

Our Taxes Much Lower Than Taxes In California

By Wendell Tooley
 According to local figures on a $60,000 house with approximately 2,000 square feet of floor space, the city collects about $95 in taxes, the school gets about $300 and the county and state combined total amounts to about $143. These taxes all add up to $538. The owner of a typical $60,000 house on the West Coast has been paying an average of $1,400 a year in state, county, city and school taxes. Lubbock homeowners with homes valued at $60,000 pay about $1,380 per year in property taxes to support their city, school, county, state and hospital. (please note Lubbock's total includes a hospital tax).

Because the California taxes did not include hospital and lake taxes they were not listed in the Lockney resident's total. Floydada taxpayers pay $318 in city taxes on this type home and $250 in school State and county taxes are the same as in Lockney, making a total of $711 taxes. Littlefield people pay a total of $680 in taxes...more than Lockney's $538 but less than Floydada's $711.

Although this feature does not have a lot of towns for comparison it seems that the smaller town you live in, the less taxes you pay.

Disaster Payments

Hailed Out Cotton

There is there for a farmer who has had his cotton crop hailed out? According to a report from the ASCS disaster payments that cover the cost of fertilizer, irrigation and other expenses has been making around a 100 percent and gets 100% hailed will receive disaster money of around $64.00 per acre. He is allowed to replant the land in whatever crop he thinks might be profitable at this point. The $64.00 figure comes from paying 17.3 cents per pound for 375 pounds per acre (75% of average production.) If the farmer's cotton crop is not totally destroyed, appraisers work on a percentage basis of loss.

Thomason's Now A 'Family Affair'

Charles and Mary Thomason have purchased Joe Keeter's interest in Thomason Grocery and Meat Company and joined Arvin and Evelyn Thomason in "family" operation of the Lockney grocery store and meat processing facility, located at 114-118 Northeast Eight Street. Arvin and Evelyn Thomason have operated Thomason's (formerly Keeter's) for about a year. Arvin's brother Charles and Charles's wife, Mary are moving here from Tehachapi, California (near Bakersfield). Their 15-year-old son, Chris Hennagan, will help in the store and attend Lockney High School.

Another son, Ralph Hennagan, will work in Thomason's meat department. Both Charles and Mary are experienced in managing meat markets and small grocery stores. After only a short time in Lockney, Mary says: "The people are the friendliest!" And Charles feels that "It's good to be back 'home.'" Charles and Arvin's parents have lived in Plainview since 1925, and their father, Arvin Sr., who is 74 years old, helps in the meat processing plant. The Thomasons look forward to continuing service to the Lockney community.

Bell Telephone's Jim West Tells How Obscene Calls Traced

We discussed with Jim West, manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company how telephone traces are made. West stated upon request and signed authorization from the customer they can install equipment to reverse call party hold which enables the company to trace the call to the telephone number the call was made from. The party who receives the call leaves the receiver off the hook and notifies the company that they have the person on the line and wishes the call to be traced. Once the call is traced the information is passed on to law enforcement officials for further handling. West was very complimentary of the local law officials for the manner in which they handle telephone abuse cases. Also West pointed out that the law concerning annoyance calls is stated in call guide pages of all directories and is stated on call guide page 4 of the Floydada and Lockney directories.

Jim Huggins

HERALD EDITOR H. M. BERRY talks about spiraling inflation in this week's editorial and to the people of California. He quotes Mr. Baggary:

Proposition 13 in California was not only long overdue but was the No. 1 issue of 1978. It has GOT to bring an end to the policy of granting an end salary boost and "passing it on" to the consumer. No. 1 offender has been himself, local, state and federal. It has been one of the worst

We have no way of knowing at this point, however, just how sincere the Californians are. Proposition 13 was a loaded question. ANYBODY favors a tax cut... but not all look further down the road to reduced services. Most people want both GUNS and BUTTER! If Proposition 13, and its possible spread to the rest of the country, is a starter, the next step should be to deny another federal bail-out to New York City. We favored the first bail-out. With reservations, we sympathized with New York's problem. But like California, New York City has failed to put the brakes on public spending. It has given teachers, cops and firemen all they wanted to the point of bankruptcy. Retirement benefits are ridiculous! The average city employee in New York City—and this includes teachers—receives $26,654 a year. This compares with $11,292 in Amarillo, $12,926 in Dallas, $12,288 in Houston, and $9,841 in San Antonio. The hourly labor cost in New York City is $18.13 an hour with Houston topping the Texas list at $9.29. Municipal employees in New York only work 35 hours a week and 210 days a year.

And New York City has the gall to ask for an added $2 billion from Uncle Sam to bail her out! New York should set a budget for wages, telling each department that it has that much and no more. If it wants higher salaries, then it can reduce the number of workers. Only when total expenditures are made the fixed figure and not the demands of the spenders will we break the inflation spiral!

A REPORTER WAS INTERVIEWING an old codger who was celebrating his 100th birthday. "What are you most proud of?" he asked. "Well," said the man. "I've lived 100 years and haven't an enemy in the world." "What a beautiful thought. How truly inspirational," commented the reporter. "Yep," added the centenarian, "out-lived every last one of them!"

A LITTLE OLD LADY confided to the local banker that she kept her money at home, hidden in a coffee tin. "But," her banker friend objected. "you're losing the interest." "Oh, no," the old lady insisted, "I'm putting away a little extra just for that."

TWO MEN were working on the White House lawn. They walked about picking up papers with a long spear. A wind suddenly blew one bit of paper into the White House through an open window. One of the men rushed inside, but returned shortly. "Did you get it?" asked his companion. "Nope, I was too late. He had already signed it."

A GOLFER WAS positioning his ball at the first tee when, suddenly, a gorgeously gowned bride-to-be came running up to him. The golfer waved her away. "I told you specifically, Cynthia," he admonished. "ONLY if it rains."

THE BIG GAME hunter had bored his audience for an hour, but he was only beginning to warm up to his subject. "Once when I was sitting down resting in the jungle, a tiger came so close to me that I could feel his moist breath on the back of my neck. Do you know what I did?" "Let us guess," came a tired voice from the rear. "You turned up your collar, I betcha."

Peggy Walters

By Felicia Applewhite

"One of the highlights of my youth was what we did on Sunday mornings," says Peggy (Savage) Walters, a native of Texas and the Plains. She and her husband, Dan, are back in Lockney where they come "about twice a year."

When they are not in Lockney, they may be north of Lockney on their farm, or they may be in another state or another country where they have been the last few years. "When I was young, on Sunday mornings, we checked fences," she continues, "and checked cattle over three sections of grass land. What we did was peaceful and enjoyable because Daddy taught me how to identify birds and how to find their nests. He taught me not to bother them, but to observe." "Even now," the 95 pound, 4 ft-9, 3/4 in. tall Peggy brightens up to add, "we have curls now over by our lake. They whistle 'curlw', 'curlw', and stretch their wings straight up in lighting on the ground then carefully fold them."

Peggy Walters had a good teacher in her youth. He was her father Oliver Savage who had grown up on the plains on the land the Walters own now 14 miles north of Lockney. His grandfather had located the Savage family here when he came here in 1889.

Peggy's own grandfather, Dick Savage, filed on four sections of the land—one section each in Briscoe, Floyd, Hale and Swisher Counties joining at a point in the center.

"I was born at home in Briscoe. We had no telephone, so my father went for Dr. Henry in Lockney. There was no paved highway to Lockney then, but I'm sure we must have had a car. I was a good baby. I waited for the doctor to arrive."

By the time Mrs. Walters was three years old, she had her first shetland pony. "That pony managed me quite nicely by throwing me off or by walking under low places to make me dismount. I wasn't allowed a saddle until I was 10 because I was out along on a horse so much Daddy was afraid something would happen to get me entangled in the saddle trappings. "Anyway, I rode with him on a shetland that couldn't keep up with anything. This led to my becoming an expert in riding behind him on his horse," she explains. It wasn't long until Peggy "graduated" to one of Dave Loughborough's Spanish ponies. Dave of legendary fame, also had shetland ponies. One word would describe Peggy's horse from Dave Loughborough, "onery."

'A Certain Thrill About Coming Back To Texas'—Peggy Walters

Her last promotion in horse ownership was with a horse "Omar Poole brought from Colorado. I had him for the next 34 years. He was an ideal pony for me—nothing in particular, but a pretty good cow pony. "I was allowed to help with the cattle until finally, I could diagnose their ailments whether one had pink eye, black leg or had maggots in some exposed area." During this time, small rural schools dotted the county. Peggy was enrolled in one of these schools, her second, by the name of Price, located three miles west of the Savage home. "Nearly everybody came to school SEE WALTERS, PAGE 3

Peggy was home alone making cookies when suddenly it felt as though a dozen men had picked up the house and had begun running with it. An earthquake had struck.

"All the doors came open. Everything not of a sliding motion came open. I remained very calm—checked out water and gas and found no structural damage. It was a matter of minutes, but it seemed hours. Then came the after-shock when I sat down and started shaking and couldn't stop for hours.

"A Japanese man who had lived in the U.S. and spoke English, came by to see how I was. He had left the U.S. to put his son in school in Tokyo and had not been allowed to return to the States."

She remembers a "cute" custom of the Japanese.

"When greeted on the street by someone you know, you bow and they bow. You are supposed to raise your heads at the same time. If you fail, you go down in another bow.

"Really, nothing prepares you for the cultural shock experienced in going to Japan. I had read trying to prepare myself. However, the smells and crowded conditions that greeted me can't be described. The open sewers that run along the streets probably empty into the bay."

Maid service for just any type of work could be had. Peggy "never had a good one."

One American family had a maid that was so good that the children spoke English with a Japanese accent.

The war experience finally ended and "we had a dream of raising cattle on the islands of Southern Alaska."

"We had read somewhere that land could be easily acquired there. We thought it would be a delightful place to live.

"We bought a 35-foot trailer house and GMC pickup in Columbus, Ohio. We were going first to look around, but planned our trip toward Anchorage. We spent 17 days going, not hurrying. We enjoyed every minute of the trip.

"We found trailer hook-ups in the States, but through Canada and on the Alkan, we stopped by a secluded stream and spent the night. We were not afraid. The man who said, 'The farther you get from civilization, the more civilized people are knew what it is like.'"

Everybody stopped to help with a flat or any such trouble.

"The first day on the Alkan, we heard about a certain bridge in Canada that ran across a river where the crossing is made by driving over on a railroad track. I told Dan that was one thing that I would not do," she remembers.

The police were just around the corner from the bridge directing traffic. When they told them to go ahead, Peggy was in the lead car and was in the driver's seat.

"Before I knew it, I found myself on the bridge. I knew I could not drive across, but there was no turning back. I did drive across! It seemed like a mile, but I guess it was about a 1/2 mile. It was a high bridge with no possible way of crossing but to drive with the car wheels on each side of the rails.

"If you can make it up the first mountain, you can make it all the way to Anchorage," men at the gas station said.

The 35-foot trailer weighed so much and with the steepness of the mountain, the front end of the pickup lifted off the ground at intervals. They made it to Anchorage.

"The first time I ever saw the northern lights, I was by myself. It's just such an awesome sight to see them. It just leaves you with a feeling of lack of comprehension of the greatness of it."

"It's not like a sunset. It has more of the color of the rainbow and is more vivid. You just have to see it to believe it. It begins gradually and you think, 'Is that a flash of lightning?'"

"Once in September, we were riding with friends. That night we saw such a terrific display of the lights moving in constant motion."

They returned from Alaska without having found a place to begin their cattle-raising project.

"When coming back from Alaska, I had a great desire to have a special experience in the 'great frozen silence of the north'—so we bravely stopped the pickup 50 miles from the nearest station and took a walk in the snow. There was no wind—it was so quiet. There was absolute silence. When there is no wind, you don't realize how cold you are. Miraculously, the pickup started and we safely drove on toward the next gas station."

"I am grateful that nothing ever really happens to me. God always sends help. Sometimes, I feel that I am really in trouble, providentially God appears to help."

Following Alaska of one year, the Walters have lived two years in California, have lived three different times in Ohio and have lived in New Mexico and Oklahoma. They don't count the times they have come and have moved back to Texas. Now when not in Lockney, they claim Missouri, where for four years Mr. Walters has been instructor in science in a Missouri educational system.

During all this time, Peggy has completed her college education for her degree and has become interested in poetry. One of her late accomplishments is in having a poem published in the RURAL ELECTRIC MISSOURI-AN. The poem is published under the pseudonym Suzy Savage. She titled her verse, "Friends." She would naturally write about an animal:

FRIENDS

There is a blessing in a pup
When he is slowly growing up;
There is a magic in his powers,
Though he may dig among the flowers.

Not all of her composition is quoted here nor published in the MISSOURI-AN.

At present Mrs. Savage is at home on Main Street in Lockney seeing after farming interests and enjoying the "thrill of coming back to Texas."

SCS Office To Move

The Soil Conservation Service office will move to a new location Tuesday June 20 according to an announcement this week by District Conservationist, Jon J. La Baume. The SCS office will move 1/2 block south from their present location in the County Agriculture Building. The location is the southeast entrance of the Arthur B. Duncan Abstract Building 208 So. Wall St. The location was previously occupied by Peggy's Beauty Shop. It is next door to the Texas Employment Commission Office.

La Baume stated that the opportunity to move into a larger, nicer building that was conveniently located and suited the needs of the SCS was found in the building. A rear entrance to the building is convenient for loading and unloading engineering equipment used by the SCS in their every day operations.

Mrs. Duncan Hollums, owner, remodeled the building to fit SCS needs.

Miss Teresa Strickland, Alan Demetri Wed

MRS. ALAN DEMETRI

The wedding vows uniting in marriage Miss Teresa Diane Strickland and Alan Dean Demetri were read Tuesday night in Amarillo in Christ on the Plains Church.

Phil Borden of Amarillo directed the 7 p.m. service. The former Miss Strickland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy W. Strickland of Lockney. Her husband is the son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Allen Ray Demetri of Washington, D. C.

The wedding setting was centered with an arched candelabra holding white tapers. Small candelabra were on each side. Light blue bows were tied with boxwood greenery to accent the candelabra. Unity candles were arranged with greenery and daisies. Candles in yard light lamp posts marked the mothers' pew.

Ushers were Lana Turner of Lockney, cousin of the bride, and Tony Demetri of Washington, D. C. brother of the groom.

Pianist was Suzzette Dziuk of Amarillo. Soloist Steve Davis of Amarillo sang "I Could Never Promise You" as the ceremony began, and then "You're A Gift" as the couple lighted the unity candles.

Honor of attendants were Miss Sharon Demetri, sister of the groom, and LaWayne Strickland, brother of the bride.

The maid of honor wore a light blue voile dress fashioned in southern style with puffed sleeves and ruffles on the long, full skirt. The bodice had a high collar. Her bouquet was of colonial nosegay style of blue and white daisies and baby's breath.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Billy Strickland. Her gown was of caudlelight voile with re-embroidered bridal lace. The Empire waistline was encircled with a band of lace. Tiny pearl buttons trimmed the lace bodice which had a low rounded neckline. The long sleeves of lace were elasticized at the wrists. Wide ruffles accented the hemline of the slim, gored skirt which had a vertical panel of lace. Her veil of re-embroidered bridal lace was circular and elbow-length and had scalloped edges. It was fitted to a headpiece with tiny pearl buttons to match those on the dress bodice. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of blue daisies, white sweet-heart roses and baby's breath.

The reception was held in the fellowship hall of Christ on the Plains Church. Reception attendants were Rhonda Brotherton of Lockney and Kristi Lindsey of Wichita Falls, cousins of the bride, and Marcia McCurry of Amarillo.

In the houseparty were Mrs. Ronald Strickland of Amarillo, the bride's cousin, her aunts Mrs. Johnny Willis and Mrs. Larry Burge, both of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Joe Taylor, Mrs. Floyd Lyles and Mrs. Larry Christian, all of Lockney.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Jerry Smith of Lockney. The reception table was laid with a blue and white cloth. The bridal bouquet centered the table. The three-tiered wedding cake was iced in pale blue and accented with white icing daisies. Atop the cake was a bride and groom figurine standing in front of a cross.

The bride's traveling attire was a white knit dress with blue polka dots. After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 1619 S. Polk in Amarillo where both are employed. She works at Kilgore Children's Hospital and he works at Bilt-Rite Pallet Co., Inc. The bride was graduated from Lockney High School and attended West Texas State University. The groom is a graduate of high school in Omaha, Nebraska.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Willis of Lockney and J. T. Strickland of Floydada.

Don't use utility rooms or storage closets for "junk rooms."

Tortoise Or Hare?

Everyone has heard the old fable about the tortoise and the hare. The tortoise shocked everyone by winning the race. In real life, it doesn't always work this way. Sometimes, the tortoise is just too slow to make it across the finish line before the final whistle blows.

Which are you? Tortoise or hare? If you are the hare, you might have already bought all of the copies of the Floyd County History Book you will need. If you are a tortoise, you'd better quit resting on your laurels, and get with it! That final whistle will be blowing before too long.

There's nothing wrong with being a tortoise. Just don't let yourself be left holding an empty bag just inches from the finish line when you could have that bag filled with copies of history books. Remember that your children need their own copies so they won't be taking yours when they leave home.

To place your book orders, please contact the Floyd County Historical Museum, P. O. Box 304, Floydada, Texas or call 983-2415.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

PREPARE TROUT IN MICROWAVE OR CONVENTIONAL OVEN
Prepare trout or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen, with equal success in either microwave or conventional ovens.

Trout are abundant and saucy for summer. And, when the sauce is a medley of almonds, white wine and ripe olives, seasoned with dill weed and garnished with fresh lemon, "Trout Olive-Amandine" for four is worthy of note.

In addition, fish is noted for its high protein content while boasting of a low in saturated fats. Bake the fish in a conventional oven in about 15 minutes, or, in a microwave oven, the fish takes only about five minutes. Either way, fish and seafoods are fast, easy cooking.

Microwave owners can cook and serve seafoods in the same dish, saving dish-washing chores as well as energy and time. Plus, if any of the "Trout Olive-Amandine" is left for tomorrow, dinners can be assured that there will be no warmed-over flavor—another advantage of the microwave.

TROUT OLIVE-AMANDINE
1 pound trout fillets
1/2 cup sliced almonds
5 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice

2 tablespoons white wine or sherry
1/2 cup pitted ripe olives, quartered lengthwise
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
1/2 teaspoon salt
Lemon slices

MICROWAVE OVEN METHOD: In a two-quart baking dish, combine almonds and margarine. Cook, uncovered, two or three minutes or until butter and almonds are golden brown. Stir in lemon juice, wine, ripe olives, dill and salt. Arrange fillets in margarine mixture, turning under thinner end pieces to insure uniform cooking. Spoon sauce over fillets.

Cook covered with wax paper or plastic wrap, five minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Let stand, covered, two minutes before serving. Garnish with lemon slices. Makes four servings.

CONVENTIONAL OVEN METHOD: Saute almonds in margarine over medium heat until margarine and almonds are golden brown. Combine and assemble according to above directions. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees F. for 12 to 15 minutes, or until flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Follow a few easy tips to protect against sunburn.
A tan has become synonymous with health and youth, but too much sun can cause sunburn, the skin to age more rapidly and also, skin cancer.

For those who are still determined to get a suntan, follow these suggestions to help avoid some of the problems:

- (1) Avoid exposure to the sun for too long during the strongest sunlight hours. Strongest sunlight hours for the Southwest are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.
- (2) Certain drugs, hormones and heavy metals in a person's system may cause the skin to be extra sensitive to ultraviolet rays of the sun. These drugs include certain antibiotics, tranquilizers, sulfa drugs, some birth control pills and some drug prescribed for treating ringworm and high blood pressure.
- (3) A beach day is not a sunbathing day. Use the sun's rays to tan the skin, not to reflect the sun's rays back into your eyes. Wear sunglasses to protect your eyes. Medication lenses provide less distortion than sunglasses which are used to correct vision.
- (4) Sunburn is most likely to occur on the nose and bridge of the nose and the bridge of the nose and the bridge of the nose.
- (5) Protect the vulnerable body areas. Use sunscreen preparation on the nose and bridge of the nose and the bridge of the nose.
- (6) Wear a pair of sunglasses to protect your eyes. Medication lenses provide less distortion than sunglasses which are used to correct vision.
- (7) Drink water when the temperature is high to replace the fluid lost in sweating. The body's mechanism for cooling itself is to sweat. If you don't drink water, you'll get dehydrated.
- (8) Wear a hat to protect the face from the sun's rays.

day afternoon.
Mr. and Mrs. Steve Reeves made a short trip to the west coast last week visiting several places up the coast from Los Angeles. They made the trip to take Steve's mother to San Luis Obispo to visit her daughter. Several from our community attended the funeral of Tate Jones Monday afternoon at First Baptist Church. Our sympathy goes out to the family in their sorrow.

Also visiting in the Rucker home is their son's wife and the children, Mrs. Max Rucker, Shae, Jared and Sean of Lewisville, more recently of Amarillo.

FLOYD DATA

Wilma McNeely, arrived in Lubbock by plane Monday night and is visiting in Floydada some two weeks with her mother, Mrs. W. O. (Clara) McNeely. The two plan to travel by car to Grand Prairie during this time to visit Mrs. McNeely's son, Vernon B. and family.

They will be joined there by Mrs. McNeely's other daughter, Mrs. Zeb Lee of Houston, the former Ethel McNeely. This will be the first time the entire family has been together since the death of Mr. McNeely in 1969.

EXCUSES...EXCUSES.....EXCUSES

BILL ELLIS in The Bovina Blade: Schools over the country have a rule generally, that an absent student must present an explanatory note from a parent or guardian when he comes back to class. This is the rule in Alabama schools.

And in one school in Mobile County, Alabama, an official has been saying these excuses. One of the reporters for the Mobile Press, Freda Roberts, went through the parental notes, chose a sampling which was later distributed by the Associated Press.

Here are some of them, spelling unchanged, some of the reasons kids didn't make it to school:

"My son is sick and under the doctor's care and should not take P.E. Please excuse him."

"Please excuse Ester from P.E. for a few days. She fell out of a tree yesterday and misplaced her hip."

"John have an acre in his side."

"Dear School: Please excuse Jim for being absent on Jan. 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33. And these other excuses:

"Jane could not come to school because she was bothered by very close veins."

"Joe had been absent from school because he had 2 teeth taken out of his face."

"Linda was absent from school because she had a going over."

Or, these:

"Please excuse Jack Friday. He had loose vowels."

"Please excuse Randal from being in his fathers fault."

"Harold was absent yesterday because he was playing football and was hurt in the growing part."

"My daughter was absent yesterday because she was tired. She spent the weekend with the Marines."

"Cindy was absent Dec. 11-15 because she had a fever, sore throat, headache, upset stomach. Her sister was also sick with fever, sore throat, headache. Her brother had a low grade temperature and ached over."

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burleson, M. C.
 17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — AS IF AGRICULTURE DID NOT HAVE ENOUGH PROBLEMS, the Administration last week increased meat imports, to be effective the remainder of this year, by 200 million pounds. This is in addition to over a billion pounds presently permitted.

WE DO NOT PRODUCE IN COMMERCIAL QUANTITIES the type of beef which goes into hamburgers and some other meat products. We do, however, produce enough of this type for this increase to have an effect on livestock prices and probably could supply much more if imports were curtailed. A more important effect is psychological, coming at a time when producers are just recovering from several years of low prices. These increased imports will at least give an excuse for lower cattle prices. After prior years of reduced herds because of heavy losses, producers are just beginning to get decent prices and many are prepared to expand the Nation's beef production.

THE DECISION TO INCREASE IMPORTS will probably have little effect on consumer prices. Consumers may get a little help in the short run if cattlemen see the Government's action as a signal to delay in rebuilding herds.

THERE IS PENDING BEFORE THE CONGRESS and, in fact has passed the Senate, a new beef stabilization plan designed to help level out boom and bust cycles in beef supply and prices by allowing added imports when domestic supplies are light and reducing imports when American production is high. Cattlemen need to be assured of tighter import controls at a time when supplies are big and prices are low but the Administration is now saying in effect that it will leave off the weak without any provision to fill in the valleys. This sort of policy will not give cattlemen the kind of confidence needed to build sup-

THE ADMINISTRATION IS, OF COURSE, BRINGING OUT OF about recent years the rate of inflation, understandable because deflation continues a problem in the country. THE FIND — WTSU Archeologist Assistant Roberta Speer surveys human skeletal remains and horse gear of an Indian burial that was found from the rising waters of Lake Mackenzie recently.

Indian burial site is rescued at Mackenzie

A 100-year-old Indian burial has been rescued from the rising waters of Lake Mackenzie, according to a WTSU archeologist. The body was first noticed by a resident Reuben Hughes, who was fishing from a pier on the lake when he noticed a human skull on the surface.

He reported the find to his neighbor, Jack Friday, who called the police. The body was recovered by a diver and brought to the surface. It was found in a shallow grave, partially submerged in the water. The body was wrapped in a red flannel trade blanket, and there were several pieces of metal, including a stirrup and a metal bit, scattered around it.

...if you haven't been in jail lately, here's what it looks like

The Sheriff of Floyd County and the Commissioners Court have submitted a remodeling plan to the state jail standards office in Austin to correct many of the inadequacies you see in the pictures on this page. The remodeling plans should bring the jailhouse up to state standards. The estimated cost is $250,000 to $275,000 and the money will come from Government Revenue funds.

Everyone who works in a public place like to have good equipment and facilities with which to do their job. These pictures seek to reveal some of the extreme disadvantages and needs of the present jail. The editor of this newspaper feels that if the needs are pointed out, the taxpayers of the county will more likely understand the planned remodeling of the jail.

THE JAILHOUSE WAS BUILT IN 1925

The growing popularity of a new method of spinning cotton in the mills has created a potentially significant market for U.S.-grown cotton that is short in staple length but long on strength, reports John McNutt, Cotton Incorporated vice president for International Marketing.
The system, known as open-end spinning, particularly represents a marketing opportunity for cotton producers in areas such as the Texas High Plains, where shorter-staple cotton is more easily produced than the long staple varieties, says McNutt.
For many years, McNutt points out, American cotton producers have been encouraged to produce cottons for use in ring spinning systems, which demand long

Market Growing For High Strength, Short Staple Cotton

Pressley strength to give a grams per ex of 26.5".
(2) Micronaire—below 3.8 (the cotton should be mature).
(3) Staple length—should be relatively uniform between from one inch to 1-1/32 inches.
McNutt adds one word of caution: "When this cotton is harvested and ginned, it must be kept separate from other cotton varieties."
However, he says, practices followed in some areas of the Cotton Belt have shown that this can be accomplished without great difficulty.
Open-end systems now in use, he adds, represent a market for about 3 million bales of this kind of cotton.
"We're in a position to react to this market opportunity," says the Cotton Incorporated official. "There are several new varieties of high strength, short staple cottons that are adaptable to the High Plains and other areas of West Texas. Interestingly, these varieties appear likely to produce greater yields than the varieties traditionally planted in these areas."

McNutt says cotton producers interested in taking advantage of this opportunity should contact their local county extension service offices to obtain the results from the various varieties that have been grown.
McNutt directs Cotton Incorporated's efforts to increase export sales of U.S. cotton. He keeps close tabs on the cotton needs of the textile industry in Western Europe and other areas outside this country to help the U.S. cotton industry react to new export opportunities as they arise.
Of the open-end systems now in use, he says, about 45 per cent are in Western Europe, 20 per cent in the United States, another 20 per cent in Japan, "and the balance elsewhere in the Far East." Many of these mills, says McNutt, are looking for ready, continuing sources of cotton offering in right combination of properties for open-end spinning.
During 1979, he says, "500,000 bales of this type of cotton could be easily and readily sold by American producers." Eventually, he

Take Your Camera On A Family Outing

An amusement park is a wonderful combination of color and excitement and fun, all of which add up to great picture opportunities. Not only are there all sorts of magical sights to picture, but there are also all sorts of chances to catch your children in happy action on the various rides. An ideal camera for such an outing is a Kodak Tele-Ektra camera. With its choice of normal and telephoto lens at the flick of a switch, it is possible for you to bridge the distance between camera and subject when you can't move closer yourself. When you want a shot of the slightly scared, expectant faces of the kids waiting for the little car they are sitting in to whisk them off on a ride, the advantage of this is apparent. You are stuck on the ground, probably outside a fence. By using the telephoto lens, you can double the size of the faces in the finished picture. The background of such a shot would probably be the sky which is excellent. Be sure to keep a wary eye on the background in your other shots as well to avoid distracting clutter. With all of the interesting buildings, rides, greenery and possibly even boats available, it would be a pity to settle for lesser surroundings. Foreground framing is another good device to vary your pictures. By aiming through a booth, a flowering branch, or even a group of people, you can focus attention on your main subject. The frame can be in or out of focus, as you wish, depending on how close you are to it. Just be sure your main subject is at the correct distance to be in sharp focus. Most important of all, have your perceptive eye polished up and ready to see the picture possibilities as they occur. And have fun.
