All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. — 2 Timothy 3:16, 17.

IT IS A PARADOX that increased production of agricultural crops in 1955 will spell trouble ahead for Texas and the nation's farmers in the form of prices mounting surpluses and critical storage problems. John C. White, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, says that there is no relief in sight. Experts say that this year may not only be a bumper crop year but that it may be the biggest production year in history. Storage for grain sorghums will be the big problem in this area. No doubt but that Floyd County will harvest a tremendous amount of this crop. Storage is being built in some sections but it is not likely to be enough to handle the crop.

IT MAKES ONE wonder what is best for the farmer. We also wonder if the so-called experts have any idea as to a solution. The Republicans say that lower support prices will help reduce production for the various price-supported commodities while the Democrats say that a return to 90 percent of parity is essential to the economic well-being of the country. Meanwhile, we continue to produce tremendous crops, pile up surpluses and wonder what to do with it while 90 percent of the people of the world go to bed hungry because they haven't enough to eat. They are plagued with a shortage of vital foods, we are plagued with a surplus. There must be a solution.

"HANDS" is the slogan being used to remind farmers and farm workers of National Farm Safety Week, which is this week. Nearly all the deaths and disabling injuries occurring on the farm are attributed to human failure or carelessness. Those who work on farms can reduce the number of farm accidents greatly by just "being careful."

SENATOR PRICE DANIEL has this to say concerning the Geneva talks: "So long as discussions are going on instead of physical combat, there is always the possibility of an honorable peaceful settlement of the differences between nations. However, in this meeting we must always remember with whom we are dealing. It is yet to be proven that we can depend on agreements of the Russian leaders or the heads of any other Communist country. Even the present apparent change in attitude of Russia toward the United States and the other free countries of the world should not cause our leaders in foreign policy to let their guards down in the slightest degree. Too many times we have seen their solemn agreements violated, and a study of their thinking tells us that to accomplish a purpose they would not hesitate to guarantee almost anything. That is a characteristic of atheistic Communism which demands that we require adequate means to enforce any agreements which may be made."

SENATOR DANIEL also has this to say about Foreign Aid: "Our recent foreign aid bill will amount to borrowing several billion dollars to give to foreign governments, some of which are operating on a balanced budget while we are still piling up a greater national debt. I believe in cooperation with our allies and in military aid when necessary, but I could not vote again for the general foreign economic aid contained in this bill at the expense of our children and grandchildren. With a national debt larger than the combined total of the debts of all the other countries in the world and a budget which remains out of balance and therefore requires further deficit spending and the payment of more interest, there is no reason to continue to give away our hard-earned dollars to other countries. If it must be done, it should be financed on a "pay as you go" basis — and not on borrowed money."

BOTH STATEMENTS sound like good common sense to us.

A DIFFERENT PHILOSOPHY

But then there are other people just as wealthy but with a different philosophy. Take R. G. LeTourneau, for instance. If LeTourneau awoke in the morning to hear that suddenly all his millions had been wiped out, what would it mean to him? Virtually nothing.

Would he feel he had lost prestige and prominence? No. These things, if they ever exist, have never meant anything to him.

Would he miss the luxurious living to which he was accustomed? No. He has never lived extravagantly. Few people would be able to detect from his standard of living that he is a multi-millionaire.

Would he suddenly be left friendless without his millions? No. The friends he has made were not bought with money. His loss of wealth would bring them even closer to him.

Would he be tempted to end it all with a pistol? Certainly not. Consider the wonderful memories he would have of good done with the money while he had it. It would take a lifetime to re-live the joy of spending it as he has done. Believing that his wealth belongs not to him but to God, LeTourneau has always practiced tithing in reverse: he gives the Lord 90 per cent and keeps 10 per cent. So if his wealth was lost it would be easy for him to reconcile himself to the fact that the Lord had taken that which was already His — Thoughts for Thursday in Tullia Herald.

THE YOUTH APPROACH

One of the most sensible ways of solving the juvenile delinquency problem is being tried out in an area city where there have been recent outbreaks of vandalism and other acts of lawlessness by teen-agers.

In this particular city, some of the adults have hit upon the idea of letting the young people themselves take the lead in combating such outbreaks. One of the city's leading churches has been especially active in helping lay the groundwork for the program.

Meetings of the community's youth have been called in connection with the problem, and the young people are reported to be taking a genuine interest in the matter. Chances are, of course, that very few, if any, of the youngsters involved in the outbreaks are attending these meetings, but they certainly know about them. We think such a step as this united youth front against juvenile delinquency is the best approach yet.

It stands to reason that a youngster enjoys the respect of other youths his own age just as he does that of his elders, but in a different way. Whereas the general tendency of wayward youngsters when reprimanded by adults is to be resentful, he'll have a different feeling when he knows that those on his own age level disapprove of his activities.

There is no more of a chance of juvenile delinquency being entirely eliminated than there is of crime being done away with. But it can be sharply reduced and such new approaches as the one being tried out in this neighboring city appear to us to be steps in the right direction. — Post Dispatch

ON EATING CANDY

One citizen, evidently an anti-prohibitionist, comes out in a statement to a leading Texas newspaper that there are more people in the hospital from eating candy than from drinking hard liquor. This writer may be right — we dunno, but it can truthfully be said, and without fear or contradiction, that the person who goes on a candy binge never lands in the penitentiary or an insane asylum, never beats up his family or sets fire to his home, or kills his neighbor. And the candy addict never sees "snakes in his boots" or any other effects of hard liquor. Tipplers fill the county jails or the local hoosegow nearly every weekend. Candy addicts may suffer when they over-eat, but it is not considered harmful in the long run. The candy eater doesn't show up with a case of jitters or nerves. This corner will take the candy eater's side of the question. — Lamar County Echo.

Insect Report

(Note: Following is a report on a cotton insect survey for the South Plains as released by Walton H. Jones, district extension agent, of Lubbock. The report was compiled by G. T. Davis Jr., and W. L. Owens Jr., both connected with the Extension Service.)

Light to heavy rains fell over the area during the week. Besides greatly improving conditions for growth and fruiting of cotton, the heavier rains materially reduced infestations of thrips, aphids and fleahoppers.

Thrips damage decreased in most fields. Although the insects were found in considerable numbers on some untreated fields, there was little loss of small squares from the rapidly fruiting plants. The rather general use of insecticides for fleahoppers control effected good control of thrips.

Aphids occurred in rather heavy infestations in some fields in Hale County. Only light or spotted infestations were reported from other counties.

While fleahopper infestations decreased on some early planted cotton, the insects increased in numbers in many later planted cotton. Heaviest infestations were reported from Crosby, Garza, Hale and Lubbock counties. In a few localities, where cotton was closely checked for fleahopper infestations, 50 to 80 percent of the later planted fields were treated for control of the insects.

Bollworms activity increased somewhat over that of the previous week. While most fields showed low counts of eggs and worms, some cotton had sufficient infestations to warrant control. Heaviest egg and worm counts were reported from Bailey, Cochran, Dawson, Garza, Hale, Farmer, Scurry and Terry counties. A number of fields have had insecticides applied for control of the worms in a number of fields in the counties. Since present weather conditions are favorable for activity of the bollworms, all fields should be checked every four or five days for eggs and small worms. As counts reach the point at which the "GUIDE" recommends control, insecticides should be applied. Kill worms while they are small and prevent excessive form damage.

Cabbage loopers were present in small numbers in most fields. Lygus bugs occurred in low infestations in some fields in Crosby, Floyd, Hale and Lubbock counties. Garden webworms (carelessweed worms) were reported in spotted heavy infestations in a few fields in Deaf Smith and Floyd counties. Grasshoppers continued to move to cotton in some fields in Swisher and Floyd counties.

Information contained in the cotton insect situation release has been compiled from reports received from county agents, vocational agriculture teachers, personnel of the Texas A & M College System, various branches of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Commercial Cotton Inspectors, chemical companies and others.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY.

Western Cottonoil Announces Changes

Ben R. Barbee, General Manager of the Western Cottonoil Co., a division of Anderson, Clayton & Co., announced in Abilene this week several personnel changes in company operations for Lubbock and the Plains Area of Texas to become effective August 1.

O. L. Peterman, present Plains District Manager, with headquarters in Lubbock, will become the company's Senior Adviser and Counselor for the Plains Area. This change will relieve Mr. Peterman of many details of operations and give him time to complete some projects of particular interest to him prior to his retirement sometime next year.

Peterman has been with the company seventeen years. He came to Lubbock in April, 1949 from Brownfield where he was manager of the Brownfield Mill.

Roy S. Mack, Manager of the Lubbock Mill, replaces Peterman as Plains District Manager. He formerly served as Southern District Manager, with headquarters in Abilene, before being transferred to the new Lubbock Mill in 1951. Prior to that time he managed the company oil mill at Slaton, Texas and has completed a total of twenty-eight years with the company.

George W. Bassell Jr., Assistant Manager of the Lubbock Mill, is being promoted to Manager, replacing Mack. Before coming to Lubbock in 1951, Bassell was manager of the Slaton Mill. During his nineteen years of service, he has worked with the parent company, Anderson, Clayton & Co. in South America.

The new Assistant Manager to Bassell will be Rufus W. Grisham, who has managed the Memphis, Texas Oil Mill for the last five years. During his fifteen years of service with Western Cottonoil Co., he has also worked in Abilene, Houston and Elk City, Oklahoma. Grisham is being replaced in Memphis by Maurice Nixon, Manager of the San Angelo Mill since 1950.

Mark Wadzeck, Assistant Manager of the Seed Breeding Farm at Aiken, has been named Manager of the Plainview Mill, replacing the late G. T. Meriwether, who died July 4. Wadzeck formerly served as District Gin Manager at Big Spring and Lamesa and has managed the Munday, Texas Mill for four years. He has completed sixteen years of service with Western Cottonoil.

Library Notes

"Songbirds in your Garden"

by John K. Terres was the book used by Mrs. Ted Rutherford Tuesday morning when she entertained the Hobby Club. She also displayed a cute little red and white bird house, and a bird shelter equipped with feeders, and told about books on birds and how to attract song birds in your garden. A large group of members attended with several coming from Lockney. Next Tuesday Mrs. Nancy Morekel will give the program "Candy Making Can Be Profitable." Do not tell anyone, but it's rumored she is going to let everyone present actually take part in making a variety of candy.

The Junior Book Review Club also had a good crowd present. Mrs. Kinder Farris reviewed the book, "Freedom Train," by Dorothy Sterling. She told the exciting story of Harriet Tubman in such an absorbing way that before the children realized it the hour had slipped by. Mrs. Farris provided some handwork to fit in with the story. Next Tuesday Mrs. J. R. Holmes will review "Parasols is for Ladies" by Ritter. This is a book that all of the kiddies will enjoy. The book belongs to the state library and will be returned after the review. We have tried to buy it for our library but it is out of print. All children from first through fourth grades are invited to attend.

Mrs. Gordon Downing told stories to about 30 children Saturday morning at the regular story hour. Mrs. R. E. Fry helped with games and refreshments.

New books in the library this week are "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" by Jim Bishop; "Mary Pickford," an autobiography; "Shape of Sunday," a biography of Lloyd C. Douglas, by his daughters, Virginia D. Dawson and Betty D. Wilson; "The Great Story of Whales," by George Blond; and "Christy Mathewson," baseball's greatest pitcher by Gene Schoor.

Your Handy Helpful Hardware Man suggests: HOW TO MAKE A PORTABLE SEAT

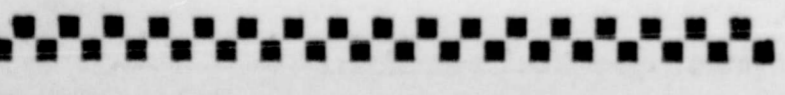

Several sections of discarded garden hose strung on a length of clothesline provide a handy portable seat for fishing trips, picnics and other outings. Cut the hose sections to a handy length and drill two holes through each length as shown in the illustration. Then string clothesline through the holes and knot the ends to form a handle for the seat.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Turner of the Harmony community was the scene Sunday, July 17, for the marriage of Miss Nelda Patterson and Franklin Spruiell. Vows were read at 5 p. m.

Mrs. Spruiell is the daughter of Mrs. Amanda Patterson of Floydada and Mr. Spruiell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Spruiell of Lockney. Mr. and Mrs. Turner are the bride's aunt and uncle.

Rev. Clarence Mosley, Minister of the Nazarene Church, read the double-ring ceremony before an altar flanked by baskets of white gladioli held in white wrought iron stands.

Mrs. C. L. Record of Lockney played pre-nuptial selections and Miss Bobby Norton of Hamlin sang "I Love You Truly" and "Bless This House."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, E. W. Turner, wore a gown of white nylon tulle and organdy. The street-length gown was fashioned in princess lines with a round, low neckline surrounded with rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds joined with lovers knots of satin ribbon on top of her white Bible.

According to tradition, the bride carried something old which was a handkerchief belonging to Mrs. Silas Duncan Jr.; blue were her garters; something borrowed was a white Bible belonging to the maid of honor; and new was her attire. For luck she wore a penny in her shoe.

Miss Dorothy Duncan of Floydada was maid of honor. She wore a blue tulle sheath dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Jimmy Scott of Lockney served the groom as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Turner home. The table was covered with a white lace table cloth centered with three wedding bells and a miniature bride and groom. Silver candelabra containing six white candles flanked each side of the cake. Miss Nell Cunyus served. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Woodrow Baker of Lubbock, sister of the bride.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a brown and white cord suit which had a brown weskit. Her accessories were white and she had a pink corsage of rosebuds. The couple are at home at 325 Beech Street in Plainview.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Lockney, Abernathy, Floydada, Spring La', Lubbock and Hamlin.

Government To Pay For Conservation Practices In 1955

Waco. — Farmers in drought-stricken West Texas counties will be able to take advantage of a federal cost-sharing wind erosion control program again this year, a spokesman for the Texas Farm Bureau said here today.

Gene Leach, TFB legislative director, revealed that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has approved recommended improvements in the program authorizing payments for special cover crop practices.

Recommendations for improving the conservation program were made at a meeting of county Farm Bureau and chamber of commerce leaders from 12 West Texas counties July 2 in Lamesa, The Texas Farm Bureau presented the recommendations to the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee earlier this week.

The federal government will pay from $120 to $200 per acre for special cover crops planted to control wind erosion. For sorghums, the payments are $120 per acre for normal width rows, $190 per acre for rows 16 to 24 inches in width and for drilling and broadcasting. Millet payments are $175 per acre. The government will pay $200 for small grains (rye, oats and barley.)

Triple dwarf grain sorghum and volunteer crops will not qualify for Federal cost-sharing. Grazing, consistent with good management, is permitted, but a crop will not qualify if harvested for any purpose. The crop must be left on the land until the soil is plowed in preparation for seeding a crop in the spring or summer of 1956.

Leach and other Farm Bureau officials met with the State ASC Committee Tuesday to discuss the program. Presenting the West Texans' recommendations were C. H. DeVaney of Coahoma, vice-president of the Texas Farm Bureau; H. L. King of Brownfield, District 2 director; and Fred Raney of Lamesa, Dawson County Farm Bureau president.

Eddie Joe Foster returned Sunday from Boulder, Colorado, where he has been attending the University of Colorado for the past six weeks. Also attending the university was Miss Ann Belt. She will be home Thursday after a short vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Belt Jr. They went to Cheyenne, Wyoming to attend the Frontier Day Rodeo.

"Miss Wool" Will Receive Original Gown By Levine

San Angelo. — A sparkling original gown by David Levine, world-famous New York designer, is one of the first garments to be presented as part of the $4,000 year-round wool wardrobe for Miss Wool of 1956.

The Grecian-draped gown, made of beige wool voile, is being designed by Levine for the Texas girl finally selected as queen of the wool industry. Lockney has two candidates in the contest. They are Miss June Wiley and Miss Jean Crass.

Miss Sarah Belcia of San Antonio, winner of last year's contest, will crown her successor during Wool Fiesta Week in San Angelo, August 31-September 3. There will be ten other finalists and each girl will have a gown designed and made especially for her by Miss Jeanine Thompson of Ozona.

Mrs. Loyd Herring, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of Ballinger, assisting in the contest, said a candidate must be unmarried, between 18 and 25 years old, at least five feet, six inches in height, be able to wear a size 12 dress and be a Texas resident.

"Naturally, Miss Wool should have a good personality, good health and be willing and able to meet people," Mrs. Herring said. Since Miss Wool will travel to many of the nation's leading style centers during the next several months as good will ambassador for the wool industry, the poise and natural bearing she possesses will be a great help to her, the women's club leader said.

HARD WATER

Is hard water the bane of your washday? Do its effects show in gray and dingy linens, and in faded colored clothes? Next washday, start using a good water conditioner, water hot as possible for fabric and colors, an all-purpose detergent, and instantly dissolving bluing. It's a combination hard to beat for brightness. Give those grayed clothes two quick washes instead of one for a few times — using freshly prepared wash water each time. Rinse thoroughly. There'll be brightness in your clothes, and lightness in your heart.
