...the first down. THEN, it's...
...the kick's, or the kicker's, or the running back's FAULT, right? (It's not necessarily, but some people talk like it is.)

PROBABLY THE WORST TIMES to be one of the "visible" players would be: If you're a running back and you fumble on the one-yard line when your team is trailing by five points and there's a minute left to play; if you're a quarterback (any time) and you throw an incomplete pass or if you're a receiver and the ball hits you right in the numbers and bounces away; an interception or get sacked; if you're a kicker and you MISS that "sure-thing" field goal or extra point.

NO, SIR, I wouldn't want to be a quarterback or a running back or a kicker or a pass receiver. Too much pressure. And I wouldn't want to be a lineman either. Too much dirty work and no credit.

GUESS I'LL JUST HAVE TO WATCH 'em. Tell you one thing: All those Longhorns are out there doing the best they can, just...well, just for the heck of it, I guess.

NOW COMES THE PART where I get in trouble: After all, it's just a bunch of high-school boys playing a GAME out there on Friday nights, for cryin' out loud, anyway.....

'Horns Return From The East With 16-0 Victory

Lockney Uses Seven Running Backs; Two Top 100 Yards

The long trip home from Seymour Friday night seemed a little shorter, maybe, with a 16-0 win in the bag for the Lockney Longhorns and their fans.

The Longhorns dominated the game more thoroughly than the score indicates-at halftime they held only a 7-0 scoreboard lead, but they were ahead 8-1 in the first-down department, having allowed the Panthers only 27 yards net gain while netting over 100 yards themselves. The Ragin' Red offensive team finished the evening with 324 total yards. Seymour had 84.

And the Longhorns had TWO ballcarriers to reach the 100-yard plateau. Curtis Ford had 126 yards rushing for the night. Farlee Mathis ground out 120. In all, the 'Horns used seven ballcarriers-Ford Mathis, Joe Rodriguez, Placido Gonzales, Cecil Clark, Arnold Alaniz and Danny Delgado-in the contest. Rodriguez gained 22 yards on the ground and caught a 33-yard Steve Warren pass which sparked Lockney's first touchdown drive, in the second period.

The 'Horns had just taken over, at their own 37 yard line after a Seymour punt, when Warren lofted the pass-perfect to Rodriguez, who was wide open. The play carried to the Panther 30. Carries by Ford and Mathis set up third and one at the 21, and a Rodriguez tote netted the first down, 19 yards out. After three more ruminating plays the 'Horns faced fourth and a little, inside the 10. Mathis got it and more as he charged to the five. Alaniz advanced to the three-yard line, and Mathis took it in from there. Johnny Arjona kicked true to make it 7-0, three minutes and 46 seconds from halftime.

Just after intermission the Lockney lads added three points to their total. After another Panther punt, the Red owned the ball at the Lockney 35. On first down, Ford rambled for 31 yards, all the way to the Seymour 34. The drive stalled, and the Longhorns had to punt. But wait-officials called roughing against the Panthers, and the 'Horns had new life at the 15-yard line. Three plays got just six yards, but this time they were close enough for Arjona. Johnny made it 10-0, a little over three minutes deep in the third quarter.

Seymour together three of its five first downs on a drive following the field goal. They started at their 29 and got to the Longhorns 35, their deepest penetration of the game. The Lockney defense held 'em there.

The ensuing series saw a couple of thrilling runs-a 17-yard gainer by Mathis and a 22-yard effort by Ford, but it ended with a fumble at the Panther 21-yard line.

But the stingy Lockney defense allowed just two yards on three plays, and the Longhorns offensive machine went to work again.

Determination to give the loyal Longhorn fans a show, Mathis and Ford turned it on again. Ford gained seven. Then Mathis got loose for 40 yards (it looked like he was going to outrun those Seymour secondary men) to the Panther 28-yard line. Mathis carried again, for six, on the next play. From the 22, Ford ran right dodging Panthers as he went, then turned the corner and turned it on, not stopping until he had six points. Arjona, who was limping, missed the extra-point kick and the count stayed 16-0.

The starting backfield came out of the game with about five minutes left. With the Field direction of quarterback John Cummings and the running of Placido Gonzales, Arnold Alaniz, Danny Delgado and Cecil Clark, the Longhorns threatened again before the end. They drove to the Seymour three-yard line before losing possession on downs with 46 seconds left.

Wish We'd Visited Chicago Sooner--With Walley As Guide

Felicia Applewhite

It is all there to be seen on a trip to the Windy City: the Adler Planetarium, Art Institute of Chicago, Field Museum of Natural History, Brookfield Zoo, Rails of the World and the rest. However, it's when Walley is in town to cart relatives around to these places that it is all seen through the eyes of a man whose roots in Chicago go back some generations.

Walley is a Smith-not just any Smith, but a Smith in the direct line of F.Z. Smith. In fact F.Z. was Walley's grandfather, and Walley doesn't mind telling you about him.

"My grandfather was a commercial coal dealer during the time when Chicago burned coal in homes and in business buildings," he tells you as he drives. "He didn't believe in unions," he continues in a way that lets you know that Grandfather Smith was an individualist first and last." So in that early-day coal strike, he rode shotgun on his mule-team wagon beside his driver and saw to it that his coal was delivered."

At this point, he drops the subject of Grandpa Smith because we have darted in and out of traffic on Lower Wacker Drive and circled under and out of city blocks until we are face to face with Sears Tower.

Walley lets us out within feet of Sears revolving doors with the explanation that he'd park and meet us in time to go to the Sears Sky Deck with us.

"Parking is no problem," he states. "You simply have to get in line here and fight for a place in the no-parking zone. Chicago is the only city in the world where you have to line up for an illegal parking place."

We waited just inside the revolving doors. He parked the car in the illegal parking zone across the street from Sears Tower. Later when we came back to the car, we found it there where he had left it with signal lights flashing.

While he was parking, we were told that Sears (Roebuck not mentioned) is the tallest building in the world. We were told that you will reach the 103rd floor in one minute. That is true. In 55 seconds we were on the Sky Deck.

It could have been imagination, but it seemed that footing was slightly unstable 1,353 feet from the ground at the top of Sears Tower on the Sky Deck.

Looking to the north from that unusual height, we say Sandburg Village flanked by Lincoln Park, Newberry Library and Wright Field. It was quite appropriate that a small section of Carl Sandburg's city should be named for him. From where we looked, we could see much of that city and there was no better place for a bird's eye view of his city. It was stretched out before our eyes, "Stormy, husky, brawling city of the big shoulders."

As we looked, we found ourselves saying:

"Come and show me another city with lifted head singing so proud to be alive and coarse and strong and cunning.

Flinging magnetic curse amid toil of piling job on job. Here is a tall, bold slagger set against the little soft cities.

Fierce as a dog with tongue lapping for action, cunning as a savage pitted against the wilderness. Bareheaded, shoveling, wrecking, planning, building breaking rebuilding."

We moved on around the deck from Sandburg Village to the east overlooking Michigan Lake. There we saw Soldier's Field. Near by the field, Marie pointed out Meigs Field where she and Leo had landed when attending a hair-dresser's convention in Chicago.

Lake Michigan stretched all around the east side as far as we could see. On its shore, Shedd Aquarium held a conspicuous but proper place. We went to Shedd after we had looked from the Sky Deck to the South and to the West and had watched the Chicago River making its way through the city and flowing under us and after we had watched the mad dash of cars on various clover-leaf patterns going, going, going.

To get to Shedd, we had to cross the street under ground through a tunnel, graffiti-inscribed in spite of the signs that read "Do not Deface Walls."

Four of us, senior citizens, entered Shedd at 35 cents each. Two others paid the usual fare. From the comfort of a wheel chair (Dr. Shannon had said not to walk a mile) one big-eyed senior citizen saw all of Shedd.

You have been there, and have seen it all, but we hadn't so we gazed back at what we saw in unbelievable awe at those sad faced, stony-eyed prisoners inside water-filled enclosures. Fishes, fishes, fishes.

All colors were there: red, yellow, purple, blue, green, aqua, azure and even black and white.

All sizes from the minute to the largest, and all shape-some grotesque, and some a study in grace.

Dots, stripes and rectangular design adorned the bodies.

Some were in schools and some wanted to be alone. Some were in and out of caverns with snake-like movement. Some were stationary as though glued to a rock.

We left Shedd Aquarium feeling so educated on marine life that we could almost pronounce the scientific name for each special type.

Don't ask me how, (Walley could tell you) but somewhere off and on Lake Shore Drive, we passed McCormick where conventions are held-that is if the convention is big enough. And we passed J.P. Donnelly where all telephone books of the area are published.

Walley took us by Michigan Hotel where we heard stories of Al Capone. Walley's mother, Wilma Smith, 50 years a dietitian in Chicago, had a room along with rooms of other young dietitians in the Michigan Hotel in her early stay in Chicago.

"Always there was a body guard sitting at the door on 4th floor to guard Al," she remembers.

"I heard Gooie Sam is still goor around here." Another Chicagoan chimes in impressing us with knowledge of Chicago gang life.

I think that Walley didn't much care about taking us to Skid Row, but we asked him to take us, so he did.

Had we not been told, we would not have known when we drove into Skid Row. However, it did not take close inspection to see that drunks and "dopesters" were walking the streets-some barely walking.

"Later in the day, they'll be lying in the gutter-some of them. Some of these men have doctor's degrees. Some came from the best of families, we were told.

"Sometimes, they'll pitch small change into a circle or certain spot until it adds up to enough to buy what they want to drink. When the bottle is purchased, it is divided among the donors," we were told.

Walley could give you enough his-

CANCER ANSWER

American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

With more than 300,000 new cases of skin cancer each year, it is clear that we are a nation of "sunworshippers." Skin cancer, fortunately is most curable and easy to detect. However, it is possible to enjoy the sun safely and your local American Cancer Society Unit has a special pamphlet to tell you how. The pamphlet is free for the asking.

A mathematics teacher writes: "I was surprised to learn that there are over 100 different forms of cancer. Which are more common? Wouldn't it make sense to concentrate your efforts on them?"

ANSWERLINE: Although all forms of cancer have a common characteristic - the reproduction and spread of abnormal cells - cancers that begin at six places in the body account for more than 60 percent of all cancer cases in the U.S., and over half of the deaths. That is why the American Cancer Society focuses public attention on cancer safeguards for these six cancer sites - breast, colon-rectum, lung, mouth, skin and uterus - to save more lives with the knowledge we have today about the importance of early detection, and our ever-increasing ability to treat the disease.

In two of the sites most cancer can be prevented - lung cancer, by not smoking cigarettes; skin cancer by practicing sense in the sun.

Homeowners Renters Take Note

AUSTIN—State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said Texas homeowners and renters should not be alarmed if their October gas and electricity bills continue to carry the state and locals sales tax.

"Under the law, the utility companies will continue adding the tax on their October bills if their billing cycle begins before October 1," Bullock said.

Legal Notices

NOTICE

Pioneer Natural Gas Company, a division of Pioneer Corporation, hereby gives notice of its intent to implement new rates for residential and commercial type, small industrial and large gas air conditioning and/or electric generating gas service customers in the rural environments of the 63 cities and towns on its West Texas Distribution System effective upon the date and to the extent that such rates are finally approved for the said cities and towns. It is anticipated that the new rates will result in a 1.7% increase in Pioneer's gross revenues on its West Texas Distribution System. The increase in Pioneer's aggregate revenues will not constitute a "major change" as defined in Section 43(b) of Article 1446c, V.T.C.S.

A Statement of Intent to change said rates was filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas about August 18, 1978, and is available for inspection at the Company's Amarillo office, 301 S. Taylor Street.

Under the law, the repeal of the sales tax actually is effective with the start of the utility companies billing period on or after October 1.

This means, Bullock explained, that a customer whose billing period is October 3 through November 3 will get advantage of the tax break as of October 3.

A customer whose billing cycle is September 25 through October 25 will continue to pay the sales tax through October 25, he said.

Bullock said that homeowners and renters needn't jump on their utility companies about the sales tax on the October bills.

"They are only following the law," Bullock said.

He said elimination of the state sales tax on gas and electric bills will save homeowners and renters $150 million a year.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Dorothy Neff

Here it is, October, and Halloween is just around the corner. We are making plans now for a big party. So be watching for final details.

Faye Walters is a volunteer worker, and she has been busy the last three weeks making lap robes for the residents. We want her to know we all love her for giving us so much of her time and love.

Mr. Baird Bishop is our new resident. He lives in room one down the south hall. We hope he enjoys his stay here.

We would like to welcome Rev. Dale Keener, pastor of the Bible Baptist Church, to our weekly devotions. He will fill each Tuesday morning with singing and preaching.

Mrs. Ruby Leonard is in Caprock Hospital for treatment. We are wishing her a quick recovery.

Thursday's big bingo winner was Clara Williamson with three games. Molly Jones and Mammie Gray won two games, and Ray Reed, Victoria Asher and Avis Franks won one game each.

I could give the residents a twenty minute notice Friday that we could go visit the Lockney Nursing Home. There were five who made the trip: Docia Manning, Victoria Asher, Henry Love, Will Mooney and Avis Franks. Henry had a nice visit with Mr. James Turner while there, and Avis Franks visited with two long-time friends Mr. Whitworth of Matador and Mr. Lill of Flomot. We enjoyed looking at all their crafts. We bought one of Mr. Lewis Roberts rocking chairs made frame clothes pins. It is so cute.

We want to thank Mr. Weldon Cumbie for the two cakes he brought our Sunday.

FACTS & FIGURES

Candy is dandy, but we aren't eating any more of it—or sugar—than we did 50 years ago.

In 1927, the average American consumed about 100 pounds of sugar (sucrose) per year, and just under 15 pounds of candy. Last year, each of us ate 95.7 pounds of sugar, and 15.4 pounds of candy. And the 50-year average has stayed in that range.

Actually, we don't even eat that much! These figures from the U.S.D.A. are based on how much sugar disappears after it's produced. About 20 of every 100 pounds aren't actually eaten, but are used for non-food industrial purposes, are lost or wasted, or spoil before use.

For anyone worried about diet—the candy we eat represents only 1% of the total 1,500 to 1,600 pounds of food eaten by the average American each year. Our sugar intake is about 6% of that, or 17% of our total caloric consumption, which is considered safe and acceptable by most authorities.

Cotton Defoliation-Field Storage Information To Be Presented

The recent spell of cool, wet weather created some problems for cotton producers on the Texas High Plains. This spell resulted in the development of an ill-defined condition which covered light to extensive leaf damage in area cotton fields. This problem is especially critical in the irrigated areas of the South Plains where cotton was still in the peak fiber development period. Many producers are now faced with the problem of evaluating the extent of this damage and deciding whether to allow the cotton crop to continue to grow or to terminate growth with the use of harvest aid chemicals. A team of specialists from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be at Lighthouse Electric Cooperative on Tuesday, October 10th at 9 a.m. to discuss the present condition of the crop, consider the pros and cons of applying harvest aid chemicals, examine the economics of defoliation and field storage, and give information on field storage systems and the advantages and disadvantages of module builders. This is to be followed by a field inspection and a light lunch. Area Agronomist-Cotton James Supak, Area Economist Marvin Sartin, both of Lubbock, and Roy Childers, Agricultural Engineer-Cotton Ginning and Mechanization, College Station, will appear on the programs.

NEWS OF WOMEN

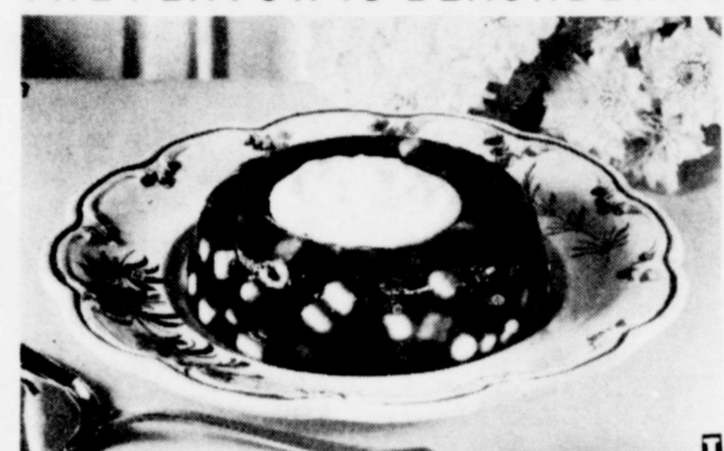

TRACKING THE TRENDS

Marriages in the United States are on the increase; however, women are waiting longer to wed—their average age at marriage is now over 21 years. According to a recent poll, three out of four women say marriage and children are among the most important elements they need for an ideal life.

More and more women who graduate from high school are going on to graduate from college as well. About 25 percent are doing it now, as compared to 9 percent at the turn of the century. Increasingly, America's young women are moving on to graduate and professional schools, too: about 22 percent of first year law students and 18 percent of medical students are women.

KITCHEN & GARDEN NOTEBOOK

ENJOY THE WATERMELON -- PRESERVE THE RIND

Mark Twain called the watermelon the "chief of this world's luxuries... When one has tasted it, he knows what angels eat."

Watermelon, a member of the gourd family, can indeed be a heavenly treat on a summer day. It came to us in a roundabout way from Africa, where it originated, moving into southern Europe thousands of years ago with the Moors. We can thank our European forefathers for not leaving home without it when they headed for the New World.

Though it comes in different sizes and shapes, with pulp varying from pale pink to deep red, you'll know if it's ripe by thumping the end—if it rings metallic, it's not ready to eat.

But once eaten, don't toss out the rind. Follow this recipe developed by the Ball Corporation home economists for a preserve that even Mark Twain would write about.

WATERMELON RIND PRESERVES

- 1-1/2 quarts prepared watermelon rind
- 4 tablespoons salt
- 2 quarts cold water
- 1 thinly sliced lemon
- 1 tablespoon ground ginger
- 4 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 7 cups water

Trim green skin and pink from thick watermelon rind; cut into 1-inch pieces. Dissolve salt in 2 quarts water and pour over rind. Let stand 5 to 6 hours if salt is used. Drain; rinse and drain again. Cover with cold water and let stand 30 minutes. Drain. Sprinkle ginger over rind; cover with water and cook until fork-tender.

Combine sugar, lemon juice and 7 cups water. Boil 5 minutes; add rind and boil gently for 30 minutes. Add sliced lemon and cook until the melon rind is clear. Pack, boiling hot, into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch headspace. Adjust caps. Process 20 minutes in boiling water bath. Yield: about 6 half-pints.

AMERICAN TRADITION
Gold School Rings

It may seem surprising to some, but today's sophisticated young people are still buying karat gold school rings—for generations of Americans the symbol of some of the best years of their lives—in great numbers: Over two million are sold every year.

College and high school students are buying them for some of the same old-fashioned reasons.

Another innovation in gold school rings is that while they're usually guaranteed for life, in many cases they can be traded. A high school class ring can be used as a trade-in for a gold college ring when the time comes.

It all seems like a good, traditional way to ring in school years.

Representative To Assist Taxpayers

AUSTIN—State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced he is sending a representative from his Planning office to Floydada on Thurs. Oct. 12th to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Enforcement Office Gene Cannon will meet with local taxpayers at the Floyd County Courthouse, Room 103 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

"If Floydada area merchants or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes, we need help in preparing tax forms," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office and we believe these face-to-face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock added.

Bullock reminded those taxpayers who are unable to meet with him that they can still get their questions answered quickly by calling his TOLL-FREE tax information number in Austin. That number is 1-800-252-5555.

The Lubbock and Plainview offices, headed by Vance A. Purifiro, serve Lubbock and surrounding counties.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Most Texas consumers are unaware of how much personal property they've acquired over the years, or how much it would cost them to replace it.

That's why our Consumer Protection Division attorneys say it's important to conduct an inventory of household goods. Such an inventory will tell you if you're carrying enough insurance, and could prove invaluable if you should ever have a burglary or fire and have to document your losses. Experts recommend that an inventory be done at least once a year on a regular basis, preferably twice a year to keep up with the rising cost of goods. Here is how to conduct one:

- *Prepare a sheet of paper for each room of your home, including attic, basement, and garage. On each sheet draw six columns and head them with the name of the item, date of purchase, purchase price, and leave at least three columns for replacement prices. The replacement cost can be estimated by shopping around or reading advertisements.
- *Either start at some fixed point in each room and work your way around or arrange items alphabetically. Be sure you remember to list miscellaneous things such as carpets, draperies, books, records, tapes, special light fixtures, and contents of closets.
- *Make a separate list for things such as cameras,
