railway magnate, Huntington, can do nothing to interfere. The work of cutting the trolley wires and tearing up the rails is being done by a band of workmen, some of whom helped to lay the track. Mayor McAleer of Los Angeles personally directs the work. By reason of this he is being dubbed "Boss Billy."

COMPANY ASKING MUCH FOR NOTHING

Geo. E. Miller Says Arlington Heights Traction Company Makes Small Outlay

To The Telegram:

It is an old adage that "Beggars should not be choosers." This adage seems to be reversed in the case of the Arlington Heights Street railway company, which is asking for a valuable franchise at the hands of the people of Fort Worth.

The initiative in this Arlington Heights street railway business was not taken by the citizens of Fort Worth, but by the people living at Arlington Heights, and others who, while not living there, had purchased considerable land in that vicinity whose value they desired to increase by the building of a street railway.

According to the admission of the promoters of the Arlington Heights street railway, they have received or are to receive, $18,000 from the citizens of Arlington Heights, and the people interested in the sale of town lots there, as a bonus to build the road. The promoters of this scheme did not buy, as I understand, the right of way from Arlington Heights, but the promoters had used the right of way and road bed of the old Arlington Heights Street railway company. The cost of putting this right of way in condition to receive the rails and ties must have been very small, because all that was necessary to be done was to smooth it up, which was done with plows and scrapers.

The Arlington Heights Street railway has not even bought new rails for its line, but is using old rails discarded by the Fort Worth and Denver railway, which were purchased by the Arlington Heights street railway. The Arlington Heights street railway has made no preparations to build a power house, as I understand, but has arranged to procure the power to propel its cars from the Citizens Light and Power company. This would seem to indicate that the enterprise does not necessarily promise to be permanent, but that if it proves to be unprofitable it can be turned loose by that company at any time.

There is nothing to compel the Arlington Heights Street railway company to maintain its line of railway from the city of Fort Worth to Arlington Heights. So far as their talk concerning the building of a place of amusement on the lake, that is a mere prophecy, which is defined by Mark Twain to be the act of "turning the law loose and giving the intellect a rest."

If the people should give to this company the franchise to be voted upon Thursday, then if the transportation of passengers from the corporate limits of the city of Fort Worth to Arlington Heights should prove to be unprofitable, as the promoters seem to think it will be for a while, there is nothing to prevent the company from abandoning that part of its line and retaining the portion of it which it can build within the corporate limits of the city of Fort Worth or selling its franchise to some other and rival company. The franchise asked for contains no inhibition of such a sale.

Houston street in particular has been paved with asphalt at considerable expense to the city and abutting property owners. According to the franchise asked for, if it is granted, there is no provision to repay the city and abutting property owners on Houston street any part of the money, which they have expended for the improvement of this street. The proposed street railway does not offer to pay anything whatever for the franchise, nor to make itself amenable to regulation of its charges nor to pay any part of its income to the city.

If there is another city anything like the size of Fort Worth in Texas which is now giving away franchises, I do not know it. The street railways in Houston paid to that city a very considerable sum of money for the extension of its franchise. Street railways in Dallas are required to pay for the extension of their franchise. Instead of progressing with the other cities, however, it seems that this proposed street railway is continuing to treat Fort Worth as a small, struggling village whose franchisees possess no practical value.

Summed up, the proposition seems to be this: A street railway company without power, using old iron, an old right of way, whose cost will be more than covered by the donation from the citizens of Arlington Heights and those interested in its property, comes to the city of Fort Worth and asks the city to add to the gifts which it has already received, a valuable franchise to use certain streets for a period of twenty-five years. It reminds me of the tramp who went to a lady's house and exhibiting to her a button, said: "Madam, will you please sew an eye on this button for me?" I cannot bring myself to believe that the citizens of Fort Worth will sell an overcoat on the Arlington Heights Street railway company, to him.

Very respectfully, GEO. E. MILLER.

MAPLEDORAM TO BUILD NEW LINE

Will Join Bishop Interests in Baltimore-Washington Electric Proposition

"I have not resigned as general manager of the Northern Texas Traction Company, and I do not intend to do so," said Hake A. Mapledoram today when seen by a representative of this paper. "The facts are," said Mr. Mapledoram, "there is an understanding between Stone & Webster, George Bishop and myself that when Mr. Bishop is ready to commence construction of his interurban line between Baltimore and Washington that I am to be released to him, and not until such time will I leave the company of Northern Texas Traction Company. I am to be placed in charge of construction of the new Bishop line between Washington and Baltimore."

Mr. Mapledoram says there will likely be a change in the general management of the company within the next six months, but until Mr. Bishop is ready for his services he will be in charge of the Traction company's affairs as its manager.

Mr. Mapledoram said further that H. T. Edgar, low general manager of the Stone & Webster interests in El Paso, will likely become his successor when the change does come. It is expected, said Mr. Mapledoram, that Mr. Edgar will arrive in Fort Worth soon after the first of the new year to receive instructions as to the management of the property under Mr. Mapledoram.

Mr. Edgar is a young man, but has been identified with street car business for several years, and is said to be popular at El Paso. He has already purchased a home in Fort Worth on Magnolia and Lynch streets.

UNION BANNER FURLED THROUGHOUT SWEDEN

New Flag Is Same as Ancient Standard Used Before Union With Norway

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 1.—The old union flag was struck throughout Sweden this morning and the new Swedish ensign hoisted to the accompaniment of salutes, the ringing of church bells and the parade of troops.

In Stockholm the whole garrison paraded and the population thronged the streets. At 9 o'clock the flag flown by Sweden before the union with Norway was flying from church steeples, public and private buildings and steamers and sailing vessels.

King Oscar witnessed the spectacle from the roof of the palace, and the thousands of citizens gathered in the vicinity and demonstratively greeted him. The Chilean school ship in the harbor joined with the Swedish vessels in saluting the new flag.

Similar ceremonies took place in all the cities and every school house in the country had a demonstration, all the children gathering outside and saluting the new flag.

TURBULENT STUDENTS WHIPPED BY POLICE Demonstrations in Odessa Cause Serious Clashes—One Victim Receives 140 Lashes

ODESSA, Nov. 1.—News that Russia has been granted a constitution continued to create enthusiasm until a late hour yesterday. All work was suspended and the streets crowded with cheering crowds. At the town hall a red flag demonstration was charged by Cossacks, who caused the horses to trample on a number of persons. There was considerable rioting during the night on the outskirts of Odessa, where the students, who organized themselves into a city guard, tried to prevent the most serious clash took place at the university, where the students were haranguing the crowds. The Cossacks charged, using rifles, lances and whips, killing ten and wounding fifty persons. The Cossacks also broke the windows of the building with their lances and some students were driven into courtyards and whipped by the Cossacks and police. One of the students was beaten by thirty policemen. His jaw was broken. Another student was taken to the hospital, where it was shown he had 140 whip stripes on his body.

WEATHER IN OCTOBER Two Light Frosts and a Heavy One Are Reported

Official report of the weather for October issued today by D. S. Landis, official in charge of the local bureau shows that a wide range of temperature was had, the mercury jumping from 91 degrees for its high mark to 27 degrees for the low. Mean temperature for the month was 68 degrees.

Total precipitation for the month was 4.21 inches, against an average of 3.06 for ten years. Accumulated excess of precipitation for the year is now 9.95 inches. Eleven clear days, fourteen partly cloudy and six cloudy days were experienced. Light frost occurred on the 11th and 26th days and a heavy frost on Oct. 21.

JUDGE BROOKS DONS WAR PAINT

It is an interesting political story that comes from Austin, relative to the intentions of Judge M. M. Brooks, candidate for governor. According to this Austin report, the distinguished candidate is getting ready to declare vigorous war not only on other candidates, but the entire official family at Austin.

One of the candidates for governor, and that candidate Judge Brooks, is shortly going to take the stump in advocacy of a clean sweep up here at the capitol. He will urge that all the ink get out and the outs get in. While he has not himself publicly outlined his policy in so many words some of his friends have drafted it in the rough and they are the ones who say that it will be conducted along the clean sweep and go back and dust as well policy.

It is said that Judge Brooks has studied the situation carefully and has reached the conclusion that there is no use in further dallying about the matter. He will therefore be aggressive in future and will show the people clearly and emphatically that advice given by any candidate as against another is born of a selfish desire to perpetuate the family interest and it should be counted as such.

It was the evening papers that first told the story of the surrender of the czar and the blessings of liberty that had dawned for the Russian people. And this incident has again makes evident the fact that the afternoon publication is always the one to present the news while it is still news.

The Dallas fair is having some bad weather to contend with, but the people of the state are reported to be very liberal in their attendance. Those who have seen the fair pronounce it much better this year than usual.

doubtless the direct result of the cry that has been made by certain Texas papers against alleged graft and corruption in Texas. The newspaper cry was raised as the predicate for the bold action contemplated by Judge Brooks, and there was method in the newspaper madness.

The announcement that it is a part of the Brooks program to make a warm and vicious fight on Judge Bell will doubtless be accepted by that distinguished gentleman and his friends in the same spirit in which it is tendered. Judge Bell is a quiet man and does not voluntarily go out upon the highways and byways in search of trouble.

A GOOD MAN BUT WEAK

Things have happened over in Russia during the past few days, and as a result of those happenings autocracy has been wiped from its greatest stronghold on earth, and freedom has come to the oppressed Russian people.

"We, Nicholas, by the grace of God and authority of all Russia, Grand Duke of Finland, etc., declare to all our faithful subjects that the troubles and agitation in our capital and numerous places fill our hearts with excessive pain and sorrow.

"The happiness of the Russian sovereign is indissolubly bound up in the happiness of our people, and the sorrow of our people is the sorrow of the sovereign.

"From the present disorders may arise great national disruption. They menace the integrity and unity of our empire.

"The supreme duty imposed upon us by our sovereign office requires us to efface ourselves and to use all the force and reason at our command to hasten in securing the unity and co-ordination of the power of central government and to assure the success of measures for pacification in all circles of public life which are essential to the well being of our people.

"We, therefore, direct our government to carry out our inalienable will in the following manner:

"1. To extend to the population the immutable foundations of civil liberty, based on the real inalienability of persons, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association.

"2. Without suspending the already ordered elections to the state duma, to invite participation in the duma, so far as the limited time before the convocation of the duma will permit to those classes of population now completely deprived of electoral rights, leaving the ultimate development of the principle of the electoral right in general to the newly established legislative order of things.

"3. To establish as an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforced without the approval of the state duma, and that it shall be possible for the electors representative of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legacy of acts of the authorities imposed by us.

"4. We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty toward the fatherland, and to apply their forces, in co-operation with us, to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil.

"Given at Peterhof, Oct. 29, in the eleventh year of our reign. "NICHOLAS."

The czar's action, it is true, was taken under fire, but in the supreme moment when all was tottering in the balance he seems to have had the good judgment to do the right thing at the right moment.

There have been signs of internal disorder in the Russian empire during all the time the Russian forces were engaged in that memorable and hopeless conflict with Japan. While the soldiers in the field were doing their duty in a half-hearted and dispirited manner, the people at home were groaning under the burdens of the autocracy and vainly seeking for some method of striking off the shackles.

The czar is to give his people a constitutional form of government, with M. Serzhin Witte, the man of the hour, at its head. "Autocrat of all the Russias," that has followed the signature of the Romanoff line for the past 500 years, will appear no more, for Nicholas is no longer an autocrat. He has surrendered to the demands of his people, and if he continues at the head of the Russian government, he will henceforth be a constitutional monarch—a sort of a figurehead, like Edward of England, who possesses but little real authority.

The czar may be a weakling, as he is so often pictured, but he is without doubt a kindly man. His desire for world peace, his willingness to give up the contest with Japan and his final willingness to give freedom to his own people, all serve to indicate his kindly nature.

It must be remembered that he has been surrounded by adverse influences—a strong party that believes liberty to the masses is the greatest menace to the empire, and he has been backed by precedent which has maintained the strongest and most autocratic government on the face of the earth for more than 500 years.

It required courage and fortitude to relinquish those things at a moment's notice, and the czar, weakling though he may be, has won the admiration of the world for the action taken in the crisis that has just passed.

He may have lost much that was dear to his heart, but he has shown true greatness and will no doubt gain much in the affections of his people. He has lost his autocracy, but Russia has gained the blessings of comparative freedom.

It was the evening papers that first told the story of the surrender of the czar and the blessings of liberty that had dawned for the Russian people.

The Dallas fair is having some bad weather to contend with, but the people of the state are reported to be very liberal in their attendance.

M. Witte seems to have been the man for the moment in the crisis that came upon the Russian empire, and the czar turned to the man of peace in the extremity that confronted him.

STUFFING THE GOOSE

AMONG EXCHANGES

Some of the newspaper correspondents have been worrying as to the status of the President while he is at sea. It is contended by some that he is out of the country, and consequently not President.

There is no use in worrying over the question of who is President while that gentleman is on the waters of the briny deep. The Big Stick never loses its power to float when it gets off the dry land.

The President gives the assurance that the important post has been entrusted to the utmost to punish the bear trust, and now the trust is going to strain the pocket of the dear people to make up a principal and interest on what the trust sent Austin Stockman.

WITH THE CATTLEMEN

ALPINE, Texas, Nov. 1.—Swart & Co. shipped from Marathon two cars of bulls and four cars of cows of the J. C. Smith cattle to their ranch near Engle, N. M.

H. L. Spruce sold to Bob Serna a carload of mares and a car of fat cows. He also sold Lock & Davis forty-five steer yearlings at 2 1/2 cents.

C. F. Luckens, who has been here for the past eighteen months gathering and shipping cattle from the Lockhausen ranch, has completed his work. The last yearling was sold, and the remainder sold to J. G. Rheininger.

W. T. Henderson shipped two carloads of three and four-year-old steers to New Orleans.

H. Guthrie has sold to Colter, McMillen & Rooney nineteen sections of leased land in the Green Valley country. Mr. Guthrie has been ranging 400 head of cattle down there that he is now moving to his ranch near Alpine.

J. D. Jackson shipped three cars of the Kokenot steers to market Monday.

Will Stillwell, manager of W. T. Henderson's ranch, bought 300 head of yearlings for Mr. Henderson's ranch north of town.

W. T. Henderson got to Kansas City late with his fine steers for the cat-dogs exhibit, being on the road eight days, but the judges told him that he could have at least cut out one carload of his Gallegos that would have taken the prize for the best range steers, and they were shipped there.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 1.—General Manager Ballantine returned from his eastern trip late Saturday night and insists that the Denver Union Stock Yards, as reported by the National Packing Company is concerned.

"We have had no proposition from the packers to buy and we are not in a market to sell," is the way Mr. Ballantine puts it. As to the sale of the packing plants, Mr. Ballantine is equally non-committal.

The truth of the matter is that the big packers are not yet ready to show their hands. They are waiting for the purchase of the big Denver plants as published last week are correct and have not been denied.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY

People are not so much interested in your grievances as you think they are.

We do not object to a man wearing a handkerchief sticking out of his upper coat pocket, so long as it is clean.

The most impolite, impudent thing you can do is to unnecessarily bother a man when he is busy with his work.

The poor who are discontented should read the papers. Every day some man who is indifferently rich kills himself.

The only difference between the modern man and that of the older days, is that the modern one isn't as big a family.

Verses That Ring

PASS IT ONWARD (G. W. Hendricks). If we cannot reach a sermon, Sing a single soulful song. Check for aye the tide of evil That goes sweeping on and on. I will tell you what we can do Through the hours that try the soul. Just pass life's burden onward And help the world be glad.

'Tis a simple thing but potent— Wanting power for good or ill. Scatter the bits of hateful sunshine On the doubts that bast an ill. 'Ving still a brighter future Or a cloud-enshrouded day— O, let us heed success or failure To the toiler on life's way.

To the one whose load is heavy; To the soul that seeks the light, To the heart bowed down with sorrow, To the eyes of courage and of might; To a race that journey upward, With the sweep of sleepless years; To the God who hung the rainbow In the storm-cloud's crystal tears.

Yes, it means a lead made lighter, Just to hope and not despair; Means a clearer soul perception Of a goal divinely fair; Means a heart made ever stronger Through the hours that try the soul; Means man's uplift, grand, eternal, God's one purpose, pole to pole.

Let us then lift high life's banner, Hope emboldened—fling it out! Scatter sunshine through the morning, Put despair and doubt to rout! Linger not within the lowlands. Fear-encumbered, hearts e'er sad; Pass it onward—pass it on! Help the world be glad, be glad!

AN EVERYDAY ESSAY

MIRABILE DICIT!

John B. Larkin, city comptroller of Pittsburg, has discovered a new way to run the finances of a city.

It is the way of honesty. He has discovered a way to build a mammoth filter plant to cost $3,000,000. The usual method for paying for the improvement by issuing bonds was adopted by the city council.

And the usual method is to issue bonds for the full amount of the improvement, giving favored bankers and politicians a chance to make a little money on the side.

Strangely enough, Comptroller Larkin took the position that it was not worth his life in the pet banks of the administration of the first year. It would require three years to build the plant. If the entire amount was raised by the sale of the bonds a large part of the money would go into the pet banks of the administration and the people would be paying big interest.

The taxpayers said amen to Larkin's suggestion, and although there was much grumbling of the politicians, he had his way.

But that is not all. The first issue of bonds was to be $2,000,000, the second $2,000,000 and the third $1,000,000. When the first issue was authorized Larkin made the astounding statement that the city itself would take $1,000,000 of the bonds with the money in its own sinking fund, leaving only $1,000,000 to be sold. If so, the city would take a like proportion of the other issues in the same way.

Who ever heard of the like? Did any city ever do such a thing as to buy its own bonds?

Comptroller Larkin actually proposed to run the finances of Pittsburg as he would run a private enterprise? He was handling the money of the taxpayers in such a way as to save them money rather than to cost them.

He should be made governor of the state or president.

SAM HOUSTON AS A CHEROKEE

The little boy, Sam, at very immature years, growing restive under the restraint of rigid home rule, and declaring that he would rather measure down the tracks of the Cherokee Indians, who, at that time, were his near neighbors.

The bright, Ooloteka, being captivated by the chief, Intelgent lad, adopted him as his son, and gave him the name of "Colonel" ("The Rover"). Ever afterward the warmest affection existed between the two.

In the course of time the chief moved from his home in Alabama, and "Colonel" returned to his own home.

Years passed, and many honors were won by "The Rover" in his native state. Finally, in the height of his popularity and happiness, he was elected governor of Tennessee. Then a shadow, sad and yet unwept, crossed his life and changed the tenor of his way.

Resigning the gubernatorial chair of Tennessee, he determined to vend his steps to the wigwam of the old Cherokee his adopted father, where he was assured of a welcome greeting and hearty blessing.

When he departed from his friends and embarked in a steamer on the Cumberland river, the evidences of warm affection presented a scene of touching tenderness. After a long and toilsome journey, he reached the shore near the old chief's wigwam. There a shadow, sad and yet unwept, crossed his life and changed the tenor of his way.

Colonel, the Rover, was at the landing. Ooloteka, with all his family, hastened to meet his adopted son. Embracing him with his arms, he said: "My son, many moons have gone since we met, and my heart has often wished to know where your footsteps beat the path; and then I heard you were a great chief among your own people, and held the big council of your braves."

"After this my heart grew sad; for I heard that a dark cloud had fallen on the white trail you were walking, and I wanted to take your hand and lead you out to the light again. You turned your thoughts to my wigwam. The Great Spirit told you I am glad. You have many wise counselors in your country; but you have none in mine. I am glad, and the Great Spirit sent you to us to be our friend and take trouble away from us. Our hearts are near to you, and you will tell our sorrows to the Great Father, General Jackson."

"My wigwam is your home; my people are yours; your blanket and buffalo robe hang on the deerhorn; come, rest with us."

Such a greeting softened the bitter bloom that the last few weeks had brooded in the Rover's eyes; he was at rest and at home at last.

The chief was rich in flocks and herds, and lived on a large plantation, worked by servants that he owned. Living like the patriarchs of old, simply, abundantly, his tent and his household were made of the skins of his braves and his friends.

The venerable chief was tall and straight, and exhibited none of the feebleness of age. With courtly grace he moved among his people and presided at their council fires with the dignity of a king.

While among them, Sam Houston studied the Indian character with thoughtfulness that made them proud of it. He was a man of noble and manly language and restless thought of untiring mind displays great skill in entering Indian phraseology, indicative of rare genius.—San Antonio Express.

DENVER OFFICIALS INVESTIGATE BANK

Deputy Prosecutor Is Here to Study Texas State Trust Company Affairs

Henry S. Silverstein, deputy district attorney at Denver, Col., is in Fort Worth. The mission that brings Attorney Silverstein to Fort Worth is to conduct an investigation into the affairs of the Texas State Trust Company of this city. When seen today Mr. Silverstein said that he had made slow progress thus far, but intended to put in two more days this week looking into the matter.

Mr. Silverstein said further that he did not believe there would be any thing found connecting the local institution with the muddled condition of the Denver bank. He said, speaking of the Denver bank that recently went to the wall, that he believed the Denver Savings bank will be able to soon pay 75 per cent of their deposits.

"Leonard Imboden was still in jail at Denver when I left that city for Fort Worth last Saturday," said Mr. Silverstein today. "If he has been liberated it has been since I left Colorado."

Mr. Silverstein held a conference Tuesday night with County Judge J. D. McLeod and others of this city at the Worth hotel.

Mr. Silverstein will return to Denver possibly Friday or Saturday.

RAIN DELAYED PICKING

Government Crop Report Says Damage to Crops from Showers Was Not Great

GALVESTON, Texas, Nov. 1.—Following is the Texas weekly crop bulletin report for the week ending Oct. 30, 1935, issued under direction of the department of agriculture:

Moderately cool weather prevailed generally during the week, though it was somewhat warmer than during the latter part of the previous week. Occasional frost occurred in the northern part of the state, and in the far northwest temperatures reached the freezing point on a few mornings. On the 26th freezing temperature, with frost, occurred in Kerr county. Early in the week good showers occurred quite generally, especially in the central, eastern and northeastern districts. During the middle portion of the week fair weather prevailed, but at its end scattered showers occurred. Little damage resulted from the frosts, though tender vegetation was injured in a few localities.

Cotton—Cotton picking was delayed by rain during the early part of the week, but later more favorable weather for picking prevailed and this work was pushed rapidly. Over the greater part of the central and southern portions of the state picking is about completed, and in the south only scattered patches remain to be completed. In the northern part of the state cotton opened more rapidly because of the frosts and picking is now well advanced, having been kept well up with the opening. There was some damage to open cotton by rain, but generally the damage is believed not to have been great. There was practically no damage by frost. The rains again started the growth of the cotton plant in many localities, and this growth has caused an increase in the number of boll weevils, which were already very numerous in many sections. Cattle are being turned into fields to feed on foliage.

Rice and Sugar Cane—Sugar cane is quite generally a good crop. Harvesting and syrup making are now generally in progress. Rice harvest is nearing completion, and threshing is well advanced. The crop of rice is generally fair to good.

Miscellaneous—Harvesting corn continues. There was some damage to the crop by wind and rain. The rains of the early part of the week caused continued improvement in the condition of the soil for plowing and seeding winter grain, and this work has been carried on quite extensively. In some localities, however, it is still too dry. The grain that is already up is generally looking well. There was continued improvement in the condition of pastures as a result of the rains. The supply of stock water has increased though it is still scarce in places and stock has improved. Potatoes are being harvested, with the yield varying from poor to good. Planting fall gardens in the coast districts has been delayed because of insufficient rainfall, but this cause has been carried on to some extent.

NOBODY IS EXEMPT

A New Preparation Which Everyone Will Need Sooner or Later

Almost everybody's digestion is disordered more or less, and the commonest thing they do for it is to take some one of the many so-called blood purifiers, which, in many cases, are merely strong cathartics. Such things are not needed. If the organs are in a clogged condition, they need only a little help and they will right themselves. Cathartics irritate the sensitive linings of the stomach and bowels and often do more harm than good.

Purgings is not what is needed. The thing to do is to put the food in complete order to be readily digested and assimilated. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this perfectly. They partly digest what is eaten and give the stomach just the help it needs. They stimulate the secretion and secretion of the digestive fluids and relieve the congested condition of the glands and membranes. They put the whole digestive system in condition to do work. When that is done you need take no more tablets, unless you eat what does not agree with you. Then take one or two tablets—give them needed help, and you will have no trouble.

It's a common sense medicine, and a common sense treatment, and it will cure every time. Not only cure the disease but cure the cause. Goes about it in a perfectly sensible and scientific way.

We have testimonials enough to fill a book, but we don't publish many of them. However—Mrs. E. M. Faith of Byrd's Creek, Wis., says:

"I have taken the Tablets I got of you and they have done their work well in my case, for I feel like a different person altogether. I don't doubt if I had not got them I should have been at rest by this time."

H. E. Willard, Onslow, Ia., says: "Mr. White of Canton, was telling me of your Dyspepsia Tablets curing him of Dyspepsia, from which he suffered for eight years. As I am a sufferer myself I wish you to send me a package by return mail."

Phil Brooks, Detroit, Mich., says: "Your Dyspepsia cure has worked wonders in my case. I suffered for years from dyspepsia, but am now entirely cured and enjoy life as I never have before. I gladly recommend them."

It will cost 50c to find out just how much Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will help you. Try them—that's the best way to decide.

Dyspepsia

Is an indication that the stomach and other digestive organs are weak, tired or debilitated. It causes no end of aches and pains and is most common where people bolt their meals and hurry and worry as they do in this country.

MISS ALICE TO WED SAYS FRISCO RUMOR

Friends on Pacific Coast Regard Engagement to Mr. Longworth as Certainty

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Since Miss Alice Roosevelt's return from the far east on the liner Siberia, which reached this port Oct. 23, talk of the engagement between the President's daughter and Congressman Nicholas Longworth and the President's daughter has evolved from a mere rumor into a generally accepted fact.

"Princess Alice," as Miss Roosevelt was recently dubbed, was asked a good many questions when the reporters boarded the Siberia. She showed the same cordial attitude toward the press which has characterized her and talked freely on all subjects save one. When asked if there was any truth in the report of her betrothal to Longworth she blushed—which is a thing the self-possessed little lady seldom does in public—and replied, hurriedly, Worth. Joplin, the well-known mining center, is in search of ideas to be used in continuing the boom which started in that city during the high zinc ore prices of 1930, and this morning L. M. Davis, a stall reporter of the Joplin Daily Globe arrived in the city and spent considerable time with B. B. Paddock of the Board of Trade and N. B. Moore of the Factory Club. In a few days his paper will tell the people of Joplin how this city carries on its fight for new industries.

Joplin has been known as the great lead and zinc center for a number of years and most of the energies of the Joplin Club in the past have been expended in an effort to induce men of money to locate there for the purpose of assisting in the development of the raw mineral lands.

At this time, however, Joplin desires to become a jobbing and manufacturing center, and in order that the Joplin Commercial Club may have some new ideas on which to work the Joplin Daily Globe has sent a representative on a tour of the southwest, visiting cities known for their bustling activity.

New Dress Styles Will Prevent Female Troubles

And, More Important Still, Perhaps You Think, Will Make You More BEAUTIFUL.

We are certainly getting on. Here are the Parisian dress-makers talking of doing without the CORSET.

Perhaps you know how doctors condemn it, because, they say, it compresses lungs and heart like a hand squeezing up a ball of dough, and thus compresses, disarranges, deadens and disorders your female organs, causing monthly pain, irregularity and sex diseases, in both mothers and children.

So that the new style of dress for women is certainly a great improvement from a health standpoint, and as health has a beauty that is all its own, will surely improve any sick woman's appearance.

Now, if right dress is important as a preventive of female disease, how very important must be Wine of Cardui, the wonderful medicine that not alone prevents, but also CURES, female diseases.

It is a pure, vegetable essence that acts upon the female organs, in such a healing, tonic way, as to cure all disorders of the female functions, such as irregular or painful periods, chronic discharge, dragging-down sensations, headache, backache, nervousness, dizziness.

It is the one medicine on which women can absolutely depend, for curing these diseases.

Just as the air we breathe goes to the lungs, so does Cardui go to the female organs, and CURES DISEASE in the parts it goes to.

This marvelous, specific action of Cardui, on the female organs, is what has made it so effective, in curing diseases peculiar to women, and explains its ENORMOUS SALE and popularity, which have so steadily increased, in the 70 years it has been before the great public.

You can get Wine of Cardui at any druggist's, in $1.00 bottles.

If you want advice on your case, write us freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, stating age, and fully describing all your symptoms and troubles, and we will send free, valuable instructions, in plain, sealed envelope.

WANTS HER FREEDOM

Famous Woman, Head of Humbert Swindlers, May Soon Be Liberated

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Mme. Therese Humbert, convicted for one of the greatest swindles of modern times, is said to be seriously ill in the prison at Rennes. Friends and her creditors will draw up a petition asking for her parole, believing she will be able to repay most of her creditors when she regains her liberty.

The Humbert "Affair"

Twenty years ago, far away, a gentleman named Robert Crawford has an epileptic fit. He suffers, he is an American, likewise a millionaire. He suffers done. No one will attend him in this his agony. He will expire? No; at the last moment a short, stout, plain little woman appears. She fears neither the convulsions nor the millionaire. She nurses Robert Crawford, who recovers and returns to his dear America. There he dies and his nurse becomes his heiress.

Millions upon millions of francs, all in one large iron safe. The reward for faithfulness and skill in nursing. It is a romance. Also there is a villain—two villains. They are the nephews of that esteemed Robert. They dispute the will and refuse a compromise.

In Paris there is rejoicing. There is an extravagant and a most delightful hostess. She is a short, stout, plain little woman. And there is a charming family—in short, six Humberts. Rare flowers, glistening jewels, shining silver—also guests. In one room, important, stands the safe, closed by the power of the law. Ah, what of cruelty in those nephews! But there is much of gallantry among the guests. Powerful friends, they pay, make loans and raise their glasses. For soon there will be confusion to the nephews and the safe will be opened.

Whispers, gossip, inquiries, anxiety, suspicion—then investigation. A short, stout, plain little woman, smiling confidently throughout it all. An open safe, a worthless paper, a button and a son. No Robert Crawford, no nephews, no apologetic fit, no Humberts.

A search, a trial, a conviction and a short, plain little woman languishes in prison.

When people ask us to do something we don't like to do they try to make it easier by calling it duty.

MME. THERESE HUMBERT.

JOINT MEETING OF CATTLEMEN

To All Stock Grower Associations and Stockmen: Through resolution introduced by A. H. Sanders of Chicago during the annual session of the National Stock association held in Denver last winter, and under the direction of your committee on reciprocity, consisting of Messrs. A. H. Sanders, W. A. Harris and W. E. Skinner, a call was made to the organizations of the country for a reciprocity conference to be held in Chicago Aug. 16 and 17, 1905. In this call our association was joined by the American Stock Growers' association, the American Shorthorn Breeders' association and other strong and representative live stock and commercial bodies. You are no doubt acquainted with the unqualified success of this conference through press reports.

The active work of prosecuting a serious campaign in congress the coming winter is now being formulated under the direction of a competent national committee, on which your association has adequate representation. The campaign inaugurated by this association and so auspiciously begun on account of the large interest involved and benefits to be derived therefrom, will prove to be one of the most important commercial campaigns ever prosecuted in the industrial history of this nation—desires as it does with the markets of the world and broadening our operations therein.

This campaign is not one of days or weeks, but of years, and will need to be prosecuted persistently, ably and systematically. Your careful attention is therefore invited.

The prime factor in bringing results will be the attitude of the national legislature. You will, therefore, readily see the necessity of at once, and hereafter at every opportunity, urging upon your senators and representatives the importance of this work to the live stock interests.

Your central committee, in August, in Chicago, in connection with the American Stock Growers' association, met with representatives of the railroad interests and Hon. James H. Wilson, secretary of agriculture, with a view to ameliorating the present stringent operation of the 28-hour law, and not only succeeded in remedying present conditions, but assisted in laying the foundation for future legislation, which will remove the objections entertained by stockmen against the law.

During the last three days of January a fat stock show will be held in the city of Denver. Your association has assisted in this work from its inception—believing that such exhibitions tend to the education and the advancement of the industry.

Your central committee met in Denver Oct. 20 and 21 and after thoroughly canvassing the situation, and conferring with the executive committee of the American Stock Growers' association, the following action which was unanimously approved by the members of the committee was adopted:

The following signed statement of F. J. Hagenbarth, president of the National Live Stock association, and Murdo Mackenzie, president of the American Stock Growers' association, is given out:

The executive committee respectively of the National Live Stock association and the American Stock Growers' association today agreed upon a consolidation of the two associations, the following being the terms of the subject to the ratification of the respective associations in joint annual convention to be held in Denver, beginning on the 30th day of January, 1906, the call of which has been duly notified in the press. The two associations will be consolidated into one great live stock organization to represent the entire live stock producing interests of the country on the following basis:

1. The membership to consist of live stock producing and maturing interests of the country.

2. The constitution and by-laws of the American Stock Growers' association, modified so as to admit to membership associations of live stock producers, as well as individuals, to be made the basis.

3. One strong central committee, appointed by the association thus formed, to carry on the business of the association.

4. The association to co-operate with all allied interests through such sub-committees as may be appointed by the executive committee, whenever and wherever the interests of said association and such allied interests are mutual.

5. The objects of the organization thus formed will be to represent the live stock interests in all matters of general and public importance, and to conserve the interests, protect the rights and to redress the wrongs of each and all of its members.

(Signed) F. J. HAGENBARTH, President National Live Stock Ass'n. MURDO MACKENZIE, President American Stock Growers' Association.

At the same meeting of your committee the following delegates were appointed to attend the interstate commerce law convention, held in Chicago Oct. 26 and 27:

W. A. Harris, chairman; Chicago, Ill.; F. J. Hagenbarth, Spencer Idaho; Frank Cooper, Kansas City, Mo.; Andrew Lovejoy, Roscoe, Ill.; H. A. Jastre, Bakersfield, Cal.; Mortimer Levering, Chicago, Ill.; W. E. Skinner, Chicago, Ill.

And said committee was instructed to present the following resolutions as an expression of the interests we represent:

Endorse President on Railway Rate Question
"Resolved, by the central committee of the National Live Stock association, that we most heartily endorse the recent utterances of the President on the railway rate question. We cordially agree with him that it is out of the question for the government not to exercise a supervisory and regulatory right over the railroads; for it is vital to the well being of the public that they should be managed in a spirit of fairness and justice toward all the public; and that "Government supervision is needed quite as much in the interest of the big shipper and of the railroad man who wants to do right as in the interest of the small shipper and the consumer. Experience has shown that the present laws are defective and need amendment."

We agree with him that "the most important thing to do is to give to this administrative body power to make its findings effective, and this can be done only by giving it power, as being unjust and unreasonable, if it finds the complaint proper, then itself to fix a maximum rate which it regards as just and reasonable, this rate to go into effect practically at once; that is, within a reasonable time, and to stay in effect, unless reversed by the courts."

We most heartily commend these utterances to the interstate commerce law convention, and trust that it will use every effort to bring about the enactment of a law which will fully carry out the desires and wishes of the President and of the live stock interests of the country.

Larger Appropriation for Bureau of Animal Industry

Resolved, by the central committee of the National Live Stock association, that we regard the appropriations made by congress for the purpose of experimental stations and for the use of the bureau of animal industry and for the purpose of meat inspection, as absolutely insufficient for the live stock interests of the country.

It is evident that the live stock industry is threatened in many directions by diseases which require careful scientific investigation, and that there should be no lack of funds for this purpose, and we believe that the welfare of the public justifies the distribution of the burleson involved in meat inspection—to be borne by the public and not by the single interest affected.

We, therefore, respectfully request of our senators and representatives in congress ample provision for the coming appropriation for these purposes.

Your central committee hereby sets the date for our next annual convention in Denver as Jan. 30-31, adjourning Thursday, Feb. 1, 1906.

All of which is respectfully submitted. J. H. GWINN, Secretary.

WINTER ECZEMA SKIN HARD AND DRY

Some skin diseases are active in Summer, while others wait until cold weather to manifest themselves. Winter Eczema sleeps in the system through the long hot months, and gives no sign of its presence; but at the coming of Winter the trouble asserts itself and it becomes one of the most painful and distressing of all skin diseases. The blood is filled with poisonous acids which seem to be excited by the cold; and as these are thrown off through the pores and glands, the skin cracks and bleeds, the flesh becomes hot and feverish and the itching intense. The natural oils which keep the skin soft and pliant are dried up by the cold, bleak winds, causing it to become hard and dry, giving it that shiny, leathery appearance, characteristic of the disease. The head, face, hands and feet are the usual points of attack, though other parts of the body may be affected. So painful and distressing is the trouble that the sufferer constantly "doctors" and treats it trying to get relief. Soothing washes, medicated ointments and salves are used, but aside from giving temporary relief they do no good. The cause is poisonous acids in the blood, and these must be removed before a cure can be effected. The only cure for Winter Eczema is S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers. It cleanses the entire blood supply of the acrid poisons and sends a fresh, healthy stream to the diseased skin, healing and softening it and curing the painful, itching eruptions. S. S. S. enters the blood and purifies it of all waste and foreign matter, and cures Winter Eczema—Tetter as it is sometimes called—safely as well as surely; besides it does not contain any harmful mineral to derange or damage any part of the system. The Story of the Cure of the Vice-President of the Collin County National Bank at McKinney, Texas

Among all of the well-known men of McKinney, no one is more widely or more favorably known than Banker-Judge Goodner. For the past twenty-seven years he has been associated with the Collin County National Bank, being its present vice president.

HERE IS THE STORY AS FIRST TOLD BY THE MCKINNEY COURIER. "There is something miraculous in the effects of this treatment," said Judge C. C. Goodner, commenting upon J. Austin Larson's treatment, which the judge is taking with success.

"I never imagined so much of a change could be made in my liver as has been made in a week. I certainly feel greatly benefited. You see I have been taking treatment for constipation, torpid liver and indigestion for years. I am taking every morning for my bowels. I quit when I commenced Professor Larson's treatment, and instead of feeling worse I have improved. I have very natural in the way of my digestion has improved accordingly. I am very much encouraged as to the outcome of my treatment."

Professor Larson will win the gratitude of everyone for what he is doing for Judge Goodner. No one is better or more highly respected than is the judge. He has been associated with the Collin County National Bank ever since the organization, being at present its vice president. He was county judge of this county six years.

to Professor Larson, as the judge's association with the public has made him a good judge of men.

Judge Goodner never speaks without due deliberation, hence his indorsement of this new treatment will certainly carry great weight.—McKinney Courier.

AND HERE IS THE STORY AS TOLD BY THE MCKINNEY GAZETTE AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE CURE

"Well, Judge, how are you getting along under the new treatment?" "Fine," was the enthusiastic answer on the part of Judge Goodner.

"I have gained three pounds in the past ten days. I am getting stronger fast. I don't have any of the sensation of colic or bloating after meals, my food is assimilating, my constipation is entirely cured. In fact, I just feel like a new man in every respect, and am more like myself than I have been in eleven months and twenty days, when I was taken with yellow jaundice. I sleep better and I 'toss my food.'"

"Do you think it will last?" "Of course I do, because I am just naturally getting better without any stimulating medicine. When a person gets their natural health and strength back why shouldn't it last?" The reporter agreed with him. "Well, that is just what I am doing, and I expect to keep all the flesh and strength I get from this treatment."

Two weeks ago when Judge Goodner gave his first statement he was conservative in his statement and made all statements guardedly, not wishing to make any claims which might prove erroneous, but this time he was as radical in his statement as a populist politician. No guess, no ifs, and no buts about it. He had been there, was proud of it, because it was curing him.

We make the prediction that on next Wednesday Dr. Larson and Long will not be able to handle the people at the Wade Hotel.—McKinney Gazette.

The following article, written by Mayor Thos. W. Perkins, who is editor of the McKinney Gazette, shows exactly what the citizens of McKinney think of Professor Larson and his work:

From the McKinney Gazette: Professor Larson was seen by the editor of this paper yesterday and a very pleasant conversation was enjoyed with him. He is a genial, affable gentleman, with whom it is a pleasure to converse. He is highly pleased with McKinney and Collin county and says this section and citizenship cannot be excelled. The success with which Professor Larson has met in the different cities in which he has practiced has indeed been marvelous. He has had as patients numbers of the most prominent and highly respected citizens of Sherman, Paris, Greenville,

At the Delaware Hotel Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Each Week. Consultation Free and numerous others who might be mentioned. These men would not proclaim the efficiency of Professor Larson's treatment did they not believe in it and their praise is certainly a tribute to his treatment.

We give it all because it takes all to tell the story. No one in McKinney but who knows of Judge Goodner's remarkable recovery, hence you can refer to any banker, business man, professional man or county official in Collin county and confirm this story in full. Your home bank can confirm it for you through the Collin County National Bank, of which Judge Goodner is vice president.

LATER The Waco Times-Herald, wishing to thoroughly establish the reliability of Professor J. Austin Larson for the benefit and protection of its readers, sent the following telegram to Judge T. C. Goodner:

THE TELEGRAM Judge T. C. Goodner, McKinney, Texas: Are press reports in regard to your case true? WACO TIMES-HERALD.

TO THE BANKERS OF FORT WORTH:

Gentlemen—I submit this series of indorsements to you for the reason that the first thing a sensible person does is to find out, through his banker, the reliability of a stranger.

The work of J. Austin Larson has stood the test and received the indorsement of some of the most conservative bankers of this country.

When your customers ask about his work kindly refer them to any banker in this list.

We have the original signed letters on file and will gladly submit them for their benefit. Yours truly, D. R. NEVILLE, Secretary and Manager.

THE ANSWER Waco Times-Herald, Waco, Texas: McKinney press reports of my case are correct. T. C. GOODNER.

Saline County State Bank, Salina, Kan.: To Whom It May Concern: The writer has known Professor J. Austin Larson personally for about two years, having known him by reputation some years before. It gives me pleasure to state that the Professor is a business man of ability and integrity, and he has the reputation throughout this portion of Kansas of being very successful in the treatment and cure of chronic diseases and ailments. I have personally talked with a number of persons whom Professor Larson has treated, and they proclaim him a wonderful healer, having relieved and cured after other means had failed. I have no hesitation in recommending the Professor as a gentleman, a business man and a practitioner. Very respectfully,

CHAS. F. McADAMS, President. The Commercial National Bank, Greenville, Texas: Wedemeyer & Son, Belton, Texas: Gentlemen—Our business relations with J. Austin Larson have been very satisfactory. He came to us highly recommended by his home bank, and he was sure he should succeed. We have seen some of Professor Larson's patients in person, and they think his treatment is wonderfully successful. Yours very truly, F. Z. EDWARDS, Cashier. The First National Bank, Manhattan, Kansas: I have heard numerous and favorable statements concerning Professor Larson's wonderful work of healing the sick. George S. Murphy, President. Farmers' Bank, Downs, Ill.: Professor Larson comes from one of the best families and has always been a man of honor and integrity.—Frank Cowden, President. National Bank of America, Salina, Kan.: All the people we have heard speak of Professor Larson, and we have heard several, said he had benefited them in his treatment.—Frank Hageman, President. Galesburg National Bank, Galesburg, Ill.: Professor J. Austin Larson has been honorable in his dealings here and I have successfully taken treatment of him.—P. F. Brown, President. First National Bank of Concordia, Kan.: We have no reason to think that the testimonials to Professor Larson's skill which have appeared in our city papers are not genuine and the real sentiments of those whose names are attached.—T. J. Atwood, President. Third National Bank, Bloomington, Ill.: We know Professor J. Austin Larson and consider him conscientious, honest, and a tireless worker, and worthy of the confidence of his fellow men.—J. J. Cowden, President. The Beloit State Bank, Beloit, Kan.: The testimonials given Professor J. Austin Larson were genuine and parties here claim to have been materially benefited under his treatment. He was well thought of here.—M. Rowley, Cashier. First National Bank of Normal, Ill.: I have known Professor J. Austin Larson for the past fifteen years, and have always found him honorable in his dealings. He is a man of good habits and can be relied on to carry out his contracts.—M. H. Hamilton, Cashier.

SPORTING SALAD

One of the drivers in the Vanderbilt auto race was named Scias. It sounds as though he were in a hurry. Jimmie Britt wires from the west for his New York representative to "fix up a six-round go with Nelson" to take place at Philadelphia. It's hardly likely that the psychological moment for a six-round bout with Nelson has got here. Britt will be lucky if he gets another chance inside six months.

Barney Drexler says someone has offered $10,000 for Hans Wagner. "Not for $20,000," replied the Pirate chief.

There's a tempest in the baseball teapot out west. Attempts are being made by the Western Association to drop Denver and Pueblo on account of the railroad mileage wasted in getting to them. Denver fans are greatly excited.

In the opinion of the Turfman, Connie Mack is the "ablest and most diplomatic manager in baseball." Aren't all winning managers able and diplomatic, as well as a few other things of the same sort?

F. H. Curtiss, formerly of the University of Texas, will have complete charge of the University of Pennsylvania wrestling team which will compete this winter in dual wrestling meets with many eastern colleges.

Parson Davies is of the opinion that Jeffries could have disposed of John L. Sullivan in five rounds with the "mighty John L." was in the "width of his prowess." "As a matter of fact," says the Parson, "Bob Fitzsimmons would have had a rattling easy time with the honor of John L. being in the hands of a 'stray.'" The Parson declares that never in the history of the world were scrappers so deadly and so clever in accuracy and power of punching as now.

Horsemen have finally come to the conclusion that shorter races are necessary on the trotting turf. From present indications it would appear that all of the races next season, in the grand circuit, will be two in three instead of three in five.

Willie Lewis, the New York boxer, will fight as a welterweight boxer. He says there is no chance for him to get a shot in the light weight division, and he will move up one class and go after the championship. His first bout will be with Joe Walcott before the Detroit Athletic Club, at a date yet to be fixed.

That the members of the Gladiators appreciate the magnificent work of Mathewson is shown in the presentation of a fine diamond ring that cost $5,000 to the invincible pitcher. The diamond is set in an interesting lead point has been raised by Jack Costigan, a fighter of the mixed all variety. Costigan and Al Kelley boxed a limited number of rounds for points at Westville, Conn. Suddenly Kelley's right shot upped and landed on Costigan's chin, laying him away for the count. Since that moment Costigan averts he has been partly paralyzed and at one time it was thought he would die from the effects of the blow. He has sued Kelley for $5,000 damages.

James R. Keene has decided not to retire his great race horse Snyson, but will again race him upon the Metropolitan track in 1907. Twenty years ago Henry V. Lucas sought to promote a rival baseball league called the Union Baseball Association of St. Louis. It is now a thing of the past. The association went to pieces. Recently Lucas was appointed inspector in the street department of St. Louis at $75 a month. Lucas is a descendant of one of the oldest and wealthiest families in St. Louis.

FAIR AND WARMER WEATHER FORECAST

Clear Skies and Rising Temperatures Predicted in Texas—Cold in the Northwest. Weather conditions indicate that this section will experience fair and warmer weather tonight and tomorrow. Low conditions of temperatures are reported from the Rocky mountains and the valley of the Mississippi river, the weather being also clear in those sections. Temperature at Fort Worth ranged from 42 to 50 degrees for the official weather day ending at 7 o'clock this morning. The wind had a velocity of four miles an hour here this morning.

Temperature at New Orleans ranged from 55 to 72 degrees, remaining about normal. Lander, Wyo., reports a minimum temperature of 2 degrees above zero. Temperature at Denver, Colo., ranged from 12 to 46 degrees.

Rainfall amounting to .01 inches at Oklahoma City and a few slight traces of precipitation were noted through the cotton belt region. Official statement of weather conditions as reported is as follows: "The cotton belt is partly cloudy and practically without rainfall of importance."

The New England states are dominated by low barometer conditions, causing rain in New York, snow in Michigan and in the upper lake regions, and high winds, Buffalo reporting sixty miles or wind. The Mississippi valley and the Rocky mountains have high barometer conditions, causing low temperatures and clear weather, 10 degrees above zero being conditions extending as far south as the south border of Kansas. The forecast until 7 p. m. Thursday, for Fort Worth and vicinity, issued at New Orleans, is: East Texas (north) tonight fair; warmer in west portion; Thursday fair and warmer; (south) tonight and Thursday fair, warmer Thursday.

EXCEPTION TO THE RULE

BY N. S. KIRKE. In a room of a first-class hotel in a well known western city sat the manager of a prominent "Home for Boys," situated in New York. He had come to the west a few days since, bringing with him fifty of the "Home" boys of various ages, sizes and nationalities, to endeavor to find for each a place where he would be cared for and educated.

That he had been successful, even beyond his most sanguine expectations, was evidenced by the fact that of the fifty boys brought with him only one remained to be provided for. "Lady to see, you, sir," announced his visitor, a woman just the prime of life whose pleasant, motherly smile went straight to the manager's heart, and he found himself hoping that she had come to offer a home to the one boy unprovided for. He noted, too, that in spite of the pleasant smile there was an expression of sadness on her face, which told of sorrows deep and forgotten. Her bearing and manner was altogether that of a lady, and the manager instinctively felt that she was a woman to be trusted.

"My name is Smith," she said after having seated. "I came to see if you have found homes for all the boys in your care?" "All except one, Mrs. Smith, and though I have had two or three offers for him, I have accepted none. I feared he was only a passing fancy. It is a rule of the 'Home' to place none of our boys where there are other children. We want them taken as sons, not as servants."

"Oh, sir, I am sorry to hear you say that, for we have three children, but believe me, sir, we do not want him for a servant, but will give him a comfortable home and treat him as our own son. We are not rich, but we own a good farm and have enough to educate the children and give them a fair start in life. They are only adopted children, sir; but we love them dearly, and if we had one more boy could almost imagine ourselves beginning life over again with our own lost darlings, who never lived to bless our old days."

"The manager was deeply interested. 'Tell me your story, if you please, Mrs. Smith; perhaps I might let you have the boy after all.' "Well, sir," she began, "we came west from Ohio, John and I, the year after we were married. We had not much money, but we had youth and health and were not afraid of work, and we prospered fairly well. We welcomed the babies as they came and often planned what each should do or be when grown up. William, the oldest, was a strong, healthy boy, who loved the farm, and though he liked books and attended school regularly, never spoke of leaving home, but always talked of having a farm of his own some day. "The next were twin girls—Ruth and Naomi we named them—and then came Johnny, a wee golden-headed laddie, always delicate and different in many ways from his sturdy older brother. Books were a constant source of pleasure to him and from early years his purpose was to become in time a famous writer himself. We did not encourage him much, though we never really opposed him in any wish whatever, but he invariably spoke of going to New York to begin his literary career and this we were unwilling for him to do.

"For several years we were all so happy, but when William was 20 our first sorrow came." "She paused a moment and her voice trembled, but she went resolutely on. "His father gave him on his birthday a pair of handsome colts, and though we urged him not to drive them until they were more thoroughly broken, he declared he was not afraid of any horse he had ever seen. He indeed he was not. He hitched them to the carriage and gaily waved his hand to us as he drove out the big gate, and in which he was to bring him back to us—dead! The colts had become unmanageable, he was thrown from the carriage and striking his head on a stone by the roadside, was instantly dead. At first it seemed more than we could bear, but we still had three children left and for their sakes we hid our grief as best we could, little knowing what greater sorrow was in store for us.

"The winter following Williams' death there came to the village near which we lived a young man from New York. He was handsome and evidently rich, and won the hearts of both our girls. He showed his preference for Ruth, but she would have none of him, so well did she guard her secret. But a mother's eyes are keen, and my heart ached for her. "The winter following Williams' death there came to the village near which we lived a young man from New York. He was handsome and evidently rich, and won the hearts of both our girls. He showed his preference for Ruth, but she would have none of him, so well did she guard her secret. But a mother's eyes are keen, and my heart ached for her.

"Ruth was never her old self after that. She loved her sister too well to feel the least jealousy, but the grief at parting from her and the love for him which she vainly tried to crush from her heart, was more than she could endure, and I saw her slipping away from us surely, oh, so surely. "We heard from Naomi often at first, but less frequently, and finally her letters ceased altogether. That he had deceived and probably illuded her I had not the slightest doubt, and when, only a few months after her marriage, she came back to her home, she had a broken-hearted, we knew that she had only come home to be beside her sister when the summons came for her to go to her eternal home. She was shocked, and she wept so low, but said, 'we will go together this time, dear sister.' And so it proved. Naomi died first only by a few hours and we buried them together. On the snow white marble that stands in their grave is carved, 'Ruth and Naomi.' And underneath the inscription, 'Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried.' "She was entirely overcome for a time and wept softly, while the manager looked out of the window with tear-dimmed eyes that saw naught of what was passing.

"We prayed God to spare us another sacrifice, she resumed, 'for we had none but Johnny left. For a long time after his sisters' death he said nothing about leaving us, but the idea of going to New York never left him, and then, I think, he meant to find the man who had wrought us so much woe, and punish him as he deserved. "We found his room vacant one morning with a note to tell us where he had gone. He had gone to make his own fortune, he said, and would come

WORSHIP FOLLOWS HALLOWEEN JOY

Usual Pranks Marked Observance of Ancient Custom. Services Today. Last night was Halloween and the event was celebrated to its fullest extent by the small boy who played the usual pranks and held forth in high glee until nearly midnight. He was seen everywhere, capturing about his heart's content and having the best time that he has had since last Halloween or Christmas.

Gates were left unhooked and wheels were displaced on wagons, while in some cases the wagons were discovered upside down. But the owner usually blamed himself for being indiscreet enough to leave the vehicle within reach. A Halloween supper was given at the First Baptist church. The women of the Central Methodist Episcopal church held an old-time Halloween party at the residence of Mrs. George Armstrong, 1824 Eighth avenue. The young men of the Mulkey Memorial church entertained with a social at the church.

An Epworth League party was given at the home of L. Y. Knight, 2325 Market avenue, Casen Heights. The annual of the Kindergarten College entertained at the college in honor of the present class with a Halloween party. There was a large number of guests present. Miss Grace and Juanita Hollingsworth, 1606 Taylor street, also gave a Halloween party at their home last night. An enjoyable Halloween party was given at the home of Miss Anna Newlin, in West Thirtieth street, near Summit avenue. The Halloween prize was won by Miss Bessie Wombwell.

All Saints' Day. Today is All Saints' Day. The solemn festival of the Catholic church, which occurs today, had its origin, like many other church festivals, superseding a pagan ceremony. Rome, in her power, had so many gods that it was impossible to set a day in the honor of each. So Marcus Agrippa built a beautiful temple called the Pantheon in honor of "Cybele, the mother of Gods," and dedicated to the divinities of Rome. On conversion of Rome to Christianity, Pope Boniface secured the Pantheon from Emperor Phocas Caesar, successor of the great Constantine, and named it in honor of the "Mother of Christ," dedicated it to all saints, for the church was in just the same fix as the Romans, it had too many saints to give them special days, and in this way all saints were honored. So for many years the pagan festival was continued in May, but in honor of the virgin and all saints. Its observance

Thieves Take Rings But Leave Watch. Residence of Annie E. Madison Entered and Wash Stand Rifled to Secure Valuables. The residence of Mrs. Annie E. Madison, 103 South William street, was entered some time between 9 and 10:30 o'clock Monday morning and three rings taken from a washstand drawer. The washstand was rifled and the articles left were found strewed over the floor in confusion. The burglars left a woman's hunting case gold watch lying in one of the washstand drawers, after having apparently searched and examined it. They also left a valuable breast pin belonging to one of Mrs. Madison's little daughters, which was a present from her grandfather, A. J. Black, who brought the pin returning from the national convention of the Grand Army of the Republic held recently in Denver.

Description of the three rings missing is as follows: One, with three opals; one, a cluster of small diamonds surrounding a black diamond; one plain gold band ring. The family left the house about 9 o'clock Monday morning and returned shortly before 11 o'clock to find the articles missing. How the persons gained entrance to the house remains unknown.

LEGISLATORS ASK FOR AN EXTRA SESSION

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 1.—Judge A. W. Terrell, author of the Terrell election law, late this afternoon presented to Governor Leinham an application signed by 168 members of the house and senate of the Twenty-ninth legislature, requesting the governor to call an extra session of the legislature. This number constitutes a quorum of both branches. In the application the members agree to serve without pay. The proposed extra session is for the purpose of correcting section 120 of the Terrell election law. The governor has not yet indicated what he will do. The application is also signed by porters, pages and other employees of the last legislature.

RIOTS CONTINUOUS THROUGHOUT RUSSIA

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A dispatch to the news agency from Odessa says mobs of rioters have broken loose in various parts of the city and have been in conflict with bands of students, resulting in much bloodshed. It is estimated that a full hundred persons have been killed. The governor general of Odessa, General Kaulbars, today again called out the patrols, which yesterday were taken off the streets. The foreign consulates and government and municipal buildings are guarded by troops. There was a riot in the fighting about 3 o'clock, but people are panic-stricken, fearing another outbreak.

PITCHED BATTLE OCCURS
KIEFF, Nov. 1.—The populace seized the town hall yesterday and revolutionary speeches were being delivered to the crowds from the balcony when the Cossacks appeared. Some of the people inside the building were armed and a regular engagement followed, resulting in many being killed or wounded on both sides. Cossacks finally routed the crowd and captured the building. After dark the Jewish quarter was sacked. The bodies of five persons killed and forty-five wounded people were removed today from the town hall. The Cossacks, while passing the office of the Otdelki, a liberal paper, fired three volleys at the building.

RESIDENCES ARE HOSPITALS
MINSK, Russia, Nov. 1.—The crowds in the attempt to storm the prison here yesterday were beaten off by Cossacks, who fired several volleys at the mob. Many persons were killed or wounded and many more beaten with whips. Doctors' residences were transferred to hospitals.

CENTRAL BUILDING TO BE IMPROVED

Changes to Be Made in Property Adjoining Seventh and Houston Streets by New Owner

The Postoffice saloon building, formerly owned by R. Vickery, passed into the hands of S. D. Lary Tuesday, the purchase price being $21,000. Asked as to his intentions regarding the property this morning Judge Lary said: The building is to receive improvement beginning as soon as proper arrangements for construction can be made. There are three stories now and it is my intention to add another, making a first-class office building. Work will begin in the near future.
