The Aug. 18 tentative date set earlier by the school board for the first day of school is likely to be changed now that the legislature has decided to require school 175 days instead of 180 days.

Decision on the opening day of school will be made next Thursday when the Lockney school board holds a called meeting.

Watch the July 31 issue of the Beacon for the announcement.

The City of Lockney had the town sprayed early Friday morning for mosquitoes. The aerial spraying was last done about the first of July.

Lockney received no more than a little shower Thursday afternoon, but we heard that nearly an inch fell out at Cedar Hill.

The 68th annual field day at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is scheduled Tuesday, afternoon Sept. 13.

If you are a movie buff and like light entertainment, be sure to see "Star Wars." Producers of this summer's movie hit have paid much attention to detail and their space creatures are delightful. There's plenty of good guys vs. the bad guys conflict with a hint of romance. The space creatures are the real stars of the movie, but three humans, including Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher's daughter Carrie, are interesting too.

The cotton, milo, corn and soybean crops are almost too beautiful to describe this summer. Thoughts of the low prices for their farm products are robbing the farmers of their pleasure in the good crops.

Gary Stennett and three ex-Lockney men will be playing on the Dirty Dozen slow-pitch baseball team from Plainview when the team (winner of Plainview league) plays in a regional tournament in Amarillo Sunday. The ex-Lockneyites are Ray and Jerry Morris and Johnny Hodel.

WORTH WAITING FOR

Saturday, Aug. 13-Old-Fashioned Saturday Night

Sales Tax Up

The office of state comptroller Bob Bullock has sent a sales tax rebate check to the City of Lockney in the amount of $2137.06.

In comparison, the city received $1035.04 last year for the same time period.

For 1977, the city has been paid, $18,352.24, up 10 percent from the same time period in 1976 when the figure was $16,649.86.

Pre-Enrollment

Parents of students who are new in Lockney or of students who were not attending local schools in May should pre-enroll their children before school begins.

The three Lockney school principals will be in their offices from 9-12 and from 1-4 weekdays from now until school begins. Pre-enrollment of new students will greatly ease the confusion of opening day.

Lockneyites Go

To Heifer Show

Two Lockney families participated in the South Central Regional Angus Heifer Show in Shreveport, Louisiana, last week.

Jody Foster's heifers took a third and a seventh place; David Foster's calf placed ninth and his sister Karyn showed the 8th place calf.

Libby Williams showed two second-place winners, and Ty Williams' entries placed second and third.

About 120 youngsters were entered in the junior judging contests. Libby Williams was fifth high individual with her judging score. Ty Williams, Jody and David joined to form a judging team that placed third.

Also going on the Louisiana trip were Jerry and Kay Williams and Matt, Eddie and Ann Foster and Melanie.

Carnival Scheduled

San Jose Catholic Church will sponsor a carnival Tuesday through Sunday evenings on the church grounds in east Lockney.

The Jimmy Hoggard and son Carnival will be featured, and the ladies of the church will be selling tamales and other homemade Mexican food.

Everyone is invited to attend the carnival. The church people also will have game booths set up.

SO FAR, THIS is all that has been done on the two new tennis courts to be built in Lockney. Completion date is to be Sept. 4.

BEEF REFERENDUM

Floyd Cattlemen Join Nation Against

Floyd cattlemen joined the nation in voting down the proposed beef referendum. The county vote was 39 against and 24 for. A total of 102 had registered to vote.

A national referendum on a check-off program to raise a multi-million dollar fund to promote beef failed because of apathy and misinformation, a national task force leader said Thursday.

"Cattlemen pride themselves on being independent, but they don't have a lot of foresight," said George Strathearn, vice chairman of the National Beef Development Task Force.

The checkoff program would have raised an estimated $30 million to $40 million annually by taxing each cattle producer 30 cents for every $100 received when cattle were sold for slaughter.

Strathearn, a Burlingame, Calif.

rancher, said a vote count compiled by his group showed the proposal receiving 55 per cent support, short of the

Cheerleading Camp

Planned Aug. 8-12

Cheerleaders from Lockney High School are sponsoring a cheerleading daycamp at the school Aug. 8-15 from 10 a.m. to noon those five days.

Children of Kindergarten age through eighth grade are eligible to participate in the camp at a cost of $10 each. Pre-registration may be made by sending a $5 deposit with name, age and address to Mrs. Joe Drabek, 1706 West 11th, Plainview 79072.

Weather Modification Vote Coming

BY WENDELL TOOLEY

Petitions are being circulated all over Floyd county to request the Commissioner's Court of Floyd County to call an election at which the qualified voters shall be asked to vote on the proposition of whether or not they approve of the issuance of a weather modification permit that includes authorization for hail suppression in approximately the west half of Floyd county.

About 450 signatures will be needed on the petitions that have been circulated in various places of business in the county.

County clerk Margaret Collier said ten percent of the qualified voters of each precinct must sign the petition. Three precincts in the southeast corner of the county will not be involved in the vote.

Twenty-five Floyd residents signed the original petition submitted to the

Taylor To Play Greenbelt Bowl

Gregg Taylor will be playing Aug. 5 in the 28th Annual Greenbelt Bowl All-Star Football Classic in Childress.

Taylor was chosen to play because of his outstanding performance as a member of Lockney High School's Longhorn team. He will be entering New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell this fall on a football scholarship. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Taylor.

Gregg's nominee for queen of the event is Deneen Johnson. She will go to Childress Aug. 4-5 for a picnic, the queen's contest, and the game. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Johnson of South Plains.

Gregg goes to Childress Sunday, July 31, for a week's preparation for the game.

The Greenbelt Bowl game features recently-graduated athletes who will be attending NAIA colleges. Such individuals as Mike Hargrove (Texas Rangers), Dr. Frank Ryan (Cleveland Browns), Jerry Tubbs (All-American-Oklahoma University) and Bob Harrison (All-American-Oklahoma University) have played in the bowl game and then gone on to notable sports careers.

county clerk Wednesday.

A recent law created by the State Legislature gives each county the right to vote their preference on allowing cloud seeding planes to fly over their area. Opponents of weather modification contend the cloud seeding breaks up the clouds and prevents rain fall in the Floyd county area.

It is anticipated that the election will be called sometime in August.

Other area counties calling elections include: Briscoe, Swisher, and Lamb.

Police Report

The Lockney police department reports the following activity since July 16:

Hit and Run.-A driver was arrested several minutes after a hit and run incident on SW 1st Street on Wednesday night. Considerable damage by done to a car owned by Emilio Rubio and one owned by Ignacio Rubio. After facing charges in the county court, the driver was fined and placed on six months probation.

Worthless Checks.-An adult is being held at Floydada on $850 bond set by justice of the peace Raz Ford on four counts of worthless checks. The person has also been placed under $5000 bond at Pecos for unauthorized use of motor vehicle.

Burglary.-City police have arrested a juvenile for burglary of residence at night, a felony. The juvenile was arrested after being implicated in the burglary of the home of Sarah Thompson of Lockney who was away from home at the time of the incident in June. The property has been recovered. Another juvenile and an adult were arrested earlier in the incident. All three are free on bond in the case which will be tried in the district court.

Drinking violations.-Two persons have been arrested for public intoxication and one juvenile for DWI.

Illegal Aliens.-Four illegal aliens have been turned over to the Border Patrol. One was picked up on request of that agency, and three were discovered to be illegal aliens after being picked up on public intoxication charges.

Summer Daydreams Reveal Youngsters Ideas Of The Future

BY GAYLE JACKSON

It's mid-summer, and the school kids are doing their best to forget that school opening is not far away. Parents are forbidden to mention that horrible word (school) as the kids enjoy themselves.

From a group of youngsters enjoying Lockney's swimming pool recently, several were interviewed to determine just what these modern kids want to do "when they grow up."

Summer must not be the right time for thinking ahead, for some of the children were indecisive about future plans.

It took a lot of thought before Amy Nance, 8-year-old daughter of Joe and Peggy Nance, decided that she might like to be a lawyer. Amy says she has seen lawyers on TV, but after much pondering, she was still unable to say just what lawyers do.

Israel Guerra knew immediately his answer to the question. "NFL star!" he declared. Israel, 13, has already pleased junior high football game audiences with his downfield running, so that dream might come true. If not, "A car racer, maybe" but he really didn't have any alternate plans in mind.

His sister, Terry, 10 shyly said that she would like to grow up to be a nurse. They are the children of Alicia and Avaristo Luna.

Robbie Williams cooperated with the questioner by replying that he would like to be a fireman. Robbie, the 6-year-old son of Robert and Mary Williams, thinks that at 18 he will be old enough to be a fireman.

Andy Murdock is spending his summer as a 10-year-old in the Lockney swimming pool, so it was likely that he would say that he wanted to be a professional swimmer. Not so though—a professional motorcycle racer in his goal! "Me and Billy Bob Sherman are going to live together and be racers." He has seen motorcycle races on television, and believes that Billy Bob can teach him how. Andy also says that Billy Bob, still recovering from a motorcycle mishap, still shares the ambition.

NFL stardom is also in the plans of Terry Mathis, 10. He will try to become a quarterback. It wasn't as easy for his brother Jerry Louis Mathis, 9, to talk about his dreams, but Jerry Louis knows what he wants to be—an artist. He has thought about it a lot and he has drawn a lot, all kinds of things he says. But guess what he plans to draw when he's grown—football stars in motion.

The boys are sons of Wilma and John Mathis.

Just dreaming, maybe, but kids all over America are going to find that they are free—"free to be you and me," as the songs goes. So good luck, and best wishes to you all!

House Votes To Boost Wheat Price To $2.90

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House overrode President Carter's recommendations Thursday and voted to boost the government's 1977 wheat support target to $2.90 a bushel — a prospective $475 million addition to potential federal support payments on this year's crop.

Shortly afterward, a companion amendment was approved that would increase 1977 target and loan rates on corn to $2 per bushel.

Support for the moves was so strong that they were adopted on a routine voice vote. Opponents made no attempt to force a recorded roll call ballot.

President Carter, who already has made several compromises in his original farm proposals, has threatened to veto the bill if its eventual total costs covering farm programs running through 1981 and a $5.6 billion food stamp program are boosted substantially beyond his recommendations.

An administration source indicated, however, that the 1977 amendments may be accepted if Congress holds the spending line on supports for 1978 and future years and on other sections of the bill.

Passage of the $2.90 support target wheat amendment, replacing a $2.65 per bushel target proposed by the House Agriculture Committee, was assured when committee chairman Thomas Foley, D-Wash., Thursday joined an insurgent group of grain state lawmakers who had been lobbying intensively for the boost.

The target under current law for 1977-crop wheat is $2.47 a bushel.

Foley's committee originally had approved a corn target of $1.85 a bushel and a loan of $1.75.

The chairman stressed, however, he would fight hard against efforts to push crop support targets and loans for 1978 through 1981 beyond the levels approved by his committee and endorsed by Carter.

Holding those levels, including 1978 targets of $3 a bushel for wheat and $2.10 for corn will be "crucial in obtaining administration support for any final bill," Foley warned. Carter earlier had threatened to veto a more costly Senate-passed version providing 1978 targets of $3.10 for wheat and $2.28 for corn.

Foley said passage of the higher wheat targets was necessary because "the needs of wheat farmers are desperate."

With surpluses mounting to the highest level since the early 1960's, wheat prices currently are under $2 a bushel and below production costs for most farmers. Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., one of the leaders of the farm bloc drive which forced House leaders to accept the increase, warned that "thousands of farmers are on the verge of going under."

Under the target price system, farmers are given direct federal income support payments if market prices fall below the targets.

In the case of this year's wheat crop, for example, heavy surpluses are expected to hold market prices to or below the crop support loan rate of $2.25 a bushel. If that happens, growers would be entitled to a payment filling the 65 cent gap between $2.25 and $2.90 on wheat grown on federal planting allotments.

For corn, putting both the crop support loan and the target at $2 would raise prospective market income for farmers but would eliminate any direct support payments on this year's crop.

Experts estimate the total payment on this year's wheat crop at about $1.235 billion. If the target had been held at $2.65, payments would have been about $760 million.

The new wheat target for 1977 is the same as the level approved by the Senate for this year in its bill. The proposed new corn targets are above those adopted by the Senate for 1977.

The House, which still faces action on other sections of the farm measure and on a far-reaching food stamp reform section, Thursday rejected other amendments including a proposal to limit crop support loans to $100,000 per farmer and a plan to eliminate federal indemnities to beekeepers whose bees are killed by pesticides.

FARM REVIEW

Texas Is Tops In Cattle, Production Figures Show

AUSTIN—Texas leads the nation in numbers of cattle and calves, beef cows that have calved and cattle on feed, according to figures recently released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

But while cattle producers in Texas continue to do their part to help make the state number one, "we are now searching for solutions to help them find adequate profits to go along with their well-established heights in productive ability," said Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

Some 15,800,000 head of cattle and calves were reported in the state as of Jan. 1, with 6,482,000 of them beef cows that had calved. Cattle on feed as of the first of the year included 1,710,000 head, most of them in the High Plains region.

Also, with some 318,000 head on hand, Texas ranked ninth in the United States in the number of milk cows that had calved.

In view of the outstanding production figures, Commissioner Brown noted that "cattle producers in the state have been proving for years now that they are unequalled in their ability to produce an animal which is envied worldwide, but production is meaningless if not accompanied by fair profits."

Brown also reminds registered cattlemen of the upcoming July vote on the national Beef Research and Information Act, and says the concept is one way in which producers themselves can develop programs to stabilize the cattle industry.

The Board of Directors of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. July 13 adopted a $207,500 budget for the organization's 1977-78 fiscal year.

In other action the Board elected one new member to its Executive Committee and re-elected five others, voted to cease participation in the making and publication of monthly crop estimates during the 1977 growing season, and agreed to sponsor a textile mill tour early this fall.

The Board also resolved to express its "unanimous regret at the announced retirement of Congressman George Mahon at the end of the current term" and to "convey its great appreciation for the innumerable times he has befriended the High Plains cotton industry and made possible its continued growth and prosperity . . ."

The budget covers the cost of such items as agricultural research, advertising and promotion, fiber research and services, market development and legislative activities, all aimed at providing benefits to approximately 20,000 High Plains cotton producers. The 1976-77 budget came to $196,900, but Board members were told that prudent use of funds during the year had saved about $20,000 of that amount.

PCG has one elected member on its Executive Committee from each of six districts. The new member, Jimmie Holder of Lubbock, was elected to represent Lubbock, Crosby and Dickens Counties, District 4. He replaces Gary Ivey of Ralls who was elected PCG Secretary-Treasurer last April.

Re-elected from District 1 (Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Swisher and Briscoe Counties) was W.L. Edelman of Friona. Returned to the committee from District 2 (Bailey, Cochran and Hockley) was Lloyd Miller of Morton. District 3 (Lamb, Hale, Floyd and Motley) will continue to have Paul Bennett of Littlefield on the committee.

District 5 (Yoakum, Terry, Lynn and Garza) will again be served by Truett Jones of Brownfield, and Marion Bowers of Seminole was re-elected to the committee from District 6 (Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Martin, Howard and Midland).

Serving on the Executive Committee with these elected members will be current PCG officers and past presidents.

Since the 1970 crop PCG has had a four-man producer committee which worked with a four-man merchant committee of the Lubbock Cotton Exchange to compile and publish monthly crop projections from July through December each year. But the PCG Board on a split vote decided not to continue in this role for the remainder of the current year. Lubbock Cotton Exchange officials have not yet made known whether that organization alone will continue the estimates.

Details of the planned textile tour have not been worked out, but tentative plans call for a three-day trip to the Greensboro area of North Carolina the latter part of September.

Referendum Failure Termed 'Dark Day'

SPUR (UPI) — Texas's chief proponent of a proposed multimillion-dollar fund to promote the beef industry Thursday blamed failure of the National Beef Referendum on "a few self-serving people."

"This is a dark day for the American cattle industry," said O.J. Barron Jr., chairman of the national Beef Development Taskforce. "We have passed up an opportunity for a research and information program aimed at helping all cattlemen."

The referendum needed two-thirds approval to pass.

A preliminary count indicated more than 100,000 producers, or about 55 percent of those voting, supported the program. It was supported by 61.6 percent of Texas cattlemen.

The proposal, which would have raised up to $40 million annually by taxing each cattle producer 30 cents for every $100 received when cattle are sold for slaughter, was defeated in all key cattle-producing states except Oklahoma, where 75.2 percent favored it.

Barron accused opponents of falsely labelling the program as a step toward government intervention.

"(That) scared many cattlemen into voting against it," he said. "But it would be inaccurate to say that cattlemen don't want this program. A majority of all cattlemen did want it."

Barron said the proposal was defeated because "a few self-serving people chose to shoot it down with unfair and misleading statements."

"In this case, a minority won," he said.

He called upon cattlemen to continue to search for ways to stabilize the industry and increase profits.

Brown Says Wheat Glut Shows Food Policy Needed

AUSTIN—The current oversupply of wheat in the United States is a clear illustration of the need for a long-range national food policy, according to Reagan V. Brown, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture.

"We simply have to stop reacting to crises and start planning ahead to eliminate them," he said this week.

Brown added that the price situation in the wheat market will not be helped by a bumper wheat crop which is headed to storage bins already brimming over from last year's crop.

"With production costs ranging from $3.60 to $4.10 per bushel and farmers being offered $2.06 as of last Friday, the situation can't get much worse," Brown commented.

Carryover wheat from the 1976 crop now totals 1.1 billion bushels in the U.S., the largest surplus since 1963. Texas Dept. of Agriculture officials are predicting this year's state harvest, which is already 98 per cent complete, to total about 110 million bushels, in spite of extensive losses in acreage because of spring storm damage. The state has 63.5 billion bushels in carryover stock, a 63 per cent increase over a year ago.

"Wheat is one of our major export crops and the effects of the current stall in sales are extended beyond the U.S. to those countries looking to our crops for their food supply," Brown commented. He added that any type of long-range planning should be executed "with our own domestic needs in mind and in the interest of a hungry world, with political interests laid aside."

Discussing the acreage curbs being considered for the 1977 winter wheat crop and the 1978 spring crop, Brown said a 10 to 20 per cent reduction in production would "do little to up the price of wheat this year or next."

"These reductions should have been instituted when the problem was in the making three or four years ago," he said, "when such a program could have had a long-term effect."

Still No Jurors Chosen

PLAINVIEW — After four days of examining prospective jurors, attorneys called it another day Thursday, still without a single juror selected to try the capital murder case of Larry C. Fortenberry.

The 28-year-old defendant from Mt. Hermon, La., is accused of the shotgun slaying of Motley County Sheriff J. Almar "Jinks" Wilson last Nov. 12.

Plainview assistant police chief Jerry Austin was one of those disqualified Thursday as the defense exercised its seventh of 15 allowed challenges. The state took its fifth peremptory strike Thursday.

Attorneys now have quizzed 25 persons for possible duty as jurors. Some of those interviewed have been disqualified by the court, however. Selection process is due to begin anew at 9 a.m. today, and a Saturday session has been scheduled. Prior to the questioning, some observers predicted it could take up to two weeks to seat a jury.

Publicity surrounding the slaying of the popular Matador lawman last year and more recent publicity on a guilty plea entered in the case by Fortenberry's accused accomplice, Stacy Albert Carter, 26, are contributing to jury selection problems.

The process also has been hampered by the death penalty aspect — one of two options available in a capital murder trial should a defendant be adjudged guilty — and the fact that 110th Dist. Judge George Miller has ordered all jurors to be sequestered as soon as they are chosen.

Land Heritage Volume Now In Libraries

Last week Carter pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of murder in connection with Wilson's death, and the Olivia, N.C., man is expected to be the state's star witness against Fortenberry.

AUSTIN—Every public library in the state has by now acquired a copy of Vol. III of the Texas Family Land Heritage Program Registry, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said this week, adding that the new volume provides history buffs with "a most unique and informative research material."

The Registry, published by the Texas Dept. of Agriculture, lists farms and ranches in the state which in 1976 qualified for the Family Land Heritage Program. This program honors lands which have been under continuous production by one family for 100 years or more.

Although individual distribution of the book is limited to honorees, Commissioner Brown said that besides placing the Registry with all Texas public libraries, his staff is in the process of mailing copies to each school library in counties in which 1976 honoree lands are located.

Peaches Need Care To Retain Appearance

With their red and yellow colors, fresh peaches add a dash of brightness to many dishes.

But to keep that brilliant color, they need to be treated in a special way, regardless of the way you serve them.

The darkening process that affects peaches comes after they have been cut or the skin broken in some way, says the Texas Dept. of Agriculture home economist. Peaches are not an acid food, so oxidation readily occurs. When this happens the dark color develops.

One way to prevent this is to use them as quickly as possible after the peaches have been sliced. Naturally this is not always possible, so there are ways to keep the peaches bright and colorful.

Adding a mild acid in proper form will give you the desired results. This can be accomplished by sprinkling the peaches lightly with lemon juice, by dipping fresh peach slices in orange juice or by adding ascorbic acid.

When pureeing peaches for use over ice cream or in other dishes, add the ascorbic acid before whirling in the blender. Ascorbic acid powder does not affect the flavor of the peach, and it will help prevent darkening even when used in canning or freezing.

Fire Danger!

AUSTIN—Because of the very dry condition of rangeland in several parts of the state, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown warns summer travelers and campers that carelessness could easily trigger costly and dangerous range fires.

Brown said that vast areas of valuable rangeland could be turned into wasteland "in a matter of minutes" by cigarettes or matches thoughtlessly thrown from vehicles or by unattended campfires.

White Lauded By State Ag Departments

Members of the Southern Association of State Departments of Agriculture (SASDA) honored former Texas Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White during last month's session in Williamsburg, Va.

White, who now serves as Deputy Secretary for the United States Dept. of Agriculture, was lauded by his former associates as "a close personal friend of Southern agriculture and a leader in formulating its activities regionally and nationally."

Also attending the meeting was Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan V. Brown, who took the opportunity to confer with his predecessor on problems with the current U.S. farm bill.

White expressed continuing support for the improvement of agriculture and rural America at the gathering of representatives from 18 southern states.

When it's a problem, why not give the child a spoon to practice with while you feed with another spoon? He or she can best manage a short-handled baby spoon with a large bowl.

When baby begins drinking from a cup, you can reduce spilling if the cup contains only a little milk or fruit juice. Gradually increase the amount as the baby becomes better at managing a cup. A sip or two at a time is enough in the beginning.

Ceramic Shop Owner Shares Hobby With Others

Mrs. Emery Roberson, of 629 W. Jackson Street opened Vivian's Creative Ceramics in the summer of 1973 as a hobby and for others to enjoy. When you consider the fact that she is currently conducting classes and teaching individuals as young as four and as old as 80 years old, you could say that she accomplished what she set out to do.

Mrs. Roberson has been into her hobby since 1960, but opened for business only four years ago. She makes greenware from molded clay and bakes it to at least 2250 degrees. She buys pre-mixed liquid to make her greenware rather than mixing her own. She has conducted many classes on instruction, young and old alike, to others during her 17-year tenure. Ceramics is an ancient art, the art of creating objects from a fired mixture of water and clay.

Today, due to the advancement of ceramic materials and methods, it is a hobby to anyone, highly-skilled and of little skill alike. Mrs. Roberson also offers an impressive list of ceramic pieces for sale in her store, and has recently moved her location to 2nd

NEWS 'N' NOTES (by Sharon Hillis)

Dieters accustomed to saccharin as a sugar substitute may soon be searching for a substitute for the substitute. If saccharin leaves the grocer's shelf, these alternatives will still be available: nutritive artificial sweeteners, or any of the natural sweeteners, or a trend away from "sweet" to a "diff'erent" taste. Nutritive artificial sweeteners include xylitol, sorbitol, fructose, mannitol, lactose and dextrans. But these, unlike saccharin, must be counted as calorie/carbohydrate sources, and they could upset balances in a strict diet. Some foods provide enough natural sugar to sweeten even tart dishes. Fresh pineapple, for example, can sweeten strawberries, and grated coconut is another natural sugar. To veer away from "sweet," try ginger to enhance fruit flavors and salt "wakes up" grapefruit. "Un-sweet" drinks, low in calories and carbohydrates, are tomato juice, tea with lemon only, and unsweetened lemonade.

all about baby The Weather Is The Key To Dressing Your Baby

By Mary Hilton Diaper Service Consumer Information Council
 Back in the Gay Nineties, you could barely see a baby for all his clothes. Boys and girls alike were outfitted in diapers, soakers, undershirts, slippers, dresses, sweaters, booties and hats. Even on the hottest days. Today, in the Soaring Seventies, we know that baby has sufficient body heat for his size by the time he's a month or so old. So dress your baby as warmly or as coolly as yourself. If you're comfortable, he'll be comfortable, too. In the summertime, remember that cotton garments are cooler than those of synthetic fabrics. And cotton is certainly cooler than plastic. As a matter of fact, a plastic raincoat is insufferable in warm weather. It is also good to keep this difference in fabrics in mind when you select the diapers your baby wears during warm weather months.

Rainshowers Invade Caprock

With the presence of rapidly boiling storm clouds, containing much needed rain for Floyd County crops, east Floyd farmers reported Friday that they had received as much as .8 inches of rain on Thursday afternoon. Henry Hinton, of Dougherty, told the Hesperian that he had received that amount of rain, while South Plains Elevator said that a measurement totalling .5 inch had been received there. North of Dougherty, farmers received a tenth of an inch, while Ralph Johnston reported that south of Dougherty, his crops received a .75 of an inch total reading. Pioneer Natural Gas reported however, that in Floydada, only a shower was received, not even totalling enough for a reading. 66 per cent needed for approval. Official results are expected Friday from the Department of Agriculture. "Many of the cattlemen who supported this program failed to take the time to register and vote," Strathearn said. "Others voted no because they were told the government would run the program, which was false, or because they were told it would be difficult for those who did not want to participate to get a refund, which was also not true."

Cattlemen who registered for the election voted during a two week period which ended Friday. Strathearn said the proposal was defeated in all key cattle-producing states except Oklahoma, where 75.2 per cent favored the program.

Top producing states where the proposal failed were Texas, 61.6 per cent; Kansas, 60.3 Nebraska, 63.7; Iowa, 41.2; and Tennessee, 18.8.

"I consider this a defeat, but not a complete loss," said Jim Peterson of the Texas Beef Development Task Force yesterday in light of nationwide failure of the beef referendum.

Peterson and the majority of Texas cattlemen voted in favor of the national beef check-off plan, but their votes fell short of the 66.66 per cent favorable vote needed to carry the issue.

"Some good things did come out of the program," said Peterson, who also is affiliated with Texas Cattle Feeders Association. "We learned what could be done if we work together. We got the Beef Research & Information Act passed by Congress after people said it couldn't be done."

"We learned of a need for better communications among cattlemen and different organizations. And we learned of some new leaders in the cattle industry across the nation," he said.

The question now arises as to whether there will be another national beef referendum, or even state referendums.

"Cattlemen started on the program for this referendum three years ago this month," Peterson said. "Anybody who thinks they are going to run back and start over again is going to be disappointed."

"It will take several years for the cattle industry to regroup, and the USDA says there is probably no chance to get another referendum in the near future. "It's hard to get legislation like this through Congress because Congress is basically consumer-oriented."

"But cattle industry leaders across the country supported this program overwhelmingly. It's too bad that the industry can't unite. That's what we tried to do," Peterson said.

Oklahoma is one of few major beef-producing states which favored the measure. Cattlemen there voted 75 per cent in favor of the program which would have established a national beef market and development plan to promote beef through producer funds.

Walter Woolley of Ada, Okla., chairman of the Oklahoma Beef Development Task Force, said the program was successful in Oklahoma because "we worked real hard at it. We had a good BDT organization set up in the state."

"We had good cooperation with the news media. Newspapers, radio and television all helped us by having the people informed," Woolley said.

But the Oklahoma vote was not enough, said Woolley. "Ranchers are a peculiar breed of people. We all have a tendency to sit on the fence and complain about the cattle business," he said.

"But when you come to them and say something we have something that is going to help, but the money will come out of their pockets, they back off."

Woolley said some states might pass laws for separate referendums, "but we probably won't have another national referendum. I don't think it would get through Congress."

Peterson said it would be at least 1979 before another referendum would be legal in Texas. The State Legislature would have to support the plan and "it won't meet again for another two years."

BANKING IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

For '77 Homebuyers--A Few Timely Tips

By Willis W. Alexander Executive Vice President American Bankers Association
 Spring is bringing good news for house hunters. Builders are starting more new homes than we've seen for some time. And there's plenty of mortgage money available. In addition, interest rates on conventional mortgages continue their slight decline, now averaging 8.98% for new homes; 9% for existing ones. And finally, as in previous years, homes continue to be a good investment — rising in value at a pace comfortably ahead of the rate of inflation. If you decide to take advantage of these facts to do some spring shopping, here's a tip worth considering before you begin: the well-known rule of thumb that you can generally afford a home two and a half times your income may no longer be accurate. With today's taxes, interest and mortgage costs; as well as increased deductions for social security, federal and local income taxes; and increased food and transportation costs, it might add up to a monthly payment that consumes too much of your salary. Your best bet is to check with your local banker for help in calculating the monthly payments for homes whose prices are roughly twice your annual income. Once you know what you can afford, how do you select a home? The most important consideration is location. Here are some things to ask yourself. Schools: Are they convenient? Is there transportation? Do they have a good reputation? Public Facilities: Are parks, playgrounds and swimming pools nearby? Is there a fee to use them? Taxes: What are the current rates for property, school, sewer and other taxes? Are they likely to go up?

- Zoning: Is the surrounding area restricted to residential zoning? Are there plans to develop industry, roads or other facilities?
- Transportation: How long will it take to travel to work or shop? Is public transportation convenient?
- Property values: How much have homes in the area sold for in recent months? Are values going up or down?
- Overall: Is the area attractive? Have neighbors improved their homes? Is there excessive noise or air pollution? A realtor can help you answer these questions. You might also want to contact the local zoning or planning board. But, do take the time. If you ask the important questions before you buy — you won't be sorry later.

LOOKING AT BIRDS—Two visitors at Living Desert State Park in Carlsbad, N. M., take a close look at one of the bird exhibits at the park. The park was created to display plants and animals native to the Southwest and Rocky Mountain regions.

Texans Visit Living Desert State Park

CARLSBAD, N. M. — More Texans visit Living Desert State Park here than do residents of any other state, excluding New Mexico, says park Director Dean Ricer.

"Until this year, Texas was the leading state in attendance, bar none," he said. "And this year we've made some capital improvements that will further enhance our viability as one of the southwest's premiere tourist attractions."

This year the park added a 2,000-foot paved service road on the north side of the park, which allows personnel to take care of plants and animals without bothering visitors.

A new hay storage barn for the hooved animals and four hooved animal shelters have been built.

animals at the park include American buffalo and bison, kudu, deer and elk.

This fall, the park will launch a $230,000 building program with tentative plans calling for mountain lion, bobcat and coyote exhibits, rebuilding of the other exhibit and construction of a beaver display.

The park, which lies on a hilltop overlooking Carlsbad and the Pecos River Valley, is owned by the state of New Mexico and operated under contract by the City of Carlsbad.

It was created several years ago to display, in an attractive Spanish-style setting, the plants and animals native to the desert Southwest and Rocky Mountain regions.

Visitors leave the entry building and take a leisurely stroll through the aviary, where birds of the Southwest are on exhibit.

In the nocturnal exhibit, animals such as skunks, badgers, raccoons, ringtail cats, bats, ants, termites, coatimundi and fox may be seen in their cutaway burrows.

The trail continues around the prairie dog town to the bear den and from there to the reptile exhibit. The snake building is filled with a large variety of rattlesnakes and other reptiles that usually give most visitors a bad case of goosebumps.

After visiting the hooved animal display, visitors wind through areas jammed with over 1,000 varieties of cactus, ranging from the giant saguaro to tiny sand dollars.

The park is open each day from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and is lighted at night.

Worldwide Grain Accumulation Seen

WASHINGTON — Government figures continue to indicate a super world grain crop this year and a significant build-up in food supplies by mid-1978.

The Agriculture Department in a report this week estimated world wheat and feed grain output for 1977-78 at 1.097 billion metric tons, compared with the record last season of 1.105 billion tons.

The report was based on global crop prospects as of July 1, the beginning of the new international harvest year, and does not take into account the blistering weather that has affected much of the U.S. corn crop in recent weeks.

Moreover, the latest world grain estimate leans heavily on July 1 indications that the U.S. corn harvest will set a record this year.

The report put the total U.S. grain crop, including corn and wheat, at 254.1 million tons, up more than 1 per cent from the 251.5 million tons in 1976. Production in other countries, meanwhile, was estimated at 842.9 million tons, a decline of 1.2 per cent from 1976-77.

Even so, the new world estimate of 1,097 million tons represents an increase, from 1,087.2 million forecast from 1977-78, a month ago. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

All of the increase from the June estimate was attributed to a larger grain harvest now underway in the Soviet Union, a record 225 million tons against 215 million previously forecast. The world rice crop computed separately was estimated at 347 million tons, second-largest on record and exceeded only by the 1975 harvest. Last season, the rice crop was 340.4 million tons.

Officials say that the Soviet and U.S. harvest this year may reach "record levels if favorable growing conditions continue in July and August."

Looking at prospects in the Soviet Union, the report said that "low soil moisture reserves across much of the producing regions from the Volga River eastward will necessitate additional rainfall for a satisfactory crop in those regions." Further, too much rain in European areas of Russia may reduce grain quality.

"The outlook for 1977 wheat and coarse (feed) grain crops in the U.S. has improved slightly over recent weeks," the report said.

Department crop experts will issue an updated report on 1977 U.S. harvest prospects on Aug. 11 that will take into account the effects of the heat wave over much of the country.

The report said that if crops develop as they appeared to be on July 1, the global reserves of wheat and feed grains a year from now may be 195.9 million tons, a record stockpile. This July 1 the world grain reserve was 169.4 million tons, the most in seven years. A year ago the reserve was 113.6 million tons, according to the report.

World consumption of wheat and feed grain in 1977-78 was estimated at 1,071 billion tons, up from the 1,057 billion estimate a month ago. Last year grain use was 1,049 billion tons.

One reason for the largest grain consumption estimate is the amount of wheat being imported by China, now estimated at 9.5 million tons for 1977-78, compared with 3.5 million tons last year. A month ago, China's wheat imports were estimated at 7 million tons.

Poor weather, including drought this spring, has been a factor in China's wheat import surge.

that often evaporates before reaching the ground. Because of this evaporation, they say, rainfall is decreased and natural weather patterns are disrupted.

Some area farmers and ranchers have indicated that they have seen the seeding disrupt clouds that, in their opinion, would have produced rain.

Other foes cite theories that the anti-hail seeding does not reduce total rainfall, but produces more widespread, less intense rain. That, they indicate, means that a given area is going to get less rain.

Criteria Set For Schools

Imagine learning a completely new job every five to six years! In today's world of rapidly developing technology there's a good chance that you will. Experts predict that in the working lifetime of an average American, five to nine changes in occupation, will not be unusual. To make a change in occupation successfully, more education and training will almost always be required. For many, correspondence courses are an ideal way to prepare for a change.

Home study offers an opportunity to those who are unable to attend regular classes at a school or college to obtain new skills or gain increased knowledge. If you are thinking about furthering your education through home study, be sure the school you select is accredited by the Accrediting Commission of the National Home Study Council.

Just as schools are examined by accrediting agencies, these agencies are evaluated by the U.S. Office of Education. The Accrediting Commission of the NHSC is the only one which the U.S. O. E. has approved as "a nationally recognized accrediting agency" for home study schools. The Accrediting Commission is also a recognized member of the non-governmental approval organization, the Council on Postsecondary Accreditation (COPA).

What does accreditation mean to home study students? It means that the school has been thoroughly examined and meets the following standards:

-It has a competent faculty.

-It offers educationally sound and up-to-date courses.

-It carefully screens students for admission.

-It provides satisfactory educational service.

-It has demonstrated ample student success and satisfaction.

-It advertises its courses truthfully.

-It is financially able to deliver high quality educational service.

When selecting a home study school look for the seal of accreditation in the schools advertisements and literature. It's your best assurance of educational quality. Or, if you're interested in finding out what courses are available from accredited schools, send a postcard to the National Home Study Council, 1601 18th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20009.

The Eddie Teeters have had as guests for the past week Eddie's niece and nephew, Ross and Amanda Payton from Lubbock.

The Jim Warrens have had several houseguests this week. Visiting them on Monday was Mrs. Warren's mother, Mrs. Neil Park from Plains and Mrs. Warren's three nieces from Lewisville. On Thursday Mr. Warren's mother and sister, Mrs. James Warren and Mrs. Joyce Pierce from Plains visited them. Eddie Broussard, a former Lockney resident, from Sherman is spending the week in the Warren home.

TRANQUILITY

Mrs. Baxter looks as if she doesn't have a care in the world. She is always perfectly groomed. Her house and her garden, with its beautiful flowers, are always just so.

She isn't trying to give a false impression; in fact, she would be horrified at the thought. But the truth is that things have not been all that easy for her. Her husband is a semi-invalid; their only son was killed in a tragic accident. She works in her husband's business three days a week, to help keep things going.

Where does she get her serenity? How has she had the courage to accept so much adversity with so much grace? A friend asked her one day, and she pointed to the tall, white steeple at the end of the street.

Many people have found their answer in the Church. Have you looked there?
