Miss Reagan Cagle, Cliff Campbell Wed

Arrangements of white summer flowers and lighted tapers framed the altar area of the First Baptist Church, Floydada, as wedding promises were exchanged Saturday, August 12, uniting in marriage Miss Reagan Cagle of Floydada and Mr. Cliff Campbell of Arlington, Dr. Floyd C. Bradley, pastor, officiated at the 8 o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cagle of Floydada; and the groom is the son of Mrs. Frank Gambelin, Abilene, and Mr. Jimmie Campbell of Haskell.

Grandparents attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. B.D. Vick of Brownwood and Mrs. Hollis Cagle of Tulsa.

The altar setting was centered by a grouping of arched candelabras holding white pillar candles. Matching white pedestals and urns holding mass arrangements of mixed white flowers were on each side. The bride's aisle was decorated with white satin and sala foliage.

Musical selections were presented by Mrs. Bill Hardin, organist, and Mrs. Mack Hickerson, pianist, both of Floydada, who also accompanied soloist Barry Watts of Lubbock. Mr. Watt's selections were "Welcome To My World" and "Let It Be Me."

Mr. Jimmie Campbell of Haskell was best man.

Other groomsmen were Messrs. Daylon Byerly of Denver, Colorado, Pat Felix of San Antonio, Steve Bostick of McAllen, Rick Stokes of Carrizo Springs and brothers of the bride, John Cagle and Rusty Cagle, both of Floydada, who also served as ushers.

Miss Debbie Russell of Arlington was maid of honor.

Other bridal attendants were Mmes. Gay Troianni of San Antonio, Betty Johnson of Olney, Penny Kelly of Carrollton, and Jim Warren of Tahoka.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, Mr. Bill Cagle, the bride wore a dress of white eyelet batiste, designed by Mori Lee. The moulded bodice featured a scoop neckline with small flounce, which could be arranged in an off the shoulder look. The flounce drifted into the short layered sleeves. The empire waistline was defined with a self-fabric waistband and swept to back fullness forming a chapel length train.

To complete her ensemble, Miss Cagle wore a matching white eyelet picture hat, featuring a ruffle and white lace hat band tied to a bow in the center back, which was trailed by long streamers. She carried a cascading bouquet of white stephanotis, sweetheart roses, tube roses and gypsophelia.

To complement the bride's ensemble, her attendants carried bouquets of mixed summer flowers and ivy. Each wore identical gowns of white eyelet, which gave the wedding an ultra formal effect. Empire waistlines were emphasized with self-fabric waistbands, featuring a self fabric bow in back. The full circular skirts were floor length, featuring wide flounce hemlines.

Flower girl, Miss Kasey Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Allen of Clarendon, also wore a floor length white eyelet gown featuring the flounce neckline and hemline.

Following a musical interlude presented by Barry Watts, accompanied on the piano by Tolya Hickerson, a reception was held in Wall Street Parlor. The circular cake table was covered with a floor length white chiffon cloth with Victorian swags. Flanking the bride's table were serving tables which had matching cloths and were centered with silver candelabrum holding mixed foliage arrangements and cathedral length tapers. Silver appointments were used.

Reception attendants at the bride's table were Misses Mary Ann Brown, Connie Cogdell, Marilyn Weems, Terri Pearson and Dy'Anna Waldrop. At the groom's table were Misses Brenda Morton and Mychelle Hammond. Registering guests was Miss Tanya Whitten.

Other houseparty members were: Mmes. Ray Lloyd, C.L. Gilly, Travis Jones, Ray Reed, Doris McLain, Weldon Hammonds, Bill Hendrix, Jack Stansell, Fred Cardinal, Valerie Green, John Dunlap, William Bertrand, Ted Bell, Louis Pyle and R.G. Dunlap.

After a brief trip, the couple will be at home in Arlington, where Campbell is employed by Jordan and Assoc. First Mark Real Estate. Mrs. Campbell will be teaching in the Arlington schools.

Mrs. Campbell is a graduate of First School and a 1975 graduate of Texas Tech where she was a Kappa Kappa Gamma member.

Campbell is a 1974 graduate of Haskell and a 1978 graduate of Texas Tech where she was a member of the varsity football team. The wedding dinner, hosted by Cliff Campbell and his wife, was held at the Country Club August 11. Rehearsals.

The party will be held from 2 to 5 o'clock in Llano Estacado Museum, on the campus of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, and Mrs. Wofford will be present to autograph the books that are sold.

The 787-page history of Hale County contains the stories of some 375 families and individuals, an archeological account covering some 8,000 years in time, a history of county and city governmental organizations, churches, schools financial institutions, newspapers, agriculture, civic organizations and community activities. There is much statistical information, including a census of several county cemeteries.

A unique feature of the book is a 50-page section of never-before published interviews done in the 1930's by Hale County historian Mary L. Cox with 30 of the original settlers of the county, and there are hundreds of pictures spanning the 100-year history of the county.

Mrs. Wofford, who edited the volume, is a third-generation Plainviewan, a graduate of local public schools and Wayland Baptist College, and she has published in numerous newspapers and periodicals, including the Saturday Evening Post, Farm Journal, the Denver Post, and College and Career. She is the widow of another third-generation Plainviewan, Dr. C.D. Wofford, and along with her writing activities, teaches private piano in her home.

The Floyd Philosopher Says Mid-East Problem Needs To Be Solved Before Boredom Sets In

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm throws caution to the wind and tries to solve the Mid-East problem this week.

Dear editor:

The Mid-East problem, it seems to me, needs to be solved pretty quick before the rest of the world gets bored with it. Mr. Sadat and Mr. Begin can show up on television denouncing each other just as many times before they become monotonous.

As I understand it, the West Bank is the disputed spot, Mr. Sadat saying Mr. Begin doesn't own it and Mr. Begin saying he won't give up one grain of sand of it, which is a hard thing to do if the wind is blowing toward Egypt.

Trying to solve the problem, the United States has sent Mr. Kissinger, then Mr. Vance, and then Vice President Mondale over there, without success.

The trouble is we've been sending the wrong people.

What we ought to do is send the Army Engineers. Not with arms but with shovels, grubbing hoes, bulldozers and draglines. Then, at a cost of say 50 million dollars plus a cost over-run of say 150 or 200 million dollars, re-channel that river so the land that's now the west bank becomes the east bank.

However, and here's where skilled diplomacy attained by diplomats flying around the world wringing their hands over problems they don't know what to do with, comes in. Have the Army Engineers, when they re-route the rivers, leave the old river bed in place. At the head of the stream put in swinging gates. Then in future wars, whichever side wins gets to swing the gates toward whichever river bed it wants the water to flow in.

You might call this to the attention of President Carter so that when he and Mr. Begin and Mr. Sadat meet at Camp David they'll have something besides the scenery to talk about.

Yours faithfully, J.A.

Wheeling And Stealing

Thinking back a few years bicycles were, for the most part, considered toys. When one disappeared, it was usually because some youngster took it for a joy ride and failed to return it. Unfortunately, that's often not the case today. Many bicycles are hardly toys. They are quite valuable, especially those equipped with finely machined gears and accessories. As a result, bicycles are stolen in great numbers by professional thieves.

Bicycles are often stolen off of lawns or porches and out of unlocked garages at night. School yards and playgrounds are popular targets of bike thieves during the daytime.

Register all bicycles with the appropriate local agency. Permanently etch your driver's license number preceded by your state's initials on the frame of all your family's bicycles. This will make it identifiable to a police agency. Report the theft of any bicycle to the police.

Don't leave bicycles on the lawn, on the porch or in an unlocked garage - especially at night. If a bicycle must be left unattended anywhere, it should be secured to a solidly fixed rack or tree with a good quality chain and lock. The chain should not be looped just through a wheel but through the frame and both wheels.

Regularly remind your children that just as bicycle safety rules will reduce the chances of their being hurt in an accident, crime safety practices will reduce the chance that their bike will be stolen.

Encourage school and recreation authorities to provide secure bike racks located where they can be viewed by employees of the facility. Keep your wits -- and keep your wheels.

Drive Line

Facts from a pro on driving to you

Q. At sundown, should I drive with my parking lights on and then later turn on my headlights?—P. L., El Paso

A. Never drive with just your parking lights on. Cause others may think the car is parked. As a rule, parking lights are meant to be used when you have to park on an unlighted road at night. They require you to switch your headlights on at sunset and leave them on until a half hour after sunrise.

Q. I like to have music playing while I'm driving. Is it dangerous to wear stereo headphones and listen to music while driving a car?—Dallas

A. It could be very dangerous, especially if you're driving in city traffic or on the expressway. You must be particularly alert to the driving conditions around you. Not only does loud music tend to distract your concentration off the road, but it prevents you from hearing horns and sirens. Even driving with the radio and air conditioner on and your windows up could impair your hearing enough to be hazardous. If you do use earphones or play the radio loudly to compensate by keeping your eyes moving, your rear view mirror and turn your head to check possible hazards that may develop.

Q. While driving in a west Texas rural area, I saw a tractor with no license plates on the highway. My friend says that is illegal. Is it?—H. S., Odessa

A. Your friend is right. According to Texas law, tractors and other farm vehicles do not have to play a license plate if they are being operated primarily on the highways. They also do not have to be inspected when driven temporarily.

If you have a question on driving, send it to Texas Office of Traffic Safety, P.O. Box 1165, Austin, Texas 78767

Lockney Care Center Family News

By Yvonne Steele
Mary Ann Resch, our administrator, is on vacation. We are trying to fulfill her confidence in our ability to "carry on" by continuing with the entertainment and work.

Tuesday morning, Johnny Francis came to visit his mother, Jewel Francis, and stayed to sing and play the piano for us. We all thought the impromptu program ended too soon.

Thursday afternoon, our Bingo Day, or better known as Banana Day, was a huge success with Myrtle Burke, Charlie and Lula Mae Cottrell, Alpha Kitchens, Grady Cunningham, Lewis Roberts, and Eula Thornton in attendance. Grady Cunningham was the lucky blackout winner. We hope Lavell Edwards will soon feel like joining us in bingo.

We are still making lamps and will soon be starting another project of stuffed pillow faces. Anyone interested in either project is welcome to come by and place their order.

We are happy for Grady Cunningham as he was able to return to his home in Quitaque. Our prayers are with Dora Harris, who is still in Central Plains Hospital with a broken hip.

The LHS varsity football cheerleaders and mascot went on an outing together Wednesday of last week. Cindy Frizzell, Stephanie Turner, Karla McCarter, Gay Frizzell, Kay Sherman and Ronee Thornton, cheerleaders, and Rise Taylor, mascot, ate lunch at the Turkey Hotel and then went to Palo Duro Canyon that night to see "Texas". All but Karla and Ronee returned to Turkey to spend the night at the hotel. WTSU STUDENT Zach Cummings tends plants as part of his plant science internwork for Dolle's Lawn and Garden Center in Canyon.

Cummings In Intern Program

WTSU--West Texas State University plant science intern Zach Cummings is earning a paycheck as well as college credit this summer for his work for Dolle's Lawn and Garden Center in Canyon.

The senior plant science major from Lockney is assisting Don Dolle in the lawn and garden center activities.

Among his duties are putting in lawns, trees and bushes; repairing machinery; and selling fertilizer and insecticides.

Cummings said he was attracted to the job because "I have always liked to work with plants and I knew it would be a good job."

He also thought that working with insecticides and fertilizers would be good experience in preparation for the farming he hopes to do once he graduates.

Helping customers also "has been interesting", according to Cummings.

"You have to please people or they will tell you about it."

The WTSU plant science intern program is a cooperative effort between various plant science industries and the WTSU Department of Plant Science, said Dr. Ron Thomason, acting dean of the WTSU School of Agriculture and intern program coordinator.

"It not only serves as a training ground for students, but it also provides quality employment for the various plant science industries," Thomason said.

Currently 14 students are enrolled in the summer intern program. They work for at least six weeks in such diverse plant science industries as research stations, florist shops, pest control and agriculture extension services.

To receive their four hours college credit for the internship, the students give weekly written reports of their duties as well as an overall oral presentation to WTSU plant science professors at the end of the program. They also are evaluated by their work supervisors.

"It is the second year of the intern program, according to Thomason."

Cummings is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling K. Cummings of Route F, Lockney.

Honea Scholarship Winner Returns From Mexico

The Meda Baker Honea International Scholarship was given this year to Soyle Fuentes, senior of Roosevelt Rural High School. Soyle has just returned from a study-travel trip to the Institute of the Spanish Language at Saltillo, Coahuila, Mexico. This scholarship is given annually to a deserving student to encourage better understanding between Texans of Anglo and Spanish-Mexican ancestry.

Saltillo, city of 300,000, yet colonial in atmosphere, was founded 401 years ago and is the former capital of Texas. It is known as the "Athens" of Mexico because of its fame as a center of culture and learning. There were many students this year from New York, Ohio, Missouri, Alaska, Hawaii, Arkansas, and other eastern states. Many teachers go to perfect their Spanish pronunciation. This is the fourth year that Roosevelt Rural

High School has participated in foreign travel study programs in connection with their classes of Spanish.

Another Roosevelt student was given the E. K. Hufstедler, Jr. Memorial Scholarship and the Roosevelt Spanish Club awarded two more pupils this trip to Mexico, making a total of four from this rural school that studied abroad this summer. The students traveled to Saltillo with their teacher Mrs. Mary Alice Gonzalez and her husband, Mr. Francisco C. Gonzalez, who continued to Mexico City and Acapulco for two weeks before returning to Saltillo to pick up the Lubbock county youths.

VANEWS

The nation's GI Bill education program, starting its thirty-fifth year June 2, has brightened the lives of more than 17.4 million veterans, according to Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional Office.

"Since President Franklin Roosevelt signed the first GI Bill in 1944," Coker said, "America has invested more than $46 billion in educating GI Bill recipients. This investment has been and will continue to be sound and wise."

"The third GI Bill, in effect since 1966, is still available to many Vietnam Era veterans," Coker said, "and VA is involved in a campaign to encourage them to use this valuable benefit."

The participation rate under the current bill is higher than either of its two predecessors, with 7.2 million veterans and service personnel, or 65 percent of those eligible, having taken some form of training. Under the original World War II bill, 7.8 million out of the 15.4 million eligible, or 50.5 percent, used benefits. The rate was 43.4 percent of the Korean Conflict bill, when 2.4 million of the 5.5 million eligible trained under this popular program.

A greater number of those training under the current bill used benefits for college courses than the other two programs--nearly 58.7 percent compared to 50.7 percent for Korean Conflict veterans and 28.6 percent for veterans of World War II.

Aircraft Owners Should File Tax Return Soon

Most taxpayers who own aircraft must file a special Federal tax return, Form 4638, by August 31. The return, Form 4638, must include the $25 annual fee for each aircraft plus the tax of 3 1/2 cents for each pound of maximum certified take-off weight for turbine powered aircraft and 2 cents for each pound of maximum certified take-off weight over 2,500 pounds for piston aircraft, according to the Internal Revenue Service. Revenue generated by the tax is used for construction and improvement of public airports and air control facilities. The tax year for the use begins July 1 and runs through June 30 of the following year. If the first taxable use of an aircraft occurs after July 31, the tax based on weight is proportionately reduced. Supplies of Form 4638 and the free IRS Publication 582, "Federal Use Tax on Civil Aircraft," providing additional information on the aircraft use tax, are available at many local IRS offices.

Cotton Costs Can Be Cut In Half

WESLACO, TX.—Texas cotton producers are leading the way in research that could cut cotton production costs in half.

Twenty-three and 1/2 cents per pound is the low cost Bruce Gilbert, a cotton producer from Lyford, Texas, managed to pull his production expenses down to. He achieved this reduction by using short season cotton varieties planted in narrow rows.

Gilbert's results and other similar reductions in production expenses were the outcome of a crop demonstration held on 150 acres in Willacy County, Texas. The demonstration plots were all planted with different varieties of short season cotton.

With cotton production costs presently hovering at around 60 cents per pound, the results gleaned from the short season cotton experiments in Willacy County may pave the roads towards a new era in cotton farming techniques.

According to Dr. Dale Pennington, an area extension agronomist in Weslaco, Texas, savings have been about $120 to $125 a bale using short season cotton.

L.N. Namken, a USDA soil scientist at the experiment station in Weslaco, described the difference between ordinary or "indeterminate" varieties of cotton and the new short season varieties. "The major difference between them is the short season varieties fruit so much faster," he said. "The fruiting rate is almost double that of the conventional cotton plant. In other words, we are blooming it twice as fast, so it greatly reduces the time to set a bale of cotton."

"We have produced a bale of cotton here in 120 days," Dr. Namken added. "With conventional varieties, cotton is 160 to 180 days. With short season cotton, we can get the cotton in and get it out before we get weather trouble."

as, has been well pleased with planting short season variety cotton because it has reduced the number of times he has had to spray insecticides. With short season cotton varieties, the length of the growing season is reduced. This means that insects are much less a crop hazard because there is less time for them to build up high populations and severely damage a crop.

"I've sprayed my cotton twice already (in early June)," said Mr. Dickerson. "I'll probably spray two or three times more. That'll be five or six sprayings total. With long season cotton, we have usually had to spray for insects 10 to 12 times. So, when you talk about money, short season cotton saves me $50 to $60 per acre."

"If it weren't for Cotton Incorporated sponsoring these programs," added Mr. Dickerson, "no one would be carrying out this type of research. I think Cotton Incorporated has done a lot for farmers, not only in the Valley, but in other areas, too."

Cotton Incorporated is the organization that conducts cotton research and promotion through programs financed by cotton producers. The Cotton Board is the administrative body that handles the finances for and approves cotton research programs.

"I'd be out of business if it weren't for short season cotton." That's the word from Ralph Hutchins of Raymondville, Texas, who has been very satisfied with his short season results. "Using short season cotton is the difference between profit and break even to me," he said. "That is about what it amounts to."

"One thing I like about the short season varieties," Mr. Hutchins added, "is that I save three to four insecticide sprayings. And my cotton gets to the gin earlier. It has definitely saved me money and increased my profits. It's fast, it's quick, and you operate rapidly with it."

And how successful have Mr. Hutchins' yields been? "Last year I got a bale and 8/10. Straight across," was Mr. Hutchins' reply.

Curtis Roberts, a cotton grower from Raymondville, Texas, was able to reduce his costs to 36.4 cents per pound on salt affected land. Nearly three acres of the Roberts operation were lost due to the high level of salt in the soil. But, by using short season cotton varieties, he was still able to dramatically reduce his expenses.

"On this type land and under these conditions in Texas, I think short season varieties are very good," said Mr. Roberts. "It looks good on this block, because this block is very salty. Hopefully, we will get enough load on it, set it, strip it, and be through with it early. This is the third year that I've gone with the early season varieties."

Saving money on insecticide is one of the major reasons many growers are becoming interested in short season varieties. James Dyer of Weslaco, Texas, is one such grower. "One of the biggest advantages in using short season cotton is that I don't have as much worry with insects. Also, the sooner I can make this crop and be done with it, the more money I'll be taking to the bank."

"The insecticide that we're using today runs approximately $10 an acre," Mr. Dyer added. "If I can save one spraying, I save $10, and right on down the line."

"This type of short season program never would have come about without the help of Cotton Incorporated," Mr. Dyer said. "I think a cotton producer is cutting off his nose to spite his face if he doesn't support Cotton Incorporated."

The cotton-growing demonstration with short season varieties were conducted under the direction of Willacy County Extension Agent, Kent Powell. The programs in Willacy County were developed to gather new information on yields, growth spacing for plant populations, and to look for new and better ways to produce cotton more efficiently.

All donated blood is thoroughly tested. It is typed and checked for diseases which could be transmitted. If any tests indicate the need for medical attention, the donor is notified. This way both the donor and recipient are protected.

Current technology makes it possible to divide blood into its components: red blood cells, platelets, plasma and antithrombotic factor. This means as many as four patients can benefit from one unit of blood.

The human body contains an average of 12 pints of blood, and new blood is constantly being made. When you donate, one pint of blood is drawn. Your body quickly replaces this-making it safe to donate every eight weeks.

Lloyd Bentsen Column

"NOW THIS IS not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning."

The words are those of Sir Winston Churchill, speaking on November 10, 1942, two days after successful American landings in North Africa marked a turning point in World War II.

We won a victory in the Senate recently. It was the first "snowbelt" victory against aggressive efforts by cities in the North and Midwest to re-write federal funding formulas to their advantage. To paraphrase Sir Winston, I do not expect this victory to mark an end to the regional conflict that has been creating divisiveness in this country for the past two years. Nor, I'm afraid, is it the beginning of the end.

But I am hopeful that it at least signals the end of the beginning of the regional warfare that has increasingly pitted one area of this great nation against another.

The victory came with Senate passage of a hotly contested amendment to the 1978 Housing Authorization Act.

I was co-author of the amendment and acted as a floor manager while it was debated before the Senate. Approved by a vote of 47-38, it will substantially increase the number of Texas cities eligible to compete for Urban Development Action Grants.

Cities qualify for aid through the UDAG program under a formula involving so-called Urban Distress FACTORS: age of housing, unemployment, per capita income and declining population.

THE AMENDMENT PERMITS an area within a city to receive UDAG assistance if the area itself qualifies. Previously the formula was applied only on a city-wide basis.

This concept of "pockets of poverty" within a growing and otherwise prosperous city is one I came up with several years ago in an amendment to the Emergency Public Works bill. It is a sound concept and I was pleased that the Senate agreed to incorporate it into the Urban Development Action Grant Program.

Texas cities not now eligible for UDAG aid that would qualify under the Senate-approved amendment include: Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Garland, Grand Prairie, Houston, Longview, Lubbock, Midland, Texas City and Tyler.

This victory against an aggressive regionalism that has threatened to balkanize our country is long overdue.

Since Congressman from 16 "snowbelt" states formed a regional coalition a few years ago they have successfully changed funding formulas in program after federal program, giving their areas a bigger share of the government pie at the expense of the South and West.

Listen to these examples. Under the Public Works Employment Act of 1977, Texas receives only $279 per unemployed worker while Utah states as New Jersey get $647 and Massachusetts $538.

In 1976, under the Community Development Act - which is intended to upgrade neighborhoods and improve public services in large and small cities alike - Texas received an amount equivalent to $344 for each family in poverty. The figure in New York was $652, in Pennsylvania $831 and in Michigan $681.

Last year the Community Development Act formula for distributing funds was changed to favor even more the decaying, older cities of the Northeast and Midwest.

Beyond question the South and West today enjoy some significant economic advantages over the Northeast and Midwest.

But claims that these older area are being short-changed on federal funds are inaccurate. In addition, under our free enterprise system it is a mistake to blame the economic woes of our country's Northern regions on federal spending priorities. The problems won't be solved by shifting more federal money into these areas.

A far more burning concern, in my estimation, is the growing regional conflict that is resulting from the fight being waged by these "snowbelt" Congressmen. The tragic periods in our nation's history have occurred when unity was absent, when we worked at cross purposes or turned on one another.

Now, perhaps, we can say that we have at least seen "the end of the beginning" of this harsh regional conflict.

Veterans Administration chief Max Cleland today announced a VA drive to encourage Vietnam era veterans to use their GI Bill education benefits while they are still available.

The campaign, called "Operation Boost" will focus especially on 11 states where fewer than 50 percent of the eligible veterans have taken some GI Bill training.

"Although Vietnam era veterans have already participated in the program to a much greater extent than did Veterans of World War II and Korea," Cleland said.

During the next four weeks, Jeanette Hodges, Home Energy Conservation Extension Agent, will be sharing some "Cost Cutters" with you! Next week this column will be entitled "Cost Cutters" by Jeanette Hodges!

Jeanette is officed in Lubbock and her territory includes working with County Extension Agents in counties surrounding Lubbock as well as Lubbock County. She will be joining us at the Floyd County Fair on September 15, and will present a demonstration at Consumer Information Day entitled "The Four C's of Decorating". You will want to plan to join us for this and other demonstrations that day - September 15!

Today, Jeanette, is sharing some drapery tips! Welcome to Floyd County newspapers, Jeanette. We are delighted to have you join us for a few weeks!

Hello Floyd County! I'm delighted to have the opportunity to share this spot with your own County Extension Agent, Sharon Hillis. And I'm especially looking forward to meeting many of you at the Floyd County Fair.

Right now I'd like to share a few ideas to ponder about "draperies". The insulative value of draperies can be increased simply with the use of a lining. If your draperies are lined with a separate white lining their insulating value may be up by 30 percent over those with no lining at all. White lining reflects the

"there are still a great many veterans who could significantly improve their lives by using the GI Bill for VA job training or formal education."

"Time is important, for veterans must use this benefit within 10 years from the date they are discharged from military service."

The 11 states in which participation has been less than 50 percent of the eligibles are Vermont, New Jersey, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Ohio, Maryland, New Hampshire, Iowa, and Illinois.

"Of course, the decision to pursue education and training has to be made by each veteran," the Administrator explained. "I just want to be sure no veteran fails to take advantage of the GI Bill opportunity because he doesn't know about the program and the importance of the benefits it offers."

"We will be depending heavily on the assistance of educators, editors, broadcasters, veterans organizations and many other groups in local communities to get across the message that education is more important today than ever."

At the present time, VA pays a monthly allowance of $311 to a single veteran going to school full-time; $370 to a veteran with one dependent; $422 to a veteran with two dependents, and an extra $26 for each additional dependent.

In addition, veterans may be eligible for free counseling and tutorial assistance, extra pay for engaging in VA's work-study program, and low interest VA educational loans.

Veterans with less than a high school education are also paid VA allowances for completion of that training and still retain their basic eligibility for pursuing higher education.

Cleland noted that nearly 17 million veterans have trained under the World War II, the Korean and the current GI Bills.

PREPARE FOR WINTER PASTURES - Late August and early September are the best times for early planting of winter pastures, notes a forage specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The cereal grains, including oats, wheat, rye and barley, can be planted early while shallow overseedings of Gulf ryegrass and clovers should be postponed until late September. Nitrogen is the key element for winter pastures and should be applied at a rate of 50 to 100 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre at planting and again in late February.
