

FEVER DECLARED UNDER CONTROL

Few Deaths or New Cases in New Orleans

CITY BEGINS FUMIGATING

Many Tons of Sulphur Will Be Used in Effort to Kill Mosquitoes

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 19.—The official report of the yellow fever situation up to 6 o'clock this afternoon was as follows:

New cases, 58; total number of cases, 1,845; deaths, 4; total deaths, 192; new foci, 17; total foci, 295; cases under treatment, 401. The report is highly encouraging. The number of new cases is small and the number of deaths is unusually low and the number of additional foci is far from large.

There is now no question as to the fact that the fever is under control of the authorities, for the total figures given from day to day are far below what might be expected in view of the circumstances. It is entirely beyond dispute that the efforts of the Federal authorities, with the aid of the state and city health departments and the various citizens' organizations, have gone a long way toward stamping yellow fever out of New Orleans, and it is now pretty safe to conjecture that long before the first frost there will be an entire absence of this dreaded disease in the city of New Orleans.

Fumigation Today

Sunday is fumigation day. Between the hours of 10 o'clock and 12 thousands and thousands of residents of New Orleans will fumigate their premises and cause the deaths of millions of mosquitoes of the stenomyia fasciata and other varieties. This is in accordance with the recommendation of the authorities, and between the hours mentioned tons of sulphur and other substances are being employed for fumigation purposes and will be burned. Complete directions for carrying out this have been given from day to day in the newspapers and the attack on the dangerous mosquitoes will be continued and undoubtedly an effective one. More mosquitoes will go to the happy hunting grounds than one could shake a stick at.

Tonight there was a meeting at the directors' room of the Whitney National Bank of the presidents of the various citizens' ward organizations. Separate reports of the work in the various wards were made and they were very gratifying. It was decided that persons maintaining unsecured cisterns in violation of the ordinance would be dealt with according to the provisions of the law, and it was decided by the representatives of the ward organizations assembled to have a representative in court at the time of the trial of such delinquents in order to report how the disease being allowed to get two months' start, with nothing being done to stop it. I cannot understand how it happened.

To Use Tons of Sulphur

At the same meeting this evening another matter of importance taken up was that of the fumigation today. Sulphur has been distributed in all wards. It was reported and is available to all persons who have not already purchased it on application to the presidents of the ward organizations, even this morning. It was reported at the meeting that in the Tenth ward four tons of sulphur had been distributed all this morning in the morning in fumigating premises. Resolutions were passed requesting the various clergymen of the city, priests and ministers to take this morning and urge upon their congregations the importance of complying with the recommendations of the health authorities and fumigating their premises with the object of killing all mosquitoes. In most of the churches of the city Sunday morning the matter will probably be touched upon.

Gulafra Pessimistic

"The yellow fever of 1905 will not be as bad as the yellow fever of 1878." This is the opinion of Dr. Juan Gulafra, the well known expert on the yellow fever situation in New Orleans. Dr. Gulafra takes anything but an optimistic view of the local situation. He is of the opinion that the disease gained such a foothold that it is an impossibility to stamp it out before frost sets in. Improvement, but at the same time it must be remembered that September is always the worst month of the fever and that the number of cases and probably death rate. At the same time that Dr. Gulafra said that the disease this year would not be as bad as that in 1878, which was the worst the country has experienced in fifty years, he uttered the prophecy, "The yellow fever of 1905 will go down into history as the last epidemic of the disease which the world will ever know."

Worse in the State

The situation in the state is growing steadily worse. Up to 6 o'clock tonight 244 cases had been reported outside of the city, with thirty deaths. No report has yet been received from the fishing town at the mouth of Bayou La Fourche and probably will not be for several days, as it is remote from all outside communication. In the city the fight is still being carried on without intermission and the marine hospital service is daily bringing additional men here to carry on the work.

A novel step was taken by the health authorities today, when they required all the urns in the dozen or more cemeteries to be covered with oil. An inspection was made of all the cemeteries and it was found that mosquitoes were breeding by the tens of thousands in them.

COUNTERFEIT BONDS ARE THREE YEARS OLD

Strange Circumstance Connected With Bogus Austin Securities

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 19.—Additional developments in the counterfeit issue of $125,000 of Austin dam refunding bonds, mention of which was made in dispatches to The Telegram Saturday, shows that the counterfeit issue has all the marks of a forgery which cases are tried will act conclusively, of course, and impose proper penalties, but the idea of having the citizens' organization report is merely to have a report of how this working of the wheels of justice is accomplished.

Surgeon Perry Better

Surgeon Perry, who has been ill with the fever, will be able to resume his work tomorrow. A remarkable story was brought to the attention of the hospital authorities this morning when it was reported that a man stricken with yellow fever continued to attend a bar in the Italian district for three days after he became ill, and when he learned that the hospital men had learned of his case he was carried outside the city and cannot be located.

Quarantine Continues

The parishes of Pointe Coupee, St. Landry, Iberville, Avoyelles, Rapides, West Baton Rouge, and the towns of Boyce, Alexandria, White Castle, and Bayou Goula will not accept household goods, bananas and pineapples, express and baggage from infected points. St. John parish will not accept second-hand furniture, household goods or such as apparel, etc.

To Test Asepticization

The citizens' committee appointed at the public mass meeting at St. Charles hotel Thursday evening in the interest of Dr. Leach and his organization theory has not yet made an announcement, but it is given out positively that arrangements are being made for Dr. Leach's experiments and they will be performed. The committee up to a late hour last evening had not heard from the parish medical society in reply to the request formulated Thursday evening. The experiments, as a matter of courtesy, will not be performed until the medical society has replied to the communication.

been in existence for about three years. In this connection it is well to note the fact that the presence was not known sooner was due to some very peculiar facts that have now just come to light. When the bonds were sold or given over to the Houston Fire and Marine Insurance company that now holds them, it was, according to reports reaching here, stipulated that the seller of the bonds to the said company should have an interest thereon and in consideration of the present of the company in question allowed the original owner to keep the bonds for a period of six months. Since that deal was made the original owner has secured coupons, and supposedly cashed them each six months. The present developments reveal, however, that instead of presenting coupons for payment that the original owner merely filed them away.

Original Owner Lost Them.

Recently by force of circumstances the original owner lost possession of the bonds in question and with his relinquishing them all safeguard to the presentation of coupons for payment was removed. The June-July interest for 1905 on the bonds falling due during the present year, the present owners of the bonds without any knowledge of the past proceedings in connection with the handling of the interest coupons, gave them in payment of certain debts to a party in Houston and a party in this city. The Austin party received $20,000 worth of coupons and presented them at a bank in this city for collection. The bank in question notified the city authorities that coupons were ready for payment and were informed that money to pay them was in New York under supposition of course that the coupons had never been paid. While these coupons were awaiting payment news came from Houston that there were $4,000 worth of coupons down there awaiting payment on that account. The Austin party would collect the money on them at the same time that he got his money.

Payment Had Been Made.

The fact that there were $5,000 worth of bonds outstanding after the time for interest payment was due occasioned some speculation in this city. The city authorities inquiring into the matter, discovered the fact that the coupons in question had been paid and there was only some $135 on deposit there to the credit of the interest on these bonds. The city authorities to guessing and immediate investigation was ordered and proceeded with. Mayor Shelley, city attorney Allen and one or two gentlemen whom he took into his confidence proceeded to Houston to look at some of the bonds that were known to be there. Upon being shown the bonds the mayor at once and very promptly notified the parties holding them that they were counterfeit and gave them the usual official notice that they must not dispose of the bonds until further developments. When the bonds were shown to the committee as ordered by Mayor Shelley, they ascertained at once that they conformed to the original bond in every respect, form, verbiage or quality. In the coupons, for instance, where amount to be paid in the form of interest was written on it was also figured out in brackets in the original bond. The false verbiage was entirely at variance with the original issue. The signatures of the mayor and the city clerk on opposite corners of the original bonds indicated one under the other in the false edition. The original bonds had red lines running from the book stub to the back of the coupon so that when the bond was set into its proper book the red lines would coincide exactly. In the false bonds there were no red lines on the back of the coupons at all. The bonds that have been traced ranged from the number 519 to 559, part of each issue being represented in the false issue.

For instance, bonds numbering from say 519 to 525 were picked out for false numbering and so on through the list up to the 559 number. The counterfeit was not particular as to the number that he took out, various blocks taking more out of one block than the other.

Clerk Passed on Bonds.

A peculiar feature of the whole transaction is the fact that the clerk in the state insurance department has passed upon the bonds three different times without in the least suspecting that they were fraudulent. The bonds being held as collateral by the parties holding them, there was no particular occasion for special examination of them and the fact that the holders had waived interest on them during the time of the original owner's possession of the bonds aroused no suspicion in their minds that they were not valid nor were they interested in the collection of the interest and said interest was being paid promptly, as the coupons were being clipped twice a year regularly. In this manner so long undisturbed, had they not changed ownership and the coupons being presented for collection as has been done it would have been possible for the counterfeit issue to have remained undiscovered until the bonds fell due and even then the discovery would have been prevented had the original owner been able to make good their amount to those who purchased the bonds of him. The whole case is about one of the strangest on record. The city authorities of Austin headed by the mayor will do, and are doing everything in their power to unearth the firm that printed the bonds and the man, or men, who forged the signatures thereto. As to whether they will be successful remains to be seen. They are being given every assistance possible by the interests now holding the bonds and are hopeful of apprehending the guilty parties shortly.

HEARING OF ICING CHARGES FINISHED

Manager Kerr Contends Right to Withdraw Documentary Contracts, But Is Premised Protection

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 19.—The railroad commission this afternoon concluded the hearing on the proposition of icing charges on refrigerated cars. The evidence of both sides was taken and the afternoon arguments were made by both sides.

During today's session of the commission, the question of having come up, and Manager Kerr of the American Refrigerated Transit Company stated that he did not concede the right of the commission to demand contracts. But to keep it from being said that the company was trying to conceal something he would readily agree to present the commission with the documents, making the request that the papers, however, be kept from publication, as they would give the company's competitors an advantage. Commissioner Mayfield said he would be obliged to have the documents made public and that it was a matter of record and could be inspected. Chairman Storey said tonight that no decision has been reached as yet by the commission in any of the cases heard during the week.

PEACE ENVOYS AT DEAD END

Neither Jap Nor Russian Will Yield

APPEAL OF ROOSEVELT

Baron Rosen Leaves Portsmouth for Oyster Bay, to See the President

BY WM. BOSLOR

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 19.—The peace negotiations here have come to an absolute standstill, pending the result of President Roosevelt's effort to bring about an agreement between the envoys. Baron Rosen, M. Witte's associate, left here at 7 o'clock this morning, en route to Oyster Bay, in consequence of the telegraphic communication handed to him early this morning by Third Assistant Secretary of State Pierce.

Every effort was made by the Russian legation to keep Baron Rosen's departure a secret, but it is known positively that he went direct to Portsmouth and thence to Boston, where at 10:20 a. m. he boarded the Bay State Express for New York, the plan being for him to alight at New Rochelle and then board the Sylph for Oyster Bay. Three hours after Baron Rosen left the hotel, M. Witte also departed, presumably for Magnolia, Mass., where he is to take dinner with Japanese envoys. Several other members of the Russian suite took occasion to go into Boston on shopping tours, and every avenue of news or comment from the Russian side has been effectually closed.

Wait on Roosevelt

Until Oyster Bay is heard from, there will be no further effort made to bring about peace. On the Japanese side the utmost ignorance as to the intervention in the peace negotiations of the President is professed. Mr. Sato said this morning that he was not informed that Baron Rosen had gone to Oyster Bay. "Has an invitation been extended to any member of the Japanese suite?" Mr. Sato was asked. "No," he replied. "Will you express any opinion with regard to the summoning of Baron Rosen to the President's home at the critical stage of the peace negotiations?" "We are all the guests of the United States government," was the reply. "There is nothing that can be said concerning the acts of the honored head of that government."

"To show how unaffected by the situation the Japanese are today amusing themselves in divers ways, fishing and shopping, and a large party of them will be entertained this evening at York Beach, government launches having been ordered to carry them to the resort. From the waterfront, the scene at the Wentworth hotel around midnight last night was the most exciting that has been witnessed since the conference assembled here.

Air Full of Rumors

All through the evening the atmosphere was charged with exciting rumors. It was known that the conference had come to an end that afternoon and that no agreement on the vital points in dispute had been reached. Every one who has followed the situation was perfectly aware that a deadlock would be reached and that if some sort of an agreement was not arrived at through the intervention of some power outside of Portsmouth before Tuesday started, the scene at the Wentworth hotel around midnight last night was the most exciting that has been witnessed since the conference assembled here.

No One Knows Plans

As to the plans of the President and to what extent he is prepared to go at this delicate matter, no one can speak of knowingly. There is a story here that has many supporters that the President has not acted upon his own initiative in this matter, but was able today when he saw Baron Rosen to inform him that he spoke for the German emperor and the Russian government as well as the people of the United States, when he asked that another determined effort be made to reach an agreement. In other words it is strongly hinted that a combination of the world powers had formed to bring pressure to bear upon the two warring nations.

WITTE RETURNS TO PORTSMOUTH

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 19.—Mr. Witte returned from Magnolia this afternoon. He returned in an auto, and appeared to have enjoyed his day's outing. "I can only confirm the report that has become current here, that Baron Rosen went to Oyster Bay this morning. He went there at the invitation of President Roosevelt. It is all I care to or can say about the matter."

Much of the Testimony in the Trial at Wooster, O., of Unprintable Character

TWO MORE WEEKS YET

Nauseating Story Not Yet All Told—Defendant to Take the Stand Soon

WOOSTER, Ohio, Aug. 19.—The ruling of Judge Eason this morning on the motion to dismiss adultery charges against the military officers with the exception of Captain Bash and as against Clinton Spencer in the Taggart divorce case, came like a clap of thunder out of a clear sky today.

Not only did the judge flatly decline to dismiss the charges against General Miner and Lieutenant Fortescue, but he went into the merits of the case so far as he has determined them up to this date.

In clear tones he proceeded to discuss the case as it now stands, and to sum up the relevancy of proofs in his hands. It was in a manner like a knell of doom. "In regard to the motion to dismiss certain correspondents from the petition," said Judge Eason, "from the charge of adultery, Lieutenant Ritter came into Taggart's house in the night on tip-toes. He was in there five or ten minutes and went away. An anonymous note was received but no suggestion was acted upon. While these facts were of a suspicious character, no notice was taken of them even by Taggart's brother, who for years after said nothing about them. The law requires the delivery of testimony and careful judgment must be used to determine that adultery has been committed. The charge against Lieutenant Ritter is not sustained.

Went After Warning

"Clinton R. Spencer is assailed on the strength of a conversation between Major Taggart and his wife, wherein he warned her against his company and against him as a man. Taggart testified that his wife accompanied Spencer to Cincinnati, where he had given her this warning. There is, however, no evidence of their keeping improper hours and of circumstances cited shows the vital circumstances or disposition of adultery. While she may have been imprudent un-

Believed Peace Prospects Are Brighter Since Visit to President Roosevelt

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—When Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador and peace plenipotentiary, left Sagamore Hill, after a conference of an hour and three-quarters tonight, there were many in Oyster Bay who were convinced that the prospects of peace were brighter than they had been for many days.

GRAND JURY SETS PARIS NEGRO FREE

Man Is Severely Beaten by a Mob—Leaders Likely to Be Indicted

PARIS, Texas, Aug. 19.—After deliberating twenty-four hours the grand jury empowered to investigate the charge of attempted criminal assault against the negro Andrew Dinwiddie at 5 o'clock this afternoon announced that the evidence was insufficient to hold the accused. Dinwiddie was accordingly released. He was severely bruised and beaten at the hands of the mob that took him from the officers Thursday. The grand jury is now investigating the actions of the leaders of the mob and indictments may follow.

TWENTIETH INJUNCTION

Morning Star Oil Company's Suit Makes One Score Filed

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 19.—Another oil company filed injunction proceedings against the comptroller, the state treasurer and attorney general today. This time it is the Morning Star Oil company et al., of Beaumont. The company enjoins these state officials from enforcing the collection of taxes under the Kennedy act. This makes twenty companies which have thus far enjoined the state. A temporary writ of injunction was granted by Judge Brooks in this case.

FIGHT ON STANDARD A STERN REALTY

Independent Oil Company at Cherryvale, Kan., Ready for Long War With EnEMY

From Staff Correspondent. CHERRYVALE, Kan., Aug. 19.—Cherryvale, the independence city of the commercial revolution, is still stirred with that same spirit that led every citizen on July 4 to stand as did the patriots about Independence Hall in Philadelphia on the same day in 1776, when the bonds of political subjection were declared riven and each citizen stood forth pledged even with the signers of that memorable Declaration, to do or die that they might be free.

Little does the outside world know of the real spirit that has made Kansas the leader in the fight for freedom from the Standard Oil oppression. Efforts of the state as a commonwealth to throw off the bonds of the country were declared unconstitutional, but even at that moment of their delight, the Wall street group might have heard the cheers of the Kansas patriots as they dedicated the movement to secure freedom from oil domination.

That day will ever live in the history of Kansas. Be the result what it may, each citizen was then a patriot. Today the self-same spirit is felt by every dweller in the town and Cherryvale is a municipality working in a cause they feel to be just.

Independence Declared. Celebration of Kansas Independence Day began at sunrise, a "Commander's Salute" fired at that time stirring all the populace to the deeds of the day. Band concerts and impromptu speeches kept the crowds in bounds until 10:30 o'clock when the parade began, which terminated with exercises at the auditorium of the city, where ringing speeches declared the freedom from the oil trust.

Thus the great commercial struggle which promises to be more far reaching in its effects than the battle of arms which led to American independence was begun and the fires were lighted under the independent refiners. Today the campaign is being waged with the same zeal.

Work Now Visible. Results attained in the battle are already apparent, and works that may be the Bunker Hills of future generations are now to be seen.

Back of this great fight against the Standard Oil is the Uncle Sam Company, so named as typifying patriotic effort to throw off the yoke of the commercial octopus and typical of the company itself, composed as it is of "trust busters" throughout the entire country.

Under the leadership of James Ingraham, president, J. H. Ritchie, vice president, and H. H. Tucker Jr., secretary and treasurer, the commercial patriots have erected great fortifications and secured munitions of war. That the fight against the Standard is no visionary thing, much to be desired, but a reality is evident to the visitor to Cherryvale.

Seen at the Plants. Crude oil tank No. 1 having a diameter of 96 1/2 feet and being thirty feet high, stands in the center of the Kansas oil fields, the forerunner of six similar crude oil tanks to be put into service. In addition nine tanks are already completed for refined oil. These forty-one tanks are to be put into service. Two still are already up with four more to follow 1,000 feet of switch are in use. An idea of the work already being done by the independent refiners is shown by the fact of water pumped daily from Drum creek for cooling purposes. Profits as it now stands to the amount of $800 per day are assured.

Future Fight Planned. That the Kansas oil men have not underestimated the big refinery near Kansas City and have planned a campaign for all time is shown by other work in progress. Transportation difficulties will be met by a pipe line to the Missouri river with a second big refinery near Kansas City. With this position established the Uncle Sam Company will then be able to reach all parts of the country through a fleet of vessels and barges. The great central waterway will place forty-one tank cars and cheap reach the great cities from St. Paul to New Orleans and from St. Louis to Pittsburgh.

Forty-five more distributing stations will be established in Kansas; the company completes another refinery and increases the capacity of the one at Cherryvale.

Big Pipe Line. The pipe line to form this important transportation connection will have a total length of 12 miles. Five miles of this pipe is already on the ground. A system of distribution is being used by which shipments in car lots from Kansas City are sent to available stations and the distributed by season along the line. An immense pumping station along the line will be established at Garrett, Kan.

In addition to this great pipe line, forty miles of pipe are already laid in the ground radiating to supply the needs from all sections of the immense field. The company now owns and controls over 30,000 acres of oil lands, seventy-eight gas and oil wells and four complete pumping plants.

How the great fight against the Standard was planned and how what many seemed an Augean task has been accomplished until an active competitor to the Rockefeller power is in the field is a story of keen interest to the student of economics.

Scattering of interest among the common law abiding people of the country throughout the country scores an increasing demand for rigid enforcement of the laws, through evasion of which it is openly charged trust methods have prevailed.

Securing control of the immense Kansas field with its practically unlimited flow the company then began the erection of its system, placing the money as fast as received from stock sales into company investments. With the lines and distributing system outlined in the foregoing the company will be ready to open the fight in earnest. Already oil is being sold by the company and car load lots of barrels are being received daily to ship the product prior to the completion of the pipe lines. Authorized capitalization of the company has been placed at $10,000,000 and is declared to be without doubt, Kansas People Help.

The people of Kansas, to a large extent, are interested in the fight, and over twelve hundred citizens are directly interested as stockholders. Other stockholders are scattered throughout the entire country and extend even into Canada and Mexico.

Here on the ground, the fight against the Standard is no longer a hope or dream but a present reality, and one with the spirit that won when Kansas was an unknown wilderness in the west. Viewing the earnestness of the people and the practical lines in which their zeal has been directed, the Standard Oil does not seem the huge behemoth of a few months ago and relief in the triumph of law and American justice stirs a man to new hope and pride in the country of the west.

Hardly anything makes a woman more jealous than to see pictures of somebody else's children in a magazine. A man is likely to get along very well in the world if he can make himself realize there are some people who know as much as he does.—New York Press.

WHEAT FAILS TO HOLD EARLY GAIN IN PRICE

Market Opens Firm, But Later Breaks Under Good Crop Reports

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 19.—Western wheat movement: Receipts today 676,681 bushels; last year 797,115 bushels. Shipments: Today 438,054; last year 467,282. Western corn movement: Receipts today 496,230; last year 352,628. Shipments today 461,967; last year 287,056.

After opening firm and advancing 1/4c during the early part of the day under favorable European cables, wheat broke 2-4 to 7-8c, and closed only 1/2c above the lowest point of the day, the resumption of harvesting operations to the northwest and growing crop prospects presented by local traders. I spent two weeks prospecting, in the spring wheat belt, causing long to sell out when the season was half over. There was no export business reported and Duluth and Philadelphia said they were 5c out of favor. September opened at 81 1/2c to 82c, fell to 81 3/4c, rose to 81 1/2c to 81 3/4c and declined to 79 3/4c, closing at 80 3/4c to 80 7/8c. December 1d from 82c down from 85 7/8c to 84c, closing at 83 1/2c. Corn was strong early, gaining 1/2c to 1/4c, but weakened later a sympathy with wheat, closing 1/2c to 3/8c below yesterday's prices.

Oats were dull and closing prices showed a loss of 1/2c to 1/4c compared with the closing of yesterday.

Provisions were weaker and declined 10c for pork, 2 1/2c to 5c for lard and 2 1/2c for ribs, after being well sustained early. Light showers in the northwest, principally at Minneapolis, higher English markets and smaller world's shipments supplied the basis for a steadier feeling in wheat during the early part of the session, and after opening 1/2c to 1/4c higher prices receded 1/2c and then rallied to the first figures, with shorts the principal buyers, Pringle being the leader. Business was dull and closing prices showed a loss of 1/2c to 1/4c compared with the closing of yesterday.

FALSE HUNGER A Symptom of Stomach Trouble Corrected by Good Food

There is, with some forms of stomach disease, an abnormal craving for food which is frequently mistaken for a "good appetite." A lady teacher writes from Carthage, Mo., to explain how with good food she dealt with this sort of hurtful hunger. "I have taught school for fifteen years, and up to nine years ago I was in good health. My diet was always generous, comprising whatever I took a fancy to. I ate freely. Nine years ago, however, my health began to fail, and continued to grow worse, steadily, in spite of doctor's prescriptions, frequent changes of residence and everything I could do. During all this time my appetite continued good, only the more I ate the more I wanted to eat—I was always hungry. The first symptoms of my break-up were a distressing nervousness and a loss of flesh. The nervousness grew so bad that finally it amounted to actual prostration. Then came stomach troubles, which were very painful, constipation which brought on piles, dyspepsia and severe nervous headaches. The doctors seemed powerless to help me, said I was overworked, and at last urged me to give up teaching. If I wished to save my life, "But this I could not do. I kept on at it as well as I could, each day growing more wretched, my will power alone keeping me up, till at last a good angel suggested that I try a diet of Grape-Nuts, and from that day to this I have eaten it, finding it delicious, always appetizing and satisfying. I owe my complete restoration to health to Grape-Nuts, and my persistence in using it. My weight has returned, and for more than two years I have been free from the nervousness, constipation, piles, headaches, and all the ailments that used to punish me so, and have been able to work freely and easily." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

MARKET HINGES ON TEXAS WEATHER

Rain Will Send Cotton Downward, While Dry Sunday Means Higher Prices

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The cotton market was influenced a little early by the cables, which pointed to a considerable decline in prices here, but there was not a great deal of cotton on the market and the market rallied, eased off again with some local selling, but quickly turned strong. The trading appeared to be more professional than otherwise and some careful observers believe the situation is more one where contending speculative interests are fighting for control than one in which the market is being influenced by ordinary conditions of supply, demand or crop news. There were opinions expressed that the break in Liverpool was on orders from this side. There were no rains of any importance reported in Texas and the lack of rainfall there appears to be the principal bull card.

The southern bull party continues to express confident belief in higher prices, but the market shows influence of considerable selling at times. The bear party appears to be made up of some of the most successful operators here and both sides are evidently working for every point in their favor. A great deal depends on the weather conditions over Sunday in Texas. If it should be hot and dry there Monday it might result in quite a sharp advance, while on the other hand rain in Texas would have considerable influence the other way.

TRADE REPORTS MORE FAVORABLE

Bank Clearings for the Week Show 33.2 Per Cent Gain Over Last Year

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—General trade reports continue favorable. Bank clearings for the week show improvement over last week and were 33.2 per cent over a year ago. Compilations of railroad reports to date also show up well with a gross increase for the first week in August of 6.6 per cent, while for the month of July the gross increase was 7.1 per cent, against 6.4 per cent in June and 9.4 in May.

Despite the gloomy reports from Paris, money market authorities maintain their recent confidence as to the final favorable outcome of the peace conference. The strength of foreign markets, notably of foreign government bonds and the long preparations made by Paris bankers in gathering gold to finance an indemnity loan are held to be the best indications.

London Money Easy

(Special Cable to The Telegram—Copyright, 1906, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, Aug. 19.—The stock exchange was closed today. In the money market call money and discounts were easier. French discount rates advanced. Paris exchange on London unchanged at 25 1/2c, Berlin 4 pfg. Lower at 20m, 16 1/2 pfg.

Pig Iron Firm

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Prices in the pig iron market today were very firm and sales were made at full quotations for regular and up to highest for the month. Close: Cash August 14.85 to 15.50, September 14.85 to 15.50, October 15 to 15.75, November 15.20 to 15.75, December 15.20 to 15.75, February 15.25 to 15.75.

PROTRACTED MEETING

Successful Services Being Held at Missouri Avenue Church. A successful series of protracted meetings is being held at the Missouri Avenue Methodist church. Services are being conducted by W. A. Stucky of Sulphur Springs, assisted by Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of the church. Meetings have been well attended during the past week, a number of conversions being reported at each service. The services, it is announced, will be continued indefinitely.

FINAL CLEARING UP AND RUMMAGE SALE!

It's to be a fitting second chapter to the great selling of last week, and it's to be the most important and cost-regardless clear-up sale. Our store methods do not permit hold-overs; full, complete and new stocks are shown each season. Summer goods are to be closed out in their entirety before the arrival of new stocks. Oddments, broken lines, lots that are dwindled down—all summer stocks now receive the final cut. The rummage holds an interest that is unequaled under any other condition—for the bargains it creates overshadows any previous values offered the Fort Worth people. A quarter and a half of former prices. Come and see to understand the full meaning of Rummage Sale.

HARRIS ACCEPTS IN OFFICIAL LETTER

Good Municipal Government and Careful Expenditure of Money Promised

W. D. Harris, who has become a candidate for mayor, has issued a formal letter, acknowledging requests made of him to run and officially announcing his entrance into the race.

It is as follows: Messrs. W. C. Turner and Others, City.—Gentlemen: Formally replying to your request to allow my name to go before the public as a candidate for mayor of the city of Fort Worth, I beg to assure you, as well as others who personally solicited me to accept the call, of my high appreciation of the confidence which the call and solicitations imply. Each of you, gentlemen, as well as each one who will attest that I in no way sought to be a candidate, and was in no manner instrumental in bringing my name before you for consideration. I appreciate the call and solicitation all the more because they came unsought. I also prize the request more highly and feel more deeply sensible of the obligation upon me when I consider the fact that this call of my fellow citizens cannot be looked upon as springing out of selfish motives on their part, but comes from those who are the diligent investigation of any man whose sincere wish is to bring the best results to the people of the city.

I believe the affairs of a city or a county or any other division of the government should be looked upon much in the same manner as men would look upon complicated business affairs of private individuals. The rules that govern in wise business management of private affairs should constantly be brought to mind and applied to the business affairs of the city. No more freedom in turning loose a dollar in money belonging to the city without getting for the city the value of a dollar should be practiced than is practiced by discreet and just business men in parting with the money used in their business without value received.

I therefore announce my candidacy for the office of mayor, subject to the primary election, if any shall be held. If I shall be elected mayor by the vote of the people of the city at the next city election and can be instrumental in helping those seeking good municipal government in obtaining that result, and in getting for the city in the way of necessary improvements a dollar in value for each dollar of public money expended and keep that pace in progressive enterprise and improvement demanded by the city's present growing condition, then I shall be satisfied and feel that I have accomplished the chief purpose of my candidacy. Invoking the confidence and support of yourselves and the public generally, I am very truly, W. D. HARRIS.

POSTAL RUNS CHANGED

Quarantine Bulletin Issued From Headquarters Here

The following changes made in train service in the El Paso division, account of yellow fever quarantine restrictions, were announced Saturday from headquarters in this city:

McGehee and Ferriday R. P. O.—We are advised that clerk performs service in this line from the Arkansas-Louisiana state line to Omega, La., only, account of yellow fever at Tallulah. Mail for the offices of Mansford and Tallahouca can be detached via Tallahouca until further advised. MILLIKIN'S Bend and Ashley, La., will be supplied from Thomaston. New Orleans and Houston Trains Nos. 3 and 19—These trains are not running through Lafayette, La., account of yellow fever infection at that place. These trains are run over New Iberia and Eunice line, between New Iberia and Midland, in each direction, account of yellow fever infection at Rayne, La., mail for Branch, Churchpoint and Coe, La., should be dispatched via Sunset, La.

New Iberia and Eunice R. P. O.—Regular trains between New Iberia and Midland have been superseded by New Orleans and Houston trains, which run over this track. A clerk performs service between Eunice and Midland.

CAMP SUPPLY BOUGHT

City Furnishes Necessities for Quarantine Station

In accordance with instructions from the state health authorities for the establishment of detention camps in different parts of the state, City Physician Barber Saturday purchased tents, bedding and supplies, which were sent to Ringgold on the Rock Island.

At its meeting Friday night the city council granted an appropriation to defray the cost of equipping the camp. Tarrant county will pay the salary of two guards who will be on duty there.

The camp at Ringgold is the last of the series to be established, camps having already been placed at Denison, Sherman, Gainesville, Paris and Texarkana. The camps are under the supervision of Dr. Sims, appointed by State Health Officer Taber.

FRISCO ISSUES CROP STATEMENT

Cotton Acreage Placed at 90 Per Cent of Condition of Crop in 1904

The freight department of the Frisco railroad Saturday issued a brief crop bulletin covering conditions of various products around Denison, Sherman, Vernon, Quanch, Dorchester, Guiter, Calma, Prosper, Frisco, Carrollton, Grapevine and North Fort Worth.

The report shows this: Cotton—Ninety per cent of 1904 crop. Good condition. All will be shipped. Oats—Forty per cent increase in acreage over 1904. Condition good; 30 per cent for shipment.

Wheat—Large increase over 1904. Large crop, good condition. Half to two-thirds will be shipped. Melons—Very few for market. Apples—None for market.

Conditions in the Birmingham district are shown by the following: Cotton—Seventy per cent of 1904 crop. Poor condition. Greater portion for shipment. Corn—Fifteen per cent increase over 1904 crop. None for shipment. Oats—None for shipment. Melons—None for shipment. Apples—None for market.

PENSION PLAN FOR LETTER CARRIERS

I. Z. Wallace of This City Starts Movement—This City Is After Convention

I. Z. Wallace of this city, who will introduce before the national meeting of letter carriers at Portland Sept. 4, a plan for the establishment of pensions for letter carriers who have been in the service twenty years, has issued a letter to all letter carriers throughout the country calling attention to the plan, which provides for the payment of a portion of salaries into a fund from which the pensions are drawn. With the indorsement of the national convention he is confident the matter can successfully be put through congress.

In the same letter Mr. Wallace calls attention to the intention of Fort Worth to seek the next national gathering and calls upon carriers of the country to support the city for the place, urging the fact that a convention has never been held further south than Chattanooga and Louisville.

Co-operation of the board of trade and other organizations is declared assured and ample accommodations and entertainment in true Texas style is promised. The letter, which has just been completed will be sent to all cities having a free delivery of mail.

I Cure Men and Women

WITHOUT THE KNIFE, LOSS OF BLOOD OR DETENTION FROM BUSINESS. With the dozens of cures made at your very door, as well as hundreds in this section, and the fact of being a Home Specialist with a reputation to maintain, having all the up-to-date electrical and other devices for successfully curing diseases in my special line, you will find I can save you a great amount of money compared to what you formerly had to pay, as you were compelled to go to some of the larger centers to find an office equipped to do the high grade work of a specialist.

You may have been told by some doctor or so-called specialist that you had an incurable condition, and possibly the advice was correct from the source it came, but having cured many such cases, I ask you to lay aside whatever prejudice you may have and come to my office for a personal examination and investigation. It will cost you nothing and it may be the means of saving you many days of suffering as well as prolonging your life.

I CURE MEN

Of Gonorrhoea in from 3 to 8 days; Varicocele in from 5 to 15 days; Gleet, Stricture, Weakness, Drains, Impotency, Kidney, Bladder and other private conditions in the shortest possible time.

I CURE WOMEN

Of Falling of Womb, Ovarian Troubles, Backaches, Suppression, Painful Menstruation, Irregularities, Leucorrhoea (whites), Blood, Nervous and other diseases of a private nature.

I CURE CHRONIC DISEASES OF MEN AND WOMEN

Such as rheumatism, asthma, kidney, bladder, piles, other rectal troubles, liver, catarrh of stomach, nose and catarrhal deafness. Fit glasses to difficult cases, and other chronic conditions. You know if you suffer. It is useless to enumerate all the special or chronic conditions man is heir to, therefore if you have anything that you do not understand or have not been able to get cured, come and let me examine you.

ARE YOU RUPTURED? Do you need a good truss, or do you want to get well of this condition? If so, call. References of cured cases right here in the city. ALL TRUSSES GUARANTEED OR YOUR MONEY BACK.

If you were going to buy a pair of shoes you would not go to a drug store to find them; if you wanted a buggy you certainly would not go to a hat store to get it, and so with diseases—if you have a fever, you do not want to go to a specialist to get cured, but if you have something wrong that the specialist has spent his life to be able to do, you should exercise the same good judgment and so where you know you can expect to get what you want without experiments.

As said before, I have been located here for some years, and I expect to remain here and be identified with all there is in the city. You certainly cannot think I would make pretensions to do what I could not and expect to remain here and have my old patients bring me new work, as they do every day. I give them results and therefore they are glad to lead others to where they know great good can be had. My references are the banks and business people with whom I have been connected here as well as other places, and the thousands of cured patients in Texas and the Southwest.

You have noted from time to time the many representative people who have said what results they have received, and if I promise to cure you after an examination, I will back it with a contract that you would expect from any other business in the world. My prices are within the reach of all and I invite the closest investigation.

Auditorium Notes

This week has been another record-breaker at auditorium headquarters. Votes have continued to pour in every day from contestants and their friends. Secretary Brown Harwood has been in receipt of several letters during the past week enclosing money to be credited to the young ladies in this contest.

Fort Worth today ranks as one of the leading cities of Texas. It needs a convention hall to entertain its conventions that meet here every year. It would be a great benefit to this city to have this convention hall. There is no city in Texas that has one, and if this auditorium is built Fort Worth can succeed in getting every convention that comes to Texas.

Fort Worth today is the largest railroad center in the state; is the live stock center of the great southwest, and the only city in the state that can boast of having two of the largest packeries in the southwest, with a pay roll of over $15,000 per week. The citizens of Fort Worth should realize this fact and should also realize that every dollar that they spend in this cause is for the upbuilding of their home town.

Texas is the largest state in the union, and the citizens of Fort Worth should bind themselves together and make Fort Worth the largest city in Texas, and the building of this great auditorium will have a tendency to bring people here from all over the country, and the upbuilding thus secured will be of great benefit to our city.

The auditorium committee wishes to impress upon every citizen of Fort Worth the importance of building this contest a success. It has been a grand success so far, and with the united effort of the citizenship of Fort Worth enough money can be realized to give the committee a good start in the building of this auditorium.

Every one realizes that these prizes that the auditorium committee are giving away in this contest are valuable. The first prize, a handsome piano, any young lady should be proud to have. The second prize, a trip to Portland and $100 in gold is quite an item. The third prize is a horse, buggy and harness, and is something that will please most anyone. The fourth prize, a handsome diamond ring, will add beauty and admiration to the hand of any young lady and is well worth working for.

In years to come, and after this grand auditorium is built, it will be a great labor to the young lady winners in the contest and their friends to know that they were the main factors in building this grand structure. It is something that will stand forever as a living monument to the young ladies in this contest and the citizens of Fort Worth.

IN THE RACE TO WIN

Secretary Brown Harwood received the following letter from an admirer of Miss Cassie Boswell:

NORTH FORT WORTH, Aug. 17.—As it seems in order for the friends of the young lady contestants to respond to their assistance in the auditorium contest, you can place 1,000 votes to the credit of Miss Cassie Boswell and draw on me for $50. We desire to have it understood that Miss Boswell is in the race to win and her friends will see to it that she will do so.

THEATRICAL SEASON TO OPEN AUG. 23

Less than ten days until the theatrical season for Fort Worth opens Aug. 23, to be exact—and it is still hot enough to blister the soles of a sandalwood. But heat doesn't count when the show bills begin going up.

It might as well begin reminding now that you're not going to spend your money foolishly on shows this winter—only pick out the good ones, like you've been determining to do for the past ten seasons. Good resolutions always make you feel comfortable the first night and they never last long enough after that to worry anybody.

But, by the ticket, there are going to be some good shows on the boards for Fort Worth this fall, next winter and the coming spring. Wait until you see the list.

Last year wasn't half bad, even if Madge Adams, Lottie Carter, Lillie Russell and Hen Irving did overlook Panther City in making out their show books. This year is going to be better. Last year was the winter-up for a series of mediocre plays and Fort Worth, being on the provincial circuit, got some of the worn-out, frayed-edged, muddle-joked musical comedies that ought to have been sent to the moth ball bin ages ago.

Nineteen hundred and five-six will be a season of new shows and Fort Worth will not be behind when it comes to getting a share.

Whether it gently Ella Wheeler Wilcox makes her debut as a playwright this winter and Mr. Tim Murphy has found a new vehicle, as they say in the press agent's advance sheets.

Here is some of the other late gossip dramatic.

Willie Collier is in London for an indefinite run. He is said to have made a hit there. Some three years ago he made a one-night stand in Fort Worth.

They say William A. Brady has found a great play for Grace George.

Blanch Bates is to have a new play, the scene of which is laid in the west. Robert Hillard will be leading man.

And now they say that yearn about Ethel Everywhere's coming marriage is a joke and announce instead that she is to play the mother of two children next year.

Robert Mantel is going to Australia in the spring. Last spring Mantel's Shakespearean roles swept a few New York critics off their feet and they said extravagantly pleasing things about him.

Louisa G. Charlton announces as his stars for the 1905-06 season: Harold Bauer, pianist; Alfred Reisenauer, pianist; Marie Nichols, violinist; Elsa Rugege, cellist; Frank Rogers, baritone; Kelley Cole, tenor; Mme. Gadsdel, soprano; Mme. Katherine Flisk, contralto; E. M. Shotwell, Poper, soprano; Clarence Eddy, organist; Ellison Van Hoose, tenor; David Esplan, tenor; Mrs. George Wassal, composer.

William Gillett's new play, "Clarice," will be produced at the Shakespearean theater Liverpool on Sept. 4. Mr. Gillett and his company sail Aug. 18 on the Cadiz.

Fay Davis has returned from Europe and started rehearsals in Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman," in which she appears with Robert Loraine. In addition to rehearsing, Miss Davis will play her original part in "Mrs. Loftingwell's Boats" during its brief engagement at the Lyceum theater, New York.

Charles Frohman announces that the title of August Thomas' new play for John Drew is "De Lanese." It is an American comedy in three acts.

PICTURES THAT SHOW THE EFFECT OF THE ORDEAL ON THE DEFENDANT.

These photographs, one taken months ago and the other during the progress of the trial at Wooster, give some idea of the torture which the ordeal has brought to Mrs. Taggart. Lines hitherto unknown now show in her face and the expression of her eyes has been greatly changed. In conversation her smile is bright and the change is not so noticeable, but the lines show when her face is in repose.

TAGGART DIVORCE CASE SHOWS HIGH LIFE IN ARMY

earlier part of their wedded lives, should be so tarnished, appears to me to be both remarkable and pathetic."

Praises Taggart

Judge Eason paid a handsome tribute, and at the same time one that reflected greatly upon his own powers of observation, to Major Taggart. He said that the beginning and up to within a day or so of the closing of his examination, his answers had been clear, pointed and consistent. He had responded to the mental strain and the torment delivered to his tenderest sentiments, and his answers had not been up to their previous standard. In fact his emotions, manifest as they were, of expression and endurance, had dealt harshly with his former spirit.

The judge was impressed evidently with Taggart's character as discovered through his long and trying medium. He noted that his letters written to his wife were in the most beautiful and affectionate manner he had ever heard read anywhere in a suit for divorce.

At the conclusion of this Judge Eason declined to release Bash, Miner or Fortescue from the crime charged against them. In the exact language of the court the sense of which is alone contained in this report, were found amicable sentences throughout.

His ruling was a piece of literature worthy of a supreme judge and was given from a few notes, without a page written out.

Army Post Habits

He only added at its conclusion, that because of the fringe of dissipation that surrounds army posts, the habits, as to drinking of both Major Taggart and his wife would not mitigate against them materially. While he deplored military conditions in this respect, he recognized them as a condition for which the plaintiff and defendant were not alone responsible.

Depositions occupied the remainder of the forenoon session. Captain Bash denied all and every allegation against him by Major Taggart and Augustina De La Cruz as to his relations with Mrs. Taggart in Manila, and gave the major and wife a good reputation. Captain Bash testified like a truly military personage, straight and direct. His testimony may have considerable weight.

Lieutenant Fortescue's deposition did practically the same thing. Some admissions were, however, made by him. He said Captain Poor sent him away from Taggart's home and that he did not dance with Mrs. Taggart all the time at the Colonial Post hospital.

He held the Candle

He held the candle while Mrs. Taggart went into the cellar after ice. He did go down the cellar steps a short way, just to give her light. He said Mrs. Taggart had a lighted candle in the cellar and that he did not drink more than five high balls that night. Mrs. Taggart drank very little, he said that she was not intoxicated when he left the house. In cross-examination he claimed he had been on the "water wagon" because he had been attending the staff college. He after that got four months leave and went abroad.

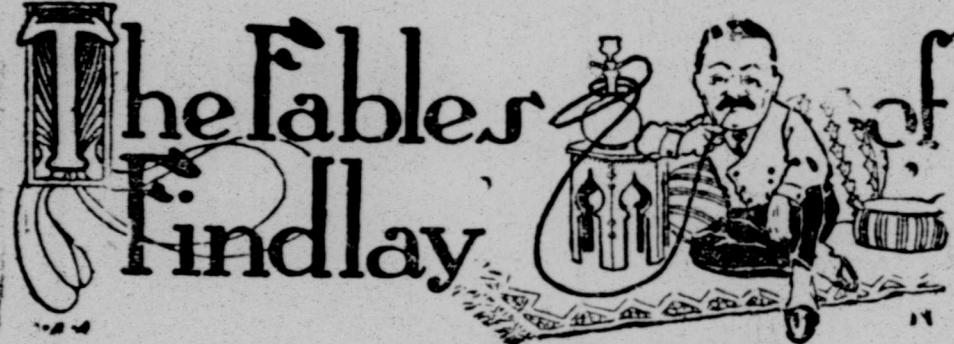

Shortly before adjournment the attorneys for Captain Taggart objected to the introduction of testimony by the defendant looking towards affording the defendant any affirmative relief, in other words, looking towards giving her a divorce.

Attorneys Stirling and Wertz assert that the cross petition of Mrs. Taggart does not state facts, giving the court jurisdiction, under the laws of Ohio. The point was not raised until Mrs. Taggart's attorneys were about to introduce testimony in her behalf. Should the condition of Lawyers Wertz and Stirling, be correct, Mrs. Taggart will not be in shape to secure any relief.

Judge Smyser stated today that in his belief the case will not continue over two weeks longer. Mrs. Taggart will be on the stand at least four days, perhaps five, and the twenty-five witnesses may be cleared up in six days' time, while the arguments may take up as much as three days. This may be shortened, however, as occasion arises.

THE THOUGHTLESS WIFE

One day, Adam returned home very tired and discouraged. He had thrown clubs all the afternoon and brought down only two measly coconuts, and it was Hard Times. Putting his dinner pail in a niche in the cave, he turned crossly toward Eve and asked:

"Was that a serpent I just saw leaving this house?"

"Why no," said Eve, not noticing the jealousy in his tone, "it was only little Abel raising Cain over the rocks with the lawn hose."

"Good thing!" snorted Adam. "I hate snakes."

But Eve was too happy to heed his jealousy. Bubbling over with delight, she came forward with something brown and smoking in her hands. Hitching around her goatskin to make it set straight, she cried in glee:

"See, Adam, what I've made! A pie! A great fat pie! Isn't it lovely? Oh, you needn't say that it isn't like what your mother used to make. Just smell of it. Isn't it glorious?"

"What sort of pie?" growled Adam.

"Why," said Eve, blushing, "apple."

"Great Caesar! I hate apples," roared Adam, and he whipped on his hat and rushed off into the brush, where they heard him swearing and thrashing about for four whole days and nights.

The moral of this, which is largely for young wives, is that the wise housekeeper always consults the early tastes of those whom she entertains.

THE UNCONSCIOUS PHILANTHROPIST.

Once upon a time there lived a Pompous Ass who believed that he was a Superior Person.

When he saw that People were happy and contented and natural, he sneered, and pitied their ignorance.

The Simple Life he labeled Barbarism and the Strenuous Existence he declared was only for Posers.

He announced that there could be no human love without Passion for its chief ingredient, and when a doubter asked "How about the love of a Mother for her Child?" he said that that was animal instinct.

He criticised Art until he believed that there could be no good art.

He denounced the really great singers because of their professionalism and called all amateurs "raw and uninteresting."

He cast a book into the fire because its author had made the hero say "s'death" at a period when the exclamation should have been "damn."

He talked of Huxley, Kant and Herbert Spencer, when, in truth, he understood their great thoughts as little as a green frog comprehends the Fifth Dimension.

On his deathbed he told the doctor that Progress in the Science of Medicine ended with the Death of Jenner, and seemed almost happy when he passed away at 2 p. m., the physician having asserted that he could not last until noon.

The moral is that even a Pompous Ass may become an Unconscious Philanthropist—by dying.

TOURIST RECORD SHOWS GAIN IN TRAFFIC

More Than 70,000 Visitors at Mineral Wells Up to the First of July

Special to The Telegram. MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Aug. 19.—From the passenger depot of the Mineral Wells railway it is learned that about 30 per cent increase in the number of visitors handled this year over that of the last is noted. The number of tickets sold to June 30, 1904, was 52,821, while the year ending last June 30, shows the round number of 72,168. Of course this does not mean that those are the only visitors who come to the Wells, for it is safely estimated that 10,000 to 15,000 annually come here by private conveyance.

Boy Breaks Arm

Little Oswald Wilson fell from his bicycle at a sudden turn yesterday, near the Crazy well, and broke his right arm in two places.

Died While Asleep

O. P. Arnold of Cleburne, aged 78 years, was found dead upon the front porch at the Ramsey house this morning. The examining physician says he must have fallen asleep and his heart's action ceased while in that condition.

Cleaning Up Town

Mayor Highsmith and the street commissioner have been the busiest men in the city for the past ten days. The streets and gutters are much cleaner and all weeds are cut, while a large force of men are doing service putting cinders and gravel on West Wichita street and other streets of the city. Several new bridges are also being built over "the Canal" street, much to the public's benefit.

New Planing Mill

Hugh Martin & Co. of Celeste moved a complete planing mill outfit to Mineral Wells in July, and now some fine grade of work is being done by this new plant, the only one in the city.

State Officials Visit Wells

Governor Lanham, Land Commissioner J. J. Terrell, Judge M. M. Brooks and Horace Chilton were among the visitors last week.

RATHSKELLER OUT OF SALOON LIMITS

Plans of the Sloan Apartment House Changed Because of New City Regulation

Because the new saloon limits extend only to the west side of Throckmorton street, including the Sloan apartment house now undergoing construction at Seventh street, plans for building the structure have been revised, it being decided to abandon the Rathskeller planned for the basement of the building.

Information to this effect was received from the office of W. Smith, architect, Saturday afternoon.

It was at first intended to have a private apartment for drinking in the northeast corner of the basement. Inasmuch as the new charter forbids the sale of liquor in the locality this part of the building will be left unfinished or will be utilized for some other purpose. The restaurant will be placed on the first floor.

Excavations for the Sloan apartment are almost complete. Work on the erection of the $60,000 brick and stone structure will begin soon.

HOUSTON ENDORSED

Correct Treatment & Absolute Cure for Alcohol and Drug Addictions

Can be obtained at the White Sanitarium in Dallas in from five to ten days' time after all other methods of treating these habits have been tried WITHOUT SUCCESS. The methods employed at this institution are RATIONAL, CORRECT and THOROUGHLY RELIABLE and are not to be confounded with "Free Trial Samples," "Home Treatments" or like propositions which are being daily exploited through various mediums.

The physicians in charge at the White Sanitarium have made the treatment and cure of the Alcoholic and Drug Habits a life-long study and they have ORIGINATED, DEVELOPED and PERFECTED methods of eliminating these addictions that have proven their INESTIMABLE VALUE in the VERY WORST CASES and ABSOLUTE and PERMANENT CURES have been effected in EVERY INSTANCE. Furthermore, they offer their services on a basis that NO OTHER INSTITUTION CAN, inasmuch that they propose to give you a CAREFUL PERSONAL EXAMINATION, TAKE CARE OF YOU at their SANITARIUM, give you EVERY ATTENTION and pay all of your NECESSARY EXPENSES, yet they will not exact you to PAY THEM ONE CENT until you are satisfied that you ARE SOUNDLY and PERMANENTLY CURED. There can be no fairer proposal than this, then why not take active steps TODAY toward ridding yourself of these terrible addictions.

Gentlemen—The treatment you gave me for drug habit last December was a perfect success and I think your remedy for whisky and drug habit the greatest thing in the world. A few days cured me of morphine habit and elevated me from a physical wreck to a well and stout woman. I am in fine health and to all I praise your work to the highest and am willing that you publish this for the good of others. Sincerely yours,

MRS. J. M. JARVIS.

Address: WHITE SANITARIUM, DALLAS, TEXAS.

I have been a victim of the ruinous habit of morphine. It robbed me of my health, strength and happiness and life for me had no charm. I came to White Sanitarium and in less than one week was a well and happy woman. The first dose destroyed all appetite for the drug, and I suffered no pain from the treatment. My strength came to me rapidly, and I am now doing heavy housework, and life was never sweeter and brighter to me. I hope all sufferers will avail themselves of this wonderful cure. Very truly,

MRS. M. J. TROLLINGER.

White Sanitarium, Dallas, Texas.

Gentlemen—Since I have been engaged in the practice of medicine I have treated inebriety in various forms, whisky and drug addictions, also I have investigated as fully as I could every cure offered the public for these addictions. I recommend yours as best of any known to me. The effects is marvelous. Your patients suffer no inconvenience and leave you rejoicing. Very truly yours,

AFTER 52 YEARS

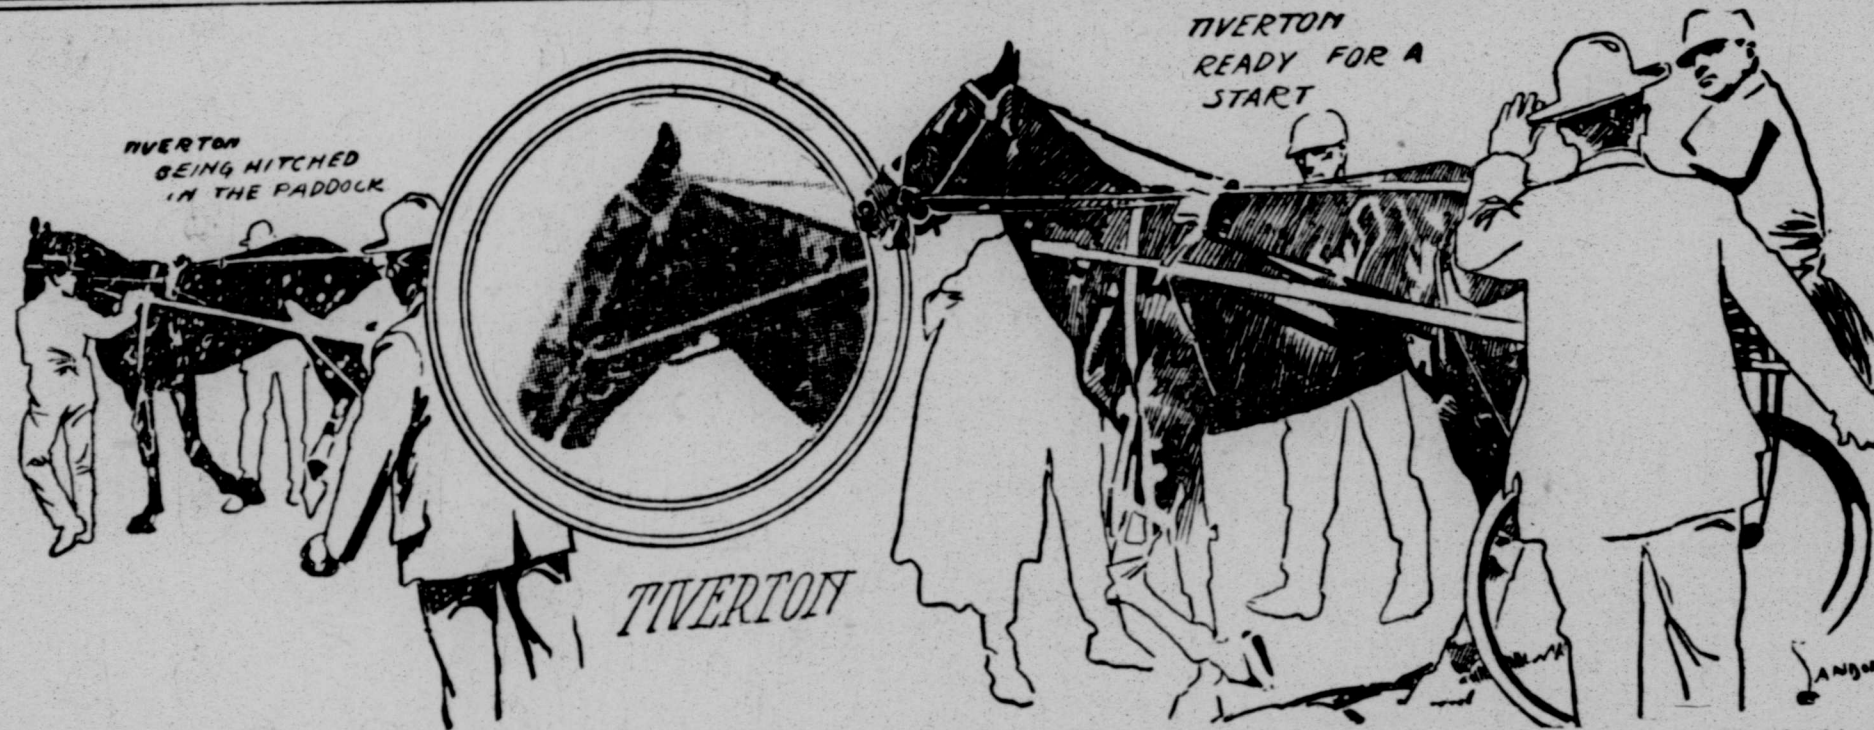

Of success in curing Stomach, Liver and Bowel disorders, you ought not have any doubt as to the ability of the Bitters to cure you. Then why delay, and thus prolong your suffering and make a cure so much harder?

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

has proven its worth so many times that we do not hesitate in saying that it will cure you, too. Try it today. For Sick Headache, Indigestion, Costiveness, Biliousness, Dyspepsia or Malarial Fever

It is excellent. Weak women are also strengthened by using the Bitters each month.

Nothing has proved the greatness of Tiverton more than his match races with Sweet Marie this year. His consistent performances have brought him to the front as the season's grand circuit sensation. The pair first met at Belmont Park, Philadelphia, where Tiverton won in straight heats. Later, they met again, and in one of the greatest races in trotting horse history the mare won. At Buffalo the big horse was the favorite over Sweet Marie and proved worthy of the public's confidence by winning. The work of Tiverton for the rest of the season will be watched closely.

Stories About William McKinley

The Martyr President's Simplicity. "Then I'm One of the Boys".... "Is William In?"... Captain Jack Philip's Father

By MARSHALL P. WILDER

From "The Sunny Side of the Street," by Marshall P. Wilder. Copyright, 1925, by Funk & Wagnell Company.

Marshall P. Wilder.

SOME years ago while entering a New York hotel to call on Mrs. Patti I chanced to meet in the corridor William McKinley, who was then governor of Ohio, though his New York acquaintances still called him "major." His was one of the big, broad natures that put all of a man's character in full view, and there was a great lot in McKinley's face that day—thoughtfulness, self reliance, strength, honesty. He greeted me very cordially, and as I was smiling broadly he asked:

"What pleases you, Marshall?"

"The fact that I am shaking hands with the future president of the United States," I replied.

"I'm One of the Boys."

Some years afterward when Mr. McKinley had fulfilled my prophecy I was the guest of D. A. Loring, at Lake Champlain, and the president and most of his cabinet were at the same hotel. Besides Mr. and Mrs. McKinley, there were Vice President and Mrs. Hobart, Secretary of War Alger and Mrs. Alger, Postmaster General Gary and Mrs. Gary, Cornelius N. Bliss, secretary of the Interior, and others. Every one at the hotel treated the distinguished guest with the greatest consideration by letting him entirely alone, so that he got the rest he sorely needed.

One day I went into the bowling alley to spend half an hour or more with the boys who set up the pins. Boys are always my friends, and I was going to do some card and sleight of hand tricks for these little fellows. Just as I had gathered them about me and started to amuse them Mr. McKinley came to the door and looked in, smiled, came over to us and asked what was going on. I replied:

"Well, Mr. President, I was just doing some tricks to amuse the boys."

"Then I'm one of the boys," said the president of the United States. He sat down in the circle and was one of my most attentive auditors. When I had finished, he walked apart with me and said:

"Marshall, do you remember meeting me in the Windsor hotel, New York, and saying you were shaking hands with the future president of the United States?"

"I recall it very distinctly," I replied.

A Lover-like Devotion.

"I have just been thinking," he said, "of that to me—strange prophecy. You must be possessed of some clairvoyant power." There are some things you can't tell a man to his face, so I didn't explain to him that a man with a character like his couldn't help becoming president when the whole country had come to know him.

I shall never forget what I saw of his lover-like devotion to his invalid wife, nor her evident gratitude for his every service, nor the sweet solicitude and pride with which she regarded him. One day his brother Abner arrived, went to the portion of the hotel reserved for the president, met Mrs. McKinley and asked:

"Is William in?"

"Yes," was the reply, "but I shall not let you see him for an hour. He is resting."

Jack Philip's Father.

A little incident that was described to me by an eyewitness brought out one of the qualities which endeared President McKinley to his fellow countrymen. While on a brief visit across the lake in Vermont he was driving through a small city, followed by a great procession of people who had turned out in his honor. While passing through the main street he noticed an old man seated on the piazza of a modest dwelling and asked the mayor, who was beside him in the carriage:

"Who is that old gentleman?"

"That is Mr. Philip, father of Captain Philip of the battleship Texas," was the reply.

The carriage stopped, and so did the mile or more of procession, while the president jumped out unassisted, ran up the steps, grasped the hand of the astonished and delighted old man and said:

"Mr. Philip, I want to congratulate you on having such a son as Captain Philip, and I feel that the thanks of the nation are due you for having given the world such a brave, patriotic man."

The old man, tremulous with gratification, could scarcely find words with which to thank the head of the nation for his appreciative attention, but the president's simple, friendly manner quickly put him at his ease, and the two men chatted freely for several minutes, the president evidently enjoying it keenly. Then, after a hearty invitation to visit him at the White House, Mr. McKinley got into his carriage, and the procession again started.

AT THE DAYLIGHT STORE

DR. DEPEW'S WARNING HEED--The Pursuit of Wealth Abandoned

Senator Depew recently warned young men not to pursue wealth but "higher and nobler ideals," which evoked the retort that man would look well going to do his family marketing with a bunch of higher and nobler ideals as collateral. Look well he might, but how he would feel we can conjecture. In making the offerings hereunder listed, however, we are certainly not pursuing wealth; possibly some of those "higher and nobler ideals" are the end in view. Be that as it may, It Calls for Mighty Little Collateral to Obtain Values Such as These

And bargain attractions of the most exceptional character will abound in every department. We propose to crowd the store tomorrow as it has never been crowded before and if you are mindful of your own best interests you will certainly be among the throngs of pleased purchasers who will invade the Daylight Store Monday. The merchandise we offer is of that high standard always to be found here at the prices quoted. The Daylight Store should be first on your list of shopping places tomorrow.

WATER PROBLEM SOLVED BY CITY

Most Important Municipal Question Has Been Successfully Met

"One never misses the water until the well goes dry."

When a Fort Worth citizen turns on his hydrant and receives the flow of pure artesian water, coming from a practically unlimited source, he does not realize that only a few years ago the water question was a serious one in the city and at times it required close analysis to determine whether it was mud or water which was being pumped through the mains.

Water troubles galore confronted the city before Daniel Mead installed his now famous system of underground tunneling, connecting with more than 8,000 feet of tunneling eleven artesian wells.

The Mead system which at present supplies Fort Worth has a capacity of 3,000,000 gallons of water, while with the two new wells west of the city this amount is increased by 550,000 gallons. With the installation of additional machinery at the new wells and the boring of one or more additional wells as outlined the capacity of the Fort Worth waterworks will reach 6,000,000 gallons.

Fort Worth's first real waterworks, situated near the wire suspension bridge, was owned and operated up to 1883 by Moran Jones and others. In that year it was purchased by the city. Only a small part of what is now Fort Worth was covered by water mains, the pipes extending mostly through the business section of the city.

Pumping was carried on with varying success by a system of gang wells in the bed of the river up to 1887. In dry seasons when the river was low it was almost impossible to get water. Citizens well remember the time when the water was turned on for only a few hours a day, early in the morning and late in the afternoon. Seeing that the river as a source of water was inadequate, the city then sunk thirteen artesian wells in the river bottom.

To increase this supply a series of four dams were placed in the Clear Fork, a few miles apart, extending from the present site of the waterworks to Cold Springs, west of the city. These dams, built of concrete, were constructed by John Bardon in 1894, with John R. Hawley as consulting engineer.

Still the water supply was poor. Fort Worth was rapidly growing and city physician and officers realized that a serious problem must be solved.

D. W. Mead then made the offer to guarantee a supply of three million gallons by his proposed system of connecting the wells underground, bringing them to a common point from which water could be pumped. He offered to do the work for $110,000 and his proposition was accepted.

To this work Fort Worth's present unexcelled water supply is due.

Due to some controversy in regard to whether or not the supply has reached fully 3,000,000 gallons, Mead has never been paid fully for the work, $17,500 being retained by the city.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Another good baseball story is going the rounds since W. H. Ward has kindly thrown open the gates to the women.

One fair devotee sat through a portion of a recent game shrieking with wild enthusiasm at every play and applauding indiscriminately.

As the game progressed the visitors' score appearing upon the board was 1-0-1-0-0, while Fort Worth for the fifth time blanked and her companion said: "Too bad, we need one badly."

"Oh, I don't know," she chirped. "They only have ten thousand one hundred and ten and we have eleven thousand."

THERMOMETER HITS 102 DEGREE MARK

Hottest Weather of Year Recorded at 4 O'clock Saturday Afternoon

Temperature at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon was 102 degrees.

New figures were hung in the 1905 weather record Saturday, when the thermometer climbed above the former highest point reached, passed the century mark and went beyond two degrees before falling back.

Temperature's climb was a steady one throughout the day, each hourly reading until 4 o'clock showing an increase.

Reading at the weather bureau through the day were:

Degrees.	Degrees.
7 a. m. 76	12 noon..... 95
8 a. m. 80	1 p. m. 98
9 a. m. 82	2 p. m. 99
10 a. m. 87	3 p. m. 100
11 a. m. 92	4 p. m. 102

On the street the thermometers, not supplied with the protection enclosing Uncle Sam's instrument went to all sorts of figures, quotation of them, however, being unavailing as showing the true heat. A steady breeze from the south throughout the day made comfort possible, despite the temperature, and but little complaint of the heat was made.

Other weather hotter than that of Saturday has been experienced here. Last

BEAUTIFUL ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

TEMPEL,
DICKINSON
& MODLIN

Exclusive Agents
For the Sale of the Property in

Arlington Heights

213-215 Wheat Bldg.
Phone: 769

We are now the exclusive agents for the sale of the property in this beautiful addition to Fort Worth.

We have agreed to handle this property, because we sincerely believe in the future of Arlington Heights as the fashionable residence suburb of Fort Worth.

It is only 15 minutes by street car, which is guaranteed, from the business section of the city. We will guarantee the building of the street car line, either by inserting a provision to that effect in your deed, or by leaving in the bank the money you pay for Arlington Heights property, until the street car line is built.

Arlington Heights has an abundant supply of pure artesian water and an adequate electric light plant, to be added to as needed, and other conveniences of the city, without the burden of the city's heat, dust, noise and taxes.

With Lake Como, the Country Club and a handsome and modern amusement pavilion to be erected at once, Arlington Heights will be also by far the most popular amusement resort in Fort Worth.

We can sell you building sites, either large or small, single lots or whole blocks, cheap and on very easy terms. Why pay from $2000.00 to $10,000.00 for a residence lot in the city when we can sell you five times as much property for much less in Arlington Heights and give you all city conveniences? An abstract showing a perfect title will be furnished with each purchase.

Property at the Heights is cheap, and should be attractive alike to those who want beautiful residence sites, to the speculator who looks to enhancement in value, and to the person of small means who wants to save money.

Fort Worth is bound to make a remarkable growth each year. Desirable building sites in Fort Worth are already scarce and high-priced. The opening up of Arlington Heights, located on an eminence 200 feet above the city, is the true solution of the question. Arlington Heights is destined to be the altogether first-class residence suburb of Fort Worth.

There are plenty of good people with fine homes at Arlington Heights already and numbers of others are buying lots, intending to build without delay.

The success of Arlington Heights as a high-class residence district is not predicted upon the location there of any factories, machine shops or other kindred institutions

Don't wait until the choicest property is taken. Buy now while you can make most advantageous selections.

If you already have homes in Fort Worth let us sell them for you and then buy larger and better building sites at Arlington Heights for less money.

Think it over, come to see us. Look at ARLINGTON HEIGHTS.

CITIZENS HEAR ARGUMENTS ON FRANCHISE QUESTION

Mass Meeting at Court House Addressed By Judge Armstrong, A. H. McCarty and Wm. Orr

JUDGE ARMSTRONG EXPLAINS REQUEST

McCarty, While Opposing Franchise Tax, Resents Giving Privilege for Nothing — Orr Favors Municipal Ownership

About 8:30 last night a crowd of probably two hundred citizens gathered on the front steps of the county court house, where it was understood that a discussion of the Armstrong light and power franchise question was to take place. The franchise will be voted on at the first referendum election under Fort Worth's new charter, Aug. 29. After talking the matter over with several men present, Judge Armstrong addressed the assembled voters as to the proper place for the discussion to take place and ended by calling for a vote by show of hands as to whether it would be promulgated on the front steps or in Judge Smith's court room on the second floor. The vote was unanimous for the speakers to be heard on the inside, the audience proceeded upstairs.

Armstrong Speaks First

George W. Armstrong, being introduced, stated the object of the meeting to be the discussion of the franchise by himself and Messrs. McCarty and Orr. Judge Armstrong explained to those present that he had not made a public address for some time and asked for the exercise of patience on the part of his hearers in listening to a statement of a few plain, pointed and honest facts and opinions to be proved by facts.

Continuing, he said:

"After the application of the company which I represent here tonight has been made, Sam Davidson made application for a franchise along the same lines as set forth in our application, but with a few important exceptions. At that time I openly charged the Davidson franchise as applied for was in the interest of the Fort Worth Light and Power Company. The charges mentioned have never been answered, although I published them through the daily press of the city.

Orr's Challenge

"In coming here tonight I did not do so in order to engage in a discussion of the question of municipal ownership, but for the purpose of getting the other side to unmask. Mr. Orr in a published challenge issued in yesterday evening's paper, gave me the impression that I was going to be 'eaten up alive' here tonight. I stated that I would not agree to meet them, except as the representatives of the Fort Worth Light and Power Company. Mr. Orr stated that he would come as a representative of the people. I objected that he could not pose as a representative of the people against the Armstrong franchise proposition.

Changed His Speech

"The speech that I will make tonight is not the one that I had intended to make, and I want to say right here that I don't want to be sidetracked in this matter by any discussion of the municipal ownership question. I believe I will set a time when another discussion of every phase of the matter can be had. I want now to make an appointment to meet the gentlemen Tuesday night in an open-air discussion and to hamper competition by having to do all the talking myself.

"Mr. Samuels is said to make the assertion that he is not in the pay of the Light and Power Company, but if he is not in their employ, he is being used as a tool and is lacking in the foresight that I have given him credit with possessing heretofore. Before entering into the active discussion of the franchise question, I wish to say again that it is not my wish to be ignored or side-tracked. They are paying enough attention to me as it is, but what I desire most of all is a fair discussion of every side of the franchise, giving the people a chance to hear both sides in order that they may be better able to decide this question in an unbiased frame of mind. And when this is done, I have no fear of the consequences.

The Franchise Question

"In my talk here tonight I shall discuss the question from the standpoint of the other side. As I understand the word, a franchise is given by a city, allowing the holder or holders of the franchise the right to do certain things with reference to the streets of the city for a given or unlimited length of time, as the case may be. What we ask is to put poles on the streets upon which to string electric lighting wires; pipes under the streets for steam heating purposes and pipes for carrying gas to the houses of the consumers at fixed rates. All this we offer to do under the supervision of a city engineer, giving a $10,000 bond to insure that we will keep our promise that the streets will be left in as good condition after the work is finished as they were before the work was begun. We are not asking for an exclusive franchise at all. If the city wants to grant other parties the right to do the same thing we ask the right to do now at any time in the future there will be room for another company; yes, room for twenty gas companies. If the city decides to enter the business herself, there is nothing to hinder."

A Local Company

Here the judge went into an exhaustive discussion of the aims and objects of the company, stating that it was backed by local capital coming from such men as William Scott, E. D. Farmer, H. C. Edgington, M. D. Watson, G. Y. Smith, R. C. Armstrong, Jr. and himself.

"There is yet about $2,000 of the stock that has not yet been subscribed, but if it is not taken by local people," said the speaker, "Judge R. E. Brooks of Houston is ready to take it and has agreed to do so."

"Again, we ask for a hot water franchise; not now, but with a view of furnishing it to residences when, later, it is in demand. We also want a gas franchise. It had been charged that we are not going to put up a gas plant. This charge is made because they know that the people want competition. The people believe the gas rates in Fort Worth are too high, and in this belief they are correct. A gas plant that would amply supply the demand of the next decade could be put in at a great deal less cost than the plant that we are going to install. If the election of Aug. 29 results in our favor, gas can be produced from Beaumont crude oil and sold for a dollar in Fort Worth. We are going to put in a gas plant and make dollar gas, if the price of crude oil does not greatly advance. So much for what we intend doing for the present.

"Now, let us examine some of the objections urged against this franchise by its enemies.

The Franchise Tax

"The first argument against us is, they say we should be forced to pay a franchise tax. The only result of this method of procedure would be to hamper competition. Suppose that we were forced to pay a franchise tax. We go to the committee and say: 'We must pay our stockholders so much and so much dividends. In the event we placed the price of our stock too high, we would have to pay dividends, who would pay our franchise tax except the consumer? This sort of argument will not hold good with the people, for the people would have to pay. And why should we be made to pay a franchise tax when the Fort Worth Light and Power Company is exempt for thirty years in their light franchise? The right to regulate and fix a scale of prices is of great deal more importance than the franchise tax. This assertion—for it can hardly be called an argument—is a mere ruse, a vote catcher, a snare and a delusion.

Municipal Ownership

"The next objection that is offered to the Armstrong franchise comes in the guise of sincerity and there are a possible great number of people that are honest in presenting it. That is municipal ownership. It is a fact and a well-known one, that there is a sentiment growing over our country that cities should own and operate public utilities (applause) and I see that there are a number of those present who agree with the fact and appear to endorse its teaching (applause and laughter). The question of municipal ownership is one that has appealed to myself in many ways. The conditions appear to be such that the time has come when great industries, like, for instance, the Beaumont oil fields, need the manipulations of a great corporation like the Standard Oil Trust to direct its movements in the franchise field or else the powerful reins of control, the ownership and operation by the United States government. The argument in favor of one of these two is subtle and sounds plausible in the matter of oil, iron, railroads, banks, telegraph and telephone lines and department stores, but it is my candid opinion that, in such case, we should have more graft than is at present detected in official circles.

Fort Worth Water Works

"Let us examine an instance of municipal ownership that will appeal to every citizen of this city who remembers that fourteen years ago the Fort Worth water works plant was taken over by the municipal government for about $300,000, the price being one that afforded profit to the then owners of the plant. Soon the city decided to enlarge the plant. A $600,000 contract was let and recently another hundred thousand dollars was spent in improvements, making the water works plant represent an expenditure of $1,000,000 in consequence of which the city is at present under a bonded indebtedness of $800,000. Municipal ownership of the water works is a failure.

Reasons for Debt

"Right here I want to say that, in my opinion, graft does not exist in the city government of Fort Worth now, but it is likely to show up. The reasons for the failure of municipal ownership I am about to enumerate as follows:

"Mistakes were made. Fort Worth was then in the days of her early glory, when every man thought she would be a city of a million inhabitants much sooner than the same men now expect such a desirable state of affairs.

"One hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars was spent for pumps when not more than $20,000 would have done available service for fifty years.

"A power house was built costing $100,000, when one costing but $20,000 would have done just as well in the meantime.

"The main laid over this bill cost $50,000 when $5,000 would have done the work. Thus, we couldn't have had the main we have for $5,000, but we could have had one that would have done service in an acceptable manner for many years to come.

"I, myself, was a member of the council at that time. I didn't know what I am now explaining. Neither did the remainder of the aldermen. I learned it in the past few months. We had extravagant notions in those days and it has taken time to learn what extravagance will work with the finances of a city when a debt of $800,000 more than is necessary is hanging over our heads at the present time.

Co-Operative Intent of Company

"The Armstrong charter is the next thing to municipal ownership. I purchased space in the papers and paid $30 for an ad explaining that our company desired every consumer of gas to become a stockholder, saying that it was our object to run on the co-operative basis. If every consumer was a stockholder it wouldn't make any difference whether we paid any dividends or not. If we could furnish dollar gas and come out even we would be doing all we desired to accomplish. The public didn't buy stocks and, with the exception of the business men of the city that I have mentioned previously, I own one-third of the stock and $9,000 remains yet to be subscribed. It is not too late by any means for the consumers to become stockholders. This $9,000 of stock is for sale and for sale to any one who cares to become an investor in the company.

"While our franchise does not interfere with the city's going into the business of the same nature or granting others the right to enter the field, it is a fact that Fort Worth cannot do anything like this for at least ten years. In my judgment, this city consumes 250,000 feet of gas daily. If we make $1 or $1.25 gas the reduction will amount to 50 per cent, taking the present price as a basis. One dollar and twenty-five cents a day saved to the tax-payers, that would be one dollar and twenty-five cents not sent to St. Louis, that would be! That also means $3,750 a month, or $45,000 a year! Even should the city go into the business next year, twelve months after we begin business, would not $45,000 saved to the consumers of the city, who are the taxpayers, be a fair price to pay for a franchise?"

A Parting Shot

(Question by Mr. Orr: "What would you consider the net gas profit of the Fort Worth Light and Power Company at the present time to be, Judge?") Judge Armstrong replied that he had not prepared an estimate of the profits of the Light and Power Company, but stated: "I judge that they are spending about 40 to 50 cents per thousand to make gas."

On the 29th of August the people of this city will for the first time in our history be permitted to express themselves as to a question of municipal ownership.

The immediate question to be decided is the granting of a franchise to Judge Armstrong and his associates to construct and operate a plant for the manufacture, distribution and sale of gas, electric lights and heat.

This franchise requires the use of the public streets of Fort Worth, and these streets belong to the people. The streets of this city are its most valuable asset. What does Judge Armstrong propose to give the people in return for this valuable privilege? Absolutely nothing. What does Judge Armstrong ask the people to do for him?

One-Sided Measure.

"He asks you to give him a free hand, he concedes you nothing. The very moment his franchise takes effect your hands are tied for twenty-five years. He may charge for the service, not what it is worth but what the traffic will bear.

"The advocates of the Armstrong franchise generally base their argument on competition—that an additional company will bring competition and cheaper rates.

No Competition.

"This is a delusion, as every one knows who has noticed the facilities with which combinations are formed. Some people are credulous enough to imagine that because we have two electric light companies in Fort Worth that we have competition.

"We also have several ice plants in Fort Worth and we all know what competition has done for us there.

"Tell the cattle raisers and the consumers of meat that we have two packing houses here and high prices for cattle and cheap steak as a consequence. If he is an intelligent man he will tell you to go seek your head.

"Judge Armstrong asks you to give him the right to hold a down hill pull.

"The judge has intimated that my opposition to his franchise does not spring from pure or disinterested motives, and that I am actuated by a desire to further the interests of others who hold or seek similar grants.

Not Interested.

"I am willing to allow for the judge's ignorance on this score, as he nor I have had the benefit of personal acquaintance. And by way of parenthesis, I desire to say that a friend of mine told me that the manager of the Fort Worth Light and Power company after my article appeared looked me up in the city directory to see who I was. And as for Mr. Davidson, I never saw him in my life and am sure that he has never heard of me.

"However, this is not a personal campaign. This is the first time we have had the opportunity to vote on measures instead of men.

"I have previously stated in a newspaper article some of my objections to this franchise and I will now repeat them.

Does Not Protect People.

"I oppose this franchise as I will every other franchise proposed that does not protect the rights of the people.

No Price Limit.

"First, because no limit of price for the service to be rendered is provided for in the franchise.

No Provision Against Sale.

"Second, no provision is made to prevent this franchise from becoming a mere scheme for speculation. There is no provision compelling the erection of the plant or requiring any kind of service or its performance within any given time.

"It's a game of heads I win and tails you lose with Judge Armstrong handling the coin.

No Right to Acquire.

"Third, it contains no provision permitting the city to terminate the franchise by purchase of the plant at the value of its physical property at any period during or at the expiration of the term.

Parading Functions.

"Fourth, I object to this franchise and ask for its defeat because I believe it is wrong for the city to farm out its functions to private individuals. The granting of this franchise is nothing more nor less than the delegating of the power to levy tribute upon the people of this city. It is granting away the power to tax and such powers should only be exercised by government.

Municipal Ownership.

Municipal ownership is nothing new to Fort Worth. We now own and operate our waterworks and our water has become famed far and near. Under private ownership we would probably be drinking Trinity river and at double the price we now pay.

City Has Plant.

"We now own and operate an electric light plant for lighting our streets and since we have the referendum there is nothing to prevent us from extending the service to private individuals.

"The judge says 'the city is not ready to go into that business, nor is it proposing to do so.' I have seen no notice of his appointment as city oracle. And on a question of that kind he is no more of an authority than I am, and he can work no harder against it than I can for it. The referendum makes us equal, Judge, and we both must abide the decision of the people on that score.

Council Regulation.

"The judge has very frequently called attention to the provision in his franchise for regulation of his charges by the city council and I wish to state right here that this provision is not worth the paper it is written upon.

"Mistakes were made in the past when he proposes to furnish comes under section 3 of article 12 of the constitution of Texas, which provides that 'the right to regulate tolls for the use of highways shall never be relinquished or abandoned by the state, but shall always be under legislative control and depend upon legislative authority.' The proposed franchise is a grant of the use of public highways, therefore any legislation, enactment or ordinance regulating the charges of this corporation by the city council would be void and of no effect.

"The recent legislation by the state providing that in certain cities street railways should grant half fare to school children is a recognition of this constitutional provision.

Has One Franchise.

"Another question I wish to propound is why the judge wants another franchise for lighting? He already has one, and I say that is enough for any one man. I will tell you what is the matter—the franchise he now has provides for a tax of two per cent of the gross receipts, and the franchise he now proposes for has this provision eliminated. He wants to swap you the old franchise for this new one, the city to be two per cent loser on every dollar's business."

Opposes Percentage Tax.

In the course of his argument Mr. McCarty also declared himself as opposed to the payment of a franchise tax declaring opposition to any measure by which a poor man living in the outskirts pays an indirect tax in increased price of light to reduce the taxes of the wealthy owner of property in the heart of the city.

Price Excessive.

Judge by the franchise itself, not by what Judge Armstrong promises you, he declared. It may be able at present to control the policy of the company, but you do not know for how long.

Referring to prices, he declared the Southwestern Mechanical company is furnished electricity by the Armour plant at a cost of 2 cents a kilowatt, while Mr. Armstrong proposed to charge from 5 to 12 cents.

William Orr Speaks

William Orr followed Mr. McCarty in a severe arraignment of the Armstrong franchise, in the course of which he made startling charges, which were flatly denied by Mr. Armstrong.

He said: "Ladies and gentlemen and men of Standard Oil tendencies—I propose to discuss what I consider the people's right in the Armstrong franchise ordinance. I had the temerity Sunday to set forth what I thought of municipal ownership of public utilities and its relation to the proposed Armstrong franchise. Monday, much to my surprise, Judge

Armstrong rushed into print with a long article on 'dollar gas' and 'indiscent dreams' and said the motive that actuated me in writing the article was one that had been brought into existence by the Fort Worth Light and Power Company of the Davidson 'gang'—as nice people as are in the city, whom he, nevertheless, designates a gang, by innuendo. It is plain to see he thought I was employed by the Fort Worth Light and Power Company and Davidson 'gang,' trying to defeat the people—unholy because he desires to secure something for nothing—therefore born in corruption and sin.

"I admit I am not a tax payer, and if I am informed correctly Judge Armstrong himself does not live in the city limits." (Cries of "No," from audience.) "Is he a citizen of Fort Worth?"

"I am not as fortunate as Judge Armstrong in the possession of property, and am not fortunate enough to walk into the county office and pay taxes on property. This is because I am a poor boy. Until the other day, when I was deeded a shack for defending a man in a suit against him, I did not own a bit of property. But were that property located in Tarrant county I should come forward promptly at the proper time and pay my tax upon it.

Favors Municipal Ownership

"I am opposed to the city of Fort Worth granting the proposed franchise for two reasons. I believe in municipal ownership and, to give the franchise to Mr. Armstrong would be in direct opposition to what I believe the best policy is true government. I oppose it because I do not believe in donating to any set of men any intangible asset of the city without compensation. The city today is in debt $1,800,000, according to information given me by the city secretary. What is its stock in trade to liquidate this debt? The only thing is its franchises, if we give them away to satisfy the whim or caprice of any man, men of corporation, sooner or later the city will become bankrupt.

"Suppose years ago, when the city began to dash out franchises, they had said: 'We have debt added on us which must be paid. Suppose you pay the city a percentage as franchise tax—2 or 3%—to a franchise tax, differing only in this particular from Mr. McCarty's—suppose the city had levied an annual tax and created a sinking fund? How long would it have taken to wipe out the debt? The indebtedness and reduce your tax of $175 to a minimum? Today the city would be out of debt if when franchises were granted the 'traction company, the telephone company and the light and power company's sinking fund had been created out of a franchise tax.

"I am opposed to the Davidson franchise. Mr. Armstrong has hinted that I deny it. I take this public occasion to deny it. I am opposed to it because it has a maximum price on lights that is too high, and if granted that price will be charged. I am against it as hard as Mr. Armstrong.

"Judge Armstrong says the city is not ripe for municipal ownership. There are none so blind as those who will not see. He argues that the city owns the water works and has a debt and is not in position to entertain the proposition of municipal ownership.

"The water works was built and put in operation under bad management. It was built for a city of 250,000 people when we had a city of 19,000 people. It is beginning to be a paying proposition, and in a few years will have a substantial bonus to liquidate its debts.

"Judge Armstrong says municipal ownership is a delusion. To enlighten him I shall read a letter received from the mayor of Paris, Tenn., for whom I had one time worked." Mr. Orr then read from a letter showing that the town of Paris had a city of 19,000 people. Now it is 200,000 people. The town had adopted municipal ownership of light and water. The plant, the letter declared is now yielding a net revenue to the city of $3,000 to $4,000 a year.

Continuing, he said: "Is municipal ownership successful or not?" He further quoted the mayor of the Tennessee city as saying that no city could afford to give away such valuable rights, and that properly managed they would prove not only a source of revenue, but prevent imposition upon the people.

"If a city of that size can make that return," he said, "the same ratio should be held here, meaning $120,000. This would wipe out our indebtedness in twelve or fifteen years, and with other utilities included, would bring about the result in five years.

"When you select officers in the future, see that they are in favor of municipal ownership. If they are not in favor of it do not tolerate them as officers. I do not mean to criticize the past, but if you will get a good set of business men with municipal ownership they will lift the city out of debt and reduce taxes. Why can't we hitch up our light plant and make the money Armstrong and Davidson expect to make?"

Already Has Franchise

"Mr. Armstrong is asking for a franchise he already has. In January, 1903, the Traders Investment Company got a twenty-five year franchise from the city through its representatives in the white building and agreed that they would pay 2 per cent tax the first ten years and 3 per cent the remainder of the time.

"I am reliably informed that Judge Armstrong told a member of the Fort Worth Light and Power Company to go down to the plant there and take an inventory of the stock and 'if he would sell, taking stock in the company' and Judge Armstrong here interrupted with the question: 'Who informed you?'

"J. C. Lord," was the reply.

"I am also reliably informed he made a proposition to the Citizens Light and Power Company and was turned down because his franchise had the 2 and 3 per cent clauses, and they did not want it."

"Upon the request of Judge Armstrong and Davidson 'gang,' trying to defeat the people—unholy because he desires to secure something for nothing—therefore born in corruption and sin.

"I admit I am not a tax payer, and if I am informed correctly Judge Armstrong himself does not live in the city limits." (Cries of "No," from audience.) "Is he a citizen of Fort Worth?"

"Suppose years ago, when the city began to dash out franchises, they had said: 'We have debt added on us which must be paid. Suppose you pay the city a percentage as franchise tax—2 or 3%—to a franchise tax, differing only in this particular from Mr. McCarty's—suppose the city had levied an annual tax and created a sinking fund? How long would it have taken to wipe out the debt? The indebtedness and reduce your tax of $175 to a minimum? Today the city would be out of debt if when franchises were granted the 'traction company, the telephone company and the light and power company's sinking fund had been created out of a franchise tax.

"I am opposed to the Davidson franchise. Mr. Armstrong has hinted that I deny it. I take this public occasion to deny it. I am opposed to it because it has a maximum price on lights that is too high, and if granted that price will be charged. I am against it as hard as Mr. Armstrong.

"Judge Armstrong says the city is not ripe for municipal ownership. There are none so blind as those who will not see. He argues that the city owns the water works and has a debt and is not in position to entertain the proposition of municipal ownership.

"The water works was built and put in operation under bad management. It was built for a city of 250,000 people when we had a city of 19,000 people. It is beginning to be a paying proposition, and in a few years will have a substantial bonus to liquidate its debts.

"Judge Armstrong says municipal ownership is a delusion. To enlighten him I shall read a letter received from the mayor of Paris, Tenn., for whom I had one time worked." Mr. Orr then read from a letter showing that the town of Paris had a city of 19,000 people. Now it is 200,000 people. The town had adopted municipal ownership of light and water. The plant, the letter declared is now yielding a net revenue to the city of $3,000 to $4,000 a year.

Continuing, he said: "Is municipal ownership successful or not?" He further quoted the mayor of the Tennessee city as saying that no city could afford to give away such valuable rights, and that properly managed they would prove not only a source of revenue, but prevent imposition upon the people.

"If a city of that size can make that return," he said, "the same ratio should be held here, meaning $120,000. This would wipe out our indebtedness in twelve or fifteen years, and with other utilities included, would bring about the result in five years.

"When you select officers in the future, see that they are in favor of municipal ownership. If they are not in favor of it do not tolerate them as officers. I do not mean to criticize the past, but if you will get a good set of business men with municipal ownership they will lift the city out of debt and reduce taxes. Why can't we hitch up our light plant and make the money Armstrong and Davidson expect to make?"

Already Has Franchise

"Mr. Armstrong is asking for a franchise he already has. In January, 1903, the Traders Investment Company got a twenty-five year franchise from the city through its representatives in the white building and agreed that they would pay 2 per cent tax the first ten years and 3 per cent the remainder of the time.

"I am reliably informed that Judge Armstrong told a member of the Fort Worth Light and Power Company to go down to the plant there and take an inventory of the stock and 'if he would sell, taking stock in the company' and Judge Armstrong here interrupted with the question: 'Who informed you?'

"J. C. Lord," was the reply.

"I am also reliably informed he made a proposition to the Citizens Light and Power Company and was turned down because his franchise had the 2 and 3 per cent clauses, and they did not want it."

"Upon the request of Judge Armstrong and Davidson 'gang,' trying to defeat the people—unholy because he desires to secure something for nothing—therefore born in corruption and sin.

"I admit I am not a tax payer, and if I am informed correctly Judge Armstrong himself does not live in the city limits." (Cries of "No," from audience.) "Is he a citizen of Fort Worth?"

"I am not as fortunate as Judge Armstrong in the possession of property, and am not fortunate enough to walk into the county office and pay taxes on property. This is because I am a poor boy. Until the other day, when I was deeded a shack for defending a man in a suit against him, I did not own a bit of property. But were that property located in Tarrant county I should come forward promptly at the proper time and pay my tax upon it.

Favors Municipal Ownership

"I am opposed to the city of Fort Worth granting the proposed franchise for two reasons. I believe in municipal ownership and, to give the franchise to Mr. Armstrong would be in direct opposition to what I believe the best policy is true government. I oppose it because I do not believe in donating to any set of men any intangible asset of the city without compensation. The city today is in debt $1,800,000, according to information given me by the city secretary. What is its stock in trade to liquidate this debt? The only thing is its franchises, if we give them away to satisfy the whim or caprice of any man, men of corporation, sooner or later the city will become bankrupt.

"Suppose years ago, when the city began to dash out franchises, they had said: 'We have debt added on us which must be paid. Suppose you pay the city a percentage as franchise tax—2 or 3%—to a franchise tax, differing only in this particular from Mr. McCarty's—suppose the city had levied an annual tax and created a sinking fund? We would pay the tax. We declined. Now you want to saddle us with a 2 per cent tax—make citizens of Fort Worth while it is white outsiders do not. What is the use of discussing the franchise tax, Mr. McCarty has made an argument that cannot be answered. It's wrong in principle. It's an unjust tax.

"Unless countermanded there will be further speaking on the subject at the city hall, at which time Sidney Samuels or any representative of J. C. Lord or the Citizens' Light and Power Company is invited to be present. Mr. Orr is not invited unless he comes as a representative of the company. I do not invite Mr. McCarty, as I shall meet him elsewhere. I am going to handle those companies at the coming meeting without gloves and I advise them to be present."

CORBETT'S GOSSIP

BY JAS. J. CORBETT

(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Jimmy Gardner proved entirely too good for Rufe Turner when they met on the coast, despite the fact that many experts predicted victory for the colored man. In punching power and cleverness Jimmy had all the best of it.

The sporting public would now like to see Gardner meet some one of the top-notchers. He is too heavy for Britt, but just about right for Joe Gans.

Al Herford insists Gans can make 133 pounds and is entitled to fight Britt, but it has been proven that Joe cannot make the lightweight mark and retain his strength.

In a fight with Gardner Joe would be able to fix the weight at 135 pounds or heavier. And what a battle it would make! Both are experts in leading and blocking, and have had a world of experience.

The value of footwork. Footwork is often overlooked by men preparing for a battle. Most fighters give their attention to handling their hands and the upper part of the body, especially the head.

To the ordinary observer, footwork appears to play little part in a fighter's progress. And very often, the lower limbs are entirely ignored in training.

Did you ever hear Fitzsimmons referred to without reference to that pair of legs he possessed? He knows how to use them as well as his brawny arms. Not many pugilists have upset him.

When Tommy Ryan was coaching Jim Jeffries in crouching and footwork, the idea he drilled into Jeff's ear was to watch Fitz' knee. He never overlooked a chance to repeat the lesson. The result was that when the palm of Jeff's foot touched the floor, he would start a blow which Jeff did not know was coming, and often the big fellow would be off his feet.

I believe this, as much as anything else, won the title for Jeff.

And Jeffries is not the only man who reached the top through being versed in footwork.

When I faced Sullivan at New Orleans

legislation enacted for the future construction of this greatness. Our people are universally pleased and delighted with the location and arrangements of the assembly grounds and every one who came this year went away singing the praises of the camp. The attendance next year will be easily double that of this year.

"The Epworth League has a wonderful future before it in the development of this enterprise and Methodism has a bright future in the establishment of an assembly grounds for the upbuilding of a different at this place."

CAUGHNANAGA WINS THE SARATOGA CUP

Eight Thousand Dollar Prize Goes to Stanch Old Campaigner—Artful Scratched at Eleventh Hour

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The Saratoga cup, worth $8,000, at one mile and six furlongs, one of the oldest fixtures on the American turf calendar for Kentucky, won its first running in 1865, when that valiant old campaigner, Caughnawaga, today after a glorious race, finishing under a drive in front of August Belmont's Beldame, the outside closing 126 to 1 in the betting.

Sydney Rice, the favorite, who was second and the only other starter, was a poor third.

The disappointment of the race was the absence of H. Whitney's Artful. Though the track management advertised the fact that she would surely start, she was withdrawn at the eleventh hour after thousands of people had been drawn to the track expressly to see the great daughter of Hamburg perform.

For the first time in the history of the Saratoga cup but three horses went to the post. A 4 to 1 shot was put over the opening race and when the price of time came there was little wailing by the books.

Brushup won nicely from Humo, the favorite, with Water Mirror scratched from 3 to 1 to 8 to 1.

Jimmy Lane made a show of Malden and Jim Newman in the Beverick steeplechase. He ran last for nearly a mile, then went to the front and was never headed. Jim Newman ferociously had the brushup and attempted to bolt on all turns.

Burgomaster and Pegasus, the Whitney pair, ran one two in the $10,000 Grand Union Hotel stakes. Pegasus was flustered and King Rose closed fast and would have won in a couple of strides. Irish Witch lasted long enough to be third.

Yalagal won the final race in a hot day after timber had led to the stretch.

SOCIETY LEADERS IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK

Copper King Walsh's Son Is Killed and Companion Injured Near Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Visions of the 15-year-old son of Thomas F. Walsh, the Colorado copper king, who recently rented one of the handsomest cottages here and whose family has become one of the most prominent in the summer colony, was killed today in the worst auto accident that has occurred at Newport in recent years.

With him in his forty-horsepower Packard at the time of the fatality were Mrs. James L. Korochoan of Hempstead, the noted country rider and whip; Miss Evelyn Walsh, his year-old sister; Harry Oelrichs of New York, who was driving, and Mrs. Korochoan, his sister and his two friends out in his big machine after a luncheon at the Clam Bake Club. He was driving the machine at a lively clip when the tire on the rear right wheel exploded and the wheel instantly snapped off. In a second the giant car had bounded into the air, swerved to the right, smashed the top rail of the bridge, which is six by three inches, and plunged into the creek.

As the machine smashed through the railing the top rail broke in two and one end of it struck Walsh's skull with such force that he was killed on the spot and died within an hour.

Trapped Under Water.

As the auto dropped six feet into the stream it turned turtle and Walsh and his companions were caught in a trap beneath the tonneau. Had it not been for three men who witnessed the tragedy Mrs. Korochoan, who was driving, and Mrs. Oelrichs and Pell must have drowned beneath the car. Charles M. Riley of Newport, William Holt of Boston and W. E. Thompson of Beverly, Mass., happened to be walking down the road and saw the car make its leap into the stream.

They rushed to the spot and found the wheels still spinning and heard the faint cries of those trapped under the car. They dragged the machine off and rendered such immediate surgical assistance to the injured as was possible.

On Way to Visit.

The occupants of the car were on their way to Eastern Point to visit Mrs. Clement C. Moore. The accident happened when the car was speeding rapidly down a hill. In its swift flight the big car tore an opening through the heavy bridge railings and then was precipitated into the creek. Mr. Walsh was unconscious when he was killed by the time medical assistance came. His sister was found to be badly bruised. Mr. Oelrichs was also severely bruised and Mr. Pell's injuries were of a similar nature. Mrs. Korochoan was cut and sustained bruises about the body. The injured were treated at nearby cottages. Physicians stated that all might recover. The accident caused great excitement among the cottagers. Mrs. Korochoan is one of the leaders of society. She is a famous huntswoman and president of the Ladies' Kennel association. Mrs. Korochoan is a home at Hempstead and is one of the new places of Long Island.

The body of Vinson Walsh was brought to his home tonight from the Newport hospital, where he died. Mrs. Korochoan, who has been ordered to be held by the doctors, is hysterical. Pell is able to be out. The body of young Walsh will be sent to Washington for burial.

MACHINISTS' ELECTION

Local Union Balloting for National Officers—Fort Worth Man Named

For the purpose of balloting for national officers a called meeting of the local union of machinists was held at the Labor Temple Saturday night. While balloting has not yet been conducted, the voting seems to favor D. Roderick of Chicago for national president, C. O. Hess of Fort Worth for national secretary-treasurer and Douglas Wilson of Washington, D. C. for editor of the union's official journal.

At a meeting to be held this week final ballot will be taken.

ENCAMPMENT ENDED

Epworth League's Forsake Camp at Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Aug. 19.—The Epworth League encampment of 1905 has ended.

In an interview President Thomasson said: "In all essentials this has been our greatest meeting. The large attendance, exceeding 5,000, the great enthusiasm which prevailed, the practical results obtained, the wise and intelligent opening session is perfected and General Porter, chief of the Creeks, will call the committee together, after which the committee will be appointed and permanent organization effected by the election of Porter as chairman. Advances from every recording district in Oklahoma will be made a full representation, which will make 182 delegates and the same number of alternates. Visitors from the surrounding states and Oklahoma will be here in large numbers. Four or five chiefs will be in attendance and many questions of importance to the territory will be discussed. Among the most important matters to be determined by the convention is the location of the capital, the division of the territory into fifty counties and the laying out of judicial and congressional districts. A strong fight is likely to be made for county seats, and much interest is being shown in the convention. The question of prohibition will probably be left to a vote of the people, but the indications are that the South Carolina dispensary system will obtain. A sentiment is being expressed in this method of solving the problem.

COMPLETING BALLOON

Peary Must Rush to Beat the Swede to the Pole

PARIS, Aug. 19.—"If Commodore Peary wants to be first man to reach the north pole he had better hurry," said M. Marellis at the French Aerial Club the other night, "or I may beat him." It is the intention of M. Marellis to imitate the Swede, Andre, and attempt to reach the pole in a balloon. This balloon, which is now nearly finished, will in many ways be superior to that of Professor Andre. In the first place it will be dirigible, containing as it does an electric motor, which, when fully charged, will be able to run 600 hours or about twenty-five days. M. Marellis will also carry with him complete wireless telegraph outfit, so that he will be able to keep in close touch with civilization all the time. The explorer expects to start on his trip early next spring, and starting from the island of Gronspitzen he hopes to reach the pole and return to his starting point inside of twenty-five days.

TENNESSEE TOWN IGNORES ORDERS

Grand Junction Refuses to Allow Passengers to Transfer from One Train to Another

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Governor Cox arrived here today from Nashville and held a conference with Secretary Albright and the state board of health regarding the quarantine now existing at Grand Junction, Hardeman county. That village imposed such drastic restrictions passengers cannot be transferred from one train to another. Mr. Albright, acting for the state board, instructed that passengers should be allowed to transfer under proper precautions, explaining the state board is paramount in such matters. It is understood the Grand Junction authorities ignored the order. Governor Cox and Dr. Albright left for Grand Junction today and efforts will be made to adjust all differences. Should these efforts prove futile it is reported here that the governor will send a body of militia to Grand Junction and declare martial law to enforce the regulations of the state board of health.

KILLED BY GIN

Young Man Dies from Injuries Received Under Gin Stand

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 19.—Advices were received today of the killing of J. M. Brown, a young man working in the Cedar Creek gin, which is situated in this county. According to the information received, Brown went under the gin to clean out the seed and got too fat and came in contact with the teeth of the gin stand, which cut his shoulder and arm nearly off. Two doctors were called in and amputated the arm, but the young man died shortly afterward from the effects of the injuries received.

He had relatives living in this city.

DALLAS WINS GAME IN THE ELEVENTH

Take First of Double-Header From Panthers—Second Game Ends in Tie

Special to The Telegram.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 20.—Several hundred fans went to the Fair Grounds park yesterday afternoon, and it is safe to say fully seventy-five per cent of the number felt confident beforehand that they would undergo the uncomfortable sensations which attend the defeat of the home team. A double-header was scheduled, and advertised, but owing to the fact that two hours and five minutes were consumed before the first game was decided, eleven innings being required, Empire Burns found it necessary to call the second game at the end of the fourth inning on account of darkness, at which time the score stood 2 and 2.

The Giants had an agreeable surprise in store for the fans who witnessed Friday's game, and instead of playing like a lot of whipped schoolboys, they rallied and put up a gilt-edged exhibition. The visitors put up a hard fight, but were at the mercy of Earl Fink, a Devon boy, who has only been with the team a few days. Farris let the Panthers down with three hits, one of which was a mere scratch, and fanned out every man on the team, some of them twice, making a total of thirteen strike-outs.

His support was excellent, although the feature play of the first game was made by Doyle in the eighth inning. This particular play saved the game for the Giants. Schwencik went to first base by a pitched ball, and was advanced to third by Gfroerer's two-bagger. After two men were out Boles came to bat, and smashed the ball on Fink's error. Sullivan singled, Maloney struck the package would clear left field fence, and Doyle made a hard run backwards. As he struck the fence, he threw both hands high over his head and pulled the ball down, retiring the side. The crowd, which had been in the bleachers almost tore the clothing off each other. A purse was made up by the fans and given to Doyle for his splendid play.

How Dallas Won.

Schwencik was on the firing line for the visitors, and was hit rather freely by the Giants, although not connected with the error. Schwencik went to first base on a ball, and Schwencik snatched it up and looked wildly about, while Maloney went to first and Ury scored. Rickey scored on Fink's hit, and the game was won.

What's that? No! The double-header was to us?

That gang of ours is going to pan out all right, and win this pennant fuss.

The Wail of the Knocker.

by Franklin Duck.

Now, what's the use of fuss and fret? It does no good to puff and sweat. It's foolishness for men to let themselves get flustered and give ear to all the knocks on high finance, this "tainted money" song and dance.

The thing is: Have we got a chance to bring the pennant here this year? There's not a berth but seventh place for us, unless we take a brace. Hire three new pitchers and then chase the old four-flushers to the sticks. Old Pfannenstiel's a false alarm. There's loads of glass in his right arm. The place for him is on the farm, among the shovels and the picks.

No man of sense now cares a rap what happens when the Russ and Jap frame up a truce, call off their scrap and mix up in an oral clash. I find it enervating, too, in this hot weather to read through the yarns of how directors blew the Equitable's surplus cash. But let me give you this straight hunch: Tom Homer and that Mudtown bunch

Will soak us where we tote our lunch, unless we strengthen at the bat. Our catcher's punk. He's on the Friz. He can't throw and he never hits. The Epworth League is where he fits, the bone-head—and he drinks, at that.

The yellow fever quarantines declared against poor New Orleans are nothing new. It all just means that we must have a little care. What worried me three hours last night was: Can our team stay in the fight, and keep the pennant cloth in sight? The team's third now, but can't stay there.

The infield always has been slow. The outfield needs get-up-and-go. The manager is—

What's that? No! The double-header was to us? That gang of ours is going to pan out all right, and win this pennant fuss.

DELEGATES LIKE CHICAGO ACTION

Fort Worth Representatives to 28-Hour Law Conference Have Returned

D. E. Koeler, vice president and traffic manager of the district, and Captain B. R. Paddock, and others of the committee to Chicago to attend the twenty-eight hour law and reciprocity conference, have returned.
Mr. Koeler was much pleased with the results of the meeting as they relate to the twenty-eight hour live stock law, which has been the bone of contention with railroads for some time.
There were present many railroad and live stock representatives at the meeting. One of the most notable men present was Secretary Wilson, who, on hearing a complete digest of the situation, intimated that the law would be modified so that its provisions would be reasonable and that the department would not try to impose onerous conditions on the railroads of the country.
A committee was appointed, representing the various interests affected by the twenty-eight hour law, to take steps to secure an amendment to the Federal law, so that the limit in which cattle may be hauled without unloading for food, rest and water will be increased from twenty-eight to not less than thirty-six hours.
Secretary Wilson made it known in the conference that he favored such an amendment.
Other Texas representatives to the conference have delayed their return a few days.

GEIGER HERE

New Denver Official Now in Fort Worth
George Geiger, who was recently named to succeed Superintendent Bourke, Childress headquarters, was in Fort Worth Saturday, getting acquainted with new surroundings.
Mr. Geiger is not a stranger in Texas railway circles. When Mr. Edson was at the head of the Cotton Belt Mr. Geiger was chief train dispatcher, with Tyler headquarters. When Mr. Edson went to the Kansas City Southern, Geiger went with him and was made trainmaster, with Pittsburg, Kan., headquarters.

RATE CLERKS THROUGH

Texas Members Will Return Home Today
Texas members of the rate sheet committee who have been holding a meeting at Eureka Springs all of last week are expected to return today. Frank Jensen of the Rock Island, John Card of the Denver road and Mr. McClure of the Frisco will arrive here this morning.

Since his visit to the classic hills of Eureka Springs Mr. Jensen has become poetical. He sends the following on an illustrated postcard:
"I am not the only pebble here, but I'm getting bolder.
I hope you, too, can see the slight before you are much older."

TO RIVAL SANTA FE

New Road to Reach Grand Canyon of Arizona
A letter from Denver to persons here says that the Clark road, known as the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake, will build a twenty-six mile spur from the main line to the Grand Canyon of Arizona, thus making a competitor for the Santa Fe for tourist business in this great scenic country.

The survey for the spur has already been completed and the work of grading and building the extension will be commenced in a few days. The spur will start at Las Vegas, Nev., at which point a sanitarium to cost $250,000 will be built by Senator Clark, who is at the head of the San Pedro road. He expects to make Las Vegas one of the greatest resorts in the west.
Another road is being built from Los Vegas by Frank M. Smith of Oakland, Cal., to the Nevada towns of Bullfrog and Goldfield. This will give Las Vegas two roads. A large route house and machine shops are also to be built there.

QUARANTINE RULES

Frisco Issues Information for Its Local Agents
The passenger traffic department of the Frisco Saturday issued the following yellow fever quarantine bulletin to all agents:
"On account of quarantine troubles and the desire of some of our patrons to travel to the south via St. Louis, you are authorized to sell round-trip summer tourist tickets to points named in summer tourist sheet on the east of the Louisville and Nashville railway, St. Louis to Birmingham, and Southern railway, through Atlanta to Brunswick, Ga., on the basis of one and a third of present one-way fare authorized through St. Louis. These tickets bear final limit of Oct. 31, and may be sold daily during quarantine troubles, but not later than Sept. 30.
"For example, the one-way rate from Fort Worth to Asheville, N. C., constructed as per supplement to 128.55, the round-trip tourist rate via St. Louis, as authorized in this circular, would be one-third of this fare added, making rate of $51.40."

CUNNINGHAM HERE

Ed Cunningham of Bridgeport, president of the Texas State Federation of Labor and district vice president of the United Mine Workers, is in the city Saturday morning and reports labor's outlook throughout the state as being exceptionally bright. Conditions in all lines, he reports good, and everything moving smoothly.

BRICKLAYERS ACTIVE

Members of the bricklayers' organization are preparing to take an active part in the Labor Day parade and will make an extra effort on that day in view of their claimed distinction of having the greatest percentage of followers of their profession enrolled under their banner. Claim is made that but three bricklayers in the city are not members of the organization. An effort is being made to have Dallas bricklayers take part in the celebration with the Fort Worth organization and officers express the belief that they will be here on that day.

LABOR DAY CALL

A notice to members of Farmers' Union locals in this county has been issued by the committee on Labor Day participation as follows:
Your committee to cooperate with labor unions call the attention of local unions in Tarrant county to send the number of members that will join in the parade on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 4. The parade will begin at 10 o'clock. Please be prompt in your action, so we may know how many to expect. It is important that you meet us as your badge will admit you to the park and its privileges for the day.

COMPILING FIGURES

Members of the Bartenders' Union are now preparing a list of families and people dependent upon the liquor industries of the city for publication in pamphlet form. A partial report is expected at the meeting of the organization Sunday.

RED MEN WILL MEET TOMORROW

Big Gathering of Braves to Be Held in Fort Worth at an Early Date

Red Men of North Texas will gather in this city Monday as guests of the local organization, and it is estimated one of the largest gatherings of braves held for several years will take place.

Invitations have been issued to all tribes within a radius of 150 miles of Fort Worth and many of them will attend with large numbers of new members, to be put through at the meeting in Red Men's hall Monday night.

In addition to the degree work Monday night a special session of the great council will be held Monday afternoon. Among the officers of the organization who will be present are: Great Sachem J. A. Breeding of Houston, Great Senator Sagamore Clarence Haughton of Galveston, Great Junior Sagamore Joe Bryan of San Antonio, Great Chief of Records J. D. Mawson of Hartlett, Texas, and Great Chief of the Wampum C. P. Stafford of San Antonio.

Degrees will be conferred by the degree team of Oneto lodge of this city, which is said to be the best in the state. In addition the past sachem's degree will likely be administered during the afternoon.
Among the larger delegations expected is that from Dallas, which will have a large number of new members to submit. Following the exercises at Red Men's hall, 619 Main street, the local braves announce White Dog and Frozen Mist.

FRAUD EXPOSED

LAWYERS WILLING TO SIT ON BENCH

Stephens Will Meet Opposition in the Race for Second Judicial District

By the time the next state campaign opens there will have developed a lively tussle among at least three men who wish to become judge of the court of civil appeals bench for the second judicial district.
The position sought is now held by Judge L. W. Stephens of Weatherford, who will be a candidate to succeed himself. He is already aided by A. H. Kirby of Abilene and Alf H. Carrigan, at present district judge of the Wichita Falls district, whose candidacy was announced here Saturday.
There may be one or two others anxious to make the race, but as yet no intimation of their entering the contest has been made.

Whenever a professional speaker man feels his fountain of inspiration failing him he betinks himself of a topic upon which he can dwell indefinitely, confident in his ability to go on and on, even as the brook, although not unlike the brook, he may not advance far behind any recollection of helpfulness or comfort.

Bishop O'Connor of New Jersey recently delivered himself as follows: "I am asked to give advice as to the most important step in a girl's preparation for the arduous and exacting duties of life. I would say, first, that every woman, no matter what her wealth or position in society, should at least for a time become self-supporting in some field of modern usefulness; should make her own living independently at least for a time."

"Above all things a woman should guard against becoming that greatest of modern pests, the idle society woman, who devotes her time to the performance of what she calls social duties or following after social pleasures."

"It remains to be proved that the flood of advice that has come from high and distinguished masculine sources will produce the results intended. The club woman, the society woman, the office woman, the teacher woman and their have been receiving more than their share of disinterested attention. It may be productive of a change in conditions. Then again it may not. The point is registered by the critic or adviser is that while there are social or domestic conditions that he may disapprove of or that may irritate him he cannot possibly judge their effect on the individual except by observation, and these may be misleadingly superficial. Neither priest nor president having ever been a woman, how can they tell what constitutes a commensurate with political standing at the ballot box. Whenever by accident or pluck she gets a foothold where her pay is within striking acquaintance of the man, she is a mighty one and scheming to wrest it from her to bestow it upon a man.

Nevertheless, women have continued to become wage earners, but the conditions had many a time, and a particular man will be the final judge of any experiments as woman's success as a woman. A business career, if it is a failure, will probably make a woman most properly humble and bring her back to the ground from which she came.

There is a further suspicion that men themselves do not realize their own minds about the kind of women that suits them best. A man may think he years for a clinging vine, only to find after he gets one that it hammers him back in his business, and doing things. The man who is averse to the clinging vine and files from her might become irritated beyond the confines of ordinary English should be by accident or design find himself going on an indefinite journey with her for company.

The bishop's advice put forth for the benefit of women directly and society, including the men, indirectly, ignores the fact that there are as many different kinds of men as there are women and that it is the individual man and the individual woman that counts in the last analysis.

The training or environment that develops a woman, whatever it may be, is the best for society because it is the best for the individual. No man is clever enough or wise enough however well intentioned he may be, to lump the entire sex into a mass and say, "Now, grow where I place you," even when self-support is the place and a bishop the placer.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Mrs. McCauley of Sweetwater was the guest of honor at a luncheon last Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. J. L. Long, the hostess, had the dining room decorated with pink roses and ribbons, arranged in a setting of ferns and ivy. The pink satin ribbons fell from the chandelier to each plate and there fastened with generous bows. The place cards of formal design were tied with pink ribbons. Asparagus ferns wreathed the chandelier and surrounded the silver mounted reflector with its brilliant company of cut glass vases and dozens of roses. The "table" with the ferns as cover ornaments.

The guests were Mesdames Oscar Menefee, Bessie Saunders, Jerry Ellis, Charles Ware, W. E. Galbreath, James Anderson, W. E. Connell, Douthitt, Lipscomb and C. C. French.

Mrs. Dunn entertained with an eclipse observation party and luncheon at Lake Erie last Monday evening, complimenting her sister, Miss Josephine, who has been visiting her several weeks. The guests were: Mrs. J. L. Long, Mrs. J. C. French, Hazel Walker, Dorothy Nunnally, Dorothy Watts of Weatherford, Elizabeth Wells, Mary Dinger, Mabel Bradley, Della Watts of Weatherford, Mrs. J. C. French, Mrs. Hoover, Miller, Paschal, Reynolds, of St. Louis, May, Goree, Ed and Dudley Byars, Dan Levy, Rossington Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman and Will Edleman.

The present quiet in social matters had a delightful variation Tuesday afternoon, Miss Hogsett entertaining informally in her home. The guests were: Mrs. J. C. French, Mrs. J. L. Long, Mrs. J. C. French, Mrs. Hoover, Miller, Paschal, Reynolds, of St. Louis, May, Goree, Ed and Dudley Byars, Dan Levy, Rossington Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman and Will Edleman.

H. O. Ledgerwood, a prominent attorney was married at Dublin last Tuesday to Miss Ella Ray, the talented art teacher of Polytechnic College. The ceremony was devoid of display, though attended by a number of close personal friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ledgerwood are spending a few weeks in Colorado and will return to Fort Worth about Sept. 1, when their Fort Worth friends will join them. Dublin in voicing hearty congratulations.

A home picnic with vines at hand, trees loaded with summer fruit, with a table near enough to the door for convenient service, but with the outdoors and moonlight to add to the appeal, is a formally recognized treat. If miles away is a sure-enough treat not to be surprised by any outing. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooh had in a few friends for such a picnic here Friday evening and each guest confided to his neighbor that summer trifles vanished before such an ideal evening. After a supper of fried chicken, salmon croquettes, tomatoes with mayonnaise dressing, bread and sandwiches, a rickles and coffee, conversation was enlivened by clever recitations by Miss Alice Lusk.

The guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Robertson, Mrs. Fakes, Mr. and Mrs. Modlin, Mrs. Noble, Robert Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Getz, C. L. Lusk, Miss Alice Lusk, Miss Grace Fakes, W. G. Turner and Mr. Dollard.

The Imperial broke the danceless week with a gay collation at Lake Erie 2 1/2 miles evening. Henry Beck led and there were figures intricate and interesting to the attention of the dancers and spectators. There had been a large invitation list and few of the following favored friends failed to accept the invitation: Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Long, Mrs. J. C. French, W. W. Bowie, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Boykin, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cameron, Dr. and Mrs. Capps, Mr. and Mrs. L. Clements, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Trawick Fry, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Goetz, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hedrick, Mr. and Mrs. Kibler Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. M. Walker last Friday evening at the club house.

Miss Grace Hollingsworth was the hostess of the S. S. C. last Thursday afternoon, the prize going to Miss Barton in a cut with Misses Pearl Beall and Florence Smith, all winning eight out of ten games of whist. The guests were Misses Beall, Elser, Newlin, Pendleton, Samuels, Barton, Field, Bradley, Laura Hogsett, Juanita Hollingsworth, Mesdames Miller, Black, Brannon and Bowler.

Miss Juanita Hollingsworth was the hostess this week. Last Thursday night a bay ride party went out to Sycamore creek on the Midland field road and enjoyed an assortment of the finest watermelons by the light of the moon. The young people in the party were: Misses Bernie Newlin, Irma Hogsett, Juanita Hollingsworth, Mesdames Miller, Black, Brannon and Bowler.

The Fair

Houston and Fifth Streets, Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth, Texas, August 20, 1906

Dear Madam: They are here—the new fall styles in Tailored Skirts. About 100 have arrived, and will be displayed tomorrow. The styles are the latest and very best displayed in swell New York shops, including the extreme circular effects. Materials are Chiffon Panamas, Herringbone Cheviots and light weight Serges, in blue or black; also fancy gray mixtures and the very dressy silk lined Voiles. The style changes are pleasing, and whether you care to buy now or later, you will enjoy a visit of inspection. You'll be very welcome.

Prices of these garments start at five dollars and range up to twenty-four fifty.

Our new Fall Suits, too, are coming in soon; in fact we have now on display quite a number of clever styles suitable for tourists going to a cooler climate, or young ladies soon to be off to school; and in order to have room for others soon to arrive, we will sell Monday about sixty White Lawn Shirt Waist Suits for just one-half the usual price. Some of these suits are very elaborate with lace and embroidery, others simple shirt waist styles; the usual prices are four fifty to twenty-one dollars, but all go tomorrow for just one-half price. If you glance at these suits in the windows you will come early for first choice.

Very resp'y, "THE FAIR."

DAILY FASHION HINT

NOS. 2774-76—A MODISH SUIT
After a season of long and three-quarter length coats, the short jacket has won its way into popular favor and is more universally worn than ever before. According to the materia used, the suit shown here may be plain or dressy. The latter result may be obtained by using a lighter shade of broadcloth or silk for the vest of the coat and the new enameled buttons. The skirt is plain with nine rows and answers the latest dictates of fashion in having plenty of fullness about the bottom. Belt and a half yards of forty-four inch material are required for the medium size.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19.—The results of the railroad hearings conducted last June by the senate committee on interstate commerce are being digested into a volume which will make 200 or 300 pages. The record of the testimony is already printed in four volumes and an appendix. Henry C. Adams, chief statistician for the interstate commerce commission, and H. T. Newcomb, a railroad lawyer, who has made a specialty of statistics, are doing the work. The two digesters disagree diametrically in their views on railway legislation, so it is to be presumed that anything on which they can agree will be a colorful statement of fact. The work will be completed, according to present plans, by the first of October.

Elkins Pleading New Bill
It is learned here that Senator Elkins expects to report a bill to amend the present railway act by diminishing the functions of the interstate commerce commission and increasing the power of the courts to regulate rates. An effort is being made to work out a bill of this character on which the republican members of the committee can agree. None of the senators are anxious to report directly against further regulatory legislation. Senator Elkins has a campaign on his hands for re-election; so has Senator Cullom. Senator Dooliver is confronted with a strong Iowa sentiment in favor of railroad regulation. Senator Foraker comes from a city, Cincinnati, where the business organizations have resolved in favor of the regulatory principle. Senator Newlands, though a democrat, is pledged to President Roosevelt's position on railroad regulation. Senator Tillman is divided between his antagonism to railroads and his equally vigorous antagonism to Roosevelt personally. Senator Foster is uncertain, as are Millard and Carmack.

A bill attempting to pass up the regulation of rates to the courts would be opposed by the administration on the ground of unconstitutionality. Attorney General Moody has already delivered an opinion to the effect that the judiciary cannot and will not make rates.

KEEPING AHEAD.

In a little village on Long Island numbering about 200 inhabitants I came upon a one-story frame building hardly larger than a dog-house, and yet it bore signs reading:

"Banking and safe deposit vaults. Estates cared for. Orphans taken in charge. Investments made for adults and minors. Bonds bought and sold. Wills drawn, filed and probated. Widows a specialty. Pensions secured. All law business promptly attended to. Affidavits drawn. Gold mines, ranches, farms, houses and lots and vacant property bought and sold. Interest allowed on deposits. Horses bought and sold. Steamship and railroad ticket office. Fire and life insurance."

Inside the little office was a common-looking man, who was smoking a clay pipe and had his feet on the desk, and I said to him:

are going to have a singing-school master here this fall, and I'm getting ready to

"I've been the biggest man in this town for ten years."

"Not much," he replied. "I've been the biggest man in this town for 10 years, and they can't down me. They show him that he won't amount to small potatoes when he arrives." JOE KERR.

Miss Caustique—Kidnapping is a crime that they punish very heavily in this state.
Cholly Youngley—What of that?
Miss Caustique—If I married you your relatives may cause trouble.

HAD TO GIVE IT UP.

"I was with one house and traveling over the same route for 17 years," said the New York drummer. "On my very first trip over the route I called on a merchant in a Pennsylvania town, or at least tried to. He refused to see me, but as I am a persistent cuss I put it down in my book that I was to call on every trip until I got sight of him. I got to his town four times a year, and four times a year I made inquiry for him. Sometimes I was told he was out, or in the East, or ill and in bed, and though I knew better I went away smiling. Four times a year for 14 years I dropped into the store and asked the usual question and was one day informed that the merchant was dead. I had hung to him for a long time, but he had beaten me at last."

"And did things stop there?" was asked.

"Yes. You can't pursue a man beyond the grave, can you?"

"Of course not, but I'm disappointed in you. If you were a drummer worth the powder to blow you up you would have married his widow and stepped into a good thing. Say, you New York fellers are hustlers in some things, but when it

Daisy—Me.

Pawn your winter coat.

Don't look for anything cooler than a man asking you to lend him $25 to get married on.

Don't trade horses, talk politics, discuss Biblical questions, fall in love, play poker or start proceedings for a divorce. Simply keep cool. It isn't hot. It's only the effect of imagination.

JOE KERR.

A MIND RELIEVED.

A couple of men, one of whom had just returned from Panama, were talking about things on the Isthmus when a passenger on the seat behind butted in with:

"Gentlemen, I have heard you talking about Panama and the fever. Do you think it possible for one to contract yellow fever from a straw hat?"

"Let's see your hat?" replied one.

The passenger on the seat behind butted in.

It was passed over and inspected, and the gentleman said:

"That Panama hat will never give you the yellow fever."

"You think not?"

"I am sure of it. If you had looked at the band yourself you would have seen that it was made in Danbury."

"Thanks. Thanks. I haven't had anything relieve my mind so much for a year past. Yes, it's a Danbury Panama hat and cost $1.50, and I am drawn back from the grave, as it were. If either of you know of any place around here where they sell butter-milk—"

But they shook their heads in a sad, solemn way. JOE KERR.

A LITTLE BIT.

"Any news down my way?" repeated the farmer as he stopped his team and bit a chew off his plug. "Well, I kin give ye a little bit, I guess. It hadn't earthquakes nor cyclones, but it does purty well for our place."

"Well?" queried the tollgate man.

"Well, the news is that Jim Williams' wife's canary bird got out of the cage the other day, and she had to chase it more'n two hours to get it back."

"That isn't much news."

"Nope, I 'spose not; but I was savin' the best for the last."

"And what is it?"

"Why, a tin peddler come along and bet Joe Hartins that he could outjump him, and Joe held his breath and jumped seven feet and won the bet, and it's already settled that we are to run him for the legislature next fall."

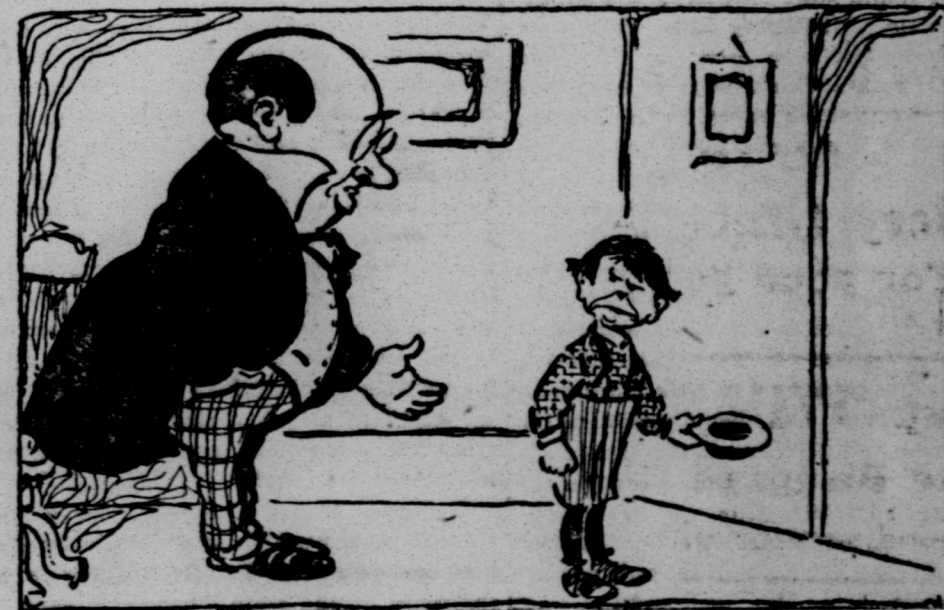

She—What was the most enjoyable thing you did while you were away?
He—Getting on the train to come home.

Mr. Wise—If you would improve your mind, associate only with people who know more than you do.

Miss Smart—But if they follow the same rule, what are we to do?

Visitor—This village is so very quiet. Native—Gosh, stranger, if ye lookin' fer excitement, jest go down to the store an' see em play checkers at night!

HAD SEEN 'EM.

Prospective Employer—Yes, I want an office boy; but he must be polite, quick, honest, brave, clean, mustn't smoke, mustn't curse—
Applicant—Say, mister, you want one of dese boy heroes dat's in de melo-dramas.

FROM ALL OVER EUROPE CABLED TO THE TELEGRAM

AERONAUT TO CROSS ATLANTIC

M. Godard Thinks He Can Make Perilous Passage in Four Days

BY PAUL VILLIERS. (Copyright, 1905, by Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram. PARIS, Aug. 19.—The first attempt to cross the Atlantic in a balloon is soon to be made by the French aeronaut Louis Godard.

M. Godard, who has made more than 100 longer or shorter trips in his balloon, has all the details of his trip planned and the necessary money has been promised by a prominent member of the Aero Club.

The balloon in which he will undertake his perilous voyage will be large enough to contain 12,700 cubic meters of hydrogen. He has figured that 1 per cent of this gas will leak out every day, but allows an extra margin of one-half per cent which means that after ten days the balloon will still have a carrying capacity of four hundred and twenty pounds.

He does not think, however, that the trip will take more than four days. To prevent the balloon from dropping into the ocean it will be equipped with a contrivance invented by M. Herve which will keep it at a height of two hundred meters above the sea level.

The balloon will be manned by a crew of ten and will carry five thousand four hundred kilograms of ballast and provisions, besides scientific instruments and a motor boat.

M. Godard will ascend from some point on the Newfoundland coast and counts on landing on the coast of Brittany. His Majesty the King.

His Majesty Jacques I. of Sahara, who has begun to doubt the feasibility of founding a great empire in South Africa, is planning to become the ruler of a more modest state in Europe.

Near the coast of Ireland he has found a little island, called Man, which, according to a charter granted by Queen Elizabeth of England, is free and independent territory.

For years it was inhabited by an old hermit, who, however, died some months ago, and now only rabbits and seagulls live there. M. Lebaudy now intends to seize the island before British red tape will allow King Edward's government to take possession of it, and here will erect the throne which he had originally hoped to establish in Troy.

Even Soldiers Learn It. The believers in the new international universal language, Esperanto, are exceedingly well satisfied with their recent congress in Boulogne sur-Mer. More than 5,000 delegates from all parts of the world were present at the conference, which was presided over by the Warsaw physician, Dr. Zamenhof, the inventor of Esperanto.

The debates at the conference were all conducted in the new language, and not a single hitch occurred, the delegates all being able to understand each other without the slightest difficulty.

So simple is the new language that 300 soldiers detained by the French government to maintain order during the conference within three weeks mastered it, and were able to converse fluently with the delegates, few of whom understood any French.

Connected with the conference was a commercial, scientific and literary exhibition. In his opening speech the president, Dr. Zamenhof, expressed it as his conviction that within ten years Esperanto would become the commercial and diplomatic language of the world.

A New Gambling Resort. Monte Carlo has found a dangerous rival in Amsterdam, where a gambling palace has been built by "royal consent," although the laws of the kingdom expressly forbid all kinds of gambling.

The casino is no less luxuriously equipped than that at Monte Carlo, and is situated in Bonastrant, one of the most beautiful streets in the aristocratic part of the city.

It is built in a magnificent park surrounded by a costly iron fence. Among the hundreds of visitors who daily visit its fairs and roulette tables are a great many Americans, and the money which changes hands is said to be even greater than that lost and won at Monte Carlo.

"Knighthood in Flower." In spite of the immense cost of buildings, costumes and decorations the recent festival at Brussels in commemoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of its independence have been a great success financially.

From all parts of the world sightseers came to witness the famous jousts, which were exact counterparts of those given by Philip the Good of Burgundy, 450 years ago, and which it is to be expected will prepare at a cost of nearly half a million dollars.

The dresses of the actors were of the richest materials, the designs being beautifully embroidered, and the work was set with glittering stones, and the armor used was gathered either from museums or specially made there were over a hundred pieces, and a one moment more than half were before the spectators.

Some of the principal characters were impersonated by descendants of those very knights who formed the flower of chivalry at the magnificent Court of Philip Duke of Burgundy.

QUEEN HELENA. ROME, Aug. 19.—Queen Helena of Italy has just written a book of poems, which promises to have a wide sale. The poems were written in Serbian, the home language of the queen, and have been translated into German for publication.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Crown Princess of Roumania has for some time been visiting King Edward and Queen Alexandra. She has often been in this city before, but this time she brought along her children, who are known all over Europe as the best looking children of royal blood in any country. Picture A shows Prince Carol and Princess Elizabeth, oldest children of the crown princess, wearing English uniforms, of which they are very proud. Picture B shows Prince Carol holding in his arms his youngest brother, Prince Nicholas, while C is a recent picture taken in this city of Princess Marie and Prince Nicholas.

MAXIM GORKI'S NEW DRAMA TO APPEAR

"Children of the Sun" Being Translated for Production in Berlin

BY MALCOLM CLARKE. (Copyright, 1905, by Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram. BERLIN, Aug. 19.—In a very near future the people of Berlin will have the pleasure of witnessing the first performance of Maxim Gorki's "Children of the Sun," which was finished a few weeks ago.

The original manuscript, which is, of course, in Russian, is now being translated and as soon as this shall have been done the rehearsals will begin.

The play is said to be the most original ever written in any language, but to be rather heavy and it is considered almost certain that it will not become popular outside of literary circles, though the name of the persecuted author will of course draw crowds to the theater for the first performances.

"Children of the Sun," Gorki calls artists and others born to lead on the world toward the light of freedom.

The two main figures in the play are an artist and a professor. The artist recognizes only the beauty, the professor only the truth in life; but besides these it contains a great number of small, helpless and miserable figures of the most various types, to be found nowhere but in a country like Russia.

What will undoubtedly make the play appear rather grotesque as to how to counteract the spirit of rebellion which every day becomes more manifest.

The Kaiser's recent speech after the maneuvers in Fosen showed that he is aware of the danger which threatens Germanism in the eastern provinces, but that he leaves largely to German subjects to fight. The main danger is not the Polish national, but the socialist movement which is of an international character and has nothing to do with the wish of the higher classes of the Polish people for a free and independent kingdom of Poland.

Story of Scandal. A scandal in which an uncle of the German crown princess is implicated threatens to come up before the Berlin supreme court.

KING ALFONSO IS LUCKY CHAUFFEUR

The Young Castilian Monarch Takes Long Trip Without Single Mishap

(Copyright, 1905, by Hearst News Service.)

BY MANUEL VIZCAYA. Special Cable to The Telegram. MADRID, Aug. 19.—Young King Alfonso is no longer called "the King-student" the people call him now "the King chauffeur." And his touring machine is known as "the automobile-phantom."

A few days ago the newspapers announced that the youthful monarch would make an auto excursion from San Sebastian to Pamplona.

This was the most natural thing in the world and his excellency the governor of the province of Navarra, was informed by telegraph of the king's purpose of visiting Pamplona.

Alfonso, accompanied by a party of friends, left San Sebastian, and his touring car was seen to take the road to Pamplona; but scarcely had it traveled four or five miles when the king changed his plans and steered for the Pyrenees.

The royal chauffeur went through Jaca and Caufreton, crossed the French border, and did not stop until he reached Pau.

After a few hours spent in visiting the famous Henry IV's castle the king again jumped on his car and made for Tarbes.

He arrived at D'Arzagan's home city at 6 o'clock in the evening, and after a succulent repast in the Hotel Paris, the royal party returned to Spanish territory.

MILITARY UNIFORMS OFFEND NAVAL MEN

What King Edward Learned on Chatham Naval Hospital Visit

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram. LONDON, Aug. 19.—King Edward, notwithstanding all his tact, does occasionally offend a few of his more thin-skinned subjects. The other day, for instance, when his majesty visited the new naval hospital at Chatham, navy people were terribly upset and indignant because his majesty wore a military uniform.

As a matter of fact it was entirely the fault of the king's groom of the chambers, who ordered the wrong uniform to be sent down. It was a very hot day, and the king, when he found the mistake which had been made, was in a very bad temper and only smiled when the chery naval officers suggested iced champagne.

Then on the return journey from the naval hospital his majesty's usual affability returned and he turned to one of the officers and said: "I'm afraid I've been a little upset today. I don't mind trying some of that excellent iced champagne of yours again." And the rest of the ceremony passed off splendidly.

More Trouble Due. But there is trouble again in store for the king. His majesty has given deep offence in Edinburgh because after promising to inspect the Scottish volunteers in the third week in September he has decided to remain in Edinburgh for the occasion only a few hours. The inhabitants of the Scottish cities declare that the king will never stay with them if he can help it.

And they are right. It is an open secret that the king does not hanker after the "dear Scotch ceremonies."

Bad Theatrical Year. Now that the theatrical season proper is over, London managers have been going over the box office receipts and have, for some unaccountable reason, come to the conclusion that the season has been a very bad one.

And yet the London season of 1905 has been a particularly brilliant one from a social point of view. More than one music hall, too, has suffered severely, but this can be accounted for by the fact that there are too many

GRAY-HAIRED KING LOVES AN ARTIST

Royal Servian Would Share His Throne With the Princess Lwoff

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram. BELGRADE, Aug. 19.—It is whispered here that although age has turned the formerly raven locks of King Peter snow white, he has, nevertheless, fallen in love.

Ever since his first wife, Princess Zorka of Montenegro, died the king has shown very little interest for the sex, but some time ago he unexpectedly fell in love and now it is more than likely that a new queen will soon rule in the Konak where Queen Draga was assassinated. The lady with whom the old king has fallen in love is Princess Lwoff, better known under her artistic name of Parlaghy.

The princess, who is one of the most gifted portrait painters living, has had a most interesting career. Born as the daughter of a small Jewish official in a town in Hungary, she received an excellent education, and while very young showed signs of unusual talent for painting.

A Hungarian nobleman became interested in her and she was sent to Munich, where she studied under Fritz Lembach, and in a very short time won fame for herself.

During the last fifteen years she has painted almost every crowned head of Europe, and eight years ago she called across the ocean to paint the portraits of several American multi-millionaires. The first husband of the artist, was a Prussian officer, from whom she was divorced after two years.

Then, once more free, she married Prince Lwoff, but also this second marriage did not last long, and she was again divorced. Since that time she has lived exclusively for her art.

Soon after he had become king of Servia, Peter had her paint his portrait, and it was while sitting for her that he lost his heart. The marriage of the couple would have taken place a long time ago had not the ministers, who fear a repetition of the Draga episode, protested against it.

Even Czar Nicholas has notified the king that his planned marriage is a misalliance which he can never approve of, but Peter is stubborn, and declares that he will marry the princess even if it costs him his throne and life, and says that his intended queen is respected by every king and emperor in Europe and in every way worthy of occupying a throne.

music halls now in London and too little "talent" to go round.

There are rumors that the popular Empire theater will open again in the autumn with a performance on the more refined style of the Palace theater and that ballets will be a thing of the past.

American Girl Escapes. London bachelors, and more especially its impecunious peers, have realized now that the bird has flown, that a great American heiress has been in their midst and that they did not have even a chance of meeting her.

The heiress was Miss Jennie Crocker, the daughter of the late Mr. Fred Crocker of San Francisco. She is not only an heiress, but is very good looking and only eighteen years old. She stayed for a week with Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at Dorchester house, and although the ambassador's wife pressed her to go out and enjoy herself Miss Crocker refused again and again.

She dislikes dances and social functions of any kind. Mrs. Whitelaw Reid confided to her friends that Miss Crocker was worth six million dollars. Miss Crocker's brother attains his majority next month, and is said to be worth the same amount of money.

Major General a Worm. There is a good story going about the military clubs at the expense of Major General Plumer, a member of the army council, and a functionary of the much-abused War office.

The general, who, although a very good soldier, as was proved in the South African war, is a very insignificant looking man, of poor physique, desired to find out for himself the true state of affairs in regard to recruiting for the army, which is at a very low ebb just now.

The general thought that perhaps the recruiting sergeants were not persuasive enough, or that perhaps they were somewhat rough in their dealings with recruits.

So the general officer put on an old suit of clothes and presented himself to a certain sergeant as a raw recruit. The sergeant merely looked him up and down, spat on the pavement and remarked: "We don't want worms in the army—we want men. Get out of this!"

The general concealed his wrath admirably, but the story got about and the unfortunate sergeant, who soon discovered that the august sergeant had addressed really was not been relieved of his duties for not knowing how to deal with would-be recruits.

Quietus on Drivers. The American tourists who come regularly to London at this time of year, and who are patrons of the humble omnibus, are indignant at the new rule made by the omnibus companies which prohibits drivers of "buses to speak to passengers."

Another and more grave hardship inflicted by the new rule is that the bus driver frequently meets his future wife on the roof of the bus, and the whole of his courtship is often spent traversing London from one end to the other.

The trouble has risen through a number of accidents brought about by drivers who have become too engrossed in conversation with members of the fair sex, but the new regulations are considered very hard on the staid married men, who receive not too much pay and get little time for social intercourse.

The trade of the American-Hawian company has grown immensely during the last year. It has eight large steamships in service, and has just let contracts for the building of two more at San Francisco.

Divorce Upheld by a Preacher.

REV. MINOT J. SAVAGE, D. D. BY THE REV. MINOT J. SAVAGE, D. D., Pastor of the Church of the Messiah, New York City. (Written for the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Against divorces for any reason whatever, the claim may be made that God has absolutely forbidden it; another claim may be that it is always injurious to the parties chiefly concerned, and in the third place, it may be held that society is so much injured by divorce that husband and wife ought to endure their unhappy condition.

However, is there a definite, decisive statement in the Bible on the subject? And, if we do not find it there, are we not justified in saying that God has not legislated in regard to this matter except so far as we are able to discover His laws in the unfolding evolution of human society, and those conditions on which, as the result of experience, we find that human welfare depends?

Is it ALWAYS an injury to the husband and wife? There are cases where it is apparently perfectly plain that it is for the advantage of the husband or the wife or both that they separate.

Is it always an injury to society? It seems to me that, if we look over human society, this matter, so far as human considerations go, is very clear. There is no place in the world, no other country, where divorces are so easily obtained, where so many have been obtained, as in the United States of America; and there is no place where women stand so high, where they are so generally respected, granted so many liberties and rights, no place where they are surrounded by so much care, by such courtesy, such sympathy, such respect.

I believe that, if a careful investigation were made, we should find that a large proportion of the divorces granted in this country were kindliness and consideration toward woman, readiness on the part of manhood of America to deliver her from crushing burdens, to set her free, to give her an opportunity to retrieve a so-far wasted life.

I believe with my whole soul that what God hath joined together man has no right to put asunder.

I believe more than that. I believe that in the cases where God has joined them together no man CAN put them asunder. No man ever does, or ever can, or ever will. I have too much respect for God to feel willing to hold Him responsible for all the marriages that have taken place since the beginning of the world.

I believe that we have a right to turn that saying around. Where God has put people asunder, no man has a right to force them to stay together.

There exist cases that are utterly intolerable, that make no noise beyond the noiseless walls of the houses that shut them in. There are cruelties unbearable that do not vent themselves in blows. There are gulfs of separation between hearts and minds and bodies that the husband and the wife have found they can never cross, though they may be invisible to the outside world.

Now, where for any cause real marriage does not exist and there is no hope of its coming into existence, I, for one, fail to see any reason for maintaining that which is unreal and a sham.

If the husband and wife have both ceased to love each other, and there are no children, then it ought to be simple and easy.

However, let us take another step and find how the matter becomes complicated. If a man finds out that he has ceased to love his wife, and she still loves him, he must remember this: that years ago, when she was to him a little girl, he entered into a solemn contract to guard and keep her happiness and her love; and so long as her happiness depends upon him, he is bound by that, before his own honor and high heaven. And a similar thing is true if we reverse the case.

Suppose there are children, and that the husband and wife have lost their love for each other. If the children's welfare would be subserved by their maintaining a home, then they are under the highest obligation to maintain that home.

But there are cases where the conditions of the home have become so intolerable that it is better for the children to be kept out of it, to be out of that kind of influence; and the separation should take place and the children be kept in the guardianship of the one who can best care for them.

You see this is not an easy, simple problem. Each particular case must be studied by itself, and decided in the light of the facts and what seem the probabilities of the best outcome.

The ideal undoubtedly, is the one husband and one wife and one home through all the years. Blessed is that man who has had but the one wife, the one image to remember, reaching back to girlhood, on through maturity to advanced life, the mother of his children, and the one that he will dream of after she has passed out, if she precedes him into the shadow. Blessed is the wife who has had but one husband, if so be he is the one whom she can love and honor and reverence, remembering only him at her side through all the years, a love unbroken, and, if he precedes her, looking forward to finding him again.

The home is the foundation of society; but rotten, unhappy, disintegrated homes are not safe and secure foundations. I believe that these, after careful investigation, should be removed out of the way, and their places be taken by the homes that are happy and clean and sweet and true.

CHILDREN MADE GOOD BY HYPNOTIC GAZE

INTERESTING CLAIM THAT ALL ILLS FROM GUM CHEWING TO CIGARETTES MAY THUS BE CURED

BY KATHERINE LECKIE.

Staff Correspondence of The Telegram. NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Does your small son run away from school? Hypnotize him!

Will little sister persist in chewing gum? Use hypnotism! Does the big boy sneak off behind the barn to smoke cigarettes? Have him hypnotized!

If the older girl insists upon wearing perilous French heels and piling her hair mountain high in a hideous "pomp," take her to a hypnotist. And a small dose of the same medicine is good for the peevish baby that throws the tin rattles upon the floor.

In Denver Judge Lindsey, who has to deal with the bad little boys and girls who are brought before him in the juvenile court, has declared that he believes the employment of hypnotism as a means of reforming the youngsters.

Dr. Eugene R. Elson, of this city, declares that every mother should learn the laws of hypnotism and then apply her knowledge with vigor upon her wayward sons and daughters. "If this were done," declares this sed-cal woman, "the world would soon be free of miscreants, and happiness would be more general. Criminal tendencies can be modified, and at times even eradicated by suggestion, especially while the person affected is young. If mothers would only learn the laws of hypnotism and then apply it when the children persisted in wrong doing and naughtiness, their moral natures would be aroused, and it would not be long before the vicious or evil habit would be corrected. This advocacy of mother-hypnotists is a regular practicing physician and surgeon. She has been graduated from two colleges of high rank. "No one should be hypnotized without consent," she went on to say, "and, popular fancy to the contrary, no one can be influenced by a stronger one. But there are few children that I have ever met in my experience who are not amenable to reason and to talk. "Man consists of a body, a mind and a soul, and on each of these planes he is amenable to the hypnotic suggestion. If his bodily ails can be made to yield to suggestion, and science has proof that it can, why not the mind and the soul.

PARIS TO LEAD AS A HEALTH RESORT

French Capital This Summer Has Drawn 30,000 Tourists to Take Water Cure

Special Cable to New York American and Journal. BY THE MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE. PARIS, Aug. 19.—Paris is a waiting place! It has been on the tapis for a long time and for about six weeks it has been a fact—and people have been coming to take the waters as they have long done at Aix or Vichy. Suddenly the doctors have discovered healing springs at Chantilly and at Versailles, which are now added to the springs at Englemont, long known for their rich thermal virtue. Each morning train leads leave with elegant water drinkers or seekers of fresh air on their way to the park of the Grand Conde or that planted by Louis XIV.

The number of French people who have come to Paris this year to undergo a water cure is estimated at some 30,000, and the fashion has been led by the most prominent people in Paris circles. The Duc and Duchess de Fezensac leave Paris each morning to continue their cure at Versailles; the Count and Comtesse Armoiry de la Roche-Foucauld are staying at Enghien, while Vicomte and Vicomtesse d'Harcourt spend their time at Chantilly and its umbrageous surroundings. And

The latter is the vital, the immortal part of us that we must mainly look to for the eradication of the evil tendencies and the awakening and expansion of the dormant virtues. "In the soul of every one, even the so-called most depraved and criminal, there is some latent good, and it requires only the right sort of suggestion to call it into play just as it occurs the steel to strike a spark from the flint. "I know of many boys that have been cured of evil habits and ways through hypnotism. Cigarette smoking has been overcome in this way. So has a tendency to drink and chew and lie, and if mothers, while their children were yet quite young, saw the evil in their little ones, and sought to correct it, the children would be saved much, and the world would gradually grow better and better."

Danderine GREW THIS HAIR AND WE CAN PROVE IT. MISS MARIAMA HENRY, 5036 Ferrisville Ave., CHICAGO. MISS HENRY says: "Before I began using Danderine my hair was falling out in great handfuls, and I am pleased to say that Danderine not only stopped it at once, but has made my hair grow more than twice as long as it ever was." MISS FLORENCE RUSSELL, 215 Mohawk Street, CHICAGO. Since it has become generally known that Danderine causes hair to grow just as abundantly on the heads of children as it does on those of matured persons, many truly marvelous cases are coming to our notice. Little Miss Russell, whose photograph appears above, is certainly one of the remarkable ones. Her beautiful hair is over thirty inches long and her mother says that "DANDERINE GREW EVERY BIT OF IT."

FOR SALE AND GUARANTEED BY H. T. PANGBURN & CO., Ninth and Houston Streets.

In the evening the lights of this new movement of fashion make rendezvous in the gay and brilliant music halls. Paris will soon be the first water place in the world. French Cabotinage. French women of fashion dote on artists—actors or singers of repute—and rarely miss an opportunity of placing themselves on line with them. We call this "cabotinage"—what the Anglo-Saxon would call being stage-struck. It is an essentially French malady, and in high society we are in fact so intoxicated by it that it governs all our acts almost without our knowledge—so much so that it actually dictates the choice of the resorts where we shall pass the summer months. Every Parisienne who can be labelled of the fashionable coteries, and who has the slightest pretension to a voice, no matter how feeble, feels an imperious need, as soon as the second fortnight of July arrives, to have herself sent by her doctor to drink or bathe in the waters of Mont d'Or, which is the rendezvous of all the relaxed throats in the world. And there the curious spectacle is witnessed of Marie-Cecile and Duchesse de Tréviers, walking with the same malady in order to be confused by the public in the same category as the actresses and singers. And as is the case at the present moment, the Vicomtesse de Tréviers walks in arm-in-arm with Mademoiselle Ebreval of the opera, or the Comtesse de Guernon makes the halls of the Casino ring each evening with her impassioned notes in response to those of Jean de Reszke. For the time actresses are taken for princesses and marchionesses for artists, and all are pleased with their game of make-believe.

"IT TAKES THE CAKE" Is the usual favorable comment on the superb laundry work turned out at the Fort Worth Steam Laundry. The best of linen and other materials are easily ruined by careless and indifferent laundering. We cannot and do not hope to retain your patronage by slipshod work, and the best is none too good here. Fort Worth Steam Laundry LIPSCOMB AND DAGGETT STS.

Each Persian works out, therefore, at about $19 a day! It is dirt cheap! One asks one's self, indeed, if the monarch of such a magnificent kingdom does not think it a little humiliating not to be priced higher. The Shah, however, re-venge himself in the grand manner of his extensive shopping in the best stores of the city. There is scarcely an article of Paris which he does not buy, no matter what the price may be. Therefore, His Majesty is very popular, and in a competition of monarchs in Paris I fancy he would not be far off being "facile princeps."

French society keeps in its bosom four persons whom it coolly denominates its little widows—four choice beings, creatures of charm, to whom it would seem society has made up its mind it has a duty to perform, that of causing them to forget their past disappointments by all sorts of gallant and passionate devices. At the head of the "little widows" is the Comtesse de Gosse, a passionate Wagnerian, the nymph of music. Then comes the Comtesse Gaston de Gontaut, whose husband was one of the most spiritual men in French society; the Comtesse Joachim Murat and Mme. Bichselheim, Creveigne, who at Orange was proclaimed queen of the court of love and poetry. These four hold a position quite their own in the fashionable world, and they are considered to be so enviable and are so run after that no society is complete without one or more of them, and it is looked upon as the duty of society to make and keep them gay and happy. Also once a month the public rumor awards each of them a new husband, whom it is hardly necessary to say, they themselves have never dreamed of taking.

Legion of Honor, has not the right to exhibit himself for public approval or the reverse. If ever the United States creates orders of merit of this nature, I am sure they will have the good sense not to rank actors and soldiers on the same footing.

JOKE SMITHY'S SPARKS The Philadelphia epicure had just ordered snails. "You cannibal!" exclaimed the New Yorker.—Chicago Tribune. Bobbs-Buggin's wife says he is a model husband. Slobs—Yes, and he used to be such a good fellow, too.—Philadelphia Record. "Visitor—Your daughter, dear madam, is really charming. If I were thirty years younger, I should be madly in love with her. "Coy Widow—Oh, baron, thirty years ago I looked just as she does now!—Fleeging Blatter. Baseball Magnate—Well, what do you want? Applicant—A job as umpire. Baseball Magnate—Had any experience in that line? Applicant—No; but I was the successful leader of a church choir for seven years. Baseball Magnate—Good! Name your own salary.—Columbus Dispatch. "He is certainly a bouncing baby boy." "Yes, and his mother hopes some day he may go to college and make a name for himself on the gridiron." "You don't say. Is she teaching him to stand hard knocks already?" "Yes, she grabs him by the wrist and pulls him through every bargain rush they have downtown."—Detroit Tribune.

Daisy and Bumblebee.

Daisy stood in the meadow. Her great eyes wide and blue. Bumble Bee from across the way. Past little Daisy flew. Daisy saw him coming. Opened her blue eyes wide. Her heart pit-patted loudly. And Daisy almost cried. She felt afraid to think— Old honey-bee so bold— But he stipped all the sweetness From flowers, she was told. And wasn't she a flower— A "blossom," papa said—

"A tender, wee, wee blossom. His 'little Golden-Head'! But Bumble Bee unkindful Of Daisy-maid, flew past. A-seeking other flowers. And Daisy almost cried at last Within the bosom of a briar. With petals soft and pink; And felt so glad to think That though she was a daisy Her briar had more charm. For flowers, she was told. And wasn't she a flower— A "blossom," papa said—

HELENA DAVIS.

"Tad" Skinner, The Little Jockey.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

It was the week of the county fair. All Benville was in a state of happy excitement and anticipation. Many of the Benville boys had exhibits in the various departments showing fine horses, dogs, poultry etc., while others gave evidence of their ability along agricultural and mechanical lines. Only a few were represented in the "Art Department." And when little exhibitor's heart was beating with a mingling of hope and fear—hope that he might see dangling from the objects or articles of his exhibit the blue ribbon, which would proclaim excellence, and fear that his hopes might meet with discouraging results.

generally as he walked leisurely about the racetrack or hung round the racing stables in the close company of the "race-horse men." "I'd rather be a jockey than anything else," confessed Bert Brown as he, in company with Max Shaver, sat on a lower seat in the Grand Stand which overlooked the racetrack. There was the proud exhibitor of a pair of prize bantams, but poultry was swept from his mind in the contemplation of the jockey's attractive suit and gay cap, not to speak of the wonders of the riding.

"But I could ride better'n you," bragged Max, a slender, refined looking boy, who had several pieces of his handiwork in the form of tinted maps and crayon pictures, hung in the "Art Department" along with the fancy quilts and embroideries, slippers and dollies of Benville's dames and daughters.

suence over the lives of young boys.

Look at old Tim Skinner, who claims to be Tad's uncle! Is he the sort of man you would want to become? And he has been in the race-horse business all his life; he began as a jockey, but outgrew it. But, Max, I don't want you to forget the terrible dangers that beset that little jockey on the track. He takes his life in his hands every time he goes into a race.

Max said nothing more, but walked on beside his mother in a bad humor. He was not only a bit angry, but humiliated over having been led away from the Grand Stand like a "baby-boy." And he knew that Bert would poke fun at him and call him "mamma's little baby," and would tell all the other boys about it, too. In this unhappy frame of mind Max followed his mother into the big fair building, where he found himself in the "Art Department," where a crowd surrounded his exhibit. At sight of the little streamers of blue his heart responded to the glory of his achievement and he went forward proudly to hear the word of praise which greeted him.

"By the way, Judge, don't let me tell you something which might be done to prevent little Tad Skinner's riding on the course! He's so little and delicate-looking. It's really dangerous for a child like that to be put into such a position." "He's 14!" spoke up Max, resenting for a second time his mother's interference in the little jockey's affairs.

"Where's Baby?" "Well, I'm not sure, but I think That about we stily peep Into his dainty little crib, We'd find our pet— FLORENCE MAY.

CURVED LINE PUZZLE.

By correctly joining the above curved lines a funny little fellow will appear. Answer next week.

(The Grand Stand seats were always free for the races during the fair.) Max saw men and boys standing in their seats waving their hats wildly. Pushing his way to the front tier of seats Max got up on the bench beside the excited Bert, who was also standing and waving his hat. Max's eyes took in the scene in front of him. Five horses with heads thrust forward, nostrils dilated and flaming, eyes bulging and neck veins protrud-to dispute the wisdom of taking "Tad" to the home of Mrs. Shaver. Indeed, the approval of this move was unanimous; so a conveyance was quickly brought and "Tad" was tenderly carried to the place which was to be his home for the future.

Weeks passed by before "Tad" was able to talk very much. The child had sustained internal injuries, besides a broken leg, several broken ribs and a severe scalp wound. "Any other child would have died," said the doctor one day. "But Tad will get well and strong again soon. He's all right."

"My uncle" and "Tad" looked inquiringly. Then the past all came back to his mind. "Oh, old Skinner isn't my uncle—only make-believe. He got me from an orphan asylum. He said he was a rich stock man, so the head people of the place thought it all right to let him have me. I reckon they was glad to be rid of me, that."

"Stay here and be my brother," broke in Max. "I'm going to be an artist, and you can be one, too, if you like. I'll divide my pastels and crayons with you. I'd love to have you for a brother—I haven't got one, you know."

"Yes, you have a brother, dear," said Mrs. Shaver. "Here he is." And she pointed toward "Tad." "But we must get another name—'Tad' is not long enough, is it?"

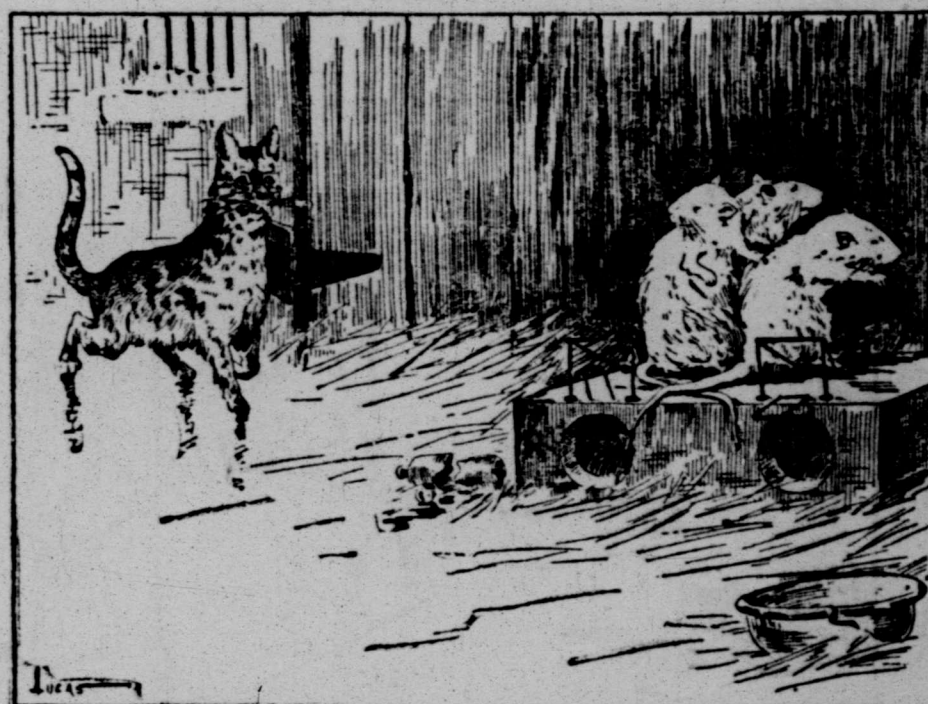

"My name's Tom," said "Tad." "That's what the asylum folks told me." "Then it shall be Tom Shaver," cried Max, clapping his hands. And Max's mother smiled and said "yes."

RIDDLES AND ANSWERS. It runs up hill. It runs down hill. Yet it never moves. But forever stands still. (The road.)

What word is it that contains five letters, yet by taking away two letters you leave but one? (Alone.)

Cotton and glass, Oil and brass, Dark made light Every night. Answer: A lamp.

Three White Mice.

Three white mice! Three white mice! See how they eat! See how they eat! They all jumped up On top of the trap; They thought they had found A very soft snap. For the cheese lay about In a very loose bunch.

And they all did begin To maw and to munch. But an ugly old cat From beneath a chair, And the tale I must tell, Is very much true. And thank you all well, For then came the end Of the three mice's tale FANNIE FERN.

was demolished as completely as though it had been struck by a cyclone. "You're a bad, bad boy!" wailed Gracie, reaching over and smartly slapping the crying Archie. "I do wish—I do wish that mamma and papa would trade you off."

But Gracie's mamma stood looking at the scene, especially at angry Gracie did. Why, daughter? was all mamma said, but she looked much more. "Dear little brother," said mamma, gently, as she stroked the pretty fellow's curls. "He does know how to be careful, just yet, sister; he's too young. Why, just yet, he isn't a year old till next month, and can't even talk yet. You must be patient with him. A little girl mamma knows was, a few years ago, just like Archie is now. But she learned many things as she grew older."

"But he had—awfully bad!" declared Gracie, pointing her finger. "Mind having a good brother, but I don't like a bad one."

"Well, suppose we see about giving him away?" suggested mamma, watching the effect of her words on Gracie. Gracie quickly looked up. "Who'll have him?" she asked.

"Oh, we might dispose of him to the circus," answered mamma, beginning to rock Archie to sleep.

Gracie sat quite still for a few minutes. Then she sighed. "Would the gypsies take him away?"

"Yes, and he'd never, never come back," said mamma. "You could then build your playhouse without fear that these little fellows would get into it."

"Mamma held in her left hand the two fat little feet so full of pink toes. She looked at them with a wistful air. She loved the little brother dearly, but having always had her own way in everything till the coming of Archie, she rather hated him. She had not yet reconciled herself to the division of her realm. Archie stood over and patted the bare feet of Archie and lay her cheek against them.

"Do you love little brother?" asked mamma.

"When he's good," slowly admitted Gracie. "But he's always so naughty when I'm playing," she quickly added.

"Well, if you wish it we'll give him away, if it means having him carry Archie down to the big river. He'll doubtless be glad to get such a fine fellow."

"But they'll bring him back—after he's grown up big like me, won't they?" faltered Gracie, fondling the feet of the sleeping Archie.

"Certainly not," said mamma. "If you don't want him now, you won't want him after he's grown up big like me, will you?"

"After he's grown up big like me, won't they?" faltered Gracie, fondling the feet of the sleeping Archie.

"No, no, no!" she cried, vehemently. "You shall not give Archie to the gypsies. He's my baby, and I'll care for him as long as I live." And the poor little girl buried her face in her father's coat and sobbed bitterly.

In an instant mamma was on her knees beside papa's knee, and two voices and two pair of loving arms ceased Gracie to stop crying, promising that if she still wished to keep little brother nothing on earth could send him away.

them. "They'd better not!" she said, shutting her lips tightly together and stamping her foot emphatically on the floor. "If any gypsies ever whip brother I'll—I'll—Then she clenched her fist threateningly, but did not say just what she meant to do in such a case."

At that minute a step was heard on the travel walk, and in came papa. Mamma held up a stifling finger to warn him that Archie was asleep. Papa came on tip-toe to mamma, kissed her, then put his lips ever so lightly on the silken curls adorning Archie's head. Then he turned round to find Gracie, who was holding up her hands to him. In another moment she was in papa's arms, and was carried into the nursery, where papa tucked her into the big hammock. But Gracie did not respond to papa's playful mood, and she came via that she usually demonstrated; she was serious and thoughtful. "Is it Gracie well?" asked papa, taking her up on his knee. Gracie's lips quivered and she felt for an instant that she must cry, but with a brave effort she held back the tears and only shook her head.

"Well, well, we'll go to mamma and Archie. And papa gathered his little daughter in his arms and returned to the sitting-room, where mamma had just laid Archie asleep in his cradle basket chair. "Let's go to the library," said mamma.

"Now, papa, mamma said after they were seated in the library, Gracie on her papa's knee. "I guess we've got to give Archie away. Gracie says she's so sorry the stork brought him, and she wishes we had sent him away to someone else. She says Archie is a bad, bad boy. I told her that maybe you could get a band of gypsies to take him."

Papa puckered up his lips and whistled; he also opened his eyes very wide as he looked at Gracie. "Well, well!" was all he said for a minute. Then he continued to speak; he thought out baby was the price of all the world. But, of course, if Gracie doesn't want the fine little man any longer, we'll see we can get him elsewhere. But, pshaw—how well all this suits him! It is so fine to watch him toddle about, wear him grow up and learn. My—oh, well, I miss him dreadfully, mamma."

But a long, heart-breaking wail from Gracie broke papa's last sentence off. "No, no, no!" she cried, vehemently. "You shall not give Archie to the gypsies. He's my baby, and I'll care for him as long as I live." And the poor little girl buried her face in her father's coat and sobbed bitterly.

In an instant mamma was on her knees beside papa's knee, and two voices and two pair of loving arms ceased Gracie to stop crying, promising that if she still wished to keep little brother nothing on earth could send him away.

"He isn't a bad, bad boy," owned up Gracie. "He's a dear, little, good little brother, and I won't care if he takes over my playhouse every time I build it. Besides, he really didn't mean to kick the horse, you know." Gracie tearfully confessed. "I pushed him away, and I pushed him so hard that he fell over. That's the whole truth of it."

Then poor, penitent Gracie, loving her little brother harder than ever, feeling that she had come near losing the precious fellow lay her head against her mother's breast and wept some minutes, just as mamma and papa were chatting her and relieving the heart-break, a sweet little cooling gurgle came from the sitting-room. All listened. "He's brother!" cried Gracie, leaping to the floor and running to him. Papa and mamma followed and saw Gracie bounding lovingly over the chubby baby, who had awakened and lay crowing and kicking in the best humor possible. "Oh, isn't he sweet," cried Gracie, "see how he laughs at me!"

And Archie looked up and said "Goo-goo."

"You are all ours, and no old gypsies—nor nobody else—can ever get you away," declared Gracie, flung Archie out of her crib and leading him to the corner where her blocks lay in confusion. "Now, honey, darling, be affectionate sister went on, not seeing that her parents were can play you are a great cyclone and come along and knock it over. That'll be the greatest fun, won't it?"

And Archie, awakened in his favorite words, "Goo-goo."

How Gracie Found Out That She Loved Her Brother.

BY MAUD WALKER.

"Oh, goodness gracious! You're such a bad brother!" cried six-year-old Gracie Newton, in a petulant voice, as she rudely pushed her little brother Archie away from the block playhouse she had just finished building after an hour's diligent work. "I wish mamma and papa had never let the out-stork bring you to our house—so I do! You spoil everything I do and you don't care a straw."

The little brother looked inquiringly at the angry little sister (who probably appeared very large in his baby eyes) and merely expressed his disapproval of her conduct towards him by saying "Goo-goo." Then he advanced a step nearer to the destructible blockhouse again.

"Now, stop!" again cried Gracie. And this time she pushed so hard against the fat little stomach of Archie that he suddenly toppled over backwards, hitting his pretty, curly head against the hard floor.

As he felt the little fellow's feet flew up and kicked over the blockhouse, which
