Latest Figures From Bennington Explosion Tell of Appalling Tragedy

MAY REACH 100

Majority of the Victims Mere Youths—Rescue Work Develops Many Heroes

DEATH LIST NEAR 100

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 22.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon the latest figures on the Bennington disaster are as follows: Fifty dead in the undertaking establishments. Seven unidentified men known to be present at the time of the explosion and buried in the fire room. Eighteen men missing and unaccounted for, many of whom were drowned. Fifty-four injured men in the hospital. Of this number Surgeon H. H. Foster of the United States marine service says that ten will surely die within the next two days. In the dead and missing, which is conceded to mean the same thing, this brings the total up to seventy-five, and with the deaths which will be reported from the hospitals within the next few days, the total will be nearer one hundred than seventy-five.

FRAGMENTS AT HALF MAST

The first streak of dawn found all the flags of the city at half mast, silent tributes to the brave boys who gave up their young lives in that hell of steam between the Bennington's decks and the most pitiful circumstances of the sad tragedy in the extreme youth of the victims. Out of forty-five identified dead only four were over twenty years of age and thirty of them were under 24 years. Thirteen of the poor fellows were under 21.

CITIZENS ACT QUICKLY

The way citizens of San Diego responded to the call for help is worthy of lasting record. At Agnew Sanitarium, a rambling structure on the hill over the bay, the first telephone message found Dr. Gocheneau at home and prepared for the emergency. Dr. Gocheneau moved in several directions at once. In less than twenty minutes he had 1,000 yards of antiseptic gauze on hand. He had room for thirty-five patients, but he packed the beds. He hung up every furniture establishment in town and inside of half an hour had thirty-five new beds ready for the sufferers. He had a motor car and a press wagon came to sight, the horses lashed in a foam and the wagon being full of palm-crazed sailors, the Agnew Sanitarium was ready and waiting. At the time more than a dozen patients were undergoing treatment under one roof.

TWO OF THE HEROES

Two names should stand side by side with the story of the Bennington, those of Ensign Newton K. Perry of the Bennington and Captain H. H. Foster, surgeon, United States marine corps, one a dead hero and the other a live one.

MYSTERY OF LOAN IS CLEARING UP

Account of Former Equitable Life Insurance Officers Said to Have Been Properly Endorsed

NEW YORK, July 22.—Most of the mystery remaining about the $485,000 loan which the Mercantile Trust Company had standing on its books to the joint account of ex-President James W. Alexander and ex-Comptroller Thos. D. Jordan of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, when State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks made his investigation, has been removed, says the Times.

DOES EQUITABLE OWE THIS BANK?

President of Defunct Bank Claims $685,000 Due From the Insurance Company

NEW YORK, July 22.—There is no record in any of the books of the Mercantile Trust Company of the $485,000 loan to which Herace C. Deming, president of that company, testified before Superintendent Hendricks as having been carried by the company for five or six years in the names of President James W. Alexander and Comptroller Thos. D. Jordan of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

Mr. Deming referred to the loan when questioned by Superintendent Hendricks in the course of the superintendent's investigation into the affairs of the Equitable.

MEMBER OF A ROYAL FAMILY

Endorses Pe-ru-na for the Climatic Diseases of Hot Weather

The Dangers Attending Summer Colds—How to Avoid Them.

THE most dangerous cold of the whole year is that cold caught during the summer months. The night may start in hot. A person goes to sleep without any covers. Before morning the weather turns cold. A severe cold is caught in this way.

Neglected Colds Become Tenacious. Perhaps the victim pays no attention to it. The cold becomes settled. Such a cold is more apt to affect the lungs or kidneys than colds caught during the winter months.

PRINCE JONAH KALANIANOALE

Prince Jonah Kalanianoale, Delegate in Congress from Hawaii, in a recent letter to The Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., says: "I can cheerfully recommend your Peruna as a very effective remedy for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Depressing Effect of Hot Weather. The depressing influence of summer weather, together with the cold, results in greater depression than when the system is invigorated by the cold, bracing weather of winter.

The Remedy That Cures. The moral of this is that at the slightest appearance of a cold in summer, Peruna should be taken.

Learn by Experience of Others. A great many people have discovered this fact through the expensive school of experience. It is much better to be forewarned upon this subject.

Baron Vendenheim's Interesting Testimonial.

Baron J. M. Vendenheim, 1325 G street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "For a long time, until I came into this climate, I had congratulated myself upon having a perfectly sound pair of lungs."

But I began to have little coughs and annoying colds that shook my faith in my breathing apparatus. "This continued until I had lost health and strength to an alarming degree.

"Peruna cured me and restored my strength. "You are at liberty to use my heartiest endorsement of Peruna as a medicine and tonic for colds, coughs and as a tonic."

The Cause of Consumption Often a Common Cold.

Nine cases of consumption out of ten occur in this way: People catch cold. The cold is not properly cured, and they quickly catch another one. This cold is dilly-dallied with by no treatment, or some treatment that is ineffectual and the cold continues. Then they catch another cold and begin to cough. Then they take cough syrups which do no good. By and by they get tired of taking medicine and give up in despair. Their cold continues; and their cough grows worse. Then they apply to a doctor, only to find that they are in the first stages of consumption.

Physicians, Peruna has permanently cured. We have testimonials from many people who have been given up to die of consumption, who claim to have been cured by Peruna. We do not recommend Peruna as a consumption cure, but we do claim that it will prevent consumption if taken before the disease is thoroughly established.

WHEN TO GET MARRIED
An Essay by Jewell Mayes, Editor of the Richmond Missourian

It is a too common remark—"Too poor to marry now."

Nowadays fellows get it into their heads that a man ought to have a "stake" before he takes unto himself a wife; that a man is expected to keep a wife like she were a pet pug dog or a hangy catlet.

The Rev. Dr. William A. Quayle (known to so many of the Missourian's readers) gave the following sound advice at a recent meeting of the Chicago Congregational club at the Auditorium:

"Many of the persons here," he said, "began housekeeping in one room. In one corner was the parlor. The kitchen occupied another corner. In the next corner was the dining room, and the sitting room occupied the other. Thank God there were four corners. Riches or poverty are not to be considered in affairs of love. The millionaire and the pauper have the same symptoms. Love is just as sweet without money. I can see persons in this audience with gray hair, and some without any at all. All are married. As I say this the wives look up into their husbands' eyes and think of the men they might have married who could have started them in life with at least a five-room flat. The doctor's words are true—as true as real life itself.

A woman marries a man for one of just two reasons why—for love or for profit, for affection or for money, for heart attachment or for desire for property, for soul fondness or for foolish selfishness!

A man marries for one of four reasons, i. e., because of animal passion or because he knows the girl and likes her in puppy love style; or because he proposed to her in the moonshine and hates to back out now; or because she is his soul's sunshine; his heart's fullness, his very life's other and better part!

Young man, would your sweetheart love you as fondly if tonight you were to lose all that you possess and tomorrow's sun would find you without a cent?

Young lady, would your lover go back on you if your father were to go bankrupt next week?

Money is a good thing—yes. But marry for money, and here's the bet that that's all you'll get! Marry a girl that you love above and beyond all the world, and if she has money it is well and good.

These are the days of worship of wealth, and when you find it in a person's heart you may expect that party to figure in the divorce courts or the hopped-up row.

The lassie who counts the cash may not have time to measure the tears. Marriage is heaven or hell—the "which" depends upon the soul's mating!

The man and the maiden who have the love that never lessens may not have enough money to feather a roper-cord bed; yet they are, indeed, richer by far than the heartless millionaire and his proud and fashionable wife in their brownstone mansion on the boulevard of swell society.

This being "well fixed" is a foolish foppery, a worship of fashion and folly, a slavery to gold—shallow silliness.

Money is a good thing—and it buys everything that comes out of the store and nothing more. Money never secured nor insured happiness, the rarest trifle that the Almighty God ever bestowed on his most favored son or daughter.

Love is the life preserver in the sea of life. It makes her ways seem good always. It colors his course so that to her it is well. Nothing can take the place of that which fills the heart as full as a goat on washday—that love that keeps on increasing as long as life lasts.

Young people sometimes run races on deception—and then both lose! Does she seem sunny? Well, is she? Is he decent? Yes; he acts to her like he were a saint! The happiest woman in the world is the girl who did know.

Like in vaccination, too many love affairs do not take well enough; they are not vital to the fullest. When a man meets his true soul-mate he wants to burn all his old letters and pictures—other women to him are but an incident then!

When a girl's heart is fully filled with fondness for him whose kiss is a dream of elysium and whose embrace is sweeter than honey, she quits all flirting, and he is enough of society for her.

The intrigues and duplicity, the secret sins, the unhallowed homes, the false husbands and untrue wives—it all comes from one cause.

And that one cause is mismating!

If there is jealousy before the ceremony, there is still the germ living after the wedding.

When a man and maiden are mated and matched they are insured and sealed for happiness land, and they will never be seen in the divorce courts.

Matrimony is not a picnic trip. It is an all-the-year-round proposition. It is all right or all wrong. The proof is not on the public dress parade; it is at home, where none can see or hear, where it takes grace to bear and forbear and hold the tongue.

Young man, first be worthy of the one woman. Young lady, if you are a woman true and good and pure and sensible, you have but to find and meet your one fond, true sweetheart who prizes you above the wealth of the snobocrat, and who would rather have you without a dollar than any other woman worth a million—and then you and that one man shall be among the most blessed of all the world—a happily mated man and wife.

Young man, the "when to get married" is not a question of money. It is not a question to be settled by your relatives or neighbors. It is not settled by the heart alone; but when the heart seconds the mind's choice without a contrary doubt it is time.

Time and waiting seldom better things. The fellow who waits till he makes so much money, is robbing himself of the glory of a sweetly good woman's help, which makes work easy and teaches him what happiness is.

Until a man is married he is at best but a wondering and wandering thing—uncertain! He makes a fool of himself when a pretty girl gives him a smile, and he breaks hearts that he does not want. He wades into fashionable society and bends his credit keeping up with the crowd. Finally, he finds that what Solomon remarked about his vanity is true. Then he stops and counts what it is all worth. He goes on and on, and maybe dies an old wreck.

Again, until a man is married he never learns what happiness is. Mated, he is to be envied. The love of the courtship days, the intoxication of setting the time, the beauty of the girl on your wedding day—these all grow and richen and increase if you are mated.

It is time to marry when you are mated.

A GRIM TRAGEDY

is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Hamley of Oakland, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all 'isee-es. One dose relieves. THE "IMPOSSIBLE" POLLY WHO WATERED THE WHISKY

Polly was married when she was 17. "Too bad," said Polly's friends, "she is too clever to tie herself to that lump of fat, who smells of beer."

Polly's husband kept a saloon. It was a successful saloon. Men came often and stayed late.

Polly kept them drinking, for she stood behind the bar, set out the liquors and obeyed orders. Everybody obeyed Polly's husband's orders.

"Don't let the fellows get paralyzed," her husband told her.

"When they hit the pace too hard, fill 'em up with water, Little Girl. It's better for them. They'll never know the difference, and it's money for us."

Polly knew when to begin to water the whisky.

She kept them gay and the dimes and nickels dropped to the tune of their laughter.

Polly's husband became leader of his saloon gang. He jollied them, bullied them. They followed him, feared him, adored him. One day they awoke to the fact that he was their "big boss."

That was the day the whole South Side voted Polly's husband's ticket.

So before they knew it Polly's husband was political boss and the nickels, dimes and water had made for them a fortune.

"Let's cut the saloon and slick up at bit, eh, Polly?" They cut.

Slowly, step by step, the boss beat his way into prominence in the town. He set his eye on the council, he was made councilman. He coveted the mayor's job, it became his. All this, not because the people wanted him, but because he held the whip hand, and men had to fall into line before his masterly leadership. He was it and everybody knew it.

Polly, the wife of the saloonkeeper, became Mrs. Polly, the wife of the mayor.

"There's a beautiful chair over in the United States senate, Polly; we'll have to brush up a bit more, eh, old girl?"

And Polly brushed up until she shone, then he went out and bought a controlling interest in a railroad and had himself elected president.

His private car shone as did himself and Polly.

"A little society, now, eh? A trip in our private car might be a starter. Which ones of the swells will be invite? Won't we make the hobnobs open their eyes?"

And the ex-saloonkeeper invited his swells, and the ex-barmaid went along. The lingo of the bar from Polly's lips horrified the ladies of the upper ten. The same vulgarities from Polly's husband's lips were "so interesting." So it happened that the belles of the day languished before the porky magnate, while the men of the party smoked and Polly, the barmaid of old, the wife of the president of the road, sat in loneliness, her bejeweled hands folded idly, her heart beating dully, her eyes watching, through a peculiar mist, the trees and fences, as distorted by her tears, they flashed past the window of her husband's private car.

The barmaid might not enter the kingdom of social bliss, but the ex-saloonist, knee deep in political filth, might bask in the warmth of the smiles of the elite.

I LIVE MY LIFE
I strive to keep me in the sun;
I pick no quarrel with the years
Nor with the fates—even the one
That holds the shears.
I take occasion by the hand;
I'm not too nice 'twixt weed and flowery;
I do not stay to understand;
I take mine hour.

The time is short enough at best.
I push right onward when I may;
I open to the winds my breast
And walk the way.
A kind heart greets me here and there;
I hide from it my doubts and fears.
I trudge and say the path is fair
Along the year.
—John Vance Cheney in the Independent.

"The recent meeting of the Elks in Buffalo in national convention gave occasion for the thinking of several thoughts," remarked a Fort Worth woman the other day. "According to the Buffalo papers one man going from not know the difference between cold storage eggs and the home-made variety she welcomed them cheerfully and sat with unabated energy. The neighbors, hearing of the combination of refrigerated eggs and a setting hen, made very merry. Now the hen is calling with much clucking pride to a company of small downy balls of fluff, the product of the cold storage process of preparation for hens that will set in July. The neighbors are waiting to see if the ice cream made from the eggs of these chickens will be different from other ice cream.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Miss Nadine Spoons and her house party have had a gay time during the past week. Her guests for the week were Misses Tyler of Belton and Miss Carter of Houston, while Miss McCormick of Dallas, Miss Adoue of Dallas and Miss Perkins of Dallas came over for the cottolion Tuesday evening. On Monday evening they were guests of Mr. and Employees of The Fair Who Picniced at Lake Erie July 19.

Cleveland to the place of meeting traveled by boat. On the boat it was discovered that he had not enough badges to supply all of the ladies who desired them. Thereupon he unearthed his wallet and pinned a new crisp one-dollar bill upon the shoulders of the six hundred women passengers who wanted the Elk badge and could not secure one.

"Our neighbor, Dallas, sent her eloquent young representative, W. H. Atwell, with a roll of the green amounting to $32,500. This he displayed as an earnest of the money Dallas would spend should the Elks' convention come to Texas.
"In every detail of the national meeting the emphasis was laid on the money catching of this particular hare, if it is done honestly, is attended according to universal testimony with much travail of spirit, much self-denial, much labor and much exercise of prudence and common sense. Prudence and common sense would certainly ask what was to be gained by giving six hundred dollar bills to six hundred strange women who presumably were not in want or they would not have been traveling by boat from Cleveland to Buffalo. And common sense would undoubtedly ask what kind of woman would accept money, even one dollar bill, from a strange man merely because he was bent on throwing it away?

"As for the snug sum spent by Dallas that was in the nature of an advertisement and will be as broad cast upon her commercial waters.
"The Elks was organized primarily for the co-operation and comradeship of the members of the theatrical profession. Many theatrical folk are better known for their ability to spend money than their ability to earn it. The B. P. O. E. translated means Protective Benevolent Order of Elks. The membership now includes fewer actors than other occupations. There are pretence and protection discoverable in wanton waste of money will be difficult for the average mind.
"Extravagance and wastefulness are distinctly American traits, some say virtues, others might say differently. The squandering of money is the extreme ambition of many whatever may be their earning capacity. There are those who will regret the exhibition of useless prodigality that will further the American ideal that money is not for good uses, but for spectacular display, any exhibition that further ends to discredit the homely virtues of economy, thrift and care in expenditures even when these expenditures are for pleasure and recreation.

Not so long ago a Fort Worth woman bought a hen and before the time came to convert her into salad she began performing the duty for which hens are prized. While egg laying was progressing the owner of the hen purchased other eggs from a country vendor. The country eggs were put in the refrigerator for self-evident reasons. A few days after the hen took her nest with true henry zeal. The woman thereupon took the eggs from the refrigerator and gave them to the setting hen. As the hen did kept things more than lively. For a change there was an identity guessing party, the hands of different guests were exposed, their faces hidden and the owner of the hands being identified by the digits. Prizes went to Miss Willie Bowlin and to Mr. Gernsbacher. The guests of the evening were Misses McCarthy, Crowley, Pendleton, Fuller, Gardner, Hughes of Dallas, Bowlin, Kahley of Milwaukee, Daniels, Wollett, Bibb, Webb, Williams and Dinger Messrs. A. and J. Gernsbacher, Lea, Carb, Bowers, Gardner, Honer, Carter, Taylor, Fuller, J. Willie King, Paul Williams, Wells, S. Clayton, Elkin, Harbee, King, Hall, Cheatham, Bishop, Stewart and Dr. Cooper.

Misses Jessie Wardlaw and Cella Taylor entertained with a hay ride and watermelon party last Monday evening, the ride taking them as far as North Fort Worth, where they awaited their luscious melons in icy cold. The young ladies had for guests Misses Marguerite and Martha Cantey, Alberta Murphree, Annie Mulligan, Virgie Lytle, Blanche Harding, Mary Cameron, Margaret Lysick of Weatherford, Alba and Mattie Mae Capps, Elizabeth Martin, Elizabeth Hovenkamp, Virginia Logan, Dorothy Askew of Mississippi and Verna Wardlaw; Messrs. Oliver Buchanan, Ned Wallace, Robert Nickles, Osborne, Mason, R. H. Mason, Malin Collins, James Danner, Willard Scott, Arthur Purinton, Rossington Logan, Robert Huffman, Arden Judd, Adrian Ford, Sam Taylor Jr. and Drew Pruitt.
The group-up members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. Wardlaw, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Taylor, Mrs. C. O. Harper and Mrs. Askew of Mississippi.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCarr entertained with a reception and dance at their beautiful home at Arlington Heights last Monday evening for their daughter, Miss Madeline McCarr. The spacious grounds were ablaze with lights, hundreds of incandescents and hundreds of lanterns, attractive lawn where abounded comfortable seats and rugs for those who preferred the cool evening breezes. On the wide verandas were easy chairs, divans and sofas. Here also seated the fruit punch, Miss Kahley dispensing the tempting nectar. At the door of the hall Mr. and Mrs. McCarr and Miss McCarr received. Later in the evening the young set, tempted by the excellent music, two-stepped and waltzed to their hearts' content, the double parlors and dining room and halls being arranged for the purpose.

Miss McCarr is pre-eminent among the debutantes for her queenly beauty and charming manners and among the hundreds of guests admiration was universal.

Miss Nadine Spoons' cottillon at Lake Erie Tuesday evening was an event greatly pleasing to the younger dancing set, judging by their smiling faces and animated manners. There must have been three hundred dancers, besides a number of older friends who sat admiringly by while the young set absorbed the gay crowd. Marshal Spoons led with Miss Perkins of Dallas. Claret cup was served on the verandas throughout the evening.

Mrs. A. T. Lyles kept the engagement with the W. A. G.'s made by her niece, Miss Helen Murdock. Miss Murdock was called to Atlanta, Ga., before the engagement could be kept and so was not present at her own party. The girls played whist and there was much excitement, while the trophy was in doubt. It was finally won by Miss Bess Webb, the guest prize, an embroidered belt, going to Miss Armide Perry. After the game Mrs. Lyles served a luncheon of stuffed peppers, Saratoga chips, pie, bread and butter sandwiches and iced tea with lemon and mint as extra flavors. The guests of the morning were Misses Willie Bowlin, Aida Hughes of Dallas, Armide Perry, Elizabeth Gardner, Gwendolyn McCarthy, Bess Webb, Bibb Webb, Minnie Williams, Lucia Smith, McLenon of Marshall, Mesdames Galbreath, Wallace and Williamson.
A telegram signed by the president was sent to Miss Murdock in faraway Georgia. Miss Webb will entertain the club this week.

MISCELLANEOUS

The name of Miss Ellie Stelle has been placed upon the program of entertainment for the Farmers' Congress which meets at College Springs next week. Miss Stelle will leave for that place in a few days.

The Young Women's Society of the First Baptist church will give an ice cream social Tuesday evening, July 25, on the lawn of Miss Evelyn Snelling, 1008 Taylor street.
A jolly crowd gathered at the home of Mrs. J. F. Crowley, 1016 West Daggett street, Thursday evening, and then proceeded to the home of Mrs. Tom B. Butler as surprise party for their charming daughters, the Misses Pearl and Fleta. A little bird must have warned them, for hardly had the guests been seated when bright lanterns were seen sailing with the breeze, which made the lawn so enchanted that the guests, though charmed with music and song, were inclined to proceed to the lawn, where all enjoyed various games. Mrs. Butler served ice cream, cake and fruit punch and last but not least the most appreciated seemed the old-fashioned taffy pulling.
The crowd consisted of the Misses Lillian Oregon, Oniz Martin, Zephora Crowley, Irene Ford, Fannie Tischemaker, Ethel Grider, Sue Myers, Mabel Norrel, Pearl Butler, Fleta Butler, Randolph, Katie Blackburn, Marnie Newton, Gerta Estes, Daffole Phillips, Alva Robter, Azale Edwards, Lulu Trueax, Messrs. Scott Griggs, Cecil Meadows, Willie Edwards, Ross Humphrey, Hargis, Jim Wright, Willie White, Charlie Danielson, Will Norrell, Wednesday afternoon the Daughters of Caledonia held a most interesting meeting at the residence of Miss Henderson, 700 Granger street. After the usual business had been transacted an enjoyable program of Scottish vocal and instrumental music was given by various members of the society. Mrs. Cobden presided at the piano, after which the hostess, assisted by her niece, Miss Annie Henderson, served delicious ice cream and cake to the following members and their friends: Mesdames Barbour, Brokaw, Gibb, Hoge, Cobden, Ramsey, Tyler, Scott, White and Misses Henderson and Stratton.

The visiting ladies were Mesdames Steel, Ware and Clements and Misses Gladys Armstrong, Maggie Stratton and Bessie White.
Mrs. James Gibb, 1409 Welch street, will be the next hostess.

On the 18th inst. a very animated and interesting party of young folk met at the residence of J. G. Henderson, 700 Granger street. The occasion that brought them together was the 10th birthday of Master Walter Henderson, and the following young misses and masters participated in the festivities, which were unique, enjoyable and progressive: Misses Jean McKee, Marion McKee, Margaret Murphy, Annie Henderson; Masters James Gilmartin, Willie Gilmartin, Calvin Curruthers, Charlie Curruthers, Bob Curruthers, Mrs. Frank McKee, John Murphy, Albert Henderson. Singing, recitations and dancing were supplemented with refreshment and many wishes for more birthday parties.

The picnic at Lake Erie by the entire force of the Fair was a topic all over town last week. The doors of the Fair were closed at noon and at 8 o'clock the proprietor of the store, H. T. Schenmmerhorn, and the employees boarded a special car for Lake Erie. The car was crowded for there were several guests who gladly accepted the invitation to make merry with this merry crowd. At Lake Erie there was a special program in their honor provided by Manager Burton and the vaudeville performers cleverly added local hits aimed at their guests, especially the masculine members of the Fair's force, that brought spontaneous laughter.
At the close of the matinee there was the merry-go-round for some and the singing tests for others, and popcorn and peanuts for the very young of the party. There was a phonograph concert provided for the party to Mr. Schenmmerhorn, which lasted until the call for supper. In the meantime other guests arrived from town until nearly a hundred were ready to do justice to the fried chicken, ham, cakes, pies, rolls, home-made light bread, lemon-fruit and everything that that past mistress of cooking, Mrs. McKinley, and her assistants could suggest. After supper the lake and the pavilion divided the attention of the picnickers, and at 10 o'clock a special was ready to bring the happy crowd back into town.
The fraternal feeling existing between the proprietor of this store and his employees is one of the good things to know about. The arrangements made for the comfort of the workers during business hours is carried even further when recreation is planned. The outing was all the more enjoyed because the suggestion came from the proprietor, seconded enthusiastically by his floor manager and advertising supervisor, J. Montgomery Brown, who leaves nothing undone for the comfort and welfare of the force.
The following is a list of those who shared in the Wednesdays' outing: Miss Nettie Morgan, Mrs. Bessie Kemp, Miss Mattie Knott, Mrs. Pearl Rodgers, Mrs. Allen Smith, Mrs. Bessie West, Mrs. O. Funk, Miss Ora West, Miss Mary McGinnis, Mrs. A. Chapman, Mrs. A. Pate, Mrs. Orrick, Miss D. ATTEMPT TO KILL SULTAN A MYSTERY
Authorities Unable to Account For Presence of Bomb Throwers Along Line of Route
CONSTANTINOPLE, Friday, July 21.—The authorities are jealously guarding all details of yesterday's futile attempt on the life of the sultan. Although the outrage occurred at 1 p. m., the fact that the sultan's life had been in danger did not become generally known until night, when it aroused widespread excitement. It was a bomb explosion, the first of this character that has ever happened in Constantinople. The majority of those killed or injured were soldiers who were lining the road near the mosque. The authorities are greatly disturbed and unable to explain how the would-be assassins passed through the cordons of troops which always bar the roads leading to the mosque as soon as the sultan leaves the palace.

NO. 2714—A Dainty and becoming Dressing Sack

How often have blessings been called down upon the inventor of the dressing sack. When tired and nervous woman is freed from the day's work and is at liberty to divest herself of the visiting or street costume, where the collar, perhaps, has not been as comfortable as it might be, and the skirt has become laden with dust, with what a feeling of relief does she don the comfortable dressing sack! The sack portrayed meets all requirements—comfort, beauty, simplicity—and can be made of French flannel, challis, pongee or the thinner material like lawn or organza. There is a choice of two sleeves, a long bishop with cuff, suited to the heavier material, and the three-quarter sleeve with frill a little more adapted to the thinner fabrics. The quantity of material required to make up the pattern is 4½ yards thirty-six inches wide.

Pattern No. 2714 is cut in six sizes from thirty-two to forty-two inches bust. To obtain this pattern in size, postpaid, fill in the coupon blank with size, name and address, inclose 10 cents and mail to The Pattern Department of The Telegram.

WITH THE CATTLEMEN

JOHN ROSSON'S VIEWS

In an interview with John K. Rossion with reference to the outlook for the summer and fall market, Mr. Rossion takes a very hopeful view of the situation, stating in the first place two or three hundred thousand head of steer cattle which originally went from Southern Texas to the Indian Territory pastures to graze for the summer and fall months, matured last winter on the ranges in Southern Texas and were marketed direct from those pastures in the months of March, April and May and there were sold less than one hundred thousand cattle put in the Indian Territory this season, whereas in former years they run anywhere from three hundred to four hundred and fifty thousand.

Again, it appears that the banks throughout the country are well supplied with money and the ranges are in most excellent condition and on this account there will be a great many cows and calves held over that would otherwise be shipped. No doubt a great many of the old and off colored cows and cut back steers will be marketed, together with the off colored calves and such stock as the ranchmen do not care to keep on their ranches.

CLOSING OKLAHOMA PASTURES

Ben Cloer was here this week from Comanche county, O. T., with a shipment of two cars of cattle. Mr. Cloer reports that cattle are being moved marketward from the Comanche and Arapahoe Indian reservations in accordance with the orders of the government that all cattle be moved off the reservations by Dec. 31, as the lands are to be advertised to be leased for farming purposes. Mr. Cloer says the cattle are in good condition and can easily be moved within the time limit set by the government. He believes, however, that Uncle Sam will find it no easy matter to lease the lands for farming purposes in the manner prescribed, by which the lessee is required to break up 75 per cent of the land leased, and build a four wire fence around it. The land is to be leased for a term of five years, and the government has placed the minimum price at which bids will be received on it at 25 cents per acre. In the opinion of Mr. Cloer farmers will not take hold of the proposition on this basis as readily as the government has anticipated. Mr. Cloer says that Oklahoma in general and Comanche county in particular is in flourishing condition, grass being fine, cattle fat and crops good. The corn crop is among the best ever raised in that section, the yield of oats was good, and all feed stuffs are looking fine. Wheat has made the poorest showing of any crop this season, due to the unusual wet weather.

CONDITIONS IN WYOMING

Finishing cattle south of the quarantine line is a business that is constantly increasing and which can not fail to continue growing until the expansion of the cotton growing industry is completed in the southern part of the state. This is believed by some to have been accomplished already. But the patent fact remains that the feeding of cattle upon the by-products of cotton gin mills has reduced the supply of stock available for shipment to northern pastures and has had the result of making the stock cattle from below the quarantine line worth more money each year. This is the idea of John W. Wishard of Cheyenne, Wyo., who is in this city on business, says the San Antonio Express. Mr. Wishard is a cattlemen who matures southern stock in Wyoming. He buys from above the quarantine line, however, and operates entirely above the line.

"I do not look for any marked improvement in the price of cattle this season," said Mr. Wishard. "The excellence of pasture in all the stock raising belt has made it possible to supply more and better grass cattle all this season and the movement is still going on. The pastures in all the range country are good now and will be good until winter. This means that there will be more cattle to go onto the market all fall and offers slight hope for better prices.

ARIZONA NEEDS RAIN

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 13.—Conditions of drought prevailed over the territory throughout the entire week, an accumulated deficiency of 0.29 inch being recorded; the skies were cloudless; temperatures abnormally high, with an average daily excess of five degrees; relative humidity decidedly lower than the preceding week; winds, northwest over the northern section, east over the central section, and southeast to southwest over the southern section, blowing at an average rate of six miles per hour. The supply of stock water upon the ranges in the central and southern sections is fast disappearing under cloudless skies, high temperatures and increased and dry midday winds. Cattle and sheep are being driven to water for long distances. Range crosses are deteriorating badly. No improvement in the ranges has been noted over the northern sections; stock water remains plentiful as yet. The condition of stock is fair; shipments to eastern markets are larger than usual.

GREAT CONTEST EXPECTED WHEN SYSONBY AND ARTFUL MEET

In Sysonby J. R. Keene has the 1905 turf champion. Race followers declare that this marvelous three-year-old is the greatest race horse ever produced—bar none. Sysonby has won approximately $100,000 in purses, and this sum would tempt his owner to part with him. Standing 15 hands 3 inches, powerfully shouldered, deep chested, and with hind quarters showing wonderful driving power, Sysonby is a living, breathing race marvel. Not by establishing speed records has Sysonby established his right to the great colt, when she was in foal to the stallion Melton. The nearest approach to Sysonby on the American turf is the phenomenal filly Artful. Last year as a two-year-old, Artful was the champion, and won the classic Futurity, defeating Tradition and Sysonby. This year Artful has appeared three times, winning two sprint races easily and the Brighton cup at a mile and a quarter. The proposed match race between Sysonby and Artful promises to recall the days of Salvo and Terry, Isaac Murphy and Snapper Garrison.

she calls a "feminine freak of nature," as follows: "She is a lady partner who has agreed, before a church altar or in a registry office, to live together with the man of her momentary choice, as long as it suits her or the man, in a suite of rooms or a house for the purpose of enjoying and hunting material pleasures. It is a lady who has abolished the home as a relic of a barbarous age, and turned it into sitting, talking and sleeping rooms with comfortable or luxurious conveniences; who has made over the kitchen and housekeeping to hired cooks and maids; servants or housekeepers to escape the bother of worldly worries; in many cases abolished it along with the home, preferring to eat ready-cooked foods in hotels and restaurants. It is a lady who tries to expiate the sin of her share in race suicide by caring more for a baby dog fed to square proportions or a cat indulged out of all proportions than for a human being. It is a lady who knows no more of bringing up children than she knows of keeping a house or cooking, both of which she hates." Is the picture a true one? Surely, of its kind. But our critic is superficial, as are most foreign critics of American society. She selects a very small class and typifies it. She does not know about the tens and hundreds of thousands of noble wives and true mothers who are in

MISSING NEGRO REPORTED CAUGHT

Dispatch to Sheriff of McLennan County Says Sank Majors Has Been Arrested

Special to The Telegram.

WACO, Texas, July 22.—Sheriff Geo. Tilly was officially advised late last night by telegram from Sheriff J. J. Sanders of Caldwell county that the negro Sank Majors, wanted here on a charge of attacking, beating and stabbing Mrs. B. Roberts at Goldina, this county, Tuesday evening of last week, was captured by Sanders and Sheriff Jackman of Hayes county near Lockhart last night. The negro is said to admit his identity but denies that he attacked the woman. He was taken to Austin and will not be brought here until tried. The grand jury may be convened soon. Posses have been hunting Majors for twelve days. Governor Lanham last Monday offered a reward of $300 for Majors' arrest.

Miss Myrtle Frost and Miss Amelia Mayer are also new contestants. Miss Frost has one of the city and has many friends throughout the influential railroad employees in Fort Worth, who are very much interested in her behalf. Miss Mayer being the court house candidate, has numerous friends who are equally interested in her behalf and it is believed she will give her competitors a close race.

The interest that has been taken so far in the contest has been beyond expectations and the committee announce they feel very much encouraged upon the progress that has been made during the past week.

Miss Margaret Ouba still holds first place. She is being crowded very closely for her position and Monday's staking may show a new leader. Only eight more days remain in which the votes will be counted for each 10 cent coupon sold.

THE PRIZES

First Prize—The young woman who secures the largest number of votes between July 15 and Sept. 9, 1905, will receive a $750 piano. This piano has been donated by the Ross-Heyer Music Company.

Second Prize—The young woman who secures the next largest number of votes between July 15 and Sept. 9 will receive one ~~each~~ sold by Portland, Ore., and $100 in gold. This round trip ticket will also include ten admission tickets to the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Third Prize—A handsome horse, buggy and pearl ring; value $150, donated by Mrs. Sam Davidson. This ring will be on display at Greer's jewelry store Monday.

HOW THE VOTES COUNT

For every 10-cent Auditorium coupon received at the Auditorium headquarters between July 15 and 10 p. m. July 31, ten votes will be counted; five votes between July 31 and 10 p. m., August 15; three votes between August 15 and 10 p. m., Sept. 9. This contest will close at 10 p. m., Sept. 9, 1905.

POLYTECHNIC HEIGHTS

The Tarrant County summer normal at Polytechnic Heights, which has been in progress since June 6, with an enrollment of nearly five, will close Saturday next.

Monday, A. G. Walker will lecture on the subject, "The Working Principles of Life Insurance," and on Tuesday Congressman Oscar W. Gillespie will deliver a lecture.

This is said to have been the largest county normal ever held in Fort Worth.

Polytechnic Heights is still on a boom. The saw and hammer can be heard on all sides and eight or ten new residences are under construction. A number of other buildings will be erected soon.

The annex to the girls' dormitory at Polytechnic College is nearing completion.

J. H. Price has just closed a deal for the last of the 600 lots adjoining Polytechnic Heights, and about all the acreage has been sold.

John Hawkins of Merkel, Texas, is building a 6-room cottage northeast of Polytechnic College campus.

Ed J. Lehman has bought the interest of H. A. Boss in the Lehman & Co. business at Polytechnic Heights.

Mr. Brunnett has bought the stock of drugs and groceries from Dr. Burkett, and will continue the business at the same place.

RAILROADER MISSING

Police Department Notified of Disappearance of Ed Bradberry

According to R. J. Lanester, employed at Watson's saloon, 115 Houston street, Ed Bradberry, formerly chief clerk for the Southern Railway at Birmingham, Ala., after coming to this city several weeks ago, has disappeared from an uptown hotel and no knowledge can be gained of his whereabouts. Bradberry was last seen here Thursday afternoon. His friends are anxious as to his welfare and have notified local police.

Bradberry is described as being 35 years old, has brown hair; is 5 feet 5 inches tall, and weighs 125 pounds. When last seen he had on a light suit and a straw hat.

THEFT IN PRISON

Negro Women Charged With Stealing From Cell Mate

After serving their time in the city prison two negro women have been arrested on a charge of theft from the person, it being alleged that while in prison they took $3.75 from Lee Tillous, a white woman confined in the same cell.

The negro women for whom warrants were issued were re-arrested upon their release by the city authorities and transferred to the county for the second alleged offense.

LEADERSHIP FIGHT

Dallas and Fort Worth Play Double-Header Today

Two games with Dallas today at Haines' Park will give a definite look to the Texas league race, double victory by either of the leaders probably setting top place supremacy for some time in the contest.

Walsh and Hubbleton are announced as the pitchers in the double-header by W. H. Ward. Slocan will be the umpire for both games. No appointment has yet been made, so far as is known here, to fill the umpire vacancy in the league.

"I suppose you been hear of a track of things, even if you do live out in the country?" he said to the farmer.
"Yes, party good track."
"Then you have followed the giant strides made by the world of science during the last decade?"
"I guess I have," was the doubting reply.
"Well, you keep your eye on the flying machine. That will be the next thing to astonish the world. I predict, sir—"

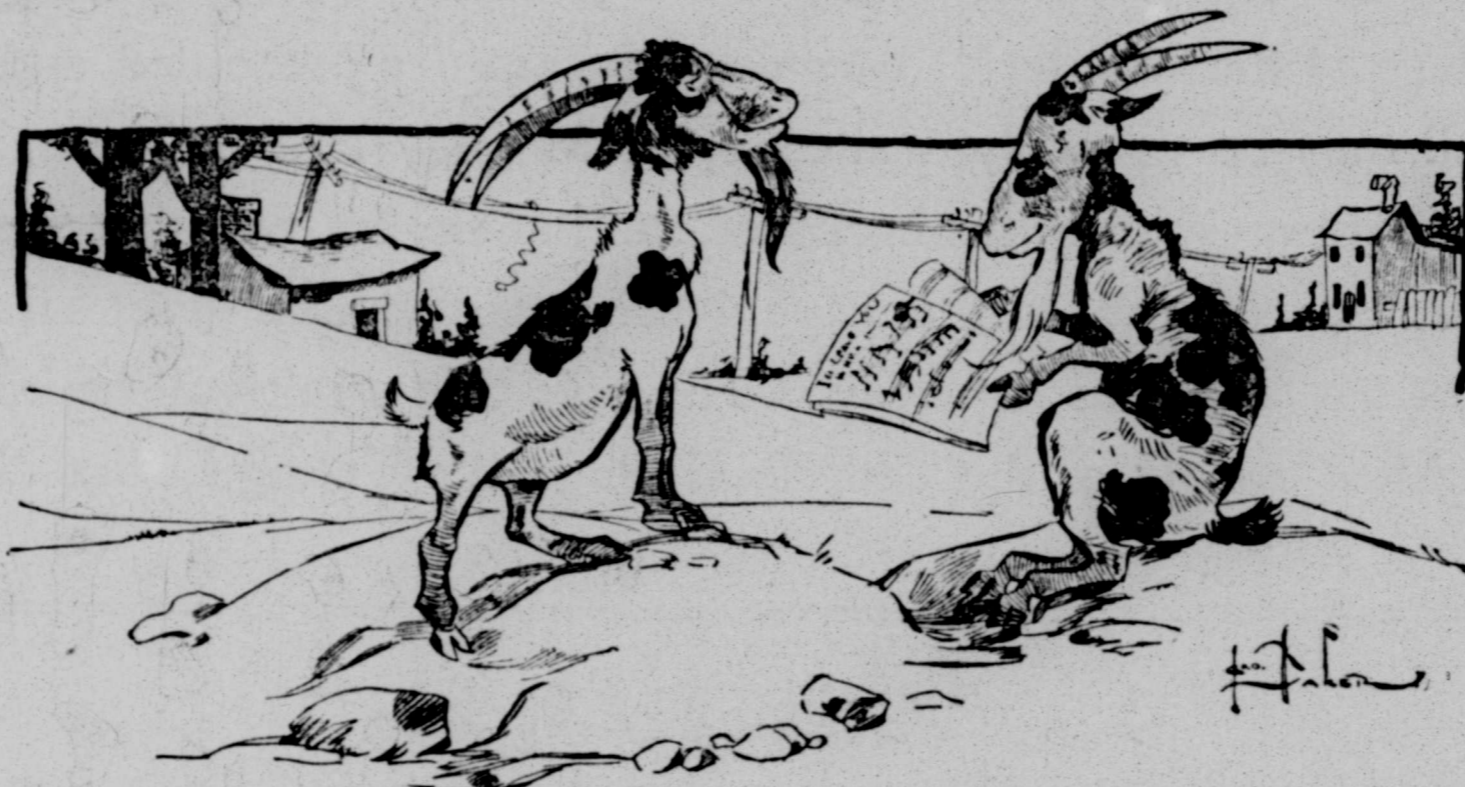

"Yes, party good track."

Yes, it's true that it does not appear in the regular lists of colleges and technical schools, but it is real.

NAN PATTERSON AGAIN AT RACES

Former Florodora Girl Seen Again at Resorts Visited Before Imprisonment. BY CHARLES SOMERVILLE. NEW YORK, July 22.—Nan Patterson is amazing to the public. She has not lost faith with it. She is causing something very close to indignation, stirring with that intangible yet irresistible power that reached into the court room to say, and finally moved District Attorney Jerome, in despair at being able to fight successfully against it, to give the word that brought the girl outside the steel bars of the Tombs in the city.

NEGRO KILLED; WIFE IS HELD

ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—Since he relieved General Kurapatkin as commander in chief of the czar's armies in Manchuria, General Linvitch has seen the importance of quick means of communication through the various parts of his front so as to be able to meet the unexpected flanking of the Japanese, and hundreds of miles of field railroads have been built by his engineering corps. Picture shows a railroad of this kind in course of construction.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY FULL OF DEAD ONES

Congressman Sullivan Makes Some Breezy Comments on English Institutions. (Special Cable, Copyright, 1905, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, July 22.—Congressman Timothy D. "Dry Dollar" Sullivan went to the source of common this week to see how the legislators of Great Britain work. Mr. Sullivan was fortunate to be present in the general discussion of the year Friday when the opposition led by the Irish nationalists nobly compelled Premier Balfour to adjourn the sitting until Monday, when it is expected that Balfour may announce a dissolution or a determination not to heed the masses of the country and stick to office despite the iniquity of the opposition.

MRS. WEBB DUKE DEPEW'S PARTNER

Says She Represented Company of Which Senator Was President. NEW YORK, July 22.—Out of the two great stories that have held the public eye for many months, the Equitable scandal and the Brodie Duke tangle, a third has developed. As the central figure in the latter section, Mrs. Alice Webb Powell Duke, wife of the tobacco magnate, appears as the partner of Chauncey M. Depew. Geo. Day, a prominent New York real estate man, declared today that she was at one time the authorized representative of Depew in connection with the Depew Land company of Buffalo.

little-considered accountant, which won in 1:14 4-6, was the veriest selling plater.

Accountant came with a wet sail on the outside and passing Albert P. and Timmer, he had a double in winning by one and a half lengths. Pegasus came from the rear of the bunch and finished second and Don Diego, who ran a game, plodding race, was only a head behind him. McKittidge was a neck behind Don Diego.

Collyer won the Brighton steeplechase somewhat easily. He was ridden by J. O'Brien, who had sufficiently covered from the back fall of Wednesday last to do him justice and rode him a very pretty race. He permitted Malden and Hylas to make the pace and laid always within striking home of them. At the Brighton Junior, though Wildmint was always held at 4 to 1, he has never shown any ability to stay, but today he went out in the lead and never permitted to be followed.

CORBETT'S GOSSIP

BY JAS. J. CORBETT.
Copyright, 1933, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.
Reno, Nev., is in the public limelight just now and the Marvin Hart-Jack Root fight, at first looked upon as a mediocre affair, developed into an event of some importance, chiefly through Jeffries' connection with it.

That was a foxy move on the part of the promoters—hiring the real champion as referee. They knew the big fellow would draw like a flaxseed poultice.
And then to have the real champion and two men battling for so-called championship honors in the ring at one time was too tempting to be passed up.

Jeff was worth every cent of the $1,000 he received, to the boasters. His speech, passing the title to the winner, was like a box of bonbons to Miss Debutante.
As a heavyweight, neither Hart nor Root was seriously considered until about a year ago. Root never did have the call and Hart was a far-away proposition at best.

When Fitz and I fought at Carson City, the majority of the audience came from other states. The natives were not more numerous than on the occasion of the recent Reno scrap, which would indicate that the game has progressed in the silver mine state.
Barring interference, we should witness some good fights in Nevada in the future.

The Hart-Root fight stirred up some discussion because it was billed as a finish affair. Fortunately it ended before the ordinary twenty-round limit was reached, and there was little chance for criticism. The possibility was there, however, and the question of the advisability of finish fights naturally arises.

Even though asked to give away a few pounds in weight, Turner, it is understood, is not setting his cap on Ryan, but is more than anxious to get into the company of Jimmy Britt or Pat Nelson.
The Colma Club's next contest will be between Frankie Nell and Harry Tenney. This will be followed a week later by Garbine and Turner and a week later than that, Gus Rubin and Jim McCormick sparring partner of the one and only John L. Sullivan.

One thing about the McCormick-Rubin articles to which Marvin Hart, Mike Schreck, Tommy Ryan and John Will and a few others may object is that the fight is described as being for the heavyweight championship of the world. This makes it appear as if the heavyweights are approaching a condition of anarchy. There will be numberless revolutions among them probably before a man appears who will be recognized as a leader and possibly Jim Jeffries may be asked to return to the fighting field so that order may be restored out of chaos.

Jawor Stakes Go in Accountant at Twenty to One in Puzzling Race
BY W. R. GILES.
BRIGHTON BEACH RACE TRACK, New York, July 22.—The Brighton Junior stakes which was run on this track this afternoon and won by the 29 to 1 outsider, Accountant, ought, by rights, to have been productive of one of the best races of the year. Yet such are the idiosyncrasies of the racing game that the race was one of the poorest of the meeting. It is hard to reason the matter out. There were good two-year-olds engaged; good two-year-olds took part; Superintendent White Clark had the track in splendid condition; but the fact remains that the

GUNBOATS' BOILERS HAD LONG BEEN WEAK Members of Crow Say There Had Been Talk of Repairs for a Year

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 22.—An examination of the gunboat Bennington above deck today did not disclose any great damage as a result of yesterday's explosion. The vessel was covered with a coating of the color of ash.

Commander Young declined to make any statement for publication. He said, however, to a reporter, that he believed that the disaster was caused by the explosion of boiler 'D' on the port side of the vessel, and that boiler 'E' while not exploding, had not been damaged at all owing to the steam escape.

The upper deck amidship presents a mass of wreckage. The smokestacks have been blown down and twisted in all sorts of shapes. Plates on the slides are bulging out and leaks in a number of places have appeared, which lets in the water.

YOUNG NOTIFIES WASHINGTON WASHINGTON, July 22.—Commander Lucian Young of the gunboat Bennington at San Diego, Cal., last night sent the following telegram to the navy department: 'Arrangements are being made to bury the dead at Fort Rosecrans Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Special to The Telegram. SAN DIEGO, Tex., July 22.—Mrs. O. A. Carr, co-principal of Carr-Burdette College, Sherman, Texas, is planning the establishment at Mineral Wells next summer of a cottage for the display of the work done by the pupils in the art and pyrographic departments of the college.

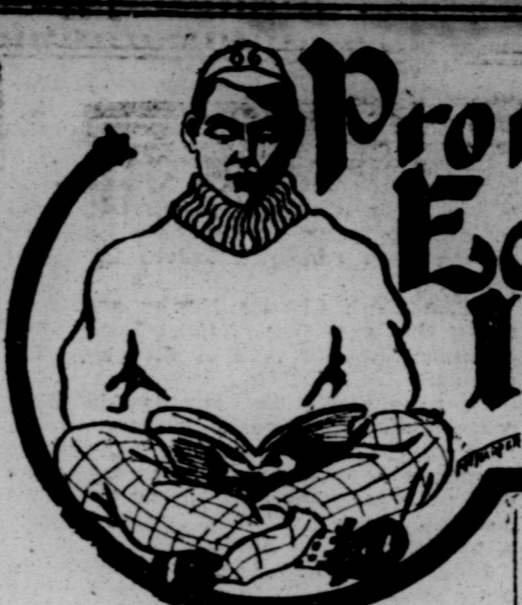

Two principal pieces are already made and will be the first pieces to be placed in the cottage. They are a table, which was a principal feature of the main parlor of the Texas state building at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and the other is a handsome mantel.

On the wood panels in front of the mantel, of which there are six, are burned with the pyrograph characteristic scenes in the life of the Savior. The first scene depicts the Three Wise Men guided by the Star in the East; the second scene represents the birth of the Savior; on the third panel the picture presented is a beautiful one, representing the Savior in the Temple, talking to the rabbi; in the fourth panel, the miraculous power of Lazarus is shown by the raising of Lazarus; scene five represents the baptism of the Savior, when his sonship is declared, and the sixth picture illustrates the ascension to heaven.

In addition to these six panels the mantel is equipped with a summer front, on which is done in pyrograph a large panel picture of the Savior. On the left side of the picture is a pyrographic reproduction of the cross and crown of thorns and on the right side is a picture of the scepter and the crown of thorns.

WACO, Texas, July 22.—The Praetorians are to erect a fine building in Waco very soon now, and the lot will be purchased in the next two or three weeks. The order made an agreement to the effect that when 700 members should be secured in the Waco territory a lot would be purchased, and when 1,000 had been secured they would put up a handsome building. The 700 have been secured, and the lot is to be bought at once.

Senator Clark, who is recovering from an operation performed to remove from the base of his brain a dangerous abscess, is being devotedly nursed back to health by young Mrs. Clark, whose romantic marriage to the copper king caused a sensation over America about a year ago. Mrs. Clark's picture is shown on top. In the center is a picture of the great New York mansion, into which the senator and his wife will soon move. At the bottom is a photo of the senator himself.

A CHAPTER FROM THE CAREER OF MR. EVERETT TRUE

FENCING
[Original.]
They met at a farmhouse as summer boarders. He was what women call cynical. She thought him indifferent. He was certainly a cool chap, and the three traits combined attracted her. They took long walks in the mornings and invariably seated themselves in some shady nook where instead of "dreaming the happy hours away" they discussed abstruse questions.
Several weeks passed, and there was no mention between them of their growing intimacy. He spoke of returning to his work in the city without mentioning any regret at the discontinuance of their walks or their sittings in the moonlight on the porch. She dared not mention the parting for fear her voice would tremble.
One morning after they had come in from a walk they went to the mantel in the living room, where the mail was deposited, and she, taking up a letter addressed to him in a woman's hand, gave it to him. He simply said, "Thank you." She spent the afternoon wondering who was his correspondent and surmising his action at receiving a letter from a mother, a sister, a girl friend or a sweetheart. If it were from either of the first three he would have said something to denote the fact; if from a sweetheart, he would have said no more than "thank you." This was her reasoning.
The next morning instead of waiting for him to go to work she went alone. That is what a girl in love would usually do under the circumstances. She assumed on evidence that would have no weight with twelve jurymen—mind you, I say jurymen not jury women—that his correspondent was his fiancée.
When she returned a "depot hack" was being driven up to the door and who should get out of it but the companion of her former walks, whose companionship she had taken pains to show she did not longer care for, but whose absence had made her miserable. That was not all; he handed out a very attractive looking girl, whom he led into the house. He reappeared just as the girl who had witnessed the arrival was approaching the porch. He went to meet her, pleasantly, but noticing a severe expression on her face his own assumed a serious cast. Evidently there was a change. He had been intending to explain his not joining in her walk by telling her that he had gone to the station, but he concluded to await developments. "Pleasant walk?" he asked.
"Very."
"I didn't see you when you started."
"It is not to be expected that you should go to walk with me every morning."
"Certainly not; that would be very selfish of me. Suppose we go into the summer house."
"Thank you; I'm tired. I shall rest awhile before dinner."
"As you like. I'll stroll down to the river bank. Good morning."
This was not to her purpose. She changed her mind and said she would go into the summer house for a few minutes only.
"Why did you deliberately go off to walk without me this morning?" he asked when they were seated. He assumed that she had done this, he did not know it.
"I don't care to attract the attention of those in the house by these walks, especially."
"Well?"
"The young lady who has just arrived might not like it."
"I hadn't thought of that."
"You should have thought of it."
"We men are methodical fellows. We take up matters as they come along, while your sex are prone to take them up as fancy dictates."
"As principle dictates."
"That word principle has many conditions. Sometimes it is rigid, sometimes elastic."
"I should think in this case it must be elastic."
"You must remember that what we call principle pertains of education. The Greeks?"
"Both the Greeks. What had they to do with us?"
There was a brief silence. Evidently the hair splitting was over. Presently he said:
"We shall not hereafter be quite so free to enjoy these walks together, for—"
"Evidently not."
"My mother will be up on Saturday, and—"
"Oh, your mother?"
"Yes. She is an invalid, and I shall need to devote a good deal of time to her."
"And the rest will belong to another."
"What other?"
"The young lady who has already arrived."
"She will help me in the care of my mother."
"That will be her duty."
"And her pleasure."
"Certainly; of course."
"I shall be here only a few days after mother comes, then the care of her will devolve entirely on my sister."
"Your sister?"
"Yes; it is she who arrived just now."
There was another brief silence. The girl looked up at the sky, then down at the floor.
"Why didn't you tell me that before?"
"You didn't ask."
She sat silent for a moment, then arose and was about to start for the house, but he seized her hand and detained her. The fencing was over. For the first time since he had met her he said what he meant, and she replied in kind.
HARRIET CAWLEY.

FOUR SKELETONS FOUND IN GRAVEL PIT

Bones Found in Lonely Cave Placed in Charge of the County Officials
The finding of four well-preserved skeletons in a gravel pit on the E. M. Daggett place, three miles northeast from Fort Worth, Saturday, has caused considerable consternation among the residents of that neighborhood.
The skeletons are those of extraordinarily large persons, but whether white people or Indians, has not been determined.
Some of the bones were gathered up and placed in a box and brought to Fort Worth and turned over to Justice of the Peace John L. Terrell, who has them in his office at the court house, where they can be seen.
Mr. Daggett says that he knows of no one having been buried on his place during the fifty years that he has resided on the farm, and the finding of the skeletons is an unsolved mystery so far as he is concerned. He says that they may be the bones of people who have been murdered and deposited in the gravel pit, believing that the crime would not be discovered, as the spot where the discovery was made is one of the most out-of-the-way places in Tarrant county, at the mouth of a rugged and deep canyon.
Negroes Make Discovery
Mr. Daggett recently sold a small piece of ground to Mrs. Adams, mother of Andy Adams. On this ground the gravel pit has been opened up. Young Adams had had a gang of negroes at work getting out gravel, but when they unearthed the four skeletons they became superstitious and it was with difficulty that they were persuaded to continue their work.
Something like half an acre's surface has been excavated, and at a depth of six or eight feet the skeletons were found.
If any of the old pioneers of this county know of any others having been buried on this place officers are anxious to know of the fact.

ENGINEER APPOINTED

J. C. Hoffman of Johnstown, Pa., has been appointed chief engineer of the Handley power house, succeeding Chief Engineer Lutz. Mr. Hoffman has had long experience in the work which he now superintends and was assistant engineer for the steel works at Johnstown, Pa.

BRITISH CABINET NOT TO RESIGN

Government Supporters Promise to Attend Better and Prevent Another Liberal Majority
LONDON, July 22.—Dispatches of The Associated Press indicating that the cabinet of the British government decided yesterday at a meeting to not resign are definitely confirmed. The advisability of dissolution is still under consideration by the cabinet, but it seems that a majority of the ministers are opposed to it, especially now that the government whip has received assurances that there will be no further slackness in attendance by absentees who are responsible for Thursday's defeat of the government.

POLICE MATRON AGAIN AGITATED

Proposed Securing of New Police Station Makes Employment Possible
With the appointment of a special city council committee to consider the purchase of the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Company building to be used as a new city prison and police headquarters, employment of a police matron and establishment of better quarters for women prisoners, as urged in The Telegram, is again being taken up.
Mrs. E. A. Caster, president of the county Woman's Christian Temperance Union, said Saturday afternoon that she would bring the matter before the organization at the next meeting of city members, to be held Friday afternoon at the Cumberland Presbyterian church.
In speaking of the dire need of better conditions for women, Mrs. Caster said that she, with members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, would make every effort to have comfortable quarters for the women and a matron to attend to their wants.
In 1904 the Woman's Christian Temperance Union made an effort to bring about these changes and to this end visited the calaboose to view conditions and then made a plea to the city officials for improvement. Lack of funds and proper space for matron's quarters, the city council found, would interfere with making the improvements.
FROM POLICE STANDPOINT
Appointment of a police matron for women prisoners will not only aid the prisoners, but will be a great benefit to the officers. Under present conditions it is almost impossible to properly search

ELEVATOR COMPANIES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Interstate Commerce Commission Begins Inquiry Into Conditions at St. Louis
ST. LOUIS, July 22.—The interstate commerce commission today began an investigation here into the question of alleged allowances made by railroads to companies or persons owning grain elevators or by such companies or persons owning elevators to snippers of grain. It is charged that these allowances furnish one of the most fruitful sources of violation of the interstate commerce law, because they enable grain merchants to make a profit over the actual cost of the elevation.
COURT HOUSE CONTRACT AWARDED
LAWTON, Okla., July 22.—After a bitter fight of several weeks, brought about by several towns in the southern portion of the county because they espoused county division, the board of county commissioners of Greer county awarded to S. F. Lee of Oklahoma City the contract for the construction of a $30,000 court house to be located at Mangum.

A photographic police trap for the apprehension of speeding automobilists has been invented in England. By the pressing of a button a photograph is made of any passing car with the time and date. A pair of these instruments with synchronized timing arrangements used at each end of a measured piece of ground would, it is believed, give absolutely accurate data as to the speed of automobiles.

Cardinal Gibbons' Birthday
 BALTIMORE, Md., July 22.—Cardinal Gibbons will be seventy-one years old tomorrow and already numerous messages of congratulation are pouring in upon him. Though he has aged considerably in the last few years, the cardinal is in good health and spirits. Cardinal Gibbons was born in this city July 22, 1834. He was ordained a priest in 1861 and so rapid was his rise and the recognition accorded him for his great abilities, that seven years later he was consecrated bishop and vicar apostolic of North Carolina. In 1877 he succeeded to the see of Baltimore and nine years later he was elevated to the cardinalate.

HEATED WEATHER AFFECTS MARKET

Steady Revival in Iron and Steel Business Encouraging—Fewer Failures Noted

NEW YORK, July 22.—London was closed and the absence of support from that center was missed. Paris, however, was firm with a rally in Russian wheat feature and based on the peace outlook.
 Mercantile agencies reported a slight halting in general business, due to the hot weather. At the same time, however, the slow but distinct revival in the iron and steel trade is regarded as decidedly encouraging. Failures reported are small and white bank clearings show a goodly decline. Last week, they are 12.5 per cent above a year ago. Cancellations of railroad earnings to date are also favorable with a gross increase for the first three weeks in July of 7.4 per cent against one of 8.1 per cent in the same period in June. For the month of June gross increased 6.6 per cent, while May's increase was 9.3 per cent and April's was 7.3 per cent.

Morning Market Unsettled
 The stock market continued very unsettled in this morning's short business session, with a number of important stocks showing declines extending to more than 1 point. In explanation of the palpable pressure upon the market there were advanced only the same matters which were the chief subject of discussion yesterday afternoon. Among them were further reports from the west of serious damage to the wheat crop through black rust, the approaching dissolution of the British parliament and the alleged threatening labor situation in the anthracite coal regions. The fact that the present agreement between the coal companies and their operatives will remain in force until next September seemed to be wholly ignored. Houses with western connections were again the sellers of securities and continued to disseminate disturbing reports with regard to the wheat crop, although as a matter of fact grain prices were reactionary.

In some quarters the theory was advanced that the western operator had got out of all long stocks and was on the bear side of the market. This change, it was added, was due to information received by these interests that a deal by which Harriman or Union Pacific interests were to sell all their holdings of Northern Securities stocks to a Hill syndicate had fallen through. Another factor in the bearish sentiment was the announcement that the extra session of congress is to be called on Nov. 12. This brought up visions of disturbing railroad and possible tariff legislation. Reading and United States Steel were the active issues, the former showing a continuation of yesterday's marked weakness on what was believed to be pool liquidation. It closed about a cent lower. Steel declined 2 points. United States Steel issues closed heavy at losses of over a point.

Union Pacific made a fractional recovery, but lost a point for the day. New York Central was conspicuously weak with a break of over three points. Several Features Decline Declines of about one or two per cent were made in Sugar, Locomotive, Canadian Pacific, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Atlantic Coast Line, Colorado Fuel, Louisville and Nashville, Northern Pacific and Great Northern. A number of the specialties made sharp declines including one of five points in Luckawanna.

Practically all the other active stocks made losses ranging from stout fractions to well over a point. The poor statement had an adverse effect in the late trading and with the traders interpreting it as indicating a firmer money market, the final decline of a number of issues made fractional recoveries from the lowest. The close was heavy and unsettled with smart general net losses for the day.
 The bank statements showed the very large expansion in the loans of $19,058,000. The whole of the increases in loans was reflected in the deposit fund which rose $18,580,000.
 What was noted in the stock sold today was 425,850, against 142,936 the same day last year.
 The total par value of bonds sold today was $7,000,000, against $1,692,000 the same day last year. The disappointment following the failure of the Illinois Central directors to increase the dividend rate, as the street had confidently expected, was not reflected by any violent decline but it served to take the edge off those that came next. When the Union Pacific did what everybody who has been in the market a distance of any of the directors these past three months expected and put the stock on a 5 per cent annual basis, the stock rallied a point and a fraction. It was fractionally stronger, as it were, than at the opening.

It is an item of current news that if E. H. Harriman had had his way the dividend would have not been changed, that it is a matter of current opinion that, as the things go, Mr. Harriman may not have his way much longer with a dividend on Southern Pacific. What was said to be one of the chief elements of weakness was the abandonment of the bull side of the stock market for the bear side of the market by the westerly speculative contingent, which had some prominence lately and which helped the recent rise to assume the proportions it took on. They have concluded that with stock list bulging so hard and prospects of position might not be without profit.
 The street has been informed that developments of a highly important and interesting character may be looked for very soon, in which the central figures will be Erie, Delaware and Hudson. It is claimed that they have been at the bottom of the heavy buying of the "rights" and finally of the stock of Delaware and Hudson on the part of Erie and Hudson and Hudson on the part of Erie and Delaware and Hudson on the other.

PIG IRON FIRM
 Tendency on Both Sides is to Hold Back
 NEW YORK, July 22.—The pig iron market was inactive but prices were firm, being bid up on the part of several brokers, although it was not thought that any great amount of iron was wanted.

Offerings were decidedly light and the tendency by both buyers and sellers to hold off until it is more clearly demonstrated whether the present buying was going to develop into a closing—Cash, 14.90@15.50; July, 15.00@15.50; August, 15.00@15.40; September, 15.00@15.40; October, 15.00@15.45; November, December and February, 15.00@15.50.

CHURCH REFUSES TO LET PASTOR GO
 Congregation of Free Presbyterian Church in Victoria Objects to Change
 Special to The Telegram.
 AUSTIN, Texas, July 22.—T. W. Gregory and Judge Mat Johnson will leave Monday for Cuero for the purpose of attending the hearing before the west Texas presbytery in regard to the question of dissolving the pastoral relations of Rev. Josephus Johnson, who has been called to fill the pastorate at the Free Presbyterian church in this city. Dr. Johnson is of Victoria and has been recently called by the Free Presbyterian church and has accepted. Since that time his church at Victoria has refused to let him leave the church with which he has been associated. To settle the matter the case will have to come up before the west Texas presbytery. The central Texas presbytery met at the Free Presbyterian church in this city last night and authorized the sending of the delegation to the presbytery at Cuero, and Messrs. Gregory and Johnson were selected to appear before the body at Cuero and show cause why Rev. Mr. Johnson should not be allowed to come here and have the pastoral relations with the Victoria church dissolved.
 Judge Johnson said last night that if he, with Mr. Gregory, did not convince the west Texas presbytery that Dr. Johnson belongs here, and get him here, that body would be past showing. Dr. Johnson is one of the best known ministers in the Presbyterian church, and the church in this city feels as if it, indeed, is fortunate if it gets him, and will make a strong fight to procure the consent of the presbytery at Cuero.

MASON AND DIXON LINE IS RESTORED
 Work Completed Under Direction of Maryland and Pennsylvania Legislators
 HANOVER, Pa., July 22.—Mason and Dixon's line has been restored through the joint efforts of Maryland and Pennsylvania. The work has just been completed. The legislators of the two states decided to allow a rigid boundary line to be cut through the mountains and they found many of the old markers and crown stones displaced.
 In Adams county one stone was used as a door step in a dwelling, another at a distance doing duty in a bake oven and others were lying miles from their original places. All were recovered, although without rigorous objections on the part of the persons who were using them. The work of re-establishing the line was very carefully done and the old stone posts set along its course. The poor Mason and Jeremiah Dixon marked it out in 1763 were reset in solid cement bases, and iron posts were substituted in places where the old posts have disappeared.

ELECTION FRAUDS IN PHILADELPHIA
 Five Officers in Quaker City Arrested on Charge of Ballot Box Stuffing
 PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 22.—Thos. A. Hartman, a city employe and republican leader of the Twelfth district of the Fourteenth ward, was held in $2,000 bail; Otto T. Kuse, judge of elections; Charles Judge, inspector, and Benjamin Williams, clerk of the same district, were each held in $1,500 bail, and E. M. Dunkle, also a clerk, was held in $500 bail on the charge of ballot box stuffing and conspiracy.
 Evidence was produced showing that out of a total of 274 votes in the district 201 were fraudulent.
 The arrest of the election officers was brought about by the city party, a reform organization, which watched this party testified that within thirty minutes after the polls had opened and before twenty persons had voted he had seen one of the defendants take a stick and push a large bunch of ballots into the box.
 Reform organizations are making a systematic investigation of the last election and wholesale arrests for ballot frauds are promised.
PANAMA QUARANTINE LIFTED
 WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Minister Merry at San Jose, Costa Rica, has cabled the state department that quarantine has been removed on the ports of the Panama republic.

SAYS RAILROADS ARE BREAKING TRUST LAW

Attorney for Ticket Brokers Declares Purpose Is to Establish Validity

That the railroads of Texas, in seeking permanent injunctions against ticket brokers to restrain the latter from dealing in reduced rate excursion tickets, are seeking to have the courts declare valid tickets containing contracts in violation of the Texas anti-trust law, and thus avoid prosecution under the provisions of this law, is the contention of Attorney J. S. Davis of Fort Worth, who represents ticket brokers of this city in injunction proceedings recently begun against them by railroads in the local courts.

WANT ORDINANCES PASSED

"The railroads have quite frequently," said Mr. Davis yesterday, "given warning to the public that unless the different city councils of the state shall enact city ordinances prohibiting ticket brokers from engaging in the business of buying and selling to the public unused reduced rate tickets, which the railroads have issued and sold to prospective passengers, the railroads will not in the future place on sale any reduced rate tickets."

PROHIBITED BY PENALTY

"Under the anti-trust statute such contracts as the railroads put on these reduced rate tickets in order to prevent their being transferred are declared to be void and expressly prohibited and corporations making them are subject to a heavy penalty and a forfeiture of their charter, and besides are liable to imprisonment for a term of years in the state penitentiary."

MUST HOLD TICKETS VALID

"The railroads know and are fully advised that in order for the court to issue such an injunction the court must necessarily hold in effect that notwithstanding the anti-trust statute prohibiting such contracts and punishing the maker of such contracts, yet the railroads can continue to make such contracts and their contracts are valid."

CITES SIMILAR CASE

"As presented the case of the railroads is exactly like the case of the National Phonograph Company vs. Schlegel, reported in volume No. 117, Federal Reporter, pages 242-28, where an application for an injunction was prayed to restrain a business, as is done in this case, and in which case the injunction asked was refused, the court using the following language: 'The purpose of this bill is undoubtedly to intimidate or terrorize others engaged in like business. It will be used to hold up to others that this court has rendered the validity of the contract. The decree of this court will be used for advertising literature, and although the parties to the record have agreed to the issuance of the writ of injunction, still I think the public has a very great interest in the matter—it is in having competition, freedom of trade and no stifling of business, and particularly as to those things of common use. And the bill alleges that the phonographs are a great and growing necessity.'

"It is true that the complainant as a patentee has the right exclusively to make, use and to sell the article covered by the patent by reason of a provision of the United States constitution and the act of congress. But no one, as presented by the bill in this case, is seeking to interfere with complainant in making or using, and all that is complained of is that complainant's exclusive right to sell is being interfered with."

"When and by whom? There is not the pretense in the bill that by any act of defendant are the number of sales lessened, or that the price which complainant fixes is in any way cut down. All of the paragraphs covered by the bill allege that the public wants must come from and do come from complainant's warehouse. And they come from them at complainant's price. But because defendant, in selling them as leaders or for some other reason sells them to the public at a less price than does complainant sell them for, is the only reason urged for an injunction."

"I find no authority that in my judgment sustains complainant's contentions. And it is likewise my judgment that the contract cannot be upheld even though the articles of merchandise are covered by a patent. The writ of injunction will be denied and the bill dismissed."

TEXAN SOLVES SWITCH PROBLEM

Headquarters of Automatic Device Company to Be Established in This City

After having come to Fort Worth in 1903 and seeing motormen and conductors' dismount from the cars to throw a switch, J. A. Posey, a young man of Mitchell, Texas, put himself to thinking and has patented an automatic switch which can be controlled from the car. For the manufacture and sale of the switch a company, with a capital of $500,000, has been formed with R. Vickery of Fort Worth as president.

On August 1 headquarters of the company will be moved from Dallas to this city. It is known as the Posey Automatic Switching company.

Mr. Posey's patent is already working with great success on the Dallas street car line, corner Dallas and Lamar streets. Mr. Posey himself is in Chicago at present installing the switch on lines in that city.

Patents of the mechanism are being secured in the United States and seven foreign countries.

Magnetic control over an attachment is the principle of the device. A switch may be located at any place on the car, convenient to the motorman, and switching may be done automatically at full speed.

The Little Surgeon.

What shall I do? Oh, dear me!
I've broken my dolly, don't you see?
And I loved her so, she was my sweet;
But I dropped her 'n' broke off both her feet.

And her nose got cracked, a great, wide crack,
As she hit her head on the floor 'n' whacked!
And her eye's shut and cannot see,
While 't'other eye stares so wild at me.

Oh, dear me! Tell me true,
What would you do had it happened to you?
I know it hurt her when she broke;
But she lay quite still and never spoke.

Mamma mends broken china with glue;
Maybe glue will mend Dolly, too!
Ah, I'll stick her together and bind her up,
Just as you'd mend a smashed teacup.

FLORENCE MAY.

"Oh-I-Forgot-It Sammy."

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

"Oh, I forgot it!" was an expression Sammy was forced to make use of so often that his parents became much worried over his absent-mindedness. In fact, his bad memory was getting to the point where severe measures would have to be resorted to if the little boy was to be broken of the growing bad habit.

Often Sammy was sent on an errand only to return with the exclamation: "Oh, I forgot what I was sent for!" Again his mamma would intrust some important message with him to be delivered verbally to some friend. In a short time Sammy would come loitering home, and with the most indifferent air would say: "Oh, mamma, I forgot to go to Mrs. —'s."

Both his mamma and papa did everything they could in the way of persuasion to break their son of his grievous fault, but their reasoning and counsel were of no avail. Then they tried punishment by sending Sammy to bed suppers, or imposing long tasks upon him. Still the child seemed indifferent to charging his mind with anything not of interest to himself—something pertaining to his own pleasures. He never forgot an engagement to go with his comrades to play. Neither did he ever forget when it was near time. This fact occasioned his parents no little anxiety, for it showed that Sammy's absent-mindedness was due to selfishness. When Sammy loomed any of his playthings to his friends he was much annoyed if they forgot to return the borrowed articles on time, although when it was the borrower he never bothered about carrying home the things lent to him. He flung them down anywhere and the owners could come and find their possessions as best they could.

All this rested heavily on the hearts of Sammy's mamma and papa. At last one day they decided on a new plan to break

Sammy starts out to dig fish bait.

Sammy of his very bad habit.

The next morning at breakfast table Papa said: "Sammy, would you enjoy a day in the country fishing and hunting?"

"Yes indeed, papa," answered Sammy, with a radiant face, his anticipation glowing. "Nothing would suit me better. It would be the greatest run."

"Well," said Papa, "be ready by ten o'clock."

"All right, papa," answered Sammy, a happy smile wreathing his mouth. "I'll be all ready before then. You won't have to wait on me."

Immediately after breakfast Sammy set to work to get his and Papa's fishing tackle ready. When this was done he took the spade from the woodshed and set off towards a vacant lot where in the soft earth he would find a good supply of fishing worms. Seeing him going off on this errand, Mamma called out to him: "Don't forget to bring the spade back when you have finished with it, Sammy. And—listen—be sure to clean all the soil off it and hang it up in its place again. Do you hear?"

"Yes'm," answered Sammy. Then he hurried away, whistling merrily.

After filling a tin can with fishing worms (to be used for bait) Sammy threw the spade on the ground where he had been digging and ran to the house. Entering the room where his mother sat he inquired anxiously: "What time is it, mamma?"

After telling Sammy the time mamma went to the mantel and wrote something on a sheet of paper lying there. She had observed that Sammy had not brought the spade in, but she did not say a word to him about it. "Now, son, I want you to may do these tasks while I tidy the cellar."

In about ten minutes mamma came up from the cellar to find Sammy no where in sight in the back yard. He had begun to sweep the walk, but had thrown the broom down with the work only commenced. In the woodshed the kindlings were in the same disorder, showing Sammy had not been at work there. Mamma went to the dining-room and wrote something more on the paper on the mantel. At a quarter of ten Sammy came running to ask the time. When his mamma informed him that it was getting along toward the hour he was longing for the impatient fellow went on the front porch to look for his father. And from the porch to the dining-room he kept running till the clock struck ten. Sammy counted the strokes excitedly. Why did not his papa come? He was growing edgely.

"What are you so uneasy about, son?" asked Sammy's mamma, sitting in her rocking chair by the window.

"I'm wondering why papa doesn't come," Sammy answered.

"Oh, I suppose he thinks there's no use coming," replied mamma.

Sammy said nothing for a few minutes; then his impatience and curiosity got the with a face beaming with smiles, came running in. "The walk and the elstern platform are swept as clean as this floor," he cried. "The spade is shining and hanging in its place. The eggs and jar are on the kitchen table, and now I'm off to the grocery after the sugar and salad oil. Oh, yes, and the kindlings are stacked up as even in the corner of the shed as though I had used a line to stack by."

"And how do you feel since doing all this?" Mamma asked.

"Just as though I had been playing," declared Sammy. "After all, work is just like play—only it goes by a different name. But I'm going to like remembering things. It's not at all bad."

And so it came to pass that "Oh-I-forgot-it Sammy" disappeared from existence and a new and happier boy came to live in his stead by the name of "I-never-forget-it Sammy." And his parents never had cause to complain of the little fellow's absent-mindedness again.

better of him and he asked: "Why should papa think there's no use coming?"

"Well, I suppose he thinks you've forgotten all about what he said at the breakfast table," answered his mamma.

"You know you never charge your memory with anything—unless it's something pertaining to your own pleasure." And mamma kept on rocking and sewing leisurely.

Sammy was thoroughly ashamed now and stood hanging his head while a lump grew in his throat. For the first time in his life he felt the importance of remembering things. As he was undergoing a sort of self-condemnation the telephone bell rang. "Hello," called mamma, picking up the receiver. "Oh, is it you papa? Well—wait a minute, Sammy is here and can't come to the phone."

Sammy's gloom banished for the instant. Papa was going to explain his delay and say when he would be home. He took the receiver from his mamma's hands and stepping on the stool which was al-gray bird and acquired its present bright colors by flying towards the sun on its liberation from Noah's Ark, when its upper surface assumed the hue of the sky above it and its lower plumage was scorched by the heat of the setting sun to the tint it now bears. Not a few virtues were also attributed to this bird. Its dried body would, it was believed, avert thunderbolts, or, if kept in ward-robes, would preserve from moths the woollen stuffs contained therein, whilst if hung by a thread from the ceiling of a room it would serve, like the more conventional weathercock, to point the direction of the prevailing wind.

Charades for Children's Parties on the Lawn.

No doubt you have all played charades, and are perfectly familiar with this ever new form of amusement; but as the game is considered adaptable to the parlor on winter evenings only, it is rarely indulged in during the warm weather.

But charades in the open air may be made highly entertaining and most enjoyable to both participants and on-lookers. Let the little folks gather together on mid-summer nights, with their parents and a few other grown-ups for an audience, and let them divide their numbers into two "selected sides" and act charades for an hour or so. The side presenting the most original and amusing charades should be awarded a prize—the prize to be in the form of a basket of cut flowers that may be divided among all the participants of the winning side, or a fancy box of bonbons.

The "acting side" must retire to the house to make its arrangements in secret, coming forth only to present the charade before the audience which is comfortably seated in a semicircle by the pretentious "acting sides" take turn-about at playing.

A few names to be used for charades are given here with instructions for syllable finished. Now will be given the second.

Immediately a boy comes from the house and seats himself on one of the chairs beside the table. He takes from his pocket a placard on which is written in large words: "Dr. Cut-em-up. Hours, all night." This he hangs about his neck. Then comes trooping towards him the whole body of boys and girls belonging to the side now acting. Some are holding their heads as if in pain, others are limping, some groaning, etc. All appear ill. They approach the doctor who examines the pulse and tongue of each, sending away one at a time with instructions something like this: "Swallow a pill-box every five minutes," or "Drink a barrel of rain water diluted with vinegar before each meal," or "Take mild exercises before breakfast like jumping over the moon." These prescriptions will create laughter and throw the guessers off the track of the syllable "Dr." being entered by the presiding patients. As the patients go away they are followed by the doctor. This is given before the syllable "Cut-em-up" is given. A boy comes bounding on the lawn

OUR LAY SERMON

There is one class of people who always do much good in this world, and they are the ones who do not lose sight of their current obligations.

We want to say a good word for the man who promptly pays all his debts. There are too few of them and the bread needs encouragement.

The average man should be very careful in the acquisition of debt. Before straining his credit he should correctly size up the situation and see how near he can live up to his promises.

If you are making debts with no intention or ability to discharge them at the time of maturity, in the sight of both God and man you are no better than the thief who steals in the night.

God hates a liar and a thief. You may flatter yourself that you are smooth and able to make your way in this world without paying your just debts.

Pay your just debts as fast as you are able, and above all things, make up your mind that you will create no debt that cannot be met promptly at maturity.

as to whether or not Representative Bryan can deliver the goods. The people of Texas respect Judge Terrell for his signal ability and the fidelity with which he has discharged every public trust.

There is plenty of time yet for all the gubernatorial material to get in the middle of the road, and there is plenty of time yet for the people of the state to reject all the material offered and extend the call that will bring James S. Hogg out of his voluntary political retirement as the real and proven champion of the people.

THE INGRATITUDE OF MAN

The Fort Worth Telegram, with characteristic independence, has exposed the fallacy of the position taken by Collier's Weekly and its allies in their little and small war.

James Wilson, secretary of agriculture of the United States, is very much in the public eye just now by reason of the scandal connected with the leak in the cotton crop report of the department.

The Elberta peach is not wedded to Tyler, Texas. Cleburne has been flirting with the red-checked lassie and she is charmed.

Chauncey Depew in Paris boasts that "I have lived in the searchlight of publicity for forty years and this is the first time I have ever been called to account for anything."

The press of Texas has been quite active during the past few months in pointing out the evils of the pistol habit and the cheapness of human life.

There are four candidates, avowed candidates. There may be six next year and there may be three after the second ballot, according to the Terrell election law.

It is clearly manifest that Hogg will be placed in an embarrassing position in the next state campaign so far as the candidates for governor are concerned.

GLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES

According to the Tax Collector Morrison, there has been a decrease in the taxes collected for the year ending June 30, 1906.

It seems that all the people of Texas in the anti-free pass measure except the state legislature and a few others. But the will of the legislature and not that of the people is supreme.

The farmer who always brings something to town to sell when he goes in that direction soon becomes independent. It is the wagon that goes to town empty and returns loaded that keeps the farmers of the country so miserably poor.

While walking along he often obstructs the path, you've chosen to go. And though you're often to go, boss he greets you in language just so:

Nowadays the church formula seems to be an irregular pile of stone, two or more steeples, enough rooms to accommodate prayer-meeting, Sunday schools, congregation and the various societies, a place where the size of the organ can be seen to best advantage.

My wife was unspeakably happy yesterday. Mine's been mighty happy many a time, but I can't say that she ever was that happy.

NEWS FROM ALL OVER EUROPE CABLED TO THE TELEGRAM

GERMAN VESSEL WELCOMES KAISER WITH DIRTY RAG

Because They Were Dissatisfied With Provisions Furnished Them They Offer Insult to the Emperor

BY MALCOLM CLARKE.
(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram.

BERLIN, July 22.—The German authorities have carefully guarded an incident which happened at Kiel while the kaiser was inspecting his man-of-war before leaving on his cruise in the Baltic on board the Hohenzollern.

When the kaiser approached the vessel the sailors were raised simultaneously on all the men-of-war, with the exception of one. A flag was hoisted on the little cruiser Frauenlob, but it was not the national colors, but a rather dirty canvas rag used for scrubbing the decks.

The kaiser, who was standing on the bridge of his yacht, noticed it immediately and sent his adjutant in a launch to the cruiser to find out what this outrage meant.

Could it be possible that some of the blue-jackets dared to imitate those of the Krieg Potomkin in hoisting the black flag of prayer? Shortly afterward, while the kaiser was trotting up and down the bridge like a caged lion, the adjutant returned and reported that the crew of the Frauenlob had chosen this means of letting the kaiser know that they were dissatisfied with their rations and with the too strict discipline of their chief, Captain Caesar.

They had hoped to gain anything in this way they were sorely disappointed. The kaiser was furious that such a breach of discipline could occur in his navy and a few minutes afterward the guilty blue-jackets were in irons and the whole crew were severely disciplined.

Three hours later the Frauenlob left the port.

"I will never see the damned vessel before my eyes again," the kaiser said to the chief of the squadron. "It must be banished from German waters, and I do not care where it is sent as long as it is far enough."

A few days later Captain Caesar received the "blue envelope." Its contents were brief and to the point: "His majesty the emperor and king no longer needs your services."

An Inland Seaport

The city of Berlin though far from any coast is soon to become an important seaport. A large canal, deep and wide enough to allow the passage of very large vessels, is to be dug between Berlin and the Baltic.

It is even now possible for small vessels to reach Berlin from the Baltic through existing canals, but these are to be made very much deeper and wider at an expense of forty-three million marks.

It is estimated that the tolls during the first year after the opening of the enlarged canal will amount to about a million and a half, or about 3 1/2 per cent of the cost.

Millionaire Prisoner Dies

An aged millionaire, the 70-year-old architect Frederick, from Leipzig, has just died in the penitentiary at Waldheim.

He was sentenced to four years' imprisonment in November, 1903, for bribery. He left no heirs, and, according to Saxon law, his body was therefore turned over to the dissecting room of a Dresden hospital, while his fortune, which is said to amount to about ten millions, will go to the state.

Stole Kaiser's Spoon

For stealing a golden spoon and fork and a table knife with a handle of solid gold from the kaiser's kitchen a non-commissioned officer of the guard has just been sentenced to the penitentiary for four months.

He did not deny having stolen the golden articles, which were found in his possession, but claimed that he had only taken them to keep them as souvenirs of the kaiser.

The court-martial, however, did not appreciate this proof of loyalty, and the sentence followed.

Czar Is Nervous

Alarming news of the czar's state of health has reached here. A high official of the court of Hesse Darmstadt, the home of the czar, says that Nicholas is suffering from severe spells of nervous depression, which at times border on insanity.

"Oh, I am terribly sorry," replied the ambassador at once, "but at this moment it happens that I have not a cook worthy of your majesty."

It is with such "pin pricks" that governments arrange their diplomatic differences like the present—or shall I say the recent—case. Mr. DeLacaze did all he could to expatriate the kaiser.

Rich Heiress to Wed

The marriage of Mademoiselle Lerjeux with Comte Ary de la Ferronnay, though it is not officially announced, may be looked upon as a certain thing. The young people have sealed their understanding and only one consent—that of the father and only one consent—that of the mother is now required before the betrothal rings are exchanged.

though he always controls himself in the narrow circle of his family. Toward his wife and children he is always exceedingly kind and even when he has spent all night without a wink of sleep he always rises at 7 to call his little daughter to his baby son.

While he was formerly very regular in his meal hours, he now takes food only when forced to do so by the czarina. He lives in a constant terror of assassination and new fences blighting with gas alarms and man traps have been constructed around the entire park which surrounds the castle of Peterhof, where he is now staying.

The palace and park are alive with soldiers, police, spies and secret service agents, and the duty of the last is to spy on and report the doings of the soldiers and police. No one in Peterhof knows exactly whom to trust or what his neighbor's business is.

The czar himself calls the palace the "Palace of Suspicion."

Time and again he has expressed a desire to resign, but has given in to the entreaties of his mother and wife, who both hope that a victory in the Far East may end all troubles at home.

Prince a Prisoner

News comes from Constantinople that the heir presumptive Reschid is hopelessly sick with cancer of the throat. A rumor from Vienna even says that he is already dead, murdered by his brother, the present sultan, who is now preparing to announce his death to the world.

The prince, if he is still alive, is 61 years of age, two years younger than Abdul Hamid. During the last twenty-five years he has time and again been suspected of conspiring against the title of the sultan, but has always succeeded in proving his innocence.

Of late, however, the sultan has been even more suspicious than ever and since the death of the original heir to the throne, Prince Ahmed, Prince Reschid has been kept a prisoner in his own house and it is by no means unlikely that he will be executed.

It does not appear that Pellissier had any accomplices, but single-handed he has supplied Germany with so much information that it will now be necessary to change the entire plans of mobilization, a task that will take many months.

German Army Weak

If we may believe a writer in the French Review of Reviews, France has little to fear from the German army in case of a war. The writer of this article, said to be a German officer, says the vanity of the kaiser has completely ruined the splendid military organization built up by the late Field Marshal Moltke.

"We have seen the scientific preparation for war entirely neglected," he says; "great maneuvers replaced by parades and circus battles, during which the kaiser in his desire to show off executes the most impossible spectacular attack, which if tried during a real battle would annihilate a whole army corps."

"All independence of character and all criticism have been suppressed, and our high officers have been forced to applaud these impudic fanatics, and the way to promotion in the army is no longer, as in days of old, by merit, but the officer who understands how to flatter the kaiser is promoted over the heads of those who refuse to act like toddlers."

"In case of a war with a power like France, Germany would be as mercifully defeated as is Russia now."

New Calendar For France

France is soon to adopt a new calendar, if M. Camille Flammarion, the famous astronomer, has his way. In the near future he will submit to the chamber a calendar radically different from the one now used by the whole civilized world.

March 21, the advent of spring, is to be New Year's day, and a month of thirty-one days is to follow each two months of thirty days, and the year would have only 364 days, to which he wants added an annual special holiday in ordinary years and two in leap years.

These ideas are to be known by special names and not by the recognized names of the days of the week. The advantage of his calendar, Mr. Flammarion says, is that the same dates would always fall on the same week days, so that the calendar would remain stationary every year.

Betting to Be Stopped

Unless some higher power interferes, all betting on French race courses must cease from Sept. 1, and all bookmakers caught doing business will be sent to jail for thirty days.

These gentlemen are moving heaven and earth to keep their lucrative business of emptying the pockets of the public, and say that it will be the end of the sport in France, but the minister of justice is firm and says that if people do not care for the sport for their own sake, the sport has outlived itself.

Empire Museum Growing

Little by little the Empire Museum begins to make a claim to being one of the attractions of this city. For a long time it contained in its magnificent building only the harp of Empress Josephine, the first empress of France, donated by ex-Empress Eugenie, but during the last few weeks all the splendid Empire furniture used at Malmaison has been moved into its spacious halls.

CRITIC POKES FUN AT GERMAN ARMY

Says Kaiser's Love of Pomp and Display Has Weakened Fighting Strength

BY PAUL VILLIERS.
(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram.

PARIS, July 22.—It is not very long since our military authorities at a time when war over Morocco seemed more than likely felt highly elated over the fact that French spies had succeeded in getting hold of all the important plans of the German army office, to be put in use in case of war.

Just now, however, the laugh is on France, and the humiliation is so much greater as it is men serving in the army who have sold and betrayed important military secrets to Germany.

Not long ago it was discovered that all the plans of mobilization had disappeared and investigations have shown that a soldier named Pellissier for some time has been in the service of at least two foreign powers.

He was in turn betrayed by his mistress, Mlle. Chapuis, whose patriotism was greater than her love, and who immediately when she found compromising letters in his pocket reported her discovery to the colonel of his regiment.

It does not appear that Pellissier had any accomplices, but single-handed he has supplied Germany with so much information that it will now be necessary to change the entire plans of mobilization, a task that will take many months.

WOMEN'S WORK MADE EASIER

Trades Unions of New Zealand Responsible for Better Conditions of Workers

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET.
(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram.

LONDON, July 22.—New Zealand has no doubt obtained conditions which render women's work easier than in any other country. Miss Beatrice Kelly explains the reason of this, when she says that unions of women wage-earners are the secret of the fact that the working girl there has more comfort, better wages, more liberty and exercise than anywhere else.

The pay in England for a woman worker is simply nothing compared to that which can be earned in the new country. She is no longer at the mercy of her employer, and cannot be compelled to do work below the value of her labor on pain of being dismissed, for should she be asked to do anything that is contrary to the standard arranged by the union, she would be supported by the union should she refuse to accept the terms.

The terrible amount of sweating which prevails in England would not exist if women were not slaves to their employers. If once they could understand the importance of banding themselves together, fixing the price of honest work and making a strong and determined stand against underpaid labor, they would gain the better conditions enjoyed by their sisters in New Zealand.

Anti-Duel League

The ladies in Galicia have formed an Anti-Duel League, which has been joined by some of the most prominent of the ladies of Austrian Poland. Their great aim is to suppress this barbarous custom, and to secure the amicable settlement of so-called "affairs of honor."

We have always been accustomed to associate Austria with somewhat antiquated ideas with regard to the freedom of women, but the strides which that country is now making are very remarkable. Women's societies of all kinds are springing up everywhere.

The society for saving lives is perhaps one of the most remarkable of the new developments. It was founded after the burning of the Ring Theater, some twenty-five years ago.

It has ambulance cars, litters and automobiles always standing ready in different parts of the city and boats waiting on the river, available at all times in case of accident, drowning or suicide, and the most enthusiastic supporter of the movement is Princess Pauline Metternich, the daughter-in-law of the famous grand chancellor.

She spent many years at the court of Napoleon III, where her husband was ambassador for Austria, and is celebrated for her intelligence and her wit.

Royal Ghosts

Since the days when Beaconsfield wrote his world-famed novel "Lothair," the name of the Marquis of Bute has been associated with romance, and the marriage which was recently celebrated between the charming Irish girl, Miss Augusta Monica Bellingham, and the present young Marquis of Bute, at Castle Bellingham in Ireland, aroused considerable interest.

The young man is a great contrast to his father, who was one of the most studious and literary men of his day, for the present Lord Bute is devoted to open air, and is much interested in natural history. His father was said never to have fired a gun, but the present marquis is a great sportsman.

Among the landed proprietors in England and Scotland there are certainly few who can rival his wealth, and in addition to being a marquis he enjoys the possession of eleven other titles. His great castle, Mount Stuart, in the Isle of Bute, is said to be a better place by no less a person than the son of Richard III, of Scotland, and his castle at Cardiff was the scene of the imprisonment of Robert, Duke of Normandy.

The late Lord Bute was received into the Roman Catholic church by Mgr. Capel, and the present marquis was brought up in an atmosphere of rosary devotion. The little village of Castle Bellingham, in the county of Lough, which is the scene of the wedding ceremony, has been in a state of excitement during the last week.

The exhibition of the presents which have been viewed by the Irish peasantry has given untold pleasure, one of the most striking being the tozaz rosary presented by his eminence Cardinal Lode.

The young couple have been receiving deputations from Scotland, from Wales and from England, and the Gaelic League, not to be outdone, has presented an address to the bride in the Irish language. The pope has sent a special autograph letter containing apostolic benediction to Lord Bute and his bride and on all taking part in the ceremony.

ITALY ADOPTS AIRSHIP

Is Invention of Count Who Was Patronized by King Humbert

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

MILAN, July 22.—Thanks to the financial assistance of the late King Umberto to Count Almerigo da Schio, the famous aeronaut and inventor, is said to have completed a full-size model of his dirigible balloon.

The new airship has just been tried here and is pronounced a complete success. It is cigar-shaped, forty yards long and requires 1,200 cubic meters of gas for its inflation.

It will be adopted by the Italian government according to a promise given the inventor by the late king.

FRANZ JOSEPH DISTRACTED

Said to Be Preparing to Take Extreme Measures

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

VIENNA, July 22.—Emperor Francis Joseph is said to be ready to take extreme measures to force Hungary into submission.

All Magyar troops are now to be quartered in Austrian cities and their places are being filled by Austrian troops loyal to the emperor.

Protests against this proceeding are heard all over Hungary, and the stirpage between Baron Fejervary, the Hungarian premier, and the municipalities is becoming acute, and threatens serious mischief.

Fourteen cities, including the capital, have declared that they will pay no taxes and will raise no recruits until a government that has the confidence of the majority is elected.

FAIR PRINCESS SHOCKS MAID HUNTING WORK

Unconventional Attire Is Too Much for Servant—Two Anglo-American Alliances Will Soon Take Place

BY PAUL LAMGATH.
(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram.

LONDON, July 22.—Mrs. Mackay has set a new fashion and incidentally earned the undying gratitude of a certain tradesman in Paris.

One of the many presents which the men received at her very successful cotillon was a little electric lighter about the size of a small cigar. On pressing a button a very small light appears at the end, which is equally useful for lighting cigars or cigarettes or finding out the time by the watch on a dark night.

A few of the gilded youth who won them at the cotillon showed them with great glee at the clubs, with the result that a number of bachelors who declared that the lighter was the very thing to help with the insertion of the latchkey after a gay dinner, insisted on getting at the address where they were made in Paris.

This Mrs. Mackay willingly gave, and the Paris tradesman is inundated with orders.

American Girl Admired

Miss Gwendoline Townsend Burden of New York, who is staying with her father and mother at Claridge's Hotel, and who was one of the bridesmaids at the Phipps' Guest wedding, is one of the most admired American girls in London just at present, and Miss Evelyn Bigelow and Miss Ethel Lousbery, the granddaughter of J. B. Haggin, have received a great deal of attention from numerous male admirers.

Miss Evelyn Bigelow and her mother, Mrs. Foulton Bigelow, have been going to all the big functions, including the Earl and Countess of Idelshleighs party, and of course all the American dances and dinners. Last week-end they spent with Lord and Lady North at Roxton Abbey, which is one of England's show places.

Mrs. Bigelow, who has quite recovered from the influenza which she contracted in America in town, and at informal dinner parties stop their own conversation to catch the impromptu good things which she sees elsewhere and repeat the jokes as their own.

The Unconventional Princess

Princess Henry of Pless, the tall and divinely fair daughter of that famous "professional beauty," Mrs. Cornwallis West and the sister of the Duchess of Westminster, is a very unconventional young woman in ordinary daily life.

The other day the Princess advertised for a housemaid. Housemaids galore answered the advertisement, and the usual routine of process took place. Finally an extremely respectable young person presented herself at the Pless mansion.

She was shown upstairs and told that the Princess would see her at once. To the respectable young person's astonishment she was shown into a bathroom.

In the bath was Her Serene Highness, who asked the usual questions from the depths of perfumed waters.

The respectable young person immediately made up her mind that she would not "take a situation" where the mistress interviewed servants in a state of nature and the bath.

The "respectable young person" fled from the house to find a situation among the despised "middle classes."

Anglo-American Alliance

Yet another Anglo-American engagement. All speculation in regard to the matrimonial plans of Miss Lulu Pfizer of Broklyn, whom the gossips have engaged to at least a dozen ineptuous peers, is now set at rest for this attractive young heiress has announced her engagement to Captain Holland to all her friends.

Captain Holland is one of the smartest men in London and he has already been the hero of a royal romance. As A. D. C. to the Duke of Connaught, the captain was naturally thrown much into the company of the duke's family, and it is an open secret that the pretty Princess Patricia, who is destined some day to marry King Alfonso of Spain, formed a very romantic attachment to the handsome aide-de-camp.

The attachment was, of course, severely discouraged, and the captain was transferred to another department of court life. The marriage of Miss Pfizer to Captain Holland will take place in October, and the early part of their wedded life will be spent at Malta, but later on they will take a house in London permanently, as Miss Pfizer has made so many friends here that she has undoubtedly never to leave London for any length of time.

And Still Another

Mrs. Hugh Stafford, the wealthy American widow, with a beautiful flat in Whitehall Court, has at length consented to the marriage of her son Hugh with pretty Miss Vera Blackman, who is a niece of Frederick Van Duzer, president of the American Society in London.

IN THE CATTLE COUNTRY—By Frances Benson

Two-fingered Pete rode into the corral of the Two Bar, tossed his elaborately braided quilt to the grinning youngster who had seen him coming, flung his bridle over the head of the sturdy little broncho until it trailed on the ground, swung himself lightly out of his gaudy Mexican saddle and proceeded to unbuckle it without the ceremony of "by-your-leave."

Two-Finger asked no questions, but took the girls the gods provided. In fact, he had met the centaur out on one of his fence riding expeditions several days before and had presented him with this identical bit of "beef" after first carefully cutting off and burying its sprangly horns, dainty hoofs and stubby tail.

Job Turner always drove in a covered buggy of some sort. It didn't pay to ride horseback or in an open buckboard in a country where one's enemies are good at picking one off at long range. A man of horseback shows up against the sky line frightfully and there are always gulleys and rocks in a rough country to conceal the hunter who nobody cares to trail in his own corral, not three hundred feet from his house.

MARGARET SANGSTER'S DEPARTMENT School Girls Should Have Boy Friends

By Margaret E. Sangster (Copyright, 1906, by Joseph B. Bowles) A girl who has brothers is never at a loss for comrades if her brothers have the right bringing up. There are brothers and brothers, however. I heard of one not long ago who was ashamed to be seen walking to school with his sister, and who refused to carry her books or her umbrella on a rainy day.

not come in, but waits for Mary to steal out and meet him at the gate, there is room for complaint. Mothers have told me that their daughters from 14 to 16 have been determined to walk up and down in the evening with boys of their own age, whom the mothers did not know.

her father's house, and of whom her mother does not approve. She may not write letters to her friends or receive letters from them without taking her mother into her confidence. If there are picnics, merry-makings, evening walks, drives or sails by moonlight, it is all right if a group of boys and girls are accompanied by an older friend. A mother, aunt or married lady who is a trusted acquaintance must take charge of such a party.

to read, and for which you have had no leisure. You have reached the most exciting part of the story. In comes your brother with a request that you will mend a rip in his glove, or in walks a neighbor who is a rather dull and stupid boy. It is a test of your amiability and altruism, whether you care more for your own pleasure, or for the brother and the brother's friend. These little things, mere trifles apparently, show character. Through-out life there are chances for a thousand petty self-denials. Some of them make the difference between being friendly and being selfish. Friendship never thrives in the soil of selfishness.

THE BOYS FLY A WONDERFUL KITE, BUT IT COULDN'T COMPARE WITH GRANDPA'S STARTLING BALLOON KITE

1. BOYS: "Wonder what Gran'pa will think of our new kite when he comes along."

2. GRANDPA: "Hello! That must be my young mischiefs at work again."

3. GRANDPA: "Why, here you are, Tony. Just the man I want. Here's a two-dollar bill for you. Now lend me your balloons for a few minutes."

4. GRANDPA: "Just help me a little, Tony, and I'll show you some fun."

5. BOYS: "Great Scott! Is that Gran'pa floating around in the air?"

6. GRANDPA: "Goodness gracious! But didn't that put those youngsters on the run quickly?"
