Japanese Students May Enter Tech

Lubbock.— Japanese students may join those of 11 other nations on the campus of Texas Technological College before too long.

Pres. D. M. Wiggins has received an inquiry from Tokyo on just how young people of that nation may enter Tech. Requested information has been sent. Students of eleven nations were on the campus during the spring semester.

"Thanks to the generosity of the United States Occupation authorities, selected Japanese students, though still limited in number, are provided with the means of studying in the United States," wrote Yoshio Akao, Tokyo publisher. "This has not only encouraged Japanese students to a vast extent, but also has raised great expectations in the hearts of the people at large for the seeds these students will bring back to the soil of Japan to aid in establishing a permanent democracy as well as to enhance the promotion of modern culture.

"A large number of Japanese students are desirous of studying in some American universities and are ardently seeking information relative to the question of enrollment. We shall be grateful to you if you will let us know the conditions, and outline the possibilities for Japanese students to become enrolled in your esteemed institution."

The publisher said that about 300,000 senior high school students of Japan will attend universities on graduation. Photographs showing buildings and student life at Texas Tech have been sent to Tokyo.

New Poison For False Wireworms Believed Found

College Station.—Lindane, one of the newer insecticides, has shown promise for false wireworm control in tests conducted at the Lubbock Substation of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. H. G. Johnston, head of the department of entomology, Texas A. & M. College, states that up to now there have been no practical insecticides for the control of this insect.

False wireworm infestation is restricted to the Rolling Plains and South Plains areas of Northwest Texas. The insect is likely to attack any crops grown, but is a major pest on small grains and sorghums. It works altogether underground, feeding on stems, roots and germinating seeds. Johnston says that estimating the damage caused yearly is difficult because the infestation is variable, occurring in spots throughout the area from year to year.

Best control results were obtained from the application of eight ounces of 25 percent wettable lindane dust per 100 pounds of seed. Higher applications of the insecticide injured the germinating seed and the small roots of the young seedlings.

W. L. Owens, assistant in the department of entomology, Texas A. & M. College, who conducted the tests, says the farmer should make sure that the wettable powder is thoroughly mixed with the seed. Wettable powders can be bought that contain from 25 to 75 percent lindane. The 25 percent dust can be dumped into the planter box and mixed with a medium amount of stirring. The revolving plates mix the dust with the seed. If higher concentrations of powder are used, it should be thoroughly mixed with the seed before they are placed in the planter box. Pure lindane is not bulky enough to be used.

BUY YOUR ROLLS IN THE WAXED PAPER WRAPPER!

Our patrons will notice that recently we have been wrapping our brown and serve rolls in waxed paper instead of clear cellophane paper. We are forced to do this because of the fact that we are unable to buy cellophane paper.

We ask that when you go to your grocers to buy brown and serve rolls that you pick up the rolls wrapped in WAXED PAPER. They are our rolls and are the same high quality, fine textured rolls that we have always made. You will find that they can't be beat as to taste and quality.

So until we can again purchase cellophane paper we ask that you buy your rolls in the WAXED PAPER. You'll like them, we know, and we'll appreciate your patronage.

VACATIONISTS "STEPPING OUT" THIS YEAR

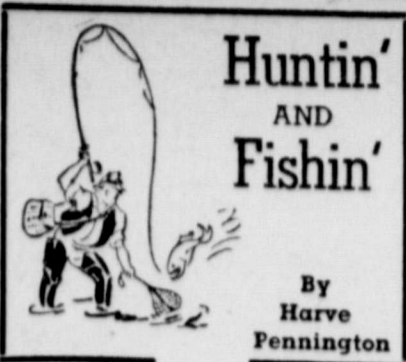

The average American on vacation this year will travel a greater distance and spend more money for gasoline, oil and food than ever before, according to a magazine survey. Mr. Tourist is expected to spend an average of $79 and travel 1630 miles. That is $66 and 381 miles above the figures for 1949. Since most vacationists travel by automobile, the oil industry will play a big part in meeting record demands for pleasure-bound Americans.

ASPHALT BASE SAVES WATER

California engineers have laid an asphalt blanket on the bottom and sides of a new reservoir built for the Los Angeles area. In conventional reservoirs, sizable amounts of water are lost through seepage, but the new asphalt blanket is expected to prevent this. Oil men and construction engineers worked jointly on the project, using 1300 tons of asphalt.

Plug casting, on the whole, outnumbers fly fishing, but the fly fishermen show greater efficiency both in casting and in fishing. Due to some peculiar mental quirk, the average plug caster thinks more of landing "whoppers" than he does of casting efficiency. He goes out with nothing on his mind except to land such a big fellow, he reasons, he must have a stiff, heavy rod, a sort of portable derrick. Looking at the thing from this angle, has caused many a plug caster to start wrong and keep going wrong.

The thing that gets the fish, not necessarily the whales, is the right kind of rig, casting efficiency and casting ease. The rig means the right rod, the right line and the right reel. Practice with such a rig develops casting efficiency and casting ease.

You might ask just what casting efficiency and casting ease are. In few words, casting ease is making the cast in a style or manner that makes the wrist and the rod do the work. Casting efficiency is putting the lure in the right spot. It means casting at a target, not merely heaving the plug at the water. If you get an outfit with which you can cast easily and learn to use it, you may be sure of catching more fish. Then if you should run into that "daddy" of them all, have no fear of losing him.

Your lighter rod and smaller line will do the trick better than a stiff rod because the spring of the rod will kill the fish quicker and give you better control of the fight, and there is less possibility of yanking the hook out of his mouth with a lighter rod. If you learn to use your rig so that you can call your shots, you will get more strikes because you will be putting the lure nearer the hiding fish. The closer to cover-lily pads, weed beds, stumps, logs, brush, rocks, bars—you can place your lure, the more likely you are to get a strike. Besides it is more fun to cast accurately. These recommendations are suggested and made out of our own experience and contacts with lots of good casters.

The best rod for plug casting is one that will spring a little under the pull of the lure when the cast is made, that is a lure of from 2-8 to 5-8 ounce. The trend today is toward smaller, lighter plugs. Unless the rod springs under the weight of the plug, you lose accuracy, and placing the plug where it should go is fifty percent of the chances of getting fish by this method. The majority of good plug casters, the boys that get their share of the fish, get a lot of fun from their casting by using a 5, 5½, or 6 foot rod that has a fairly stiff mid section and a quick acting tip. With this kind of rod, the pull of the lure will put a bend in the tip. It is this bend together with the correct wrist action that is the power for sending the plug out onto the water. If the rod does not have this bend-ability, the caster must heave the plug. That means less accuracy and greater possibility of back-lashes.

If you are afraid that a light rod might break when you hook into the whopper, remember that the fly rod fisherman uses not only a rod that is whippier but usually fishes with a leader that does not test over five pounds. It is not the "heft" of the rod that lands the fish. It is the skill of the fisherman in playing the hooked fish against the spring of the rod. There is no fun in "tossing" fish out of the water.

You cannot use a whippier rod and light lures with a heavy line. To get the most accuracy and pleasure out of casting such an outfit, you should use a line of 9 to 12 pound test, not over 15. Such a line will give a season's fishing, if it is dried after each wetting. That is a silk line, a nylon line does not need drying. It is easier to use and less likely to back-lash. You get better distance with the lighter line. A light rub with a good fly line dressing will make your casting line last longer and give better casts. Whatever kind of a reel you get, be sure it is a good one. A cheap reel is an expense and a nuisance. With it you can never cast accurately, and it will fail you just when you are where you cannot get it repaired or get another. Select a reel with an aluminum spool and build up its arbor with balsa wood or cork. This kind of spool starts quickly and stops quickly. A heavy spool is hard to start and slow to stop, which causes it to overrun and give you a back lash. The aluminum spool prevents backlashes.

"Profits are like the spark-plugs in a car. Remove them and you take you to a weiner roast in the next block!"

Club Women Study Conservation Law

Texas farmwomen in an 18-county area which depends on underground water for irrigation are learning about the water conservation law.

Members of home demonstration clubs in the Plains-Panhandle are studying a bulletin issued recently by the Texas A. & M. Extension Service and titled "The Underground Water Conservation Law." Miss Kate Adelle Hill, home demonstration agent in charge of District 2, estimated that the information would reach 2,000 women.

The law, passed by the 51st Texas Legislature in the spring of 1949, has two central points: First, it recognizes the "ownership and rights of the owner of the land, his lessees and assigns, in underground water." Second, the law says the framework for organization of underground water conservation districts as local, independent units, assigning them the powers of conserving, preserving, protecting and re-charging the underground water in reservoirs over which they have jurisdiction.

Three major powers are designed to insure a continuing abundance of water: The right to prevent waste, by court injunction if necessary; the power to regulate spacing of wells; and the power to put more water underground in re-charging projects.

The law limits the districts' powers in that they cannot prorate or allocate water and they cannot deny a permit to drill a new irrigation well, so long as the applicant complies with spacing regulations.

Every year about one-fourth (500,000) of the Federal Government's civilian employees quit their jobs and have to be replaced. Many quit because of low government pay and inconsistent pay schedules, and slow promotions. On the other hand, to release a Federal employee is equally a problem. Employees threatened with discharge can usually appeal to three different agencies. Average elapsed time of twenty-five discharges studied by the Commission was seven months. One "wholly unsatisfactory" stenographer held on for seventeen months.

Some one has figured it out that there is around twenty million telephones in this country. The difficult thing to understand is that on the occasion when we are in a hurry to put through a call all twenty million of them seem to be in use.

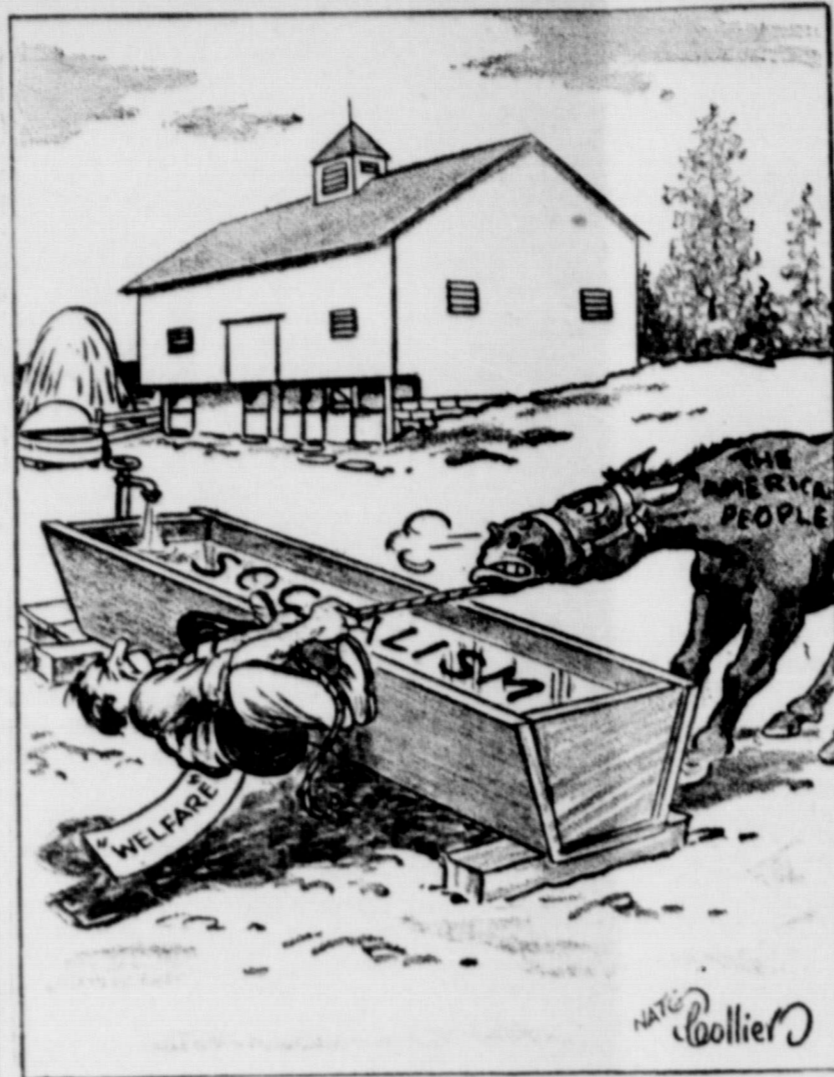

No editor, worthy of the name, can help but create some enemies. In the natural course of events the editor who champions what is good and best for the whole people of a community is going to step on the toes of some self-seeking individual from time to time. The crook never forgives an editor who upsets his dirty little apple cart. Incidentally the editor who doesn't upset a few apple carts during the year isn't worth much to any community. The editor who hush, hushes this and hush, hushes that because he may lose a dollar's worth of advertising isn't much of an editor. He is what might be called an editor "for revenue only."

After hearing 25,000 cases of domestic infelicity in one year. Mrs. Ethel R. McDowell, of Chicago Social Service Division, of the Municipal court, recommends to lawmakers that divorce be made easier and marriage much more difficult. Women came to this one court during one year to the number of 25,302 with black eyes and broken and bruised bodies. The hearing of these cases alone requires the constant services of ten or twelve judges and assistants. Chief among the causes of family trouble are drink, gambling, too much mother-in-law, girls lack of training as cooks and housekeepers. The drunkard is never a satisfactory companion in marriage, and the gambler never has any money for his family.

A local old codger who has driven a car for thirty years without a single traffic accident believes that a commemorative postage stamp should be gotten out in his honor and in the honor of others like him. We agree. The car drivers with records like that need be recognized. They are in an unfortunate minority.

MARSHALL'S ADVICE

The House Foreign Affairs Committee recently summoned General George C. Marshall, wartime Chief of Staff and former Secretary of State and originator of the Marshall Plan for the economic rehabilitation of Europe, to give his views on the present program of economic and military assistance to Western Europe.

General Marshall minced no words in expressing his opinion. He said that if the United States should back away from military aid to free nations and, instead, "arm to the teeth at home," it would invite disaster here and abroad. He estimated that the cost of maintaining this country as an armed camp would be more than thirty billion dollars a year.

In addition, the veteran statesman expressed the opinion that a negative attitude toward the rebuilding of Western European morale and defense power would be "fatal." He said it would be an invitation for an overwhelming of Western Europe by some military or political moves, a threat to Latin America and Caribbean security and an economic, political and military isolation of the United States.

The General did not believe that Western Europe could be left impotent militarily against the pressure steadily applied from behind the Iron Curtain any more that it could have been left without American economic assistance after the prostration of the World War. Refusing to continue the mutual defense program for a second year, at an estimated cost of $1,222,500,000, and for a few more years, if necessary, he said, would be "psychologically wrong, militarily wrong and just wrong generally."

WILL LIQUOR BUILD A TOWN?

The argument that the legal sale of liquor builds a town has received a telling blow in the Panhandle-Plains region during the past ten years. Example — Amarillo and Lubbock. Amarillo with its numerous liquor establishments should have, according to the above mentioned argument, outstripped Lubbock in population growth and general development. But the census counters didn't see it that way. The bone-dry town on the South Plains has caught, and even since the census count probably passed, the legal liquor city of the Panhandle. By the general rules Amarillo was, and should still be, by far the largest city. Maybe the liquor business even retards growth, something has reversed the order of the big boys of the Plains-Panhandle region. While the people in Amarillo are trying to figure out ways to reduce traffic fatalities in and near their city they might consider the advantage of sober drivers over those that have had one too many. If it were only Amarillo people that were involved in the traffic accidents, that would be their business. But the sad part of the thing is that, all too often, the victims are from the neighboring cities that in the past have been responsible for the growth of the Panhandle Metropolis. Considered from that angle it is not only Amarillo's business, but the business of every city and town in the area if the slaughter on the highways continues at the rate it is going. If Amarillo insists on keeping their invaluable liquor business, the people of the rest of the Panhandle would do well to let them keep the other lines of fine merchandise for which they are famous. This writer is not a radical prohibitionist. But we do believe where there are many people that can be moderate in their drinking, there are a few who can no more be trusted with a pint of whiskey than a shotgun. It is dangerous business to pass a drunken driver on the highway, or to have one driving behind you, and so long as intoxicants are sold legally that condition will exist.—Castro County News.

Longer Life

One more reason why John Deere is first choice of the tractor-wise!

Just look around your community; you'll probably find many John Deere Tractors ten, fifteen, and even twenty years old still hard at work. They're truly long-lived tractors!

Extreme simplicity and strength of exclusive John Deere two-cylinder design is a big reason. Parts are fewer, larger, stronger, and able to stand the strains of heavy-duty work for a longer time. On-the-farm maintenance is easier; you keep your John Deere in better condition by being able to make many of the adjustments and do more of the servicing yourself without special tools.

Consider, too, the safeguards on a John Deere which promote long life—automatic engine lubrication which forces oil under pressure to engine parts, the automatic crankcase ventilation system, the quality workmanship, materials, and construction. You'll agree — a John Deere is hard to beat.

- In addition, John Deere Tractors offer:
- OUTSTANDING ECONOMY
 - GREATER DEPENDABILITY
 - GREATER COMFORT
 - OUTSTANDING QUALITY
 - EASIER HANDLING
 - EASIER MAINTENANCE
 - COMPLETE INTEGRAL EQUIPMENT
 - UNEXCELLED VIEW
 - GREATER ADAPTABILITY

Farm And Ranch Taxes Show Big Increases In 1949

College Station. — Sharp in- creases in Texas farm and ranch real estate taxes during 1949 were revealed in a recent survey made by L. P. Gabbard, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, and Robert G. Cherry, professor of agricultural economics, Texas A. & M. College.

Levies made by State and local governments totaled an average of 25.7 cents per acre, rising from 22.4 cents the previous year. This is an increase of 3.3 cents per acre or 15 percent over the 1948 average.

1949 was the third successive year that land taxes have advanced, say the economists. During the 11 year period, 1936-46, taxes were quite stable, varying only slightly from an average of 18 cents per acre. The typical farm or ranch tax bill in 1949 was 40 percent above that level.

Most of the rise in 1949 was accounted for by increases in State and school district taxes. County and special district levies have increased very little since 1948. The advance in the State rate on farm and ranch real estate from 42 cents per 100 dollar evaluation in 1948 to 72 cents was the largest item in the 1949 tax increase.

"Gilmer - Aiken" legisla- tion caused part of the increase in school taxes. A considerable number of farms and ranches were in "dormant" common school districts with little or no school taxes before the legisla- tion was passed. They point out that during 1949 many of these school units were consolidated with active districts, resulting in higher taxes.

Increases in individual coun- ties and type-of-farming areas varied widely throughout the state. Of 197 counties in the survey, only three, Jim Wells, East- land, and Atascosa, registered declines of as much as 5 percent. All type-of-farming areas showed increases. The highest in- creases occurred in the Blackland areas and in the northern coun- ties of the Grand Prairie. Many of the State's common school dis- tricts are concentrated in these areas, and numerous consoli- dations have occurred recently. The Lower Rio Grande Valley, parts of the Coast Prairie, and the Canadian River Grazing area had the smallest increases.

The decline in prices received for agricultural products during 1949 at the same time that taxes were increasing caused a big change in the ratio of prices to taxes. According to the econo- mists, prices that the farmer re- ceived for his products decreased 8.9 percent from 1948 to 1949 while farm and ranch real estate taxes were advancing 15 percent. This movement of taxes and prices in the opposite direction re- sulted in a relative increase in taxes of 30 percent.

Although the rise in farm and ranch real estate taxes may halt temporarily in 1950, conditions indicate that the upward move- ment of the last three years is likely to continue, but probably at a slower rate. Public demands for expanded local governmental services such as schools, roads, and hospitals, they conclude, may cause a continued rise in local and school taxes.

TALLEST BUILDING IN THE SOUTHWEST

One of the largest and finest office buildings ever erected in this country, shown above, will soon dominate the already impressive skyline of Dallas, the Southwest's great cosmopolitan city. The new Republic Bank Building, announced recently by Fred F. Florence, President of the Republic National Bank, will embody the most modern and advanced architecture, including every convenience possible for both customers of the Bank and tenants of the building. The tallest building in the Southwest, it will soar 440 feet in height. It will be the largest and most modern structure erected in the United States to include a garage and motor banking, together with banking quarters and office building. The main shaft of the building will rise 36 stories above the ground with an additional four stories below the street level. Its tower, extending some 160 feet further into the sky, will give the structure an overall height of 600 feet.

Eight New All-Purpose Cars Now Offered By Chrysler

Eight new all-purpose cars are now being offered by Chrysler Corporation.

In addition to the 44 models in the regular lines of sedans, coupes, limousines, and convertibles, Chrysler Corporation has designed eight "all-purpose" cars from the lowest-priced to the most luxurious.

In the Plymouth line there is a new suburban for business or pleasure — an all-metal family car with the comfort of a sedan and the carrying capacity of a station wagon. There are 41 in. of luggage space behind the rear seat, or when it is folded down there is cargo space 68 in. long, 55 in. wide and 39 in. high.

There is also a new Plymouth Station Wagon which carries folding auxiliary center seats for easy access to the rear. It is quiet, sturdy, and has more than 100 cubic feet of capacity.

In the Dodge line there is a new Station Wagon with plenty of room for 6 passengers and big utility space. It is built to stay quiet and ship-shape, with the tail gate opening level with the floor. Equipped with fluid drive and gyromatic transmission, no shifting is necessary.

There are three all-purpose cars in the DeSoto line—the 6 Passenger Carryall, the new DeSoto Suburban, and the new DeSoto Station Wagon.

In the Carryall, the rear seat can be folded forward providing 7½ feet of level storage from back of the front seat to the rear of the luggage compartment. It is ideal for camping or any other use where the style of a sedan is desired with the carrying capacity of a much larger vehicle.

The new DeSoto Suburban will carry 9 people plus a huge luggage load.

It is fully weather-stripped, eliminating all drafts and noise. The Traveler is designed especially for sportsmen and campers. It converts in seconds from a 6-passenger sedan with all of the Chrysler luxury features into a 3-passenger sports car or cargo carrier.

These cars are now available through Plymouth, Dodge, DeSoto and Chrysler Dealers.

Home Maker Needs Less Elbow Grease

College Station.—The present day homemaker can do the house cleaning chores easier and with less elbow grease than in years past because science has come to the rescue. High on the list of modern aids on the job of house cleaning are the detergents. These detergents dissolve soil, especially greasy soil, and they do it more rapidly and effectively than soap and water, says Mrs. Florence Low, extension home management specialist of Texas A. & M. College.

She reports that recent tests conducted by the New York Experiment Station have dug deep into the merits of the detergents for household cleaning jobs and their findings should prove to be time and labor savers for homemakers across the nation.

Mrs. Low suggests that when you wash walls, woodwork and other painted surfaces with one of the new cleaners or shampoo upholstery and rugs, that you try gentle handling instead of using so much energy rubbing and scrubbing. It will save wear on you as well as on the fabrics and finishes. When finishes and fabrics are softened and moistened with alkaline cleaners or other detergents scrubbing may cause unnecessary wear.

She says generally four steps are recommended when cleaning with water. Remove loose dirt by advance brushing or vacuum cleaning; apply the detergent solution to the surface rapidly, and use as little of the detergent as possible to prevent soaking upholstery or dripping down painted surfaces; remove the detergent by going over the surface rapidly by rubbing lightly with a towel.

Directions that come with some of the wall cleaners do not suggest rinsing. She says this is probably because manufacturers have found that small amounts of detergents left on the wall surface will do less damage than too much rubbing when the surface is wet.

She says avoid scouring walls, woodwork and all finished surfaces. The good cleaning materials that are available today make scouring unnecessary, even for soiled paint. Strong alkaline substances, such as washing soda or ammonia, should not be used for they are hard on paint—they dry it and in time may make it flake off—and they may affect the color.

In conclusion, Mrs. Low says that regardless of the cleaner used, all directions should be followed carefully. Many tests have been made with the various materials offered on the market and the recommendations

SOME NATIONAL SERVICE LIFE CASES UNPROCESSED

"If you have not received your National Service Life Dividend, then perhaps you are one of the 300,000 cases still remaining to be processed," according to an announcement made today by Robert W. Sisson, Manager of the VA Regional Office, Lubbock, Texas.

These 300,000 cases are difficult cases in which extensive study is involved. The VA has already mailed out cards informing this group of Veterans that their cases are being processed and payment will be forthcoming at a later date.

The VA Office handling the payment of these National Service Life Dividends reports there are approximately 10,000 Veterans whose addresses are not current because of the fact that their Application Acknowledgment Cards were returned to the VA. The VA is also holding about 30,000 Dividend Checks which were returned for insufficient address.

Mr. Sisson cautioned that Veterans should write: Veterans Administration Special Insurance Projects Service, Washington 25, D. C.

—and supply a correct address so dividends may be processed and checks already processed may be mailed. Meanwhile the VA is making additional reviews in an effort to develop correct addresses.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brown and Ann returned Sunday from a visit with his brother, Marvin and family at Santa Monica, Calif.

Swisher County To Petition For Water District Soon

Swisher county farmers will petition the Board of Water Engineers to designate a reservoir underlying a proposed ground-water conservation district, the High Plains Water Conservation and Users Association reports.

Lubbock county farmers will meet this week to discuss a similar action; and Hale farmers may take the first step towards forming a district at a meeting July 10.

Action of the Swisher county group followed a meeting of about 200 farmers in the courthouse at Tulla June 29 under auspices of the Swisher county Water Conservation Association. W. O. Fortenberry of Monroe, president of the High Plains Water Conservation and Users Association, of which the Swisher, Hale and Lubbock county groups are associate members, addressed the Tulla meeting. He explained legislation enabling formation of the proposed district.

Led by Nolan Williamson, agent for Lubbock county, 26 county extension agents attending an irrigation school at Texas Tech College went to Tulla by bus to hear the discussion.

Lubbock county farmers are scheduled to meet at 8 p. m. Thursday, July 6, in the Lubbock courthouse. Two lawyers, L. A. Howard of Lubbock and Arthur P. Duggan Jr. of Littlefield, will be the main speakers.

The Hale county meeting is set for 8 p. m. Monday, July 10 in the courthouse at Plainview.
