Numerous Factors Bear Close Watching

To Gauge Where Cotton Market Is Going

A clear picture of where the world cotton market is going from its present low level probably won't emerge for several more months, say economists at Cotton Incorporated.

Based on current production and consumption estimates, they say, "it is difficult to build a strong case for substantially higher (cotton) prices until well after harvest of the North Hemisphere crops."

In the meantime, they say, U.S. producers will probably commit much of their 1977-78 crop to the government loan, "a useful device to carry an inventory and space out sales."

The length of time that cotton remains in the loan, say the Cotton Incorporated analysts, will depend heavily on three factors: U.S. final production prospects for 1977-78. -Selling and marketing policies in 1977-78 on the part of foreign cotton exporting countries.

-Perceived 1978-79 planting prospects and business The analysis is contained in the current (September. 1977 (issue of the COTTON SUMMARY, monthly publication of Cotton Incorporated's Economic Research and Development division. Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers.

David W. Cox, vice president for economic research and development, points out that world cotton prices are suffering from the double blow of optimistic world production prospects coupled with slow world textile

While weather, insect and other problems have had an impact in some areas of the Cotton Belt, "as of the end of August, it (still) appears that the U.S. crop will be big and early," Cox reports.

However, he points out, uncertainty will continue until very late in the season because of the tremendous acreage of cotton in the late maturing and late harvesting regions of West Texas. The amount of cotton stored in modules will also be substantial, and gins in Texas, California and Arizona will be operating well into 1978, making it difficult to pinpoint precise production levels until much later than normal.'

For at least another month, Cox says, the U.S. production forecast of 13.5 million bales will be contin-

The outlook for foreign production is much the same story, he adds. Most major foreign producing countries have continued to report favorable conditions since the crop was planted, indicating that a total world crop of 64.6 million bales is still a likely target, and could even be surpassed. Looking at the cotton consumption picture, the Cotton Incorporated economists say that U.S. consumption of 6.8 million bales is forecast for 1977-78, a slight increase over 1976-77 consumption of 6.7 million bales.

On the world scene, they say, the combination of low textile industry profits in foreign countries, high cotton prices in the previous season, and unsettled general economic conditions is expected to restrict cotton consumption to 54.7 million bales, down slightly from the earlier prediction of 55.1 million bales, but 400,000 bales higher than in the 1976-77 cotton year just ended.

This means, Cox points out, that export levels of U.S. cotton above 4 million bales will depend on stock rebuilding in foreign importing countries.

Foreign importing countries will rebuild stocks and increase purchases from the United States if they perceive improved textile business and/or low world cotton planting in 1978-79," he

"In any case, nothing is likely to be certain until early 1978, and the course of market over the next 12 months is highly dependent on 1978-79 crop loan rates and government policies. If loans are high enough to insure relatively strong U.S. plantings in 1978-79, foreign stock rebuilding during the 1977-78 season will be delay-

All in all, says Cox, "with the present unpromising business conditions and the approach of a large world harvest, there is little reason for optimism regarding the cotton market until be yond harvest.

"World planting intentions for 1978-79 will carry added significance for later season selling opportunities for the 1977-78 cotton crop as well as for the 1978-79 crop," adds the Cotton Incorporated economist.

Agriculture Commissioner throughout the state, according to census figures Labor statistics.

In fact, Brown states, the trend is part of a larger movement that has seen an ever-expanding percentage of all women working outside the home. Another factor is the new, more attractive image that agriculture has gained in the past few years, and the decrease of sheer, back-breaking labor needed to produce agricultural products. But probably the largest involvement of women in operation of their agricultural lands is inheritance. Each year more and more land is left to wives and daughters who feel a loyalty in keeping and working the land themselves. Some say that as much as 50 per cent of the land in Texas may be owned either directly or indirectly by women, although there are no clear statistics available. A good

The transaction was completed last Monday by Mrs. Douglas Meador and Mr. Freedman, bringing to a close, publication of the Tribune by the late Douglas Meador for 42 years, and his wife, the past three years.

Mrs. Meador assumed management of the county newspaper upon the death September 27, 1974 of her husband, who started his career in the newspaper business in October, 1932 when he assumed the position as editor of the hand-set Roaring Springs News. In a transaction with the owner, M.S. Thacker, Meador acquired the plant and moved it to the county seat town of Matador in 1933. He formed a partnership the following year with Howard Hamilton, and in 1935, bought Hamilton's interest, to become sole

Mrs. Meador was associated in the business on a part time schedule until 1954 when she resigned a position with the First State Bank and entered the publishing business with her husband as Woman's Page editor.

During the almost half century of ownership by the couple, many young people were introduced to the graphic arts of the printing industry and journalism, several of whom established businesses for themselves while others became known by their by-lines in metropolitan areas of the news media.

With no immediate plans for the future, Mrs. Meador will assist the new owners for the next few weeks, as they become acquainted with their customers and readers

> After three years of keeping the Matador Tribune in publication, I feel that the season has arrived when it is time to turn the leadership to others. I can no over longer cope with the problems of new methods and regulations, alone. I could not have come this far without the able and faithful cooperation of Mary Renfro and Glenda Williams, and the Wednesday night help of Hazel Donovan, Rodney Williams, "Snow" Crenshaw and others.

Nor could the paper have continued during Douglas' illness without the aid of Rita Groves, Pat Seigler, Virginia Hoyle and many others who volunteered their services. Later, Mary Ann Woosley came to our rescue at a crucial time.

Your new publishers, Diana and Ray Freedman are young, capable and enthusiastic. They are publishers of three other newspapers and will, I am sure, give you a better, more modern newspaper, in keeping with the changing times. SOUTH PLAINS SEPT.

Sunshiny weather the past week has helped cotton and maize grow to maturity. Spray planes have been flying over the fields the past two weeks and nearly every farmer has had his cotton sprayed for boll worms. Some of the maize has already started turning red, and combines are being prepared for the harvest which is just around the corner. This morning a cold northeastern wind has blown in, and the temperature is 62! degrees. Tuesday morning, Sept. 5th, it was 58 degrees here, so fall is not far

Mr. and Mrs. Brad Smith of Lubbock arrived back with their household furnishings and a big trailer house last week. The work on the new house has not been completed, so they are staying for the time being with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Johnson. We welcome them to our vicinity, and invite them to attend Baptist Church services, and to be a part of the community. Mrs. Smith is our own Shari Johnson Smith. They have been staying in Lubbock while Brad finished his college classes at Texas Tech. He received his degree in the summer. They are making their home now on the paved highway south of the L. N. Johnson ranch, and right east of the Tillman Powell home.

We are sorry we left out last week one of the South Plains band members in the Floydada Whirlwind Band. Breck Stapleton is a member of the Whirlwind Band, which makes seven from South Plains.

Cooper will receive a $50 premium check from Lockney Chamber of Commerce for producing the first bale, and ginning of the first bale is free, according to gin manager Bill Moats.

It was the first time in several years for the county's first bale to come from the Lockney area.

49 Million Americans

Are Single

COLLEGE STATION-49 million Americans are single, reports Debby Johnson, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Some choose to be single, while others inherit it through death of a spouse, marital dissolution or other circumstances.

Today the single state is much more acceptable, and chances for happy marriage are far greater for those who marry at a later age, says the specialist.

Many singles are happy about many aspects of their lifestyle, Miss Johnson says. For example, they do not have to explain getting home late; they have more privacy; they can keep on with their habits without having to tolerate annoying habits of others.

Singles also can pursue their own interests, have friends of the opposite sex without fear of a mate's jealousy, and set their own schedules without consulting anyone.

And unmarrieds may make their own decisions, keep living quarters clean or messy, eat whenever and whatever they choose, and try new places and experien-sarily all pleasure, says the specialist. For many, it is hard to face the truth that there is no special one who cares. There is loneliness, pity to be endured, and a lot of eating alone.

Living alone is also expensive. Taxes, housing, food, transportation-all come out of one pocket.

There is often no one to complain to, nor to boast to: no one to come home to, nor to say "I'm sick" to.

Singles may treasure their independence, but with this may come the absence of emotional closeness with someone of the opposite sex.

COOKING GAME BIRDS Game bird hunting for tantalizing table tidbits this fall? Here's a cooking review of "how to." WILD DUCK-Serve it rare--unless your crowd demands well done...in which case, cook longer but don't toughen it. (Wild duck is already dark and drier than domestic meat.)

To help retain moisture, roast it with strips of bacon or in a covered roaster or slow cooker--or marinate in vinegar oil before cooking.

Wild duck is great barbecued, too, or rolled in flour and browned by frying, then smothered with gravy and baked.

WILD TURKEY-Males average 14 pounds, females 8. For roasting wild turkey, allow 3/4 to 1 cup stuffing per pound of ready-to-cook meat. Or barbecue it.

WILD GEESE-a real delicacy, with little waste. The meat is rich, dark, and lean. Old birds sport a few pinfeathers, coarse plumage, and extremely large wing spurs. These old ones are tough and not easy to tenderize, even with moist heat. For wild goose, use bread stuffing with onions and tart apples for flavor. Or fill the bird with sliced apples and roast it.

QUAIL-a hunter's favorite, a gourmet treat. Quails weigh only 4 to 6 ounces, so serve at least one bird per person. Quail meat is white but dry; it needs a protective cover of bacon or some other fat, and frequent basting. Quail is delicious roasted (with lemon butter, then add mushrooms at serving time) or fried (for fine flavor.)

DOVE-These birds are dark-meated and the young ones are tender. Two make a serving. Fry like chicken: salt, flour and fry in a heavy pan, in corn oil. Brown, remove, drain. Add one chopped onion, parsley, cloves, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, salt, a pint of water, and 2 cups wine. Bake for one hour at 350 degrees F.

PHIL Silver's recent appearance on "The Tonight Show" was supposed to be highlighted by a film clip from his "The Chicken Chronicles" film- a comedy involving a ptomaine chicken take-out stand operated by Silvers. "SHENANDOAH" is coming to Lubbock Christian College. Four performances of the long-running Broadway hit will be in Moodyauditorium on the campus November 4, 5, 11 and 12. That date is some two months off but announced in time to make plans, if you wish to attend. The story portrays a close family that strives to stay out of the Civil War until they are pushed out of their home. College drama youth will present the play.

ANOTHER function approaching is the second season of plays at the Plainview Civic Theatre; "Dames at Sea" on September 23-24; "Angel Street", Nov. 10-12; Come Blow Your Horn", Feb. 9-11 and "The Rain-

FORMER resident, Mrs. Robert McGuire, who makes her home in England, was visiting briefly in the Hesperian Tuesday with son, Don of Lubbock. Mrs. McGuire had been in the States for some two months visiting friends and relatives. She emplanes for England today where she makes her home with another son, Bob. ****

THE condition of Kyle Compton, 16 year old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Eubanks of the McCoy Community, remains critical. The youngster was one of several injured in a five car pileup on Slide Road in Lubbock Labor Day weekend. Mrs. Eubanks said her grandson underwent brain surgery Sunday after his condition worsened. He remains in the intensive care unit of St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock. Kyle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Compton of Lubbock. The youth also suffered broken legs in the accident, Mrs. Eubanks said.

AS we get older and sometime smarter...and hear young mothers complaining about their work load we think back of our cluttered years and remember a poem of that title:

An empty swing sways gently in the breeze, barren trails grow green again at last, flowers untrammeled stand erect and proud, the cluttered years are now part of the past.

No fingerprints to mar the shining windows, no cookie crumbs scattered on the floor. Broken toys long banished from the hallway, no sagging hinges on a squeaking door.

No shouts of joy or fear or childish laughter; so peaceful, yet all this solitude brings tears. For now know the sweetest times of life are those noisy, frantic, happy cluttered years!

As one grandmother said tho "Where's all that 'sad' peace and quiet? I have grandchildren living in the same town!"

SOME Floydada women making a trip through Texas recently thought Christmas had already arrived in that city. Possibly it has in one sense because they are filming another movie there, entitled "Christmas Sunshine." The entire town is decorated in a Christmas theme for the

Preston Smith Tosses Hat

Former Governor Preston other occupants nearly Smith Wednesday announced that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of the State of Texas.

> Governor Smith's statement follows:

'Six years ago Texas stood at a crossroad. We had laid the groundwork that would lead to an equitable school finance system, a new property tax structure and a statewide energy policy. Personal leadership by the Governor's office, an enlightened legislature and meaningful board appointments, combines with citizen effort gave us a jump on the most important decade in the history of Texas.

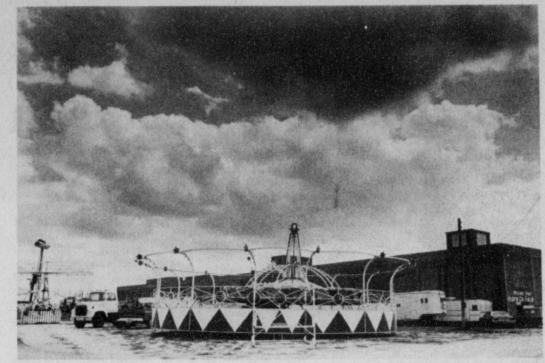

"Today, however, after six unproductive years, three legislative sessions, and countless board appointments we still stand at that same crossroad. The caretaker Governor who has held office for nearly six years has not seen fit to provide or inspire the type of leadership that would move Texas for-

"Every Texan has a wide range of motivations. We can feel fear, doubt, insecurity, and prejudice when there is a leadership vacuum, but we have the capacity for courage, hope, compassion, confidence and understanding when our leadership is dynamic.

"A governor can extract either group of these characteristics from the people by his action or inaction. Our present caretaker Governor has chosen not to lead or inspire us at all but rather to leave us at that six-year-old crossroad with our head in the sand.

"We have no new state taxes, but find me a man or woman in Texas whose local taxes haven't gone up because of inflation. The present state pay-a-you-go budget is running at an all-time high not because of sound management processes but because of windfall returns on Texas oil and inflation on goods and services generated by the state. If the present governor wants to take credit for no new taxes he should also take credit for the financial devastation caused by inflation.

'During these years our caretaker Governor has adopted a "get tough" policy for criminals, so the criminals have gotten tough and the crime rate is as high as it has

Hale Seeks To Avoid Seeding Cancellation

Texas Department of Water in the seven Panhandle coun-Resources terminated the weather modification permits for two South Plains cloud seeding firms last Wednesday, the results of overwhelming opposition to cloud seeding voiced by the counties involved in recent voting, Plainview officials appear hellbent on defying the will of the majority.

The TDWR cancelled the permits of Atmospherics, Inc., of Littlefield and Plains Weather Improvement Association of Plainview.

The "people's" decision came last month when residents living within the seeding area overwhelmingly de-

The election, provided for by legislation passed last spring has given the opportunity to the people of the area to finally settle the long-standing dispute over state regulation of hail suppression. This would be the first time in seven years there will be no hail suppression programs in the High Plains area.

Proponents of cloud seeding contend that cloud seeding decreases hail and increases rainfall. Opponents say weather modification literally "kills" a storm cloud, thus depriving farmers of rain that would have fallen.

An official of Plainviewbased PWIA said that the group may take the DWR to court if they terminate hail suppression activities in Hale County. Hale County Commissioners Court refused to call an election after it was presented with an election petition, contending that 'there's nothing to vote on."

"If they take away the Hale County permits, we will fight them with all ferocity," said Royce Carthel, an officer of PWIA. "If necessary we will fight it all the way to the highest court because hail suppression was never voted down in Hale County."

Bruce Bigelow, acting counsel for the DWR, said that as he interprets the weather modification statute. it would be two years-before operators could apply for another permit in the target areas which voted against the operation.

Speaker Bill Clayton of Springlake issued a statement saying the elections "have given the opportunity to the people of our area to finally settle the longstanding dispute of state regulation of hail sup-

'The people have made their wishes known and the DWR is informing the companies involved of the peoples' decision by letter." Officials from PWIA met Friday in Austin with the new commissioner of the DWR to point out "flaws" in the commission's interpretation of the law which resulted in the cancellation of the permits. Two questions were raised, according to Carthel. The hail suppression proponents questioned the setting of varying election dates instead of one particular date for the vote. Also pointed out was that the permit of PWIA was cancelled before a vote was taken in Hale County.

PWIA officials are attempting to get the WRC to reinstate their 1977 permit for all of Hale County, the southwestern part of Floyd and the southeastern part of Castro counties.

Another meeting is planned soon between PWIA, the full Department Of Water Resources Commission and opponents of weather modification.

Opponents argue that in order for a particular area to participate in cloud seeding effectively, the cloud seeding must be done NOT just over the target area but also over adjacent areas that are opposed to cloud seeding. Opponents also contend that if the rain cloud over a particular area is aborted, it consequently affects the area down stream that might be due for a shower. Since most Swisher rain comes from the southwest, if clouds are seeded over Hale, Lamb and Castro counties and dissipated. Swisher's chances of rainfall are diminished. The battle lines are drawn 9-1 dismissed 9-7. primarily between areas with good underground water and 9-2 dismissed 9-7. dryland areas. The areas with underground water are admitted 9-5 dismissed 9-7. said to be willing to forego rain in order to prevent hail since they can depend upon irrigation. The dryland areas must depend upon rainfall even at the risk of hail.

Good Management Decisions Essential In Agriculture

For a Texas farmer, deciding what and how much to produce is no simple deci-

Nowadays any farmer who wants to make a profit has to take a lot of things into consideration before making any decisions. He must analyze not only the market situation in the U.S., but the market outlook in the world and how it will affect whatever crop or crops he intents to produce.

For example, before a wheat producer plants his crop, he should look at the current and projected prices of grain in the U.S. and the world. What price can he expect at harvest time? How much grain is being consumed in the U.S.? The world? Are world grain stocks high
