Missouri Prosecutor of Standard Oil Rests Easy

BELIEVES OWN ABILITY

Has Confidence That Combination Will Be Driven From State of Missouri

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 8 .- The Missour inquiry into the methods of the Standard Oil Company and the stock ownership of the numerous concerns in which it is interested will be continued this morning before Special Commissioner Sanborn. H. H. Rogers will be heard from further, although it is hardly probable that he will resume have testified. Mr. Hadley, about whom the interest of the inquiry centers, was besieged in his rooms at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday. Lawyer Hagerman, who is leading the forces of Standard Oil attorneys, said most emphatically that Standard Oil witnesses would seek no advantage from the provisions of the law in the matter of personal privilege.

"If the supreme court rules that a question must be answered," he declared, "the answer will be forthcoming. It is absurd to think of a man of the type of Mr. Rogers refusing to answer a question on the ground that it might tend to subject him to criminal prosecution."

STORY OF THE COLLISION

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 .- The United States battleship Kentucky was struck by the Alabama Sunday while Rear Admiral Evans' squadron was proceeding to sea. The starboard side of the Kentucky was badly damaged this city about 6 o'clock Sunday evenabove the water line and will continue to the navy yard for repairs.

The Kentucky and Kearsarge ran aground in the lower harbor off the West Bank Light. The Alabama was next in line and before she could alter the residence districts in the northeasther course, struck the Kentucky a glancing blow on the starboard side. The Illinois, immediately behind the Alabama, managed to clear the mix-up by prompt action and proceeded down the bay without accident. The Alabama Abilene, Kas.; Salina, Kas., and Jopremained near the Kentucky to render lin, Mo. any needed assistance, while wireless messages were at once sent to Brooklyn for tugs. When the ships were again floated, the Kearsarge was ordered to proceed, but the Kentucky returned to Tompkinsville and will remain in the navy yard for repairs, as

Rheumatism does not come on in a day; the THE STRONGEST causes that produce it work silently in the system for years. This insidious disease becomes intrenched in the blood, and some exposure to cold or damp weather, or slight indiscretion brings on an attack. Poor digestion, stomach troubles, weak Kidneys, torpid Liver, and a general sluggish condition of the system are responsible for Rheumatism. Food souring in the stomach poisons the blood, the failure of the Kidneys and Liver to act properly leaves waste matter and impurities in the system, which, coming in contact with the natural acids of the body, form uric acid. This is absorbed by the blood, and as it penetrates to the muscles, nerves and bones produces the terrible pains and aches and other disagreeable symptoms of Rheumatism. Life is made a torture by its excruciating pains, nerves are shattered, the health undermined, and if the disease is not checked it breaks down the strongest constitution. It will not do to depend on plasters, liniments, etc.; such treatment is helpful in easing the pain and reducing the inflammation, but does not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by purifying and invigorating the thin, acrid

TROUBLE BREWING IN PANAMA

There are will authenticated rumors of impending trouble down in the new republic of Panama. Efforts to promote selfish interests both in the canal zone and the republic of Panama proper may involve People who have recently returned to the United States after a lengthy sojourn in the canal zone declare that conditions are so serious that even the annual South American and Central American revolution may be looked for to occur there as early as next May.

People owning real estate in the canal zone and having business interests there are jealous of any assistance given the Panama republic by the United States government. And when the average citizen of the new republic of Panama gets fealous, he is a very ugly customer, as far as his limited ability will permit.

And the Panamans are said to be discontented because of the conservatism of President Amador, and would adopt some means of compelling the attention of the United States to the needs of the republic and an active participation in its financial and industrial development.

The Panamans allege that the $10,000,000 paid that republic when the canal was sold to the United States is not being expended as it should be, and they want more of it laid out in the republic proper. An irritating agent in disturbances is General Huertas, who was pensioned for his activity during the uprising in Panama before the establishment of the republic. He has been spending his time and his pension in France, but is now preparing to return to Panama, and will lead the malcontents in their miniature uprising and demand for more pensions.

It is said the so-called revolutionists do not expect to throw the republic wholly into the lap of the United States, but hope through a series of annoyances to focus attention and secure better and more efficient guardianship. They evidently desire to achieve results by degrees and not attempt the whole undertaking at one fell swoop.

Thinking people have realized from the very begining that the republic of Panama would be of very short duration. That republic was created for a specific purpose, and now that this purpose has been attained, there is not much excuse for its continued existence.

That the United States will yet have considerable trouble with the bantling we are responsible for having called into existence is clearly apparent. And the Indications seem to be that the beginning of this trouble is not as far off as many people appear to imagine.

FORAKER IN A NEW ROLE

When men begin to whiten about the dome of thought, and the hand of time is felt resting upon their shoulders, they usually begin to mellow down and lose some of the wire edge that characterized their more youthful period. The fact is strikingly illustrated in the case of Senator Joseph Benson Foraker of Ohio. Senator Foraker has been in public life for a long time, and during the greater number of the years that lie behind him he has been largely distinguished for his continued animosity toward the south. He has delivered some fiery phillipics in the senate chamber of the United States at Washington, with the southern people as his subject, and his predilections in that direction were such as to gain for him the appellation of Fire Alarm Foraker, which still clings to him, even to this good day.

But Senator Foraker has grown wiser as he has grown older. The silver threads that have found their way into his former raven locks seem to have changed the tenor of his dreams. The Ohio senator has become imbued with the spirit of true Americanismthat characteristic that is appearing in so many of upon the value of her liege lord. Mrs. Earl A. Stamp our public men at this late day, and has outgrown of that town has just relinquished all claim upon her those strenuous objections he once so violently made | husband and given him his freedom upon the paywhen governor of Ohio, to the proposition to return saptured Confederate battleflags to their former owners. vide for the suitable marking of the graves of the soldiers and sailors of the Confederate army and navy.

Senator Foraker is the author of a bill providing for this care of the graves of Confederates who died in northern prisons and who were buried near those prisons, and has already succeeded in securing a favorable report on his bill from the committee on military affairs, of which he is an influential member. This bill is high up on the senate calendar, and the senator announces his intention of pressing it to a speedy passage. It is said the Foraker bill will pass the senate absolutely without opposition.

The bill directs the secretary of war to ascertain the location and condition of all the graves of the soldiers and sailors of the Confederate army and navy who died in federal prisons and military hospitals in the north and who were buried near their place of confinement; to acquire possession and control over all grounds where said prison dead are buried not now in possession of the government; to cause to be prepared accurate registers in triplicate, one for the superintendent's office in the cemetery, one for the quartermaster general's office, and one for the war record office (Confederate archives) of the place of burial, the number of the grave, the name, company, regiment or vessel of each Confederate soldier and sallor who so died, and to cause to be erected over said graves white marble headstones similar to those recently placed over the graves in the Confederate section of the national cemetery at Arlington, similarly inscribed, and to build proper fencing for the preservation of the different burying grounds and to care for these as the various national cemeteries are cared

The Foraker bill carries with it an appropriation of $200,000 to enable the carrying out of its provisions, and it is a measure that will be thoroughly appreciated by the people of the south. It places the Ohio senator in a wholly new light, and shows him to be a man actuated by noble impulses, in spite of the former erroneous estimate that was placed upon

GOVERNOR VARDAMAN IN ERUPTION

Notwithstanding the season of year has arrived when there is assumed to not be much caloric in the air, the blood of Governor Vardaman of Mississippi is at the boiling point, and he is again in a frenzied state of eruption. And the governor is erupting on his favorite provocation-the race question. He has taken advantage of the fact that the Mississippi state legislature is in session to thresh over some very rabid and peculiar views that he has heretofore given the country, and his message to the legislature is pronounced one of the most sensational ever presented to the lawmaking body by a governor of that state.

On the subject of education the Mississippi executive urges a division of the school fund between the races, according to the amount of taxes paid by each race, declares the educated negro is more criminal than the illiterate members of the race, and education only serves to inspire them with ideas of social equality. He declares that the legislature should "put a stop to the worse than wasting of half a million dollars annually, money taken from the toiling white men and women of Mississippi, and devoted to the vain purpose of trying to make something of the negro which the great Architect of the Universe failed to provide for in the original plan of creation."

The trouble with Governor Vardaman is that he made the race for governor of his state on a pronegro platform and was elected. He has since apparently imagined that his sole mission in life is to stir up race hatred and white animosity toward the negro. Mississippi is a state in which the old-time southern sentiment is very strong. It is a state that lives very largely in the memories and traditions of the past, but the people of that grand old state are not all of the same stripe as its executive. They realize the unfortunate condition of the negro-the fact that he is there not from choice but from necessity. They realize that while he was foisted upon that state as a citizen when he was utterly incapacitated to exercise the rights of citizenship, and in many instances has been a positive detriment to the country, yet he has his mission in life to perform just like the rest of the human family, and without him the people of the state would be reduced to dire ex-

And the people of Mississippi are human. They believe that for humanitarian purposes, if for no other, they owe these unfortunate people a duty. They are willing to continue to contribute to the noble purpose of educating them in the hope of transforming them into a better and more useful class of citizens. They would not have the race relegated to the darkness of the Dark Ages, simply because Governor Vardaman does not believe in negro education, and because education has spoiled a few negroes. It is a question of the greatest good to the greatest number, and Governor Vardaman in his tirade has only demonstrated that he is really too narrow to fill the exalted position he occupies.

France and Germany are said to be on the verge of hostilities again, and both countries are reported to be actively preparing for war. These rumors come with such frequency that they are extremely difficult to believe.

If you have not yet paid your poll tax it is high time you were calling at the collector's office and squaring yourself to exercise the right of suffrage for

A Dallas grand jury has reported that Dallas county is honeycombed with graft. It is probable that every citizen of the county was cognizant of that fact, and it will so continue until grand jurors can be obtained who will indict the grafters instead of deploring their crimes.-Beaumont Journal.

PUBLICOPINION

The Detroit Free Press, commenting on "congressional activities," speaks of Congressman Landis' and Cockran's flaying of the insurance companies, saying that Landis "trimmed them well" and showed himself the equal of Cockran in invective; but it notes that in rather a wide range of fancies neither of them tackled the Standard Oil company or anthracite coal trust. It goes on to say:

It seems impossible that a description of financial depredations in general could be given that would ignore these two organizations which are at once the cause and the effect of the conditions deplored. Legal intrenchment does not alter the immorality of their conduct and their daily actions. The policy holder is at the worst a voluntary contributor to the wealth of the insurance companies. He may have been deceived, cozened and misled, but he is "having his day in court" and faces the prospect of a better future. The consumer of coal and oil is an integer in the population and every integer in the population is a consumer of coal and oil. This consumer has no escape. He is not a volunteer purchaser of the commodities of these trusts. He is an enforced purchaser. If some power would take the anthracite coal trust and the oil monopoly by the throats and choke them half to death congress would fall on the prostrate form and kick out what life remained, but congress has no stomach for a conflict with a live, well-trained iniquity.

Speaking of the approach of the first of March, when Germany's new tariff will go into effect as to this country, the Washington Post says:

The situation must be exceedingly embarrassing to our good friends the stand-patters. If we shall have reciprocity with Germany because Germany has proposed commercial war, why should not other nations do the same? If the stand-patters shall surrender to Germany, the next thing in order would be a surrender to somebody else, and if Great Britain should sit in the game, she would close us up like a jackknife; and it may be remarked that is the very thing Mr. Joseph Chamberlain expects to do as soon as he converts England to his protection and federal theories. And thus we have this tariff question with us always. It is pertinaciously predicted by some of our most eminent statesmen that a day is not in the very distant future when America and Germany will be in actual war. It would be an awful calamity; it would be even a greater absurdity. We are kindred peoples, and should be friends ever.

LAUGH CHANGED BEVERIDGE

"The direction of my career was completely changed," said United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge to a writer in Success, "by a careless laugh. When I was a youth in Illinois I heard that the congressman from our district intended to hold an examination to determine what young man he should appoint to West Point. I pitched in and studied hard for that examination, and found it easy when I came to take it. Most of the other fellows seemed to be still struggling with it when I had finished, and I was so confident that I had made few mistakes that I was in a pretty cheerful frame of mind. That is why I laughed when one of the strugglers asked a rather foolish question of the professor in charge. The latter evidently felt that the dignity of the occasion had been trifled with, for he scored 1 per cent against me. When the papers came to be corrected this loss caused. me to fall one-fifth of 1 per cent below the boy who stood highest on the list. He is a captain in the army now, where I suppose I should be had it not been for that laugh. I believe in the power of cheerfulness. Looking back, I am rather glad I laughed."

DID THE DEAN CHANGE?

Dean Shaler of Harvard University remarked, not long ago, that he had discovered that President Roosevelt is something of a wag. This rather surprising remark aroused curiosity, and, after some questioning, the dean was induced to explain.

A few days before the election last November a member of the cabinet met the dean in Boston, and as they parted the secretary inquired: "What shall I say to Theodore for you?" To this the dean, with his customary candor and vigor, replied: "Give my regards and tell him I'll be d-d if I'll vote for him." He had entirely forgotten his message to the President, until a few days after the election, when he received the following note from the White House: "Dear Dean: Judging by the size of our majority you must have changed your mind. T. R."

. . . . DIDN'T SEE POCKETBOOK

A western lawyer recounts a story of a trial he once witnessed in a Texan court. A hard-looking tough was the defendant. His counsel, in a voice apparently husky with emotion, addressed the jury something in this wise:

"Gentlemen, my client is a poor man. He was driven by hunger and want to take a small sum of money. All that he wanted was sufficient funds wherewith to buy bread, for it is in evidence that he did not take the pocketbook containing $500 that was in the same bureau drawer."

At this point the counsel for the defense was interrupted by the convulsive sobs of his client. "Here, man!" exclaimed the judge, "why are you

Jingling music, rousing choruses, and inspiring waltz and march tempos have been given "A Madcap Princess" by its composer, Ludwig Englander, who has written not less than thirty-four operas that have been first seen o Broadway, in New York. The report of James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, for the year 1905, has been received.

The statement is made that the department has established fourteen experimental farms where the boll weevil has been studied. The following is quoted from the report: "The early fall destruction of the leaves, when this is at all complete, exposes the boll weevil to the action of the sun, which is inimical to it and deprives it of its food supply. The extensive defoliation of the cotton crop in September and October, 1904, in Texas, is in a measure responsible for the late start of the boll weevil in the summer of 1905. In Louisiana the phase of the cotton question is even more marked than in Texas. The cotton caterpillar is present every season and the planters generally position against it. If the late poisonings are omitted and the caterpillar is allowed to increase the dense foliage of the cotton plant will be done away with and the annual ravages of the weevil decidedly checked. In this fact lies possibly a practical measure of considerable im-

BANK DEPOSITS GROWING

The reports hows that the increase in bank deposits in Texas is 248 per cent. Texas stands fifth in the list in this respect, being surpassed by Arkansas with 503 per cent, North and South Dakota and Mississippi. The total deposits of the south are shown to have passed the one billion mark for the first time.

Cotton farms have increased in value $460,000,000, the most prominent increase being in Texas where the value strain, by Dr. West Cathcart, Expert a river and flood system is discussed with the statement that floods caused a damage of at least $4,000,000 in Texas, Colorado, New Mexico and Indiana Territory, of which the greater part fell upon the railroads. The loss to inhabitants was at least $1,000,000. TEXAS FEVER

In the matter of Texas fever the department has discovered that the fever producing organism is fostered in the blood of southern animals for as long in certain cases, as twelve years, after the removal of the animal from the infected district. It was found, however, that the animal retains its immunity three years after the disappearance of the microbe organism from Another point of interest was the determination whether Texas fever ticks were capable of transmitting the disease to susceptible cattle at any time and it was found possible to develop ticks in which the power of carrying disease is absent. These ticks do not necessarily carry the Texas fever contagion, but obtain the germs from infected cattle. In the matter of grain the report states that two Algerian barleys were ntroduced with such success in the southwest and that they are thoroughly adapted to desert conditions and alkali soils and have so far given yields per acre that are from 50 to 80 per cent greater than those of other varieties in the region between Texas and

Southern California. RICE CULTURE PROGRESS

The rice culture of Louisiana and 1904 from 210,393 acres, yielding 179,-919,293 pounds of rice in 1899, to 610,-700 acres in 1904, yielding 869,426,800 pounds of rice. This is an increase of upwards of 190 per cent in acreage, by far the greater part of which has been in Texas. In 1889 Texas had 178 acres of rice, in 1899, 8,711 acres, while in 1904 the acreage had increased to 376,500 or more than forty-three times the area under this crop six years ago.

Twenty-five acres of tea have been planted at Pierce, Texas, and preliminary plucking indicates a very high grade of tea can be produced.

FRANK M. JOHNSON

Vetetran, Now in County Jail, Said Be in Serious Condition from Rheumatism

Frank M. Johnson, the Confederate veteran who is in the county fail under a two years' sentence in the peni-tentiary on charge of killing F. J. L. Robinson, another Confederate veteran, is in such physical condition that an effort is being made to have him pardoned by Governor Lanham. He is suffering with rheumatism. It is claimed if he is sent to the peniten-tlary he will not live half the time of his sentence.

A petition for his pardon has been circulated and signed by a large number of people and the matter has already been brought to the attention of the governor. Johnson's physical condition was looked into by Dr. Murphy and a written statement made by him and submitted to the governor, who, it is said, wants two other physicians to certify to Johnson's condition before taking final action. If two other physicians certify to the same condi-tions that Dr. Murphy did it is believed by the friends of the old soldier that he will be pardoned.
