We Are Thankful FOR YOUR PATRONAGE

YOU'LL BE THANKFUL FOR THESE CHANCES TO SAVE.

We are extremely thankful for a phenomenal year's business and fully realize that the magnificent volume of trade which has passed through our doors during the past twelve months has been made possible only by continued good will of the people of Fort Worth. Though we have strained every nerve, and used every honorable means at our command to buld up the year's business its growth has resulted wholly and solely from the generous support of the good people of this favored community. What we have achieved in the past has but prompted us to attempt greater things. We are striving not only for a bigger store but a better one-more conveniences for employes and customers and better facilities for handling the constantly increasing volume of traffic which naturally centers at the Daylight Store. As evidence of continued effort we herewith offer, commencing Tuesday and for the balance of the week, two of the strongest bargains we've ever offered to the trading public of this community; bargains which you'll be thankful to get, and which, we are sure, will provide us with a crowd to start the new year.

Our Annual January Clearance Sale of Lace Curtains JUST BEFORE STOCK TAKING

It is a January occasion, and with the passing of the week passes your opportunity to buy LACE CURTAINS for every room in the house at a big saving to you. 'Twould pay any housewife to anticipate her spring needs, for you cannot invest your money to a better advantage than by buying such bargains as we will offer in LACE CURTAINS, commencing Tuesday morning.

A Sale of Comforts

JUST BEFORE STOCK-TAKING. A sale of large pure white cotton-filled Comforts just before stock-taking. The stock in this department should have been taken last week-but they are overstocked with at least 50 dozen, and if prices will move stock they will surely go this week. We had 50 dozen of the handsomest cotton Comforts shipped the 12th of December that has ever been our pleasure to show in Fort Worth. We did not buy all of this lot, but our friend, the manufacturer, thought we were clever people and took advantage of good nature, and shipped twice the amount we had bought. Therefore, just at this time, when you need them most, the prices are cut to pieces, and the opportunity is now yours to save money. You will need to use comforts at least for three months if not four. By all means attend THIS BIG PRICE-CUT COMFORT SALE, commencing Tuesday morning. See display in windows.

RAILWAYS AGREE TO BE GOOD

The railways of the country have agreed to be good some more. A large delegation of managers representing the leading trans-Mississippi lines called on the interstate commerce commission in Washingtive to the rebate situation and the efforts of the commission to do away with the existing discrimination by the railways in favor of large shippers.

Chairman Knapp and Commissioners Cockrell and Clements were the only members present, the other ommissioners being out of the city.

The railroad men who attended the conference were T. Nicholson, vice president of the Atchison, Toeka and Santa Fe; H. R. McCullough, vice president of the Chicago and Northwestern; J. H. Hiland, vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; J. M. Johnson, assistant to the vice president of the Gould lines: J. T. Holden, freight traffic manager of the Rock Island; J. W. Bladen, freight traffic manager of the Chicago and Alton; Howard Morris, vice president and general counsel of the Wisconsin Central; C. L. Wellington, general traffic manager of the Colorado Southern; C. Haile, traffic manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas; W. L. Martin, vice president of the Soo lines; J. C. Stubbs, vice president and traffic director of the Harriman lines; E. E. Smythe, general freight agent of the Kansas City Southern.

Several of the railway men assured the commission that the recent public disclosures concerning the giving of rebates had so aroused public sentiment that the roads are very desirous of putting a stop . . to the procedure complained of, and will co-operate with the commission in an effort to stop further proceedings of the kind. The following oficial statement has been given out by the commission relative to the

was not sought by the commission, as certain papers have incorectly stated, but its purpose was legitimate and commendable and warrants the expectation of beneficial results. At a recent meeting in Chicago the representatives of practically all the lines west of that city, from the Canadian border to the gulf, adopted the following resolution:

"That a joint committee representative of lines in the western trunk line committee, the trans-Missouri freight bureau, Southwestern freight rate committee and the transcontinental freight rate committee, be appointed and instructed to wait upon the interstate commerce commission. The desire and purpose of the respective members of said committee or bureau to be to co-operate with the commission in the enforcement of the law to the extent of pointing out ways and means and giving the commission any specific information that may come to its knowledge which will lead to effective inquiry in uncovering unlawful

"The object of the joint committee, whose names have already been published, was to present this resolution and assure the commission of the united and determined disposition of the lines represented to conform to the law in good faith and in every respect and to aid the commission in its enforcement. Pledges to this effect were given by all present, with the further promise to report every illegal transaction which may come to their knowledge or of which they may have well founded suspicion,

"While this visit was unsolicited, as above stated, It was not unwelcome and the commission has no reason to doubt the sincerity of the movement or its practical value. That it will result in the complete discontinuance of wrongful practices is perhaps too much to expect, for time alone will test the degree of its usefulness, but a marked improvement in the observance of tariff rates may be fairly anticipated. If the promised co-operation is actually and continuously afforded, the payment of rebates and the granting of secret advantage will be, it is hoped, reduced to a minimum."

These facts clearly and unequivocally show one thing, and that is the great railway systems of the country realize they are completely whipped in the fight that has been made for government regulation of freight rates, and are showing a disposition to bow to the inevitable and side with public sentiment by pledging themselves to observe existing laws in the these great corporations have posed in the past, and with the public generally. But there are many who will view these sudden spasms of virtue with grave suspicion, believing that the only hope for the future lies in the enactment of such legislation as will compel every railroad in the country to toe the mark without fear or favor.

corporations is a standing tribute to the efficiency of the campaign of education that has been waged by the shippers and public generally. It is an enduring monument to the thorough work that has been done by the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, which organization has led in the fight that now seems crowned with every indication of a glorious victory the benefits of which will be enjoyed by the people generally.

THE PAY OF LEGISLATORS

The idea of reducing the number of representatives and increasing the pay may be a good one, but we seriously doubt it. The present pay is sufficient to attract a large horde of incompetent aspirants for legislative honors every year, and if the pay was increased it would result in a corresponding increase in the number of these. The idea of the fathers that the legislative office should be filled by men who were largely able to serve on account of the honorableness of the position seems to have been very proper, and an increase of legislative salary would have a very strong tendency to overcome this and render null and void the intentions of those who framed the original Texas constitution.

The Telegram believes that the remedy for the legislative ills so greatly complained of by the people of this state lies in the calling out and election of the very best legislative material that can be found in every representative district. Fill these positions with the patriotism and the brains of Texas, and the problem will be solved. It may be difficult to do this for the first few terms, but if it is gone about systematically and intelligently, the great work of legislative reform can soon be easily accomplished. It must not be a question of dollars and cents, but of patriotism and ability on the part of the men selected. -Fort Worth Telegram.

The idea of patriots serving the state for honor and love is very attractive on paper, but hard to realize in fact. Theoretically a man owes a duty to his country above, perhaps, all other duties. The average man, however, puts his duty to his family first; and at this day, when the cost of living is constantly growing greater, the really able men cannot be persuaded to sacrifice the interests of the loved ones at home to serve at $2 or even $5 a day in a state legislature. He loses thereby several hundreds or even thousands of dollars and gains for "honor" the gratuitous abuse of carping newspapers. Especially is the "best legislative material" loath to be called out when so many half-competent men are eager and willing to serve. The best interests of the state lie in raising the dignity and emoluments of the legislative office, making it more commensurate in popular estimation with the co-ordinate offices of governor and supreme court judges. Until this is done ambitious little fellows of small abilities will monopolize to a great extent the legislative function, newspaper clamor for "elder statesmen" to the contrary notwithstanding.—San Antonio Express.

The policy of the Express would result in the calling out of a horde of the very class of material that it is intended to emasculate from future sessions of the state legislature. A big salary would be far more attractive to small men than a small salary, and the result would be that inferior material would seek assiduously to raise itself to the dignity contemplated by the Express when it would make the legistheir services at a higher rate than they do their

The idee that men should not seek legislative he is for the sake of pecuniary gain is the proper one, and is the principle the people of this state should ever insist upon. Men who serve in the state leigslature should be actuated by no other desire save that of serving the people. The patriotic principle should ever be to the front. They should realize they are not there to represent themselves or any special interest, but to enact legislation for the benefit of the people of all Texas. His love of country should be sufficient to compensate him for any sacrifice he might feel he was making in the premises, and if he has no love of country, then he should have no place in the state legislature.

The esteemed Express has never taken very kindly to the elder statesman idea. It is apparently in the same category with the few Texas papers that have affected to believe they discerned some sort of political bug under the chip. But it is an idea that is at least worth demonstration. We have tried the other kind, and they have proved wanting. Then, it stands to reason that opportunity exists to resort to the other expedient, and if that plan of calling out the best material in every legislative district is adhered to by the people of Texas the results will be positively surprising. Texas will have one session of the legislature that will be representative of Texas brain and Texas statesmanship, and it will not be necessary to dig any deeper in the state treasury in order to obtain it. The services of those men can be had for the mere "The conference with western railway officials | matter of asking. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 1.-The holiday adjournment of congress has given the political prophets a chance of which they are taking considerable ad-At any rate, the present attitude of these great | vantage. One of the most frequently suggested predictions coming from this source is along the line of President Roosevelt's apparently increasing control over the hithrto refractory senate and the possible outcome. The New York World correspondent takes the position that the President is planning to be the dictator of the republican party when he steps out of office in 1908, a view which he supports in the following letter to his journal:

> "National politicians are just beginning to wake up to the game President Roosevelt is playing. When it came out that the President was enleavoring to make himself the real leader of the republican party in New York, politicians from other parts of the > country began to take stock. "There has been a lively exchange of views during the last week. Men high in the party councils in all parts of the United States have held excited conferences. They are convinced now of what they have suspected for some time.

"The leading republicans in congress and the men who have controlled states, although not in congress, have arrived at one conclusion, and that is: The President is not only making plans to establish himself as the republican boss of New York, but he has well under way plans that will make him the political boss of the United States. What it amounts to is that the President is organizing a Roosevelt party regardless of the present party leaders.

"He has played more openly in New York than in other states, because he had to. He was found out in New York. If he gets Wadsworth elected speaker he will be in absolute control of the situation, with Higgins as governor, Parsons as county chairman in New York city, Woodruff in control in Kings, Wadsworth as speaker, and up-state men like Albridge of Monroe, Hendricks of Onondaga, James W. Wadsworth Sr. in his congressional district, comprising Livingston, Orleans, Genesee, Wyoming and Niagara; Greiner in Erie, Barnes in Albany and other men of equal power eager to do his bidding.

After Other States Also

"New York is a big factor, of course, but New York is not all there is to it. The President is reaching out. He is after Ohio, and he is using Secretary Taft for his Ohio figurehead. He knew all about Taft's Akron speech that defeated Herrick, the republican candidate for governor in the late campaign. Senators Foraker and Dick are not considered by him and are running around in circles. Foraker is especially bitter, for he wants to be a candidate for President himself in 1908.

"Through Lodge the President controls Massachusetts. He is negotiating with reform republicans in Pennsylvania to push along the work of wrecking the old Quay machine begun at the late election. He is conciliating southern republicans in every way he can. He has a grip o nthe west that cannot be shaken. Every important appointment he makes is to strengthen his own hands. If the recommending powers fall in with him and recommend the men he wants for federal jobs he appoints these men, but if his men are not recommended he appoints them anyway.

"It is the ambition of the President to be a political dictator when he finishes his present term. He cares nothing for party lines as at present drawn. What he intends to have is a Roosevelt party. He plans to be the great dominating figure in American political life after he has left the White House, and he is enlisting men every day under his flag who can help him in his ambition.

"He thinks to spend the remainder of his life in the United States senate, after he has left the White House, unless, indeed, he can so bring it about that lative emolument sufficient to attract men who value | there shall come a demand for his nomination for President again. If he cannot do that he will remain in the senate and boss the job from there. That is what he is working for now.

Root for President

"Incidental with his plans for himself is the naming of a candidate for the republican nomination for President in 1908. He expects to name the candidate. Just at present the man he has in mind is Elihu Root, his secretary of state. He gave Root that promise when Root consented to come into the cabinet after Hay's death.

"Root is helping him in all his political work now. He has been his constant adviser in the New York state row. He is more at the White House than any other man. Root is outwardly cold and calm, but he is inwardly consumed with a burning desire to be President. Roosevelt is playingg on that to get the benefit of Root's wonderful intellect and his remarkable political insight.

"If Theodore Roosevelt has his way he will be the supreme boss of a party organization in 1908 that will comprehend the present republican party, as many of the new-line democrats and other brands of politicians, such as the municipal ownership people, as he can control and all stragglers who are willing to acknowledge him as the fountion head. Supremely selfish and a most adroit politician, there is nobody in his vision but Theodore Roosevelt. He is after a political dictatorship, and he is having much success getting his preliminaries in the proper shape."

It is stated that the state of Texas has collected the past three months about $45,000 taxes under the Kennedy gross receipt law passed by the last legislature. The law applies to sleeping, palace or dining cars, telephone companies, commercial agencies, gas, electric light and waterworks companies, wholesale dealers in oil, naphtha, benzine, oil producers, publishers of text books, etc.—Brenham Banner.

The Kennedy law has brought some badly needed revenue to the state of Texas, and has helped to fill that gaping hole that has so long existed in the state treasury.

NOTHING AHEAD BUT TROUBLE

THE DRIFT OF POLITICS

The country will watch the great political fight in New York city with interest. Arrayed on one side is President Roosevelt, Governor Higgins, Secretary Root, ex-Ambassador Choate and men of their following. The opposition is led by ex-Governor Odell, who has been smirched in the shipbuilding trust and insurance scandals; E. H. Harriman, the railroad magnate and insurance inspector, bent on revenge, and the men who have made up the grafters' end of the republican machine in New York state. Sitting on the fence, awaiting developments, are United States Senators Platt and Depew, whom both factions have cast aside. President Roosevelt seeks control of the republican machinery of the state. He long ago determined to oust Odell, who is the state chairman, but just how to do it has not been apparent until the present emergency arose. Odell was the bosom friend of Senator Platt and his confidential man until three years ago, when he wrested the state and city machine from the veteran leader. In this he was backed by Mark Hanna and President McKinley. After stabbing his friend Platt to death Odell set up as a dictator and made Wall street bow to him. When Roosevelt came into power there was a clash. Odell had no use for such men as Elihu Root or men of that caliber. He sought the putty and impressionable men whom he could mold as he wished. The first break occurred eighteen months ago, when Odell declared he would go to the white house and settle matters with the President. He reached the Fifth Avenue hotel, New York city, and there was informed the President did not desire to see him.

Higgins as a Forlorn Hope

President Roosevelt was early convinced that Odell's treachery would cause him to lose New York state in 1904. He therefore organized a special campaign committee and entrusted his fight to National Chairman Cortelyou. The result was apparent in the returns. Roosevelt had 175,552 plurality. Higgins, who was tagged as "Odell's man," had 80,560 plurality. In 1900, when Odell was first a candidate for governor, he had 111,126 plurality. In 1902 he had only 8,803. It was with difficulty that a man could be secured to be a candidate for governor in 1904, because of the odium attached to Odell and his machine. Higgins is worth about $2,000,000, which he made in trading and storekeeping. He served in the state senate when Roosevelt was governor, and his honesty and straightforwardness attracted Roosevelt's attention. Higgins is a clean man, but not a brilliant one. Without Odell he would have run better. As soon as Higgins landed in the governor's chair he told the members of the legislature he wanted no scandals, did not intend to have any, and would not stand for any jobs. Odell fumed, and so did his friends, who thought they had the governor sure. Odell sailed for Europe and remained for a long time. Higgins has done nothing, neither has he permitted anything to be done, so his record is clean.

VERSES THAT RING

THE NEW YEAR BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

New Year, I look straight in your eyes. Our ways and our interests blend; You may be a foe in disguise, But I shall believe you a friend. We get what we give, in our measure-We cannot give pain and get pleasure; I give you good will and good cheer, And you must return it, New Year.

We get what we give in this life, Tho' often the giver indeed Waits long upon doubting and strife Ere proving the truth of his creed: But somewhere, some way, and forever Reward is the meed of endeavor; And if I am really worth while. New Year, you will give me your smile.

You hide in your mystical hand No "luck" that I cannot control If I trust my own courage and stand On the Infinite strength of my soul. Man hides in his brain and his spirit A power that is god-like, or near it; And he who has measured his force Can govern events in their course.

You come with a crown on your brow, New Year, without blemish or spot; Yet you, and not I, sir, must bow, For Time is the servant of Thought. Whatever you bring me of trouble Shall turn into good, and then double. If my spirit looks up without fear To the Source that you came from, New Year.

PUBLIC OPINION

If Insurance Commissioner Hendricks is reading the opinions of the press since he gave his humiliating evidence before the investigating committee, he is getting some notion of the universal contempt in which he is held. The Nashville American succintly

Hendricks has his counterparts all over the Union, in both high and low positions, and that is the main reason there is so much rascality. In Hendricks' case, he was not only guilty of neglecting his own duties by accepting the cooked up reports of the insurance companies, but by so doing he deceived insurance commissioners in other states who relied on his supposed examinations. Thus he is doubly guilty. If Hendricks is not removed, and as soon as possible, then Governor Higgins is deserving of censure.

The Philadelphia Pres commends the effort of Secretary Root to reorganze the consular service. Once classified under permanent tenure, it will doubtless attract a better class of men. The Press says:

This measure takes the service as it is and uses it to the best advantage. It provides for steady improvement by fit appointments. It ends the heterogeneous personnel now in the consular service, which extends from the very best men to the worst. It substitutes a selection for the place at which a man will do his best work in a graded service, for a system under which the place where a man is confirmed as consul has nothing to do with his qualifications. Our present service has in many places and at many posts done work of the highest order under discouraging conditions. It has also been cursed with men wholly unfit, a disgrace to their posts and the

MRS. YERKES HAS DOWER RIGHT

Magnate's Will Not Likely to Be Contested

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 .- The will of Charles T. Yerkes will be read to his family tomorrow afternoon.

Clarence S. Knight of Chicago, who was Mr. Yerkes' legal adviser, arrived here yesterday. Mr. Knight said:

"Mr. Yerkes has left his houses at Fifth avenue and Sixty-eighth streets, with their immensely valuable contents, so that the Metropolitan Museum of Arts will control the property. The pictures and other objects, however, will remain where they are, the museum having the control and direction, and the collection will be called the Yerkes collection."

Mr. Knight thought the value of the houses and their contents had not been underestimated. It is believed that they are worth nearly $5,000,000.

Mr. Knight was asked if there was likelihood of the will being contested.

Just at this time I cannot say anything further, but I don't apprehend any trouble of that sort."

It is known that no one save Mr. Knight is acquainted with the provisions of the will or as to how much property is disposed of by it.

SPRING AND FALL CALVES One who has never got into the ractice of having cows freshen in the all can scarcely realize the difference n the value and cost of raising fall calves as compared to spring calves. Of course, one needs a decent sort of a place to keep the fall calves, else it is not practical to have them dropped at that season of the year, but with a proper place to keep them, there are certainly a great many things in favor of fall calves. The farmer has quently, they are fed more regularly, which means much to a young calf He realizes, too, that he must feed the everything necessary for its calf growth, in summer time he depends somewhat upon the pasture, which is unreliable. young calves in the summer time are tormented very much summer time are a diet of hay and roots, mostly beets reasons for Breaking With This is not a country of free- One quite important thing in favor of fall calves is that when spring comes they are old enough to wean entirely and can be turned into the back pasture, where they require no attention. At this time of year the farmer is very busy and it is quite a relief when he is hurried with the spring work to be relieved of feeding calves. This work has all been done during the winter when the farmer has little to do and an give more attention to the wellfare of the calf. My experience is that calves which are dropped in the fall are thriftler, hardier, get a better growth and usually make better developed animals than calves do that are dropped in the spring. If spring dropped calves are to be raised in my opinion, it is better to keep them in a comy, well lighted stable, than to turn them out into the calf pasture.

Fall calves should not be tied up and onfined too closely. While it is pracically necessary to stanchion them of tie them closely when they are fed and compel them to remain in this confinement until their mouths are dry after drinking milk so that they wil not get into the habit of sucking each others' ears, after they are fed they should be allowed the run of good, roomy box stalls. Several of then can be kept together in one box stall. the calf pen dry. Without the convenence of a warm, well lighted, well ventilated stable, and a well bedded run,
