

FIVE BURNED IN TENEMENT FIRE

Sleepers Aroused to Find Escape Cut Off by the Flames MET DEATH PRAYING Women and Men Fight and Pray on the Crowded Fire Escapes

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Five persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a six-story tenement house at 221 East Seventy-third street early today.

Physicians who were summoned to the scene attended many of the more or less seriously injured, while neighbors looked to the comfort of women and children who had been driven to the streets in their night clothing.

Three of those who lost their lives were kneeling in prayer when the fire reached them. Within the first hour after the fire was under control the bodies of three women and two men had been taken from stairways between the second and third floors.

When the fire department arrived with its ladders nearly every one on the fire escapes was kneeling in prayer. Adding to the pathos of the scene was the action of men who stood with their arms full of personal possessions, while their wives fought, unaided, to protect their children from being trampled by the crowd.

TAINTED MONEY DISPUTE ENDED

Rev. Gladden Declares Principle Is Established

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 15.—Dr. Washington Gladden, moderator of the Congregational churches of the United States, Sunday announced from his pulpit that the controversy over "tainted" money seems to be settled so far as the Congregational church was concerned, and that he was satisfied there need be no fear that the moral issues would be raised hereafter in the solicitation of money.

Dr. Gladden said: "The work of foreign missions ought to appeal today as never before to intelligent men in the Congregational churches. The controversy through which we have been passing seems to be happily concluded. There is no longer any diversity of opinion among us respecting the principles which should govern action of the board. There need be no fear that moral issues will be raised hereafter in the solicitation of money."

HORSES CAUSE TANGLE

Unsuspecting Citizens of Sealy Accused of Theft

BRENTHAM, Texas, Nov. 14.—Forty-five horses that were stolen near the Texas and New Mexico line were shipped to Sealy and sold there. Many of them have been identified and will be recovered or will have to be purchased over again.

Deputy Sheriff Callahan of Midland was in Sealy a few days ago, tracing up the horses, many of which were found in the hands of innocent purchasers. He said that Clay McGonigle was charged with the theft, and that a warrant had been issued for his arrest; that he had been believed that he is guilty of the charge and will wait to hear his side of the story of how he acquired the horses that he shipped to Sealy and sold to his friends there, where his wife was raised and where he was married.

Deputy Sheriff Callahan of Midland county is also president of the Live Stock Association of that section and is doubly interested in tracing down this wholesale theft of horses from that section.

County Attorney W. R. Ewing, traded for one of the horses with a banker in Sealy, who bought half a dozen of them, and he is in receipt of a letter from him, asking about the brand, and it may be that the gentleman in Sealy will have to be given possession of this horse, but Mr. Ewing will not lose the value of the animal, as the Sealy banker will have to protect him.

SAY ILL. STEEL

TOOK STATE LAND

Chicago Attorney to Sue Company for 200 Acres

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Preliminary steps were taken yesterday by the state's attorney's office to secure for the state compensation for 200 acres of "made land" occupied by the Illinois Steel Company and estimated to be worth $2,000,000.

State's Attorney F. C. Lindley went to South Chicago, accompanied by photographer and surveyor, obtaining pictures showing the encroachment of the steel corporation on land formed by thousands of tons of slag that it has dumped into the lake.

Measurements were taken that will form the basis, along with the photographs, of litigation to make the corporation pay for the land it has, it is alleged, appropriated from the state.

BALLOT REFORM URGED

New York to Be Asked to Revise Election Law

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—At a conference held yesterday between representatives of organizations interested in ballot reform, a resolution was adopted declaring that ballot reform in New York should proceed on the lines of the Australian ballot as in use in Massachusetts.

As the representative of the Corrupt Practices Association, D. Cady Herick, asked the support of the conferees for a bill which his organization intends to present to the legislature and which he said would be so drawn as to do away with election corruption. The conference decided unanimously to help secure the passage of the bill.

PAYMENTS $2 PER WEEK

Store Open Evenings Until 9 O'Clock

It does not take the brain of a Daniel Webster to understand the principal item of cost in any manufactured article to the user or consumer is the enormous cost of selling the article. It is estimated that this item of expense alone is almost, if not quite, equal to the cost of manufacturing. This being the case, one must add at least $100 to the cost of each piano to get sufficient profit to pay salary and expenses to teachers, agents, etc. We have come to the conclusion that this line and save the purchaser this enormous profit. "The 100 Club" is placing this conclusion and theory into practice.

First, we own this beautiful Strohler piano, such as are made, one must add at least $100 to the cost of each piano to get sufficient profit to pay salary and expenses to teachers, agents, etc. We have come to the conclusion that this line and save the purchaser this enormous profit. "The 100 Club" is placing this conclusion and theory into practice.

Second, we do not employ agents or soliciting salesmen. We do not pay teachers' or agents' commission.

We save you all these expenses by reason of "The 100 Club."

The Strohler piano is a beautiful instrument, of really fine quality. It is sufficient to say that if you will call and examine one of the beautiful "100 Club" Strohler pianos, you will be convinced at once of its merit and become a member, and an advocate as well, of "The 100 Club."

OF INTEREST TO THE CATTLEMEN

LIVE STOCK EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—The exports of live stock for the month of October as compared with the same month last year show decreases in cattle and sheep and an increase in horses. The number of cattle exported was 37,721 head, against 46,998 head in October, 1904, and the valuation was $2,822,298, against $3,357,687. The total of horses was 1,288 head, against 156 in October, 1904, and the valuation was $114,474, against $2,217. The movement of sheep amounted to 10,029 head, against 27,600 head, valued at $18,193, against $166,756.

The recapitulation for ten months of the present year shows the exports to have been but slightly smaller than a year ago, the aggregate of exports in that period being 435,264 head, against 451,761 head in 1904. The figure for horses shows a decided increase, the total for the period being 13,224 head, against 2,388 head sent abroad during the first ten months of last year. Sheep, however, show a big decrease, the total being only 174,952 head, against 287,745 head the year previous.

The exports of canned beef for October show an increase in a total of 5,224,569 pounds, against 3,508,360 pounds shipped in October, 1904. For ten months, the total was 47,802,653 pounds, against 36,422,205 pounds.

The movement of live beef during October amounted to 21,148,295 pounds, against 19,757,746 pounds in October, 1904. While the total for the year was 205,561,958 pounds, against 229,865,982 pounds during the corresponding period of the year previous.

Of salted beef, the total sent forth during October was 7,819,548 pounds, against 5,141,675 pounds in October previous, while during ten months the total was 55,351,186 pounds, against 41,498,964 pounds during the same period in 1904.

Beacon exports during October were larger, the total being 21,257,862 pounds, against 18,535,682 pounds the same month in 1904. Figures for the ten months of the year show a total of 228,791,421 pounds, against 203,855,460 in October, 1904. Live exports were about steady, being 14,779,519 pounds in October, against 14,136,823 pounds the same month last year, but the total for ten months show a large increase, being 172,726,662 pounds, against 148,921,812 pounds the year previous.

STOCK AT SAN ANTONIO

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 14.—Exhibits of fine live stock at the International Fair are to be better this time than ever before. All the stabling facilities of the fair are now taken by exhibitors and others are asking for accommodations. There is in the live stock showing in every line in the live stock section of the fair.

Pure bred cattle and standard bred horses have commenced to arrive for exhibition at the fair and were placed in their respective places Tuesday.

Howard Mann is a noted breeder and possessor of pure bred short horn cattle and standard bred horses, which have received many awards in the different classes shown at San Antonio and at state fairs. His animals are bred from his blood and county fairs arrived from his breeding farm at Waco. He has a very creditable exhibit of short horns, standard bred horses, jacks and jennets. He also has some fine game chickens that will be placed on exhibition.

J. S. Hovey's herd of short horns from Fort Worth is at the fair grounds. There are thirty-two in this herd which is one of the best in the state.

Among the arrivals with pure bred cattle was Phil Lee, who is a lover of the "white faces."

Lee Bros. of San Antonio have been frequent exhibitors at past fairs and have done quite successful in receiving the "blue ribbon" on different classes they offered on exhibition.

They are owners of the noted high school horse, Black Artist, which has been previously shown at prominent fairs throughout the country. It is considered to be one of the best in his class. He will be on exhibition daily at the fair.

David Harrell of Liberty Hill arrived with two cars of short horns. He has the "two snow balls" that were here on exhibition, last year and received high honors. His exhibit is a very creditable one.

A show which is creditable to the Hereford was barned at the fair grounds by W. S. and J. B. Ikard of Henrietta. They have been frequent exhibitors and their offerings have not only been credited to the fair but profitable to themselves.

TO PREVENT FEVER

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 14.—Dr. Mack Francis, professor of veterinary science in the Agricultural and Mechanical College, returned a few days ago from a brief visit to the Coleman-Fulton Pasture Company's extensive ranch in the neighborhood of Corpus Christi. The object of Dr. Francis' visit was to inoculate a bunch of longhorn Hereford and short horn bulls recently purchased by the company. He says the animals are among the finest he has ever seen and cost on an average about $600 each. The agent of the exporting firm, Hereford and Durham bull that wore a some of the best in the world, the world are being imported into Texas.

The inoculation performed by Dr. Francis was to prevent the animals from dying of Texas, or tick fever. As a result of his study and experiments along this line he has been able to prevent in large measure the formerly disastrous results of bringing northern cattle into a southern climate where tick abound. The percentage of deaths in case of what has been reduced from 70 per cent, or above, to less than 10 per cent.

IN THE TERRITORIES

J. W. Burgoyne, a well-known stockman of the Nation, in the Indian Territory, was here this morning with a two-car shipment of cattle, and his neighbor, Mr. Dick, had in a three-car shipment. Mr. Burgoyne is a noted English general and writer, and is a most interesting conversationalist.

He was in St. Louis in 1861, when it was materially different from what it is now. He says that the Indian Territory and Oklahoma will be admitted to statehood next March, and says that while the two will make one big state, he, in his opinion, the one way that the majority of the people favor single statehood, as there is so much waste land in the Indian Territory that it would only make a fair state of the states. He said that he is a good deal of stock being shipped now, but that it was only in fair condition. He says that they are getting good fair prices for the good crops of corn, glass and cotton that they raised the past year, and that there is plenty of fine water in that county and believes that it will develop into a rich farming and stock growing state.—St. Louis Reporter.

FEEDING AT TAYLOR

TAYLOR, Texas, Nov. 14.—The last job of the 87 head of cattle which J. B. Pumphrey and H. D. Meek had arranged for their McCulloch county ranch to Taylor, arrived here yesterday. Six hundred head of these cattle, picked steers, will be fattened for market in pens here with corn and products of the Taylor cotton seed oil mills. The remaining 27 head will be wintered here in the pastures of J. B. Pumphrey and Buck Wilks.

G. E. King has sold to W. S. Lynch of San Antonio twelve high grade Durham bulls, which were shipped to Sabinas, Mexico, for breeding purposes.

Saturday M. R. Kennedy sold to J. H. Hickman of San Antonio six registered and high grade pure bred Hereford bulls, which were shipped to Durango, Mexico.

Fancy prices were obtained by both parties for these breeders, which way that to improve the herds of Mexico.

TO PROBE FATAL FIGHT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—Official announcement was made at the navy department yesterday of the details of the court martial that is to try Midshipman Minor Meddewether Jr. on charges of murder in the recent bloody fight with Midshipman Branch at the naval academy at Annapolis. The department has taken the maximum number of thirteen for this trial because of its importance and placed three real admirals on the court.

Rear Admiral Francis M. Ramsay, retired, president; Rear Admiral Alex H. McCormick, retired; Rear Admiral Albert H. Barker, retired; Commodore Robert L. Pythian, retired; Captain Richard Walbridge, Captain Samuel P. Comly, Commanders Sidney A. Staunton, Bradley A. Fiske, Lieutenant Commander George B. Clark, Jr., E. A. Croven, Lieutenants Orton P. Jackson, Ridley McLean, Edward T. Constien; judge advocate, Captain Adolph Marx.

The court is regarded as exceptionally strong. Attention was called to the fact that while there are three rear admirals on the court there are three lieutenants; that the younger element in the navy is represented on the court.

Rear Admiral Ramsay was a member of the Schley court of inquiry and that which investigated the blowing up of the Maine. The trial will be held at Annapolis, but the date has not yet been announced.

Rear Admiral Sands, superintendent of the academy, was at the department today in conference with Secretary Bonaparte and other officials.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value as a purifier of the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectively cleanses and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth, and further acts as a natural and entirely safe cathartic.

It absorbs the indurios gases, which collect in the stomach and bowels, it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal is that of the "Charcoal Lozenges," which are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Sturtevant's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but a few cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Sturtevant's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

BAR MEMBERS

URGE ADDITION

Will Ask Congress to Enlarge Federal Building

Steps to secure permanent quarters for the United States court of appeals were taken at a meeting of the Fort Worth Bar Association this morning.

Since this court was established in Fort Worth by the Federal court room in the government building, but as both Federal courts are held at the same time the sessions conflict.

Judge Carter declared the bar of Fort Worth with all means provide quarters for the court. He suggested that a committee be named to consult with the judges of the circuit court to learn their desires.

It was suggested that the bar ascertain if rooms can be secured in the court house, and if so if the commissioners' court will put in an elevator.

Some temporary arrangement for quarters was recommended until congress makes an appropriation for increasing the size of the Federal building, which will provide adequate quarters for the court.

Several plans were offered, but it seemed to be the general belief that the judges of the circuit court to learn their desires.

Motion of Judge J. C. Scott that President Hunter, with Judges Berne, Samuels, Meade, Stanley and Carter, constitute a committee to wait on the members of the circuit court and ascertain their wishes in the premises was adopted.

A motion was made by Judge Stanley that power be given President Hunter to add additional men to the committee, in case appointees on the committee are not able to serve. The motion carried.

Judge Berne moved that representatives in congress be urged to have congress make as large an appropriation for an addition to the Fort Worth Federal building as possible, but by all means get what appropriation is possible.

A letter was read from Congressman Gillespie with regard to the matter of an appropriation. He said the government architect had prepared plans for an enlarged Fort Worth Federal building, calling for an appropriation of $25,000, but it was thought that not more than $200,000 would be granted.

He suggested that in view of the fact that congress will be asked to appropriate $600,000 for the Panama canal, it would possibly be wise not to push the request for an appropriation for the enlargement of the Fort Worth Federal building at this time.

Judge Orrick moved that Congressman Gillespie be urged to push the matter of passing the pending bill providing for $250,000. It was suggested by Judge Carter that that bill was now inactive, as it was introduced in the last congress.

A motion prevailed that a committee be appointed to confer with Senators Gillespie and Culbertson and Congressman Gillespie as to the most judicious action to be taken regarding the appropriation for the improvements so badly needed to the Fort Worth Federal building. Judge Hunter will name the committee later.

A matter of economy in the buying of law books was referred to by the president, but no action was taken.

HAD SUCCESSFUL HUNT

Fort Worth Men Bagged Many Prairie Chickens

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 14.—W. F. Sterley, general freight agent of the Denver road, T. A. McDowell and R. W. Greenhouse of Fort Worth, S. G. Maddox and H. W. Kuteaman of Weatherford and Wiley Blair and Edgar Shumate of this city spent a week in hunting on the Farren ranch near Miami, Texas. The party was successful in bagging a large quantity of game, largely prairie chickens and smaller varieties of game birds.

For Tender Feet

Feet are peculiar things—some seem to be made for all kinds of hard usage and never murmur. Others get tender and sore if you just stand on them a little longer than ordinary or if you walk a few blocks farther than usual. Others perspire unduly, and no matter how often they are bathed have an unpleasant odor. Frequently too, the perspiration causes the skin to soften and peel between the toes—the stung, burn and itch of this needs no describing to those who have suffered with the trouble.

There is absolutely no reason why you should be tormented with anything of this sort when applied according to the following directions will entirely correct the trouble and relieve the pain and itching.

FOR SWEATING AND TENDER FEET: Four one to three ounces of Littell's Liquid Sulphur into foot bath of hot water and use Littell's Liquid Sulphur Soap. If the feet have become scalded or cracked, apply Littell's Liquid Sulphur Ointment.

CORNS OR BUBBLES: Take hot sulphur foot bath and then apply Littell's Liquid Sulphur, full strength, to corn or bubble for five minutes. When all absorbed, bind on with clean Littell's Liquid Sulphur Ointment. One or two treatments will remove all soreness. A short course of treatment and the corn will disappear.

If the use of Littell's Liquid Sulphur preparations, according to the above directions, does not produce satisfactory results, your money will be refunded. An absolute cure—all skin diseases, slight or severe, and stops itching instantly.

THE GUBERNATORIAL CAMPAIGN

Since the four candidates for governor have taken the people into their confidence and told them what each would do in the event he receives the coveted honor, there has been a more marked alignment of forces all over the state, and it is possible to begin to see the trend of coming events. The Austin correspondent of the San Antonio Express says in a dispatch to that paper:

Judge C. K. Bell made a distinctly favorable impression by his speech at the Dallas dinner. This is the statement made by many persons, other than his partisans, who heard him. It is stated that his address was a dignified and able presentation of his views upon certain public questions; that he did not appeal to the prejudice of the uninformed and unthinking classes, and that he did not go "rainbow chasing" after untried theories of state government. According to the reports which have reached here from different parts of the state, the strength of Judge Bell is steadily growing. He is a plodder when it comes to campaigning, and the proctician politician is wrongly inclined to believe that he is falling behind in the procession. This has been the case in practically every campaign which Judge Bell has made for public office. It is found, however, that he always comes out winner. He has an unbroken record of never being defeated. His ability, his conservatism, his close and accurate knowledge of public affairs, his unwavering consistency, his fair-mindedness on all matters of public interest and importance, are things which have made him steadfast friends wherever he is known. It is regarded as practically certain that if Judge James B. Wells does not run for governor, much of the support that would go to the latter will be given Judge Bell.

As The Telegram has previously stated, the speech made by Judge Bell at Dallas has won him additional friends all over the state, from the fact that it has created a very marked impression that he is the safest man for the position at this time. Recent developments, however, indicate that it is the field against Bell. It is conceded on all sides that he is the strongest man before the people, and the other candidates are measuring the volume of their own strength by that developed for Judge Bell. In a well written review of the situation, the Austin Statesman says:

It is Bell against the field, or rather the field against Bell. This fact, contended by many for some weeks, was made most manifest at the Dallas political dinner on last Monday night. Some of the worthy political writers insisted that the Dallas meeting was freighted with no political significance, and no developments resulted therefrom. On the contrary, the Dallas meeting was freighted with information and happenings galore. To begin with, the speech-making of the various candidates for governor was one of the most significant of happenings and proved conclusively that Judge Bell of Fort Worth was the only candidate who did not consider that democracy would be led off without him as its leader. All the other candidates had some complaint to make. They argued that things here at Austin were not all that they should be; that the state government was being badly managed and conditions in other departments were not all right. Brooks had a long line-up for the prohibitionists to toe and the anti-toe to straddle. Campbell was out with his firebrand after corporations and announced that he neither looked to them for quarter nor expected to give them any. Colquitt was out in one of those strong, interesting talks of his, wherein he said that he was going to do this, that and the other if elected, and he emphasized that if things were not as they should be he would most certainly make them right before he got through. Bell came along with a speech that from all reports won the most favorable comment of any. It was to the effect that he had never seen the time when democracy or any of its servants did anything wrong, and that the democratic administrations of the past and present in Texas looked awfully good to him; that he saw nothing in them that could be so harshly criticized, and he felt constrained to say that if elected governor he would adopt the same good old democratic and golden rule doctrines that had proven so excellent in the past; that if at any time anything went wrong in the state management he would be the first one to demand an investigation, but pending the arrival of that time and specific charges to be investigated, that he felt, as did all other democrats, that democracy as it stands forth in Texas today is a democracy that people can afford to tie to, and unlike other candidates for governor, he had no complaint to make regarding existing conditions, but he felt that he could perpetuate the present wise policy of administering state affairs if elected, and he promised to do that. Further than that he saw no necessity of any man promising any constituency.

Thus in brief were the observations made by the four candidates for governor at Dallas. They all had their following and that following was most loyal. They were all out paddling around in the political seas in their little boats watching the other fellow. Telescopes were in constant use, and any little disturbance in the political horizon was promptly inspected. Results, but there was not one signally prominent fact developed, and that was that all the candidates seem to think that they would have to train their guns on Bell to accomplish his defeat and their success. As one prominent politician remarked upon returning home from the meeting: "Bell is too conservative and we can't shake the people loose from a conservative man just at the present time."

The Campbell people seem to think that the race has even now narrowed down as between Campbell and Bell. The Brooks people say that they know that it has narrowed down to next to Colquitt Bell and the Colquitt people say in the race. Thus it can be seen that all guns are trained on Bell. If by simultaneous shooting he can be blown out of the political seas, then the other three can fight for the survival of the fittest, but with him in the race as he is now, they must keep an eye trimmed on him and watch their other neighbors as well. This is rather hard to do, and will naturally result in a wearing on the respective candidates no little. It now develops that some weeks ago it was thought that Bell had practically been suppressed by Williams entering the railroad commissioner's race, but all such calculations failed. It seems that the people either didn't care much about Williams' race, or saw in it an effort to tear down support from around Bell and rallied to him all the more. At any rate, the Williams move did not create the commotion expected. It is to be noted that several political prognosticators at the Dallas meeting gave it out that the corporations were fighting Williams and supporting Bell. These worthies may have thought that they were telling the truth, but how on earth could they harmonize their statements that the railroad lawyer and other corporation attorneys were fighting Williams, when there were only one or two of them on hand and those that were kept hands off entirely. While they are trying to explain things, why don't they explain how it happened that one of the supporters of one of the other candidates for governor knew three weeks before Williams announced for railroad commissioner that he was going to announce, and told a friend that while they had had a hard time getting him out that he would come all right, and when he did come that Bell would be a dead one? If you would look into the matter of corporations and political management of campaigns, what is the matter with taking up that phase of the case as well as the charges that corporations are butting in. In this connection, however, it is well to say that the corporations are no more friendly to Bell than are business interests generally. Neither administration, and inasmuch as Bell stands for what might properly be termed a conservative line of action they naturally lean towards him. So far as butting in to fight his battles, however, they are not going to do that. You may depend upon the fact that corporate interests in Texas are not in politics any longer. They got their fingers badly burned only a short time ago in Texas and they won't be apt to butt in again soon. That is not in the way of prophecy, but it is a statement of cold facts. They hope for the best and pray that the most conservative man will be elected, but so far as becoming any man's political manager or backer, nay, nay, Pauline.

A NEW PUBLIC DANGER

Governor Myron T. Herrick, who has just gone down in defeat as the nominee for governor by the republican party of Ohio, thinks there is grave danger to the body politic in the spirit of independence that has arisen among the masses. In a published statement of the causes that led to his own political undoing, he says:

The greatest danger now confronting the American people is the readiness, in response to some sudden whim or pretext, to desert party principles and follow some individual who claims, sometimes with sincerity, often with hypocrisy, to represent a cause that is higher than party fealty. This spirit which would deny party government and party responsibility and establish individual leadership in its stead may advance some personal ambitions, but can accomplish no good to society.

It offers the most fruitful field for the demagogue and the iconoclast; and, while some good men may be swept into power upon a popular wave that overrides principles, the strain upon our institutions and upon the fundamental truths which lie at the bottom of our government will leave the structure weaker rather than stronger.

The individual who, in seeking self-advancement, is willing to allure the people from the principles and policies of government to the adulation of a popular idol is an enemy of his country. The newspaper which, in order to swell the receipts of the counting room is willing to pander to sensationalism, to deceive the people and play upon the credulity of the unthinking is an enemy to mankind.

The Telegram believes the governor is wrong in the fancied danger that he sees in the independence of the voters of America. That independence, properly exercised, is the greatest guarantee the people can possibly have of good government. When a political party builds up a big machine, such as existed in both Ohio and Pennsylvania, and that machine is used for purposes as questionable as proved to be the case at least in Pennsylvania, there is nothing for the people to do in an effort to recover their rights but to form a new political alignment and smash the machine. And when the people are broad enough to arise to the emergencies of the occasion, the only danger is to the bosses who are thus summarily removed from power.

Perhaps the greatest danger involved in the situation is from the crop of demagogues that will spring into existence all over the country and seek to ride into power on these waves of political reformation. They will see the opportunity, even in states where graft and corruption do not exist, and will be perfectly willing to traduce their states in an effort to convince the people that rottenness prevails and the only hope of salvation lies in their election. Such a disposition is already being manifested in Texas, but, fortunately, it does not seem to be making much headway. The people are too sensible to be led astray in this state. They want something more than the word of an aspirant for office to convince them that there are Augean stables to be cleaned in Texas.

The remarks of the Ohio executive relative to newspapers and individuals who resort to these methods are timely and to the point. They fit the situation in Texas to the nicety of a gnat's heel.

ROOSEVELT AND THE BEEF TRUST

Late information from Washington is to the effect that the federal government is standing pat on the prosecution of the big packers who are under indictment as a consequence of the recent investigation of the alleged beef trust. The government is not only denying that Commissioner Garfield did not promise the packers immunity, as claimed by them in a recent special plea, but it is whispered that the indictments were obtained on information that was developed by the President himself. The Brooklyn Eagle says:

The administration's retort to the claim of the Chicago packers, that they are entitled to immunity because they gave information to Commissioner Garfield for his report, comes in a statement from Washington that the evidence on which the government relies for the conviction of the packers was elicited by the President himself. The report is that President Roosevelt had a witness for two days at the white house, examined him and learned enough to justify his faith in the conviction of the packers. Mr. Roosevelt has done so many unusual things that this statement will gain credence which would have been denied to it if made of any other President. But

Mr. Roosevelt is known to be very much in earnest in pushing these prosecutions, and if he obtained statements at first hand from a witness of the way in which Judge Grosscup's order had been violated, that would explain the emphasis with which he has insisted upon the prosecution. He was even reported to have said that he wanted to see the men at the head of the packing houses in jail if there was any way of putting them there. His personal examination of a witness would explain the indignation which alone could prompt such a remark, either by a President or a private citizen. Indignation at injustice or oppression is one of Mr. Roosevelt's strongest characteristics.

The case has gone far enough to prove that the packers will not gain anything by their claim of immunity through Commissioner Garfield. The Washington authorities point out that the "evidence" given to Mr. Garfield on which that claim is based consisted of typewritten statements prepared in the packers' offices and sent to the commissioner. Those statements were included in the Garfield report and there certainly was nothing in that report, as published to show that the packers had been guilty of criminal conspiracy. The indications are that the beef trust will be one of the few government prosecutions of persons of consequence which is not allowed to frazzle out.

Color is given to the theory that the President is on the inside of the beef trust situation by the persistence with which he has stuck to his mutton. The strong pressure he has brought to bear on the prosecution of these men would seem to be predicated upon something more than mere suspicion. The President is in very close touch with the live stock interests of the country. His residence upon a cow ranch in Montana for several years has given him a broad conception of the position of the producers of the country. He is also an honorary member of the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, and some of his closest advisers are closely identified with that great organization. It is known that no efforts have been spared to put the President in possession of actual facts, so far as the producing cattlemen of the country are concerned, and the fact that he is deeply interested is attested by his request for additional information made upon several different occasions, and those requests were invariably complied with. He was told how strong and convincing testimony could be developed, and according to the Brooklyn paper, the necessary testimony was adduced and has served its purpose. The packers are evidently not going to be permitted to escape prosecution by the invoking of any technicalities.

Uncle Travis Henderson says the candidates for governor of Texas have given the people no real issues, and he is going to do a few stunts in that direction himself within a very short time. The farmer man is loaded.

More than a week has now passed since a single new case of yellow fever was reported from New Orleans, and that is a pretty good indication that the stegomyia fasciata has gone entirely out of business.

In the public sale of registered cattle held here this week the Shorthorns sold to the best advantage. Last season the advantage was with the Herefords and it seems the fashion changes in cattle along with other things.

The time for congress to assemble will come around in about two weeks, and as the time draws near it becomes but the more evident that there is going to be a lively scrap over the railway rate regulation proposition.

Troubles in Russia are far from being adjusted, and the fires of revolution are still burning in that distracted country. The people evidently do not have much confidence in the liberty that has just been conferred.

The Fort Worth mayoralty campaign is now on, and the people will be accorded ample opportunity to make an intelligent choice. There is already some very good material that has offered.

Fort Worth contributed about $700 for the relief of the oppressed Jews in Russia, and it was a noble charity.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

They've found how the money of the life insurance companies got into the republican campaign fund, but have not yet found out how to get that cash back to the credit of the policy holders. Just like science—the more one knows the more he wants to find out.—Bonham Favorite.

The place to find a thing is usually right where you lost it, and the way to recover the money illegally given to political parties by the insurance companies is to go after the men who authorized its expenditure.

This part of "West Texas," which is really Central Texas, is in close touch with Fort Worth, and entertains the best feelings toward that prosperous city. There is no reason why those relations that have so long existed should not continue.—Brownwood Bulletin.

And Fort Worth is deeply interested in the continued rapid development of the great Brownwood country. Those are enterprising people down there, and they are leaders in the great work of West Texas development.

The newspapers had it that the state had sold its line of railroad running from the Rusk penitentiary to the iron ore beds, but Governor Lamm came forward with a prompt denial of the report. It develops, however, that an offer has been made the state by Tyler parties for the road, but that it was rejected by the state.—Terrell Transcript.

You mean the morning papers reported the sale of the state railroad. The Telegram printed a refutation of the statement the day it appeared in the morning papers, and was the first paper in the state to do so.

The Ladies' Home Journal and Collier's Weekly may continue to advocate a law requiring patent medicine manufacturers to label each bottle with a correct formula of its contents until it quits raining in Red River county, but the Times will never favor such a measure until the tamale vendors are required to furnish a formula with every greasy shack.—Clarksville Times.

And the Times is right in that proposition. The matter of what goes to constitute the toothsome tamale is of far more importance to vox populi than the ingredients contained in the average patent medicine. Publicity, like charity, should begin at home.

The negroes of Fort Worth have subscribed $1,146 toward installing an industrial training department in the colored public schools of that city. The negroes of Fort Worth found that it is not the Lord only that helps those who help themselves; for a public spirited citizen there promptly subscribed a thousand dollars to the fund. Here is a good example to the negroes of other cities, and as in Fort Worth, they will find that the white people, as well as the Lord, stand ready to help them whenever they show a disposition to help themselves.—San Antonio Express.

Everything in Fort Worth is progressive. The Fort Worth negroes are only imbued with the real Fort Worth spirit.

Fort Worth's Fat Stock Show will at least open with the best wishes of every citizen of Greater Dallas.—Dallas Times Herald.

Fort Worth appreciates these good wishes, but will expect a big Dallas attendance.

Judge Bell, candidate for governor, in his speech at the Dallas banquet, indignantly denied the frequently made insinuations of graft and corruption in the state government, and declared himself in favor of a full and free investigation of all the departments of the state government in order to answer such charges effectually. In general his policy is conservative, as opposed to the radical program of Colonel Campbell.—San Antonio Express.

Judge Bell is developing such strength in the race for governor as to be already regarded as the most formidable candidate in the field. The Bell boom is steadily growing.

There are large estimates out for the improvement of the harbor at Galveston, to be appropriated at the next session of congress. Galveston will yet be one of the greatest ports of the world. The business of Texas alone passing through that port in a quarter of a century will be an enormous traffic.—Sherman Register.

The railways are appreciating the coming greatness of the port of Galveston, judging from the rapid manner in which they are moving in that direction. Galveston will be a great city some day.

LITTLE TALES WELL TOLD

Roland Morrill of Benton Harbor, Mich., has a peach orchard of 5,000 acres in Texas. This is probably the largest peach orchard in the world.

"When I went to Texas," said Mr. Morrill recently, "they raised only cotton there. But I soon found that fine peaches could be raised in Texas, where they would ripen nearly a month ahead of all others, and accordingly I went in for Texas peach growing, and my fruit fetches the highest price on the market."

Mr. Morrill smiled. "So rare are peaches when mine appear," he said, "they command a rate almost as high as the fruit brings in Paris."

"The best and also the costliest fruit in the world is to be found in the Parisian restaurants. I know a man who lunched at the Cafe de la Paix one fall day, and noticed with surprise some superb strawberries on a sideboard.

"How much are your strawberries?" he asked the waiter.

"A franc," monsieur," the waiter answered.

"And accordingly the man ordered some, and a dish of berries, each as big as a crabapple, was set before him.

"He enjoyed the splendid fruit, but when his bill was brought he found that he was charged 10 francs for the berries.

"Waiter, how is this?" he said. "I am charged 10 francs for these strawberries, whereas you told me they were only a franc."

"A franc apiece, monsieur," said the waiter gently.

"Though this man had been done, he paid. But he gave the waiter no tip. As he was walking out the waiter said reproachfully:

"Sir, have you forgotten me?"

"Forgotten you?" said the American. "Certainly not. I've left you a strawberry on that plate there, which is equal to a tip of 1 franc."

NEW THE EMBARKS

While James Russell Lowell was editor of the Atlantic Monthly he frequently accepted stories written by Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford, with whom he enjoyed a personal friendship. Mrs. Spofford, however, feared that he might be taking them because of his interest in her and not for the merit of her work.

She resolved to put the matter to a test. Her handwriting was peculiar. One of the most characteristic letters was her "4," to the end of which she gave a queer little crook, toward the left. In order to disguise her work she had her sister copy one of her stories before sending it to the editor.

Mr. Lowell accepted it in a letter, in which he wrote: "The 'd's' may not be yours, but there is no mistaking the ideas."

THE LAMB WAS RENEWED

At the dinner which George Harvey gave in New York in honor of M. Witte and Baron Rosen, a young Russian officer was seated beside H. H. Rogers.

"I admire your country," said the Russian, "because it is so peaceful. Politicians, financiers, the laboring classes, business men, ministers—all dwell amicably together, one happy family."

Mr. Rogers laughed.

"One happy family," he said. "Yes, such a happy family as P. T. Barnum, our great show man, used to exhibit.

"This family consisted of a lion, a tiger, a bear, a wolf and a lamb all penned together in one cage. "Remarkable," a visitor said one day to Mr. Barnum. "Remarkable, impressive, instructive. And how long have these animals dwelt together in this way?"

"Seven months," Barnum answered, "but the lamb has occasionally to be renewed."

HE WAS SHORT MEASURE

Here is another of the stories told of the world's greatest humorist, Mark Twain:

He was accustomed to having his tonsorial requirements attended to by a certain hotel barber. On one occasion, when the barber was busy trimming his thick white hair, his attention was drawn by a small boy in buttons, who was standing in front of him trying to attract his attention. With a mischievous twinkle in his eye, but preserving a solemn countenance, he inquired:

"Who are you?"

"A page, sir," replied the small one, swelling visibly.

HE USED WORD.

This story is told about President Roosevelt and an aged darkey called Uncle Jake. The old colored man was very religious and was considered a pillar of the church he attended.

The President, while out driving one cold morning, met Uncle Jake, crippled with rheumatism, hobbling along.

"Good morning, Uncle Jake," said the President.

"Good morning, sah," responded the darkey.

Then a happy thought struck Mr. Roosevelt.

"Uncle Jake," he said, "would you rather have this cold morning, a ten of coal or a bottle of whiskey?"

"Well," said the darkey, hesitatingly, "it's this way, Mistah President; you see ma folks burn wood."

VERSES THAT RING

CHEER UP

It is easy to be cheerful
When the world is going wrong;
For adversity is thrilling
As a challenge to the strong,
And the instinct rises in us
To give battle with a song.

When the night in gloom and shadow
Hides each friendly guide and mark
And familiar trees and bushes
Turn to figures grim and stark,
Never yet has been a youngster
But would whistle in the dark.

But when all the barns are bursting
With the harvest overflow,
When the shuttle of the weaver
Whirs unceasing to and fro—
Then it is we hear the prophets
Of calamity and woe:

"We are growing far too wealthy,
And at far too fast a gait;
We are going to the bowwows;
There is danger to the state;
All existing things must tumble,
Better stop a while and wait."

So when all the land is glowing
And the day repels the night,
When prosperity is smiling
And the sun is shining bright,
Try to grin and bear it, brother,
When the world is growing bright.

—New York Sun.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

It is queer how a man can keep on hurrahing to makes others believe he isn't beaten when he knows it.

People who think it is a crime for a neighbor to have a dog that barks once in a while think it all right for the baby to cry all night long.

It makes a man almost as mad to have to stay in bed Sunday morning because breakfast won't be ready as to have to get up other days because it is.

It makes a woman awful proud to have some one tell her the baby looks like the President when she knows it looks like a piece of pumpkin pie.—New York Press.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Hush money is apt to talk pretty loud at times. When doctors disagree it's up to the undertaker. Occasionally a society bud develops into a wall flower.

A man usually thinks of the wrong excuse at the right time.

Only a fool worm would wait until trodden upon before turning.

Be sure of the obese veal before essaying the role of a prodigal son.

It keeps a hypocrite busy trying to convince himself that he is honest.

Every man knows of a sure remedy for a cold that he wouldn't try on himself.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS

It doesn't take a man of mettle to steal.

Glittering generalities are the gold bricks of speech.

A broken promise is one of the hardest things to mend.

Even when you pay for a telegram you'll send it on tick.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY

What he is told most frequently? "Gone away on business" probably.

Somehow a man doesn't feel just right after he has done some people favors.

Real life romance is like a contagious disease. It should be avoided.

There is one thing about liking the gizzard of a chicken: You can nearly always get it.

The average country woman looks at restaurant fare as though she suspected it had poison in it.

No woman whose husband has a little country town salary is rich enough to refer to her gown as a "creation."

When a young man marries his mother wonders why, and when she has seen the girl she wonders still more.

When an Atechison widow, whose husband had been dead only a short time, plays the piano, she plays only on the black keys.

Things are this way all through life: The czar wanted a czarvitch to leave his crown to; now he has the czarvitch and no crown.—Atechison Globe.

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE

A clergyman with a solemn air announced from the pulpit one day that a button had been found in the collection. "Only one individual in the church could have been guilty of this trick," he said, "and I shall expect this person to replace the button with a coin."

After service a member of the church owned up to being the culprit and asked: "How did you know I was the man?"

"I did not know," said the clergyman. "But you said only one person could have done it. 'Just so,' was the reply. 'Two persons could not have put the same button on the plate.'"

HOW HE LOST IT

Along the belt line out in the vicinity of Indiana avenue lives a lot of the wildest boys in Kansas City. They have made a practice of "hopping" moving cars and engines, and as a result several of them are minus legs.

They don't seem to care, though. They are as happy and wild as ever. At Sportsman's Park one day recently were three of these one-legged boys hobbling about on crutches playing baseball. A man, looking on, noticed them.

"Say," he called to one of the boys using a crutch, "how did you kids lose your legs?"

"I don't know nothin' about the other guys," replied the boy. "I only

AMUSEMENTS

It's years, probably, since you laughed until tears came at the delightful humor of Eggleston's "Hooper Schoolmaster," and yet you probably will never forget how you enjoyed the book when you read it for the first time.

Eggleston is dead now and except at holiday time you'd hard work finding the "Hooper Schoolmaster" anywhere save in a library or book store.

George Ade has made Indiana types live anew in his charming rural comedy, "The County Chairman." It is hard for Texas to understand the selfishness with which the types have been drawn.

This year's "County Chairman" company is, as a whole, an improvement over the original. Theodore Babcock is a better Jim Haekler than Macklyn Arbuckle.

Zenaide Williams as the village milliner has a humor all aside from that of her lines. It is humor of the sort that makes an audience cheerily contented.

In other parts this year also the cast has been considerably strengthened. Florida Kinsley as Chick, the orphan girl, and Laura Ayres as Mrs. Jefferson Brisco, show improvements over the originals of their part.

Harman Lee is this year's Tilford Wheeler and last night's audience seemed to find him all the part demanded. Lucy, this year, is Kathlene MacDonelle.

George Thatcher as Sassafras Livingston gets enough of the dialogue to make a monologue man in minstrel show white with envy.

"THE COLLEGE WIDOW" The father of Billy Bolton, the football hero of "The College Widow," shows his gratitude to the college which is selling him down into the railroad business.

ALDERMEN HAVE NO AMENDMENT

Congress Shows No Definite Plans for Changes

Canvass of the city council shows that no definite plans have been made for reference of franchise amendments to the people at the spring election.

Aldermen have been considering the matter and most of them favor requirement for the city of 2 per cent of the receipts.

Alderman W. H. Ward said that he had changed his mind and would not offer the matter of an amendment and that the mayor was not clear at that time as to whether the matter could be brought up again as an amendment.

Alderman E. P. Maddox said that in his opinion it was necessary that some changes be made, but could make no definite statement.

Alderman J. F. Zurn said that he had not considered the matter yet, but wished to see what others thought about it.

NEW CHURCH TO BE BUILT HERE

Central Congregation Organized and Secures Lot

News reached this city today of the incorporation at Austin in the office of the secretary of state of the Central Church of Christ, a church of the Christian denomination in Fort Worth.

According to a member of the congregation, the church is aggressive and non-progressive, the difference between the two being in the manner of raising funds, affiliation of auxiliary societies, church organs and other matters.

The Central church had about sixty members before a series of protracted services held in the basement of the court house of Tarrant county by the Rev. A. W. Young of Sunset, Montague county, Texas, the meeting beginning the third Sunday in October and ending Nov. 5.

A lot has been purchased just east of the water front in Weatherford street, upon which the congregation will erect a church building, plans for which have not been completed.

NORTH FORT WORTH and ROSEN HEIGHTS

Service of the North Fort Worth water works will begin next week. The air compressor for the plant arrived Wednesday and will be installed as soon as possible.

Work on the new school is progressing rapidly and it is expected that the building will be ready for use by the first of the year. The state for the roof arrived on Wednesday and the work of putting it down has already started.

The North Fort Worth Kindergarten Association met Wednesday afternoon at the kindergarten and discussed an entertainment for the benefit of the new building, which has just been completed.

Aldermen J. J. Lydon and P. J. Conway have made arrangements to have Main street in the neighborhood of Central avenue repaved.

LOCAL POLICE CAN USE GUNS

Officers Do Not Need Target Practice Says Chief

Fort Worth will not adopt the plan of eastern cities and provide target practice for police officers. No target practice is needed for the Fort Worth police declares Chief Maddox.

Officers of the Fort Worth police department carry the original Texas six-shooter. The favorite size is a 45-caliber. Self-action revolvers are not used, as it is frequently necessary to use the revolver as a club, nevertheless, the force embraces some of the fastest men in the state with the trigger.

Target practice, it has been found, is of little use to officers, a crack with the bullethead being worthless when placed in a position where he must fire on the run.

Use of guns is gradually declining as the frontier element leaves the city, but is frequently necessary to use the revolver frequently depends upon his quickness with the trigger.

THE DRIFT OF POLITICS

The most interesting phase of Tuesday's elections in the various states and cities was the ease with which the people retired the old bosses of the parties and put new men in their places. Personal politics entered into the contests in a great degree, and the voters seemed ready and eager to follow their new leaders. One year ago Theodore Roosevelt swept the country in a manner unprecedented in its history. The people believed in him and they gave him their votes. The tide could not be stopped. A comparison of the returns of the pluralities cast in 1904 with some of the returns for 1905 makes interesting reading just at this time. It shows a remarkable change in sentiment, and nowhere is it more marked than in this city and state. Ohio comes next. A comparison of the votes of the two elections shows:

PENNSYLVANIA.
Roosevelt (R)	505,519
1905 Plurality
Berry (D)	85,000
PHILADELPHIA.
Roosevelt (R)	180,834

Desire to Get Rid of Bossism.

The universal disregard of party lines and the shifting of large bodies of voters from the established allegiance this year goes much deeper than mere apathy or capriciousness, and while there has been great variety in the local issues presented, there is discernible throughout an underlying and unmistakable purpose, and that is to strike at the root of the boss system. It shows that the people have not been indifferent to the widespread exposure of political graft and corruption which the past two or three years have witnessed, but have been simply waiting for an opportunity to express their feelings and convictions on the subject. This is especially the case in this city. In New York it is safe to assume that the serious defection from Tammany to Hearst, which left McClellan so narrow a plurality can be traced more to the same cause than to any general drift in the direction of socialism or municipal ownership. It is apparent that had it not been for the republican voters who went to McClellan from appearing on these points, he would have been defeated. Jerome's election in opposition to all the bosses and unaided by any party machinery is not only proof that the people want honesty and independence in office, but is the most striking instance the country has ever known of total disregard of party ties.

Penrose and Federal Patronage. It was an unlucky day for senatorial leaders. Mr. Penrose has been unhorsed, in a measure. It will be interesting to learn just how he stands at the white house now, after Secretary Root had had his say, and the people have also spoken. The test will come on the Philadelphia federal positions. First of these will be the most master to succeed Colonel McMichael. If the independents are recognized in federal appointments there will surely be a war in the senate over their confirmations. Senator Knox has announced his attitude on the proposed anti-rebate legislation, and he is solidly with the President. Mr. Roosevelt and Senator Penrose clashed in 1904 over the selection of a national chairman, and their old-time relationship has never been fully restored. Mr. Knox, some time ago, declared that he did not intend to mix in the local politics of the eastern end of the state, leaving that to Mr. Penrose entirely.

MOTHERS! Retain Your Youthful Figures.

To be beautiful is to be loved by all. If there lives the woman who is indifferent to this she is yet to be heard of. Yet from this time immemorial society has recognized what they thought to be a detriment in the way of such a realization. The bearing of children has meant to them the marbling of physical beauty. Secure, without which beauty of face would be of little account. Nothing could be more remote from truth than this; childbirth is purely a natural phenomenon, accompanied by pain, to be sure, but if properly managed no more harmful in its effects upon the human form divine than any other natural function.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is essential in the proper management of every case of labor, it relaxes and softens the abdominal muscles, thereby enabling them to sustain the stretching that they must undergo, and from this very fact it facilitates their return to normal proportions after childbirth, and it is obvious that pain must be greatly lessened from this very reason. It is a liniment, it is harmless, it is potent, it is priceless in its results, it is Mother's Friend. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Our book of prices value sent free to all women.

Bradfield Regulator Co., ATLANTA, GA.

If the President should insist on a change, however, it would complicate matters. With the Lieh case pending and vacancies occurring in choice federal offices, there is every incentive for the independents to demand of the President that they be recognized in the future distribution of patronage.

Plans of New Leaders.

There will be a great deal of talk about the governorship of the state, the nomination for which office is to be made next year. A legislature is also to be chosen, but it will not elect a United States Senator as Senator Penrose has until March, 1909, to serve. There is a long list of men available, or rather who would feel honored, by being made governor. First comes Mayor Weaver, who would be compelled to cut his mayoralty term by three months in the event of election. It is not probable that Lewis Emery or John W. Lee will be in the running. Penrose and Durham will scarcely be able to keep Quay's promise to Colonel Louis A. Watres and nominate him. Philadelphia has become such a strong factor in the politics of the state that the nomination may seek a man in this city. The succession to Pennypacker will cause the new leaders lots of bother and may split their organization before they solve the riddle. The scheme of the independents now is to not only capture the governorship, but the legislature as well, and thus hold the state for 1909, when a new United States senator is to be chosen. The plan was outlined last spring when the fight began on Durham and McNichol. It was first to beat the gas house scheme. Next to drive the present republican leaders out of power and capture the organization. Then the governorship and the legislature, and finally the United States senatorship. Up to date the plans have worked well and success has crowned the efforts of the men who have on the inside directed affairs.

What effect the extra session of the legislature and its work will have on the plans of the independents and the organization of course is a matter of conjecture this early. Just how the saddling of an expenditure of $1,000,000 by the state can benefit a political party is hard to see. It may cost that much for the extra session of the legislature.

Women in Political Contests.

The part played by women in politics in the campaign just closed in the several states has been an interesting one. While women have not the right to vote in the East they made their power felt. In this city the women urged their male relatives to their full duty and held prayer meetings and other gatherings. Mrs. Owen Wister appeared on the stump. In New York women were prominent both at the Hearst and McClellan meetings. In fact, they were active for Hearst and made speeches in his behalf. In Massachusetts the women were in the fight for Moran for district attorney of Boston. It looks as if the new governor of Ohio would have a good helmet to run his office. In discussing the result of the election Mrs. John M. Pattison, wife of the winner, said: "I am delighted with the result of the election, and know that Mr. Pattison will make a good governor. It seems a splendid thing that Ohio is at last free from the rule of a political boss. I cannot but believe the victory is due in large measure to the influence of intelligent women, who uphold civic righteousness without regard to party lines. The women of Ohio have exerted their influence in a good cause. I was really surprised at the deep interest taken by women in the campaign when I attended a political campaign with Mr. Pattison. Undoubtedly a wave of reform is sweeping over the country. We are almost as much interested in the good news from New York and Philadelphia as in our own triumph." It was Mrs. Fairbanks who helped to nominate her husband for vice president, and who summoned to her aid all her school girl friends. Women as active agents in politics are surely coming to the front.

McClellan's Hopes for the Presidency Crushed.

While there is some sympathy for Mayor George B. McClellan, of New York city, in the predicament he finds himself, there is little for Tammany throughout the country. Tammany has rough-shod it over all antagonists, and its leaders have stood as tars to crush out democrats who did not obey them. An attractive program had been laid out for Mr. McClellan that promised to land him in the White House as Roosevelt's successor. But this is seriously interfered with, and he has all he can do to hold on to the mayoralty. Just how Mr. Hearst can carry out his plans to capture the democratic nomination for the presidency in 1908 is not plain. He has fought the democrats of New York City, and is endeavoring to wrest the mayoralty from them. When it comes down to accurate figuring Hearst secured nearly as many democratic votes as McClellan, as the latter was saved by the republicans, who openly went to his aid and deserted their candidate. If Hearst can oust McClellan and capture the mayoralty, then he can build up a machine of his own before the next presidential election. Democrats have been elected without Tammany, but it is much safer to have even the halfhearted support from it that was accorded Grover Cleveland the first time he was a candidate. The situation is decidedly interesting. Young McClellan's presidential aspirations, though, are crushed out as completely as were those of his father. General Butler died in the belief that 5000 votes that had been cast for him in New York in the presidential campaign of 1884 were counted for Mr. Cleveland. The charge was openly and repeatedly made at the time, and others besides General Butler were convinced of its truth. The turmoil of those days is well remembered, but the present contest, being local, is not likely to cause so much trouble. All eyes are now turned to Washington, where the great contest between the president and congress will begin next month. The president is determined to have an anti-rebate railroad law, if such a thing is possible. His ideas were made public by Senator Knox in his Pittsburg speech. There will no doubt be an effort made to revise the tariff in some form. While this question did not enter into the campaign just closed, excepting in Massachusetts, it has been discussed freely in all parts of the country. It is regarded as significant that in Massachusetts Curtis Guild Jr., the republican candidate for governor, had 23,000 plurality, while his running mate, Mr. Draper, had only 1900. In the Bay State the question of reciprocity and a revision of the tariff, while not having anything to do with the governorship, was discussed on the stump. Mr. Guild favored both. Mr. Draper, who is an ardent protectionist, and who voiced the sentiments of Senator Lodge, talked against tariff revision, and he was not so strong for reciprocity as was his democratic opponent, H. M. Whitney, who is interested in coal and iron mines in Canada. The people favored Mr. Whitney and recorded their sentiments in this regard. The people of New England also are with the president for an anti-rebate law. But their senators, notably, Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts, are so closely allied with the railroad interests that they are lukewarm in the support of the president. In Ohio tariff revision was discussed, and the party leaders announced their opposition to the president's anti-rebate plans. In this state there was little or no discussion of tariff on the stump. The Pittsburg papers have recently been devoting considerable space to tariff revision, and they are with the president so long as Pittsburg is not made to suffer. The Northwest and the Far West will be with the president on the rebate question, and also the tariff. Senator Aldrich has not returned from Europe yet, and until he is heard from tariff legislation will proceed very leisurely.

Political Advertising Does Pay

Political advertising at space rates pays, as John B. Moran, the independent candidate for district attorney in Boston, learned. Moran has been elected over Michael J. Sughrue, the incumbent of the office, who was appointed by Governor Douglas to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Oliver Stevens. Sughrue was the candidate of both the republicans and the democrats. He had no opponent, and his nomination was a foregone conclusion. The Bar Association of Suffolk county endorsed him, and leading lawyers testified that he was a prosecuting officer of exceptional ability. For many years he had been an assistant judge. Mr. Stevens said: "There is no question of his success at the polls," said the Boston Herald the day before election. The Transcript predicted an overwhelming vote for Mr. Sughrue, and said he deserved it. But District Attorney Sughrue was defeated by the free-lance candidate, John B. Moran, who ran as an independent candidate and advertised himself as a bold reformer. In the sky over the courthouse Mr. Moran proclaimed in letters as black as crepe: "St. Louis needed Folk. New York needs Jerome. Boston needs Moran." Down in one corner under the courthouse was a testimonial from the pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist church, and check by Jowl with it was the best word of the Man Who Aids for What He Wants as follows: "The election of John B. Moran means prison for legislative and city hall grafters and bribers and immediate prosecution of those dens of murder such as the one in which the 'Dress Suit Case' victim met her death." John B. Moran was elected.

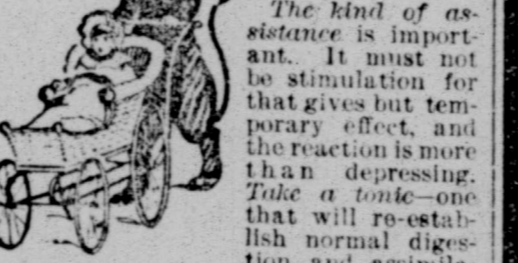

Authors in Politics

Brand Whitlock, who has been elected mayor of Toledo, is the latest novelist to enter the ranks of politics. Two or three years ago Booth Tarlington was sent to the Indiana legislature and Winston Churchill to that of New Hampshire. Later Jack London ran for mayor of Oakland, Cal., but found the voters not yet ripe for his socialistic doctrines. There are two classes of author-politicians—those who pass from literature to politics, and those who reverse the process. Senator Lodge and Representative Cleveland Brock Perkins produced historical works before going to congress, and Senator Beveridge drew on his moral observations in Washington to compound books of advice to young men.

UNSEEN DANGER IS ON OUR TRACK

From the time of our birth till we lie down for the last time.

The best defense from the dangers of disease is vigor of body and activity of the natural functions.

The kind of assistance is important. It must not be stimulation for that gives but temporary effect, and the reaction is more than depressing. Take a tonic—one that will re-establish normal digestion and assimilation and prove a reconstructive rather than a promoter of waste. This will give nature a fair chance to put in motion normal work of repair and tissue building. Such a tonic was given in Nature's Laboratory, hidden in the ground and brought thence forty years ago by Dr. R. V. Pierce, who has made the treatment of lingering diseases his life-long study and care. His glyceric extracts instead of alcoholic ones, exactly proportioned and combined by processes of his own invention, first used in his private practice and now given out freely to the world in his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is composed of Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Blood-root and Mandrake root.

Mrs. A. T. Jones, of 288 Hayes Street, San Francisco, Cal., writes: "A child I was delicate, and great care was taken of me because some of my relatives had died of consumption, although my father and mother were healthy. I grew up with only the ordinary diseases of all children, but about two years ago I contracted a severe cold, which would not yield to such home-treatment as my family doctors were tried, but after three months of this treatment I was only worse. Then I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and I was glad to say that three bottles not only cured me of the cold and cough, but made me feel better than I had before. I will always have a bottle of this medicine in the house. These tiny, sugar-coated anti-venereal pills granules regulate and invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. Do not forget the 'pills habit' but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and result, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor. Put up in vials; always fresh and reliable."

The first place, of course, always belongs to President Roosevelt. The crowded hours of office-holding have never proved a check on his literary activities nor the pleasures of authorship interfered with the duties of state.

May Manton Fashions

8204 Blouse Eton, $2 to 40 bust.

BLOUSE ETON 5204.

There is no coat better liked or more fashionable than the Blouse Eton and none that suits a greater number of occasions. It is smart, jaunty and very generally becoming. It involves fewer difficulties for the amateur than do the tightly fitted coats, and it can be worn at all hours of the day. Here is one that is eminently simple at the same time that it is eminently chic and smart and which appropriately can be made of the light weight velvets, velveteens and broadcloths and, with success. As illustrated, cloth in one of the new shades of sage is trimmed with velvet and handsome buttons, but here again there is opportunity for individuality, for the collar and cuffs can be of broadcloth on rough material, of the material braided or trimmed with banding or of moire or, indeed, of any contrasting material that may be preferred. The coat is made with fronts, back and center front, all of which are tucked. The neck is finished with the collar and the closing is made at the center front. The tucked center portion being hooked over invisibly into place. The sleeves are quite new ones that are full above the elbows, laid in tucks below, a trimming band being applied over the upper edges of the tucks, while they are finished with becoming flare cuffs. The quantity of material required for the medium size is 4 1/2 yards 21, 3 1/2 yards 27 or 2 yards 41 inches wide with 1 yard for collar, cuffs and belt. The pattern 5204 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inch bust measure.

SAFES

ICEBERG SPLITS ENGULFING BOY

College Student Saved by Companion on Exploring Trip

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Word was received in this city yesterday that Clifford Hamilton Easton, the young Baltimore student, who is Dillon Wallace's sole comrade, narrowly escaped drowning off Labrador, narrowly escaped drowning off the coast of St. Johns, N. F. C. W. Richards, the young Columbia student, who left the expedition and is now on his way home, saved Easton's life. This fact is corroborated by young Easton's father, Robert T. B. Easton, an attorney here.

When they were about two days out of St. Johns the party saw a huge iceberg outlined against the sky. Easton, burning with excitement, jumped into a skiff and pulled against the tide. He was determined to see a real iceberg at close quarters, and bent every muscle to reach it. Several times his skiff was whirled around by the current, but he turned against it again and was lost to view for more than a quarter of an hour.

Wallace ordered the nose of the vessel turned toward the iceberg, and five minutes later, with the aid of glasses, they beheld the venturesome lad on top of the huge iceberg.

The party at first believed the ice mountain to be solid, but they soon saw Easton raising a distress signal. The next moment the iceberg split in two. Easton slipped into the middle and was lost to sight. Easton's father says:

"Young Richards saved my son's life. He jumped into a skiff, dodged the floating ice and pushed his boat right to the middle of the collapsed iceberg. He was in danger of being crushed at any moment."

"My son was then struggling in the water, but Richards hauled him into the boat."

CASTRO REFUSES TO PAY FRANCE

Breach Between Countries Has Been Widened

PARIS, Nov. 16.—The foreign office is advised that President Castro yesterday refused to pay the second installment of the Plumley arbitration award.

The arbitration covered damages sustained by French citizens in Venezuela during revolutionary periods prior to 1903. Judge Frank Plumley of Northfield, Vt., was president of the arbitration commission, which met at Northfield last year.

Judgment was in favor of France, which awarded about $50,000, and President Castro paid the first installment of the award about three months ago. The second payment, due yesterday, was not paid.

Apparently the Venezuelan president's failure to pay the installment was on the ground that diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela are interrupted. Officials here decline to admit that justified President Castro in not paying the installment. The incident is considered to be a further provocation.

CLIMBS STACK

Young Tomboy Gains Top a Hundred and Eighty Feet High

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—A special to the World from Waterbury, Conn., says: Fifteen-year-old Grisella Heid, chief in all the innocent mischief in her class in the grammar school in Rockville, appeared a dare from her classmates yesterday by climbing to the pinnacle of a big stack of a manufacturing plant. It is of concrete and rises 180 feet. Grisella never faltered until she placed a flag on the very top of the big stack. She says she would like to try it again any time in good weather.

RAMSEY LIKELY TO TRY COURTS

Attorneys Say He May Cause Wabash Election Reversal

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Joseph Ramsey, Jr., ex-president of the Wabash railroad, returned to New York yesterday from the west. Mr. Ramsey recently received from his lawyers in Ohio their decision in regard to the legal steps he may take in connection with his failure to be re-elected as a director of the Wabash railroad. It is said that his lawyers have informed Mr. Ramsey that he is in a position to take certain legal steps that may result in at least a partial reversal of the recent election of directors.

Mr. Ramsey said yesterday: "I have received the opinion of my attorneys in the matter, but I have not yet determined what action I shall take."

In regard to the Little Kanawha syndicate, which recently transferred its properties to the Pittsburg and Lake Erie, Mr. Ramsey said all that remained to be done was the settlement of the accounts of the syndicate, and that this was now being done.

LABORER NEEDS HELP

Salvation Army Commander Declares They Are Becoming Helpless

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The statement that it is increasingly difficult for a workman to raise his family in decency and comfort was made in a paper read by Evangelina E. Booth, commander of the forces in the United States of the Salvation Army before the New York State Association of Charities and Corrections yesterday. Miss Booth maintained that whether there is an actual increase in poverty among the very poor is certain, an increasing helplessness among them.

"The farm colony," the paper read, "is the natural, scientific remedy for this terrible evil and can be made co-extensive with it."

COURT TO SEE GLOVE CONTEST

Men Charged Prize Fighting to Give Exhibition

Hearing of Jack Madden, J. A. Skidman and Hi Tom Ward, the three men who were arrested on charges of taking part in a prize fight will be interesting from the fact that the men will give an exhibition of the performance as it was being given at the Standard theater when arrested in order to demonstrate to the court that it is not a violation of the laws of the state.

The preliminary hearing has been changed and will come up this afternoon in Judge Terrell's court.

The men were arrested by Assistant County Attorney R. E. L. Roy and Deputy Sheriff Wren Wednesday night during the progress of an act entitled, "Scene in a Gymnasium."

PANIC FROM FIRE

Labor Convention Has Small Disturbance—Gompers Restores Quiet

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 15.—There was a slight panic among the delegates at the meeting of the American Federation of Labor convention at the old city hall today, caused by the decorations in the rear of the hall taking fire. A rush was made for the fire exits, but quiet was soon restored by President Gompers. The fire burned itself out in a few minutes and no one was injured.

TURNER APPEAL REFUSED

In the Fourth court of civil appeals which meets at San Antonio, a rehearing was denied in the case of George Turner (death), from Bexar county. He was a former resident of this city.

ODELL DENIES

Says He Didn't Threaten Charter of Trust Company

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Ex-Governor Odell was in the insurance investigation today. Mr. Odell denied that he ever, directly or indirectly, threatened to have the charter of the Mercantile Trust Company revoked. Mr. Odell, when again asked if the Mercantile Trust Company charter had been threatened, dramatically exclaimed: "There is no truth in that, so help me God!"

Senator Chauncey M. Depew went on the witness stand soon after Mr. Odell.

SEPARATION O. K'D

Judge Swing Grants Alimony and Fees to Mrs. Madden

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16.—Deciding a separation was warranted under all the circumstances, alimony to the amount of $600 a month and attorneys' fees of $6,000 was ordered by Judge James B. Swing in this city today in the suit of Mrs. Madden for alimony pending a decision in the Kentucky courts on the suit for divorce between John E. Madden and herself.
