

JAPANESE LEADER DISCUSSES THE WAR

Field Marshal Oyama as Hard to Interview as a New Jersey Clam

LOOKS LIKE MAINE FARMER

Jolly Face Is the Picture of Health—Blushes at Talking for Print

BY WILL H. BRILL. Special to The Telegram.

HEADQUARTERS IMPERIAL JAPANESE SECOND ARMY, Manchuria, April 10.—I have had a talk with Field Marshal Marquis Oyama, and for the first time since he came to Manchuria he has talked for publication. He wasn't anxious to do it this time and only consented after I had explained to him that an interview would be only of great value to the world, but it would be valuable to me if he would consent to say something for publication.

LIVES THE SIMPLE LIFE

Access to Field Marshal Oyama is very easy. His life, like his character, is simple. In the main, he has been with the Japanese army in the field. He has called on him perhaps half a dozen times. Every time I have seen him and seen him at once. He has a wonderful memory for faces and names and never forgets either.

He crossed his legs and swung one foot. He took a fresh grip on his cigar and began to chew it. He told me that it was his silence. Then he looked at me, smiling sheepishly, and said: "You'll have to tell me what to say."

PROUD OF ARMY

"Our entire army, both officers and men have performed their duty as Japan knew they would. In the olden days the army of Japan was composed exclusively of samurai, or professional fighting men, and for that reason there was little military spirit in the country except among these classes. Our modern army is composed of all classes, not only the 'samurai,' but the merchants and artisan classes, and even the farmers. Yet all of our troops have been fully realized by the work of the army in actual war."

NEW YORK HOTEL TO COST $15,000,000

Structure Will Be Fifteen Stories High and Contain Nearly a Thousand Rooms

NEW YORK, June 14.—Where the Plaza hotel now stands at Fifty-ninth street and Fifth avenue, overlooking the southern end of Central Park, it has been planned to erect within the next year a hotel which will rival any similar structure in the world. Fifteen stories high and having nearly 1,000 rooms, it is to be built at a cost of about $15,000,000. The projectors expect to have their hostelry ready for business a year from next autumn.

It was at first planned merely to remodel the structure as it stands today, and erect an addition at a cost of about $2,000,000, but the men who are to manage the hotel have prevailed on the owners of the property to raze the whole building.

In every respect it is planned to have the new hotel a model. Its ballrooms and cafes will be modeled after the famous hotels of Europe, the entire inner court being taken up with one large dining room, other smaller dining rooms extending along the side.

The old Plaza will be closed and many families who have resided there a score of years will be compelled to seek new quarters. When the furnishings have been auctioned off the building will be demolished.

pride in the achievements of the Japanese army, of the wonderful success of his country and his soldiers.

"And what will the army do next?" I asked, trying to make my question seem an innocent one. The field marshal looked at me and laughed.

"Ah, now you are going too far," he answered. "You are trying to get me into trouble."

He said little more. He intimated plainly that Japan was prepared to continue the war just as long as it was necessary to the future.

Persistent rumors have been published in foreign countries regarding Marquis Oyama's health. They are all nonsense. He looks better than any man I met when I first saw him in Tokio fourteen months ago.

The delegates were welcomed this morning by Mayor J. J. Williams for the city and Governor John I. Cox on behalf of the state. The welcoming addresses were responded to by J. Harry Tregoe of Baltimore, former president of the association.

TEACHERS MAY SPANK ACCORDING TO LAW

New York Judge Offers to Give Legal Authority for Solomon's Corrective Method

NEW YORK, June 14.—Corporal punishment, abolished some time ago by the board of education, has been restored in New York public schools through a decision of Judge Olmsted, in the children's court, although the president of the board enters a contrary ruling.

According to the judge, the lash may now be used by teachers without any interference on the part of parents whenever the court gives juvenile offenders into their custody.

This decision was reached after examining two boys, the first for playing truant, the second on a charge of stealing a gold ring from his teacher. Both pleaded guilty.

Their parents pleaded hard with the judge not to send the boys to an institution. Judge Olmsted then announced his decision to act under a new form of commitment, by which children guilty of small crimes can be put under the legal guardianship of their teachers.

This means corporal punishment whenever the guardian feels like wielding the rod or the strap, for he has the same authority to punish under the law as the parents.

President Tift of the board of education declared the court's decision to be in direct opposition to the rules which govern the management of the public schools and that he did not believe the rules would be violated even with the court's permission.

Japanese Consul Promises That Commerce Will Be Benefited by the Treaty

NEW YORK, June 14.—In a speech before the Business Science Club, Japanese Consul Uchida, while refraining from any prophecy as to the probable terms of the peace agreement to which his country might be willing to subscribe, said he could guarantee one thing, welcome to Americans.

"I can say to the American world of commerce," he declared, "without a fear of making a mistake, that when peace is finally achieved the markets of Manchuria and Korea will be open to the world, and that our sincere hope in Japan is that America will join hands with us in the development of the two countries."

PATRICK LAUGHS AT SENTENCE OF DEATH

Prisoner Says There Is Plenty of Time for Arguing New Trial

OSBING, N. Y., June 14.—Albert T. Patrick is without doubt the most remarkable criminal that ever occupied a cell in the Sing Sing death house. He was at breakfast when he learned for the first time of the adverse decision of the court of appeals. There wasn't a tremor of a finger, to indicate emotion to the news.

On the contrary the man, whose life now truly hangs by a thread, finished what was on the plate before him and in a cool, steady voice said that he was prepared for just such a contingency and that there need not be the least delay about the next move in his case, as he had personally prepared all of the documents.

Then he laughed merrily, shook hands with Warden Johnson, who brought him the news, and applied himself to his usual morning task of reading and writing, as though nothing out of the ordinary had occurred.

Warden Johnson purposely kept Patrick in ignorance of the decision of the court of appeals until morning, because he felt that the man should have confidence in a victory, and didn't want him to lose any sleep over his reverse. He was therefore greatly surprised at the calmness with which the man received the tidings.

"I am prepared for anything," said Patrick coolly, "and I think that I will soon win the victory I have been working for. I do not regard this decision as final by any means. I intend to have a reargument of the case and will apply to the appellate division and probably also to the court of appeals for a new trial. I will base these applications on newly discovered evidence and errors at my first trial. I feel very certain that I will win."

There never was such a prisoner as Patrick in Sing Sing before. The man is adamant, so far as any sentiment is concerned. He works incessantly on his own case. For months he has been delving deep into legal and medical authorities, making copious notes and incorporating them in his briefs. The man is absolutely prepared for any move, for any reverse and doesn't ask for the least delay. He wants to use up the remaining chances that he has just as fast as he can, for he feels certain that he will win in the end.

JAPANESE WANT CONFERENCE OVER

Refuse to Meet in Paris to Discuss Peace Because of Delay Involved

RUSSIA'S AGENT APPOINTED

Government Issues Statement Summarizing Status of Negotiations

TOKIO, June 14, 3 p. m.—The report of the Japanese minister at Washington, M. Takahira, telling of his interview with President Roosevelt and announcing the proposal that the peace plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan meet in Paris and the appointment of M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador to France, as Russia's chief plenipotentiary, was rejected today.

Japan will refuse to have the meeting take place in Paris, because it is the capital of Russia's ally and also on account of the great distance from Japan and the delay involved.

It is expected that Japan will propose that the plenipotentiaries meet at some point close to the theater of war. The Japanese plenipotentiary has not yet been selected.

Russians Issue Statement

ST. PETERSBURG, June 14.—Instead of publishing the text of its official reply to the message from President Roosevelt regarding the initiation of peace negotiations with Japan, the Russian government decided on the 13th to inform the public into its confidence regarding the prospect of peace, to issue a statement summarizing the status of negotiations which appeared in the form of a communication from the foreign office in the Gazette today.

This statement, which pays a graceful tribute to President Roosevelt's action, expresses in a general way Russia's willingness to negotiate without entering into particulars, which cannot be considered to be definite, pending the receipt of the Japanese reply. The Russian government, under these circumstances has deemed it best to leave to the Washington government the publication of the Russian reply. The following is the text of the communication:

"The president of the United States instructed his ambassador to the imperial court to request a private audience in order to convey directly to the emperor assurances of the Russian government and to express President Roosevelt's personal desire to contribute as much as possible in the interest of the whole world, toward the cessation of hostilities in the Far East."

"The ambassador was instructed to add that the president was making simultaneous overtures to the Japanese government. The emperor was pleased to receive the American ambassador's note and gave benevolent attention to President Roosevelt's initiative which had moreover met an early and simultaneous reception from the friendly powers."

Russia being convinced that Japan was equally desirous to accept President Roosevelt's proposal, which was transmitted through the intermediary of the representatives of the republic at St. Petersburg and Tokio, to the imperial as well as to the Japanese government, received favorably the official communication from the ambassador and notification to this effect was published in Washington.

"In reply to this communication the foreign minister, acting under the emperor's order, informed the American ambassador, in a note dated June 12, that the emperor, deeply sensible of the sentiments expressed by the president, was pleased to see therein fresh marks of the friendship uniting Russia and America and precious proof that the two nations were in complete accord with the views the emperor held on a general settlement so essential to the good progress of the whole of mankind. As for an eventual meeting of Russia and Japanese plenipotentiaries, the emperor ascertained how far it would be possible for the two powers to elaborate conditions of peace, the imperial government would have no objection in principle to such an agreement if the Japanese government expressed a desire thereof."

Newspapers Discuss Note

ST. PETERSBURG, June 14.—With the publication of the government's communication on the status of the peace negotiations, the newspapers are filled with discussions of the situation. The Russ, which most nearly reflects the views of the foreign office, points out clearly that in consenting to President Roosevelt's appeal for a conference between plenipotentiaries of the two powers, Russia has in no wise engaged herself to conclude peace except on the condition that the Japanese terms when ascertained prove on an acceptable basis. If they are not enterable Russia will withdraw.

THE STATUE AND SCULPTOR: PAUL NOCQUET.

NEW YORK, June 14.—After Paul Nocquet, a French sculptor, had made in clay this strenuous model of Theodore Roosevelt, the huntsman, he sent a cast of it to the president. The letter, written on white house stationery, was signed "Theodore Roosevelt."

NORWAY HAS SOME QUEER BUILDINGS

THE UPPER BUILDING IS A CHURCH AND THE LOWER THE HOUSE OF A WEALTHY CITIZEN.

The new state of Norway is a country of queer architecture. In fact, its architecture is the most remarkable in the world. Some of the suburban houses in America may appear to say about the last word in the use of shingles, but the Norwegian houses leave almost touch the ground. The effect is picturesque. The abundance of timber in the country makes wood the cheapest building material. The town of Bergen, the largest town on the west coast of Norway, and the principal tourist center, is almost entirely built of wood, and as a result there are frequently dangerous fires.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 14.—A big French beauty doctor came to town. I went. So did everyone else. Nobody but women were allowed. The beauty doctor was a man. "I lead a Christian life," he said in beginning. The women clapped their hands. "Every Sabbath finds me a worshiper," (more applause), "and on Sunday evenings do not seek me at my parlors, No. 201 — Avenue hotel. I shall not be there, ladies. I shall be attending the exercises of the Young Men's Christian association." The applause was deafening. Then he began to tell us things. Wonderful things. I wish some of the ugly-looking men I know might have heard them. Beauty, he said, depends upon health. No health—no beauty. You cannot put it, dear ladies, upon the outside. It must come from the inside out. "It is so simple, so easy to be healthy. Dr.—'s remedies are so simple, when you have heard them you will wonder why you had to wait for Dr.— to come 'way across the ocean to tell you of them. "Medicine won't make you beautiful. Oh, no; we have already too much medicine, ladies. I will tell you how to gain beauty—health. Don't laugh. EAT CARROTS. Carrots will bring color to the cheeks and brightness to the eyes. Carrots will tone up the skin and give lustre to the hair. Think of it, CARROTS! Just carrots. "How eat them? Eat them raw, eat them baked, eat them boiled. Just so you eat carrots, carrots, morning, noon and night. "It is very simple, ladies, but I have come thousands of miles to tell you this. "Now, there are other remedies just as simple. Do you know what will cure a birthmark, ladies? No? Well, listen. LIME WATER. Just lime water. "A breath of astonishment swept over the assembly. "Just you buy from your druggist a gallon of lime water. In this, every night, soak a bit of soft linen. Fold the linen four double and apply to the mark every night until it disappears. "I have come to you clear from France to tell you that. "And does your husband have dandruff in his hair? Does it dust down over his collars and shoulders? Ugh! I can see by your faces how you hate it! Then just buy a bottle of Rhine wine. RHINE WINE. Take a cupful and rub it well over the scalp once every week until the dandruff has gone. For external use, only, ha, ha! Ladies, try it on your husbands' heads. "A middle-aged woman down in front whisked out a notebook. So did I. Rhine wine headed our lists. "Now do you know what will whiten the red nose—your red noses, ladies, not those of your husbands, ha, ha? Raw potato. Yes, raw potato. Freshly grated raw potato, a teaspoonful applied every night until the color disappears. "And, ladies, drink plenty of water, especially if the bowels are not regular. Drink before going to bed one, two quarts of water. Drink it slowly and then kick with one foot, this way, then with the other. Kick the old man a bit, ha, ha, if he happens to be there. That's all, plenty of pure, good water, and the bowels are in a healthy condition. "It is very simple. Marrow fat applied every night with a camel hair brush, will make the eyebrows thick and the lashes long. "And, dear ladies, the saliva of a common garden snail applied for three mornings to a mole will take it entirely away. "And now, ladies, I do not advertise my medicines and remedies. Dr.— is so well known at home and abroad that his remedies require no advertising. Nor can these remedies be bought of any local dealer, because why? Because America is a country full of cheap imitations, ladies, cheap imitations. "But I have brought with me a few of my remedies which you can, at the close of this lecture, buy here of me. And for one week you can find me at my room, No. 21 — Avenue hotel. Except on Sunday, ladies. On the Sabbath day I shall not be there. "This will change gray hair back to its natural color. "Oh, yes, ladies, I am telling you the truth, will keep the teeth white. "And here is the only remedy for— "But I slipped out. I haven't tried any of these things that I have told you about, because—well, because I don't like carrots and haven't a birthmark. But I pass them on to you for what they are worth. He is really a well-known beauty doctor and lime water and snail saliva are harmless, even if they are not curative. So they won't kill if they don't cure. Try them.

EXTRA SESSION UNLIKELY

Governor Believed to Oppose Calling Legislative Bodies Together for Another Session

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM. AUSTIN, Texas, June 14.—It was learned in the state house yesterday that D. J. Anthony of Kaufman county had signified his willingness to Judge A. W. Terrell to serve in special session without mileage or per diem, for the purpose of correcting the mistake made in the enrollment of the general election law. Mr. Anthony was a member of the house of the Twenty-ninth legislature from Kaufman county, and is the only member heard from so far. In this immediate connection it may be stated with some degree of certainty that there will be no extraordinary session to correct the error in the general election law or for any other purpose. Governor Latham is not in town and has perhaps only seen the newspaper accounts of the requests made by a few members of the legislature for a special session, but it is known that he was not much inclined to call the first special session, but since the appropriation bill had not passed and the bill increasing the ad valorem tax levy, he believed there was an imperative necessity for a special session and hence he convened it. In the present case it is believed he does not think the situations are similar, nor does he think there exists an emergency for a convention, although the members might agree to serve without mileage or per diem pay. Again, the governor knows, as well as any man can know, that a very large number of the members of the legislature are farmers, and this being a very busy season of the year with them, they are not at all likely to agree to come to Austin at their own expense and neglect their private business even for a short time. The Telegram correspondent predicts, under the circumstances and with the general conditions in mind, that while our polite governor will treat the appeal of the senators and representatives who met here last week and made the appeal politely, he will not see the exigency of the situation through their lenses and will decline to comply with their request, and that therefore there will be no second special session of the Twenty-ninth legislature for any purpose whatever.

FEED YOU MONEY

Feed Your Brain and it Will Feed You Money and Fame. "Ever since boyhood I have been especially fond of meats, and I am convinced I ate too rapidly, and failed to masticate my food properly. "The result was that I found myself, a few years ago, afflicted with all ailments of the stomach and kidneys, which interfered seriously with my business. "At last I took the advice of friends and began to eat Grape-Nuts instead of the heavy meats, etc., that had constituted my former diet. "I found that I was at once benefited by the change, that I was soon relieved from the heartburn and the indigestion that used to follow my meals, that the pains in my back from my kidney affection had ceased, showing that those organs had been healed, and that my nerves, which used to be unsteady, and my brain, which was slow and lethargic from a heavy diet of meats and greasy foods, had, not in a moment, but gradually, and none the less surely, been restored to normal efficiency. Now every nerve is steady and my brain and thinking faculties are quicker and more acute than for years past. "After my old style breakfasts I used to suffer during the forenoon from a feeling of weakness which hindered me seriously in my work, but since I have begun to use Grape-Nuts food I can work till dinner time with all ease and comfort."  All Questions Thoroughly Discussed by Druggists—Election This Afternoon

Officers of the Texas State Pharmaceutical Association will be elected at this afternoon's session at Greenwall's opera house. A number of candidates are spoken of in connection with the presidency, but it is more likely that J. P. Hayter of Decatur, at present first vice president, will be elected. He has held the office of vice president for several years and the members of the association seem to be unanimous in the belief that the meeting of the several committees. Another man whose name is mentioned is T. J. Coulson of Corsicana, who is one of the most progressive men in the association. R. H. Walker of Gonzales will likely be re-elected to the office of secretary-treasurer, a position he has held for many years.

TELEPHONE PRESCRIPTION
 During the discussion of the report on practical pharmacy, the question of receiving prescriptions by telephone came up. Jacob Schrode of Terrell related the story of a child's death due to a druggist's misunderstanding a doctor over the telephone and said that he was in favor of the elimination of the telephone from the prescription business.

MEMBERSHIP
 Report of the committee on the president's address called forth a lengthy discussion of the question of increasing membership. The committee, taking cognizance of the president's request for suggestions as to how to increase the membership of the association, suggested a plan which provided for the awarding of $2.50 to county associations for each member that the county association secures for the state organization. This proposition was discussed at length, some members declaring that the plan tended to commercialize, cheapen and lower the dignity of the state association, while others contended that it would serve to better the relations between the state and county organizations. It was finally decided to refer the matter to the executive committee, to return it to the meeting.

DUES DISCUSSED
 Another matter that brought out discussion and one which for a time promised excitement, was the question of dues. Jacob Schrode of Terrell arose and offered a motion that in view of the fact that many would-be applicants for membership were delayed in reaching the meeting, the entry fee of $2, specially decided upon at the last meeting and supposed to have closed with the first session of the meeting, be held open until the meeting. Immediately Secretary Walker moved in opposition to the resolution. He said that he did not think the cutting down of the entry fee from $5 was good in any way and he was glad that the meeting had expired. He said that General Passenger Agent Strain of the Frisco, Alvin C. Korman, attending the meeting of general passenger agents at Houston. One of the matters discussed is that no reduced excursion rates are to be granted to any city in Texas where ticket scalpers operate.

SMOKER AND MUSICAL
 Delegates to the meeting and their wives were the guests Tuesday night of the local association at an informal smoker and musical at Lake Erie. The vaudeville program, a good one itself, was greatly augmented by Manager Burton, who left nothing undone to make the evening a pleasant one for the visitors. A feature of the program was the singing of Miss Rankin and the Fenz brothers. During the evening fruit punch was served and the delegates were kept supplied with cigars.
 The officers of the association believe that this meeting will be the largest and most successful in its history. The association was formed in 1879 by druggists of Dallas and has been continually growing until at present it includes nearly every city in the state. It has done much to improve the pharmaceutical business and the present meeting will probably see the inauguration of a campaign for further advancement.

IOWA DECREASING IN ITS POPULATION
 May Lose One Congressman if Present Rate Continues Very Long
 SIOUX CITY, Iowa, June 14.—Decrease in population, as indicated by returns already received in the state census now in progress, threatens to deprive Iowa of one member of congress.
 For a state famed for politicians, conspicuous for the prominence of its congressional delegation and favored by double representation in the cabinet, this is a serious blow.
 The redistricting of the state, which a reduction in its representation would entail, might eliminate Representative W. P. Heppburn, chairman of the committee on foreign relations.
 Representative J. A. T. Hull, who has been chairman of the committee on military affairs for ten years; Representative Lacey, chairman of the committee on public lands; Representative Cousins and Representative Conner, chairman of the committee on public buildings, are alike in danger.

Teachers' Examinations
 A few remaining teachers examinations will be held Thursday. Forty-three white teachers and five colored teachers are taking the tests. The examination of the white teachers is being held at the high school, under the supervision of W. D. Williams and E. M. Hammond. The former is principal of the high school and the latter is principal of the Fourth ward school. Superintendent Hogg, who is in charge of the examination, held at the colored high school building. The papers will be graded as quickly as possible and it is thought the certificates can be made out by Saturday.
 The corps of teachers last year numbered 168, but ten will have to be added this year, making a total of 178.

NAN PATTERSON SAYS SHE'S QUIT DRINKING
 Declares Stories About Her Since Release Have Been Told by Enemies

NEW YORK, June 14.—A letter written by Nan Patterson alleges vindictiveness upon the part of enemies, who have misrepresented her actions. Here is the letter:

"Sir—In the character of a woman who has but recently emerged from an imminent peril of death, and who has now to begin the battle of life, with the burden of an indictment for murder still hanging over her, I ask permission for the first and last time to correct certain lying statements now in active circulation in various quarters, and to remove from the mind of the public an entirely erroneous impression as to the general conduct of my life since my release from prison.

WAS NOT IN TENDERLOIN
 "It is not true that I have visited any tenderloin cafes before or since the theatrical tour, which, alas, came to so sudden a close.
 "There is no truth in the story that on the night of my release, during a supper, I gave a certain toast, bearing directly on the trial in which I was defendant. The story is a malicious lie, one of many emanating from a certain clique of enemies in the criminal courts building. These persons, however, in no sense connected with the district attorney's office.
 "In pursuance of a pledge made to my mother I have refrained and shall to the end of my life refrain from the use of wine. My story since I stepped out of the Tombs has been a most notorious record of work and home life.
 "The second phase of my letter bears upon my motives in returning to the stage, and as to which again the public has been misled by lying reports.
 "I return to the stage for these reasons: First—The necessity of earning a livelihood. Second—Because the stage is my profession, and the only calling for which I am fitted. Third—The necessity of paying my debts. Fourth—Because I hold the belief that it is possible for me to take up my career as an actress where I left it when I met the man whose name has been associated with mine.
 "My return to the stage is, after all, only a reversion to first principles. It is as natural for me to go back to the stage as it is for the professional man to return to his desk, or for the mechanic to go back to his bench.
 "I am determined, by ceaseless work and study, to earn an honorable place on the stage. With the help of God I trust that it is possible for me to build up a new life and a new career on the ashes of the past. I appeal for a fair, generous toleration of my efforts to live.
 "The dreadful days and nights in which I stood in the shadow of death have left an indelible mark on my heart. The mark is deep enough to guide every action of my life, and to keep green in my memory for all time the words of the accomplished jurist and kindly gentleman who presided at my last trial. Respectfully yours,
 "NAN PATTERSON."

HEART DISEASE ON A RAPID INCREASE
 New York Physicians Say One Person in a Hundred is Affected with the Disease

NEW YORK, June 14.—An alarming increase in the deaths from heart disease presented by last week's mortality statistics for this city has led to a comparison of data which shows that since 1858 the annual death rate here from heart failure and Bright's disease has grown from 13.05 to 29.62 per 10,000 population. This increase is considered alarming by authorities on the subject and is emphasized by the fact that 125 persons died last week from organic heart disease, when the rate of the corresponding week in 1904 was only fifty-six.
 "Strain of business and the cares attendant on fierce competition in the financial center of the city and the rapid increase on a race to gain wealth are given as an explanation by physicians. To put their explanation briefly, they declare the figures noted prove beyond doubt the residents of New York are living too hard lives. Some of them say one person in a hundred examined has organic heart trouble and the other ninety-nine have stomach affections, the latter being due to rapid eating.

TRANSMITTED TO TOKIO
 Russian Response to Roosevelt's Note Forwarded to Japan

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Russian formal response to President Roosevelt's appeal to the far eastern belligerents for cessation of hostilities has been communicated to the Tokio government by the president. The note was written by Count Lamsdorff, by direction of Emperor Nicholas and was handed by the minister of foreign affairs to Ambassador Meyer at St. Petersburg and was placed in turn in the hands of Minister Takahara by the president and transmitted by M. Takahara to Tokio. The president is in hourly expectation that a response may be received from the Japanese government.
 Doubt is expressed in important quarters whether the Russian response is satisfactory to Japan. The government of the island empire is wary of its big European antagonist and has indicated its intention of not sacrificing its dearly bought victory in arms in conflict of diplomacy which is now being waged.
 Minister Takahara is inclined to look askance at that part of the Russian note which reads: "As for an eventual meeting of Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries charged with ascertaining the terms which it is possible for the two powers to elaborate conditions of peace, the imperial government would have no objection in principle to such an attempt if the Japanese government expressed a desire therefor." Japan has indicated plainly that if there is a conference between its plenipotentiaries and those of Russia it must be held with a definite understanding that a sincere effort to reach a permanent peace agreement is to be made.

STORY OF SINKING OF BRITISH SHIP
 Captain of Russian Cruiser Makes Claim That Cargo of the Vessel Was Contraband of War

SINGAPORE, June 14.—The few details obtainable regarding the sinking of the British steamer St. Kilda by the Russian auxiliary cruiser Dnieper show that the St. Kilda was captured by the Dnieper June 4, about fifty miles from Hong Kong, at which port she last reported. She was sunk by the cruiser on the following day on the ground that she had contraband of war on board, after the crew and mails had been removed.
 The cargo of the St. Kilda consisted chiefly of jute, rice and cotton. The Dnieper transferred to the Dutch steamer Flores in the Straits of Malacca the Chinese crew of the St. Kilda and the mails belonging to the steamer, but the captain and ten European and Chinese stevedores, who had charge of the Chinese portion of the crew of the St. Kilda, were detained on board the Dnieper.

CHINESE THREATEN TO FUMIGATE AMERICANS

HONOLULU, H. I., June 7.—Considerable attention has been attracted here by a Chinese poster, which has appeared in Piliot Asiatic quarters. It says that the Chinese government proposes to retaliate for the American exclusion policy, and that the government at Peking will issue an order against the purchase of American goods with a death penalty for violation of the order and will proceed to

 German Officials at Peking Not Sanguine Toward Peace Prospects

PEKING, June 14.—In German and other circles here the prospects of peace between Japan and Russia are considered remote. It is supposed that Germany intends to inflict a final and crushing blow upon the Russian army in Manchuria before considering any proposition of peace.

CHINESE BOYCOTT NOT BY GOVERNMENT
 Was Brought About Through a Misunderstanding of American Exclusion Act

PEKING, June 14.—Agitation and the proposed boycott of American goods by Chinese merchants was apparently brought about by misconceptions of the Chinese by America's actions regarding the exclusion act. Both Chinese and Americans have agreed upon the point of exclusion of the coolies, the chief matter under consideration, and the act deals with the treatment of other classes.
 The discussion of the subject will be necessarily prolonged, and to arrange a new convention will take time. Mr. Rockwell, the American minister, assured the Chinese that America's intentions are fair and conciliatory and the Chinese board of foreign affairs is apparently satisfied upon the subject.
 The public is generally alarmed, hence the boycott. This movement is unlikely to attain any serious proportions, although it is significant, indicating the importance which is attached by the Chinese to the questions involved in the American exclusion act. The exclusion of coolies from the Hawaiian and Philippine islands is considered at the hands of custom officials, nevertheless, there is a genuine desire upon the part of the Chinese government for a speedy and amicable adjustment of the question at issue.

SAW DEATH IN MID-AIR
 Balloonist Hung Three Hours, 150 Feet Above Ground, Awaiting Rescue

NEW YORK, June 14.—At Votger, an aeronaut has passed through a terrible experience, while making an ascension of a trapeze, says a Herald dispatch from Milan.
 A gust of wind drove the balloon against the smokestack of a factory. It became tangled, but the balloonist clung to the bar of his trapeze, at a height of 150 feet from the ground and shouted for help. Firemen arrived, but their ladders were too short. An army engineer at Pavia was summoned by telegraph and arrived three hours later.
 Meanwhile the aeronaut, still calling for help, was losing strength, while the balloon was gradually losing gas. Soldiers finally succeeded in hoisting a rope to the top of the chimney, and the aeronaut was lowered to the ground in such a feeble condition that he had to be taken to a hospital.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR HYOMEL
 Far Easier to Cure Catarrh Now Than at Any Other Season

Now is the time to use Hyomel, when the early summer dries make it so easy to cure catarrhal troubles. The Hyomel treatment, breathed for a few minutes three or four times a day in May or June, will do good twice as quickly as it did in January, and nearly everyone knows that used faithfully then, it completely rid the system of catarrh.
 Hyomel is a purely vegetable preparation whose active curative properties are given off when it is breathed by the aid of the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit. It destroys all germ life in the air passages, purifies the blood by supplying additional ozone, and its healing, volatile, antiseptic fragrance reaches every corner of the respiratory tract as no medicine taken through the stomach can possibly do.
 The complete Hyomel outfit costs but one dollar, and consists of a neat inhaler that can be carried in the purse or vest-pocket and will last a lifetime, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomel. Extra bottles of Hyomel can be procured, if desired, for fifty cents.
 At this season of the year when catarrhal troubles can be so quickly and readily cured, the merits of the Hyomel treatment should be carefully investigated by everyone, and a complete outfit should be in every home. R. A. Anderson gives his personal guarantee with every Hyomel outfit he sells to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction. There is no risk whatever to the purchaser of Hyomel.

THE MINERAL WELLS LINE

Why not have a report from that committee appointed to secure the bonus and right of way for the Interurban road? It would do no harm to let the public know just what was done and how the matter stands. The index learns that the promoters ask for one hundred feet of ground on each side of the track. If this is true, the matter of securing the right of way is going to be an uphill job. A strip of land two hundred feet wide, clear of all trees, would take several acres, and the fun of riding on the "rube" would all be dissipated in the deeding away of valuable farming land. The promoters claim they want the ground so that eight or ten acres can be added to Mineral Wells track and creates a demand—Mineral Wells Index.

If the promoters of the Interurban line between this city and Mineral Wells are asking for a right of way 200 feet wide, they are demanding just twice as much as is required for regular railway purposes, and there will be difficulty all along the line in obtaining the right of way. If the average railway can find plenty of room in a right of way 100 feet in width it would seem that an Interurban line could be properly accommodated within the same space.

But this is a matter that neither side can afford to haggle over, as the importance of the enterprise and the benefits to accrue from its early construction are so great that all differences should be buried and the work pushed to a successful consummation. Fort Worth needs that Interurban line in her business, and it would be better than another line of railway for Mineral Wells at this juncture. The prosperity and development of this great health resort depends upon the number of visitors who spend their time and money there, and the building of the Interurban would give Mineral Wells fully double the number of visitors who now go there.

The people of Mineral Wells should get that right of way contention settled as soon as possible, for dirt should soon be flying on the actual construction of the line.

THE ATTITUDE OF BRYAN

A dispatch from Omaha giving Mr. Bryan's plans for his tour of the world concludes with the statement that "political affairs shape themselves as he expects them, he will be a candidate for the nomination of his party for the presidency in 1908." A formal announcement would be more definite than this statement is, but would have had the virtue of verbal economy. As to whether political affairs will "shape themselves as he expects them," we think they will, not because of any fortuitous circumstances, but as the result of causes to the making of which Mr. Bryan contributed largely. The defeat of Judge Parker was never a matter of doubt, but if it had been, the intemperance of Mr. Bryan's opposition to him before the nomination would have made it certain. Judge Parker's defeat restored in large measure the influence of those radicals whose prestige had suffered because of their two successive failures to bring victory. Mr. Bryan pursued a course best adapted to restore the influence of the radicals without at the same time impairing his own record for regularity. Affairs, therefore, have already so shaped themselves as to encourage Mr. Bryan's ambition again to be the nominee of his party.

If his plans are subject to any future contingency, it must be the question as to how the democratic party will regard the proposition to commit it to the policy of government ownership of railroads and other public utilities. If it should adopt that policy, Mr. Bryan not only will be its nominee, but in all probability, but he ought to be. He is today the ablest and most distinguished advocate of that policy. Among more established politicians, he is its protagonist. He can advocate that policy more persuasively than perhaps any one else. He can win more votes for it than anyone else, for, in addition to having in the highest degree the courage to stand up for it, he is accustomed to socialist theories of government ownership, yet are so attracted to him by his personality that they would probably follow him wherever he might lead.—Austin Current Issues.

There can be no doubt of the fact that Bryan, who is now the recognized leader of the democratic party, is more disposed toward radicalism than ever before, but his attitude in that respect is largely the result of circumstances over which he has had no control. When the last democratic national convention assembled in St. Louis it was announced with a great flourish of trumpets that the conservative element of the party was in the saddle, there would be a conservative platform and a conservative candidate. The platform as adopted was the embodiment of conservatism. In fact it was so conservative that it practically stood for nothing. There was absolutely not one plank in the whole structure calculated to arouse the enthusiasm of the masses. Bryan protested against that platform from a realization of the fact that it did not represent the democratic party, but his protests were unheeded.

When the candidate was nominated, Bryan also interposed a vigorous protest and foretold just exactly what happened. It was believed at the time that he was sulking in his tent on account of his own detestation, but he disproved that suggestion by the active work he gave to the campaign in a contest he knew was absolutely hopeless. Bryan cannot conscientiously be accused of seeking the renewed leadership that has come to him. The utter and complete failure of the conservatives to make even a respectable showing left the party in such condition that there was none other to lift it out of the dust and attempt to resuscitate it. Bryan took up this work and has gone forward in an effort to bind up the wounds that were made by the men who slaughtered the party, and he has succeeded in getting the party machinery in aggressive motion again.

As the party leadership has come to Bryan as the one man who can perhaps lead the organization to success, it is but natural that he should consider himself again in the light of his party's candidate for the presidency. And as his party's candidate for the presidency, it is but natural that he should seek for honorable methods of winning. Bryan has polled more votes for the presidency than any man the democratic party has ever nominated, and he can poll them again, provided he does not make the mistake of becoming too radical and extreme. The east has lost much of its fear of what it formerly designated as Bryanism, and as the candidate of his party he can command more support in that section than was accorded the very conservative gentleman who displaced him in the last national campaign.

While there is some apprehension of radicalism, the general opinion is that Bryan will simply content himself by being aggressive. He will go into the next fight determined to make the very best showing possible, but will not seek to inculcate those socialistic doctrines that are repugnant to true democracy. He is now casting about for lines along which to pitch the fight, but William J. Bryan is too good a democrat and too true in his regard for the democratic masses to seek to engraft upon democracy the things that are not really democratic. He knows too well the effects of such procedure.

The first gasoline motor cars to be operated in Texas will soon be installed between Galveston and Houston by the Southern Pacific Railway Company, the order for the cars having already been placed. There will be four of these cars, and the running time between the two cities will be reduced to one hour in each direction. The evolution of the gasoline motor car, which is claimed to be the cheapest form of passenger transportation, has been brought about by the railroads seeking some method of meeting competition of the Interurban line, the motive power of which is electricity. The new system is already working on some lines, and the claim is made that it gives complete satisfaction. The cars are operated on identically the same principles as the automobile, and the size of the cars is regulated and controlled only by the size of the motor employed.

GASOLINE MOTOR CARS

It has been suggested that the Texas and Pacific Railway Company may soon have the same kind of cars in operation between this city and Dallas.

HELPING THE AMERICAN

The action of the members of the executive committee of the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas in contributing the sum of $1,400 to the support of the recently organized American Live Stock Growers' Association, was very proper under the circumstances. It is a conceded fact that an organization of the kind cannot grow and flourish unless it is amply provided with the sinews of war, and as the American association had its inception in Texas, it is entirely proper that Texas should take the lead in financing the new organization.

There is a great work ahead of this new organization—a work in which every cattleman in the entire southwest is directly and vitally interested. The adverse influences with which the stock interests of the country have to contend are banded together generally in a very compact organization, and experience has demonstrated that the best method of fighting organization is with organization. The great Texas organization has done the proper thing, even if the money contributed was the result of individual donation. It shows the proper spirit on the part of Texas cattlemen.

That big Chicago strike seems to be gradually dying out, and it seems to be but another case of organized labor having to suffer severely from incompetent and reckless leadership. When men show an utter disregard for both humanity and the law they can but expect to fail and be the recipients of very little sympathy. It is true that sympathy ordinarily counts for so little that the humorist, Josh Billings, once remarked that he had rather have a ragged one-dollar bill than the sympathy of the whole American people, but in cases of this kind sympathy is a great moulder of public sentiment, and public sentiment has been grossly outraged by the conditions that have prevailed in Chicago.

Major E. A. Burke, formerly of the New Orleans Times-Democrat, and at one time treasurer of the state of Louisiana, has just died in Honduras, where he fled after being indicted on a charge of embezzlement. There was a time when Major Burke was regarded as one of the foremost men of the south. An exile from and a conservative candidate. The platform as adopted was the embodiment of conservatism. In fact it was so conservative that it practically stood for nothing.

Secretary Wilson seems to be forced to the reluctant conclusion that someone in the agricultural department at Washington has been guilty of furnishing cotton estimate figures to the speculators in advance of the usual government report. A rigid investigation has been set in motion, and it is probable that some estimator is soon going to find himself minus a job.

Governor Lanham has returned to Austin from Mineral Wells, where he has been spending some time in recuperating, and it is probable that he will soon give some consideration to the proposed extraordinary session of the state legislature. Some of the papers of the state are suggesting that the call be deferred until next winter, but the proper time would seem to be to strike now while the iron is hot.

General Linevitch has been expressing considerable confidence in his ability to paralyze the Japanese army in Manchuria, but the fact that an armistice has been arranged pending peace negotiations is no doubt very satisfactory to that doughty warrior. It is better to go back home and tell what he could have done than to have tried to do it and failed.

Having recently won a bride, Captain Richard Pearson Hobson now announces that he will again make the race for congress in an Alabama district. While we may not be in love with Hobson's consuming ambition, we can but admire the pertinacity with which he seeks the things that seem to be beyond him.

The state census of Iowa now just being completed, shows such a decrease in population that it is feared that state will lose one member of congress. The high price of farm lands in the Hawkeye state is causing many of her people to seek homes where they can be obtained on a more reasonable basis.

A handsome bronze statue of the late General John B. Gordon has been unveiled in Atlanta. General Gordon was a man the world delighted to honor, for he was a fine type of the brave and chivalrous southern gentleman.

If Russia is to have a constitutional government with a parliament in September, instead of the despotism that has heretofore prevailed, then the war with Japan has not been without its benefits to that distracted and unhappy country.

The people of Texas are beginning to wonder what kind of a city government it is that they have in use down in San Antonio. At this distance it seems to be a double-barreled concern without much force of action in either barrel.

Ex-Governor J. Stormont Hogg will deliver an address to the American colony in the City of Mexico on July 4, and that is one more time when the dreamy Aztecs will hear the American eagle scream.

King Oscar is doubtless congratulating himself on not losing the other half. This thing of being king while honorable, is something of a risky and unsatisfactory business.

That rain Monday came at a very opportune time, and extended from El Paso to Fort Worth. West Texas is strictly in the swim this year, and the crop prospects of that section are very flattering.

Some Kansas town intends to ask Thomas W. Lawson to donate $5,000 to build a Y. M. C. A. building. The folk there evidently think Tom is still as easy as when he did business with Hen Rogers.

GLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES

Georgia has a new road law which provides that state convicts shall be worked on the county roads of the state throughout the entire year. It might not be a bad idea for Texas to adopt some such plan.—Austin Statesman.

The usual plan in Texas is to have the legislature pass a special county road law and let it go at that, and Texas roads continue obdurate and will not work themselves.

The farmers of Texas are deserving of a great deal of credit for the industry they have shown in taking advantage of the good weather and getting their crops out of the grass and weeds. They have worked hard and faithfully and they will reap correspondingly.—Denison Herald.

The Texas farmer who works usually reaps abundantly for his toil. Texas soil never fails to yield abundantly when it is accorded the proper treatment.

When Albert Patrick secured the services of D. B. Hill as his attorney he got hold of an indefatigable worker in his behalf.—San Antonio Express.

Dave Hill's efforts in behalf of Patrick seem to have been crowned with the same results that attended his work for Parker. Both of his clients lost out.

The national editors were treated to a buffalo chase by the Oklahomans. Colonel Ballio of Texas is a well known buffalo and his friends have been anxiously scanning the papers to ascertain whether or not he was among the slain.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Only one buffalo was killed on the occasion referred to, and he was a very old and tough animal. Colonel Ballio of Texas is not that kind of a buffalo.

After what it did down on the isthmus the United States certainly should not hesitate about recognizing Norway's independence.—Houston Post.

But the United States has no canal to dig in Norway. There is both a distinction and a difference.

The vagrant law is being enforced in many places in the state. When this law is enforced all the year round instead of certain seasons there will be fewer idlers and fewer crimes in Texas. Let it be understood that there will be no loafing at any time and the deadbeat and tramp will quit the state.—Corsicana Sun.

MOST ANYTHING

A WORD FROM JOSH WISE

Cheer up, poor folks. While you're worryin' 'bout what you are goin' t' wear, 't' rich is worryin' 'over what they're goin' t' wear an' whut their neighbors is goin' t' wear, too.

Kang Yu Wei, the Chinese reformer, has visited Dowle. Kang may be all right, but it looks as though he was a little visionary. There's no use trying to reform Dowle.

Pierpont Morgan pays his housekeeper $10,000 a year. This seems to be a lot of money, but it saves Pierp the cost of advertising every three weeks for a new cook.

SHE HAD A REASON
"I must be eating up the part tonight," said the villain to the local manager, who had stepped behind the scenes. "A woman in the first row hissed me half a dozen times and when you can draw a hiss in a part like mine you must be hitting 'em hard."

"I don't think it's your acting that made her hiss," said the manager. "She's the president of our Anti-Cigarette League."

A New York man compromised a $250,000 suit rather than have 200 love letters read in court. "No other candidate for Carnegie medal."

"Do you know where all the bad little boys go?" asked the Sunday school teacher.
"Yes'm, I do," answered one boy.
"You may tell us where, Willie."
"Fishin'."

With the CATTLEMEN

SOLD OSAGE STEERS

C. E. Shults and Ira Kuykendall of Llano, two prominent cattlemen of that section, were in the city Monday morning, looking around to see what the prospects were for a pasture down this way. The fine grass down here this season has made quite an impression on them and they concluded to see what the opportunities were in the way of grass and water. They came in Saturday night, but up to Monday noon had heard of nothing that would meet the requirements. These gentlemen took a big string of cattle to the Osage country this spring, but sold out a few weeks ago and have recently finished their deliveries. "We were modest," said Mr. Shults in discussing the sale Monday.

HER LAST WORD
The family gathered round her bed, and many a teardrop fell. The while she struggled hard for breath "To bid thee all farewell." In youth's full bloom she found her fate, Crushed by a crowd malign While striving for the bargain hats At a dollar ninety-nine.

Ab, never more those dainty feet Will course from dawn till night Through the dry goods district's crowded ways Or in bargains take delight. And never those fast glazing eyes Will glow with joy intense Or the capture of a dollar prize Reduced to sixty cents!

She strove to speak. With halting breath Her last instructions gave. Then turned, with a beseeching look To her husband, sad and grave. "Oh, promise me," she hoarsely spoke (Her eyes like glowing lamps), "You'll choose an undertaker who Gives the purple trading stamps!" —B. D. Pierson, in New York Herald.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS

Reform is generally predestined. The man who knows it all is never popular. Charity and dyspepsia cover a multitude of sins. A break in the divorce court is seldom repaired. There are brunette waitresses even in light lunch cafes. Some men never foot the bill without a vigorous kick. A man with a deep voice may often make shallow remarks. Everything is feasible to the waiter who expects a fee. Even had coffee should never furnish grounds for divorce. It doesn't cost a preacher anything to be liberal in his views. We often hear of a sick man being on his last legs, but never a centipede. A woman never stops to consider that a mouse may be equally afraid of her. The messenger boy never gives one the impression that he is in the fast set. Lots of people boast more of their blue blood than they do of their gray matter. The man who bets may be a gambler, but the one who doesn't bet is no better. No matter how much the conductor may diet, it makes no difference in his fare. The man who smokes 25-cent cigars is often the one who kicks about his wife's ice cream soda bills. It's all right to respect gray hairs, but it isn't necessary to throw bricks at a bald head. No, Maude, dear, we shouldn't advise you to send your lawn to a laundry to have it mowed. The great trouble with the things we get for nothing is that we generally have to pay the freight.—Philadelphia Record.

Bank Buster Bigelow is going to take a summer vacation. The people whose money he handled for them can't afford a vacation this summer.—Bonham Favorite.

The vacation taken by Bigelow is of the kind that is coveted by few men. It will last for a period of ten years and will be spent behind cruel prison bars.

The San Antonio Express wants a cotton mill in the Alamo City. San Antonio should leave cotton mills to towns that can recognize cotton when they see it.—Beaumont Journal.

Fort Worth for instance. This city affords the finest location in the southwest for the location of a big cotton mill, and steps should be taken to secure it.

"Farming is the job that makes the blood flow," says Vice President Fairbanks; with the presidential bee in his bonnet he after the bucolic vote or is he merely desirous of getting rid of that chilly feeling?—Houston Chronicle.

William J. Bryan, having raised the cry, "Back to the people," Fairbanks has taken the "Back to the farm" for his slogan. The average politician is deeply interested in these matters, for much depends upon the impression made upon the mind of the voter.

Mr. Cortelyou has been telling the postmasters that they must give good and efficient service, and must not take up their time and attention with factional politics. In other words, he insists that they must stick to their "letters."—Corsicana Courier-Light.

And Postmaster General Cortelyou is right. The political affairs of this country can be successfully run without obnoxious partisanship on the part of the postmasters. If there is one office that should be free from any form of politics in the entire United States it is that of postmaster.

"We accepted an offer which gave us a fair profit. We do not know whether we could have done as well had we waited until the market fell, for there is a general tendency among buyers to hold off when the market is on a decline. We at least hope that the purchaser will make plenty of money, but one of the reasons why we sold out was that we could not find the market conditions. It takes a mighty smart man to do this and we do not claim anything beyond ordinary intelligence." Speaking of their experience in dipping, Mr. Shults said: "Our loss as a result of dipping in Beaumont oil was about 100,000 barrels. It would not have been that heavy but for the fact that we had a good many cows in this condition and among which the mortality was greatest."—San Antonio Express.

BACK FROM SOUTH TEXAS

John K. Ross has returned from a business trip to South Texas. He is a delegate to the meeting of the Live Stock Exchange, which meets this week in Buffalo, N. Y., for a three days' session, beginning on June 23, and desires to do what he can while there looking to the repeal of the twenty-eight hour law, or at least a modification of it. He suggests that if the cattlemen of the country will circulate petitions urging that prompt action be taken, not only by the national body, but by the individual exchanges composing its membership, and forward them to him at Fort Worth, he will do his utmost to arrange for a committee to go to Washington and confer with the proper authorities looking to relief from the burdensome enforcement of the law as it now stands.

HAGENBARTH AT WORK

Frank Hagenbath, president of the National Live Stock Association, secured considerable publicity while in the east recently, says the Chicago Live Stock World. It was publicity not for himself, but the cause. As a matter of fact the limelight is a good thing, especially when the cause is a meritorious one. Would it not be good policy for both the associations to cultivate the newspapers of the country? The best sphere of activity is the promotion of publicity. Once public sentiment is aroused the rest is easy. Congressmen invariably wake up when properly prodded and the most effective stick for prodding purposes is the newspaper. Once the western congressmen are made to understand what's what they will get busy in the interest of their constituents and not before.

BOUGHT CALIFORNIA STEERS

Just before leaving California about a week ago, Nelson Morris, the packer, who had spent several months in that state, purchased in Mercer county a big string of grass steers, averaging between 1,000 and 1,200 pounds, at $3.25 per hundredweight. They were railroaded off to Chicago and 140 head, averaging slightly over 1,200 pounds, were good enough for export. This is the first time since the California cattle have been sent through to the British market on hoof. Estimating the cost of running these cattle at $1.50 per hundredweight, they cost Mr. Morris $4.75 laid down in Chicago, and as their value was $5 to $5.50 per hundredweight, the speculation netted a neat sum.

RESTOCKING ARIZONA RANGE

Burro creek in Mohave county, Arizona, which was well striped of cattle during the drought of five years ago, has remained minus cattle enough to eat its sparse range grass until very lately, when a large number have been driven in from other parts, where water was less abundant. The thirty miles of the Burro creek range is now one solid mass of green grass, and to say that it is up to the bridle-bits is a mild expression for the term. Burro creek has always furnished an abundance of water for stock, even in a very dry season, but at this time the creek is running bank full, with no signs of but little limitation to the quantity until late in the summer.

REFUSE OUR GOODS

Chinese Have Boycotted All American-Made Products
TIEN TSIN, June 13.—The boycotting of American goods by the Chinese guilds is daily assuming more serious proportions. The guilds have quietly determined to carry the boycott through and the aspect for American manufacturers is rather gloomy. The native newspapers are refusing advertisements of American goods.

"Indeed!" I said coldly.
"Yes, for there are those in France who have long held your name as a synonym for loyalty to the exiled Bourbons."

I shrugged my shoulders. "Their cause is hopeless, monseigneur. Do you not think so?"
He spread out his hands as if to avoid the question.

"Do you think so, count?" he asked.
"Has Napoleon sent him to test me?" I asked myself, but aloud I said, "I am sure of it, monseigneur."
"And yet," murmured Talleyrand, almost in a whisper, "there are many in France who think the contrary and continue to wait and hope."

"They are fools," I declared. "Do you not think so?"
He spread out his hands again, with a dramatic gesture. "If one could be sure," he muttered, and his eyes searched mine with a glance that sickened me, for more than his words it proclaimed the man a traitor.

I snatched it from his grasp. It was a letter, in truth, from the exiled heir of the Bourbons. It ran—
"Your message, monseigneur, has given me both hope and heart for the future of France. Long have we watched in sorrows, the momentary successes, the mad excesses of our fate-stricken and disloyal subjects. If by the hand of providence the usurper be laid low, and France calls to us, it will be our duty to return—our sad duty, monseigneur. In such a case it will be our pleasure to pardon rather than to punish, for France has for her faults already suffered much. All those who assist in the great work will merit our protection, ay, even he whose hand shall strike the blow. We shall be humbled by the means whereby we come to our own, but as the church teaches us, the end may justify the method, and

THEN DOWN UPON YOUR KNEES, SIR, SO

"You mean?" I suggested coldly.
"That what has once been, dear count, may be again. The world was shocked at the death of Enghein, but France was furious."
"France is ruled by a strong man," I answered.
Talleyrand looked at the floor. "Even the strongest man," he murmured, "a world of suggestion in his broken sentence."

"Speak out, monseigneur!" I commanded, holding myself in with difficulty.
"May die, count," he answered, glancing quickly up. "There is no man immune from death. And death may spring from many sources; disease, old age, a cannon ball, a bullet, poison, or—"

"Or a dagger, monseigneur," he whispered.
He looked furtively about him then bent towards me.
"Or a dagger, monseigneur," he whispered.

I sprang to my feet agitated past bounds. "I felt my cheeks burning, my eyes hot as coals."
"And you," I cried with a stinging sneer, "are the trusted minister of the emperor!"
"I am, above all, minister of France!" he answered, quite unmoved.

"By Napoleon's word," I grated.
"By France's need," he corrected gravely.
I folded my arms to prevent myself from strangling him.

"It is the proposition of a dastard," I said.
"It is the proposition of a dastard," I said.

BACK TO NATURE

THE SIMPLE LIFE IN CAPSULES

CHAPTER I

IN WHICH ADVICE COSTS MONEY.

"Doc," I said, "I'm run down. My hands catch and sometimes I strike six when it's only half past three. Sometimes I balk and won't work at all. Do you have any dope that will fix me?"
"Don't call me 'Doc,'" he answered. "The County Medical Association would fine me for unprofessional conduct if it found out I let you do it even once. It's an unethical title, anyway."

"All right," I said, "I'll call you 'Pills.'"
The doctor wasn't mollified by the change, but he gruffly bade me take off my coat. Then he started on a tour of investigation.

"Please remember, I'm not in the beef trust," I feebly interposed, as he tried to hammer a chunk out of my right side and then bore into the sore place with an inverted funnel. "I don't think I need too many extra pills, please tell me what to go. I'd prefer some place where there aren't any chiggers."
He told me the name of a quiet little place, where a brook winds through a shady wood, and the squirrels frisk day in an unincorporated way, and the Nature always wears a smiling mien.

Now I've never seen any one wearing a smiling mood, except in the front section of the art gallery at the World's Fair, where that was about all but of the people in the picture were.

I mentioned this to the doctor. "If it doesn't assured me he'd please only frisk actively and that I wouldn't see anything to which even a Ladies' Aid Society might object."

Then he told me to go and get a ticket.

LIVE STOCK CONDITIONS

J. B. Kerr, the popular and efficient traveling representative of the St. Joseph Stock Yards Company, while here last week, said that he had just come from Arizona to San Angelo and that he had recently been traveling over the western part of the United States and had found conditions in the live stock business to be extremely prosperous all over the west. Everywhere the cattle and sheep and other stock are fat, said Mr. Kerr, and the stockmen are all feeling highly gratified over the splendid conditions in their business.

"Why," said Mr. Kerr, "they had more rain the past winter in Arizona than you had here in Texas, and you know that is saying a lot. They had regular floods in Arizona and the result is that this year they had the fattest sheep they have ever had and they have now got the finest range, the finest grass and weeds they have ever had in the history of the territory. California, Nevada, New Mexico, Idaho, all the western states are faring equally as well. Why, in New Mexico this year they had grass muttons to go to market for the first time on record. As a rule, New Mexico sheep never get fat enough on the range to go to market. They have to be taken to Colorado feed lots and fattened for the market, but this spring they had a few sheep to get fat enough on grass to go direct to market."

"They are shipping 500 carloads of muttons from Arizona to Eastern markets this spring. The shipping season is a month later there owing to the heavy rains, and they have about concluded their shipments by this time. California and Nevada muttons have been going to Eastern markets this year for the first time in many years, if such has ever been the case before. The sheepmen out there found that they could send their stuff to the east and even with the heavy freight rates get better profits than by taking them to Frisco and the western markets."

"The lamb crop all through the west has been a tremendous heavy one. New Mexico had a whopping big lamb crop this year. Idaho and all the other western markets had big lamb crops. There will be a tremendous lot of northern and western lambs shipped to market this year. Why, I have a friend out in Idaho who will ship 90,000 lambs this spring. He has the Wood Live Stock Company, Spencer, Idaho, one of the biggest outfits in the west, probably the largest. They a lamb crop this spring of 120,000 and will send three-fourths to market along in August when they are good and fat. They will fatten on the mountain feed there and will be in fine shape by August. They will get $2.75 to $3.00 a head for these lambs, net, and that will pay them well, you may be sure."

"Why can't the Texas sheepmen get such prices for their lambs?"
"Well, for one thing, the Texas sheep are all better graded sheep than those northern sheep and are raised for their wool-growing qualities, while the Idaho sheep are coarse wool sheep, esteemed for the mutton qualities. They have Cotswolds, Lincolns and Shropshires instead of the Merino grades you have down here. Then, too, you can't get sheep fat in Texas in August, the time when those northern lambs will go on the market. Texas sheep are fatter now than they will be by August."

"There were immense shipments of New Mexico sheep which had been fattened in Colorado feed pens last year. This year the New Mexico sheepmen are holding their sheep so high they are scaring off the feeders. But if Kansas and Nebraska make a big corn crop, as it seem now that they will, there will be just as many sheep fed in Colorado as ever.

"You know Colorado people pride themselves on the climate and they say that with Colorado climate and Kansas corn they can produce the finest and fattest sheep on earth, but I think its mostly Kansas corn."

"Lots of old ewes are fed at the beet sugar factories in Colorado. They feed these old ewes on the beet sugar pulp which they get very cheap and they fatten the old sheep up and get a handsome profit on them. There are nine beet sugar factories in Colorado and they will make 10,000,000 pounds of sugar this year. The beet sugar industry is becoming a great thing for Colorado."

"In southern Colorado they are having great success feeding lambs on field peas. They fatten the lambs at a great rate with those peas and that is also becoming a great industry."

"There is a big revival of the horse industry over the west. The stockmen are turning their attention raising horses. It is the big, heavy, draft horses that they are raising and they are getting big profits, too, for that class of equines. Many importations have been made to the west of fine French coach stallions from France. These stallions were expensive, but they bring fine horses. One stock company in Colorado which raises fine stallions exclusively for the breeding of heavy horses has sold 100 of these fine stallions this year at an average price of $4000 each. One method of this company is to go into a town and get twenty farmers or stockmen to sign notes to pay $200 each at the end of the season, thus buying a stallion jointly. At the end of the season the farmer or stockman pays the $200 while he has received more than that in value from the service of the horse besides having a one-twentieth interest in a valuable stallion and getting much finer colts than otherwise would have been his fortune."

"Steers are scarce in the west?" said Mr. Kerr, "why you can't buy a steer anywhere in the west. The bovines are as scarce as hens' teeth. There are lots of fat cows but the steers are being held and they are very scarce besides. There will be heavy shipments of cattle from the west to the markets this year. Fat grass cattle will be shipped in numbers from all over the west, and the market is bound to go down and go down perceptibly. Still, I don't believe that it will stay down for the inevitable shortage on the range which the heavy shipments will bring about will naturally cause the market to react."

"If so many northern lambs and muttons will be shipped to market, what will cause the price of sheep to stay up?" was asked Mr. Kerr.
"Well," he replied, "I don't see how the mutton market can stay up with so many heavy shipments to be made. However, sheep are bound to bring a good price as long as wool stays up like it is now, for the sheepmen can always keep their sheep to grow wool with."

When Mr. Kerr first came in last week he said that he estimated there were about 20,000 fat range muttons yet to go to market from this place. Several heavy shipments were made last week, but even then that would leave a lot of fat sheep in the country.—San Angelo Press.

BOLL WEEVILS ARE ACTIVE

Government Report Shows Some Damage in Northern and Central Counties of the State

GALVESTON, Texas, June 14.—Following is the government's weekly crop bulletin report for the week ending June 12, 1906:

High temperatures prevailed generally during the week. Showers occurred over the western portion of the state, and at scattered places elsewhere, but over the greater portion of the state fair weather prevailed. Conditions were very favorable during the week for harvesting grain and cultivating growing crops, and this work was pushed rapidly. In some counties fields have been well cleared, except for late crops. Squares are forming quite generally. The boll weevil is becoming active over an increased acreage. It is now found in north central and eastern counties. In some localities the damage is considerable, but generally is slight. Rice and sugar cane—Sugar cane has generally continued to do well during the week. Rice seeding has progressed. That portion of the crop which is up is looking well. The first irrigation has been given the crop in Jefferson county.

Miscellaneous—In some counties gardens have improved, and in others they have deteriorated. Potatoes are yielding fairly well. Grass in meadows and pastures is fine. Haying is in progress in many counties under favorable conditions. Forage crops are doing well. Stock continues in fine condition. Fruit is still doing well.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

"Did you know that El Paso is the second greatest port of entry in this country," said Frank Fraute of Dallas to a Telegram reporter Tuesday. "The greatest port being New York. More employees are connected with the customs house in El Paso than in San Francisco. It is doubtful if more men are given work in Boston. El Paso has a force of twenty people, who are kept constantly busy looking after immigration matters. El Paso is also headquarters for the state in Chinese matters, this branch of the service being in charge of T. F. Schumucker."

At Galveston there are only three men to handle the immigration business of that port, and Eagle Pass, Laredo and Brownsville and other border points have only four or five men.

Because of the fact that there is a long unprotected stretch of country along the border of Mexico from El Paso southeastwardly makes it imperative that the government have proper protection so that the smuggling of Chinese cannot flourish. There has been considerable talk in New York of the appointment of a commissioner of immigration for the Mexican border, with a station at El Paso. All other foreign borders have commissioners of this kind, and the Federal government is investigating the Texas-Mexican situation along these lines.

Altogether there are 108 government employees located at El Paso regularly.

MALARIA A Poison Breathed into the System

The air arising from low, marshy places, damp cellars, stagnant ponds and pools and from decaying vegetable matter, as well as the gases from sewers, is loaded with germs of malarial poison. The water we drink, that has not been properly filtered and purified, is also full of these germs and microbes, and as we daily breathe and drink millions of these into the system, to be absorbed by the blood, the entire body begins to feel the effects of the poison. The most common form of Malaria is "chills and fever," but when the blood is thoroughly saturated with the poison it becomes so weak and polluted that abscesses, carbuncles, boils, sores, ulcers and other skin diseases result. Malaria also affects the liver, kidneys, bowels and stomach, producing a chronic state of biliousness that often results in jaundice or some malignant fever. In cases of Malaria the blood must be purified before the body can regain its natural health. S. S. S. contains purifying and tonic properties possessed by no other blood medicine, and is the ideal remedy for the treatment of Malaria. It destroys the germs of the disease and builds up the weakened, polluted circulation. It enters into the blood and forces out every particle of poison and waste matter and adds strength and activity to it. S. S. S. improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the entire system by its alterative and purifying action, and Malaria, with all its bad effects, is permanently driven from the system. Book on the blood and any medical advice, without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

ORPHANS' HOME TO SECURE NEW SITE

Directors to Meet County Commissioners and Arrange the Details

Negotiations are pending whereby the county will soon authorize the construction of a new building for use of the Orphans' Home on thirty-three acres of ground owned by the county near Stop 6 on the Interoceanic.

Directors of the home will confer with the county commissioners' court now in session during today for the purpose of concluding all necessary arrangements for the contemplated change.

A member of the home board said today that the necessary funds for the new building have been practically raised. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000. The directors have been offered $3,000 for the old home property, and when sold the proceeds will go toward the new building.

When the home has been installed on the new grounds it will be partially self-sustaining. Arrangements will be made to keep several cows. The directors will make an effort to have a garden on which can be raised all the necessary vegetables.

The milk bill of the home is now about $50 per month and the grocery bill $75. It requires about $225 monthly to maintain the home, $100 of this amount being contributed by the county, $50 by Fort Worth and the balance by citizens.

The conference with the commissioners today will probably end the deal for moving the home to the new site.

STREET ORDINANCES TO BE IRON GLAD Campaign Will Be Opened Thursday by the Police Department

Strict enforcement of the ordinance in regard to riding bicycles on sidewalks is to be begun Thursday morning by Chief of Police Maddox.

Frequent complaints of collisions of bicycle riders and pedestrians have come to police headquarters, with the result that policemen will be instructed to arrest all persons who do not keep to the roads with their wheels.

The stand man who sells his wares on street corners and all like peddlers who have no regular places of business, will also be instructed to move or be arrested.

No chills, bananas, hamburger or other stands of any character will be allowed on the streets. This rule is also to take effect Thursday morning.

Persons who carelessly leave their horses unhitched are also to receive a reminder of the law. Chief Maddox announced this morning that the hitching ordinance will be strictly enforced.

NEW CITY WELLS GIVE LARGE SUPPLY Total Capacity Will Be Approximately Four Million Gallons Daily

Five hundred thousand gallons of water is the estimate placed by H. L. Calhoun, secretary of the water works, on the amount of water which will be obtained from the experimental wells west of the city. Water from these new wells will be turned into the Mead system within a few days.

Final installation of the machinery at the pump house and a connection of the pipe near the water works is all that remains to be done.

An hundred horsepower motor now being put in will operate an air compressor, which will force the water from the wells. Service of only one man will be required to care for the machinery.

As the city has no water reservoir of large capacity, Mr. Calhoun says that it is impossible to test the full capacity of the water system. Its limit can be determined only by demand of consumers.

The Mead system has furnished over three million gallons and with the new wells the water supply should reach approximately four million gallons daily.

CLERKS' PAY CHANGED Postal Regulation Varies Rule for Leaves of Absence

General orders of the railway mail service issued today contained an act of congress regulating the payment of substitutes working for men off duty on leave of absence. Formerly the substitutes were paid by the men in whose places they were working, but the act provides now that the men off duty lose their pay entirely, the payment of substitutes being in the hands of the government.

Under the previous regulation clerks paid higher salaries than the substitutes appointed to fill their places profited by the difference in salary. The regulation does not apply in cases of injury.

EVENING AUTO RIDES LEAD TO AN ARREST Young Men Found at Houston Street Garage Charged With Burglary

A man giving the name of Charles Brooks, while in the act of closing the front door of A. B. Wharton's automobile establishment, 404 Houston street, Monday night, was arrested by Policeman Meek. He was placed in the county jail on the charge of burglary.

Chapman was accused of theft and a fine of $100 was pending against him. He was accused of taking a pair of pants and a pair of slippers from Jim Anderson.

at the convict camp near Hick's Meadow, fifteen miles northeast of Fort Worth, Tuesday afternoon.

Justice of the Peace Rowland went out to hold an inquest on the remains Tuesday night. He returned a verdict of death from natural causes.

Chapman was accused of theft and a fine of $100 was pending against him. He was accused of taking a pair of pants and a pair of slippers from Jim Anderson.

Brooks, when seen by a Telegraph reporter this morning, made the following statement: "I entered the back door of Wharton's establishment, then opened the front door, admitting the other two men; one of whom ran the machine into the street. We have taken the machines out in this manner several times."

"I thought it was all right, for one of the men accustomed to running machines said that he had permission from Wharton to do so. He said that he had forgotten his key and that we would have to get in through the back door by raising the bars."

A. B. Wharton, in discussing the case, said that for some months past some one has been entering his establishment at night and running the machines.

"On several occasions I have arrived at the shop in the morning," said Mr. Wharton, "to find the gasoline tank of one of the Wintons empty and the machine covered with dirt."

"I have had detectives working on the case for weeks, and have asked the policeman on the beat to watch closely. Though on several occasions my employees have run on the intruders, no arrests were made until Monday night, when Brooks was caught in the act of closing the door after the machine had been run into the street."

"I have made every effort to catch the men. The firemen at the station in the rear of my place have been watching for me, and though they have heard the machines taken out several times, have been unsuccessful in clatching the miscreant chaffeurs."

Charles Brooks, the man arrested, according to his statement, is a second-hand furniture dealer and lives at 946 College avenue. He is married and 27 years of age.
