the cast as well. As Eric Temple, the young composer, Mr. Whittlesey is most pleasing. Magnetic, easy, graceful and handsome to a degree, he is altogether such a character as one would choose for a hero. His voice is soft and pleasing and his enunciation good, but there is that about him that speaks more eloquently than voice. That is the language of emotion, when without uttering a single syllable, he speaks volumes of ambitions, hopes, joy and love, of disappointment, wounded pride, dejection, despair. The manner in which the passions of the heart and soul were portrayed was that of an artist of cultivated talent."

Watch and Ring of Man Found Unconscious Here Traced by Officers to Pawn Shop

J. P. Prendergast, brother of W. A. Prendergast, the man found by Officers Black and Gaddis near the corner of Fourteenth and Rusk streets, April 1, in a semi-conscious condition, was in the city late Wednesday afternoon from Charleston, S. C., attempting to solve the mystery which seems to surround his brother's condition. With several officers he visited a pawn shop and found his brother's watch and a ring, which had been taken from the man and pawned.

Prendergast has been taken to the Dallas sanitarium for treatment. He has as yet been unable to give any account of his experiences. When found in this city Prendergast said he had been without food for twelve days.

MOTHERS! Retain Your Youthful Figures.

To be beautiful is to be loved by all. If there lives the woman who is indifferent to this she is yet to be heard of. Yet from time immemorial society has recognized what they thought to be a detriment in the way of such a realization. The bearing of children has meant to them the marbling of physical beauty of figure, without which beauty of face would be of little account. Nothing could be more remote from truth than this; childbirth is purely a natural phenomenon, accompanied by pain, to be sure, but if properly managed no more harmful in its effects upon the human form divine than any other natural function.

MOTHER'S FRIEND is essential in the proper management of every case of labor; it relaxes and softens the abdominal muscles, thereby enabling them to sustain the stretching that they must undergo, and from normal proportions after childbirth, and it is obvious that pain must be greatly lessened from this very reason.

It is innocent, it is harmless, it is potent, it is priceless in its results, it is Mother's Friend. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Our book of priceless value sent free to all women.

Protected by Block Signals

The first railway in America to adopt the absolute Block System in the operation of all trains was the CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE AND ST. PAUL RAILWAY

It today has more miles of road operated under block signal rule than any other railway company. The St. Paul Road was the first railway to light its trains by electricity, and it now has more than 400 electric-lighted passenger cars in daily service. This is a considerably greater number than operated by any other railway. The St. Paul Road was also the first to adopt the steam-heating system, and its passenger trains are today the best heated trains in America.

WITH THE CATTLEMEN

SOUTHERN CATTLE MOVEMENT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 6.—The movement of southern cattle into the Osage Indian nation has commenced. Under the orders of the department of agriculture all cattle entering the reservation must be dipped to insure against disease. The interior department still insists that the Oklahoma quarantine law is not operative in the Osage nation, in that it would interfere with the rights of the Indians in leasing their lands for the greatest amount of money, and therefore only the inspectors, employed by the government, will superintend the incoming and outgoing of cattle from this reservation. During the present week R. R. Russell of Menardville, Texas, was in Pawhuska, Osage nation, making arrangements to unload 35,000 head of Texas steers to be pastured in the northern and western part of the reservation. It is their desire to have their cattle unloaded at Nelagony, a small town in the reservation, and this will be granted by the railroad, provided the cattlemen can find a proper outlet from this station to the pastures. If the cattle are unloaded at Nelagony a dipping vat is to be established there, where all southern cattle will be plunged into a bath of Beaumont crude petroleum.

Cattlemen state they have no idea of the total number of cattle that will be pastured in the Osage nation this season, but judging from the bidding on pastures the number will be considerably less than during the previous seasons. The number of pastures for lease was 180. Seventy-nine of these were taken at the letting Feb. 23. The balance were readvertised to be let on March 15, and but twenty-five of them were taken.

Various reasons exist as to why the demand for pastures is likely to be light but cattlemen claim the principal reason is that nothing but steers and dry cows will be sent to the Oklahoma pastures on account of the dipping feature. While the crude oil is not regarded as dangerous to the animals, yet the operation of dipping is more or less dangerous to poor and weak cows, including the breeding cows, and consequently owners do not think it advisable to put many such through the vats. Only one dipping of cattle is required prior to May 15, after that time the cattle must be held and redipped until inspector states they are clear from infection.

A BOVINE CANINE LOGANSPORT, Ind., April 6.—A dog with hoofs like a cow is the latest freak to attract attention in Logansport. The animal is owned by Daniel Brown, a veteran Third street liquor dealer, and is a cross between a Shepherd and a Spaniel. It was purchased by Brown from Miles Dickey, a Panhandle engineer, three years ago when a pup, but not until recently did the hoofs grow on its feet, and the owner is at a loss to know how to account for them.

The growth has appeared on all four feet and is as hard as horn. When the dog walks across the floor of the saloon where it is kept there is a sound like the pattering of a couple of children with wooden shoes.

The dog is an inveterate beer-drinker, and the theory is advanced that the animal's fondness for the beverage has had the effect of producing the abnormal growth on its feet. Brown has been offered large sums for the animal from museum managers, but so far he has refused to accept any of the offers.

STOCKMEN'S FEARS DISPELLED A special from Fairfax, Okla., says that L. B. Morledge received a shipment of seven cars of southern cattle from Fort Worth, Texas. In compliance with the Oklahoma quarantine regulation these cattle were dipped in Beaumont crude oil at Fort Worth. This is the first shipment of dipped cattle to arrive. To the surprise of stockmen the cattle arrived in first-class condition. They stood the journey well and appeared none the worse for having been dipped in crude petroleum. The excellent condition of these cattle has wholly dispelled the fears that stockmen have of dipping.

SEEKING NEW OUTLETS Texas cattlemen are now seeking and finding new and better outlets for their surplus stock, says Chicago Live Stock World. Gradually the northwestern range grazing lands are being hedged in and cut off, but the feed lots of the corn belt are being opened up and can easily form a far more reliable and valuable outlet for surplus Texas bovine production than the Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and Dakota ranges ever did. Even today the wide spreading horns there were a good many Texas cattle brought into the corn belt, but it was found that the higher the grade of cattle the better the results for all concerned and so there has gone on wonderful improvement in the quality of the Lone Star State cattle that have found their way into the feed lots and pastures of the middle west.

BIG BELLE FOURCHE MEET The Northwestern Stock Growers' Association has made elaborate plans for its third annual meeting at Belle Fourche, S. D., April 13 to 15, and the program arranged gives assurance that the hundreds of Dakotans and others who attend that gathering of stockmen will be royally entertained, and also treated to some of the best speeches on live stock and range matters heard in months. A program of sports has been completed which will cover the whole period of the meeting, and large prizes have been offered to the winners of the various contests which go to make up a successful range-men's annual gathering. Notable among the speakers who will address the gathering are Sam H. Cowan, attorney for the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas; Murdo MacKenzie, the big Colorado cattlemen and A. E. de Riegles of Denver, manager of the American Live Stock and Loan Company. The business meeting of the association will be held Friday, April 14, at 10 a. m., and many important questions affecting range cattlemen's interests will come up for discussion. Belle Fourche citizens have arranged ample accommodations for the entertainment of an enormous crowd and propose to make this event the greatest in the history of the flourishing Northwestern Stockmen's Association.

MRS. INA M. LOWRY.

You Can Feel Better at Once!

When everything seems an effort, when you feel tired most of the time, when you wake up every morning as tired as when you went to bed,—then there is something wrong.

Nature is protesting against some neglect or some abuse. Nature protests more often against nerve neglect than any other cause.

Remember, your strength is not in your muscles—the muscles simply work when the Nerve Force tells them to.

Every form of weakness, or sickness, or disease, comes from a lack of Nerve Force to keep the organs working properly.

When the nerve system is not strong and well-nourished, it follows inevitably that one is easily "over-worked"—easily run down—just as Mrs. Lowry describes.

COTTON MARKET IS QUIET

NEW YORK, April 6.—The market opened quiet with trading very small.

Cables reported Liverpool quiet but steady, with spot sales 8,000.

Private advices were to the effect that business was quieter both in Liverpool and Manchester, although the tone of the markets were steady.

There were small offerings at our opening and prices advanced at first under some commission houses buying the large receipts.

The enormous figures of the week pointed to about 240,000 caused local traders to sell out later in the morning and the advance was quickly lost.

A prominent local operator was also supposed to have sold heavily in May and July deliveries, forcing quotations 5 to 6 below the last night's figures.

Some interests were believed to be undoing their May contracts, under which the May position was easier, 8 to 9 points over July.

Southern spot markets showed small demand but holders as yet show no indication of throwing over their actual cotton at anything but full prices.

In the afternoon spot people bought may delivery and Wall Street brokers supported October.

Trading became more active, and prices were easier under considerable bear pressure.

Weather news was not such as to have much effect on sentiment, but warmer and dryer weather would be welcomed in the south.

LIVERPOOL COTTON. (By Private Wire to M. H. Thomas & Co.) LIVERPOOL, April 6.—The spot cotton market was steady in tone, with a moderate business.

May-June 4.17-18-19, 4.19, 4.16; June-July 4.18-19-19, 4.19, 4.18; July-August 4.19-21-21, 4.22, 4.19.

ESTIMATED TOMORROW. New Orleans 7,800 to 9,000, 1,827; Galveston 4,500 to 5,000, 2,794; Houston 6,750 to 7,250, 425.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES. (By Private Wire to M. H. Thomas & Co.) NEW ORLEANS, La., April 6.—The market in cotton futures was steady today.

Following is the range in quotations: Open, High, Low, Close. THE LIVE STOCK MARKET

Beef Steers Again Lead in Receipts. Market Active—Hog Quotations Higher

NORTH FORT WORTH, April 6.—Cattle receipts today were not far from 1,200, compared with 834 Thursday of last week.

The same day last month and 935 the corresponding day in 1904.

Beef steers led the cows in point of numbers, with several laps to spare, in fact it looked for awhile as though there would be no cow market.

The extra run of steers put new life into the market. Outsiders started in for steers and captured a number of loads, right off the block.

These were mostly light grass cattle from the Rio Grande border. Packers were also out for steers in the absence of butcher cows, and an active market resulted, with prices strong to 10c higher.

Best steers sold at $4.55, bulk $4.00 to $4.40, grassers $4.20.

Had it not been for about 200 drivers in the butcher cow market would have fallen flat. Just a very few good cows were shown, and up to noon only one straight load had been sold.

The trade being confined to jack pots picked up here and there. Considering the dearth of supplies the market was active, and all sales showed strength.

Medium cows were at least a nickel higher. Pops sold at $4.00, bulk between $3.00 and $3.80, medium cows $2.50 to $3.00, heifers $2.25 to $3.00.

About 200 calves made up today's market, and these were mostly picked up over the yards. The quality somewhat improved and so did the price for good weaners sold 25 cents higher.

Bulls were few and selling stronger. Prices ran from $2.50 to $3.10, stags sold from $3.00 to $3.75.

Hogs—The supply of hogs ran around 2,600, against 2,381 Thursday of last week, 2,620 the same day in March, and 1,373 the corresponding day in 1904.

The quality was an improvement over that shown yesterday, the bulk being heavy packers. Very few lights and not many pigs. The market opened 5c higher, and this was maintained to the close with a possible betterment.

Pops sold $5.45, bulk $5.25 to $5.37, pigs $4.00 to $4.50.

Sheep—Sales of sheep up to noon were confined to a small bunch of drivers and two decks of very common stuff.

TODAY'S RECEIPTS. Sheep 1,200; Hogs 2,500; Cattle 1,200.

TOP PRICES TODAY. Hogs $5.45; Steers $4.55; Cows $4.00; Bulls $3.25; Calves $2.75.

RUSSIAN PEASANT UPRISINGS GROW

Troops Unable to Stop Plundering of an Estate by Peasant Bands. ST. PETERSBURG, April 6.—Reports of a peasant uprising in the provinces, especially in Lithuania and Courland, continue extremely disquieting.

At Warsaw, where a regiment of Cossacks fired on a mob which was in complete possession of the town the rioters were dispersed, but they broke up into smaller bands which terrorized the neighboring landowners. Similar incidents have occurred at other places. Smaller bands drive off cattle, burn barns and fodder and help themselves to grain and provisions. Dispatches from dozens of places tell of the panic produced by the depredations of roving bands.

WARSAW, April 6.—All persons participating in disorders hereafter will be tried by martial law. The new regime commenced yesterday, when two workmen were tried and condemned to death. One of them fired a revolver at a policeman and struck a policeman with an iron bar.
