DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 23.—Mrs. W. J. Meador of 207 North Akard street is dead and her husband is believed to be dying at the city hospital as a result of a double tragedy at the Meador home at 10 o'clock this morning.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 23.—Almost miraculously was the escape which R. J. Olliphant, R. L. Thompson and D. C. BOUGHT OFF WITH CHRISTMAS GIFT

For $1,000,000 Mrs. L. Corey Abandons Divorce Suit

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Corey, wife of W. Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has decided to abandon her intention of applying for divorce. She has been offered $1,000,000 as a Christmas gift by her husband not to do so, and he has, through a messenger, his father, assured her that he has broken with Mabelle Gillman. He has also promised to make a will in which his son, Allen, shall be his heir.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—It is persistently rumored here today that a reconciliation will soon be effected between William Ellis Corey and his wife. An unusual Christmas tree is being set up and decorated in the home of Alfred A. Corey of Bradock father of William E. Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation, and the son and daughter-in-law are hurrying to Pittsburgh for the Christmas season, which will mean so much or so little to both.

The news of Mrs. Corey leaving Los Angeles for Pittsburgh, accompanied by Miss Ada Corey, the younger sister of W. E. Corey, and the information that the mission of A. A. Corey, the father to New York, to hold a conference with his son and effect a reconciliation was not entirely in vain, has been seized upon as a foundation for the rumor that at Christmas a strong effort will be made to heal the breach between the couple.

Mrs. Frank Campbell of Swissvale the mother of Mrs. Corey, has stated that she expected her daughter to be with her during Christmas. It is said that Mrs. Campbell, on her part, has been untiring in her efforts to have Mrs. Corey change her views, and at the same time Alfred Corey and his wife have been active in their efforts toward a reconciliation.

Friends of the Corey family yesterday denied that Mrs. Corey was coming to Pittsburgh to have a divorce trial held in the Allegheny county court. The fact was pointed out that there will be more difficulty in obtaining a legal separation in this state than in the western states, which Mrs. Corey has recently visited.

It is stated that emissaries from Mr. Corey have been in communication with Mrs. Corey in regard to the separation, and it is hinted that some former difficulty has been explained to the satisfaction of both husband and wife.

Mrs. Corey left Los Angeles on Monday and arrived in Pittsburgh this morning. Mr. Corey and his father reached here this morning. Mrs. Corey will proceed to Pittsburgh with Mr. Corey and will go to that of his father. It is stated that a conference between the relatives, friends and the principals will be held Sunday night in the house of Alfred A. Corey.

SUSPECT OF 40 YEARS CLEARED

Witness to Tragedy Renders Mystery's Solution

MOUNT STERLING, Ky., Dec. 23.—A witness to a tragedy committed years ago in North Middletown, Bourbon county, has just been found and the true story revealed. In 1882, Joseph Langston, a shoemaker, became involved in a quarrel with John Simpson, a tavern keeper, over an imaginary insult. Langston, to protect himself, struck Simpson with an iron shoe clamp, crushing his skull and causing his death in a few hours. The only witness to the crime was a Confederate soldier, who disappeared immediately after the killing.

WOMAN'S LONG TRAMP

Walks All the Way from Kentucky to Sherman, Texas

SHERMAN, Texas, Dec. 23.—The authorities have an unusual case on their hands. This morning it was reported to the sheriff's office that a woman evidently ill was lying by the side of the track at the first grade crossing on the Houston and Texas Central railway south of the fuel oil tanks. Deputy Etchison went to investigate and found a white woman crouched in a pile of cross-ties and shivering violently as if in a chill. She was brought to the court house and after she had had something to eat and a fire she expressed a willingness to talk. She said her name was Mrs. Mary Ann or Malley Duval, and that she had walked all the way from Litchfield, Grayson county, Ky., to Plano, Texas, and had been in Collin county three weeks and had started to walk back to Kentucky when overtaken by the storm. Her father's name is White, she stated, and he is a farmer near McKinney. On order of County Judge Webb she was taken to the county hospital, and efforts are being made to communicate with her parents.

Newell returned last night at 7 o'clock from Haskell, where he had been released following habeas corpus hearing on $5,000 bond. When seen this morning he said: "I am indeed glad to get back again and I wish to express my greatest thanks and gratitude to my friends who have done so much work in my behalf and also to those friends who have been so kind to my mother and sister during my absence."

Fort Worth ranks fifth in the list of cities in total amount of clearings for the week.

GORMAN'S HEALTH

May Cause Him to Resign His Place as Caucus Chairman

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 23.—It is regarded as likely that Senator Gorman will soon resign his place as caucus chairman. Senator Gorman has not been in good health for more than a year, and his friends say he feels that the duties which the chairmanship imposes on him make a greater tax on his strength than he ought to subject himself to. According to the report, the Maryland senator has already determined on this course, but has not yet decided just when he will ask to be relieved. The belief is, however, that he will call a caucus shortly after the reassembling of congress and then ask that the duties of chairmanship be put upon some one else.

Colonel Goodnight has selected one of the finest buffaloes in his herd to be butchered and divided among several towns on the Denver road. Of course each town can only get a limited quantity, but the amount will probably be sufficient to allow all who have the inclination and the price to partake of the unusual meat.

STREETS LIKE A BATTLEFIELD

Eleven Killed in Battle of Workmen and Troops

THE PRINTERS' STRIKE FAILS

Leading St. Petersburg Newspapers Continue to Make Appearance

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 23.—Eleven men were killed and eighty wounded by volleys fired by the troops at workmen defending a barricade on Everska street in Moscow today. The total casualties in Moscow yesterday are estimated at 150. ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 23.—Though the Printers' Union is one of the most advanced and most thoroughly organized unions in all Russia, it is unable to enforce the newspaper strike. The Novo Vremya, Slovo and other conservative papers expect to appear today. The pan-Russian Congress League was one of the leagues scheduled to be held in St. Petersburg tomorrow, but owing to the strike only a few delegates are present and the meeting will probably be postponed, like the semstvo congress at Moscow, until January. With the political strike as a revolutionary weapon apparently losing its keenness, owing to too frequent use, fears are not being entertained that the revolutionists may be driven to return to their old methods and inaugurate a reign of terrorism. The government is aware of a number of high agents of the revolutionary organization at Geneva having returned to Russia and has increased the precautions to safeguard all in authority at St. Petersburg and Tsarkoe-Selo.

STREETS BARRICADED

LONDON, Dec. 23.—A dispatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg says that barricades have been erected on Everska street, the chief thoroughfare of the provinces tell of the holding there bravely, making repeated attacks on the police, Cossacks and dragoons whenever the latter have attempted to intimidate the workmen, who are holding the streets. The police are using machine guns, which are unhesitatingly used against the revolutionists.

YOUNG WOMAN KILLED

VLADIMIR, Russia, Dec. 23.—Owing to the hostile attitude of the people here who attacked the railroad strikers, the strikers would have been torn to pieces had troops not intervened. The railroad strike here is ineffective, most of the employees working. Reports received from several villages in the provinces tell of the murder of agitators by peasants who were enraged at their attacks on the employer. Among the victims was a young woman.

ARTILLERY IS USED

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—Troops surrounded the school house where the workmen's meeting was being held here yesterday evening and summoned the men to surrender. Blank shots were fired to intimidate the workmen, who replied with revolver shots and bombs and artillery were then brought up and the school house bombarded until the survivors of the workmen surrendered.

MOSCOW TRAFFIC OPEN

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—Traffic has been opened here for the assistance of troops and railroad battalion. The lines to Nishni Novgorod, Yaroslavl, Kazan and Nicholas road to St. Petersburg are working normally. The incoming trains only are running on the Windau and Voronezh lines. The tie-up is complete on the Ural and Kursk lines.

FACTORY WORKERS STAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 23.—At a number of factories working here the employees are refusing to leave. The government has the situation well in hand in this city. The country here at Moscow is unrelieved. Strong guards patrol the streets. Machine guns remain loaded and in position for immediate action at any time.

John R. Walsh, Banker Who Has Figure in Recent Chicago Financial Sensation

This is an excellent picture of the man whose failure in Chicago has made such a stir all over the country. Walsh has always shown a strong dislike for the camera and has steadfastly refused to sit for photographs, except once or twice in his lifetime. When the failure came his picture was unknown in newspaper offices. This newspaper, however, was able to secure the latest photograph Mr. Walsh sat for, and this sketch was made from it.

PAT GARRETT TO LIVE ON RANCH IN NEW MEXICO

Talks of Meeting With President Roosevelt

"I cheerfully acquiesce in the President's action in not reappointing me as United States marshal for the Western district of Texas," said Captain Pat Garrett to a Telegram reporter this morning. "I not only acquiesce, but endorse the President's action for the reason that I am of the opinion that he did the proper thing and the premises."

Another statement was made by the ex-United States marshal for the El Paso district. "I am just from Washington," said Captain Garrett, "where I had interviews with both President Roosevelt and Secretary Shaw in the interest of my reappointment. I first saw Secretary Shaw and took up with him the matter of my reappointment, and at the very outset he gave me to understand that he was opposed to it, alleging as a reason for that opposition that there was an atmosphere of opposition to me among all good people—not opposition to my official administration, but opposition to my reappointment. He said he had received letters from a large number of good people in opposition to my reappointment and that these letters were enough to influence him."

"I suggested that when charges were made against a man that he ought to have an opportunity to defend himself before sentence was passed on him; but Secretary Shaw assured me that the letters that he had received were in his mind as to my case. I saw the President."

"I went to the President after leaving Secretary Shaw and was received very cordially. I took up the matter of my reappointment with him and was told that it was deemed best not to reappoint me in the face of the opposition of a member of the cabinet. President Roosevelt did not indicate to me that he was dissatisfied with the manner in which I had discharged my duties, and when I took up the matter of my taking my saloon friend to the San Antonio banquet he assured me that that circumstance cut no figure in the case at all with him—that he felt he had not to reappoint me for the reason that a member of his cabinet was opposed to me; and I believe the President was right."

"I am not disgruntled in the least, and I have nothing but the best feelings for President Roosevelt, who I regard as the greatest man in the world without an exception. He was right in not reappointing me and I am free to admit it."

"I just what my future program will be I cannot now say. I have not made up my mind on that point yet, but I am going to do something. I have a good ranch in New Mexico, where my family now is, and I will go there for a while, but I have not made up my mind to settle down to ranch life permanently."

"Secretary Shaw, you must know, is a very strict churchman and while I have the highest regard for churches and the greatest respect for church people, I am not as regular in my church attendance as he is, and I won't say that this fact has not had some weight against me. However, I have no complaint to make against anyone. I simply take my medicine with the best grace possible, and keep my face straight."

"Captain Garrett is accompanied by his friend, Tom Powers of El Paso, and today has been handshaking with a host of old-time friends in Fort Worth. He did not indicate to The Telegram man when he would leave for the west."

MISTRIAL IN GIBSON CASE

Jury Fails to Reach an Agreement in Case

JURY STAYED OUT FOUR DAYS

Only Two of the Twelve Stood for the Death Penalty Against Accused

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 23.—After being out since Tuesday night in the attempt to arrive at a verdict in the Monk Gibson case the jury was called by Judge Dwyer of the Thirty-seventh district court this morning and asked if there was any possibility of arriving at a verdict. The reply was in the negative and the jury was discharged. It is understood that the jury stood seven for conviction, five for acquittal and only two for the death penalty. It is said the jury stood this way in the first ballot and never changed. The men were fixed in their determination and would not change if locked up until the end of the court term. This is considered a victory for the defense. The court room was crowded but no demonstration was made.

Sept. 28, 1905, the family of A. J. Condit, consisting of Mrs. Condit and four children were murdered at the Condit home, one mile north of the town of Edna, Texas. The murder was reported by the Condit family employed as a farm hand by Condit. Upon being arrested on suspicion the boy escaped from the custody of the officers while being taken to Hallettsville, Texas, to jail. A search was at once instituted, which was engaged in by almost every able bodied man in that section of the country and resulted in the apprehension of Gibson in a barn about ten days later. Troops were sent to Edna at the request of the authorities and Gibson was later transferred to San Antonio, where his trial resulted in a hung jury as stated in the beginning of this dispatch.

BIG TIMBER DEAL

It Involves 90,000 Acres Near the Texas Boundary

BEAUMONT, Texas, Dec. 23.—Colonel S. M. Park, president of the Industrial Lumber Company, which has headquarters in this city, leaves tonight for Chicago to close up the details of a timber purchase effected in the past few days. The transaction involves 90,000 acres of virgin pine in Rapides and Vernon parishes in Louisiana, and the amount to be paid at Chicago is $3,200,000. The board of directors of the Industrial will be at that city, where the money will be paid over. This purchase gives the Industrial Company when added to their previous holdings a stumpage of 3,000,000 feet of standing lumber. The company operates four mills in Louisiana and will add two more to their list.

RIOTS DISASTROUS

Late Arrival Tells of Vladivostok Troubles and Death of Many People

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 23.—Henry Bush, who arrived from Vladivostok last night, tells of rioting and looting by the Russian soldiers there. He estimates that 2,000 Chinamen and 500 Russians were slain, while property worth $20,000,000 was destroyed. The largest Russian mercantile dealers, who were damaged about $1,000,000. The trouble started in a Chinese bazaar which the Russians sacked and then burned. Gangs of mutinous troops went up and down the street shooting wildly and taking what they wanted, setting fire to the places. Corpses lay unburied for three days. Commandant Katzoff ordered the troops in the barracks to suppress the rioters, but they shot over the heads of the mutineers. Katzoff fled the evening of the first day. The rioting ceased only when the troops were assured that they would be taken back to Russia.

F. P. Baker Answers Appeal for Democratic Harmony

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 23.—Frank P. Baker, candidate for democratic district chairman, Friday replied to the harmony appeal of National Chairman Taggart, saying that he would withdraw from the race for district chairmanship if Taggart would withdraw Joseph T. Fanning, the machine candidate. He says the national chairman knows well enough how party harmony can be secured if he is really in earnest in trying to bring it about, and if Fanning will withdraw there will be nothing in the way of selecting a man who will be acceptable to both factions.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of

EGGNOG EXPERTS

TELL ITS SECRET

Leading Mixers Give Their Recipes

Eggnog! How to make it and how to make it well; so that it will be appetizing, invigorating and yet not intoxicating in moderate quantities is the question which has troubled not a few people in their preparations for the convivialities of the Yuletide season.

Investigation by the reportorial force of The Telegram developed that, while many beverages have certain known and inflexible rules as to quantities and qualities of the ingredients, eggnog is of various orders and different recipes, owing to the education of the versatile drink mixers who essay to concoct this same old-fashioned annual offering of "Mine Host" at Christmas and New Year's.

The mildest recipe, given by one of a half dozen experts in this city, was dictated as follows: "Take one large teaspoonful powdered sugar, one fresh egg, one-half wineglassful brandy, one-half wineglassful Santa Cruz rum, and a little shaved ice, fill the glass with rich milk and shake up the ingredients until they are thoroughly mixed. Pour the mixture into a goblet, excluding the ice and grate a little nutmeg on top. This may be made by using a glass of either liquor without the other, instead of both combined. Boiling water instead of ice makes the drink a hot eggnog instead of a cold one."

For making eggnog in quantities, Tom Dougherty furnished the following recipe: Use twelve eggs, 30c; one-fourth gallon whiskey, 15c; one-half pint rum, 25c; two quarts sweet milk, 10c; one pound powdered sugar, 10c. Beat the whites and yolks of the eggs separately. To the yolks add the sugar, stirring slowly. Next add the milk, whiskey and rum and on top of the mixture, which should be in a large punch bowl, add the whites. In serving the eggnog, dip through the whites of the eggs. All the service glass two-thirds full and top with the whites. A dash of nutmeg or cinnamon completes the drink.

T. J. Martin gives the following: Take twelve eggs, three quarts of milk, whiskey to taste, and one-half pint rum for flavoring. Beat the whites and yolks separately, using sugar to taste and adding the whites on top of the mixture in the bowl, served with a dash of nutmeg.

W. C. Blevins gave the following: Take eighteen eggs, two pounds pulverized sugar, one-half pint rum, one quart whiskey, one-half gallon milk. Mix the eggs, beat the whites and yolks together, adding the milk, whiskey and rum. The best taste will be assured by making the eggs and sugar mixture separately and serving the whiskey and rum on top of the mixture. In this way the eggnog remains fresh and agreeable to the palate and may be served weak or strong, according to the wishes of the person drinking it.

W. A. Hornbeak says: Use twelve eggs, one pound of sugar, one pint of milk, one pint of whiskey and three tablespoonsful of rum. Beat the yolks of the eggs separately, adding the sugar to the yolks of the eggs separately, adding the sugar to the yolks. Then add the milk, rum and whiskey to taste. The amount may vary from one and one-half pints of whiskey. Pour the whites of the eggs on top of the bowl and add cinnamon or nutmeg.

OF INTEREST TO THE CATTLEMEN

CATTLE AND THE RANGE Captain John T. Lytle, secretary of the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, in answer to a question as to range and cattle conditions in Texas at present and the outlook for the coming months of winter, said:

"From the last reports received this week from every section of Texas, and also of Oklahoma, the range is in very fine condition for this season, and cattle are in better shape than usual. Rains have been universal, and while some few isolated spots would have been better off with a less quantity, still so far cattle have wintered well. In south Texas there is a fine season in the ground, and the general opinion is that there will be a large number of fat cattle shipped from that section. I think that it, as a whole, live stock are in good shape and both cattle and range conditions on the whole are better than they have been for the last two years. At present every thing is all right, but as this is not the beginning of winter, no absolute predictions can be given as to the future. Still there is no apprehension felt even in those localities not favored by the best conditions. You cannot tell what may happen in the future, but all indications point to the fact that cattle will pass through the winter all right. In some parts of the plains country, where there was a heavy growth of grass, some fears are entertained that on account of the unusual amount of rains in the last six weeks the grass may be damaged. "Shipments of cattle are considered about through with, but the season has been so good and favorable to shipments that they really held out longer than in most years. The stockmen are to be congratulated for the past good season and it is hoped the next year will bring a renewal of the same."

CATTLE ON FEED T. F. Short, general live stock agent of the Rock Island lines in Texas, reported that all the cotton oil mills on his lines were full of feeders, and that not many second feeders would be handled at the mills. Range conditions, when his last reports came in, were good, with best prospects for the future and lots of feed to keep cattle in good condition, while there has been good rains, no one is complaining and all speak well of conditions.

PANHANDLE RANGE CONDITIONS The general freight office of the Fort Worth and Denver state that there has not really been any winter to speak of along their lines or in the plains country. Reports from all along the line do not indicate that there has been much damage, and that cattle are in fine shape. There is more feed than was ever known before, and whatever happens in the future, cattle are sure to come out of the winter in good condition. Open seasons grass has caused the shipping season to be extended unusually this year.

THE ALPINE COUNTRY ALPINE, Texas, Dec. 22.—The big steers Jackson & Harmon recently bought of L. Haley are being shipped out. Four car loads and about an average of the entire number weighed 1,251 pounds in Alpine. Pretty good weight for range cattle. W. T. Henderson brought in two carloads of the King steers and shipped them to New Orleans.

Measday Bros. bought thirteen head of choice beef cattle from S. R. Guthrie this week.

Joe Espey shipped two carloads of cows to New Orleans last night.

John McKinney bought two cars of cows and calves from Bob Ellison and shipped them from Marfa to San Antonio.

Bob Serna bought a carload of cows at $10 and a few calves at $6 from Clyde Buttrill.

Kokernot & Kokernot sold Al Billingsly three carloads of cows. They were shipped to El Paso.

Bob Nevill is shipping some cows from Marfa this week to points east.

Clyde Buttrill sold Guy Borden three carloads of cows Wednesday.

Jackson & Harmon shipped sixteen cars of the Kokernot steers.

Jackson & Harmon received $3.75 per hundred for eight tons of the Haley steers last week. They averaged 1,173 pounds per head at Fort Worth.

Sheriff Walton bought of I. S. Malone the latter's residence for $2,000.

Mr. Malone will move to El Paso. Many strangers are coming into Alpine every day and the land is being rapidly taken up. Alpine welcomes all good citizens and there is land enough for all.

ALLEGED BAD FAITH Some of the western Kansas cattlemen who have been caught by the federal grand jury for fencing up government land claim that the interior department not only violated a precedent in order to indict them, but also broke faith with them, says a message from Topeka.

"By the way they are stirring up things now," said a cattlemen who was caught in the meshes, "they would like to get them up, it has always been the rule of the department not to molest cattlemen unless they interfered with settlers taking homesteads. If for any reason a fence had to come down the cattlemen were usually given sixty days by the department to perform. We supposed that the same rule still applied. When the inspector came down to round things up, we supposed it was the same old thing and took all we knew about our fences and government land. Now we are indicted for it."

THE RECORD BROKEN Bell County Raised More Corn This Year Than Ever Before

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM. AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 23.—According to D. C. Burkes, sheriff of Bell county, who is here on business with the comptroller's department, all previous records have been broken in the raising of corn in his county this season by the farmers. Never before in the history of the county has so much corn been raised in Bell county as was raised this year, and it has not only found a ready market, but the farmers obtained from 42 to 45 cents per bushel, and yet this does not represent the entire crop of corn raised in Bell county this year. The cotton crop, Sheriff Burkes said, was also very good but was nothing to compare with the corn crop. The result of this great crop of corn and a good crop of cotton, the farmers are in a prosperous condition.

"Why, there is not a farmer in our county," said Sheriff Burkes, "who has not a good bank account at the end of this year, and many who had mortgages on their places and were otherwise encumbered, have succeeded this year in settling all accounts and starting on a cash basis."

ROAD NOT RESPONSIBLE If Misdirected Passenger Cannot Recover in Suit For Damages

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM. AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 23.—The supreme court has overruled a motion for a rehearing in the case of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company of Texas against J. F. White from Bowie county. This is the case wherein White had sued the Cotton Belt on account of the action of one of its agents in misdirecting White and his family when they wanted to remove from a place in Bowie county to a point near Kirbyville. The court then held that the company was responsible for the acts of its agent.

In overruling a motion for a rehearing the court handed down the following opinion: "Counsel for the railroad company suggest that the opinion in this case is susceptible of the construction that this court holds that a ticket agent of a railroad company is required to give information concerning the route to be taken by a passenger beyond the line of the road for which he is agent. We think the opinion is not fairly susceptible of that interpretation, but to avoid any misunderstanding, we will state that the authoritative scope of the opinion is confined to the conclusion that it is within the scope of the authority of one who sells tickets for a railroad company to give information to persons purchasing tickets concerning the route to be traveled in using the ticket, and when an agent undertakes to give such information, his principal will be responsible if he should mislead the passenger. The question of liability of a railroad for failure of its agent to give such information, on request, is not passed upon; it was not in the case."

Lame back is only one symptom of kidney trouble—one of many. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are, being obliged to pass water often during the day and to get up many times during the night, inability to hold your urine, smarting or irritation in passing, brick dust or sediment in the urine, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid, constant headache, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, irregular heart-beating, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, worn-out feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion. If your water when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science. In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. ## TELEGRAM SHORT STORY

MAUD OF THE GOLDEN HAIR

She Had a Light Touch, Not Entirely Confined to the Piano Keys

Written for The Telegram.

I saw her sitting by the companion hatch as I was crossing the channel last August. She was neatly dressed in a tailor suit of dark blue serge, and upon her shapely head she wore a tam o'shanter cap, from under which flowed a profusion of golden hair.

"Burbles actress," I thought, directing upon those golden locks an admiring glance. Just then the ship rolled, she of the golden hair lost her balance and fell, but recovered herself with a ringing laugh. "Pardon me," I said as I helped her up. "The benches for ladies would be more snug for you."

"You are in the army?" she said.

"Yes, and you—I think—that you are—on the stage?"

"Yes, in London; I am a singing and dancing fairy; sometimes I am a queen."

"But a fairy always, eh?"

She did not notice the compliment. "I have been overworked, so no more of Maud St. Aubyn on the bills at present," she said.

"I hope you are going to Trouville," said I.

"That's the place; Mme. Burbank's house—an English woman."

"Oh, if you get there you'll feel at home. What up?"

"Only the ticket agent."

Maud St. Aubyn fumbled in her purse. "I came off in such a hurry, how much?"

"Twenty shillings."

"Oh, what a nuisance! I shall have to go below, and if I once put my foot in that nasty cabin I shall be ill."

"Let me be your banker pro tem," said I.

I handed the man a gold piece. When we reached Trouville, where I met my sister, I first put Miss Maud in the cab and paid the driver.

I prevailed on Kitty to call and she came back in raptures. "Oh, Jack," she exclaimed, "what a nice ladylike, light-fingered, modest little body."

"Light-fingered! Kate, that's a desirable quality for a pickpocket, but for a lady—"

"You stupid boy, I mean her touch on the piano."

But one night as Kitty was pouring over the local papers I heard her cry out in an alarmed tone. "Good gracious! Read this!"

She pointed to a paragraph headed: "Court of correction and police—a strange case."

"Miss Maud St. Aubyn, a very handsome and fashionably dressed girl, describing herself as a London actress, was charged by a fellow boarder of Mme. Burbank's with abstracting $20 from the pocket of his overcoat."

"Henry Lovell did not establish his case, although he swore he had seen the defendant put her hand in the breast pocket of his ulster and take out a small packet of blue paper in which money was wrapped."

"The people were indignant and Mr. Lovell narrowly escaped from being mobbed while cheers greeted the young lady's discharge."

"Well, I never," said my sister, "poor child, poor dear, what a cowardly fellow."

"Kate," I said, "if Mr. Lovell comes within range of my horseplay, by Jove, I'll thrash him within an inch of his life."

"You will do no such thing, sir," said my sister. "But this is what we will do—we will take Maud to those cosy rooms at the Widow Vidal's in Seely street, and do all we can to make her forget this insult. And so we did."

Maud St. Aubyn was an honored guest. I remember one "tea" at which she looked stunning in a crushed strawberry tulle over satin. She was the life of the company. But all at once she complained of feeling faint.

"Come out into the garden, Maud," I whispered. But she declined the polite suggestion.

"No, I'll just go up to Kate's room a minute," she answered, "and lie down until I feel better; don't let anyone come. I shall get over sooner alone."

An hour passed—the company went, but Maud did not return, and Kate stole up to the room to see how the invalid fared. A moment later a loud shriek rang through the house.

I sprang upstairs and there stood Kate grasping with her muscular hand the round white arm of Maud St. Aubyn, and I heard her passionately exclaim: "Give it up, give it up instantly, or my brother will call the police."

"Give what up?" I asked, quite dumfounded at the tableau.

"My watch, Jack, my gold watch. She has it in her pocket."

"How dare you say so? Captain Grantham will you, a gentleman and a soldier, stand by and see a poor innocent girl insulted? 'Tisland me, madame, and let me leave your house."

"Jack," said my sister, calmly, "send for a constable."

I made a step to the door, when Miss St. Aubyn, seeing that I was in dead earnest, with a sort of flaunting jerk, turned her pocket inside out and let fall on the hearth rug a gold watch and chain, a turquoise bracelet, a diamond pin, two lace handkerchiefs, all the property of my beloved sister, Kitty.

"Let her go, Kitty," I said.

And she swept out of the house at once before we could say Jack Robinson.

We did not speak. When a fellow finds out he has been "spoons" on a thief there is little to say. The next morning we were surprised by an early visit from Miss Vidal.

"Oh," she cried, weeping, "that 'ere young lady that looked so nice and played the pianer like an artisee—she's a regular thief that ought to be pickin' hoakum at ard labor. She's been an' robbed me."

"Have her arrested at once," I advised.

"I can't sir. She' haff 'oiled it on the packet. When she was gone, and I went up to tidy up a bit, and seeed all of my ancient secretary opened. Thinks I, 'Ows this, which I allers keeps you locked and the key on my bunch? and when I comes to look the papers are rummaged and the cash box opened."

"How much did you lose?"

"Ten pounds fourteen and truppence, all my 'ard-earned earnings this blessed summer."

"Don't fret," I said, "I sent the girl into your house, and I will make amends. You shall not lose the money." I sent the Widow Vidal away consoled, and added that little item against the fair enchantress—that there was, no more to settle my bill. Since that I have never spoken to a girl with yellow hair, with a skin-tight serge dress and a tam o'shanter on her head.

REMEMBER THE POOR

As the holiday season draws so near and the heart of the average American citizen beats high in anticipation of the enjoyment attendant usually upon this, the greatest event of the year, we should not forget the poor and unfortunate who reside in every community and into whose lives but little of the sunshine of happiness is ever permitted to enter. We should not become so engrossed in the pursuit of happiness and enjoyment for ourselves that we cannot find time to turn and do a kind deed in the Master's name, commemorative of the season we celebrate.

Fort Worth is a live and progressive city, teeming with life and business energy. Our people are generally prosperous, happy and contented, but there is a seamy side to life, even in Fort Worth. We have our poor, our halt and our infirm. We have many homes into which there can come no observance or remembrance of the gladsome Yuletide unless it is furnished by charity. There are those whom sickness has deprived of opportunity to keep the wolf from baying about the family door. There are those whom various forms of misfortune have rendered miserable and disconsolate, and it is such as these that Fort Worth should gather to her benevolent breast during the next few days and overwhelm with the realization that they reside in a Christian community.

There are wee little girls whose aching arms do not press the coveted dolly, and winsome little boys who must feel that even Santa Claus can forget the children of the poor unless the great heart of Fort Worth reaches out and scatters into these little lives some of the sunshine and happiness that will overwhelm those more fortunately situated.

There has been no remissness on the part of Fort Worth people in this respect in the past, and the intention of these suggestions is simply not to remind our people of their duty, but to insure that they shall do more than their duty—that they will vie with one another in an effort to bring happiness and comfort into every human heart in all this big city during the time when the Christmas spirit is rife.

It has been a very prosperous year for Fort Worth and in no more fitting manner can we display our gratitude for the blessings that have come to us. Let us remember the poor, and make Christmas, 1909, an event that will long be remembered in the lives of our poor and unfortunate.

FEDERAL INSURANCE REGULATION

The question of government regulation of the big insurance companies has already been raised in congress, in spite of the senatorial assurance made that there would be nothing doing. Representative Landis, a new man on the floor from Indiana, made a speech a few days ago in support of a bill submitted that has attracted a great deal of favorable attention. Alluding to the action of the men at the head of these great institutions, the Indiana man said: "One thing exceeds the perfidy of these offenders, and that is their impudence. There is not one of them good enough to wear the stripes of a felon."

That was pretty strong language to use on the floor of the house, but it has found an echo in the hearts of millions of American people, who believe the time has come when a summary quietus must be placed upon the action of men who appear to have so little regard for the sacred trust that has been entrusted to their keeping.

Representative Landis says there are in this country 10,000,000 policy holders, 20,000,000 policies, and at least 40,000,000 people interested in insurance. He gives the amount of insurance now in force at $12,000,000,000, and in explaining the necessity for properly protecting the people, he said: "Subject these corporations to national supervision, and the eagle will keep the vulture from plucking the bodies of the dead."

The Landis bill creates a department of insurance in the bureau of commerce and labor, and provides for a superintendent of insurance. It requires annual reports from all life insurance companies. The author contends that the passage of his bill will take life insurance men out of the saloon business, the hotel business, the banking business, the trust business, and restrict them to the straight issue of life insurance, and in the close of his very fierce philippic the Indiana statesman said:

"This will prevent Mr. Harriman from borrowing $27,000,000 to cast into a struggle for control of the Northern Pacific. Patient though the people be, I want to take away from the deathbed of the policy holder the ugly faces of Harriman, Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; the McCurdys, the McCalls, the Perkinses, and Pierpont Morgan, the International kleptomaniac."

While the utterances of Representative Landis are somewhat inflammatory, they serve to well illustrate the drift of public sentiment. He is a man fresh from the people, serving his first term in congress, and his words, burning and exhortative as they are, perhaps well represent the feeling of a very large proportion of the American people, who believe that every principle of manhood and business integrity has been violated in the handling of insurance funds by the men who have until recently been so thoroughly in control of the situation.

RAILROADS GETTING GOOD

At a meeting of representatives of all western lines of railway, held in Chicago a few days ago, it was not only agreed to stop the practice of giving rebates to shippers, but a committee was appointed whose duty it will be to keep an eagle eye on the situation and report every infraction of the law to the interstate commerce commission.

It is passing strange that these great corporations never thought of this simple procedure before. It is such a simple thing, and could have been so easily effected that it is wonderful no bright railway mind ever grasped the opportunity until several bills had been introduced in congress for the regulation of railways, and a number of indictments had been returned by federal grand juries for violations of the law prohibiting the giving of rebates.

It is a well known fact that the department of justice at Washington has taken hold of this rebate matter in the most vigorous manner, and the indications are that the entire power of the federal government is to be invoked in an effort to break up the practice. The shielding of Paul Morton from the effects of his confessed connection with the Santa Fe rebates, by the President, does not imply that others who may be guilty of the same offense will be granted the same powerful protection. In fact, it may be definitely stated that the President is the power behind the department of justice that is forcing the issue so vigorously at this time, and the outlook is decidedly gloomy for all rebaters.

The railway managers are to be congratulated upon the fact that at this late hour they can enter into a "gentlemen's agreement" that has for its object the observance of a plain provision of law. The agreements of this kind that have been made in the past have been of a far different nature, and that fact will cause the action just taken to be viewed with more or less suspicion.

And the agreement referred to will not cause any cessation of effort in the direction of amending the interstate commerce law, or punishing the lines that have been guilty of giving rebates. The good work that has been started in both directions will be continued until both reforms have been safely accomplished. And in that event, these agreements will not be necessary among the railways in the future. The agreement is a good thing, but the other things are infinitely safer and better.

Commissioner Garfield still sticks to the assertion that the figures furnished him by the so-called beef trust must be absolutely correct.

Remember the poor this Christmas. Try to make them forget the brief present that life is other than a season of sunshine and happiness.

If you will indefinitely postpone your annual Christmas drunk this year you will find much more happiness than if you follow the old custom.

This thing of trying to force a union between Arizona and New Mexico is contrary to all precedent. Such unions can never result in connubial felicity.

Fort Worth would truly rejoice to awaken Christmas morning and find that big cotton mill had been dropped in her Christmas stocking. It would be a present long to be remembered.

The Woodmen of the World could not find a better place for their general headquarters than Fort Worth. Why not come to this city, saw wood and build such an edifice as will stand for all time to come?

Ex-Governor Odell of New York announces his unqualified opposition to the President's idea of reorganizing the republican party in that state along more decent lines, and the biggest kind of a party row seems clearly in prospect.

Dallas is going ahead with that idea of an international exposition, just as if no friction existed over State Fair matters. The friends of the State Fair enterprise would be more greatly pleased to see harmony restored in the ranks and adherence to the original idea.

The factory idea is growing all over Texas, and there is a general disposition on the part of Texas people to reach out for every such enterprise that can be induced to locate in the state. It is a healthy sentiment and indicates the spirit of progress is abroad throughout the state.

Fiske Warren of Boston, who has just returned from a visit to the Philippines, is quoted as saying the desire for independence is stronger in the islands now than it has ever been before. But that fact cuts but little ice in the situation. Independence for the Filipinos is but a very remote dream.

The holiday season is now upon us, and it should be observed with the true Christmas spirit. The idea that the Christmas season extends to men the coveted opportunity to indulge in all forms of dissipation is absolutely untenable. The true man will be a man through the Christmas season, just as he is at all other times of the year.

Senator Dolliver of Iowa has introduced a new railway regulation rate bill in congress, which is expected to more nearly conform to the administration demands than those previously introduced. Judge Sam H. Cowan of this city, who was in Washington at the time, was consulted in the matter of framing the new bill, and that fact will have a decided tendency toward inspiring confidence in the measure.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

Judge Sam Harris has been nominated for mayor of Fort Worth. Judge Harris wears a hirsute adornment on his chin that should be removed. Fort Worth is a new, progressive town, and wouldn't want even a mayor with whiskers on him.—Sherman Register.

Judge W. D. Harris is the democratic nominee for mayor of Fort Worth, and gained the honor without being subjected to a close shave.

The Fort Worth Telegram thinks that the railroad commission should be composed of a lawyer, a business man and a railroad man. That would not suit the politicians.—Houston Chronicle.

When the people of Texas can come to a full realization of the fact that it is the duty of the politicians to please the public instead of vice versa, then they will have very nearly solved the problem of proper state government.

It will be seen that the most of the Texas delegation in congress were given some good places on the different committees. This is as it should be. Texas has a delegation that will compare favorably with that of any other state, and should be recognized.—Terrell Transcript.

Texas and Texans never fail to make the proper landing wherever there is opportunity to score. The Texas congressional delegation is a strong one, and is making itself felt in the affairs of this nation.

While all this talk about contributions from the insurance companies to the republican campaign fund, it would seem as though Cortelyou would say something. He spoke mightily and pertly during the campaign when there was only the slightest intimation that something was wrong.—Austin Statesman.

There are times when silence is golden, and Chairman Cortelyou is doubtless impressed with the belief that this is one of those times.

James R. Wells is studying the stars. That settles it. When a man from the cactus country goes to star-gazing it is safe to say he has been out late at night and up to some devilment. Governorial vessels should keep a close lookout; there is danger of being torpedoed by the craft of the King of the Rio Grande.—Dallas Times Herald.

And while Judge Wells is studying the stars the other candidates for governor are making political hay. The king of the Rio Grande will find in the end that he has lost much through the protracted study of astronomy.

The railroads expect to fool the people in the next campaign for governor just as easily as they fooled the people in the last four state elections in Texas. The railroads will name the issues, which are already local option and anti-local option. By getting the attention of the people fixed on the liquor question, the railroads expect to elect their man.—Tyler Courier.

The railroads can elect no man governor of Texas, and what is more to the point, they are not going to try. The people of Texas are in control of the situation and will so remain.

A. E. Graham of Denton is going to make a Christmas present to the needy of his town that will be appreciated. He announces that every orphan child under 18 years of age, every widow and member of her family who are in strained circumstances, will be presented with a silver dollar if they will call at his office Christmas morning. This is a practical way to enable many to have a happier Christmas than they could have otherwise, and these are of that class who have too few happy days.—Bonham News.

The Denton man is imbued with the true Christmas spirit, and his example is worthy of general emulation.

THE DRIFT OF POLITICS

The factional differences of the democratic minority in the national house of representatives are given an airing now and then. William B. Hearst is busy again in fomenting discord and fighting the democratic floor leader, John Sharp Williams. The latter has turned Hearst and his followers down because he does not believe their democracy is stamped "bourbon." So Hearst hissed Lamar of Florida, whom Williams had dropped from a place on a choice committee, on the leader last week. The tilt between Williams and Lamar was bitter, and of course afforded fun for the republicans. It was at the height of the scene that Leader Williams made use of an expression that will go down in political history. Turning to the republicans, he said:

"The trouble is that the people of the country are tired of you and afraid of us, and it is partially on account of such things as happened here this morning that they are afraid of us."

The bitter truth of this quotation became apparent to the democrats in the last presidential campaign. When the Morgans and the Schiffs and the Goals and the great financial men hesitated about supporting Roosevelt because they did not desire him, fearing his financial whims, they, to use Democratic Leader Williams' expression, were "afraid of us." They all jumped the fence, however, and landed in Roosevelt's camp. And Williams has now told the reason.

The democrats of the house have been bumping the bumps for a decade. First Leader Bailey threw up the job in angry disgust. Then came Richardson of Tennessee. His selection was the reply to the charge that Bailey's failure was due to temper beyond control. But the Tennessee man, with all his "sweet reasonableness," could do no better. Williams came next, and is now on the box, lashing the wheelers. Mr. Williams complains that the donkey figures in the press as his party's symbol. The selection was in one respect an inspiration. It is very difficult to lead a donkey.

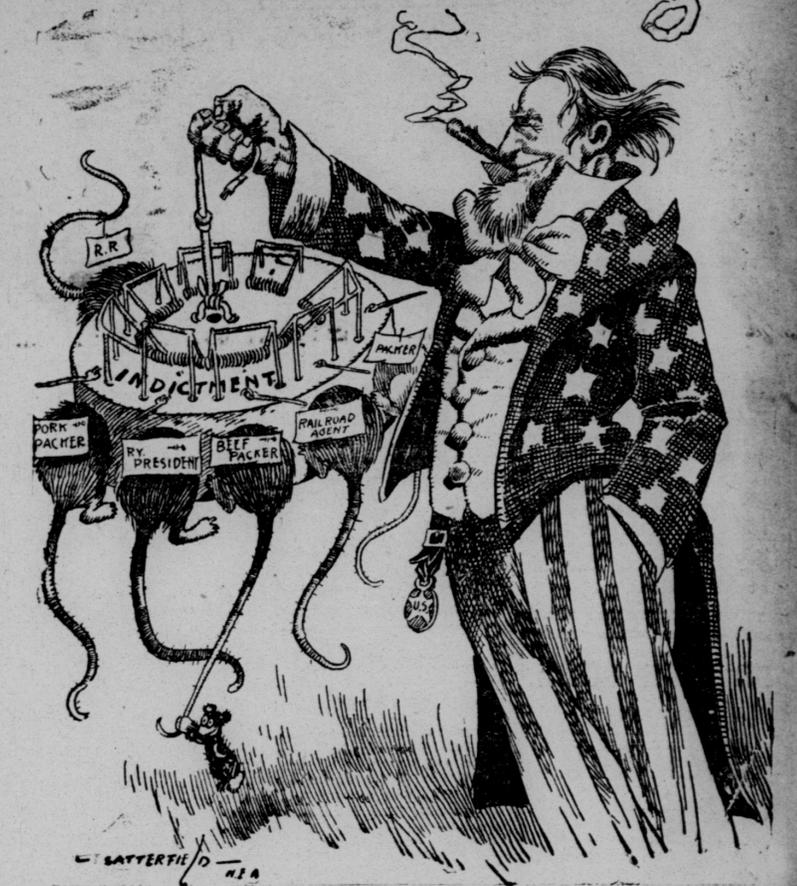

New Jersey Republicans Split in Legislature

It was certainly a bad day when the republican leaders in New Jersey decided to turn down Everett Colby as the floor leader in the house for the session of 1909. Colby made mistakes in 1904 and imperiled the party. It was then decided to extinguish him. But Colby is a determined and ambitious man. Instead of being eclipsed he has become the rising sun, around which all the disgruntled elements of the state are gathering. After electing a full delegation to the legislature from Essex county, he combined with Mayor Fagan of Jersey City, and the eight republicans so unexpectedly elected in Hudson county were thrown to Colby's aid. On Tuesday last these nineteen men made defiance to the republican caucus of the house of assembly and walked out because the nominee of the caucus refused to pledge himself to the principles in the platform on which these men were elected. Passaic county men were leaders won them in some manner. This is the most significant break in New Jersey politics that has occurred since Griggs snatched the state from the democrats twelve years ago. What is more, the fight is entirely within the party. When the dissenters withdrew they left thirty-six republicans in the caucus. This is a majority of the whole number elected, and they can organize the house even should the democrats in that body go over to the Colbyites. So the republican leaders will get the speaker, all the offices and the committees.—Philadelphia Ledger.

WHY IS IT?

There is a curious coincidence in the way the Kansas bank loans keep pace with Kansas bank deposits. Five years ago the bank deposits of the state were less than a third of what they are at present. It is worth the effort of some statistician to figure out the whyfore of this seeming anomalous situation.—Kingman Ledger-Courier.

A FINE BUNCH

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 21.

The fight over the federal patronage in the Western district of North Carolina has grown to such proportions there promises to be crimination and re-crimination of the worst sort among the factions. There are threats of an exposure of a written promise of Judge Pritchard, Judge Boyd and other North Carolina men of prominence to refrain from interfering with the recommendations of Representative Blackburn in the western district of the state. A good deal of this has been carried to the President by the friends of Blackburn and others, and more is to be put before him.

Representative Blackburn had a hard fight for the nomination in his district eighteen months ago. He was opposed by influential republicans in and out of the district, including Judge James E. Boyd, who is now charged with too much interference from the bench in political affairs. As a result of the opposition a rather bitter feeling resulted between Boyd and Blackburn, as well as others. Blackburn is essentially a fighter, however, and succeeded in defeating all of his opponents, securing the nomination and then defeating the democrats in a district that was considered favorable to them in the way of votes. Blackburn is said to have secured a written promise from the machine republicans of the state that he would not be molested in distribution of patronage in the Western district. In accordance with that agreement, he had recommended the nomination of Louis C. Wagner of Statesville for marshal to succeed James M. Millikan, who has held the place for eight years. The state organization inclines to agree to Wagner and wants Millikan retained for another term. They are making all kinds of threats. Heretofore the President has abided by the recommendations of the state machine. If he fails to do so now the blow will be a severe one. If he does not carry out Blackburn's recommendations, the latter and his friends say they will overturn the state organization as clean as a whistle in the next state campaign.

A California Nomination. Senators Perkins and Flint of California saw the President and laid before him the name of Oscar Lawler of Los Angeles for United States attorney for the Southern district of that state and the nomination will go to the senate. The present attorney is L. H. Valentine. The California senators have an agreement by which the appointments in the Southern part of the state are dictated by Senator Flint and those in the northern part by Senator Perkins.

The Insurance Investigation. Robert Lynn Cox, member of the legislature from Buffalo, and a member of the insurance investigating commission, called on the President with Representative Alexander and talked with him about the insurance investigation. Mr. Cox says that the commission will prepare its report to the legislature early in January and submit it to the legislature immediately upon the assembling of that body. "It has not been decided what line the recommendations to the legislature will take," said Mr. Cox. "We are now at work trying to map out the recommendations we will make."

AN EYE ON THE SUBSIDY. The country will agree with the President upon the need for consideration of means whereby we can establish direct communication with South American countries and the upbuilding of our merchant marine, but it will watch the subsidy proposition with a jealous eye and see that it is designed to accomplish that purpose and is not merely to transfer cash from the federal treasury to other quarters.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE SAD STANDPATTERS. Still, congressional standpatters sadly reflect that tariff revision is a local issue so far as they are concerned.—Chicago Record-Herald.

City Jail to be emptied Christmas Eve of All But a Few Inmates

Between thirty and forty prisoners of Fort Worth city jail, who have been convicted of petty sentences and are working out the same on the streets, will be given freedom at 6 o'clock Sunday night, just as Christmas eve is ushered in.

This will be the first time in several years that all prisoners kept in the city jail have not been given freedom as a Christmas present by the chief of police; but the fact that the police department is now working to the limit of their endeavor to rid the city of idle and suspicious characters, by making wholesale arrests of all who may be unable to give a satisfactory account of their movements and employment has caused the chief of police to issue orders that none convicted of vagrancy shall be turned out this Christmas.

COOL WEATHER

FOR CHRISTMAS

Unless Sudden Change Comes Outlook Is Good

Unless a sudden change in conditions occurs, chances favor a clear cold Christmas Day. Friday the weather bureau forecast clear and colder weather for today and today the forecast is again for fair and colder. The forecast for the southern portion of the state is for colder weather, with temperatures of 30 to 35 degrees tonight and frost. The section of the country around Fort Worth has been having frost regularly.

Maximum temperature at Fort Worth Friday was 47 degrees and the minimum 32 degrees. The temperature at 7 o'clock this morning was 33 degrees.

Clear, light north wind prevails from Texline to Bowie on the Denver road today. Partly cloudy and calm from Bowie to Fort Worth. Cold weather is reported from Texline, where it was 17 degrees at 7 o'clock this morning. It was 26 at Amarillo, 24 at Childress, 28 at Wichita Falls and 38 at Fort Worth. It was 9 degrees warmer at Texline Friday than today.

Official report of conditions is: "A low barometer area of small magnitude is central over Atlanta, causing rain in Louisiana and Georgia, and a thunderstorm at New Orleans. Another 'low' area is centered over Buffalo, causing rain in the New England states and south to Maryland, and snow in Minnesota and Michigan.

"The country west of the Mississippi is dominated by high barometer conditions, causing cold, fair weather in all the western half of the country. Temperatures below zero are noted at Winnetuxca, Lander and Duluth. The freezing line extends as far south as the region of Fort Worth, Tex."

2 MORE ACCIDENTS

Toy Pistols Continue to be Used in Temple and Boys Have Narrow Escapes

Special to The Telegram.

TEMPLE, Texas, Dec. 23.—Notwithstanding the flat of the city marshal threatening the dire penalties of the law upon boys found carrying toy pistols, the youngsters continue to tote the deadly weapons and three accidents traceable to that source have already occurred with Christmas eve as a date.

Two of the accidents were minor affairs, the lads implicated escaping with slight injuries in each case, but a little boy named Jahnuke, living in South Eighth street, was not so fortunate in his experience. The weapon he was playing with was accidentally discharged against the palm of his hand with the result that the member was badly lacerated, torn and burnt with every indication of blood poisoning ensuing.

A little son of R. L. Brown was also painfully burned about the face and hands yesterday by the discharge of some fireworks with which he was playing. The boy's eyesight was not destroyed but the escape was a very narrow one.

DOG FOR GRANDPA

Crowds at Station Enjoy Lad's Determination to Take Him to Kentucky

A boy with a big brindle dog that he was taking to Kentucky as a present to his grandfather, who he had never seen, was one of the passengers on an eastbound Cotton Belt train this morning. The little fellow was only 6 years old and was with his father and mother, who were going on a visit to the home of their childhood.

"I couldn't get around it," said the youngster's father. "I tried to induce the youngster to leave the dog behind, but he wouldn't have it. He was bound to take the dog to his grand dad."

"Trip kills wolves," chirped the little fellow, "and grandpa has no dog to kill wolves and I want him to have one."

"But there are no wolves in Kentucky," said the father, smiling to the boy.

"You don't know," said the boy quickly, "you ain't been there for a long time and the wolves may have grown and you don't know it."

That settled it and George Stephenson of Potter county, the boy's daddy, paid baggage charges on "the dog for grandpa in Kentucky."

REAL CHRISTMAS MOVEMENT

The scene at the Texas and Pacific passenger station this morning was such as to almost baffle description. It was a mass of surging, pushing, squeezing humanity, men and women, young and old, making up an army of happy people going on a holiday trip to their old homes in the old states.

It was a good-natured crowd, the only people who seemed out of humor being the babies. But they were in the minority, as their cries were drowned by the chatter and happy laughter of the old people.

The crowd was so great that it was with the greatest effort only that the depot officials could handle it. The large waiting room was full of crowd, surging masses of humanity, while outside the building and inside the iron railing from which gates open to the trains there was another multitude fully as large as the one inside.

Two hundred people in conservative estimate of the crowd at station at 8:30 o'clock this morning, and as fast as one train would pull out loaded with people their places in the station would be filled by others whose trains started later.

"There never has been such a rush since I was depot master," said John Fulford to a Telegram reporter who tried to get him to talk. "I have a time to talk to you. I never saw the like in my life. Don't know where all the people come from."

The Cotton Belt train, the Texas and Pacific train and all other east and north-bound trains went out well loaded and in many instances crowded. The volume of traffic is fully as large as was hoped for by the railroads, if not larger. The southeastern states probably have received a large majority of the old home visitors, and there has been a larger number for the northern states than during former years.

The crowds at the depot were handled exceptionally well, and so far as reported there was not an unpleasant incident. In order that the people might be fully protected detectives mixed with the crowds, on the lookout for light-fingered characters who might attempt to ply their vocation there.

Similar scenes were enacted at the Union station at train times.

DOG FOR GRANDPA

Crowds at Station Enjoy Lad's Determination to Take Him to Kentucky

A boy with a big brindle dog that he was taking to Kentucky as a present to his grandfather, who he had never seen, was one of the passengers on an eastbound Cotton Belt train this morning. The little fellow was only 6 years old and was with his father and mother, who were going on a visit to the home of their childhood.

"I couldn't get around it," said the youngster's father. "I tried to induce the youngster to leave the dog behind, but he wouldn't have it. He was bound to take the dog to his grand dad."

"Trip kills wolves," chirped the little fellow, "and grandpa has no dog to kill wolves and I want him to have one."

"But there are no wolves in Kentucky," said the father, smiling to the boy.

"You don't know," said the boy quickly, "you ain't been there for a long time and the wolves may have grown and you don't know it."

That settled it and George Stephenson of Potter county, the boy's daddy, paid baggage charges on "the dog for grandpa in Kentucky."

Needed Improvement Will Not Be Costly

E. P. Maddox, alderman from the Sixth ward, in discussing the proposed street crossing improvement, called attention to the fact that the statement regarding its desirability made by W. T. Maddox is accredited to him. He explains that his views are not entirely in harmony with those of W. T. Maddox and urges the greatest caution in placing additional expense upon the city.

Speaking of the matter he said that he felt the city should not place crossings where owners of property had failed to provide sidewalks. He declared, however, that great expenditure should not be made in the center of the city in view of the fact that taxes from all parts of the city will necessarily be expended.

Announcement of the proposition has met with almost general approbation, the beginning of such a necessary improvement upon a small scale occasionally but small expense being occasionally commended.

It has been pointed out that a cheap crossing, insuring dry feet in wet weather, can be provided at insignificant cost by placing stone blocks with separations for wagon wheels at regular intervals, by this means the mud dried upon crossings by teams being also obliterated.

Continued mud of the past week has convinced the people that the step is necessary.

2 MORE ACCIDENTS

Toy Pistols Continue to be Used in Temple and Boys Have Narrow Escapes

Special to The Telegram.

TEMPLE, Texas, Dec. 23.—Notwithstanding the flat of the city marshal threatening the dire penalties of the law upon boys found carrying toy pistols, the youngsters continue to tote the deadly weapons and three accidents traceable to that source have already occurred with Christmas eve as a date.

Two of the accidents were minor affairs, the lads implicated escaping with slight injuries in each case, but a little boy named Jahnuke, living in South Eighth street, was not so fortunate in his experience. The weapon he was playing with was accidentally discharged against the palm of his hand with the result that the member was badly lacerated, torn and burnt with every indication of blood poisoning ensuing.

A little son of R. L. Brown was also painfully burned about the face and hands yesterday by the discharge of some fireworks with which he was playing. The boy's eyesight was not destroyed but the escape was a very narrow one.
