John C. White Man of Year

AUSTIN--Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has been named 1976 Man of the Year in Service to Texas Agriculture in the February issue of Progressive Farmer magazine.
 Ceremonies are to be slated soon for official presentation of the award, which is presented by the national publication in recognition of service to the needs of farmers and ranchers.
 In 13 terms as the state's agriculture commissioner, White "has built a streamlined, efficient state department of agriculture that is the envy of many other states," according to Progressive Farmer editor Del Deterling.
 Officials from several other state agriculture

departments, including Illinois, Mississippi, and North Carolina, have recently toured the facilities of the Texas department, investigating in particular the success of the TAP (Texas Agricultural Products) Program developed by White in the early 1960's.
 White, a native of Clay County and graduate of Texas Tech University, is considered the "dean" of state agricultural commissioners in terms of length of service and experience.

Voters may get school tax say

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas voters may get a chance to decide whether to discard the local property tax that has been used to finance Texas public education for more than a century.
 Sen. Bill Moore, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, guided his proposed constitutional amendment, which abolishes the local property tax, out of the committee Wednesday by a 7-4 vote.
 But the resolution, which would be subject to a statewide referendum in 1978 if passed by two-thirds of both the Senate and House, is facing heavy opposition from the Texas State Teacher's Association.
 The TSTA claims the proposal, which provides for the state financing of public schools from other taxes at a cost of $1.6 billion, would wipe out some smaller districts and "guarantee mediocrity" in Texas schools.

 "This gives the people of Texas a chance to express

Marshall joins Carter Cabinet

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — From high school drop-out to U.S. Secretary of Labor in the Carter Administration is the history of Dr. Ray Marshall, 48-year-old University of Texas economist.
 Specializing in labor economics and manpower, Dr. Marshall is known to his colleagues as a congenial scholar who appears to work 20 hours a day. Friends confirm he is a committed churchman (Presbyterian), great family man (five children), raconteur, speed-reader with a photographic memory, and raiser of goats on a small farm near Leander.
 Among the 17 books and monographs he has written is the most widely used textbook in the labor economics field.

themselves on the issue," said Moore, who called the local property tax, "the most unfair tax ever devised by man."
 "The tax is a burden on the homeowner and land owners," added Moore. "There are many tax sources other than ad valorem."
 Moore, D-Bryan, said he supports a penny per gallon refinery tax as one possible avenue of funding for his proposed state financing of schools.

The new plan, if approved, wouldn't take effect until September 1979.
 In committee hearings Wednesday, former TSTA official, L.P. Sturgeon said the measure would wipe out about 500 local school districts in Texas that use local funds to hire a majority of their personnel and support some of their programs.

One% Cattle Increase Caused by Poor Prices

AUSTIN—A one per cent annual increase in Texas

cattle and calf numbers can be attributed in large part to the poor prices producers received throughout 1976, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Explaining that the biggest jump in inventory reported Jan. 1, 1977, was for stocker cattle under 500 lbs., White stated, "Ranchers have been holding onto animals, hoping for an upturn in the market."

"Depressed prices have also meant that animals are putting on weight at a slower pace, since producers have cut to a minimum any supplemental feeding of their animals."

Increased inshipments of cattle, particularly from Mexico, must also be considered when explaining the percentage point increase, White added.

"Of course, this one per cent increase to 15,800,000 head as of the first of the year does not offset the dramatic inventory decrease of some six per cent between 1975-76."

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, will present its recommendations for a cotton program to succeed the 1973 Act to the House Committee on Agriculture February 24 and to the corresponding committee of the Senate February 28. The current farm program expires with the 1977 crop.

PCG testimony has been written and copies mailed to the hearing clerks of each committee. PCG President W.B. Criswell of Idalou and Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President, will be in Washington to give oral presentations and answer questions from committee members.

House hearings are not based on specific legislation, since no bill was introduced in the House until February 17. Representative Tom Harkin, Iowa Democrat, introduced a measure on that date calling for elimination of the target price concept that is a part of present law. Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) loans at 95 percent of the cost of production, and a limitation of $100,000 on individual producer loan eligibility.

Two bills have been introduced in the Senate. The first is co-sponsored by Georgia Democrat and Committee Chairman Herman Talmadge and Senator Bob Dole of Kansas, ranking Republican on the committee. The other is by Oklahoma Democratic Senator Henry Bellmon.

The Talmadge-Dole bill would extend the loan and target price concept through the 1982 crop. But the method by which the loan would be determined under this bill is a major departure from present law. Currently, the loan is set at 90 percent of the three-year average price of U.S. cotton in world markets, while the new bill would set loan levels at not less than 75 percent of cost of production. The target price would be set at a level reflecting 100 percent of production costs.

This system would set the 1978 cotton target price at about 51 cents per pound (compared to an expected 48 or 45 cents target in 1977) and the loan would be not less than 38.3 cents per pound (compared to an announced preliminary loan for 1977 of 42.58 cents).

Bellmon's bill would extend present farm legislation for four years, retaining basic provisions of current law, with one major exception. It would allow producers to place commodities under CCC loans for periods up to five years. And the Secretary of Agriculture would be required to pay 50 percent of storage costs for commodities under loan.

In calling Senate committee hearings, Talmadge announced that his bill would be used as a starting point for discussions, but that none of its provisions would be considered sacred.

The PCG legislative policy, adopted January 18 by the producer organization's 52-man Board of Directors, asks for a market-oriented cotton program much like the program in effect since 1973. This would be a program founded on a

CCC loan rate calculated as a percentage of average market prices, a reasonable target price, continued provision for disaster payments, unrestricted planting and unrestricted access to world markets.

The written PCG testimony states that "For cotton, because of the intense competition we face with foreign-grown cotton and substitute fibers, we are fearful that tying the minimum loan and target price directly to production costs would be a step backward toward surplus production, government production controls, government costs at which taxpayers would rebel, and some of the other ills we have experienced in the past."

The statement goes on to say "Since market prices, averaged over a period of years, of necessity must reflect production costs, we think our common objective of adequate price protection can be achieved by basing the loan on average market prices."

PCG members and other interested parties can obtain a copy of PCG's oral testimony and the producer organization's complete legislative policy statement from PCG's Lubbock office.

Mrs. Johnson took her job seriously and had each day mapped out in advance. She was extremely organized and left her imprint on the White House and on America, in general, with her Beautify America program.

Mrs. Nixon was a serene person yet often showed the warmth of her character. She was interested in projects that would aid the less fortunate rather than doing something in the White House.

Mrs. Eisenhower was a very military type person. Having lived in many places in elegant houses she was never at a loss as to the way she wanted things done and how fast! However, she was a lovely and considerate person, as were all the others.

Art, Music, Poetry Highlight

Athena Meeting

On Thursday, February 24, sixteen Athena Jr. Study Club members met for a regular meeting. Because of the nature of the evening program, the meeting place was the Art Studio of Mrs. L. K. Sherman. Members were fascinated and awed as they observed for a full hour an artist at work. Mrs. F. L. Montandon, local artist who specializes in doing portraits, sketched and completed a beautiful, charcoal portrait of her model, Mrs. W. H. Hallmark, an Athena member.

Midway through the sitting, Mrs. Montandon took a break, and the group was entertained by Mrs. Wilbur Mize, who sang "A Picture Paints A Thousand Words," accompanied by herself at the piano. Once the portrait was completed, refreshments were served by Mrs. Sue Zorger and Mrs. Ted Carthel.

Another highlight of the evening was listening to poetry readings given by fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grade students who are the Lockney School's finalists in the upcoming University Inter-Scholastic League contest. This year's district contest will be held in Lockney on March 10.

During the business session, members were presented with the executive committee's suggestions for next year's club officers. Members were reminded to be thinking about officer election, which will take place at the next regular meeting.

Cook For The Heart Of It!

By Betty Baker
Caprock Hospital Dietician

Good nutrition is the result of a proper and adequate combination of the basic foods in your daily menus. These recipes can be prepared and enjoyed by all members of the family. Eating the fat-controlled way means that you continue to eat a variety of foods but that you simply reduce the amount of animal fat and cholesterol in your diet.

Cholesterol is a waxy material used in many of the body's chemical processes. Everyone requires it in correct amounts for good health, but too much cholesterol in the circulation encourages the development of heart and blood vessel diseases.

We get cholesterol in two ways: it is manufactured by the body from all foods; and we get it directly from food of animal origin.

Egg yolks and organ meat (liver, kidney) are very high in cholesterol, and shellfish are moderately high. These foods should be restricted. There are no cholesterol in foods of plant origin such as fruit, vegetables, grains, cereals, and nuts, and these foods are highly recommended.

Janet Miles from the College of Home Economics at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, gave detailed information about a new program called Homemaker Service Aide to the Elderly, and also job opportunity for those interested in Service Aide Training. Much interest was shown.

Miles Boucher, the Church Music Director and Mrs. Frank Bartell, visiting from Green Bay, Wis. each brought special music. Emma Thomas gave two clever skits and closed with a devotional thought on "Four Letter Words."

Voters may get school tax say

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas voters may get a chance to decide whether to discard the local property tax that has been used to finance Texas public education for more than a century.

Sen. Bill Moore, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, guided his proposed constitutional amendment, which abolishes the local property tax, out of the committee Wednesday by a 7-4 vote.

But the resolution, which would be subject to a statewide referendum in 1978 if passed by two-thirds of both the Senate and House, is facing heavy opposition from the Texas State Teacher's Association.

The TSTA claims the proposal, which provides for the state financing of public schools from other taxes at a cost of $1.6 billion, would wipe out some smaller districts and "guarantee mediocrity" in Texas schools.

"This gives the people of Texas a chance to express

Marshall joins Carter Cabinet

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — From high school drop-out to U.S. Secretary of Labor in the Carter Administration is the history of Dr. Ray Marshall, 48-year-old University of Texas economist.

Specializing in labor economics and manpower, Dr. Marshall is known to his colleagues as a congenial scholar who appears to work 20 hours a day. Friends confirm he is a committed churchman (Presbyterian), great family man (five children), raconteur, speed-reader with a photographic memory, and raiser of goats on a small farm near Leander.

Among the 17 books and monographs he has written is the most widely used textbook in the labor economics field.

themselves on the issue," said Moore, who called the local property tax, "the most unfair tax ever devised by man."

"The tax is a burden on the homeowner and land owners," added Moore. "There are many tax sources other than ad valorem."

Moore, D-Bryan, said he supports a penny per gallon refinery tax as one possible avenue of funding for his proposed state financing of schools.

The new plan, if approved, wouldn't take effect until September 1979.

In committee hearings Wednesday, former TSTA official, L.P. Sturgeon said the measure would wipe out about 500 local school districts in Texas that use local funds to hire a majority of their personnel and support some of their programs.

One% Cattle Increase Caused by Poor Prices

AUSTIN—A one per cent annual increase in Texas

cattle and calf numbers can be attributed in large part to the poor prices producers received throughout 1976, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Explaining that the biggest jump in inventory reported Jan. 1, 1977, was for stocker cattle under 500 lbs., White stated, "Ranchers have been holding onto animals, hoping for an upturn in the market."

"Depressed prices have also meant that animals are putting on weight at a slower pace, since producers have cut to a minimum any supplemental feeding of their animals."

Increased shipments of cattle, particularly from Mexico, must also be considered when explaining the percentage point increase, White added.

"Of course, this one per cent increase to 15,800,000 head as of the first of the year does not offset the dramatic inventory decrease of some six per cent between 1975-76."

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, will present its recommendations for a cotton program to succeed the 1973 Act to the House Committee on Agriculture February 24 and to the corresponding committee of the Senate February 28. The current farm program expires with the 1977 crop.

PCG testimony has been written and copies mailed to the hearing clerks of each committee. PCG President W.B. Criswell of Idalou and Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President, will be in Washington to give oral presentations and answer questions from committee members.

House hearings are not based on specific legislation, since no bill was introduced in the House until February 17. Representative Tom Harkin, Iowa Democrat, introduced a measure on that date calling for elimination of the target price concept that is a part of present law, Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) loans at 95 percent of the cost of production, and a limitation of $100,000 on individual producer loan eligibility.

Two bills have been introduced in the Senate. The first is co-sponsored by Georgia Democrat and Committee Chairman Herman Talmadge and Senator Bob Dole of Kansas, ranking Republican on the committee. The other is by Oklahoma Democratic Senator Henry Bellmon.

The Talmadge-Dole bill would extend the loan and target price concept through the 1982 crop. But the method by which the loan would be determined under this bill is a major departure from present law. Currently, the loan is set at 90 percent of the three-year average price of U.S. cotton in world markets, while the new bill would set loan levels at not less than 75 percent of cost of production. The target price would be set at a level reflecting 100 percent of production costs.

This system would set the 1978 cotton target price at about 51 cents per pound (compared to an expected 48 or 49 cents target in 1977) and the loan would be not less than 38.3 cents per pound (compared to an announced preliminary loan for 1977 of 42.58 cents).

Bellmon's bill would extend present farm legislation for four years, retaining basic provisions of current law, with one major exception. It would allow producers to place commodities under CCC loans for periods up to five years. And the Secretary of Agriculture would be required to pay 50 percent of storage costs for commodities under loan.

In calling Senate committee hearings, Talmadge announced that his bill would be used as a starting point for discussions, but that none of its provisions would be considered sacred.

The PCG legislative policy, adopted January 18 by the producer organization's 52-man Board of Directors, asks for a market-oriented cotton program much like the program in effect since 1973. This would be a program founded on a

CCC loan rate calculated as a percentage of average market prices, a reasonable target price, continued provision for disaster payments, unrestricted planting and unrestricted access to world markets.

The written PCG testimony states that "For cotton, because of the intense competition we face with foreign-grown cotton and substitute fibers, we are fearful that tying the minimum loan and target price directly to production costs would be a step backward toward surplus production, government production controls, government costs at which taxpayers would rebel, and some of the other ills we have experienced in the past."

The statement goes on to say "Since market prices, averaged over a period of years, of necessity must reflect production costs, we think our common objective of adequate price protection can be achieved by basing the loan on average market prices."

PCG members and other interested parties can obtain a copy of PCG's oral testimony and the producer organization's complete legislative policy statement from PCG's Lubbock office.

John C. White Man of Year

AUSTIN—Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has been named 1976 Man of the Year in Service to Texas Agriculture in the February issue of Progressive Farmer magazine.

Ceremonies are to be slated soon for official presentation of the award, which is presented by the national publication in recognition of service to the needs of farmers and ranchers.

In 13 terms as the state's agriculture commissioner, White "has built a streamlined, efficient state department of agriculture that is the envy of many other states," according to Progressive Farmer editor Del Deterling.

Officials from several other state agriculture

departments, including Illinois, Mississippi, and North Carolina, have recently toured the facilities of the Texas department, investigating in particular the success of the TAP (Texas Agricultural Products) Program developed by White in the early 1960's.

White, a native of Clay County and graduate of Texas Tech University, is considered the "dean" of state agricultural commissioners in terms of length of service and experience.

Woman Shares Self, Talents With Town

By MARIE HARRIS
A-J Correspondent

PETERSBURG — She isn't a director of the chamber of commerce, a school trustee or chairman of a special civic project — yet a quiet, "little ole lady" named Mable Scott probably has given more of herself to her community than any other resident of Petersburg.

Mrs. Scott's love and thoughtfulness for others is displayed in numerous unselfish ways — but chiefly in sharing her talent for cooking.

She moved to Petersburg from Floydada in 1944 and in 1947 helped start the first lunchroom in the Petersburg schools. As a member of the Parent-Teacher Association which initially sponsored the lunchroom, approved by the school board, Mrs. Scott was one of the leaders in its establishment and was asked to be lunchroom supervisor.

She served in that capacity two years giving the school cafeteria a firm foundation, working long, hard hours for a salary of only $4 a day.

But her rewards are not measured in dollars and cents.

Mrs. Scott previously had worked in the Floydada School lunchroom two years. Born in Royce City in Hunt County, the former Mable Newell moved to Floydada in 1902, was graduated from high school there in 1914 and attended Wayland Baptist College. She and S.D. Scott were married Oct. 30, 1917 in Floydada. A farmer, he died Oct. 24, 1959.

Although a member of First Christian Church in Floydada, which she joined with her husband, Mrs. Scott is very active in the First Baptist Church of Petersburg. She had planned and prepared the monthly meals for the Baptist Brotherhood since it was formed here in 1948.

"I have only missed two of their meetings," she said, "once when I was in the hospital and once when I was out of town attending a funeral."

She has served meals to about 40 men once a month at these night meetings.

The brotherhood pays for the groceries she cooks. She accepts no pay for her service. Mrs. Scott usually has about three women to help her in the kitchen and in serving the meals. Sometimes wives of brotherhood members accompany their husbands because they do not want to stay at home alone and they assist Mrs. Scott.

Now a member of the TEL class, at one time Mrs. Scott taught the junior boys Sunday School class. A loyal worker in the Women's Missionary Union, she presently is social chairman and beginning plans for a spring banquet for Petersburg seniors.

Brides are special to Mrs. Scott who, in the past 15 years, has made more than 50 fancy blue, satin ribbon, lace and pearl parties, for Petersburg girls as "love gifts" when they marry. Also she and Mrs. Rae Groce have served 17 wedding rehearsal dinners in the First Baptist Church.

Her time and work for these dinners also is given freely. Mrs. Scott said she would not charge for any of her cooking because "The people of Petersburg have been awfully good to me."

Mrs. Scott has made thumbprint cookies by the hundreds of dozens for Petersburg bridal showers. Sometimes other women join her in this baking project or if someone drops by she puts them to work.

"We have lots of fun," said Mrs. Scott.

"I enjoy it."

Of all her specialty food preparations, Mrs. Scott thinks she would rather make rolls than anything else. She often makes rolls for the Petersburg Lions Club luncheons — whenever she is asked to do so and she has been called on several times to come "make gravy."

Her cooking is not exclusively for others — she cooks for herself and "eats right." "Like Popeye, I eat my spinach," she exclaimed.

Mrs. Scott is a member of the 1936 Study Club and formerly belonged to a home demonstration club before it was disbanded. Finding time for handwork, Mrs. Scott crochets, does needlepoint and crewel embroidery and makes pillows, pictures and other items upon request.

She has two children, Dillard Scott of Tyler and Mrs. Cecil Sluder of Lubbock and two grandchildren.

SHARING TALENTS — Mrs. Mable Scott spends much of her time sharing her special cooking talent with the citizens of Petersburg. Mrs. Scott helped organize the first lunchroom in the Petersburg schools and continues to provide food for many local activities and clubs.

Mrs. Jerrie Mock was the first woman pilot to fly around the world. The flight lasted 29 days, 11 hours and 59 minutes, beginning and ending in Columbus, Ohio.

To qualify for the U.S. Senate, a person must be a citizen of the U.S. for nine years, at least 30 years old and a resident of the state where he was elected.

The state of Nevada is ranked seventh in size in the U.S. with an area of 110,540 square miles.

During World War I, 124 Medals of Honor were awarded and 431 were given in World War II.

"The Star-Spangled Banner" was named the national anthem on March 3, 1931, by an Act of Congress. Francis Scott Key wrote the song during the bombardment of Fort McHenry in Maryland in 1814.

Weights and Measures Important to Consumers

John Cappelletti, running back from Penn State University won the Heisman Trophy in 1973.

The poll of writers of the Associated Press to determine the national college football champions began in 1936.

The Recording Industry Association of America certified 195 Gold Records Awards in 1974, which was a record high at that time.

The Spanish explorer Garcia de L. Cardenas discovered the Grand Canyon in 1540.

The population of Austin, Texas, grew from 629 in 1850 to 251,808 in 1970, according to the Bureau of the Census.

The first modern Olympic games were held in Athens, Greece, in 1896.

AUSTIN--National Weights and Measures Week may seem an unimportant occasion to most people, but without the attention of inspectors to the scales used in Texas, consumers and merchants could be seriously short-changed.

March 1-7 is celebrated annually to recognize the impact that accurate weights and measures have on the daily lives of all people, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White stated.

The emphasis this year is on the conversion to metric standards that the U.S. is now undertaking. Plans are being made to aid the average consumer in making an easier transition to thinking in metric terms.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is responsible for maintaining standards and checking virtually all the scales and measurements used in commerce in Texas.

Packages and labels of all types must state the weight or measurement of the commodity, and these also come under the scrutiny of Department inspectors, both at the wholesale and retail level, Commissioner White stated.

"Thus nearly everyone, from the child who buys a package of candy to the manufacturer who orders 1500 pounds of peanuts is affected by our work."

"When we get into serious metric conversion in Texas, the Department will certainly play a part in helping people avoid making mistakes with the new weights and measurements standards."

The Methodist Churches Of Floyd County Welcome You!

HABITS
Make them work for you

It is easier to go to church every Sunday than it is to go occasionally.

HERE'S WHY...
When churchgoing is a regular habit, there is no debate. It is settled in advance. When we attend only "when we feel like it," we open the door to all sorts of difficulties. The matter then becomes something to decide each week. It becomes a debate. Every week we must thrash out the recurring problem of "TO GO OR NOT TO GO," that is the question.

Why not settle it once and for all, and GO EVERY SUNDAY.
If you cannot attend, won't you pray for the Services.

I, O. M. County Auditor, Floyd County, Texas

This weekend, call both families for practically the price of one.

It's true! This weekend—and every weekend between 11 p.m. Friday and 5 p.m. Sunday—you can place two Long Distance calls for practically the price of one weekday evening call, when you dial the 1+ way.

For example, a 10-minute call to someone a thousand miles away weekday evenings (5 p.m. to 11 p.m., Sunday-Friday) would cost you $2.44, plus tax. Which, you'll admit, isn't bad.

But for practically the same price, you could make two eight-minute calls over the same distance... any weekend.

It's almost like getting one call free!

So this weekend, enjoy a couple of Long Distance calls. And make three families happy!

Long Distance.
What else is so nice for the price?

Prosecution, Defense Funds Sought For Motley Trials

Motley County citizens are attempting to obtain money for both the prosecution and the defense of two men accused of the November, 1976, slaying of County Sheriff Jamar "Jinks" Wilson.

For the prosecution, area citizens have received over $5,000 to begin a special prosecutors fund, according to one of the fund's instigators, former Motley Sheriff John Stotts. He said Plainview attorney Tom Hamilton had been hired to assist 110th Judicial District Attorney Randy Hollums during the two upcoming trials.

For the defense, the county has requested more than $50,000 in Texas Criminal Justice Division funds to help pay expected costs of the two capital murder trials.

Charged with the Motley County shooting are Stacy Albert Carter, 25, of Olivia, N.C., and Larry C. Fortenberry, 28, of Mount Hermon, La.

The killing of a police officer is an automatic capital murder offense, meaning it could result in the death penalty. If found guilty, both defendants have the automatic right to appeal the decision through the Texas Supreme Court System.

Motley County is liable for the trial expenses because of the "indigent defense" law in Texas. It requires the county in which a crime is committed to provide a defense for persons unable to pay for their own.

While Motley County taxpayers are required by Texas law to provide an adequate defense for the two defendants, they also wanted an adequate prosecution of the two suspects, Stotts said.

"The district attorney here had never tried a capital murder case before," Stotts said. "We asked him who he'd like to assist him and he said 'Tom Hamilton.'"

Hamilton graduated from Matador High School in Motley County and served as district attorney of the 64th Judicial District from 1969-74.

The $5,000 raised by county citizens for the prosecution fund is minimal compared to what county taxpayers will have to pay if the county's request to the Texas Criminal Justice Division for defense funds is turned down.

The request for $51,550 was endorsed Thursday by the Criminal Justice Advisory Committee, a recommending subcommittee of the South Plains Association of Governments.

The committee's decision came after an appearance by Motley County Judge Forrest Campbell, who offered figures concerning the financial status of the county.

"If the county had to pay for the two trials without any assistance," Campbell said, "we'd have to increase our taxes almost 100 per cent."

The $51,550 fund request was based on estimates compiled by SPAG criminal justice planner Dorothy Miller. She said Tuesday the estimate was "as reasonable a guess as we can make at this time."

Campbell expressed concern that costs of the trials might be more. "If there's one mistake in the judicial process," he said, "the costs could elevate to $100,000."

Committee members, discussing this possibility, said if additional funds were needed to finance the trial, Motley County could make another request through SPAG.

The Motley County request is the second of its type put before the Criminal Justice Division. The other case, involving Ignacio Cuevas, resulted in a TCJD fund grant of over $100,000. Cuevas was charged in the deaths of two hostages during the August, 1974, attempt by him and Fred Gomez Carrasco to break out of Huntsville Prison.

The advisory committee's recommendation now goes to SPAG's board of directors for consideration at their March 8 meeting. A recommendation by the criminal justice advisory committee usually assures passage by the main board. The request would then go to the Texas CJD and ultimately to Governor Dolph Briscoe for a final decision.

SPAG planner Miller based her $51,550 estimate on information gathered from court officials and by studying similar jury trials.

The largest single estimated expense item for the two trials is $18,000 for trial transcripts. Miller said this cost might have been eliminated if the charges were not capital murder offenses. If appealed, trial transcripts would have to be submitted for study.

Attorney's fees also comprise a large portion of the expenses. SPAG figures for both counsel's costs amount to about $15,000 for an estimated 15 days in court.

Gains Made In Battle To Outsmart Gophers

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

CHANGING THE natural habitat of wildlife usually creates a problem for the wildlife.

The reverse proved true for Floyd County rancher H.M. Bain who turned 56 acres of caprock range into an alfalfa field to help feed his cattle and found himself host to a heavily populated gopher community.

Droves of gophers tunneled into the irrigated, fertilized field, deserting the rough range on all four sides of the field. Like farmers and ranchers in 65 West Texas counties north and west of Abilene, Bain took his problem to U.S. Fish and Wildlife.

Burrowing Rodent Felled

The other day, he hooked a gopher control mechanism to his tractor and learned how to foil the burrowing rodent seemingly bent on putting him out of the alfalfa business.

Walking beside the tractor to explain the mechanism and the way of the plains pot gopher was Lloyd Cheatham of Amarillo, a rodent control man for the Lubbock district.

Cheatham makes about 200 such educational presentations on rodent control to help the farmer and rancher help himself in the rodent control problem.

First Year Of Instructions

This is the first year for gopher control sessions for Cheatham. Prairie dogs are his major subject, as the prairie dog remains the same pest in rangeland he was when cattle first came to West Texas.

Cheatham, quoted all over the area as the authority on prairie dogs, began compiling prairie dog information when he began with the department after discharge from the U.S. Navy about a decade ago.

About the time he hired out to the department the method of prairie dog control switched from the operational angle of control by the department to department education of the plagued landowner.

The more he worked with and studied the prairie dog, the more questions he found unanswered. Research turned up only past methods used by the rancher to rid himself of the range-destroying pest.

"Around the turn of the century a poison wagon went out and camped in the prairie dog town, working the town sometimes about two months," he discovered.

Adapt To Environment

He also found that the transplanted prairie dog adapted to environment as far away as Nantucket Island and can find no reason why the prairie dog confines itself, naturally, to the same geographic location.

The answer might be in his explanation to the rancher who had lost 10 acres of wheat to prairie dogs "wanting to see."

He spent a year surveying the state to discover for the department if published statements that the prairie dog was endangered were correct.

He found 1,350 colonies covering about 90,000 acres with an estimated population of 2.5 million prairie dogs.

Lubbock County, he said, has about 30 colonies covering about 3,500 acres while Bailey County has 80 colonies covering 6,000 acres and Dallam county has 100 colonies covering 8,500 acres.

Heaviest infestations, he added, are near the New Mexico border.

Controlling prairie dogs is not difficult, he said. Knowing how and following the rules are all it takes.

"You have to put out clean grain, get them to eating it and then switch to poison grain."

The main problem with prairie dogs, he added, is their habit of cutting grass so short cattle can't eat. With a 100-acre prairie dog town a rancher loses 100 acres in graze for his cattle.

In one Panhandle county, a half-section was ruined by a combination of overgrazing, prairie dogs and drought which caused the topsoil to blow away.

Drought is a good natural controller of prairie dogs as reproduction is poor and many starve.

Then, there is the annual die-off which is offset, in good years, by the ability to reproduce.

Thrive During Wet Years

Towns spread when the prairie dog population explodes in a wet year with an abundance of grass. Normal population varies between 25 and 40 prairie dogs to an acre.

Evidence of gophers, he explained, can be seen on all hands particularly in barrow ditches.

Gophers tunnel along underground, ever so often pushing the dirt to the surface and sealing the exit.

A small population can be trapped easily by breaking into the burrow and putting a trap to either side of the opening.

The gopher, rushing to repair the break letting in air, will be caught "usually within 15 minutes."

Heavy infestations take more intensive methods, including the tractor attachment that creates an artificial burrow seeded with poison grain.

When the gopher intersects the burrow, it will investigate, find the grain and eat it.

Artificial burrows, laid in the go: gopher buildup, will continue to control as often as gophers intersect the tunnel.

A good point to this method, Cheatham said, is the underground placing of poison grain which can't endanger surface eaters.

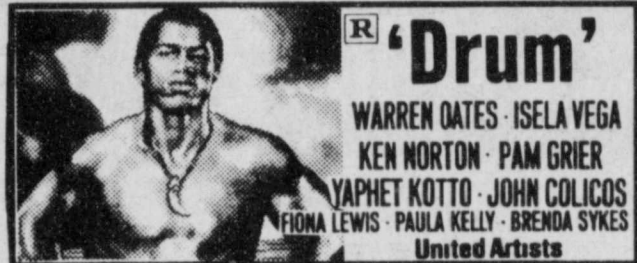

Knowing the habits of the rodent becoming a problem on range, lawn or garden, Cheatham said, is the way to control them.

Explaining the habits and how they can be used for control is a job that keeps him somewhere out in 65 counties at least four of his work days each week.

In his spare time, he works on papers for publication, papers telling what he knows about the prairie dog and its ability to survive and remain the rancher's problem through the decades.

IRRIGATE YOUR WIDE OPEN SPACES WITH OUR 360 THRIFTY-RAIN™ PIVOTAL SPRINKLER SYSTEM.

If you have relatively level land, and you've been putting off buying an electric-drive pivotal system because of price, we've got just what you've been waiting for. The new Gifford-Hill 360 Thrifty-Rain™

Finally, there's an electric-drive system that's within the budget reach of farmers who would ordinarily buy either hydraulic or water-drive systems. The 360 Thrifty-Rain™ is a "long span" version of our classic 360. The basic difference being the distance between towers (164 ft. on the Thrifty-Rain™ 124 ft. on the standard 360).

The 360 Thrifty-Rain™ 164 ft.

The standard 360 124 ft.

By using longer spans, we reduced the number of towers necessary to cover the same acreage. That means less cost to manufacture. And less cost to you!

The 360 Thrifty-Rain™ is also equipped with heavy duty drive systems. Both the original 360 and the 360 Thrifty-Rain™ feature a unique computer-designed sprinkler head spacing and nozzle concept that provides uniform water distribution and reduced pumping costs. Both systems use heavy-walled 6" O.D. pipe for extra strength.

Consequently, the 360 Thrifty-Rain™ is structurally stronger than other "long span" systems on the market today. It operates efficiently even under high wind conditions, and can handle up to 10% grades.

Standard 360 spans are interchangeable with 360 Thrifty-Rain™ spans. That means you can use standard spans to allow flexibility of tower location and accommodate special terrain problems.

So if you've got wide open spaces to irrigate, and you don't want to pay for capabilities you don't need, get a Gifford-Hill 360 Thrifty-Rain™. And save yourself some money to boot.

The Floyd Philosopher

Comes Out For Windmills To Solve

The Nation's Demand For Electricity

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm takes a sidelong glance at a proposed source of new tax revenue this week.

Dear editor:

I don't know of anybody who'd get a warmer welcome in Washington or Austin than somebody who has figured out a new source of tax revenue, not just a modification of an old one but a brand new tax source nobody has ever thought of before. In Washington he'd probably be given a Congressional medal and in Austin the Legislature might declare a state holiday in his honor.

I haven't tried for this honor as I'm like the man who said he was against all new taxes and most of the old one.

But according to an article in the newspapers the other day a doctor in New York thinks he has hit on a new source of taxation. He wants a special tax on people who "smoke, drink or otherwise follow a lifestyle that harms their health." He'd have this money applied against the high cost of medical care which, he says, has been brought on by just such people.

I'm afraid the reporter who interviewed that doctor was a little slipshod. For example, he didn't say what the doctor weighed. Was he overweight? Shouldn't over-eating, about as harmful as anything you can do, be taxed the same as smoking and drinking? How much exercise does he get? Shouldn't a sedentary man be taxed for every mile he doesn't walk or jog?

Also, every once in a while don't you read about some man keeling over from shoveling too much snow? Shouldn't the doctor have said how much snow a man should shovel before he violates a proper lifestyle? There are a lot of snow-bound people in the country needing to know.

In fact, to make this bad-health tax fair for everybody, the doctor ought to get congress to enact a Lifestyle Law which says that if a man follows the prescribed health rules he ought to live to a certain age, say 75, and if he falls short tax him on prima facie evidence of having lived the wrong way. Any doctor who fails to qualify could be taxed double.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

NEWS OF ENERGY

Ingenuous American scientists have come up with a way to save this country more than $6 billion worth of energy over the next decade.

When manufacturers install a new gas metering system on key pieces of production equipment, they will be able to save hundreds and possibly thousands of dollars on their gas bills—and save a lot of energy for the rest of the country to use.

Now, to make energy conservation easier, gas meters equipped with remote reading devices are being manufactured by the Municipal and Utility Division of Rockwell International. The newly developed meters can be tied in to plant computer systems to automatically monitor fuel consumption. When the plant nears its allocated fuel supply, the computer sets off warning alarms and if necessary, automatically switches to other fuels.

Tejano Day At SP College

LEVELLAND - To give Mexican-American high school students a look at college life, Los Tejanos, service organization at South Plains College, will again sponsor Tejano Day on campus March 11.

Campus tours, entertainment by College performers, scholarship competition, guest speakers, a meal and dance will be among the day's highlights, to begin at 1 p.m., said Adam Gonzalez, club sponsor and instructor in foreign language at SPC. All area Mexican-American seniors in high school are invited to attend the festivities, he said.

College scholarships will be awarded to the winners of the queen, oratory and talent contests sponsored annually on Tejano Day by the service organization, Gonzalez said.

Tejano Day registration forms will be made available in the coming weeks to area high school principals within a 100-mile radius of SPC, he added. Interested students should contact their local principals, Spanish clubs or counselors for further information.

Area business people, counselors and civic leaders will serve as contest judges, special guests and speakers for the annual event.

"We want to encourage Mexican-American students to come to college, whether or not they choose SPC," Gonzalez said. "Through Tejano Day, we hope to give them a chance to see what college is all about and to talk with students already on campus."

For more information, contact either Gonzalez, Ray Fresez of Levelland, acting president for Los Tejanos, or any Mexican-American student at SPC.

What One Person Can Do

Neil Silver, "Children's Guide."

If you ask psychoanalyst Neil Silver of Peekskill, New York, what his work is, he will tell you that he "guides kids."

Dr. Silver teaches neglected children how to be friendly with other children. He holds group sessions with three to six children in his basement playroom.

"I remember one 8-year-old boy who spent every recess hiding behind a trash can," he explains. "I want to get the kids involved with each other. I cut up a Fonzie puzzle. They must interact with each other to put the puzzle back together. Then we talk about cooperation. I work with them on making decisions, and then we evaluate how they felt."

"Some of our kids really don't know what feelings are," Dr. Silver says, "because they are so shattered emotionally. Many kids have no allies either at home or at school." Many of the children he works with come from homes where parents are fighting or divorcing. He tries to teach them that people can get along with each other by responding to them himself, and by gently guiding them into a relationship with other children.

With the shy and fearful or the aggressive bully, Dr. Silver's emphasis is on the positive. He also gives "social homework," such as "Call Joe up and ask if he wants to play kickball on Saturday."

Loneliness - whether in children or adults - often masks itself with hostility or aloofness. Like Neil Silver, each of us can guide those around us into friendship through positive encouragement and love.
