KAISER MAKING EYES AT SWEDEN

German Emperor Said to Have Discussed Question of Scandinavian Alliance

KING OSCAR MADE ADMIRAL

Foreign Office at Berlin Denies Any Interest in Affairs of Northern Neighbor

BERLIN, July 14.—The substance of the statement made at Stockholm yesterday to the effect that a German-Swedish alliance is seriously contemplated was submitted to the foreign office here today.

Of course the foreign office could not deny that Emperor William and King Oscar had spoken of an alliance during their interview at Gefle yesterday because the subjects of their conversation are not known here.

An indication of the result of the meeting between Emperor William and King Oscar at Gefle, Sweden, yesterday has not reached Berlin, but a report of their conversation likely to be made public, as it is explained here this was a strictly private visit of one sovereign to another.

The initiative probably came from this side, as the emperor desires to have a first-hand knowledge of the Norwegian-Swedish situation. The German government policy as the Associated Press is informed is one of complete aloofness, almost indifference.

ALLIANCE CONSIDERED

STOCKHOLM, July 14.—The Associated Press is able to state on good authority that a German-Swedish alliance is seriously contemplated.

The question, it is said, was discussed at a conference between Emperor William and King Oscar on board the Hohenzollern yesterday at Gefle. The conference lasted from two to three hours.

King Oscar and his party will remain with Emperor William until he departs from Gefle Friday afternoon.

Besides Emperor William's personal visit, Germany will make the greatest naval demonstration in its history in Swedish waters.

HONOR FOR KING OSCAR

KIEL, July 14.—Emperor William has made King Oscar grand admiral in the German navy.

FIDDLERS IN SCHOOL

English Schools Instruct All Pupils in Art of Violin Playing

LONDON, July 14.—The introduction of the violin to the scholars of English elementary schools has been attended with great success. So great, indeed, that 100,000 children are now developing a love of this branch of music, and it is not too much to expect that from this army of violinists one day may spring a real British genius.

The permission of the authorities has, of course, to be obtained before the orchestral classes are attached to any school, but the children are showing such keenness that hardly a day passes without the formation of a new class.

The Plymouth school board has taken up the scheme enthusiastically, and at Sheffield there are no fewer than 1,000 child fiddlers.

Altogether over two thousand classes have been established throughout England, and at the recent concert given at the Crystal Palace 700 children attending the violin classes attached to London elementary and other schools gave a very creditable performance.

DEATH OVERTAKES FAMOUS WOMAN SPY

Former Mrs. Amanda Monks Is Victim of a Runaway in California

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 14.—Mrs. Charles Gray, who was formerly Mrs. Amanda Monks, a famous Confederate spy during the war of the rebellion, was drowned near Santa Cruz as the result of a runaway accident caused by an automobile.

The horse driven by Mrs. Gray and her husband was frightened by the automobile and backed off a bridge into the stream, falling on top of Mrs. Gray, who had remained in the buggy. The machine was driven by a son of J. C. McMillan, a prominent banker of Oakland, who was accompanied by a party of five friends. They aided in the recovery of the body.

FIRST COTTON BALE AT SAN ANTONIO

Of Excellent Quality, It Fetches 20c on Local Market—Goes to New Orleans Exchange

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 14.—The first bale of cotton to reach the San Antonio market was brought to this city Wednesday. It is said to be the first bale of this year's crop grown from the seed to be marketed in the state. This is the view of cotton men of this city. The bale was brought into the city from the farm of F. T. Johnston of this city, which is near Moore, in Frio county. It weighs 540 pounds and is of exceedingly good quality, being graded as good middling. The staple is long and of good color. The bale will be shipped by express to the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, where it will be sold. The price paid the grower of the bale was 20 a pound.

The bale was purchased by A. Cohen & Company, and is very much prized by Mr. Cohen because of its genuineness and good quality.

The farm from which the bale was gathered is one of the large cotton plantations of Frio county. The field which produced this bale contains 700 acres.

The cotton outlook in this county and contiguous territory is said by Mr. Cohen to be very good. The large fields are promising and the boll weight is doing very well this season. The acreage of cotton in this section this year is approximately the same as was produced last year.

JOKE NOT APPRECIATED

Carrie Nation Tears Down Sign That Was Meant for a Joke

MONONGAHELA, Pa., July 14.—Angered by a practical joke which some wag had perpetrated, Mrs. Carrie Nation, who delivered two lectures at Eldora, Ark., created excitement on a Pittsburg and Cherokee street car by tearing an advertising sign down and throwing the fragments away. The sign advertised a beer and originally declared that it was "drunk by all nations." Someone had made it read, "Drunk by Carrie Nation," and had drawn a row of hatchets on the sign.

TWO KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Special to The Telegram.

SOUTH MALESTER, I. T., July 14.—An explosion at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday in the shaft No. 6, at Buck, I. T., killed George Jacobs and another, name unknown, both shot miners, and ten mules. The shaft is 568 feet deep. Jacobs leaves a widow and two children.

HOW SEC. WILSON STOPPED THE LEAK

Clerks in Department of Statistics Were Locked in, and Blinds Pulled Down

WASHINGTON, July 14.—"Sh-h-h! Somebody is at the window! See the shadows on the curtain! Turn out the lights!"

This was spoken in an excited whisper. The speaker jumped from his desk and made a stealthy rush to the window. Cautiously he drew back the shade about an inch and peered into the daylight. He discovered no eavesdropper, for the shadow was caused by a passing cloud, which for a moment obscured the sunlight. He returned to his desk, muttering under his breath:

"False alarm," he growled to the others in the office. "Turn up the lights, for we will have to hustle in order to get this report out by 4 o'clock."

Ludicrous Precautions

It was an officer of the bureau of statistics in the agricultural department who spoke thus, and the incident referred to indicated the precautions which were taken to prevent any leak in the grain report, which was to be issued yesterday. In a sense the precautions seemed ludicrous, although in the judgment of Secretary Wilson and Chief Statistician Hyde they were absolutely essential to insure the secrecy of the crop estimates before they were given out for publication.

The secretary, having been confined firmly that there had been a leak in the cotton report, was now prepared to throw every safeguard around the report which was to show the size and condition of the wheat, corn and other crops.

There were eight or ten people engaged in getting up the report. One was Assistant Secretary Hays, another was Mr. Hyde, while assistant statisticians, clerks and typewriters completed the force. A big room, and then put the key in his pocket.

Next he had the telephone in the office disconnected, so that no devil of a broker in New York could get into communication with Mr. Hyde or any of his assistants over the wire.

There was no wigwagging.

Then the blinds on the windows were closed and the shades drawn, which created a condition of almost absolute darkness. Thus, any conspirators who might be concealed under the heavy foliage in the grounds outside were prevented from wiggling into the room. In order to keep the men from melting, half a dozen electric fans were set in motion and then the lights were turned on.

When lunch hour came not a single person in the room was permitted to leave in order to get a bite to eat. Each one was allowed to scribble his order for refreshments on a piece of paper, which was slipped under the door and carried to the cafe on the grounds by a messenger. In due time several trays of eatables were carried back to Mr. Hyde and his assistants, and as soon as they were handed inside the door was locked again. Finally, when the report was ready, the sweltering prisoners pounded the door, which was a signal to a waiting messenger that their work was done.

ONCE UPON A TIME IT WAS THIS WAY

AND NOW

KNEW JONES' BODY BY MOLE ON EAR

Gen. Horace Porter Tells How French Savants Identified Remains of the Admiral

NEW YORK, July 14.—General Horace Porter, retiring ambassador to France, who has arrived here after an absence of eight years abroad, discussing the finding of the body of John Paul Jones as the result of a search lasting six years, said:

"At last the excavations brought to light five leaden coffins. Four had plates identifying the bodies within, and the fifth, of far better construction, had none. By the process of elimination we decided it must contain the body of the distinguished naval hero. When, in the presence of anthropologists, and surgeons of note, the arrangement of the coffin failed to indicate the personages which we express our surprise at the remarkable state of preservation the body was found in."

"Clothed in a winding sheet of linen, the arrangement of the coffin failed to indicate the personages which we express our surprise at the remarkable state of preservation the body was found in."

"In all the measurements, there was not a difference of two millimetres, that is seventy-eight thousandths of an inch. If all of this is remarkable, the autopsy by the eminent Dr. Captain of Paris is more so. Think of an autopsy being performed on the body of a man who died 11 years before we know that John Paul Jones had an attack of bronchial pneumonia in Russia, year before he died in France. The autopsy showed the presence of the disease in the left ear, which the French physicians had long before recorded as out of service. The autopsy further showed, as history stated, that John Paul Jones died of chronic nephritis, and plainly showed the dropsical condition of the patient before his death."

"The naval hero was somewhat of a dandy, you know, and on the body was a fine linen shirt, the bosom of which was laid with ruffles and platts. His initials were on the initial 'J.'"

General Porter will be for some time the guest of his son, Clarence, in this city.

NEWSPAPER WOMEN

Thirty From the Lone Star State Attend Chautauqua

BOULDER, Col. July 14.—Guests of the Colorado Chautauqua this week and heretofore of its fame for the whole year are thirty newspaper women from the Lone Star state. They are members of the Women's Press Association of Texas, and whenever there is a crowd on the grounds, wherever there is anything of interest to be seen or heard, their badges are in evidence. In addition to the chautauqua, these contributors to the Texas press have arranged to visit the principal places that make Colorado the scenic wonderland of the world, and the descriptions by their quill pens are expected to aid in increasing the already large numbers that every summer find their way to the Rockies from the cities of the south.

The operation was made necessary by a mishap several years ago when Major General Wood received a severe blow on the head by a falling object.

FEVER IN TERRITORY

Stockmen Are Excited Over the Discovery of Fever Among the Cattle

EUFULA, I. T., July 14.—Texas fever is said to have been discovered in a herd of cattle about twenty-five miles west of Eufaula, and considerable excitement has been occasioned among local cattlemen as a result. Twenty-five of the 100 cattle in the herd, belonging to a stockman named Barnes, are dead, and veterinarians who have examined them say that probably all the rest of the herd will die. Old inhabitants say that this is the first case of Texas fever in Indian Territory for nearly half a century.

COLQUITT SAYS HE WILL NOT RESIGN

Railroad Commissioner Has Plenty of Precedent for Retaining Office

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 14.—The Telegram correspondent has said several times that Railroad Commissioner O. B. Colquitt, who is squarely in the race for governor next year, had no idea of resigning his present honorable position, in order to devote himself more assiduously to his candidacy, but since statements to the contrary have been made lately he decided yesterday he would go to "the fountain head" for information upon the subject upon which the public might implicitly rely.

Reporter—Mr. Colquitt, I see it reported in several Texas papers that you will tender your resignation as railroad commissioner in order to devote yourself to your candidacy. Is such your intention?

"Yes," he answered without hesitating one moment, and speaking like a man who had not been surprised. "I see from the morning papers that their Austin correspondents are speculating upon the action of some other state officials in resigning might have upon me with respect to my continuing in office as railroad commissioner. You may say for me that I shall not care what others may do, and that their course will not influence me one iota. I have made up my mind as to what course I shall discharge as to my duties as railroad commissioner with conscientious devotion to the duty I owe in that capacity to the people of Texas, and shall not resign."

"But I expect to find plenty of time to perform these duties, and in addition conduct an aggressive campaign."

While thus expressing himself a pleasant smile played over Mr. Colquitt's face, denoting firmness of purpose and determination, and he spoke with composure as if measuring every word and carefully considering its literary definition and political significance. This short statement should therefore quiet all the perturbation in the public mind upon this particular subject.

BROOKS NOT TALKING

Just what Judge Brooks, another gubernatorial candidate who holds a public office, will do is not known, but both have presidents to guide them in whatever course they may decide to pursue.

So far as Mr. Colquitt is concerned, it may be mentioned that Judge John H. Reagan announced as a candidate for governor while chairman of the railroad commission and made the race to a finish and did not resign.

Governor Roberts while on the supreme bench was nominated for governor and as a candidate for governor he was re-elected mid the race without tendering his resignation.

Governor Hoag while attorney general was nominated for governor and held his job until the campaign was over.

Theodore Roosevelt while governor of New York was nominated for the presidency, but held his position until after the campaign.

So, therefore, while Mr. Colquitt is not bound by precedents and it may be said is a precedent maker, has precedents for his course both in the democratic and republican parties.

So far as Judge Brooks is concerned, he is on the judiciary and has precedents on both sides and both for and against tendering his resignation.

As a state judge, when Governor Roberts was a candidate for governor he was on the supreme bench, but did not step down from his lofty position.

PARKER AN EXCEPTION

When, however, the national democratic convention in St. Louis nominated Judge Alton B. Parker for the presidency he immediately tendered his resignation as a justice on the supreme bench of New York on the grounds, as he then stated, that "consistency required."

The people of Texas may, therefore, continue to guess as to whether or not Judge M. M. Brooks will resign to make the race for governor, but they need not be as stuck up as Governor Roberts was about what Railroad Commissioner Colquitt will do.

BREWERS NOW MAKE "TEMPERANCE BEERS"

Contain Less Than Two Per Cent of Alcohol For Local Option Trade

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 14.—In order to comply with the law, it was learned yesterday that a large number of the big breweries of Texas and from other places, have invented and put on the market what they term "temperance beer." This beer is intended to be sold exclusively in local option districts of the state, and must contain less than 2 per cent alcohol.

The names selected for this temperance beer are unique. One brewery has selected the name of "I Know," another, "You Know," "We Know," "Sap" and "Tetotalter." In this way the brewers derive a nice revenue and at the same time comply with the law.

At the offices of the Texas Brewing Company in this city it was said this afternoon that beverages of this character were manufactured here for sale in local option districts. Several brands of this beverage are manufactured by the local company, the most popular of which is known as "Tetotalter."

TRAVIS CO. FARMERS ARE SELLING COTTON

Estimated That 10,000 Bales Have Been Disposed of During the Past Ten Days

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 14.—Since the recent jump in the price of cotton, from well informed cotton buyers, it was learned yesterday that more cotton has been sold at 10 cents than during the entire cotton season last year.

The Travis county farmers, or a great majority of them, positively refused to sell their cotton while the staple was below 10 cents and hold on until the market took a sudden rise and then they began selling until something like 10,000 bales have been sold during the past ten days.

From Sam J. Crawford, a member of the firm of Crawford & Byrne, it was learned yesterday that his firm has bought 2,400 bales of cotton in one batch, 1,600 bales in another and 800 in another and quite a number of smaller purchases. This cotton was bought at 10 cents per pound.

According to D. T. Igelhart, a well known cotton buyer, it was learned yesterday that new cotton will begin to come in about August 1.

BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING SOLD

Fidelity Trust Company Secures Structure at Seventh and Houston Streets

A deal was consummated in this city today by which the Fidelity Trust Company at the head of which is D. T. Bomar, will acquire the old Board of Trade building at Seventh and Houston streets, paying a purchase price of $65,000.

In addition to the purchase of the building the company will expend $30,000 in improving it, placing new vaults in it and constructing a modern basement.

The property, which belonged to the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, is in the business center of the city and will be used by the Fidelity Trust Company and the Continental Bank and Trust Company as soon as the improvements are completed.

Arrangements are already under way for the building of club rooms by the Elks, who now occupy the second floor of the building. Funds for their club are being raised, as announced in The Telegram.

The building was erected fifteen years ago by Owen J. Cook. It is a four-story brick structure and was at one time used by the government as the postoffice and other Federal offices.

FARMERS SELLING

Three Hundred Bales of Cotton Brought to Tyler Since Rise

TYLER, Texas, July 14.—From the time cotton soared upward last week to the neighborhood of ten cents per pound, the farmers of this community have brought to Tyler about three hundred bales of last year's crop.

The prices paid for the cotton will average ten cents per pound, and a neat sum of money is being turned in to the farmers.

All the cotton coming in at this time is being stored at the compress, the cotton yards having "closed up," so to speak.

ROSEN TO RUN CARS TO DALLAS

Fort Worth Man Figuring Out Details for Motor Car Service on T. & P. Tracks

Should the Texas and Pacific road adopt gasoline cars for use on its line, as has been suggested, Mr. Rosen says no difficulty will be occasioned, as electric connection for use over the Rosen Heights line can be readily and practically made.

PLANS NEW BELT RAILWAY

Will Extend Line to the South Side and Make Circuit of Residence District

Operation of motor cars between this city and Dallas over the Texas and Pacific road as soon as the double tracking of that line is completed is the latest development in North Texas railroad affairs.

A proposition having this in view is now under consideration by the Fort Worth and Rosen Heights Street Car Company, which will submit complete details to the railroad company. Sam Rosen, president of the street car company, admitted this morning that the plan is under consideration, but said that no negotiations have yet been had.

Should the Texas and Pacific road adopt gasoline cars for use on its line, as has been suggested, Mr. Rosen says no difficulty will be occasioned, as electric connection for use over the Rosen Heights line can be readily and practically made.

"Though we have the matter under consideration," said Mr. Rosen this morning, "no definite arrangements or detail plans have been made. The matter, however, is entirely practicable, and we are seriously thinking of it."

ROSEN TO REACH SOUTH SIDE

Mr. Rosen also announced this morning that the company will shortly apply for franchises to build additional lines in Fort Worth, tapping the south side.

Lines as planned there will reach districts, which Mr. Rosen declares are more thickly populated than sections now having car service, and in many places the Northern Texas Traction Company lines will be crossed. Exact streets over which franchises will be asked have not been announced. When these lines are asked an additional benefit to the city will also be provided, following which the heavy grade now used to the company bridge will be used only for northbound cars, obviating the heavy pull and enabling a material saving.

These lines, in addition to the lines to be built in North Fort Worth on franchises already granted, will furnish complete belts for the system.

NORTH FORT WORTH LINES

Work will be begun on the North Fort Worth lines within a few days, at present waiting alone upon the delivery of ties.

Contractors for this material, to be furnished by A. Harris & Co. of Tyler, west in Fort Worth Thursday and promised a rapid delivery. Mr. Rosen says work will then begin at once. Franchises for North Fort Worth call for a line starting near the company bridge across the Trinity, passing the cemetery, running thence along Lee avenue to Central avenue and along that to Packers avenue, which will be followed to the packing plants.

Vice President Pearlstein of the Rosen Heights company is now in the east on matters connected with its plans.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 14.—Albert Preston, 14 years old, has been torn from the arms of his girl bride, formerly Miss Pearl Chatterman, by Under Sheriff McElroy and lodged in the county jail on the charge of perjuring himself by giving a false age when securing the license.

Preston and Miss Chatterman, the latter but 17 years old, appeared before County Clerk Vosburg and said their ages were 18 each. He gave them a license. J. Edin, an uncle of the youth, saw the license in a paper and notified the sheriff. The circuit court will be asked to annul the marriage, but the young people declare they will be married again when the boy is old enough.

Moran, Boles, Hubbard and Willis on Panther Sick List

Fort Worth Panthers are again playing in hard luck, according to reports of the team received at baseball headquarters in this city. Moran, who has been playing a winning game at third since his acquisition by the locals, is out of the game at present with a boil on his leg. It is believed, however, he will be back in the game shortly.

Boles, who is a prime favorite with the fans both at the bat and in lining them over from short, has sprained his arm. Hubbard and Willis are also reported on the sick list. All the men, it is believed, will be playing in usual form when the team returns Sunday to fight it out with Waco at Haines park. Moran is the only man forced to drop from the line up.

On the Verge of Insanity and Suicide With Weeping Eczema

SAVED BY D. D. D. Prescription

Tiffin, Ohio, February 10th, 1906. Gentlemen: For over fifteen years I suffered with the Weeping Eczema of the hands. My hands were so swollen and painful I could not work at my trade. Could not write a letter. Night after night I walked the floor unable to sleep. I was in such a frenzied state I was on the verge of insanity and suicide. I tried all kinds of remedies and all kinds of doctors. Spent almost every dollar I had in the futile effort to find relief. I was ready to kill myself. After I had about given up in despair, Mr. J. H. McCrecher advised me to try the D. D. D. Eczema Remedy. The first application gave me some relief. It partly stopped the itching and burning and I slept some at night. I continued faithfully its application until I used eight or nine bottles. I am now entirely cured, and never miss a day's work. I cannot tell you how grateful I feel. JNO. HONK.

We have hundreds of just such grateful letters from sufferers that have been cured to stay cured. We can just as surely cure you, no matter how fearful or loathsome your skin affection. Act now before you become crazed with the suffering. Don't dose the stomach for Eczema and skin troubles are not blood diseases, but result from parasites in the skin. This scientific application to the skin (D. D. D. Prescription) will guarantee to cure or we will refund every cent you pay us. S. S. S. Prescription costs but $1.00 per bottle.

"Write the Medical Department, D. D. D. Company, Chicago, for free consultation and advice." Recommended and guaranteed by Covey & Martin, Walkup & Fleider, Reeves' Pharmacy, N. E. Grammer and all druggists.

PATH TO DEVIL

HARD TO TRAVEL

Minister Declares It Is Difficult for a Man to Lose

Salvation

"How Hard It Is to Go to the Devil" was the topic of a surprising sermon delivered by Rev. J. Frank Smith of Dallas at the Cannon Avenue Cumberland Presbyterian church Thursday night, in the revival series now in progress there.

The sermon, which was treated in a novel manner, ended with the declaration that if a man were lost it was in spite of everything done to save him. As obstacles to be overcome in going to the devil, Rev. Mr. Smith outlined in a minute which must be overcome; conscience, which was in the way; early influences of Christian parents, which were in the way; Christ, Himself, who is in the way, and finally the sermons of God in nature, which are in the way.

Treatment of the subject and its novelty held the attention of the large audience secure. Services will be held tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

INDIANS RAID POST OF MAJOR ARNOLD

Received With Cheers, However, in Fort Now Spread Over the Plains

Crowds along Main and Houston streets shortly before noon today were treated to the sight of an hundred or more Red Men warriors in full regalia. Mounted on horses they paraded from the court house to the Texas and Pacific station, then boarded interurban cars for Lake Erie, where an encampment is being held today.

Mounted police officers, erect in saddles on fine horses, lead the Ren Men procession, in contrast to the Indian pursued cowboy of early days. Warriors with many colors on their faces and wearing fringed costumes resembling buskins and gay head dresses came next.

In the line of march were several women, dressed as "squaws." A Ho Ho band played music as the red skins marched. Bringing up the rear of the procession was a noise-making drum, the regular Indian perambulator behind a horse.

On arriving at Lake Erie the local braves were joined by tribesmen from Dallas and lunch was served under the trees.

The afternoon is being spent with war dances, outdoor sports and amusements. The day will close with an Indian dance in the pavilion, followed by a ball.

FRENCH BAND PLAYS

"GOD SAVE THE KING"

British Naval Officers Join in Celebrating National Holiday of Republic

PARIS, July 14.—The French national holiday was celebrated today. The boulevards were thronged with merry-makers and all the leading thoroughfares were elaborately decorated. There was a brilliant review at Long Champs, which was attended by President and Mme. Loubet, cabinet officers, diplomatic corps and a vast throng of people. About 20,000 troops took part in the maneuvers.

A notable feature of the review was the presence of 128 officers from the British naval squadron at Brest, all in full uniform. Their arrival was the signal for an enthusiastic reception, the band playing the British national anthem. President Loubet gave a luncheon to the British officers and a number of French naval and military men in the Elysee palace at noon.

SQUADRON FIRES SALUTE

BREST, July 14.—The British squadron was dressed with bunting and fired a salute of twenty-one guns today in honor of the French national holiday. The later crews of the British ships, headed by bands, went ashore, where they were accorded an enthusiastic reception and participated in the various festivities.

NAMES BEST DOCTOR

MR. BAYSSON PUBLISHES RESULTS OF VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

A Former Pronounced Dyspeptic He Now Rejoices in Perfect Freedom from Miseries of Indigestion.

Thousands of sufferers know that the reason why they are irritable and depressed and nervous and sleepless is because their food does not digest, but how to get rid of the difficulty is the puzzling question. Good digestion calls for strong digestive organs, and strength comes from a supply of good rich blood. For this reason Mr. Baysson took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the cure of indigestion.

"They have been my best doctor," he says. "I was suffering from dyspepsia. The pains in my stomach after meals were almost unbearable. My sleep was very irregular and my complexion was sallow. As the result of using eight boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, about the merits of which I learned from friends in France, I have escaped all these troubles, and am able again to take pleasure in eating."

A very simple story, but if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills it might have been a tragic one. When digestion begins with eating, fills up the intervals between meals with pain, and prevents sleep at night, there certainly cannot be much pleasure in living. A final general breaking down must be merely a question of time.

Mr. Joseph Baysson is a native of Aix-les-Bains, France, but now resides at No. 2489 Larkin street, San Francisco, Cal. He is one of a great number who can testify to the remarkable efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the treatment of obstinate disorders of the stomach.

If you would get rid of nausea, pain or burning in the stomach, vertigo, nervousness, insomnia, or any of the other miseries of a dyspeptic, get rid of the weakness of the digestive organs by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by druggists everywhere.

Proper diet is, of course, a great aid in forwarding recovery once begun, and a little book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," may be obtained by any one who makes a request for it by writing to the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Schenectady, N. Y. This valuable diet book contains an important chapter on the simplest means for the cure of constipation.

CATARRH

A UNIVERSAL DISEASE

Catarrh usually begins with a cold in the head, but does not stop there. The mucous membranes all become inflamed and secrete a filthy, unhealthy matter which is absorbed by the blood and distributed to all parts of the body. The patient is then continually hacking and spitting, the nose is stopped up, the ears have a ringing or buzzing noise, the throat becomes sore, and as the unhealthy matter more thoroughly saturates the blood a general feeling of despondency takes possession of the system.

I had Catarrh for about fifteen years, and no man could have been worse. I tried everything that I could get my hands on, but no good resulted. I then began S. S. S. and could see a little improvement from the first bottle, and after taking it a short while was cured. This was six years ago, and I am as well today as any man. I know there is nothing earth better for the blood than S. S. S. No body thinks me of S. S. S. Dr. J. M. MATTSON.

Local applications cannot cure Catarrh, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. They allay the inflammation and temporarily relieve the disease, but as soon as they are left off the trouble returns. The only way to cure Catarrh is to treat it through the blood. S. S. S. soon clears the blood of all Catarrhal matter and purges it of all irritating poisons, checks further progress of the trouble and completely cures the disease. S. S. S. keeps the blood in perfect condition, and it can eliminate all waste matter that will produce Catarrh. Nothing equals this great vegetable remedy in the cure of this disease. Write for our book and my medical advice you wish. We make no charge for either.

TEXAS RICE CROP TO BE SHORT ONE

Inability to Secure Enough Tenants in Field Causes a Reduction

George Letter and others interested in growing rice in South Texas, have just returned to this city after making a personal inspection of conditions in and around Notawa, where the company has between 400 to 500 acres in rice this season.

Mr. Letter said today that rice conditions are not the best this season, due to the heavy rains, and that the acreage is very much reduced in comparison with last year. He estimates that the reduction will reach as much as 60 per cent. He looks for an improvement in prices over last season.

Mr. Letter, in further discussing rice conditions, said that if weather continued favorable during the harvesting period, which is the latter part of August or the first of September, the rice crop will turn out very well.

Cause for the great acreage reduction of rice this season is due, said Mr. Letter, to the fact of the big companies operating in Notawa, but unable to secure tenants. To this reason more than to any other is attributed the small acreage. He says that in some localities rice was planted four times this season on account of the incessant rains.

Average production in the Texas fields this year, it is believed, will be between ten and twelve bags to the acre, or approximately fifty bushels of rice to the acre, but as the crop is going to be very small in both Texas and Louisiana, which two states are dependent upon largely for rice in this country, it is more than likely that the price of the product will be raised for the consumption in the United States this year and that this country will have to import considerable rice. It requires about seven and one-half million bags of rice to supply the demand in the United States annually.

Final passage of the Govin rice bill by the Cuban government will open up a great market for the rice producers in Texas and Louisiana. The measure has passed the house of representatives and is now pending in the senate with a fair prospect of becoming law.

Speaking of this matter, Mr. Letter said that in case the measure became a law there would be little benefit to the rice producers in Texas and Louisiana this year, from the fact that there will be no surplus for export. However, the measure will make it possible for Texas rice growers to dispose of their surplus, in case there is any, to great advantage, as the bill increases the present duty on rice from 40 per cent to 25 per cent. The passage of the bill, it is expected, will open the Cuban market to American rice and encourage the culture of rice in Cuba, practically to the exclusion of rice from India, which country now furnishes much of the product.

Mr. Letter also reports that wet weather has greatly damaged cotton, corn and other grains in South Texas and that the crop situation in some sections, is anything but encouraging.

INTERCOAST CANAL IS NOW PROJECTED

Railroads and Boards of Trade Invited to Discuss Gulf Project

General Passenger Agent Phil Auer of the Rock Island has received an invitation to attend a convention of business men and citizens of Texas to be held at Victoria, Aug. 8, for the purpose of discussing the feasibility, plans and measures necessary to secure the survey, estimate and final construction of an intercoast canal from Brownsville, Texas, to Donaldsonville, La., and for the organization of an intercoast canal league.

Information given out by President C. S. E. Holland of the Business Men's Association of Victoria that the cost of constructing a canal will be much cheaper than building a railroad for the same distance. Such a canal, as is proposed, would give all the section adjacent to it the advantages of direct communication by water with all deep water ports, and in addition will extend the same advantages to the section of country adjacent to the tributaries of the canal, which means the Rio Grande, Nueces, Guadalupe, San Antonio, Colorado, Brazos, Trinity, Neches, Sabine, San Jacinto and several other rivers, besides bayous and rivers in Louisiana. It means cheap fuel and transportation facilities.

Every board of trade and commercial club in both Texas and Louisiana has been asked to attend the Victoria meeting.

LETTERS TO THE TELEGRAM

SOUTH SIDE CAR SERVICE

To the Telegram. At last elected an alderman away out in one of the rural wards who intends to make the Northern Texas Traction Company run at least one car line to the city. This does not mean that the people of this particular ward are more prone than their neighbors to try experiments nor that the socialist heaven is more active among them.

There is a public theory that a street railroad exists primarily to perform a public service. The traction men have, from the beginning, treated this theory as an amusing legal fiction. Standing as an amusing legal fiction, the street car cannot be had on the South Side street cars, which combine the comforts of a "way freight" caboose with the speed of an ex-car. These jammed cars are not a public convenience. They are merely a method of inflicting torment.

The street railway men themselves make only one claim in regard to the service. They say that they give a long ride for a nickel and "in the people of this city you can ride forever (when the power is not out) without reaching any point in particular in either direction."

The traction company has "dismally failed to comply with its obligations when it said, "Give us what we want in the way of franchises and then in time we will give you a decent service."

So after several years of "negotiating" with the attitude of the traction company and the city fathers on one side and the people on the other made absolutely hopeless from the beginning, the poor, patient, but not the people of the South Side, through sheer exasperated desperation, elected Mr. Maddox as alderman to fight the whole bunch, singlehanded.

The task thus undertaken is big and difficult, but there must be some change for the present service is intolerable. The Traction Company has sufficient time to comply with its promise in return for a franchise exempt from all taxation and worth a hundred thousand dollars, which was given to them free.

The people have the right to expect something in return. X. Y. Z.

OLD FIREMEN DO NOT ATTEND FIRE

Reduction of Pay by the City Council Followed by Absence at Blaze

Despite the fact that members of the North Fort Worth fire company did not respond to the early morning alarm turned in at 2 o'clock this morning from the grocery store of T. E. Lowrey, Central avenue and Grove street, Fire Chief Capps, assisted by Assistant Chief Buckland and outsiders who responded, succeeded in saving a portion of the store building, though the stock of goods was practically ruined.

At a meeting of the city council Tuesday it was voted on recommendation of the fire committee to reduce pay of firemen from $5 a fire to $1 for six men to be designated by the fire chief. Services of the assistant chief were also discontinued after this month, provision being made that the first man at the hall should have charge of the chemical engine and receive $5.

Nine men have been kept on the fire chief's rolls, six of these being paid for service at each fire. Assistant Chief Buckland reports that none of these men responded to the alarm last night. The fire fees will be distributed among those who attended.

The fire, supposed to have resulted from mice among matches, was discovered about 2 o'clock and burned one end of the store before it could be stopped. The building was owned by A. M. Anderson of North Fort Worth. Loss on the building and its contents has not been determined. The loss to the stock is estimated at $1,700, covered by $1,500 insurance.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

Word was received in this city Thursday night from San Antonio, announcing that the contract had been let there for the erection of the Catholic school on Rosen Heights to be conducted by the Sisters of the Immaculate Word.

The contract has been awarded to Fuesel & Co. of San Antonio and work will be commenced at once. It is expected the building may be sufficiently completed for use Sept. 1. The building, a two-story brick structure, will be heated with hot air throughout and will be finished in latest approved architectural style. It will be erected on block 16, Rosen Heights, a site near the company power house.

CLAIMS PAUL JONES HIS GRANDFATHER

Brooklyn Man Says He Is Descendant of Admiral Who Is Being Brought Home

NEW YORK, July 14.—Moritz Paul, an old man, nearly bent double with years, living with his son, Charles, a butcher, at 214 Central avenue, Brooklyn, says he is the grandson of John Paul Jones, the naval hero whose body is now being brought to the United States from France.

When a reporter called to get the old man's story he sent his son, Charles, into the house to get a picture of himself when he was a young man fifty years ago. His son came back with a faded and time-yellowed picture, and took it to the set of the pictures of the long-dead sea fighter and Moritz said he had seen the set of the picture, line for line, the photograph and the prints of John Paul Jones were similar. The long, straight nose of John Paul Jones was the long, straight nose of the old picture, Jones' prominent mouth, with the twist at the corners, was reproduced markedly in the picture of Moritz Paul. The shape and pose of the head, the set of the shoulders, and even the fashion of the hair were very much alike in both pictures.

The old man said: "There's nothing really strange about it. John Paul never mind the Jones, that wasn't his right name, as everybody knows—was my grandfather. I look more like him than did my father, Peter Paul."

CHINESE OFFICIAL CHARGES SMUGGLING

Says Hundreds of His Countrymen Cross From Mexico to Texas Every Year

EL PASO, Texas, July 14.—Concerning a published interview from the City of Mexico to the effect that money is all that is necessary to secure the entrance of Chinese into the United States from Mexico along the border between the two countries, T. F. Schmucker, the local officer of the immigration department, said this morning that the report from the City of Mexico implicating the immigration inspectors was simply a reply to certain questions he had made when he first came to El Paso.

"As soon as I became thoroughly acquainted with the situation here, I received a report to Washington telling of the evidently organized bands of smugglers that were operating along the border and having agents on both sides of the river. A copy of this report has been sent by the state department to the City of Mexico and this interview is probably the reply to that statement."

"I have investigated the subject very thoroughly and believe I understand the workings of this system. It is well organized and they are bringing Chinese into the United States, but I am positive that it is not with the connivance of any of the present force of inspectors."

The report to which he referred and which has been given a wide publicity, is as follows: "In a published interview Liang Haun, the Chinese charge d'affaires in the City of Mexico, says that he has evidence which proves that an organized system of smuggling Chinese from Mexico into the United States is in operation. He asserts that from $150 to $200 gold per head is the price paid for the delivery of Chinese in Mexico to parties in San Francisco, and this money is divided between the agents and the United States immigration officers."

"Haun declares he has in his possession absolutely incontrovertible evidence of the truth of his statements and that it is with the connivance of certain immigration officers that the Chinese are able to get across the Rio Grande. His charge of bribery is not broad enough to include the chiefs of the immigration stations along the river, but he declares that it would be practically impossible for the average Chinese to get into the United States by way of Mexico if he were not given the assistance of the men who are placed there to keep him out. Hundreds of Chinese are smuggled across the Rio Grande every year, Haun says."

THE COTTON SITUATION

President Harvie Jordan of the Southern Cotton Producers' Association is out in some very timely suggestions to the cotton producers of the country, and advises them to not try to force the price of the fleecy staple beyond the margin of 12 cents per pound. President Jordan says:

The south is to be congratulated on the prospects for general prosperity during the next eighteen months. The loyalty of southern farmers in standing together during the first three months of the year and holding their staple off a depressed cotton market and following this by curtailing production for 1905 by materially reducing the cotton acreage and use of guano under cotton is more largely responsible for the present condition of good prices than all other causes combined.

The loyalty of southern bankers, cotton men, fertilizer companies and business men generally who have so generously contributed funds to the association and the southern press, which, during the hard struggle of the farmers for the past six months, has done so valiant and effective public service and which, by its highly important factors in making possible existing conditions.

All of these things coupled with bad seasons following in the wake of a heavily reduced acreage and an enormous demand for spot cotton by the spinners of the world gives to cotton the strongest statistical position it has occupied in many years. If crop conditions do not rapidly improve the supply of raw cotton for consumption in 1906 will fall far short of the demand and prices will go very much higher. But abnormally high prices will be dangerous for the future to the producer and spinner alike.

There are a lot of people who would be glad to see the price of cotton forced to 20 cents per pound if such action were possible. They seem to lose sight of the fact that when cotton gets beyond a certain price it is prohibitive almost so far as the mills are concerned. If the price of the raw material is exorbitant, then it must necessarily follow that the price of the finished product must reach a corresponding figure, and the price of the finished product exerts a very great effect upon the demand. The world looks to the cotton crop of the country every year for cheap clothing, and if the price of cotton goods reaches a very high point there will be a heavy falling off in the demand from the fact that the poorer classes who are large consumers of cotton goods will be unable to buy the usual amount that is required to hide their nakedness.

Speculation in cotton is just as bad on the part of the producer as it is on the part of the Wall street gamblers, and the producers have long cried out against the speculative influence they have had to contend with from that quarter. Of course, it is right that the producers of the country should receive a good profit on their labor. The men who raise and harvest the cotton are the ones who should reap the greatest reward from its marketing, but there is much wisdom in the timely remarks of President Harvie Jordan with regard to the situation, and they should be generally heeded by the southern people.

The producers of the country have had a winning hand this season, notwithstanding they have had to wage fierce battle to attain the desired result. They have carried the war right into the heart of Africa, and they have incontinently routed the forces that had conspired to demoralize the market and fatten at their expense. They are now receiving a price for their cotton that to some extent at least recompenses them for the efforts expended, and they should be satisfied with the result without resorting to the extremes against which they have been fighting. So long as cotton brings from 10 to 12 cents per pound it means good money for the producer and a large measure of prosperity for the cotton belt. It is now selling for that price, and the wisdom of the men who held back their surplus is amply vindicated. There should be no effort on the part of the cotton producers of the country to further inflate values, for it will bring about a condition that will prove retroactive in its effect.

YOUR DEAR OLD MOTHER: Young man, did you ever put your arms around your dear old mother who has loved and cared for you and tell her that you love her and are grateful for the tears she had shed and the prayers she has offered for you? She may think that you may love her without you assuring her that you do, but it costs you but little effort to tell her and your words may bring more joy and sunshine to her heart than you ever dreamed of. Some young men will pay two dollars for a livery rig to ride three hours with a seventy-five-cent girl and tell her all the nice things they can think of that are true, and more that are not true, and don't spend five or five minutes in a year to show their old mother that they care anything for her—McKiny Gazette.

time to often get his arms around his dear old mother and tell her just exactly how dear she is to him, never amounts to much in this world. He is an unnatural son and the possessor of a mind that is so sordid that he can never possibly hope to measure up to the requirements of good citizenship or a successful business career. He neither deserves success from a business standpoint or recognition at the hands of those with whom he comes in contact.

If he is the right kind of a young man he will go to that old mother often, clasp her in his arms and kiss the withered cheeks with more avidity than he would those of the 75-cent girl who accompanies him in that livery rig. As he presses her to his heart he will whisper words of tender love if her willing ear, assuring her that she is as dear to him today as she was back in the old days when she presented the ever ready panacea for all his real and imaginary woes. He will tell her of his business hopes and aspirations, of the success that has come or is promised to him, and she will rejoice and be glad that her boy has not forgotten her. She will be happy in the realization that he has had it in his heart to snatch enough time from the demands of business to come to her in the old way and pour out his heart to her in the old boyish manner.

And if business reverses have overtaken that boy, where can he go and receive the same brimming measure of sympathy and encouragement that comes from the ever ready lips of that dear old mother? There is no one else on earth who understands him half so well. She has watched over him with a jealous eye since his advent into this world, and she understands every trait of his character. She knows where his element of strength lies, and is equally cognizant of his every weakness. It is her dear voice that first whispered the true principles of manhood in his boyish ears, and she feels largely responsible for what has come to him in life.

There are some young men who cruelly neglect their old mothers. They go forth from the parental roof to begin the battle of life after receiving the mother's blessing and seem to think that duty ends with the parting. They go out in the world and on in the world with only a passing thought of the one whose heart is being eaten out with a realization of their neglect and indifference. So long as they are prosperous they are content to pursue this course, but when adversity comes they think of mother. They go back, pour their tale of woe into mother's ears and are comforted and encouraged when they really do not deserve it. The man who neglects his mother during seasons of prosperity should be debarred from seeking her comfort and encouragement during the hours of adversity.

One of these days that dear old mother is going to be gathered to her reward. When the sting of adversity and discouragement comes there is going to be no comfort in the old place. There will be no dear old hands to smooth the tangled locks on your aching head, and no lips to whisper the words your heart hungers for. When that time comes the full force of your neglect will come back to you, and as you stretch your eager hands towards the Great Beyond and implore but just one word of comfort and love, the passing winds will mock you with the emptiness of it all and the thought that you are reaping your well-earned reward. Bitterness will well up in your heart and the world will seem cruel and a vast combination of emptiness, and all solace will be lacking. There will be a flood of bitter memories that will not restore to you the Angel who has passed out of your life forever.

The time to love and cherish your dear old mother is now. Tomorrow it may be everlastingly too late.

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND

Rev. I. Z. T. Morris left last night for St. Paul, Minn., to attend the national meeting of the Children's Home Society, which convenes in that city this week. Representatives from twenty-seven states having auxiliary organizations will attend the meeting. Dr. Morris being the only representative from the south. He has been asked by the board to take charge of the work of forming organizations in other southern states and a decision on this matter will be made at the coming meeting—Fort Worth Telegram.

This man will have a crown with many diamonds if any one does, for the great good he has done in giving a home to the orphan children and finding homes for them when large enough to give away.—Sherman Democrat.

It is a noble and unselfish work that is being done by this humble man of God. He entered his particular field a number of years ago, after the work had been sadly neglected by those who came before him, and has never faltered nor grown weary in the work his willing hands have found to do. He is simple and unpretentious in his manner and methods, showing the deep consecration that is upon him, and the hundreds of homeless waifs he has gathered up from the highways and byways and provided with happy homes will always rise up and call him blessed. He merits a crown that gleams with the richest gems found on the other side, for he is engaged most truly in the Master's own work.

When the President gets through with the work of investigating the agricultural department, he might with advantage turn his attention to some other branches of the federal government. This seems to be a time when there are strong evidences of corruption in many high places, and the guilty ones should have justice meted out to them in every possible instance. This is presumed to be a government of, for and by the people, and no department of it is maintained as a personal snap for any of its occupants.

Late advices from Russia indicate that the retirement of M. Muraviev as chief peace envoy and the appointment of M. Witte as his successor, can but result in stronger probabilities of peace being actually accomplished at the conference soon to be held in this country. M. Witte has been one of the most consistent advocates of peace, and it is said that he even goes so far as to favor a Russo-Japanese alliance for the future.

Reports from Russia indicate that General Stoessel has been placed under arrest in consequence of some revelations made by the commission appointed to examine into the fall of Port Arthur. It is evident that the Russian government is not satisfied that he failed to make good in the matter of making Port Arthur his tomb.

Reports from San Antonio indicate that the farmers of that section have turned loose about 100,000 bales of cotton at the advanced price, and that ought to help the circulating medium in that section to a very considerable extent. When the farmer is prosperous all other interests enjoy the benefit of his prosperity.

The peaches down in the vicinity of Tyler are reported to be bursting as they ripen from the effects of too much rain, and it is feared that considerable loss will ensue. Tyler is the center of a great fruit belt, and the people of that section annually reap great financial reward as the result of their fruit and trucking enterprises.

The boll weevils infesting the cotton fields of this state have at last deliberately invited their utter and complete destruction by attacking the water melon patches that flourish in the vicinity of Corsicana. As soon as it becomes known that the weevil has developed a penchant for melons, every son of Ham in this state will go on the warpath against the weevils.

That trade excursion idea advanced by George Diehl as a means of promoting the Fort Worth interest, is a good and timely idea. Representatives of Fort Worth industry will lose nothing by cultivating closer business relations with the people of our commercial territory.

President Roosevelt has ordered a complete investigation of the big scandal attached to the department of agriculture in connection with the selling of cotton crop statistics, and it is hinted that such investigation probably will involve the early retirement of Secretary Wilson.

Tom Lawson has discovered that a number of spies are being sent out by his arch enemies for the purpose of noting the effects of his tirades upon the people. It is barely possible that he is attaching more importance to his tour of the country than is warranted under the circumstances.

Bids are being received for the material for the new six-mile street car track that is to connect Fort Worth again with Arlington Heights. This fact seems to indicate very clearly that the new owners of this valuable suburban property mean business from the very start.

Fort Worth will suffer from the application of those new grain rates, and the necessary steps should be promptly taken to remedy the existing situation.

Water melons are getting so cheap on the local market now that even the festive hobo can indulge in all the delights of a square meal once more.

GLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES

Immigration is pouring into the Panhandle. Scarcely a day passes but what one or more wagons loaded with immigrants can be seen on our streets.—Childress Post.

Immigration is just what the Panhandle needs to make it what it should be—the garden spot of all Texas.

The rapid growth of Texas suggests interesting thoughts of what an empire it will be when as thickly settled as Massachusetts. There is room in the state for scores of millions, and the agricultural resources are sufficient to feed them all. The time will come when Texas will have a hundred members of congress and more people than now inhabit all the states.—Childress Index.

Texas is the largest state in the union and possesses more varied resources than any of her sisters. There is room here for many millions more people, and the people are rapidly finding that fact out.—

Several hundred thousand of Mr. Rockefeller's millions for education will go to Booker T. Washington's school. Putting his feet in the Rockefeller trough will pay Booker better than putting them under the White House table.—Galveston Tribune.

And Booker will not call into question the matter of any taint on those Rockefeller dollars. He will accept them absolutely without question.—

Tom Campbell made his opening speech on the Fourth at Jewett, Texas. The Fort Worth Telegram says he used much of the material that has so well served J. S. Hogg in the past. He certainly takes a good model to win.—Athens Review.

It is a well established fact that Jim Hogg always managed to win, and made himself the political idol of the people.—

Major Beardsley came over from Fort Worth Saturday night and spent Sunday and today in the great health resort. Major Beardsley did not have much to say about the proposed interurban road. We suppose he considers there is nothing for him to say until the bonus and right-of-way is fixed, and then he will act and not talk.—Mineral Wells Index.

Major Beardsley has already stated his intentions with regard to this enterprise, and it is up to the people to accept or reject them.—

Eighteen cars of twelve months' wool left San Angelo a few days ago for the east. There it will doubtless be mixed with a sufficient number of bales of cotton and returned to Texas in the shape of "hand-me-downs."—Austin News-Tribune.

THE MYSTERY OF 19,000 POUNDS BY BUFORD DELANNOY (Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

CHAPTER XII (Continued). "I had an idle sort of life, Tessie, in the old country, and I came out here to turn over a new leaf. I have turned it over, and fastened down the old one. I am not with a red cent—whatsoever that is—now, but I have faith in myself, and I believe that presently, if hard work and persistence raise a man on the ladder, I'll be able to climb up. I never expected for a moment that you would climb with me; I would not be such a selfish brute as to ask you to. But there was something I had intended to ask you—only—"

"What was it?" "Your kindness made me think of it. I told you that I went to bed last night the happiest man in all America. But I didn't tell you I slept. "I did not sleep! I lay thinking—thinking all the time of you. I thought I would begin that climb with such a heart, with such an eagerness, with such a will, because I would have you for an incentive."

"I thought that last night, because you behaved to me like a—like an angel. And I determined to ask you today to—to—that's why I came out here to meet you." "What were—that were you going to ask me?" "To wait for me, Tessie. To wait a year or two till I was up the tree a bit with a nest I could invite you to share with me. I love you, Tessie, love you with all my heart and soul."

"I suppose I ought to have told you all this differently; then you would have liked me all the better for it. But I am not a professional in love affairs, Tessie. You are the first woman I have ever really loved—the first I have ever told so."

She did not, somehow, seem dissatisfied with his manner of telling it, and the concluding sentence was not displeasing. "They were walking very slowly now, and if the girl did not say much, she thought the more."

"I had a plain question, Gerald," she said. "But I have counted four questions all in that one breath." "What, all four?" "She had raised her mischievous eyes to his, and fixed them on him in such a way that his heart leaped."

"Supposing I answer one? The—last one." "Yes, yes, yes." "That is my answer." "What?" "Yes."

He caught her in his arms then, and Blossom standing in the middle of the meadow chewing her cud paused in that operation in sheer astonishment.

CHAPTER XIII. THE METHOD IN SUSAN TODD'S MADNESS.

The next day the farmer's daughter went into Oakville shopping. She had arranged to have tea with a friend and be back before dusk.

Danvers had been sent in another direction in the early morning of this. He was back early in the afternoon. Susan spoke to him presently. She beckoned him as he passed the back of the house.

"I've a message for you, Mr. Danvers." "Not so loud! From Miss Tessie." "Ah!" "She's gone for a ride. Will you meet her in the old water mill at 4 o'clock?" "The old—why on earth all that distance away? What is she doing there?" "That she did not tell me," the woman answered shortly. "Don't go if you don't want to. I've given you the message, water under the wheel."

"That's all right, Susan; don't lose your temper. I'll go fast enough." "She told me to say, too, that you were not to tell any one." "Presently she went away about her business—in the direction of the old water mill. She took with her some old pieces of rope which had been used for binding butter kegs, and which she knew would never be missed. Because they were so soaked in fat."

Her revenge was coming within her grasp, the revenge she had been praying and hoping for—a life for a life. She had thrown stones to her rope, and after climbing to the top, pulled up the stone after her. There she waited. The old mill was a baited trap.

She intended to drop the stone on the victim's head. She knew it would stun him. Ten minutes would suffice for her task, if he remained senseless as long. Before 4 o'clock, Gerald Danvers entered the mill. He was lying senseless on the floor, an ugly gash in the back of his head, and a woman feeling at his heart to know if it was beating, and laughing a maniacal laugh of triumph when the early milking. A drink of water she had poured into his mouth, and that her scheme was successful—so far.

Then she tied him up. Tightly round the ankles and knees, and his wrists close round his waist. "The mill remained open—open for the binding cord to be looped through. Susan dragged Gerald's unconscious body along the floor, out of the window, on to the paddie nearest it, and then she began to bind him to the blade."

She had come with plenty of pieces of rope, and, slinging one round the paddie, she caught the end of it the other side. "That means she fastened the feet. Another piece, thrown in a similar way, she drew through the arms, and her prisoner was securely bound, unable to move hand or foot."

She drew the man's handkerchief from his pocket, and, forcing his mouth open, used it as a gag, knotting it behind his head. She got off the paddie, back into the mill, and gazed on her handiwork. She next withdrew the pin that held the wheel and pulled and pushed with all her strength.

It seemed a hopeless task, but presently the wheel was moving. The man was on his road to the water at the bottom.

ing. He had not been there an hour before he was assailed with it. The handkerchief made his mouth water, and the linen seemed to act like blotting paper, absorbing and drawing up every drop of moisture in his body. He could turn his head, and there, not a yard away, sparkling in the sun, was water trickling down; the waterfall which was to swell in body and force and whirl him to his death.

It was not long before he was praying for death—life seemed so full of pain. Night fell; all was darkness—so black a darkness that in the shadow in which he lay he could not see the faintest outline of the mill.

Soon he lapsed into unconsciousness again. From that state he was aroused by a noise—aroused to find that the moon was up.

The noise was slight, but his tense nerves caught it; it was on the wheel, and presently he was conscious that some one was feeling his legs, and then higher up his body, round his waist.

He guessed it was the mad woman come back, and he was not sorry. He closed his eyes. Not that he feared death. For hours past he had been praying for release from his torturing position. And he felt that it was coming at last.

He closed his eyes because he did not want to see in what shape it had arrived. He guessed that it would be a noiseless weapon, perhaps a knife, and a feeling of water under his legs, wonder of how it would feel as the knife sheathed itself in his heart. He was not afraid; he would welcome it.

And then he felt a weight on his chest, a moving weight. He thought that his last moments had arrived—that his murderer was getting closed and closer.

He continued to feel the movement on his chest; but his life was spared. Then he recovered why. He knew that if he opened his eyes he could see his murderer there.

Danvers opened his eyes. Could he have given vent to a scream it would have been one of mortal fear and agony. For on his chest, his legs, his whole body, there seemed to be swarming hundreds and hundreds of huge rats!

Then once more he became oblivious to his surroundings. He remained unconscious for many hours, so much so that, when he became conscious the sun was rising, and the whole place was bright with the light of daybreak.

He cast his eyes to his chest, to his feet, to think God not a sign of a rat. Moreover, the feeling of numbness and pain had left him.

He began to wonder whether it had all been a fearful dream. And then Susan happened which startled him. A fly alighted on his face. Involuntarily he started to brush it away with his hand. And the hand brushed it away!

It was not till he had so used his hand that he recalled that that member was free. Then he could not understand.

He lay there quite still with the hand poised in the air—his own hand free. He looked at his wrist, and there were the red marks where the rope had been. He could not understand it.

Gently he tried to move his left hand—and succeeded. Lifted it till it grasped the blade of the wheel to his left.

Then it did not take long for the full meaning to burst on him, and when it did, he lost no time.

A moment after he was in a sitting position, and had wrenched the handkerchief from his pocket, and there were the red marks where the rope had been. He could not understand it.

Looking down over the wheel he saw cattle on the brink of the rivulet endeavoring to bury their noses in the cool water.

GOOD SCORES MADE AT GUN CLUB SHOOT

C. A. Kinney Captures "Tommy's Cup"—Houston Man Wins Hammerless Gun

The first day's regular shoot of the fifth annual West Texas Gun Club Association meet was held at Prospect Park Thursday and proved a big success. Over fifty gunners were entered in the different events, and all of whom were amateurs. Seven men, representing powder and gun houses, entered the shoots, but their scores were only for exhibition purposes. The scores during the day were many of them high and consistent. The traps used were very fast and the sky bright, making a good score much better than it looked on paper.

Besides the regular money events, there were two trophy shoots. The shoot for the "Tommy's Cup," an annual feature introduced for the first time this year, was won by C. A. Kinney of the local club. His score was 20 out of 25 targets. An innovation of this meet was the hammerless gun, presented by the Fort Worth Gun Club, was captured by Otto Sens of Houston with a perfect score of 25.

The second trophy event, for an $50 hammerless gun, was captured by Otto Sens of Houston with a perfect score of 25. An innovation of this meet was the providing of a regular luncheon in a tent on the grounds in place of coffee and sandwiches, which have been the order up to this meet. This feature was highly appreciated by the shooters who appreciated the difference a substantial meal made in the afternoon's shooting.

Today's shoot will be the second and last of the meet. Several more gunners are expected from Dallas and other nearby points, who were prevented from attending Thursday.

PERISHABLE CROPS HAVE BEEN SHIPPED

Melon and Vegetable Movement from South Texas Has About Ended for the Season

M. C. Billings of this city, who has been located for several months at La Fruita, near Corpus Christi, has returned and will be here some weeks. He reports that there is very little doing in that section of the state just at this time in the way of handling and shipping vegetables and melons, but that early in the season this stuff could not be gathered fast enough to supply the demand.

Mr. Billings says that the shipping season in the Corpus Christi section is practically closed, as the markets seem to be over-stocked and commission men no longer offer inducements for consignments.

Hundreds of car loads of melons were shipped from the La Fruita section this season and the early consignments brought good prices. But at this time there is not sufficient demand to justify shipping. The same condition applies to vegetables, which are not being shipped out in any great quantities.

GASOLINE CARS LEAD IN NUMBER

Greatly Outnumber Steam and Electric Machines—City Automobile Statistics

Automobile enthusiasts of the city have gathered together every sort of a machine from a nameless second-hand affair to a thirty-five-horse power touring car in their efforts to take advantage of the pleasant rides about the city.

Records in the office of the city secretary, where each owner of a machine is obliged to secure a license and have his car tagged, show there has been a strong preference for gasoline cars. Of the sixty registered forty-three are gasoline, two electric and eight are steamers. Seventy have been registered without motive power statements.

Combined horse power of the machines varying from the big thirty-five-horse ton to four-pound babies reaches a total of 606 horse power, or enough pressure to draw the heaviest cattle train ever brought into the stock yards.

Putting their running ability together the machines could circle the globe in a day with ease and could do the work of all the pony expresses in the state twenty years ago.

The most out-of-the-way village in England is said to be Farley-cum-Pitten, over thirty miles from the nearest railway station.

HEAD-ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO TEMPERAMENTS

Every hour, all over the city—in homes, in factories, in stores, in offices—collisions are occurring between incompatible human temperaments. The housewife is conservative, the young man is a "wild" and the furniture in fact; the servant is iconoclastic—a "collision between temperament" occurs, and a "want ad." tells those girls who can read that a servant is wanted at a certain home.

The factory-foreman, always opposed to a square peg in round holes, finds that one of his workmen is a mis-fit. Again a temperamental collision. And a workman who is a "round peg" finds a "want ad." for the young man who offers a better job for him than his present one; and the other man advertises for a job where square pegs are needed.

A store-manager finds that a certain clerk has not an ounce of salesmanship in his make-up. Collision again.

A want ad. brings another clerk to the store; and finds a job for the ex-clerk where salesmanship is not a requisite.

In the office the stenographer got to "running the business." Boss was a "brute," and believed he could manage things himself.

Simply another Collision Between Temperaments. Want ad. finds a "want ad." for the young lady who rather liked to be managed; and found a stenographer for the old "boss" who didn't "grate on his nerves."

New Patent Fuel Company Reports Surprising Returns From Advertising

"Telephone calls for three days was my gram's latest Who-Where-What contest," said J. H. Ricker of the Fort Worth Patent Fuel Company this morning, in discussing results obtained as an advertiser in The Telegram.

"Calls came not only from contestants, but from business men who did not know there was such a place in the city. We also received a large number of letters from without the city, inquiring about our company and the fuel we manufacture. Even in Boston the advertisement was noticed and made the basis of an article in the Globe describing the new enterprise. Letters received were not confined to Texas, notable among them being two received from business houses in Missouri, asking about the fuel."

The fuel manufactured by Mr. Ricker and his associates is said to be without parallel and is composed largely of crude oil, whose fierce burning properties are used to the best advantage in making it a success. Mr. Ricker, who came to this city from Boston, has perfected a machine used in the making of the fuel so that it goes into the mechanism as a fuel and comes out in solid briquettes. These briquettes are used as a substitute for wood and coal, three kinds being made and called kindling, wood and coal respectively, as they are used in substitution for the former articles.

Railroad experimentation has already been made with the fuel, a test of the briquettes against coal being made on the Rock Island in the presence of Jesse E. Holt, master mechanic of the road, who not only declared it to be satisfactory in every way, but also one of the finest steam engines ever used.

The substitute for wood has been found equally successful. One of the blocks which occupies but little space, scarcely one-tenth of that which would be required by the wood, will cook a complete meal and at a cost 25 per cent cheaper than the wood for which it was substituted.

The machinery thus converting the burning crude oil into a successful fuel, capable of transportation in small bulk and without dirt, has been invented and perfected by Mr. Ricker, who lives in this city. With a clock-like regularity it receives the material and discharges it at the other end without a miss in hand, compact bricks, bearing no resemblance in appearance and but little in ordinary properties to the crude oil.

This machinery has been subjected to changes as experience showed the need until today it has reached the point where Mr. Ricker is satisfied with his work.

Made in Texas, by a Texas resident, and using the famous Texas oil, the machinery and its product is typical of the advance and progress of the Empire State. The only machine of its kind was made by J. M. Bird, superintendent of Gomer Company, Fort Worth, Texas.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

J. D. Wollett, senior member of the lumber and wood firm of Wollett & Berry, who operate one of the largest lumber plants in the Republic of Mexico, at El Oro, is at the Hotel Wollett, accompanied by his sister, Miss Wollett, and her friend, Miss McCarthy. Mr. Wollett will leave Saturday for Mexico, while the young ladies will go to Colorado for the remainder of the summer.

Mr. Wollett gives a glowing description of the great timber regions of the Republic and says the possibilities of that country are unsurpassed for money-making. He went there eight years ago and for the past seven years has been engaged in the lumber and wood business, the plant being possibly one of the largest in that country. It has a lumber capacity of 60,000 feet daily and employment is given to from 1,400 to 2,800 men, who work in the various departments of the company.

Mr. Wollett said today his firm disposes of its entire output, both lumber and wood, to the El Oro Mining and Railroad Company, which consumes from 1,000,000 to 10,000,000 cords of wood monthly in the conduct of both its mining and railroad enterprises, which are situated near El Oro. The railroad line operates over a distance of 265 miles, and will be in operation by the first of September. The power is to be transmitted by cables. Millions of dollars were expended by the Canadian company to put the plant in operation, and as a result the expense of power for running the mills in the vicinity of the City of Mexico will be considerably reduced.

The Wollett Company is at the present time considering a proposition of removing its plant to the northern part of the Republic, as the water power soon to be utilized by the Canadian company will greatly interfere with their wood business.

BOY OUTLAWS WORRY POLICE

Recent Burglaries Attributed by Chief Maddox to Youthful Offenders

Boy burglars are held responsible by the police for many of the recent cases of housebreaking and pilfering that have been reported to the police department within the past few weeks.

Discussing the matter today, Chief Maddox declared that so numerous had become such cases that he was determined to put a stop to it by seeing that cases were made against all such boy offenders.

"It seems a hard thing to condemn boys to be placed with hardened criminals," said the chief, "but leniency extended in such matters has gotten things to such a pass that I have determined to push every case."

"In five recent cases deprecations have been traced directly to children, and the thing must end."

Two cases of using teams found on the streets within one day has also aroused the department. Both teams were used by the same pair of youngsters, who performed the feat that would have meant a hanging in the early days of Texas, without perturbation.

Turned over to the big chief they were lectured upon the evil of their ways and left his office with voluble promises. "I'll cross my heart I won't do it again," said the elder, aged 9 years, in an outburst of thanks.

VAUDEVILLE BONUS NEARLY COMPLETED

Secretary Butler of Factory Club Reports Small Sum to Be Secured

A letter has been received at Factory Club headquarters from the promoters of the Interstate Amusement Company regarding the matter of putting up a vaudeville theater building. The writer says that the company is waiting a decision from two large companies in Fort Worth, who will be interested and benefited by the location of the new theater, on certain matters, before they proceed further with the enterprise.

Secretary Butler says that the matter is still in good shape and believes that the enterprise will be a success. It is understood that about $4,500 of the desired $5,000 to the fund, in the way of tickets for the opening night, has been secured.

Several other enterprises are in prospect for this city and the work of securing them is being pushed by Secretary Butler of the Factory Club.

George Plumbhoff of the Plumbhoff Saddle Company of Waxahachie is in the city looking over the field with a view to removing their plant to Fort Worth.

The company does an exclusive wholesale business and employs thirty men. Secretary Butler Thursday received a letter from an implement manufacturing company in Ohio, stating that the firm contemplated making a change and thinks favorably of Fort Worth as a location. The company is to send a representative here to investigate the facilities and advantages offered by this city for such an enterprise.

Another concern is corresponding with the Factory Club regarding the advantages of Fort Worth for the location of an axe handle factory employing a large force of men. It is now located in Missouri and seeks to change location. Secretary Butler says that in the event he can locate this company it will insure the securing of the crate factory, mention of which was recently made in this paper, as the latter can utilize the by-products of the axe handle factory.
