There will be a memorial service in Lockney, at a time and place to be announced. Burial will be in Phoenix.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I.N. Tickle Jr. of Lockney; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. I.N. Tickle of Bland, Virginia; two brothers, Martin Tickle and Ralph Tickle of Lockney; and a sister, Shannah, of Lockney.

Not only does he sing in the group, but also shares his testimony and does scriptural, lighted chalk drawings. Noriko (Nakayama) Ono still calls Owen and Kathleen Thornton "Daddy" and "Mother". The Thorntons were Noriko's "parents" when she lived in Lockney as an American Field Service student in 1963-64. They still, 14 years later, introduce her as their daughter. Noriko arrived in Lockney July 25 for a reunion with her American family and friends, the first time she's been to the United States since she returned to Japan in 1964. There was a reunion in Japan in 1969, when the Thorntons went to Noriko's wedding. Her husband, Yoichiro Ono, promised that he would bring her back to the States within 10 years. He made the deadline, with a year to spare.

Noriko's sons, Shinichi, age 6 (he'll be 7 on August 9), and Youta, 3, made the trip with her. Her husband is to arrive at the Amarillo airport on August 14. The boys call the Thorntons "Grandmother" and "Grandfather" (in Japanese they don't speak English). Noriko says they were worried about the "second son" because in Japan he is very shy around people he doesn't know, but he doesn't act shy around the Thorntons. "He held Mother's hands all the way home from the airport," she says.

"My first son says I wish I could have a home as big and beautiful as this (the Thornton's) in Japan." He wants to stay until December, but he has to go home for school in September," Noriko said. She explained that in Japan homes are very small and very expensive. The rent on their small three-room apartment in Yokohama is the equivalent of $350 a month. If her husband's company didn't pay two-thirds of the rent, "...we couldn't afford to live there," she said. (Ono works for a steel company, selling scaffolding to large construction companies.) Purchase price of a small apartment-type home is around $45,000 and a small individual dwelling about the same size costs twice that.

Shelter isn't the only thing that's expensive in Japan. A cup of coffee costs over $2.00, Noriko says, and a steak dinner in a restaurant will run you about $50 (each). A chicken dinner can be had for about $5, and a liter of gasoline (that's a little over a quart) costs about a dollar. Soft drinks and cigarettes are more reasonable. A can of Coca Cola from a vending machine is about 35 cents, and a pack of Japanese cigarettes costs about 75 cents.

Some of the things Noriko learned to like when she was here are very scarce or impossible to obtain in Japan. The closest place Noriko can get a Dr Pepper is Tokyo. When the Thorntons went to Japan in 1969, they took her a six-pack of Dr Pepper, some banana bread, and a jar of dill pickles. She ate them for breakfast.

The boys are enjoying eating bacon while they're here. It's too expensive to buy in Japan. They like all American food, especially ice cream with chocolate, cookies, etc.

REUNION DINNER

Noriko cooked Japanese food for the "family reunion dinner" at the Thornton home Wednesday evening. Attending besides Noriko and her sons and "parents" were the Thorntons' children and their spouses and children, Ronnie, Pat and Renee Thornton and Ricky, Kathy and Kori Kellison of Lockney and Patricia Killingsworth and children Kodi, Kellye and Kayel of Bentonville, Arkansas; also Mr. and Mrs. W.O. Clarke of Lockney, Todd Beedy of Floydada, and Montre Enyart of Bentonville. The Americans were impressed by the eggplant, okra, bell peppers, and carrots (sliced toothpick-size), all fried in a special batter and dipped in soy sauce as they're eaten.

The Thornton's "grandchildren" have been having a lot of fun playing in the dirt in the Thornton yard. "At home, they have to go to a park to play in the dirt," Noriko said. Thornton explained: "Japan has a land area about the size of California, and a population of about 120 million people. "He estimated the population of California at 18 to 20 million. "The houses there are so close together you can't walk between them. Most are apartment houses," he said.

LHS Cheerleaders Plan Camp

The Lockney High School cheerleaders will sponsor a cheerleading camp August 14-18, according to head cheerleader Cindy Frizzell. The camp is for anyone age 5 through junior-high-school age. Cost of the camp is $10.00. Registration will be at 8:30 a.m. Monday (August 14) in front of Lockney High School. The camp will be conducted from 9 to 11 a.m. each day.

One is impressed with Noriko's mastery of English, after all these years, especially after she explains that her family speaks only Japanese at home. She was a high-school teacher for two years after she graduated from college (in 1968), which may explain for fluency in the language. English is a required course in Japanese schools, she notes. An interesting sidelight: when she dreams of here, she dreams in English!

MESSAGE TO FRIENDS

Noriko has a message to her Lockney friends: "I will never forget the wonderful time I had, both at home and at school in Lockney. I wish I could see all my old friends...my classmates and teachers were so nice to me when I was here before...I appreciate all who made my stay in Lockney so enjoyable and so memorable that I will never forget it..."

She looks forward to seeing many of her friends and classmates at a reception hosted by the LHS class of 1964 from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday (August 5) at the home of Eleanor Schacht. And of course the Thorntons are "...thrilled to have our daughter home again and to have our family together again, just like old times."

But it will be hard to say goodbye when Noriko's visit ends, about August 23...

School Bus Driving Can't Hurt Anybody

By Felicia Applewhite

How many miles has G.A. McAda driven a school bus? One guess is as good as another. Nobody knows. He began driving one when he was just 17 years of age. That was before state laws put a limit on an age of a driver.

Another question: How many school and church floors has G.A. McAda swept? The question gets the same answer. Nobody knows. He has spent his life as a bus driver and as a building custodian.

There is no question concerning the quality of his work. He takes pride in doing well whatever he does.

Even as a 17-year-old school-bus driver, his reputation as a dependable driver gave him the backing of the parents in the Sunset Community. The bus belonged to him. It was before schools in Floydada furnished transportation for children.

"I drove the first school bus that came to Floyd County. It was a Model T that seated about 20 or 24 children. I wasn't supposed to drive the bus, but parents said I was a capable driver. I drove it in the school terms of '26 and '27," he remembers.

About the only bad boy he ever had to ride with him was on this first bus. He was "one mean kid."

"Once when the engine was getting hot, I stopped near a prairie buffalo wallow and was filling the leaky radiator when this boy came out of the bus and threw a snow ball up beside my head. I caught him and stuck his head in the snow and water then sent him back to the bus, but I said, 'Do any of the rest of you want to try anything?' They didn't."

"I thought I would catch it when he told his dad. Nothing came of it. He was the only mean one I ever had. I was just a kid," he recalls.

On this first bus, the loading was done through a back door up two swinging steps. These steps furnished a real problem when the bus pulled out of a bar ditch. They were prone to catch and pull off.

"I got $15 a month at first, then my pay was raised to $20 a month."

In 1931, he moved to Sterley and bought a school bus from Silverton schools. His bus route covered Lone Star, Sterley, Prairie Chapel and a part of Lockney. He ran the Silverton bus until Lockney bought its own bus. Each individual paid him $2.50 by the month. The Ford was a 36 passenger.

He finished out 31 years of school-bus driving by driving Lockney Independent School buses.

Their first one was a 48-passenger where he sometimes put 75 or 80.

"You'd be surprised how many rode a school bus at times. Once I had a board I put down through the middle of the bus. If the seats were overcrowded, I'd say, 'O.K. boys, hit the rail,' and the older boys would move to the board to ride.

"I had such a little bit of trouble with the kids on the school bus. I did have a little trouble one day. Two boys were fighting on the bus. They stood up and one raised his fist to the other. I threw on the brakes. The sudden stop threw one over the other. 'You will have to walk, I told them. 'Oh, but we were through fighting,' one said. 'Anyway, you will have to walk.' They did walk for a little while, then I picked them up. Really, I had no trouble with kids," he admits.

One boy came on the bus with a lighted cigarette. G.A. told him he could sit on the steps just for this one cigarette, but he was never to smoke another on the bus. The next day, he came on with another. G.A. reminded him of what he had said. The boy put the cigarette away and never tried again.

The bus route driven by McAda was 50 miles. "I didn't miss a day because of snow and stuff on the route. I took the outside dual wheels off, had some good ground-grips on some wheels and on some I wrapped with chains.

"I had the best bunch of kids of any bus line. They helped in the few times that I had trouble. I was never in a ditch more than one or two times where I had to be pulled out." He recalls and recalls that running the regular bus route was not his whole duty.

"I was gone from one to three times a week taking boxers, basketball players or a football team somewhere. I did this until I quit driving in '61. I sometimes came in at three in the morning on

Brosch, Hamilton Receive

4-H Record Book Recognition

The top-ranked 4-H record books in 33 awards programs have been selected to represent District 2 in state competition this month. They were judged the best representations from some 1,000 junior and senior 4-H Club members in the district's 20 counties.

The books of the winning seniors now will be forwarded to Texas A&M University for state judging.

Record book competition is the critical measurement of the youths' achievements over the years, according to Mrs. Catherine Crawford and Billy C. Gunter, district Extension agents. The records reveal their consistency in achieving their goals, their experience in 4-H, and their growth and development in personal, community and civic responsibilities and leadership.

Senior winners from Floyd County were Darlene Brosch, Santa Fe project; and Clay Hamilton, sheep.

Preschoolers' Eating Habits

COLLEGE STATION -- Positive, wholesome and healthy attitudes about food can prevent weight and health problems from childhood to adulthood.

Young children have sporadic eating habits just like adults, says Debby Johnson, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Appetites tend to coincide with the child's age and stage of development. For example:

- (1) The infant is growing fast and probably has a big appetite.
- (2) During the second year, growth as well as appetite slow down. A built-in mechanism tells the toddler when and what to eat, and this varies in time each day.

will generally choose to eat what they need. This does not mean, however, that they will select a balanced diet out of an assortment of non-nutritious foods.

(3) Toddlers may get off on a "binge" and eat a lot of one particular food, such as peanut butter, for a while. This will not damage a child's health during a short period.

(4) Preschoolers ages 3 to 5 tend to have narrow food preferences. They may not want their food sprinkled with mushrooms or onions.

They stick to foods they are familiar with, so introduce new foods gradually and without pressure.

Never force a child to eat certain foods or demand a clean plate after each meal, the specialist advises.

Eating habits are formed in early childhood and carried into adulthood, she adds.

Bill Fisher Wants Tax Cut For Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 26, 1978 - Bill Fisher, Republican candidate for Congress in Texas' 17th District, says his meeting in Washington with U.S. House of Representative's Minority Leader John Rhodes was "productive and encouraging, and leads me to believe that I certainly can add to the Republican efforts to provide a much needed tax cut for Texas."

Fisher met with Rep. Rhodes in the Minority Leader's office to discuss the Kemp-Roth 33% across-the-board tax cut measure, as well as discussing Committee assignments and the Republican's legislative programs. "The conversation was very helpful," Fisher said afterward. "The Republicans in Congress have some excellent alternative measures to the Democrats' massive spending measures, and the Kemp-Roth tax cut measure has come very close to passage this year. I'm convinced that with my voice in Congress, we would stand a much better chance of creating justice for the taxpayer as well as being able to eliminate that awesome burden which families face today in paying for massive, ineffective government."

Fisher said the conversation with Mr. Rhodes provided insight into Republican plans for "enacting the tax cut measure as well as relating some very helpful material on Republican efforts to pass other meaningful legislation."

Rhodes said he was very pleased to learn of Fisher's support for tax cuts and added that Fisher's support in Congress would increase the possibility of passing tax relief for the taxpayers.

"Bill Fisher indicated to me a great understanding of the plight that families face today. His determination to work toward solving that dilemma is real and deep-seated. His voice in Congress would undoubtedly be raised repeatedly for tax relief and more efficient government. The taxpayer of Texas, and of the nation, can ill afford to remain very long without Bill Fisher's voice in Congress," Rhodes said.

Denton Reports On Bond Sales

June sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Floyd County were reported today by County Bond Chairman Clarence Denton. Sales for the sixth-month period totaled $105,047 for 53% of the 1978 sales goal of $200,000. Texas sales during the month amounted to $26,757,461, while sales for the first six months of 1978 total $156,932,590 with 51% of the yearly sales goal of 306.6 million achieved.

Tax Free Gifts In Estate Planning

COLLEGE STATION--To help ease the federal estate tax bite individuals may want to consider annual gifts to their heirs, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Annual gifts up to $3,000 to each individual, or $6,000 if a husband and wife make the gift jointly, are tax-free under the federal gift tax law. The amount given away during your lifetime will reduce the size of your estate and consequently the amount of federal estate tax on what you leave your heirs someday," points out Tom Prater.

Under the annual exclusion, you can make gifts each year to as many people as you wish, and the first $3,000 of the gifts to each person is tax-free if it is a gift of a present interest. Present interest indicates that the recipient takes immediate possession and enjoyment of the gift. If possession and enjoyment are postponed or are subject to some condition or the wishes of another, it is a gift of a future interest and does not apply to the $3,000 (or $6,000 husband/wife joint) annual exclusion, explains the economist.

"Gifts made under the $3,000 annual exclusion are not subject to be included in the gross estate if the giver dies within three years after making the gift," notes Prater. "Beginning in 1977 all other transfers by gift within the three-year period prior to death will automatically be included in the gross estate of the deceased--and

Sales Tax Rep. In Floydada Thursday

AUSTIN--State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced he is sending a representative from his Lubbock office to Floydada on Thurs., August 10 to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Enforcement Officer, Gene Cannon will meet with local taxpayers at the Floyd County Courthouse, Room 103 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

"If Floydada-area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing tax forms, Mr.

Cannon will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office and we believe these face-to-face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock added.

Bullock reminded those taxpayers who are unable to meet with his representative on August 10 that they can still get their questions answered quickly by calling his TOLL-FREE tax information number in Austin. That number is 1-800-252-5555.

The Lubbock office, headed by Vance Porfirio, serves Lubbock and surrounding counties.

Farmers Completing Acreage Questionnaires

AUSTIN—Farmers in Floyd County have been doubling as statisticians in completing questionnaires which become essential links in the sophisticated economic structure of Texas agriculture, Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said today.

The county's producers were part of some 30,000 farmers across the state who recently responded to the mid-year survey on summer acreage and production conducted by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The results of the survey will be issued in an August 10 crop report which is available free of charge.

Without the availability of unbiased, accurate figures through cooperation between Texas farmers and the Reporting Service, business and government agents from one end of the state to the other would suffer in their ability to predict coming trends and act accordingly," Commissioner Brown said.

He explained that farmers themselves use the estimates as working tools in determining upcoming production decisions. At the same time, the information is used by farm organizations and legislators in planning and administering programs, by extension economists and private farm management consultants in advising farmers, and by almost every link in the agriculture service industry in allocating resources. Banks and investment corporations also round out their economic profiles of counties through the use of the crop and livestock statistics.

"From the individual who sells fertilizers or designates railroad car placements to the government agent who makes decisions on crop payment programs, everyone in the agricultural production chain needs and uses the information made available through this continuing cooperative effort," Brown said.

"And at the bottom line, of course, is the agricultural product consumer, who reaps the benefits of a more informed agricultural industry, better able to minimize the drastic ups and downs which can translate into unpredictable supplies and prices," Brown concluded.

Cotton Council Filing Suit Against OSHA

LUBBOCK, Aug. 3 (Special) — The National Cotton Council is filing suit to challenge stringent new cotton dust standards recently issued by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

UNDERGROUND WATER Important Issues Face Board

One proposed rule amendment and one proposed new rule, both of major significance, will be on a heavily loaded agenda when the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1's Board of Directors hold their next monthly meeting on August 7, 1978.

The Board will consider amending Rule 1 (Definitions) to include a definition for an abandoned well site and will consider adopting a rule to provide a procedure for declaring a well site abandoned. These proposals are being considered to give the Board a set of guidelines to follow in cases where a well has apparently been abandoned, but has not been officially declared so, and a new application for a well has been submitted for a well near enough to the "abandoned" site that it would be in violation of the District's spacing requirements.

Cotton Council Filing Suit Against OSHA

This was announced today by Ed Breihan, Council Vice president and cotton cooperative executive from Lubbock. Breihan presided over a regional seminar at the South Park Inn here. The local seminar is one of four being conducted by the Council to acquaint industry members with the standards' compliance provisions.

Under OSHA's sweeping new standards, costly engineering controls must be in place by 1982 to reduce cotton dust levels to 0.2 milligrams per cubic meter of air in textile yarn manufacturing; 0.5 in warehouses, classing rooms, cottonseed oil mills, and waste industries; and 0.5 in weaving rooms.

Breihan said the standards are "technologically and economically impossible" for some sectors and expressed grave concern about their effect on the cotton industry's future. He further stated that worker protection could be insured through more practical and less expensive methods.

"Unless some moderation is made by the courts — or unless some technological breakthroughs occur soon in dust control — the cost burden placed on cotton by the standards threatens our ability to compete in the domestic market."

While the standards will undergo judicial review as a result of suits brought by the Council and other industry segments, Breihan said compliance with some of the standards' administrative provisions is likely to be required as early as Sept. 4 of this year.

As outlined by seminar speakers, this year's timetable for compliance with these provisions is:

Sept. 4 — posting of warning signs in all businesses covered by the standards;

Oct. 4 — providing of respirators to workers;

Dec. 4 — initiation of work practices, education, and training programs to minimize exposure to heat.

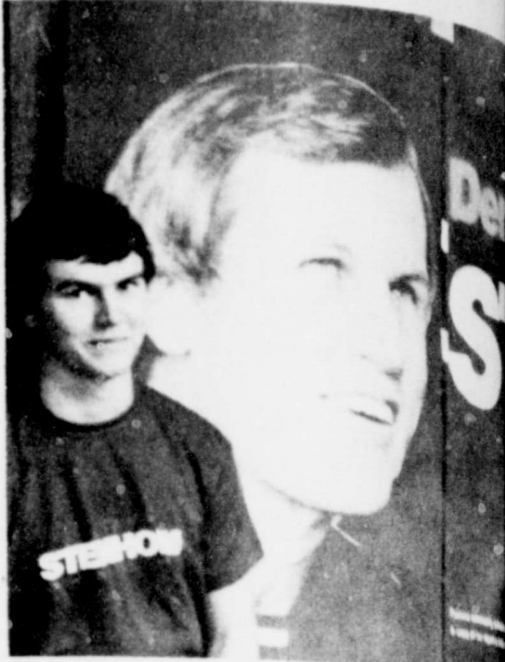

For 1979, the standards call for a March 4 completion date of first dust exposure monitoring with repeat tests every six months. By Sept. 4, 1979, medical surveillance must be started and written plans for meeting dust exposure limits solely through engineering controls must be completed.

Cotton gins, while not subject to dust exposure limits, will be required to meet certain administrative provisions. These include warning signs and initiation of work practices, education and training programs by Sept. 4, 1978. One year later, gins are required to provide respirators and begin medical surveillance of workers.

Compliance provisions were explained in detail by Ted Wentworth, Federal Compress & Warehouse Co., Memphis; A.C. Miller, field representative, Mine Safety Appliances Co., Pittsburgh; Richard C. Ennis of Ennis, Lumsden & Boylston Associates, Chapel Hill, N.C.; Phillip J. Wakely, Council technologist, Memphis; and Preston Sasser, Cotton Incorporated, Raleigh, N.C. Phillip C. Burnett, Council program coordinator, and Gaylon Booker, assistant director of economics and market research, reviewed the extensive case cratic overkill." The Council official said the standards are particularly excessive in view of the more cost-effective approaches available to achieve worker protection. These approaches, which could be accomplished at about one-sixth the cost of OSHA's standards, have been repeatedly pointed out by the cotton industry as well as by the Administration's economic advisors, Burnett added. The Council has given the cotton dust problem top priority since 1970 research efforts to date have been funded at a $4 million annual level.

Planning to make the trip are the Kenneth Brose family, the Eddie Foster family and Jill Whitfill, all of Lockney, the Wayland Jones family of Floydada, and Birch Lobban, assistant extension agent for Floyd County.

The Floyd County 4-H families are They'll leave Kentucky August 12 and return through Nashville, where they'll visit the Grand Old Opry and Opryland, and Vickburg, Mississippi, scene of the famous Civil War battle. They plan to be home on August 16.

Agriculture Commissioner Urges Care To Avoid Damage From Herbicide Drift

AUSTIN--Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has urged that herbicide users be especially careful when making applications, noting that over 20,000 acres of cotton in Navarro County were recently damaged by drift from weed killers.

"Our herbicide specialists have made an aerial survey and affirm that the acreage has been affected by herbicides such as 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D," Brown said.

Brown said an investigation has been initiated as to the source, and "if there is loss in production, those responsible are liable under state and federal regulations."

"Spraying should be done when the temperature is below 90 degrees and wind speeds are less than 10 miles per hour," Brown explained. Minute amounts of herbicides can have a drastic effect on broad-leaved plants.

"There are many crops susceptible to this type of drift growing in Texas this season and we want to protect them," Brown said.

Many parents find it difficult to balance reasonable freedom for growth with the necessary firmness which gives support to teenagers, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

ties together the smooth, quality sound of The Followers. Accompanying them on the piano is Dennis Warner. Raised in Oklahoma, Dennis has studied voice and piano for years including attending the Southwestern Theological Seminary.

Altogether The Followers have one intent in mind, spreading the Gospel of Jesus Christ through word and song. In 1977 alone they sang in over 250 churches, in services and revivals, as well as many concerts, schools, and city auditoriums all over the United States. They have also made several radio and television appearances including their one-hour special for cable TV, involving their Christian Music School held every summer in Fort Worth.

Over all, The Followers have gained the recognition of their music and testimony by many well respected pastors, church leaders and evangelists in our country today.

He was put high on the top of the load of cotton.

He fell from the load and broke three ribs then the wagon wheel ran over him between the throat and lungs. If the wheel had hit closer one way or the other, it would have been tragic.

Still another time, G.A. and two others went to see the train that was to come through the tunnel and up the cap from Quitaque. While they were waiting, they dared each other to jump.

"My foot hung. I fell 15 feet off a bluff and rolled on down. After we started home, I missed my watch that I carried in my pocket. We went back and found the watch. Later at home, I asked what had happened to me. I was not aware of anything that had happened. They told me and added that I had not been 'talking right' since the fall."

G.A. doesn't remember when he developed a limp in his right leg.

"I don't know how come my right leg crooked. Mama said I must have been born that way. When I was four, they first noticed it."

The remarkable thing over the limp is that it has never interfered in the living of a normal life.

"When we used to play Wolf over the River, nobody could catch me. I just would run until I gave out and let them catch me. I would just hook that old heel in the ground and out-dodge the best of them."

Through his school years, he took part in all sports. In basketball, he jumped center and played under the goal to throw goals.

"Get on him and stop him," the opposing coaches would say to their players only to be answered, "I would like to see you do it."

He does attribute a stiff hand to a basketball accident. Pitching in baseball might have added to the injury.

"I have no feeling in my thumb and two fingers on my pitching hand.

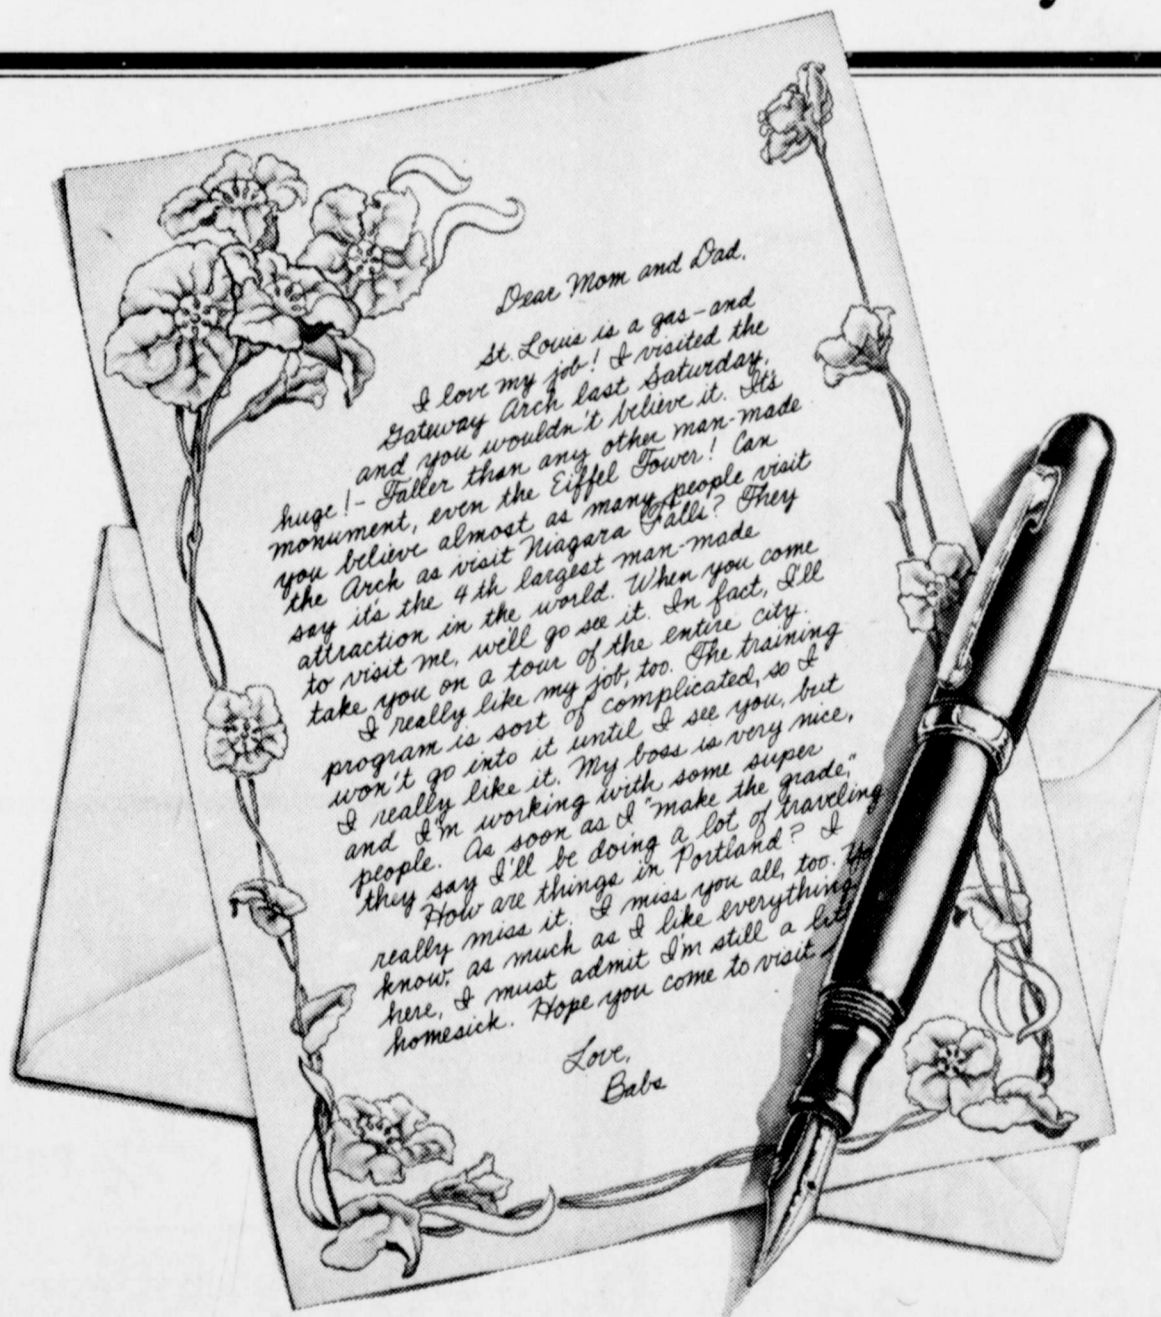

I picked up a rock the other day to throw at a bothersome dog and threw it with considerable force, I thought. Then I looked at my hand. The rock was still there."

With a contention that work "don't hurt nobody" and the satisfaction that "we don't owe a dime to nobody and we have both our places paid for", G.A. McAda lives in comfort in Lockney where the "best people in the world live."

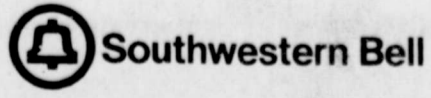

His trips on Wednesday with other singers to the convalescent home to him are "wonderful."

"I just like helping and I like to sing. The Lord has had a lot to do with my life."

For 21¢ or less you could put this letter into a call across the country.

If you're an average talker, you can say about 175 words in one minute. Which means you could put a personal letter like this into a more personal one-minute Long Distance call. And it'll only cost you 21¢ plus tax if you dial One-Plus from 11 p.m. Friday to 5 p.m. Sunday, or any weekday after 11 p.m. Of course we're not suggesting you talk for just one minute. But even if you talk 10 minutes, you're only talking $1.58, plus tax. Or $2.57 if you dial Sunday through Friday between 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. And that's talking clear across the country. So if you're still putting words into letters, just think of what you could be putting into a Long Distance call.

Dear Editor,
My name is Vickie Pennington Braase. I have been trying to locate descendants of James Lawson Pennington and Louise Catherine Baker. They farmed in your area at one time and I have reason to believe there may be some descendants still living there. They had several children: Henry, James, Frank, Joseph, John, Ida, Thad (my grandfather), Minnie, Tandy and Coria. Both James and Louise died in Amherst, Tex.
If anyone recognizes or is a descendant please write to me.
Thank you.

1979 automobiles to be designed lighter and smaller to save fuel

Cars for the 1979 model year are being scaled down in size by the nation's automobile manufacturers in order to achieve federal fuel-economy standards of 27 1/2 miles per gallon by 1985.

Fewer eight-cylinder cars will be available and more plastic, aluminum, and glass will be used instead of steel.

New-model introductions already have begun by Ford Motor Company. Many weeks before its traditional showing dates, the car manufacturer has released its all-new subcompacts, the Mustang and Capri.

Ford expects to sell about 400,000 of them during the coming year.

These sporty cars are lighter than their predecessors by up to 200 pounds, and they have a longer wheelbase and overall length. They will also be totally different in appearance.

Ford's other new models will be introduced in mid-September, when General Motors Corporation will introduce some of its new models. General Motors' compacts, however, won't be introduced until next May.

The nation's other major automobile manufacturers—American Motors Corporation and Chrysler Corporation—will introduce their new models in August.

New-car prices are expected to rise by as much as four percent this year, compared with price increases of six percent in each of the last two years.

Translated into dollars and cents, that means a price increase of between $200 and $400 for the consumer.

Although many details are yet to come, here's briefly what car buyers can look for this year:

General Motors will have three new versions of its luxury cars, plus four new compacts. Ford and Chrysler will offer a new line of full-sized cars and Chrysler will offer smaller versions of its popular subcompacts, Omni and Horizon.

Meanwhile, American Motors is re-designing the Gremlin and giving it a new name—Spirit. Furthermore, the firm hopes to add the Renault Le Car to its fold by arranging a joint manufacturing and distribution agreement with the French car company.

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q. During hot weather, my gasoline tank seems to leak when filled up. Is this dangerous and why does it do it?—D. B., Lufkin

A. Barring such problems as a faulty gas cap, there are two probable explanations for your gas tank leak. Gasoline is pumped out of the ground where it is kept cool. When in your tank, it is exposed to heat and expands, thus causing it to overflow if you've filled your tank. Of course, you can't fill your tank completely with gas. There will always be an air pocket and air, too, expands. If your car is parked uphill when refueling, the air pressure will force gasoline out of your tank. But if you park facing downhill, only air will escape. Since gas leaks are always dangerous, it would be wise not to fill your tank too full and, whenever possible, park your car facing downhill when refueling.

Q. Is it legal to allow small children to sit in my lap while driving?—K. N., Milsap

A. There are no laws that specifically ban carrying small children on your lap. However, there is a state statute that prohibits drivers from carrying passengers in such a way that they interfere with the driver's vision or driving mechanisms or control of the vehicle. Even if you're driving only two blocks to the neighborhood grocery, carrying a small child on your lap could interfere with your ability to steer, prevent you from turning to look over your shoulder when passing or backing, or limit your field of vision. Should you have to brake suddenly, the child could pitch forward and injure himself, or you could lose control of your car trying to restrain him.

The safest place for children to ride is in the center rear seat. Buckled up. If your children are under four years of age or small enough to slip out from under a seat belt, then they should ride in a child seat or infant carrier or car bed. Pets, too, do not belong in your lap while you're driving. Even a minor distraction could cause a major collision.

LOW LAKES DANGEROUS
ABILENE—Boaters and skiers in many areas of Texas have been both cautious and lucky so far as the local lakes continue to decrease in size from evaporation by hot, dry winds and public consumption.

Many of the lakes in the Abilene area are so far down that boat ramps are left high and dry. Where it is possible to launch a boat, many boaters are running into sand bars, mud flats, and islands.

The biggest danger in these lakes is the hidden tree stumps at or below the surface of the water and tops of trees protruding out of the water. Many of these obstacles can tangle in the prop or injure skiers.

"The P&WD suggests that boaters on area lakes reduce their speed and keep a sharp lookout," said Curtis Jones, Abilene district law enforcement supervisor.

"Before pulling a skier, a boat operator should go over the course to make sure there are no obstructions and operate after dark only in extreme cases," Jones continued.

Texas boaters have a few more weeks of good summer weather for visiting state lakes and the P&WD hopes that the boat operators continue to use caution along with a little luck while pulling skiers on the water.

Also, everyone aboard should have on a PFD (life preserver), because if the boat runs aground or into a stump, passengers can be thrown overboard.

For information on boat ramp and lake conditions, boat laws, and water safety information leaflets, write to the P&WD, 4200 Smith

School Rd., Austin, Tx. 78744 or call toll-free 1-800-252-9327.

ON RUSSIAN WHEAT
MOSCOW—Cool, wet weather has delayed spring planting of Russian wheat, raising prospects of a poor harvest and further purchases from the non-communist world, Western agriculture experts said.

VACATION & ROBINS
CHICAGO—Jim and Fern Miller are trapped but happy in Illinois Beach State Park, stymied by a robin that chose to hatch three eggs in a nest on their home trailer. Mrs. Miller said that they're a retired couple roaming the country in their trailer, so we are in no hurry to go anywhere.

TEN SETS OF TWINS
SUMTER, S.C.—Students and staff at Millwood Elementary School are seeing double these days because it has ten sets of twins attending the school. Principal Joe Kirven said that "it must be some kind of record, having that many sets in one school."
