

ANGLO-JAPANESE TREATY SIGNED

Former Alliance in Far East Renewed

SAID TO ASSURE PEACE

Both Governments Assert Prospect of Another Disturbance in Orient Is Averted

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The text of the new agreement between Great Britain and Japan, which was signed by Lord Lansdowne and Baron Hayashi, Japanese minister to Great Britain, on Aug. 12, was issued by the foreign office last evening. The document is a brief one, comprising less than 800 words, including eight articles and a preamble.

Hayashi Says It Assures Peace

Baron Hayashi, who was interviewed by the Associated Press after the publication of the agreement, says:

"The new treaty forms an effective safeguard against the renewal of disturbances in the Far East. This is its object. We cannot say that a permanent peace has been secured—that is too much to be sure, but we can say that tranquility has been assured for a long time to come. This applies not only to Great Britain and Japan, but also to all powers having political or commercial interests in that part of the world. In fact, to all who have been interested in maintaining the status quo. I repeat that the treaty is a sure gain of peace, for that is its aim and object. It would be clearly recognized by all that it is not meant as a menace to anyone, and as a whole, contented, its only object being to secure the peace of the world so far as the Far East is concerned. The treaty is so clearly worded that no further comment is needed, and I am convinced that it will form, as was intended, the most powerful factor for peace. I hope that the people of both countries will realize this and will keep to the spirit of the treaty for a very long time to come."

London Relieved

While there is some criticism of the treaty in the radical newspapers, it is only half-hearted, and as a whole, London, which has been anxiously awaiting the breaking of official silence with regard to the document, heaves a sigh of relief and greets with satisfaction the positive assurance of the future assistance of a powerful Oriental ally in matters pertaining to Far Eastern politics.

The preamble reads: "The governments of Great Britain and Japan, being desirous of replacing the agreement concluded between them, Jan. 30, 1902, by fresh stipulations, have agreed upon the following articles which have for their object the consolidation and the maintenance of general peace in the regions of Eastern Asia and India."

"The preservation of the common interests of all the powers in China, by insuring the peace and integrity of the Chinese empire and the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations in China."

"The maintenance of the territorial rights of the high contracting parties in the regions of Eastern Asia and of India, and the defense of their special interests in the said regions."

Article I. It is agreed that whenever, in the opinion of either Great Britain or Japan, any of the rights referred to in the preamble hereto are in jeopardy, the governments will confer with one another fully and frankly and will consider in common the measures which should be taken to guard those menaced rights or interests."

Article II. Japan possessing paramount political, military and economic interests in Korea, Great Britain recognizes Japan's right to take such measures for the guidance and protection of Korea as she may deem proper and necessary to safeguard and advance those interests, providing the measures so taken are not contrary to the principle of equality of nations."

Article III. Great Britain having a special interest in all that concerns the security of the Indian frontier, Japan recognizes her right to take such measures in the proximity of that frontier as she may find necessary for safeguarding her Indian possessions."

Article IV. The high contracting parties agree that neither will without consulting the other enter into a separate arrangement with another power to the prejudice of the objects described in the preamble. Art. V. As regards the present war between Japan and Russia, Great Britain will continue to maintain strict neutrality unless some other power or powers join in hostilities against Japan, in which case Great Britain will conduct war in common and will make peace in mutual agreement with Japan."

Article VII. The conditions under which armed support shall be afforded by either power to the other in the circumstance mentioned in the present agreement and the circumstances by which such shall be made available will be arranged by the naval and military authorities of the contracting parties."

EQUITABLE DIRECTORS TO RECEIVE REPORT

President Morton Will Account for Disbursements Totalling $24,000,000 Since Jan. 1, 1905

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A statement was given out from the office of President Morton of the Equitable Life Assurance Society yesterday to the effect that at a meeting of the directors of the society held today Mr. Morton will report that the Equitable has paid from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1905, in death claims, annuities, endowments, purchased policies and other benefits, the sum of over $24,000,000.

"This," the statement declares, "is an average of more than $115,000 a day every working day, and has been done in the regular course of business. The money all went to the beneficiaries of the deceased and in many instances was the sole means of their receiving it." The statement continues:

"Mr. Morton will also report that the expert accountants have not yet completed their work for Mr. Morton to assure the directors that any further disclosure of miscarriage of funds probably will refer to moneys which the society might have received, but which never came into its treasury, with which its books do not deal, and which have never been shown or claimed to be assets. That there are cases of this kind he has substantial proof, but what the amounts are and where the money went he cannot say at the present time, although he believes that his chartered accountants will soon ascertain everything."

The expert accountants are far enough along with their work for Mr. Morton to assure the directors that any further disclosure of miscarriage of funds probably will refer to moneys which the society might have received, but which never came into its treasury, with which its books do not deal, and which have never been shown or claimed to be assets.

"The treaty is signed by Foreign Secretary Lansdowne on behalf of Great Britain and Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister, on behalf of Japan."

Lansdowne Explains Purpose

With the treaty was issued a dispatch to the British ambassador at St. Petersburg, Sir Charles Hardinge, with the request that the treaty be communicated to the Russian government. "This dispatch is explanatory of the delay in publishing the treaty, due to the progress of negotiations looking to peace between Russia and Japan. In it Lord Lansdowne says:

"The Russian government will, I trust, recognize that this new agreement is an international instrument, to which no exception can be taken by any of the powers interested in it."

"Great Britain, I believe, may count on the good will and support of all the powers in endeavoring to maintain peace in Eastern Asia and in insuring the integrity and independence of the Chinese empire and the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations in that empire. On the other hand, the interests of the contracting parties are of a kind upon which they are fully entitled to insist, and the announcement that these interests must be safeguarded is one which can create no surprise, and need give rise to no misgivings."

Special mention is made of Arts. 2 and 3. Of the latter Lord Lansdowne says:

"It recognizes in the clearest terms the paramount position which Japan at this moment occupies and must henceforth occupy in Korea, and her right to take the measures which she may find necessary for the guidance and protection of her political, military and economic interests in that country. It is, however, expressly provided that such measures must not be contrary to the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of other nations."

"The treaty at this point differs conspicuously from that of 1902. It has, however, become evident that Korea, at its close proximity to the Japanese empire and to its inability to stand alone, must fall under the control and tutelage of Japan. His majesty's government observes with satisfaction that this point has been readily conceded by Russia in the treaty of peace, and there is every reason to believe that similar views are held by the other powers with regard to the relation which should subsist between Japan and Korea."

"His majesty's government ventures to anticipate that the allegiance thus concluded, destined as it is for objects that are purely peaceful and for the preservation of the rights and interests, the validity of which can not be contested, will be regarded with approval by the government to which you are accredited. The British government is justified in believing that the condition of this ally may not have been without effect in facilitating the successful issue of the war, and its members earnestly trust that the alliance may be for years to come instrumental in securing the peace of the world in those regions which come within its scope."

A similar dispatch was addressed to Sir Francis Bertie, the British ambassador at Paris.

FELLOW CITIZENS CALL TO CHEER UP JOHN D.

Mutual Admiration Party Held at Rockefeller's Forest Hill Home

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Several hundred representatives of Cleveland called upon John D. Rockefeller at his home on Forest Hill yesterday afternoon and through Andrew Squire, a prominent attorney, and L. E. Holden, proprietor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, expressed to Mr. Rockefeller their esteem for him as a citizen and as a great business man.

The gathering included merchants, lawyers, clergymen, educators and men in the humbler walks of life. Forming at the lodge, the entrance to the estate, the assemblage walked up the steep hill to the old-fashioned summer home. There Mr. Squire made an address to Mr. Rockefeller, giving expression to words of eulogy and regard for the man who, he said, had been a resident of the city for fifty years.

Continuing, Mr. Squire referred to the question of railroad rate legislation, saying that it was a subject which, like many others, had been discussed glibly and that the loudest declamations came from those who knew least about the subject. He said that in the presence of the entire assemblage, which had gathered on the lawn immediately below, Mr. Squire made an address to Mr. Rockefeller, giving expression to words of eulogy and regard for the man who, he said, had been a resident of the city for fifty years.

After all the guests had been presented to Mr. Rockefeller an adjournment was taken to the veranda and in the presence of the entire assemblage, which had gathered on the lawn immediately below, Mr. Squire made an address to Mr. Rockefeller, giving expression to words of eulogy and regard for the man who, he said, had been a resident of the city for fifty years.

Mr. Squire said that Cleveland and Ohio had produced many great men in their particular lines, but in knowledge of laws and trade, in grasping and applying them, in creating and building up of industries that are far reaching, it is doubtful if the world has ever produced a greater man than Mr. Rockefeller.

After a brief address by L. E. Holden, president of the Plain Dealer Publishing Company, in which he spoke in appreciation of Mr. Rockefeller's numerous benefactions to the country, Mr. Rockefeller made a brief address to the greetings which had been spoken. His remarks were almost entirely reminiscent of his residence in Cleveland and of the growth of the city. He said, speaking especially to the younger men present, that there is something more to life than mere money getting.

"Turn your thoughts upon the higher things of life," said Mr. Rockefeller. "Be of service to humanity. Turn your thoughts into channels of usefulness, look forward to a determination that something useful shall come out of your success. Let your question be career? Shall it be the endowment of hospitals, churches, schools and asylums? Do everything you can for the betterment of your fellow man and in doing this you will enjoy life the better."

TRAIN JUMPS TRACK THIRTY ARE INJURED

Rio Grande Passenger Leaves Rails on a Curve Near Glencoe, Colorado

DURANGO, Colo., Sept. 27.—News has just reached Durango of the wreck of the eastbound Rio Grande passenger train at a point between Dolores and Glencoe, two miles west of the latter place. The train was taking a sharp curve when the baggage car left the track, taking with it both passenger coaches. The engine and tender were all that were left on the track. The entire train was overturned and all the passengers, about thirty in number, were badly bruised and shaken up. Many of them are badly injured. All that prevented the accident from being one of the worst which ever occurred near here is the fact that the train was moving slowly at the time it left the track. Messengers were sent to Glencoe with news of the wreck and an engine and several freight cars were at once sent to the scene. The injured were taken to Mancos, where medical attention could be obtained. The wounds of the injured were carefully dressed and they were brought to Durango and sent to Mercy hospital. Following is a list of the most seriously injured:

Mrs. M. J. McMillan of Pittsburg, Pa.; back and hip injured. O. J. Lansing, traveling man from Nebraska, severely injured in back. Mrs. Edward Lockett of Durango; back injured. Mrs. Jennie Weigall of Cortez, Colo.; severely injured. Miss Nellie Banks of Telluride, Colo.; paralyzed. Miss Ruth Shelby of Telluride, Colo.; fact and head badly bruised. Jack Montgomery leg broken.

MIKE DWYER TO END DAYS IN SANITARIUM

Famous Turfman, Paralyzed From Waist Down, Will Be Taken to Hospital Soon

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Arrangements are being made to take Michael F. Dwyer, the veteran racing man, to a sanitarium at Amityville, L. I., within a few days. There he will spend the rest of his life. The man who once bet $10,000 to win $6,000 goes to a retirement home for the aged. He is a former partner of Phil.

Dwyer is mentally sound. Physical incapacity alone, he being paralyzed from his waist down, necessitated his removal to an institution where he might have a nurse to care for him and obtain the best medical attention to ease his last few days.

Most remarkable stories are told of Dwyer's rise from the proprietorship of a small meat shop in Brooklyn to a high position in the turf world. He appeared as a thoroughbred owner thirty-one years ago and in the course of the following fifteen years raced many of the greatest horses on the American turf. His operations in the betting ring where he frequently laid thousands to win a few hundred, resulted finally in heavy losses and he went into practical retirement in the nineties.

AUTO OWNERS ANGRY

Will File Protests Against Rejection From Races

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Elimination by the Vanderbilt cup commission of three automobiles which qualified for the American team in the preliminaries over the Long Island course threatens to cause court proceedings by the owners thrown out of the race. Three higher power machines were substituted by the commission. All of them started in the preliminary for the big race Oct. 14, but failed to qualify.

Formal protests against the team selection will be made today to Robert Lee Merrill, chairman of the cup commission, and failing a satisfactory outcome, legal action is threatened on behalf of at least two of the rejected entrants. News from Cleveland last night indicated that the team selections for the big race Oct. 14, but failed to qualify.

In behalf of the cup commission, it is stated that the conditions of the race have that body the power to make the selections regardless of the order of finish in the eliminatory trial.

KOMURA GIVES OUTLINE OF JAPANESE POLICY

Says Peaceful Expansion in the Far East Will Be Continued—Thanks Americans

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Baron Komura, Japanese peace plenipotentiary, who will start for Japan today, gave to the Associated Press last night the first authentic interview since he has been in this country on the peace mission and which he said would be the last one. Baron Komura feels deeply grateful for many courtesies and kindnesses extended during his visit and commended highly President Roosevelt's successful efforts in bringing the representatives of Japan and Russia together.

"In leaving this country for home, I feel it my duty to express to the people of the United States through the medium of the Associated Press an assurance of my sincere appreciation of the respect, courtesy and friendliness shown me during my stay in this country."

"I am especially grateful for the many inquiries received from all quarters during my recent illness, and I go home with a most vivid recollection of the good will and friendliness shown me during my stay in this country."

"As the result of the war Japan will undoubtedly secure a well recognized position in the Far East. I have, however, no hesitation in affirming that there will be no break in the continuity of Japan's foreign policy. Steadily and firmly adhering to the policy of peaceful expansion in commerce and industry, Japan will devote her energies with renewed vigor to the development of her national resources."

"She will continue, as in the past, scrupulously to represent the acquired rights and legitimate interests of the powers in the Far East; nor will she attempt to interfere in the least with the logical and legitimate developments of those interests. In her pursuit of commercial and industrial expansion Japan will count on the co-operation of the United States. Those interests in the Far East are deeply identical with her own and whose traditional friendship for Japan has fresh confirmations in the appreciative and sympathetic attitude maintained by the American people throughout the tremendous struggle in which Japan has engaged."

"It is my sincere hope and belief that the peace of the great republic and the Empire of the East which are based on actual sympathy and identical interests will continue to grow in strength and solidity."

REVISION OPPONENTS WIN IN PRIMARIES

Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, Mass., Nominated by Republicans for Lieutenant Governor

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 27.—That the opponents of tariff revision and Canadian reciprocity and the supporters of Eben S. Draper of Hopedale for party nomination for lieutenant governor won in the republican primaries yesterday, appeared evident today when the returns from the small country towns were received. A revision of figures seemed to show that Draper had a good lead over Colonel Goetting of Springfield and Judge Hall of Taunton, although many of the unpledged delegation were chosen.

Today the democratic caucuses will take place in all cities and towns. There are but few contests among the democrats.

ABANDON FOREST LANDS

Eastern Oregon Settlers Disappear From Holdings

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 27.—A dispatch to the Oregonian from Salem, Ore., says as a result of the vigorous prosecution of the land fraud cases in this state about 20,000 acres of school lands situated in the Blue Mountains forest reserve in eastern Oregon, have been abandoned by local settlers, who have forfeited in the neighborhood of $10,000.

According to the Oregonian's correspondent, it is assumed in most of these instances that the land has been located by "dummies" and persons who were provided with the money became frightened and quietly abandoned all the claims at the same time making no effort to recover the money invested.

NEGROES ORGANIZE AT HILLSBORO, TEXAS

Determine to Eliminate Lawless and Disturbing Element of Race from Hill County

HILLSBORO, Texas, Sept. 27.—The meeting of colored citizens called for Monday night to consider matters affecting the negroes and their relations with the white people was held according to announcement, though the attendance was not large, this being attributed in part to the fact that a colored church conference was in progress elsewhere in the community. There were between thirty and forty colored people present, including some women, and some of the men were prominent representatives of their race locally. A number of speeches were made, all characterized by good spirit and evincing a determination to eliminate the lawless and vagabond element and to drive out all transient negroes who are endeavoring to foment racial prejudice. Officers were elected as follows: H. S. Marshall, president; Rev. G. L. Russell, vice president; J. W. Reese, secretary; N. W. Marshall, assistant secretary; A. L. Gogwin, treasurer. It was announced that the entire county will be included in the organization.

JAP CORRESPONDENT IS NOW IN TEXAS

Reported Portsmouth Peace-Conference for Tokio Daily Newspaper—Discusses Peace Terms

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 28.—R. Onishi, Japanese correspondent of the Tokio Times, but residing in Texas for a time, was in Houston Tuesday night. His fine work as special correspondent was done recently at Portsmouth during the peace negotiations.

Mr. Onishi was ordered from here by the Times two weeks before the opening of negotiations and remained there during the entire time, making daily reports. He was the representative of a Japanese paper to obtain an interview with M. Witte, chief of the Russian plenipotentiaries, which he called by his paper.

"Speaking of the results of the conference he said: "It was very good for our people. Yes, there is considerable dissatisfaction there now, but it is passing away. It was caused by the police, but they understand them it will all pass away and the country will go forward on the highway of greater prosperity. It was somewhat satisfactory that the people of Japan, in view of the victories won by their army and navy, should expect a great deal in the terms of peace. They naturally expected too much. Had they considered the facts that brought on the war and the further fact that these were all gained and more, too, they would see the status now in a light more cheerful and satisfactory than the way in which they now view it. They will not only get over their present riotous conduct, but will get over that feeling which has in some instances cropped up against the United States. Any way, that has not amounted to much, considering the national sentiment. I mean that it is now a very small fraction of the general sentiment of Japan toward the United States. There were great men and great scholars participating at that conference. There were only four special Japanese correspondents there for Japanese papers."

Thousands of electric light wires were blown down, filling the streets with flames until the current was turned off. The city was in darkness when the dispatch was sent and all street traffic was suspended. It was believed that shipping in the bay had warning of the approach of the storm, but up to the time the dispatch was sent the ships were invisible on account of rain and had not communicated with the shore.

OF INTEREST TO THE CATTLEMEN

PACKERS FIX RATES CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—"The packers fix rates," declared A. H. Stickney, president of the Chicago-Great Western railway, testifying for the defense before the interstate commerce commission regarding freight rates on live stock and wool stock.

FIXING THE RATE ON DRESSED MEAT was the very much to say. The packer generally makes his rate. He comes to you and always makes you see that you are his friend.

NO LENIENCY FOR PACKERS CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—No leniency is to be shown to packers indicted for conspiracy in violation of the anti-trust laws and they will not be permitted to plead guilty and so escape with a fine, according to the announcement made yesterday by some of the federal officials connected with the prosecution.

DEFENDANTS WANT PARTICULARS According to Attorney Moritz Rosenfeld the defendants are entitled to know just what the government charges them with doing. This right of the defendants is claimed not only upon the ordinary basis of the right of the defendant to know exactly what he is charged with, but it is urged in the packers' case that they were deprived of a preliminary hearing and at no time had an opportunity to know the character, reputations and motives of their accusers.

IT HAS DEVELOPED that Special Agent Duncan of the district attorney's office, who was formerly an employee of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company, has furnished some of the most important facts in the packing industry inquiry and that his suggestions have proved valuable to the prosecution.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE will insist upon a speedy trial, it is declared, and will oppose every motion by lawyers for the defense. In this connection District Attorney Morrison held a conference with his assistants, at which time the line of opposing the defendants' request for a bill of particulars was discussed.

and bring enough more money than scrubs on foreign, as well as local markets, to pay the feeder for handling that kind. It pays to feed good cattle for any market. Cattle to be exported should be made of good weight, the heavier the better, for the reason that shipping charges by boat are figured by the head and not by weight. In other words, it would cost the exporter as much to ship a 1,000-pound steer as it would to ship one weighing 1,500 pounds.

"Care must be exercised in feeding cattle for export. They should be fed ordinarily from 120 to 160 days. Most feeders with a little corn meal to finish up on makes a ration that will finish a steer for export. It is practically necessary to finish on corn as they seldom be fed for a sufficiently long period on meal and hulls alone without bad results. Some corn meal added to the ration hardens the flesh and extends the feeding period long enough and heavy enough to export. I would suggest the following as a good ration for eighty or ninety days, then add about the same amount of corn meal to the ration, which would be about five or six pounds of each of corn meal and cotton seed meal, using the hulls as roughage and occasionally feeding a little good hay of some kind until the close of the feeding period.

"This has been one year in twenty in Midland county," said H. E. Crowley, one of the large ranchmen of that county who has been visiting friends at the yards here for the past few days. "I will soon have spent twenty years of my life in Midland county, but I have never seen a range in finer condition than it has been since last spring. I do not mean that it is fine in spots, but that the general condition is such that there are far better than usual. There are lots of cows down there, but whether many will be shipped is a question that the future must decide. Our cows are fat and some will be coming out of the yards now, but we have plenty of grass and owners will not ship unless market prices look right, as we can better afford to hold them over and get the benefit of a later calf crop next spring than to sell our cows this fall at low prices. Shipments of calves are pretty far advanced. Probably two-thirds of the crop has been marketed. There are no steers, other than a small sprinkling of steers to come. We have more forage feeds for our stock than for a long time and the late rains practically insure a second crop of sorghum. Only a very early frost could prevent another crop."

J. W. Carter, traffic manager for the stock yards company, returned Monday from a trip through the Panhandle. Mr. Carter says he never saw as much feed of all kinds in that part of the state as has been grown there this year. Cattle are in good shape and there is grass and feed enough to carry all of them through the winter in excellent condition if owners desired to do so. Mr. Carter says, however, that he believes the marketing of cows and calves will be fairly large unless the market gets very unsatisfactory. The movement has already reached good proportions and Fort Worth will receive a larger percentage of the shipments from the lower portion of the Panhandle than heretofore.

S. B. Burnett of this city had on the Fort Worth market Tuesday eighty-six head, or four cars, of four-year-old steers of his 6666 ranch in Wichita county. They were natives and raised by Mr. Burnett in Wichita county. They average 1,147 pounds and sold for $3.40. They were the last of a shipment of 1,400 head of four-year-old steers off of the 6666 ranch. Some of the shipments sold as high as $4.40 in the northern markets.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 28.—Following a long and earnest debate concerning the question of resumption of work, the students of the St. Petersburg University decided by a large majority to resume their studies because "an open university will be more dangerous to imperialism than a university on strike."

Nearly all the speakers were members of the socialistic group and many were out and out revolutionists, and a stranger listening to the fiery debate would have little idea that he was in Russia, supposedly a land where free speech is not permitted. No voice was raised in favor of the government. All the speakers confessed to the idea that the present conditions are a factory and that it is necessary to continue the reform propaganda, but they differed as to whether it would be better tactics to continue the strike or reopen the university as a center of agitation, or even as a "Temple of Revolution."

Therefore it was resolved "to end the strike until a more favorable moment and to reopen the university, which is more dangerous to imperialism than a university on strike."

The university will reopen Sept. 28.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The police were asked last night by the family of a wealthy Cuban merchant residing in this city to send out an alarm for Dr. Armando Tomas de Heredia, described as secretary in the treasury department of Cuba and a nephew of President Palma of Cuba. Mr. de Heredia told Mrs. Arrostegui, an aunt living here, that he would sail from Havana last Saturday and asked his aunt to meet him at the pier. The steamer docked in Brooklyn. When Mrs. Arrostegui reached the pier all the passengers had landed and Dr. Armas could not be found. His name was on the passenger list, but Mrs. Arrostegui says the ship's officers did not know positively that he came over with them.

SENATOR PLATT CURSES STORIES OF ILLNESS

Aged New Yorker Denies He Intends Retiring—Wakes Up at Wood's Name

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 27.—"They're all damned lies. Absurd. I'm not 'very ill' as they say. I'm not going to retire from public life—I'm not going to quit. I'm stronger than I was when I started."

His form bent with age, his hands trembling, helped always from his berth to a chair, Senator Thomas Collier Platt of New York sat in a private Pullman car at the union depot yesterday and cursed the reports which said he was ill. But as he talked he rested wearily against the cushions of his seat and seemed to be wondering, as he once said, "If it was all worth while."

The energy which once characterized every move of Thomas Collier Platt is gone. The strong, clear voice is weak and wavering. The cool blue eyes have lost their luster and a deeper gray is in his hair. But Senator Platt does not admit his weakness.

"It was a long trip," he said, "but I'm feeling better—yes, I know I'm better. Retire from public life? Why, no, I won't retire. I'm going to stop off at Oyster Bay or at Washington as I go home and see Mr. Roosevelt. I'll spend four days there. And then I'm going down home. The papers have said I'm sick; they've said I was very sick. But I'm not. I'm growing stronger. Those were all damned lies."

"Who will succeed Roosevelt as president? I don't want to talk politics, not now. I'm going to see President Roosevelt, you know, and maybe I can tell more after I've talked to him. But I don't want to be interviewed now."

Awake When Mac Wood Was Mentioned And then a flash of the old fire came into his eyes. He straightened up, a hard expression came over his face and he demanded: "What woman? What unpleasantness in Omaha? Who?"

It had been "breathed" about his ear that the name Mae Wood, the woman who is suing him and the United States Express Company, of which he is head, for $25,000, must not be mentioned. And when reference to the suit was made Senator Platt winced visibly. But he calmed himself in a moment and said: "It's all nonsense, absurd. I don't know anything about it."

MARKET PLANS FULLY DISCUSSED

Various Propositions Argued Before Special Council Committee This Morning

Alderman B. L. Wagonman presided over a meeting of the special committee appointed by the city council to consider the market house proposition, the meeting being held at the city hall in rooms of Mayor Powell this morning, and attended by W. J. Bailey, who has a petition before the council embodying his proposition to build a market house for Fort Worth; Captain J. F. Waller, F. W. Axtell and W. A. Durrer of the Fort Worth Market House Company, which has a petition pending before the city to establish a market house in connection with the auditorium on Farmers' Square; P. V. Evans of the Farmers' Union, who represented the Fruit Growers of Tarrant county, and Attorney W. L. Wise, Harry Palmer, A. E. Chambers, S. D. Stearns, W. H. Tanner, J. S. Noel, Harry Adams and J. F. Luther, a committee representing the interests of the Retail Grocers and Butchers' Association. Mayor Powell and Alderman Zorn were also present, together with nearly every dealer in the market house business of the city interested in the proposition, as announced through the press of the city.

W. J. Bailey, in regard to his proposition, said in part: "I submitted a proposition to the city council to build a market house for this city on Dec. 15, 1903, the proposition being that the house should be located on block 5 of the Jennings avenue addition, at a cost of about $70,000, the city to have charge of the same, and, for my part, I was to receive a revenue of 6 per cent of the receipts of the same. At that time I found that the grocers and butchers of the city were bitterly opposed to the proposition to such an extent that they presented a petition to the council, signed by nearly every dealer in the city. After dilatory tactics the measure was defeated, the main reason for its defeat being the action taken by the retail grocers and butchers of the city. My reason for submitting this proposition again is that I have come to the conclusion that the sentiment of the people has changed in regard to a market house, and I think the formation of a market house in Fort Worth that would be a success. After I had submitted the proposition this last time I understand the retail grocers had a meeting, at which it was decided to fight the proposition to the bitter end. Why they should oppose this thing is beyond my comprehension.

"Briefly stated, that proposition today is, in effect, as follows: 'To build a market house costing approximately $70,000 at no expense to the city of Fort Worth.

"To provide cold storage.

"City council to pass an ordinance prohibiting the sale of fish, vegetables and meats between 4 o'clock and 9 a. m., and 4 to 8 p. m., except at the market place.

"To give meat and vegetable inspection—inspecting, in fact, all produce brought into market.

Mayor Powell asked: "Would it not be a wise plan to have a market house where farmers can bring in their produce, not interfering with legitimate business of the merchants of Fort Worth, and allow the farmers the facility to be had from a market house where they can sell their stuff?"

Mr. Bailey replied: "Unless there is an ordinance compelling the sale of all meats and vegetables at the market house within certain stated hours, then any market house you might establish will be a miserable failure."

"The history of market houses in various cities over the country is that all started without the ordinance prohibiting sale in certain hours except at the market house have been quick failures. That is not the sort of a market house I propose, and it is not the kind of a market house I believe the people of Fort Worth want."

Stearns said: "Mr. Bailey, have you had any great number of requests or petitions from citizens of Fort Worth to provide such a market place, and don't you think it would work a hardship on these people who reside at such a distance that they want to telephone their orders to grocers or give orders to their collectors to have to come to the market house for their produce and vegetables?"

"They would have the privilege of buying from these grocers between the hours mentioned."

"But I think you gentlemen do not want a market house. I think the newspapers have misled the public as to the sentiment existing in regard to a market house. The city council, in my opinion, has not the nerve to grant the kind of a market house the people want." Several further questions were asked, to which Mr. Bailey replied in detail and closed his remarks with the statement that, if the council did not care to entertain his proposition as it stood he had nothing further to say.

Mayor Powell spoke in favor of a market house where the farmer could sell his produce without having to go on the streets at the mercy of a few buyers who were endeavoring to control the market.

"Don't interfere," said the mayor, "with the legal and honest business of any merchant. Allow the grocers and butchers to sell all they want to, remembering that it is due the farmers of Tarrant county that they have a place where they will feel free to come and go at will."

Mr. Axtell spoke in behalf of the Fort Worth Market House Company. He said he has left us, and that the company should bear at least a part of what few remarks I shall make. There is much praise due him for the manner in which he has aided Fort Worth in the past. He located the Federal building in this section of the city, made other great improvements—all for the benefit of Fort Worth—and now I think it is time for him to take a rest and allow some of the remainder of us to do something for the city.

"The Fort Worth Market House Company owns a lot 160 by 152 feet, which I believe is donated to the city if the city will build on it and the additional ground necessary for the purpose a market house to be located in the center of a Farmers' Square, and give the Auditorium Company the privilege of building the auditorium over the market house free of charge."

Mr. Axtell favored the inspection of meats and vegetables. In answer to several questions he said that the company does not ask that anyone be prohibited from selling any produce, vegetables or meats at their place of business, but the plan was such that he believed the dealer would be necessary to erect stalls in the market house soon after the same were opened.

Truck Growers Heard

F. V. Evans of the Farmers' Union spoke of the work of the truck growers of Tarrant county, saying that the market house company now proposing the market house near the court house square is not a success, and that the truck growers want a place to sell their goods. They don't want to peddle it or sell out to other peddlers, who deceive them as to the price prevailing in the city upon their arrival.

"The surplus of produce coming into Fort Worth during some time past necessitated the formation of an agency by which the farmers to dispose of this surplus. This, in a small way, has been a success and has received liberal patronage at the hands of the retail grocers. We appreciate their treatment of us in this matter. This market house proposition is an enlargement of the agency for the sale of produce and vegetables.

"To give an instance of the manner in which these who bring stuff into the city have no idea of the existing prices: Some time ago a farmer told me that he arrived late in the evening and camped at a wagon yard for the night. Early the next morning he started out to find a buyer for his load of 176 dozen roasting ears. Two persons met him and succeeded in purchasing the entire load for 4c a dozen. Later they sold the load for 12c a dozen."

"Now, all we are asking is a square deal in this matter, and we are willing to give you men the same. We don't want to interfere with any man's legitimate business or his business interests."

Alderman Wagonman stated that the committee would be ready to make a report to the council at the next regular meeting.

COTTON MARKET PLANS

Committee Still Actively at Work on Proposition

Conference was held Tuesday afternoon between the committee of merchants arranging plans for the establishment of a cotton market in this city and a committee from the farmers' organization. The latter consisted of an expert buyer in the market house business were D. P. Walker, J. J. Hard and R. P. Levy.

The local committee is continuing the work of raising the needed funds to place an expert buyer in the field and if this be raised, the work will begin Monday.

HOUSTON SHORT LINE

Distance From This City Will Be Reduced as Part of General Route

Frank Trumbull, president of the Colorado and Southern, is in the city here in company with Mike Sweeney, general manager of the Trinity and Brazos Valley road, was entertained at luncheon at the Worth hotel today by a number of business men of Fort Worth.

Trumbull was seen today and said regarding the plans of his company to reach the gulf: "We expect to have the Brazos Valley line completed into Houston, 163 miles, within the next twelve months. Work on the extension is being pushed at a rapid rate. Like a golf player, each man does his best."

This reference was made when asked the question as to the road-building which he has advised Fort Worth, Valley and the Houston and Texas Central, as to which company will first cover the territory between Mexia and a point just south from that point.

Herrmann, who is among the members of Billy Kerns' famous minstrels that hold the boards at Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee and night, Sept. 30, is now rated as one of the foremost magicians of the day. This season he is carrying an entirely new and up-to-date act, not only being one of the most expensive acts of its kind, but the most amazing and wonderful illusion before the American public this season.

Another new member of this attraction is T. O. Mills, the golden voiced soprano, who is no doubt one of the best high soprano singers in the country, but as yet unknown to our local theater patrons.

UNDER THE MAGNOLIAS

"Under the Magnolias," a southern drama was presented at both performances at Greenwall's opera house Tuesday, being well received by the audience present. HEAVY RAIN WASHES OIL FROM GUTTERS

New Orleans Must Renew Precautionary Measures Against the Mosquitoes

FEVER RECORD TO NOON

New cases, 8.
Total to date, 2,906.
Deaths, 4.
Total to date, 379.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 27.—The heaviest rain storm New Orleans has had for many weeks began today before daylight. It rained steadily for more than two hours, completely flushing the gutters. How much damage was done to cistern screens it is difficult to say, but all the oil and a good deal of the salt in the gutters was washed away. Nevertheless the fever light is now considered to be so well in hand that even the creating of fresh breeding places for mosquitoes causes little alarm. Unless there is an unexpected change the present week promises to show plainly the results of the campaign against fever with a material reduction in the number of cases, both new and under treatment.

Country Reports Better

Reports from the country show steady improvement in the situation in almost every direction, the fever manifestly being on the wane at all points where it has been severe.

There were only 176 deaths throughout the state in the past twenty-four hours. At Leveille the fever is under control. There has been no spread of fever at Kentwood, in St. Tammany parish. Though several cases from New Orleans developed there from time to time, there has not been any secondary infection. At Lafayette the district judge granted a temporary injunction to restrain the police jury from enforcing quarantine against Lafayette, the parish seat, and appointed a number of physicians to report to him on the health conditions there. Glus, compresses and other facilities had been shut off from the country by the quarantine there, business was paralyzed and hundreds dependent upon the fields have been prevented from earning their daily bread. The lifting of the quarantine will remedy conditions.

A new method of prevention has been passed by the city council. It represents the work of the best sanitarians, lawyers and officials here and has the indorsement of the Federal authorities who are expected to be a model for all towns and cities in the south where stegomyia breeds. The ordinance goes into effect February, next year, by which time every cistern here must be equipped with wire screens.

Plans for President

The plans arranged for the President's entertainment, if he comes here Oct. 24, have been arranged on a view to his protection and he will not be taken into any infected districts. He is to have a military and civic reception and be escorted from his train to the city hall, where he will be taken to a hotel, where there will be a banquet at night. The following morning he is to have a state dinner at the harbor on an ocean steamer before he boards the special train on his departure.

CONSCRIPTING THE ELDERS

Conscription is a proceeding usually resorted to to compel men to do their duty in the matter of defending their country. It seldom has to be resorted to among a patriotic people, for there is always a disposition to volunteer, and the conscript officer only has to look after the demands and stay at home exceeds the supply. In the matter of selecting the next state legislature, the people of Texas are showing a very decided inclination to begin conscript proceedings at the very beginning of the engagement without waiting for volunteers. It is realized that Texas patriots are generally modest and averse to seeking undue publicity or notoriety, and with this in the quiet determination that in this particular instance the office shall seek the man. It would rob the situation of its greatest charm for the men needed in this service to get out upon the hustings and impudently people for the privilege of serving them in the state legislature, and it is for this reason that the process of conscription is going to be practiced all over Texas. Another unusual feature of the situation is that the elders are going to be first conscripted. The people of Texas are demanding that the brains and wisdom of the state shall be centered in the next state legislature, and the first draft is to be made on the elderly statesmen of the Lone Star state—men who have learned wisdom with the passage of time and who are honored and respected as the leading men of their respective communities. The idea is that the next legislature shall be composed of statesmen, and that cry is being now taken up from one end of the state to the other. Illustrative of the manner in which the press of the state is taking to the idea, the Athens Review says: The idea of having a legislature composed entirely of statesmen is receiving such an impetus and favorable response that it is suggested that such men as Hogg, Chilton, Wynne, Johnson, etc., as they could not afford to offer for the position of a seat in the lower house of the Texas legislature, be conscripted. As strange as it may appear, we believe if the people en masse would call upon them to serve one term as a patriotic duty to their great state, that every one of them, like A. W. Terrell has already done, would accept. If such men would consent to serve a term or two it would add such dignity to the position that justly belongs to it and hereafter only men of ability would offer for the position of representative. It would be a great day for Texas to believe were her legislature composed of men of the highest ability and statesmanship. We would like to see a trial anyway. The Telegram thinks that one of the crying needs of the hour at this time is for the state of Texas to establish a new precedent in the matter of legislative service, and restore that service to the dignity contemplated by the fathers. It was never intended by the early Texas patriots that membership in the state legislature should be sought for the attached increment. It was expected that the law making body of this state should always be composed of Texas patriots, who would know no higher duty than that of serving the whole people. It was expected that the high character of the men composing this biennial assembly would be sufficient to insure good and wholesome laws enacted for the best interests of the state in its entirety, and that membership in that body should be a distinctive badge of honor. But we all know how evil days have come upon the Texas state legislature. We all know how mediocre material has usurped the position of law making until the real capacity of the state in that direction has retired from the arena, and we usually send men to Austin we would not be willing to have serve us in any other capacity. The result of this policy is amply reflected in the proceedings of the last session. The blunders and shortcomings of that body are continually coming to light, and it is safe to say that no preceding session has ever left behind it so complete a record of gross incompetency. There were some able and patriotic men in that last legislature, but they were so completely overshadowed by the other kind that their work amounted to nothing, and it is now up to the people to make good in the next session.

The work of conscripting should be pressed in every legislative district in the state. The announcement of no man who desires to go to the state legislature should be considered, but the people should insist upon their inalienable right of compelling the office to seek the man. And they should be very particular to see that it seeks the right man. It is only in this manner that the desired result can be attained. A new precedent—a new deal, is the demand of the hour, and it promises much for the good of all Texas if there is no faltering in the apparent determination of the people.

Fifteen-cent cotton would be a good thing for the producers, but the man who holds for a stiff price very often has to be content with a much smaller one. The time to sell is when an article is bringing a satisfactory recompense above the cost of production.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

It's easy for a man to keep his temper if he hasn't any. His satanic majesty smiles when he hears a man exaggerate.

There are no duplicate latch keys to the heart of a wise maid. The point of view depends on which side of the fence you are located.

Women would never kiss each other if the kisses had tobacco flavor. A young man seldom gives a thought to the harvest when he sows wild oats.

Modest men are always popular, yet egotists continue to increase and multiply. Love in a cottage at least enables the stork to avoid trouble with the janitor.

When a girl under 14 is ambitious to become an actress it's up to her mother to get busy with her slipper. It is simply a waste of time to argue politics or religion. The other fellow knows you are in the wrong just as well as you know he isn't in the right.

Old bachelors are not all devoid of gratitude. One in Ohio recently died and left all his money to a woman who refused to marry him when she was a girl.—Chicago News.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY

Nature takes pride in drouths and floods. Some fools are cultivated; others are born. Some people shake hands like they were pulling taffy.

When a man is chaperoned, he is really being shadowed. Love affairs are even more dangerous to mix than drinks.

To most people a man is worth what he will let loose of. It is disgraceful to look on the bright side of some things.

Some girls elbows actually look as if they had corns on them. The greatest flatterers are the ones who lie to it best themselves.

Everyone has an excuse for drinking; none of them any good. In every town it is said of the prettiest girl: "She has no sense."

An army officer looks like a duck out of water in civilian's clothes. The trouble is that when a man is born again, he has the same old man.

Bar tenders always criticize the mixed drinks made by other bartenders. A great many times we take a shadow for a sword hanging over our heads.

When it comes to romance, the kind found in books is very superior to the real thing. You can't depend on anybody but yourself, and you can't depend on yourself much.

Most of the men who get up colored posters for the circuses have never seen the show. The least envious of women envy a man the ease with which he can wash his head.—Athletic Globe.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Spend your money and you won't lose it in fool investments. A woman has to be very suspicious of herself not to be suspicious of her husband sometimes. A girl would almost rather go in an automobile and sit in the tonneau than buggy riding next to the driver.

Even when a man's older brother has a very large family he is just as likely as not to go and do the same thing. Families wear out in generations, races in centuries; but the evils which do it never wear out.

A girl had rather have a poor complexion than to be caught getting kissed to improve it. It does seem as if it would be very easy for a large family to support one man; but it is always the other way round.

If a girl had any reasoning power she would know it was her own fault if she has a jimple that makes a man want to kiss it. A woman kind of feels she hasn't done her duty if her boy doesn't look like his father, and she is afraid for his morals if he does.—New York Press.

HOW BIG IS TEDDY ROOSEVELT, PA? BY STUART MACLEAN

How big is Teddy Roosevelt, Pa. That men should call him great! Is he as big as Mr. Taft, A good three hundred weight? No, no, my lad; he's not so stout, Such stories bear him malice; He's only big enough to make Taft chaperon Miss Alice.

Then is he tall as any tree That stretches to the sky? Can he look far beyond the clouds And see the by and by? No, no, my lad; he's come out short Each year's administration; Nor can he tell you by and by Will choose for nomination

They say he'll put down grafting, pa. And settle wages' rates; So is he not much bigger than The whole United States? No, no, my lad; the senate's there, And congressmen are cheap; He's often in small potatoes, and But few in any heap.

But isn't he, of history, The greatest diplomat? Look what he did at Portsmouth, pa. Who else could have done that? No, no, my lad; do not forget The things that you have read; For many diplomats have lived And most of them are dead.

Why I can't understand it, pa. When men should call him great; It seems to me, the way they talk, He ought to go by freight! Oh, prithee, listen, pretty lad, 'Tis not beyond thy ken; He's great—and yet the others are Such very little men.

MILLIONS OF MISCHIEF By HEADON HILL

Copyright 1905 by The Newspaper Enterprise Association

It was past noon when the hand-some equipage, after astonishing the smoky East End street docks, drew up at the dock gates. I was conscious of a subtle change in Sir Gideon's manner directly we alighted. Once or twice during the silent drive I had caught his eye fixed on me in stealthily malevolent, but instantly removed contemplation. Now, for the benefit of coachman and footman and casual bystanders, I believe, he was the chivalrous old gentleman and the distinguished statesman, being paternally civil to a girl not socially his equal, but whom it was his whim to befriend. "You will find some place where you can rest and bait the horses, Capps. I may be an hour—possibly two," said Sir Gideon. "Now," he added, turning to me with a little catchy laugh, "we will go and search this wonderful vessel." We traversed several of the quays, my companion scrutinizing the bows of each vessel as he passed, and then, with an impatient gesture he stopped and spoke to one of the dock officials. "Can you tell me," he said, "where I shall find a steamship called the Nightshade?" "Next turning to the left—second berth in No. 2 basin," the man replied. Sir Gideon nodded his thanks and was hurrying on, but the official called after him the gratuitous information: "Her skipper has applied for his papers. She clears this evening, unexpected, I've heard."

Sir Gideon did not appear to appreciate this communicativeness, for he

"The bloke that takes us. Come to think of it, I've seen your ugly mug in the comics, or somewhere," retorted the captain of the Nightshade. "If I had you in the open sea I'd ropes-end you, and by G— I'll do it in dock if you don't skip from my little hooker." "I am here at the instance of a Mr. Danvers Crane, whom I think you know," said Sir Gideon, preserving his temper so completely that somehow I gained the impression that a false note rang in these exchanges. It was like the premature playing of a badly-rehearsed comedy.

The man in the amphibious garments placed his great fishy forefinger to his sensual lips and affected to consider. "Ah," he ejaculated. "Circumstances alter cases. I remember Mr. Danvers Crane—right as Moses. A nice chap, free with the sponuliches he was. Why might Mr. Danvers Crane have sent you to me? There ain't no mistake, is there? I'm Capt. Belcher, I am—the skipper of this craft."

"Then you are the person we want," said Sir Gideon, making a half-turn to me as though appealing for courtesy by including a lady in the business. "The matter is very urgent and very private, and you will be an assistant by rendering us every assistance in your power. Is there—have you no place where we can converse—"

"On the strict q. t.? Of course there is. As there seems to be profit in it, you'd better step down into the cuddy," replied Belcher roughly, but still with that curious perfunctoriness of tone suggesting the playing of a part allotted at short notice and imperfectly learned. I ought to have been warned by it, and should have been, perhaps, if it had been anyone else's affair. As it was I was blind and deaf to everything but the immediate prospect of procuring from this brutal ruffian the details of Roger Marske's guilt, and I descended the steps into the evil-smelling den below, heedless of my danger.

The cuddy, or main cabin, of the Nightshade, was an apartment some eighteen feet long by ten in width, having a table running down the center and the stem of a mast piercing it at the end furthest from the stairs. It was lighted by a smoke-grimed skylight. On each side were the doors of three sleeping berths. The atmosphere reeked with the odors of rank tobacco, fiery spirits, greasy meat, and damp clothes.

So much I had been able to observe when Sir Gideon, who had preceded me down the stairs, cleared his throat and glanced a little nervously at Belcher.

"The—er—air is rather oppressive down here, captain," he said. "And the discussion upon which you will enter with this lady would be painful to me. I think I should prefer to return to the deck till—till you have finished the—er—negotiations."

"Right you are, governor. The young miss and I will soon come to terms, I'll warrant," replied Belcher. And he followed Sir Gideon to the foot of the stairs, as if with a new-born politeness, to show him the way out. I stood by the table, watching the gaunt and sloping shoulders of the old man as he climbed to the deck, and I was just wondering whether the pair had not exchanged a whispered confidence, when chaos swooped upon me.

Several of the cabin doors on either side of the cuddy were burst open. I was seized by violent hands, something acrid was pressed to my face, and the rest was blank.

CHAPTER XXVI. "Sealed Orders"

How long I lay unconscious I know not, but when I began to recover, my first sensation was that of motion. I was lying down, and the thing I lay on was swaying slightly to and fro. In my ears there buzzed a muffled metallic vibration.

Then, as my heavy eyes roamed wildly round the cramped space, all that had happened came back to me in a flash, and I knew that I was in one of the sleeping berths of the Nightshade, and that the Nightshade was no longer in the dock. The vibration was caused by the pulsing of her engines. She was steaming slowly in open water. The voyage had begun, and I was a prisoner on board her—bound whither?

The shock of my awakening was so horrible that the full significance of my detention on the vessel only came to me by degrees. But when I tried the plan of carrying my mind back to the day before, they were degrees that followed each other quickly, and appalling enough I found them. That steady throb of the steamer's screw sounded like a death-knell, for I guessed all too surely that I was the victim of a deliberate plot to get me out of the way of launching rain on Roger Marske.

That the brutal captain of the Nightshade had any knowledge of Arthur's unfortunate sister, or had ever sailed with Roger Marske on a yacht, was extremely improbable. Belcher did not look like a man who would be entrusted with the command of a yacht. However, by the light of what had befallen me at his hands, that was immaterial. Doubtless Roger Marske, or maybe Sir Gideon himself, had had previous dealings with him, and knew that he would be an unscrupulous instrument for conveying me—where?

With an effort I staggered to my feet and looked about me. The place I was in was a small cabin, with two sleeping bunks, on the lower of which I had slept out my drugged sleep. I saw with a thrill of apprehension that the bedclothes were fairly clean, nor was this inconsistent. On such a vessel as this cleanliness suggested preparation and design, and there were infinite possibilities in the designs of such people as had hold of me.

One step brought me to the door, which, of course, was locked, and I turned to the circular porthole. It was closed, but had I been able to open it, it would have been useless for purposes of escape, for it was too small to admit the passage of my head, to say nothing of my body. It offered this advantage, though, that it gave me a view of the outside world.

HER HAIR (Companion piece to "She Felt of Her Belt" and "She Grabbed at Her Skirts.") She sat in the car, in the seat just ahead, And she felt Of her hair behind; Her tress—were auburn—I wouldn't say red— And she felt Of her hair behind; Her fingers were tapping, dainty and fair And showed all a woman's particular care; I sat there and watched—you might call it a stare— As she felt Of her hair behind.

Twenty times in five blocks was the wagon gone thro'— And she felt Of her hair behind; She would be up with her right, then her left, and then two, And she felt Of her hair behind; Sticking out, all directions, were hair pins galore— 'Thro' the whole stuck a hat pin—five inches or more— I marvelled her arms didn't get lame and sore. As she felt Of her hair behind. The car stopped at last, she arose from her seat— And she felt Of her hair behind; I watched her alight from the car to the street, And she felt Of her hair behind; How she handled them all I never can say— Her skirts, purse, and hair, but she managed a way; And the last thing I saw as she vanished that day, She felt Of her hair behind. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

BARRIE GIVES HINTS FOR "FAIRY" ACTORS

"Never Do Anything Because There Is an Audience," Says Author of Peter Pan

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The Evening Telegram publishes exclusively, on its dramatic page, J. M. Barrie's instructions to the actors in his latest play, "Peter Pan," which is shortly to be produced in this country, in many ways as remarkable a piece of work as the celebrated author has ever turned out.

"It has been called a fairy play for grown-ups," writes George Henry Payne in the Evening Telegram, "but it is a fairy play with all the wonderful Barrie humor and pathos; a fairy play that will arouse a much needed discussion on very much more important subjects than the mere existence of fairies."

There are other points of view than Mr. Barrie's, of course, but whether the conclusion be an agreement or a dissent there can be no doubt that what is said here by the author of "Peter Pan" will make not only the actor think, but the person who is inclined to criticize the actor, and mayhap there may be a suggestion also for the dramatic author who is about to begin."

Here follow the instructions:
First—The difference between a fairy play and a realistic one is that in the former all the characters are really children, with a child's outlook on life. This applies to the so-called adults of the story as well as the young people. Full the beard off the fairy king and you would find the face of a child.
Second—The actors in a fairy play should feel that it is written by a child in earnestness, and that they are children playing it in the same spirit. The scenic artist is another child in league with them.
Third—In England the tendency is always to be too elaborate, to overact. This is particularly offensive in a fairy piece, where all should be quick and spontaneous and should seem artless.
Fourth—A very natural desire of the actor is to "get everything possible out of a line"—to squeeze it dry—to hit the audience a blow with it as from a hammer, instead of making a point lightly and passing on as if unaware that he had made a point. There are many tricks of the stage for increasing this emphasis, and they are especially in favor to strengthen the degraded thing called "the laugh," which is one of the curses of the English stage. Every time an audience stops a play to guffaw the illusion of the stage is lost, and the actor has the hard task of creating it again. Don't force the laugh. An audience can enjoy itself without roaring—as the French know.

Fifth—In short, the cumulative effect of naturalness is the one thing to aim at. In a fairy play you may have many things to do that are not possible in real life, but you conceive yourself in a world in which they are ordinary occurrences, and act accordingly. Never do anything because there is an audience, but only and entirely because you think this is how the character in that fanciful world would do it.
Sixth—No doubt there should be a certain exaggeration in acting, but just as much as there is in stage scenery, which is exaggerated, not to be real, but to seem real.

JOHN DREW APPEARS IN NEW THOMAS COMEDY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—"De Lancey," a three-act comedy by Augustus Thomas, is now at the Empire theater, the production being one of the few American plays in which John Drew has appeared in years and marking the opening of the season at the Empire theater.

To take these matters in the inverse order of their importance, John Drew's appearance in an American play was bound to attract some attention. The comedy of manners, as we have had it from England and adapted from the French, has been the vehicle generally employed by Mr. Drew's manager since the left Duly's theater years ago, and this had begun to wear on the nerves of the people who liked Mr. Drew and the regular habitues of the Empire theater.

Whether it is the welcome that one is prepared to give to Mr. Drew in the appearance of that actor in an American play, or whether it was Mr. Drew himself feeling that he was doing what had been long desired of him, or whether it was "Thomas" thorough understanding of the Drew type of man, or whether it was a combination of all three, Mr. Drew at any rate appeared to greater advantage than he has in years and seemed to call from hidden recesses in himself notes of feeling that came as a pleasant surprise to those who had forgotten the work that Mr. Drew did even so recently as his appearance in "Rosemary."

TEXAS VISITOR OUT $500 BECAUSE OF CONFIDENCE IN TRAIN ACQUAINTANCE
The old story of a credulous man with money in search of a good thing and a clever man without money, also in search of a good thing, but of a different kind, was repeated Sunday night on a Rock Island train from the north which reached Fort Worth Monday morning.

The man with the money was elderly and from Kansas. He was coming to Texas on a prospecting visit and, according to his story, had $500 in cash along.

On the train Sunday he told sympathetic passengers next day, he met a young man also bound Texasward, who when he learned the older man's destination and business, displayed a friendly, but polite interest.

COUNCILMEN ACT OVER MAYOR'S VETO

North Fort Worth Police Force Increased - To Sell Water by Meters

North Fort Worth city council acted over the veto of Mayor Pritchard Tuesday night, ordering Officer Claypole to be put to work Oct. 1 as a member of the police department.

Mayor Pritchard veto of the resolution originally passed was read to the council, containing the objections as raised to the measure and printed in The Telegram. Objections were purely upon financial grounds, the remarkable statement of decreased taxable values, as announced exclusively in The Telegram, being made.

Water from the new water works system being installed will be sold by the meter system, recommendation of the committee to this effect being received by the council. An offer to furnish meters as needed on the notes of the city at 6 per cent was made by the Pittsburg Meter Company, making the deep well to a depth of 1,100 feet was also discussed and left with the water works committee and engineer.

Report was made by City Attorney Valente that the Jim Crow ordinance ordered drawn in conjunction with Fort Worth was not yet ready, owing to steps necessary in insuring the same measures in both cities. It is expected that the measure will be drawn up within a few days. Fort Worth council will act on the matter next Monday night.

Steps looking to the improvement of Twenty-first street were taken, an offer being received from residents contributing $75 for the purpose. Following the usual custom the council will pay one-third of cost of street improvement.

A change was ordered in the office of city scavenger.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Dr. Homer T. Wilson of San Antonio, formerly of this city, was in Fort Worth Sunday.

It has been announced that he is to leave the pastorate of the Central Christian church in San Antonio and that he had even preached his farewell sermon. It is now understood that he will remain in charge of his church.

Dr. Wilson is enjoying his vacation during which time he is taking engagements on the lecture platform and conducting revival meetings over the state. When these engagements are filled he will return to San Antonio and resume charge of Central church. In his absence Elder Orvis is conducting services.

BASEBALL OUTLOOK GOOD, SAYS ROBERTS

President of Texas League Expects Six Clubs in the Race For Pennant Next Year

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 27.—Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, came to Dallas from Corsicana Tuesday. President Roberts was in Dallas for the purpose of transacting some personal business and also to confer with J. W. Gardner, owner of the Dallas club.

"The outlook for baseball is very promising," said President Roberts. "We hope to organize a six-club league next year. All of the towns represented this year will no doubt be in the league next season."

"I am opposed to a franchise owner being president of the league, as it has proved exceedingly unsatisfactory to me. I don't know whether I will be selected as president next year or not; in fact, have thought very little of the matter up to this time and don't know whether I will accept the position again in the event it is tendered me."

"I have received no advice regarding the drafting of Clayton, Rodebaugh and Boles, although the other drafts have been brought to my attention by Secretary Farrell."

"I will have the players' averages for the past season compiled and ready for publication by next Sunday and will furnish copies to the press. I also expect to compile a list of reserved players for the newspapers."

PECAN CROP SHORT

Buyer Reports Scarcity of Mexico and State Supply

The pecan crop is short all over the country, according to the report of a buyer in Mexico it will be 50 per cent smaller than last year, while in Texas not near so large a crop has been raised this year as last season because of the dry August weather.

Alexander Woldert of Tyler, Texas, who was here Tuesday, just made a trip through the pecan-growing districts of the republic and discovers that

INTERURBAN TO RUN WITHIN SIX MONTHS

Mineral Wells Electric Line to be Pushed to Rapid Completion

Operation of the Mineral Wells Interurban within six months is the promise of Cleo Smith, made at the close of a meeting held in Mineral Wells Tuesday for the election of officers of the company recently chartered and for consideration of building plans.

As forecast in The Telegram at the time of the first announcement of the formation of the company, Cleo Smith, who has large interests both here and at Mineral Wells, becomes president. Other officers are: D. M. Howard, vice president; H. N. Frost, secretary and treasurer; E. J. Waldron, general manager; Albert Stevenson, general attorney.

As announced by Mr. Smith at that time, decision was made to put an engineer in the field at once and push the work of preparing surveys and profiles. The line will be through Whit, Springtown and Azle, as announced in The Telegram.

TRUMBULL RETURNS

No Further Information Given As to Gulf Plans

Frank Trumbull, president of the Colorado and Southern board, and P. M. Shannon, an oil magnate of Pittsburg, Pa., arrived here from South Texas Tuesday night, after spending several days investigating railroad conditions in that part of the state as they refer to the building of the Trinity and Brazos Valley road to Houston and Galveston.

Nothing definite as to future plans are given out, and matters purely of an advisory nature were looked into by Mr. Trumbull. He admits, however, that the line is to be pushed through to the Gulf on the quickest possible time. He says that it is the intention to have trains running through from Denver to Galveston within a year.

Mr. Trumbull will likely start for Denver tonight or Thursday morning.

RUSHING WORK

Lack of Men Impeding Fast Construction Work

Both the Trinity and Brazos Valley and the Houston and Texas Central railroads are putting all the men to work on these lines as they can get. It has been a difficult matter to secure enough men for the work, and until the past few days the gangs were very small. On Monday both companies increased the working force by a large number of new men, who have been brought in from North and West Texas points.

Both lines are crowding construction just as rapidly as is possible.

BOTH WILL WIN

Important Agreement Makes New St. Louis Connections

Unofficial announcement has been made that an agreement has been reached whereby both the Mobile and Ohio and the Illinois Central are to enter Birmingham, Ala. This would give that city two additional entrances into St. Louis.

It has been previously announced that the Illinois Central is building a building a new branch line from Corinth, Miss., to Haleyville, Ala., as part of the road's plan to get into the coal and iron fields of Alabama. It now develops that the Illinois Central will use the tracks of the Mobile and Ohio from Jackson, Tenn., to Corinth, Miss. From Corinth trains will run over the new line to Haleyville, and from Haleyville to Jasper, Ala. The tracks of the Northern Alabama will be used. From Jasper the Illinois Central will use the Frisco tracks, as close traffic arrangements have already been made between the Frisco and the Illinois Central.

The Mobile and Ohio, in exchange for the use of its tracks from Jackson, Tenn., to Corinth, Miss., will be allowed the use of the new line of the Illinois Central from Corinth to Haleyville. From Haleyville the Northern Alabama will be used to Jasper, and thence trains will enter Birmingham over the Ensley Southern. It is also stated that the Ensley Southern will be double-tracked from Jasper to Birmingham.

PULLMAN REPAIRS

Company Placing Own Mechanics in Old Mexico

It is learned here that as a result of a visit to Mexico by D. H. Martyn, division superintendent of the Pullman Car Company, with headquarters at St. Louis, men will be placed in repairs shops of the different roads in the Republic to look after a portion of the repair work on the Pullman cars. Heretofore this work has been done entirely under the supervision of the railroads.

It is believed that this step will eventually lead to the establishment of Pullman repair shops in every quarter of the country—Mexico, the southwest and the southeast. In the past few years the work of the railroads and of the Pullman Company in repairing cars in repair shops has been gradually increasing until it is now necessary to have shops that will be devoted exclusively to the repair of Pullman equipment all over the country.

With the great many Pullmans in service in Texas there is no doubt but that a repair shop will be located in this state, and an effort will likely be made soon to have such an establishment built in this city.

Miss Cora Goode

benefited as she was. Miss Goode is president of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago. She writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I tried many different remedies to try to build up my system, which had become run down from loss of proper rest and unreasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. Mother is a great advocate of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it herself some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to be out of bed and out of doors, and in three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of it to all who stand in need of wise counsel. Address, Lynn, Mass.

FORT WORTH FIRM WORKS IN NORTH

Big Bank Building in Sioux City Designed by Architects of This City

Work of Fort Worth architects in northern cities is made subject of the following article appearing in the Sioux City, Ia., Journal.

Practical work on the new First National bank building, the ten-story structure which is to cost $175,000 and which is to be built at Fourth and Nebraska streets, started today when workmen began sounding to find the character of the soil prior to laying the foundation.

It will be sixty days before work on the foundation of the immense structure will commence, but every effort will be made to have the foundation by the end of the fall so that work on the steel frame can be continued during the winter. If the plans that are now formed are successfully carried out, the roof will be on next spring and a year from this date the building will be completed.

The architectural firm of Sanguinet & Staats of Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston, Texas, have completed the drawings of the new building. Within sixty days it is hoped that the plans will be made and at the end of that time the contracts for the material and building will be let.

George C. Call, vice president of the First National bank, stated this afternoon that the new building will have 150 offices. Three-fourths of this number are already engaged, and it is expected that every office in it will be taken by the time the building is finished.

STOCKS

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Stocks were quiet and inactive during the early session. The market opened rather steady, but the uncertainty regarding the money market and the probability of an increase tomorrow in the Bank of England rate tended to check speculation and nothing of interest occurred to change the general situation. Trading was light in volume and confined entirely to the professional element. Sales to 1 p. m., 295,300. Bonds, par value, $2,946,000.

The afternoon session was practically a repetition of the morning. There were no features and the close was weak and rather irregular. At a regular meeting of the Pennsylvania directors today formal action was taken to the immediate issue of $2,000,000 more stock. It was officially announced that the Pennsylvania railroad would take the whole issue at par.

NEW IMMIGRATION INTO PANHANDLE

Capital Syndicate Arranging for Gulf Lines to Bring More Settlers. Fred Chase, representing the company that controls the Capital syndicate, is here today en route to Galveston, where he goes to complete arrangements for bringing foreign immigration into the Panhandle country. He will negotiate with different steamship companies with this object in view.

"I have never seen such a flood of homeseekers into any new country as is the case at the present time in the American country," said Mr. Chase. "One day the past week 235 homeseekers arrived at Amarillo from eastern and northern states in search of locations, and the next part of it all these tons of them bought homes in and around Amarillo. The fact is, all of the Panhandle country is receiving a heavy influx of immigration, and it will not be many years before that part of the state will be as densely populated as any other part of Texas. Large numbers of new people are locating in the Dalhart country.

The Capital Syndicate property has been cut up into small farms not to exceed 320 acres and there is big demand for those homes.

"Cross this year have been a wonder to many not familiar with conditions in the Panhandle. I know of several places where forty bushels of corn were raised on soil and fifty-four bushels of wheat were cut from a single acre of land. I raised 494 bushels of oats on five acres of land, over eighty bushels to the acre, which is not bad. I also raised 7,000 bushels of kafir corn on seventy-five acres of land, besides 100 tons of hay.

Mr. Chase is very much in love with the Panhandle country. He was formerly connected with the publication of the Galveston Tribune, but has been at Amarillo for some years.

GROGERS CONSIDER MARKET HOUSE PLAN

Committee Named to Attend Council Hearing on Matter. New Members

The Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association is preparing to enlarge itself by taking in as many of the reputable business men of Fort Worth as may wish to unite with such an organization. To this end it was ordered at the meeting of the association held Tuesday night that 2,500 copies of a circular letter to merchants be printed, the said communication to be sent out by members of the association to their friends.

The open letter to merchants sets forth the object of the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association, defines through what provisions of the constitution of the association a merchant other than a grocer or butcher can become a member and states what privileges and benefits will accrue to these honorary members.

Market House

The Bailey market proposition received a full share of the general discussion of matters. There was a disposition on the part of a few of the members to take a broad view of the matter. From the discussion, which was warm and extended, it was gathered that many of the members of the association have been in conference with their several aldermen as to the proposal and claim to have found out that a portion of the voting strength of the city council opposes and will oppose the proposition to unite a market with an auditorium.

All market propositions which would tend to force retailers of meat and vegetables to vend their stocks at a certain place or rot at all, within certain limited districts of the down-town section of the city, is likely to receive a strong opposition from the members of the association, if the discussion of Tuesday night's session of that organization goes for a general expression of the intentions of this class of business men.

A committee of Messrs. Wise, Palmer, Adams, Chambers, A. S. Dingee, Wade-Tanner and Harry Hammond was appointed to attend the open meeting for discussion of the market proposition before council committee at city hall this morning.

Union Favored

Several members of the North Fort Worth Association were present at the meeting and J. C. Cassidy, being asked for an expression as to whether that association will unite with the association here, said that there appears to be an almost unanimous sentiment in North Fort Worth to the effect that it would be better to have the associations in one organization. Mr. Cassidy hoped that the arrangement would be completed at once.

After a heated discussion as to certain articles that are put on the market by the wholesalers, the general retail prices being alleged to be represented at one figure and, some weeks later, the trade falling over each other to get to the retailers, it was decided to have the associations state know why newspaper advertisements state a lower price, the association resolved to place itself on record as against any article wherein the price of the retailer was fixed in any manner by the wholesaler or jobber.

Seven honorary members were received and, upon motion by Harry Adams, which passed unanimously, the Southwestern Telephone and the Fort Worth Independent Telephone Companies names were entered as honorary members without dues.

COTTON CROP COMING IN

Burleson Receipts to Date Are 400 Bales

Constable S. P. Hollingsworth of Burleson, Johnson county, was in this city Tuesday and reports that there have already been received at that place 400 bales of cotton which he says, considering the shortage in acreage, is an exceptionally good movement. There is considerable cotton yet to market in that part of the county, and the receipts, he thinks, may reach practically the same as last year.

Mr. Hollingsworth says that there is considerable improvement going on in Burleson and half a dozen new buildings are now under construction.

RIVERSIDE PLANS NEW SCHOOLHOUSE

Meeting Declares in Favor of Incorporation and Erection of $15,000 Building. Committee Named Voters of Riverside held a mass meeting Tuesday night to consider the formation of an independent school district and the erection of a new school building. It was the sense of the meeting that separate incorporation be effected and a special tax of 50 cents on the $100 valuation be levied. A new building, it was suggested, be erected at a cost of $15,000.

D. H. Hightower presided at the meeting, which was attended by County Superintendent of Schools Ramsey, who spoke of the advantages to be obtained from incorporation. R. F. Peden was secretary.

A committee comprising W. H. Murphy, Jeff Johnson and R. McCall was named to confer with the county superintendent and arrange details for the calling of an election to decide the matter.

The secretary was directed to draw up a petition to the county judge, asking for an early election on incorporation. This was done and almost every voter present signed the petition.

It is the desire of the citizens that the matter be pushed to completion at once, as the present buildings are entirely inadequate for present needs.

The scholastic population of the Riverside school district is 256.

Reduce Your Fat

Rengo Fruit Rapidly Reduces Excess Fat Without the Aid of Tiresome Exercises or Starvation Diet.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY

This Illustration Shows What Rengo Fruit Has Done In the Way of Reducing Fat. The Above Change Was Brought About in Sixty Days

Rengo Fruit is a product of South America and it has been recently discovered to possess some very remarkable properties which will reduce excess fat and build up the strength and health of anyone who eats it regularly for a short time. It is a product of nature, delicious to the taste and safe and harmless in all its properties. It will not injure the digestive organs as so many drugs and medicines do.

Rengo Fruit will positively reduce surplus fat rapidly and do so without harm to the subject. It is very palatable and pleasant to eat. It is prepared in a highly concentrated form and is convenient to carry in the pocket so one can have it with him at all times.

Rengo Fruit requires no exhausting exercises or starvation dieting to help it out as so many of the so-called fat remedies do. You can go right ahead and attend to your regular daily duties. It compels proper assimilation of the food and sends the food nutriment into the muscles, bones and nerves and builds them up instead of piling it up in the form of excess fat. It is not a medicine in any sense of the word, but a mild, pleasant, harmless fruit put up in concentrated form in small packages for convenience.

If you suffer from excess fat send your name and address today for a trial package of Rengo Fruit mailed free in plain wrapper. Address Rengo Co., 235 Main St., Augusta, Mich.

NO ETHER REQUIRED IN THESE OPERATIONS

The proprietor of the St. Regis—that palatial metropolitan caravansary which out-Waldorfs the Waldorf-Astoria, is credited with being a public benefactor in that he is teaching the rich to separate themselves from their money without the aid of ether.

Ether, it is obvious, would prove quite helpful in effecting such estrangements, and that the boniface aforesaid turns the trick without such auxiliary speaks volumes for his nerve or effrontery.

So far as this store is concerned, however, the separation of the public from their money is attended by pleasurable sensations. Why wonder, in view of our offerings!

Evolution in Corsets

More than ten years ago the Royal Worcester Corset was known as the best corset made outside of the imported French makes. The Royal Worcester company have made the improvements demanded by style of dress. They were the first corset manufacturers to adopt the straight front in 1900, and are the largest manufacturers of corsets in this country, giving to American women what they don't get in French makes—fit—at one-third the price. It stands to reason that an American can design a far superior fitting corset than a Frenchman can for American women. We carry a full and complete line of the Royal Worcester and Bon Ton Corsets. See Houston street window for display of the fall styles in the Royal Worcester Corsets.
