RED CHAIN MO-FAT CREEP FEED

Livestock producers have learned that under varying range conditions they can add from 50 to 150 pounds to the weight of calves at weaning time by feeding RED CHAIN MO-FAT Creep Feed Nuggets . . .

They also have learned that they can get more money per pound for creep-fed calves than for lighter calves off the range . . .

Creep fed calves are less of a burden to the mother cow. This gives the cow an opportunity to rebuild for the next calving ordeal.

Free plans of RED CHAIN Calf Creep self-feeder to hold a week's supply or more are available. This feeder will save labor and keep MO-FAT nuggets dry and fresh. Ask for your set today.

CERAMICS IMPROVED

Austin. — Ceramic products such as enamels and porcelain glazes used on kitchen appliances will be improved through research by two University of Texas as faculty members.

Dr. E. Joseph Weiss has completed fundamental investigations to whiten and toughen porcelain and enamels and Dr. Robert L. Stone has designed a new furnace to determine the best firing temperature for a ceramic material more efficiently and quickly.

Spring is a good time to give your home a once-over for improvements especially in the kitchen. Old, cracked work surfaces that are difficult to clean might be replaced by easily washed clay tile, which also is fireproof and resists stains and chipping.

Sermonettes From Revival Tabernacle

Acts 3:21—Jesus Christ, "Whom the heaven must receive until the times of restitution of all things." We are living in the time of great restoration. In Joel 1 we have a verse that tells us, "That which the palmerworm hath left hath the locust eaten, and that which the locust hath left hath the caterpillar eaten." Here the church is likened to a vine or tree and has become desolate. Of these insects, one eats the fruit, another the leaves, another the bark, and the last eats on the sap until the vine or tree dies. During the dark ages the church was desolate. The Bible was hid from the people and they went into spiritual darkness.

In Joel 2:25 God says He will restore what the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the caterpillar, and the palmerworm. The church went into spiritual darkness and a great light was given to Martin Luther—justification by faith—the sap was restored to the church, the life giving flow. Then later others came with sanctification and holy living. Then at the turn of this century, the Baptism of the Holy Ghost with the speaking in tongues was restored and the Pentecostal experience was again given to God's people. Now we are in the period of restoration of all things that the New Testament church had: Namely, apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers for the perfecting of the saints so they will be ready for the coming of the Lord, Eph. 4:11-13, Eph. 5:27.

The church in the New Testament had five ministries, Eph. 4:11; they had 9 gifts, 1 Cor. 12:8-10; they were in unity of the faith, Acts 1:14; they had signs and wonders and judgment fell on deceivers, Acts 1:12; they were continually led by the Spirit, Acts 13:2. We are living in the times of restitution of all things, Acts 3:21.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Ray.

"I Voted To Close The Church"

Last Sunday I voted to close the church; not intentionally, perhaps, but carelessly, indifferently. I voted. I voted to close its doors that its witness and its testimony might be stopped. I voted to close the open Bible on its pulpit—the Bible that had been given us by years of struggle and by the blood of martyrs who died that we might have it to read.

I voted for our minister to stop preaching the truths of the gospel of Jesus Christ. I voted that the children of the Sunday School no longer be taught the stories of the Bible and no longer lift their tiny voices in singing: "Jesus loves me this I know" "For the Bible tells me so."

I voted for every missionary project of the congregation to be still, and that they no longer sing in united praise. I voted for every missionary project to be abandoned, every influence for good and right in our community to be curtailed and finally stopped. I voted for the darkness of superstition, the disregarding influence of sin, and the curse of selfish creed once again to settle their load on the shoulders of an already overburdened world.

FOR YOU SEE, I COULD HAVE GONE AND I SHOULD HAVE GONE, BUT I DIDN'T. I STAYED AWAY FROM CHURCH LAST SUNDAY.

J. R. NAYLOR, Pastor.

Francis J. Cline Dies At Plainview

Besides his wife, Margaret Elizabeth survivors are a daughter, Mrs. E. J. French of Levelland; two sons, Latham of Plainview and Roy of Hobbs, N. M.; three brothers, Arthur of Montecello, Ark., Walter of Kelsey, Wash., and Calvin of Idabel, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Angie Robertson of Star City, Ark., Laura Jane Chance of Conersville, Ark., and Miss Bulah Cline of Little Rock, Ark., eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

COTTON QUIZ

HOW STRONG IS COTTON?

ANS—COTTON'S TENSILE STRENGTH IS ROUGHLY EQUIVALENT TO THAT OF STRUCTURAL STEEL!

The Trout fishing season opens soon and some of our trout fishermen have made plans to go, but they will find the streams high and muddy. Early season fish tend to lie low in the water, and if the rivers are truly in flood, they'll be centered mainly in the eddies, out of the rivers swiftest flow. Early spring trout tend to be lazy and a trip to the surface from their normal position near the bottom may seem like an exertion, especially when there is plenty of food coming along at their preferred depth. Let your fly get some depth as you retrieve it. A small split shot above the leader knot will sink the fly. Frequently trout refuse to take a floating fly even though they show a keen interest in it. They will come to the surface, make a pass at the fly and cause a swirl in the water. They want the fly, yet they refuse to take it. Usually the cause of such refusal is that the floating fly is too large. It's well to remember, however, that the smaller the fly that is used the less necessity there is for exact imitation of the natural. Consequently the fisherman should not hesitate to try a similar fly even if forced to turn to a different pattern.

The temperature of the stream in which trout live definitely influences their feeding, therefore the use of a stream thermometer is a practical habit. Fish culturists say that a temperature of 60 degrees is ideal for trout for it is then that their appetites and digestive processes are normal. When the temperature drops to between 35 and 45 degrees trout digest food more slowly and feed less vigorously. When the temperature rises above 70 degrees they are likely to cease feeding entirely.

Seek New Labor Agreement With Old Mexico

Encouraging signs that a more equitable and workable labor agreement may be reached between the United States and Mexico were reported to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce by Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco after observing preliminary conferences between the two countries' representatives in Miami, Fla. recently. Negotiations were resumed at Mexico City on May 9th. Poage represented the House Agriculture Committee of which he is vice chairman.

While American farmers are not in quite as desperate need of Mexican workers as they usually have been during such negotiations, Mexican workers have never needed employment as badly, Poage reported.

He said he believed the U. S. Government can, with a little firmness, have a new agreement which would place the responsibility upon the part of the worker to perform his part of the contract. He also said he felt it should be possible to have Mexico recognize livestock and dairy production as agricultural work.

"I believe the United States can get Mexico to agree not to act unilaterally to blacklist any individual or community," he wrote the West Texas Chamber. The organization called a state-wide farm labor conference in Waco last January in which 15 organizations agreed upon certain provisions they wished legislation on the subject to include and other features they opposed.

Poage said it appeared clear that a 75 cents per hour minimum wage would not be placed in the contract.

The veteran representative of the 11th Texas district expressed his views on the U. S. Mexico agreement now in effect and provisions he considers desirable in a new agreement in a statement to The San Angelo Standard-Times. He commented as follows:

"I fear it will never be possible to get either our government or the Mexican government to accept the practical purposes which we all know should be in the present contractmakers' agreement. The American farmer pay the Mexican workers' transportation, guarantee him living quarters, and guarantee him employment prevailing wages for at least three-fourths of the term of the contract regardless of conditions. Thus, the farmer is assured far more favorable conditions than are given to the Mexican migrant workers. A serious defect is that the farmer, must, for all purposes, take any action against the Mexican government."

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

PROPER RECORDS GUARD SPOUSE'S SEPARATE PROPERTY

Texas are generally aware that we have what is known as the "community property" system in this state, but many do not understand the significance and implications of this fact.

Most of the property acquired by a husband and wife, or either of them, during their marriage belongs to them jointly and is referred to as "community property." In fact, the law presumes that ALL property acquired during the marriage is community property unless the contrary is clearly proved.

Not included in this category is property owned by either husband and wife before marriage, and that which is acquired by either of them after marriage by gift or inheritance. Such items are regarded rather as the separate property of the individual spouse.

May the husband and wife divide their community property so that each will thereafter own one-half of it as his or her own separate property? Until the passage of a recent constitutional amendment, such action was not permitted by our laws. Now, EXISTING community property may be so divided under certain circumstances. However, an agreement by the husband and wife that FUTURE earnings or income will be separate property is invalid.

In contrast, it has always been possible to convert separate property into community property. This is usually done unintentionally when separate property is sold or exchanged, and the parties fail to indicate clearly that the purchase money or the new property is to be the separate property of one of the parties.

"Mexico does not recognize ranch work and dairy work as being agricultural labor, and our Department of Labor does not recognize work in a cotton yard or compress as agricultural work. I think we should try to get more reasonable definitions on both sides."

PROPERTY OF THE HUSBAND OR WIFE

Very often the money received from a sale of separate property is deposited in the joint bank account of the husband and wife, mixing or "co-mingling" such separate funds with the community funds. This ordinarily results in the entire amount becoming community property through the inability of husband or wife to trace the separate funds at a later date.

The distinction between separate and community property is important for many reasons, and married persons owning separate property should normally exercise care to prevent its being co-mingled with the community estate. Lawyers say that separate bank accounts and proper records will help keep matters straight.

Failure to use proper safeguards can result in an alteration of the legal order of descent at the death of a person leaving no will, since community property passes in one way and separate property in another. Or, one of the parties may lose his right to what was once separate property to whomever he chooses.

Other consequences include the possibility that the separate property of one spouse may become subject to the debts of the community or of the other spouse. Or, if a divorce should occur, one of the parties may lose part of his separate estate during division of the couple's various properties.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

EDITORIAL

I will bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my excuse and execute judgment for me; he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.—Micah 7:9.

The estimated 200,000 acres of cotton supposed to be planted this year in Floyd County is apt to be cut somewhat by the unseasonal cool weather of the past few days. Just how much is hard to say but some farmers are planting over and some intend to replant with grain sorghums. Still the county should have considerable more acreage than last year when 140,000 acres were planted to start with and 120,000 acres saved to a stand. It is too early at this writing to tell how much cotton will come up to a stand. Contrary to most years, it is taking between two and three weeks for cotton to come up this year and some hasn't been planted that long. One good shower has fallen and that didn't ruin but a very small percent of the acreage planted. It appears now that this area is going to have a good cotton acreage, with the possibility that some farmers will develop stomach ulcers waiting to see what their particular cotton is going to do.

Another crop that is being planted on a small scale but which will be watched with interest in Floyd County is castor beans. Some 1,000 acres have been contracted for in the county. According to information from the PMA office the government guarantees 10c per pound and furnishes machinery for harvesting. The market price may be more than that. The government uses the oil products from castor beans in jet planes and must import more than half the requirements because it is not available in the United States. That is why farmers are being urged to plant more. It may be as good as a cash crop as cotton without the harvest worries.

Our own congressman George Mahon was the subject of an article in the Washington Post recently. The author, John G. Morris, is highly complimentary of Mr. Mahon and the way he is handling his post as chairman of the House Military Appropriations sub-committee. He tells how Mahon has exploded some of the sensational news stories concerning extravagance in military buying although Mahon realizes that there is undue extravagance in some purchases and he is working hard at the job of trying to make the military people economy conscious. Mahon does not drink and does not serve liquor when friends call at his apartment. He is a hard worker, sometimes getting up at 4:30 to handle his mail. In the words of John Nance Garner, former vice-president, Mr. Mahon is the "best man we've elected in Texas in the past 25 years."

Land owners and other farmers of this area should certainly be interested in the meetings being held over the district by officials of the High Plains Water Conservation District to educate and acquaint them with the water situation in the area and with some of the proposed water regulations. Since we have voted to make our own rules concerning the conservation of water we had better get busy and make some or else we might lose the right to rule. A meeting is being held next week at Lockney and also one at Floydada.

The possibility of getting around the ceiling price on Irish potatoes is being discussed by growers at Hereford, now that potatoes are scarce and the higher price is possible. It was only a year or two ago that potatoes were so plentiful that they were rotting in the sack and the growers were grateful for the government support price. It seems to us that if the potato growers can profit from support price they ought also to abide by the ceiling price. Potatoes are plenty high enough now.

Regardless of what an education costs, it will never be as expensive as the cost of ignorance.

TOO MANY FOLKS FAIL TO KNOW MISSION OF THE NEWSPAPER

By Clyde W. Warwick, Publisher The Canyon News

There are still a few persons in America who fail to understand and appreciate the mission and purpose of the newspaper.

After messing with type and ink for almost 50 years, we wonder sometimes if we really appreciate the job which has been cut out for us, and the manner in which we are carrying forward that job.

In the first place, the news columns of a newspaper are open for public information and for advertising from any or all sources which may be termed legitimate. These columns belong to the public, but here the obligation of the publisher steps in; for he has a clear mandate over the kind of news and kind of advertisements which shall be permitted in his columns. When he is honest in his work, he will allow no dishonest statements to appear in his columns, or any dishonest advertisement. A lot of material passes over the desk of the publisher for every issue. It is his personal responsibility to select the wheat from the chaff. Sometimes he fails to detect the difference.

The editorial page of the newspaper belongs to the publisher. He expresses his personal views on any subject which he wishes to discuss. It makes no difference to the publisher whether the reader agrees or disagrees.

from people least able to afford the loss. Always there are side shows, many of them of varying stages of indecency. Food concessions with exception are poor, and are such as would not be tolerated by health authorities in regularly-established cafes and restaurants. Two of the city's three drug stores last week experienced very heavy calls for various kinds of cough remedies, which are generally sought by dope addicts. The demands eased by Tuesday after all "strangers" had been turned down. One variety store reported heavy calls for bay rum—even though the bay rum he had on sale contains wood alcohol which would tear up all but cast-iron stomachs. It might have been a coincidence that this sort of thing increased from nothing during a week a carnival was in town, but it seems doubtful. The Seminole Sentinel.

WANT A GET RICH?

Would you be interested in receiving a third of $385,000.00? The offer comes from a man who doesn't give his name in a Mexican prison sentenced for bankruptcy, says he has $385,000 salvaged from his $-tom house in the United States. Now all you have to do is get one-third of this amount to go to Mexico and pay expenses incurred in lifting an embargo on the guy's suitcases. In one of the suitcases a bag gage check which will get the trunk out of storage. You must hurry, fish, to get in on this offer. By air mail to a "go-between" in Mexico whose name is furnished just as easy as taking a cab from a baby.

Vet Home Owners Warned Of Gypsters

Veterans who are delinquent in payments on their GI home loans are warned to check carefully any offers by strangers to pay delinquent payments if they, the veterans, will "sign on the dotted line."

This warning was sounded today by the Veterans Administration, which has guaranteed home loans for nearly 3,000,000 World War II veterans.

VA said such veterans should check with the holder of the mortgage or with the loan guaranty division of the nearest VA regional office to determine whether or not the offer is legitimate and sound.

In some parts of the country, a revival of the practice sometimes called "milking" or "equity skimming" has occurred, VA reported.

In one form of this racket, the veteran, who is behind in his GI loan payments, is approached by individuals offering to pay the delinquent installments if the veteran will "sign on the dotted line."

The veteran subsequently learns that he has signed a deed and can get his property back only by signing a land sales contract at a much higher price.

Can Tomatoes For Later Use

College Station. — Soon one of the favorite foods from the home garden, tomatoes, should be in plentiful supply. Tomatoes furnish Vitamin C which helps to make strong teeth, firm gums, and strong blood vessel walls.

Select firm, red ripe tomatoes right off the vine. Jimmie Nell Harris, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says two hours from the garden to the can will insure the most nutritious product.

Now is the time to get the canning equipment ready. Tomatoes, because of the high acid content, should be canned by the water bath method.

Freezing is not recommended for tomatoes. They become mushy and unpalatable.

Miss Harris says anhydrous calcium chloride can be used in canning tomatoes to retain firmness and shape. The exact amount must be used as too much will make the tomatoes tough.

Cull Non-Layers, Save On Feed

College Station. — The ratio between the price of eggs and the cost of feed for the past several weeks has been rough on all poultrymen but especially on the less efficient producers. One sure way to cut feed costs, says W. J. Moore, poultry husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is to remove from the laying flock the non-producers.

Warmer weather usually ushered in the beginning of a slump in egg production and with it a rising market. Low production per hen during the summer season may mean the difference between a profitable year or a loss on the business. Take the non-producers to market, says Moore, just as soon as they are noticed in the flock. Chances are these hens will not come back into production for many months and feeding them is a dead expense.

Hens that show a shrunken, dried-up comb, yellow beak, new feathers, yellow shanks and yellow vents should be culled and sold. Hens that lack vigor and spend their time loafing should also be removed from the flock. A good producer must eat good feed and drink lots of clean, cool water and they can't do this unless they rustle. Of course, adds Moore, the poultryman must do his part by supplying the feed and water.

The poultryman who does a good job of culling continuously will be well paid for his trouble. Poultry farm management can not be most efficient unless the non-producers are sent to market and this means continuous culling, says Moore.

Clean Up To Get Rid Of Flies

College Station. — Sanitation is the number one item in a successful fly control program. Insecticidal treatment is of little or no value unless a thorough job of cleaning up all fly breeding places is done, says A. C. Gunter, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

It is a known fact, emphasizes the specialist, that flies carry germs of many diseases and with the increasing amount of pollution in the state, it is more important than ever to get rid of the flies early.

Gunter says if DDT is not giving good results, try a 2 per cent chlordane household spray. It should get the flies as well as other insect pests that are bothersome in and around the house.

Premises should be kept clean at all times. Keep garbage in covered containers and be sure the lids are in place. Clean up and destroy breeding places around the farmstead and don't expect insecticides to do the entire job. They'll help, says Gunter, but there is nothing that can be substituted for cleanliness. Mix liberal amounts of sanitation with smaller amounts of insecticides and use them to keep flies under control.

One treatment is not enough. If complete control is to be maintained, regular checks must be made to see that breeding places are not reestablished and insecticides used to get those that go visiting without an invitation. Remember, says the specialist, about the only safe fly to have around the place is a dead one and the use of insecticides and strict sanitation practices in and around the home will keep fly numbers at a minimum.

Headache Warns Of Body Danger

A headache is often the first signal that some part of the body is not functioning at par. It may be considered a stop sign, a warning that either excesses or deficiencies are working a hard-ship somewhere in the body.

Since "par" in the body is the balance between constructive and destructive forces, the constant blossoming and fading of all parts of the body, any change in the balance is most likely to be referred to the head in the form of an ache.

The head is the message sender and message receiver of the body. Certainly pains may originate in the head, but they also may originate somewhere else in the body and not be "registered" until they get back to the "switchboard" in the head. The nerves are the "wires" that carry the brain's messages; some nerves have small "switchboards" located in different regions of the body, and when a deviation from normal arises in that region, it is registered on the "switchboard" there, not sent back to the brain. Other parts of the body have only the central switchboard in the brain to handle their "calls," and the message goes out as a headache.

Pains in the head arising from causes near the surface of the skin are usually sharp and burning, pretty well localized over the area that is affected. Pains in the head arising from causes deep under the skin are usually dull and aching and may be quite widespread, not localized in one area.

Since different people have different sensitivities to pain, a minor ailment may cause terrific anguish in one person, whereas another less sensitive person may feel only a slight headache when he should be feeling great pain.

So the degree of pain with a headache is not as important in itself as the change of pain reaction. The person who never flinches when he cuts his finger or gets socked in the eye would attach more importance to a severe headache than the person who hurts all over with every minor affliction.

One phase of a headache which often helps in locating the source of the pain is the time of onset of the headache. The headache that breaks into sleep, awakening you with its pain, is often caused by some organ of the body; the headache that keeps you from going to sleep also may be of organic origin. Cold weather headaches may be from some sort of congestion within the channels of the body, when they draw up tighter as a reaction to the cold.

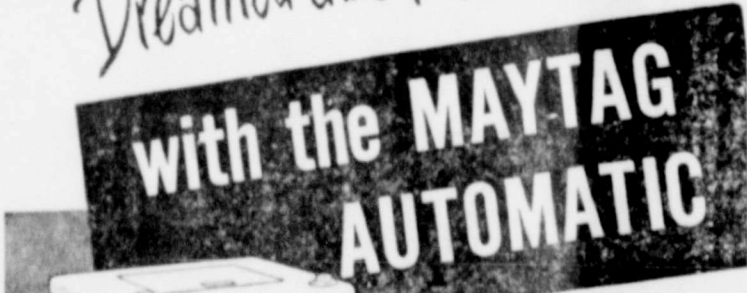

A headache arising in the morning often is traced to high blood pressure, getting better as the day goes by. Those morning headaches are often the result of the "night before," too, from such causes as overindulgence in liquors, the well-known hang-over.

Sinus headaches may often be timed by the clock. They have a way of recurring at the same time every day, lasting for the same length of time.

Mental or demotional headaches often occur towards the end of the day, a result of fatigue and stress. Though they may interfere with going to sleep, it is more often the problem behind the ache that actually creates sleeplessness, and the ache is cleared with the relaxation of a sound sleep—sleeping often helps the problem, too.

Eyestrain headaches are most often an end-of-the-day headache, too, though to result from the weariness of the eye muscles that have been focusing so intently. Since some defect in the focusing of the eyes is also

Economical Home Design Wins First Prize Award From Small Homes Guide

3 Bedrooms, Rear-View Accent

A combination of architectural interest and economical construction has won the home shown here a design award. Rear-view living is emphasized in the plan, with even the garage having a window wall on one side, making it an ideal living and entertaining room in the summer. The rectangular shape of the plan, plus storage walls replacing partitions, plus built-in features, add to the economy and livability of this house. Room-to-room circulation is regulated by the fireplace wall, which also includes utility items. Fine touches are the double closets at the entrance and the small but useful lavatory off the garage. The house, not counting garage, has a floor area of 1,200 sq. ft.

The plan is the creation of Designer Richard B. Pollman. Information on blueprints and their cost can be obtained by writing to Small Homes Guide, 82 W. Washington, Chicago 2, Illinois.
