Aiken Baptists Dedicate Education Department

Dr. Strauss Atkinson of Plainview, area missionary for the Caprock Plains Area, was the main speaker at the dedication of the new education department at the First Baptist Church of Aiken last night (Wednesday). The education department was rebuilt after a fire which destroyed that part of the church on May 10. The new education department boasts carpet, a new roof, and a bulletin board and bookshelves in each room. The entire church building received smoke damage in the fire and has been repainted. Also new are a "bride's room," where the nursery used to be, and folding doors in the youth department. The dedication service followed a 7 p.m. dinner at the church.

Basketball Season Starts Tonight

The Lockney High School Lady Horns basketball team opens the 1978-79 basketball season tonight (Thursday), hosting Silverton in the LHS gym.

After tonight's contest the varsity schedule lists four straight road games (at Oilton, Post, Bovina and Silverton) and a tournament at Tulia, so fans who

16 Seniors To Play Last Game For 'Horns

The Lockney Longhorns will be out to bump the Idalou Wildcats from a playoff berth tomorrow night when the teams meet in Idalou for the last regular-season football game of 1978. An Idalou victory will give the 'Cats at least a share of the District 4-AA title and the right to play another game. If Lockney wins, the district crown goes to the winner of the Tulia-Floydada contest. Likewise if there's a tie score in the Lockney-

Idalou tilt, unless Tulia and Floydada also tie. Then Idalou's the 4-AA playoff representative. The game starts at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Idalou stadium. "We'd like to see a big crowd out to

School Board Sells Property

Lockney school district trustees rejected one property bid, rejected another, accepted the audit report for the year ended August 31, 1978, and approved the resignation of another trustee. The regular monthly school meeting Monday night.

Trustees heard reports from Barker (on school insurance), school principal James Poole (on the community by school), and tax assessor-collector Samford (on possible effects of raising from approval of the tax amendment), in addition to the report by Orland Gilbert of Segars, Gilbert and Moss public accountants.

Washington was the high bidder on the house and property at 806 Shubert Street, which the school board had voted to put up for bids. Washington's bid of $5,000 was accepted.

Only one bid was submitted on the property known as "the old elementary school property." A.L. Newton's bid of $2,031.97 was rejected by the board.

The resignation (effective January 18, 1979) of home economics teacher Wilma Adams was accepted, and the school granted leave of absence to junior high teacher Charlotte Mitchell.

Carolyn Whittington was officially hired as junior high social studies teacher.

The school board entered executive session for the last portion of the meeting.

Trustees present were Tom Duvall, Kenneth Brose, Austin Beedy, Eddie Foster, Eugene Tannahill and Kelton Shaw.

McCormick scored first for Lockney Thursday, on a six-yard run in the first period.

McDonald tallied from four yards in the third period and, still on TD run, Ernest Galvan added a 12-yard run. McDonald's run for 10 points was successful.

On the fourth, McCormick notched two points on a one-yard run and ran the extras, and finally ran eight yards to Phillip Kidd for a Longhorn TD (McDonald ran

Retha Wofford Wins Contest

Retha Wofford was the $10 winner in last week's Beacon football contest. She missed six games, picked Texas Tech to win in the tie breaker, and guessed 38 points would be scored.

Rick Mosley won second place and $6 for another six-miss entry. Mosley also picked Tech but was farther away on the tie breaker total, guessing 28.

Third place went to Tommy Cathey Jr. of Floydada, who missed seven games, chose Tech to win and indicated 35 points in the tie breaker total.

All the winners (and nearly everybody else) realized that Tech played TCU, not Rice, and so indicated on their entries. And everybody circled Tech to win.

Honorable mention went to four contestants who missed seven games but missed the actual total score (44) in the Tech-TCU game by more than nine points were Mrs. W.L. Carthel, Boyd Lee, Lisa Mosley and Gordan Aylesworth.

Missing eight games were Tommy Cathey Sr., Carrie Apple, Marlon McDonald, Joe Cunyus, Jim Curtsinger, Tommy Burt and Shereese Cannon.

The final contest of the year is in the Sunday (November 12) edition of The Beacon.

Becomings -

She's O.K.; He's O.K.

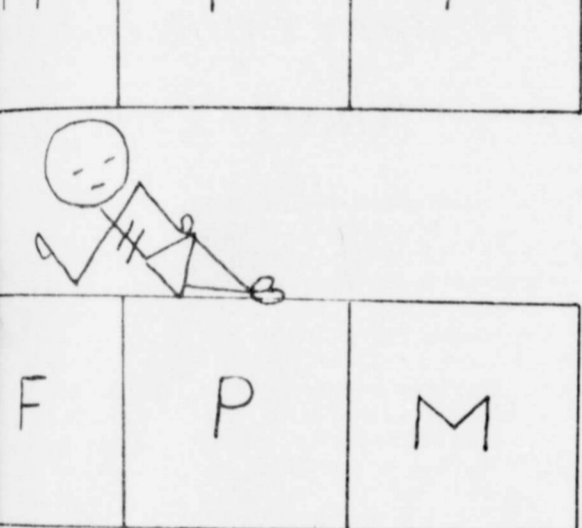

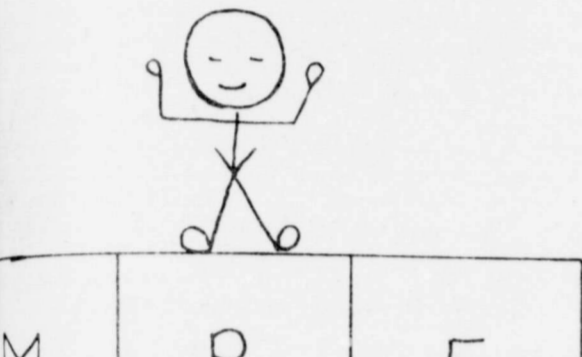

Written by Duffy
Illustrated by Beth Pratt

Once upon a time there was a little girl and a little boy.

Do you know that under a microscope you can tell little cells from little boys' cells? Did you know that every boy has some girl hormones and every girl some boy hormones?

Do you know that each little boy and each little girl in the world have three ego states in his or her head, three people who can influence behaviour? Did you guess that they are not talking about Parent, Adult, and Child* but about Masculine, the Feminine and the Person?

In our society, Masculinity has been defined as being big, strong nails, snails and puppydog tails, while femininity means being made of sugar and spice and being nice.

Do you know that you are acquainted with the terminology. Go back to our story.

Once upon a time there was a little girl. When she was looked like this:

Friends of the Floyd Library are announcing a special book review party. Mrs. Mary Dockery will be in the Lockney County Library on Nov. 7, at 3:30-5:00 p.m. to entertain children and their parents with interesting new children's books.

Friends of the Library are organizing a special public support expanding library. They aid in their efforts by informing the community about the library's services.

The October meeting of the board members included President Mrs. Louis Lloyd, Vice President David Kirk and Treasurer Mrs. Kay Moore. The board members are Mrs. Ian Moore, Mrs. Amy Moore, Mrs. A.C. Pratt, Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Earl Moore, Mrs. Eutimio Moore, Jr., Mrs. Fred (from Lockney) Mosley, Mrs. Ray Moore, Mrs. J.D. Cope, Mrs. Busier Terrell, Mrs. Doyle Walls, County Clerk.

The next meeting of the board members will be in the Lockney County Library, Nov. 28.

This is a basic recipe that may be varied in many ways, such as adding nuts, sausage, etc. Spoon, approximately 3 tablespoons makes a nice addition, too.

MISSOURI CORN BREAD
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups corn meal
2 cups boiling water
1 cup sweet milk
2 eggs

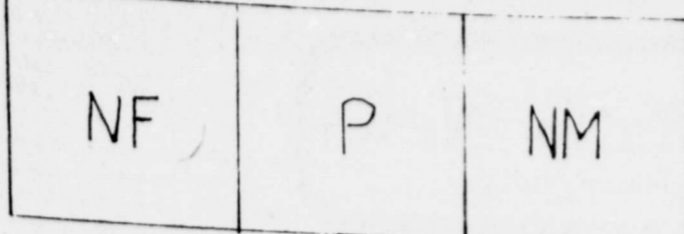

1 tablespoon melted butter
4 teaspoons baking powder
Mix meal and salt, stir in boiling water, add milk and butter, stir in baking powder. Bake in a very oven until well done.

GOOD GRAVY
No turkey dinner is complete without smooth, delicious flavored gravy. This will be fat and juices in pan in which the turkey was roasted. There will be giblets (liver, heart and gizzard) have been cooked enough for the dressing. Add flour to thicken. Add water to consistency desired. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Add sliced giblets, heart and gizzard chopped finely to the gravy before serving.

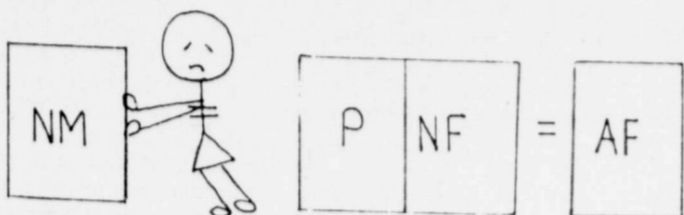

Adults
Adults are to meet on November 18 at 7 p.m. at the Lockney County Library for Thanksgiving dinner with all the members of the chapter.

Members for the event are: Willie Foster, Oleta Hill, Leelle Fyffe, and Leelle Hill.

Adults are interested.

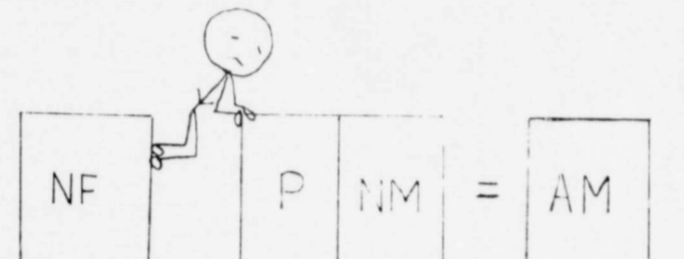

Then her environment took over and tried to kill off her Natural Masculine and overemphasize her Feminine. In the process, an Acquired Feminine developed. For instance, she was taught that should she drop her handkerchief, to not pick it up but wait until a boy did this for her. She was even taught to pretend to drop it in order to play up to the delicate M in little boys. So what happened was, her Natural Masculine got blocked off and her Acquired Feminine contaminated her Person so that the real decision maker was her AF not the Natural Feminine or the Person that she really was.

She needed to be and wanted to operate from her Natural P and F and M, but this was not allowed. As she grew older she began to hear about how this is a man's world, and since she was not a man and didn't have much chance of becoming one, she made a decision concerning a life position. She concluded that as a girl, She Was Not O.K., But He Was O.K.

While all this was going on, quite the opposite was happening to the little boy. His NF got blocked off from his NM and P and his P became contaminated by his Acquired Masculine. He then did not operate from the Person he would like to be, but from his AM which assured him not only of his right to dominance but of his out and out superiority. So when boy met girl, it was not surprising that things did not always run too smoothly.

When the little girl realized that she must live in a male dominated society against her Person, she assumed a new life position. She figured that She Was Not O.K., But He Was Not O.K. either or else he wouldn't treat her that way. Then things really began to get sticky when she thought to herself that if she were a boy she would never treat girls that way. So in her bitter self-righteousness, she assumed yet another position, that of a real man hater: She's O.K., He's Not O.K.

If the story ended here, things would indeed be sad. But since stories which begin with "once upon a time" are required to have happy endings, we are happy to report there exists a life position which comes to the rescue. It is called She's O.K., He's O.K.

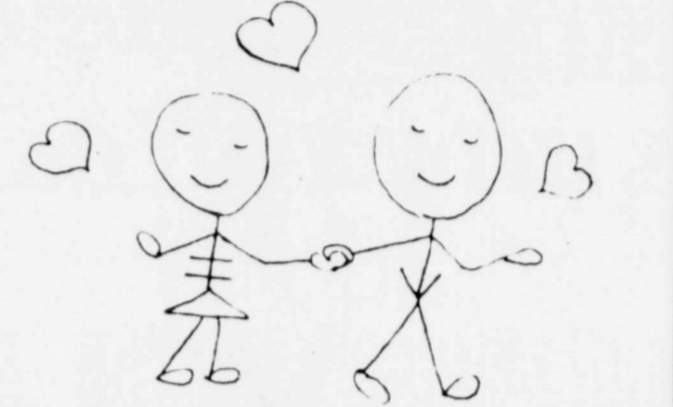

In contrast to the other life positions, this one does not require a script, a role or an acting job, but it means just being what you are. This position is possible only when the P is allowed to be the decision maker, for only then can the Natural Masculine or the Natural Feminine express themselves freely with the permission of the Person and not become blocked off.

This means that a little girl can hit nails and hunt snails if she wants to. A little boy (and big ones too) can eat sugar, like spice and be kinda nice without being called sissy. But there is one important thing we need to mention. P has no actual existence or sexual identity all by itself. Every Person is either a boy or a girl and there is just no getting around that. (Besides, we don't know anyone who wants to get around it.)

By the definition of the words, themselves, femininity relates to being female and masculinity to being male. But, just as each person is a blend in that he secretes both types of hormones, so he is a blend when it comes to feminine and masculine traits. Quite naturally, though, our little girl grew a larger NF and the boy a larger NM. Just as in the animal world, in mankind there are instincts which are grounded in biological conditions, but in man these are highly controlled by volition. The problem comes in when we start trying to weed out culturally instilled F data from the basic F instinct, for what is considered to be feminine or masculine behavior differs with individuals and societies.

Yet there is just no way for a boy to be a mommy or a girl to be a daddy. The important thing is for mommy to be the best one possible and for daddy to be the best daddy possible. This means that daddies complement mommies and vice versa. It also means that men and women who do not become parents are just as much as part of the overall complementing system as those who do. It means accepting differences as blessings instead of curses. What it really means is Loving, and when love between persons is at work, all little ego states live happily ever after.

(Oh, yes. That little girl and boy we forgot to finish telling you about, did too.)

Eighth Grade 'Horns 4-0 In District

Lockney's eighth graders football team finished its season last Thursday with a 28-14 victory over Idalou, a perfect (40) district record, and undisputed ownership of the 1978 district title. The Shorthorn eighth had clinched a tie for the crown on October 26, when they defeated Tulla.

The Shorthorns fumbled the opening kickoff but got the ball back and marched to a score in 15 plays. Joey Davis ran three yards for the first-quarter touchdown. A pass for conversion points was incomplete.

Tony Rodriguez ran two yards for a TD in the second period, and Davis toted for the extras, making it 14-0.

In the third quarter, Mario Arellano snagged a two-yard scoring pass from Davis. Davis ran again to up the county to 22-0.

Sammy Alvarez put the icing on the Shorthorns' victory cake with a 35-yard return of an intercepted pass. The PAT run was stopped short.

Idalou avoided a shutout by posting six points in the final minutes. The after-touchdown try was no good.

Lockney gained 212 yards on the ground, and Davis completed two passes for 12 yards and one TD. The Horns were mentally and physically ready for the contest, Coach Lyndall Favor said. He called the victory a great team effort and said the eighth-graders showed a balanced running attack with all three backs picking up good yardage. The Shorthorns ran some option plays, something they hadn't done much all year but which made for some big plays Thursday.

Mentioned for defensive work were Alvarez, Kyle Brock, Victor Rodriguez and Aurelio Salas.

The team is undefeated in two years of district play (they were tied once last year as seventh graders.) Their season record this year was 5-1-2.

SEVENTH GRADE SHORTHORNS TIE

The seventh-grade Shorthorns battled to a 0-0 standoff with Idalou. Favor said the team played a good hard game even though they were unable to score. They advanced to the Idalou two-yard line once but were stopped on a fourth-down try.

The seventh grade posted a 2-5-1 season record, went 1-2-1 in district play.

Most good farmers don't wait until planting time to buy Pioneer-brand seed... not anymore.

The best farmers seem to think that having the seed with the greatest potential is too important to leave to chance. So ordering next year's seed as soon as they've seen this year's results is becoming a habit... practically a tradition.

Why? Because, when you compare Pioneer performance brands that are always available and compare the advantages of ordering early to the disadvantages, you've got to pick up the phone and call a Pioneer dealer.

By Mrs. J.E. Green

November 14—What a cold dreary, gray day! No doubt winter is "just around the corner."

Well, I'm home again after a visit down state with the Rymans—Margaret and family and my sister-in-law, Mattie Matthews of Hillsboro. How I missed that dear brother Tarpi! Margaret and I attended the Golden Eagle banquet Nov. 3 at N.T.S.U. at Denton—Good time. Big crowd. And on my way home I visited over night with Don Clark and Betty Lou at Big Spring; then Sunday he brought me home. It is such a joy to visit loved ones, but when winter is coming on there is "no place like home"—for the home's sake as well as the rest. And some time Christmas week—and I'm not partial to a White Christmas—I hope the descendants will be with me—Sorry I can't expect the Alaskans this time. I found when I reached home that Mr. and Mrs.

Claud Carpenter have entered the Lockney Nursing home, and like it. But we hope they can come home again. We miss them.

Miss Vera Meredith's company last week was: the Clay Muncys on Tuesday; Friday, Miss Mary Pearl Coward; Thursday, Mrs. Ted Bell; and Mrs. Louise Hamilton came Sunday afternoon.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

CRISIS-FACE IT RECOVER

Face crisis and recover from it. Crisis demands action. Unless individuals and families know how to combat an upset in life's routine and what feeling to expect, it can create an unresolved crisis. When an upset happens, most people go through three broad stages: disorganization, recovery and reorganization.

DISORGANIZATION
When crisis strikes, so does disorganization as the person begins to feel. Many suffer bewilderment. A few remain calm, and a few express their strong feelings in outbursts of fury or screaming. In most cases, tension rises, and most people feel helpless.

RECOVERY
When people emerge from this stunned condition, they must cope with a different future life—one changed by the traumatic event. They have two choices to hide from the event or face it and fight back. Those who choose to hide may escape into fantasy or worry, or they may retreat within themselves. Some people become resentful. Guilt feelings are common. Also, many deny what has happened.

To start recovery, it is important to face the crisis, not hide from it. As a person begins to face a crisis, he can start to measure it realistically and start to get organized. Many times, people cannot rebound by themselves. This is when they should ask friends or trained professionals for help in dealing with the situation.

REORGANIZATION
Reorganization is the final step. It begins once the person decides what to do and starts to accomplish the tasks.

FAMILY CAN HELP
A crisis can affect individuals—the entire families—emotionally, socially and physically. Crisis means a change in lifestyle. Old habits may become no longer appropriate, and this strains the individual and the family resources. All families face various hazardous circumstances, but not all families view the same events as unresolved-crisis events. A family's resources for meeting each situation will, in many cases, determine whether or not it is an unresolved crisis.

Look At Your Auto Registration P

AUSTIN—It's time for a last-minute checkup. Look at your automobile registration plate.

Does the validation sticker expire in October, 1978? If so, you had until October 31 to get a new validation sticker for your vehicle.

R.W. Townsley, director of the Motor Vehicle Division of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, reminded motorists today that they should have received October renewal registration applications by mail.

If you do not have the new three-part registration renewal card, you must take your most recent registration receipt, car title and the registration fee to your county tax assessor-collector to obtain a new validation sticker. Many county assessor-collectors will not accept checks and require cash or money orders with the application.

Under the new year-around registration law, about 700 thousand vehicle registrations expire each month. They must be renewed for one year during the month or registration, since the last of the short-term transition registrations expired in September.

WEEDY PASTURES ARE INEFFICIENT—Weedy pastures reduce forage production, says a forage specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Controlling weeds makes more nutrients and moisture available for grass growth. Weed control can be as effective as applying a moderate amount of fertilizer. Applying herbicides early in the spring along with the spring and early summer mowing can mean more forage for beef production.

"Kiss me, I don't smoke....."

The staggered registration system was to eliminate long lines last minute when 10 million registrations filed in two months make the short lines still by promptness entering your vehicle.

Although Siegfried Marcus built four-wheeled gas-powered vehicles in the 1880s and '70s, he gave to develop the car "a senseless waste and effort." One Marcus' quitting has been the fact his required the lifting end and the spinning wheels in order to darn thing going.

The Beginning Of The End For The Boll Weevil?

MEMPHIS (Special)—The end of 1978 may be a special landmark for cotton—and the beginning of the end for the boll weevil.

Those are views expressed by members of the National Cotton Council's Boll Weevil Action Committee after an inspection of the eradication trial site in Virginia and North Carolina.

Committee Chairman Robert R. Coker, a cotton producer of Hartsville, S.C., said encouraging progress is being seen by growers and scientists in the eradication test.

Of particular interest is Chowan County, N.C., which is isolated on the eastern edge of the area. As a research project last year, the entire cotton acreage there was subjected to weevil suppression measures, Coker said.

"In a followup test this year, pheromone traps were used season long, and by late June, only 10 weevils had been found in the country," he stated.

"Starting on June 29, five Dimilin applications were applied under an experimental use permit at rates of one-half to one ounce per acre. Only two to five sprays of insecticides for worm control were required, and these were applied Aug. 4 to Sept. 7," Coker added.

He said as of the first of November, not a single weevil has been found in Chowan County since late June.

These results, according to Coker, confirm the critical importance of getting Dimilin registered in time for next year's use in this and other cotton insect programs.

Dimilin, he explained, is a new insect growth regulator that interferes with weevil egg hatch and reproduction. Its registration for cotton has been under review by EPA since December, 1976, and is expected by the end of the year.

USDA's Dr. James R. Brazzel is overall director of the trial program. He says, "Cotton growers simply can't afford to raise cotton the way they're having to do it now. In the trial area, general insect control has been costing $50 to $60 per acre per year, and the control is becoming more expensive and more difficult each year because former secondary pests have now become major problems. If we could eliminate the boll weevil and rely on biological or beneficial insects for worm control to the extent we have during the first summer of the trial, there would really be a number of economic and environmental benefits."

Cotton grower and committee member Marshal Grant of Garysburg, N.C., reported this fall to the Council's board of directors that growers in the 18-county area responded perfectly in paying more than $800,000 into the trial program fund at the rate of $50.50 per acre. The other half of operational costs was borne equally between USDA and the two state departments of agriculture.

Coker and Grant explained that program operations in 1978 utilized mainly pheromone traps and insecticides to reduce weevil populations low enough to facilitate eradication with traps, sterile weevils, and hopefully Dimilin, during the following two years. In addition, chemical treatments were applied for all other cotton insects but growers will be responsible for controlling these other pests next year.

"From the program this year," Grant said, "I think we can already see some of the real benefits of having the weevil out of the picture. With the low populations going into the season we had essentially that this year. This meant no early weevil treatments and the protection of beneficials which kept worms under control until late in the season. The late season worm and diapause treatments virtually assure an extremely light weevil population next spring."

Coker said, "The trial program is truly an outstanding example of cooperation between industry and government. The Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture is in charge of operations. Research and other services are provided by several other USDA agencies, state experiment stations, cooperative extension services, and state departments of agriculture. Cotton producers in the trial are prime participants, of course, and 100 percent of these are paying their 50 percent share of the cost."

He noted that because of recent cold winters and heavy treatments to control worms, weevil populations have been kept low in most areas. He said this could cause some growers to think they can forget about the weevil.

"However, it can bounce back quickly like it did in south Georgia and other locations this year," Coker asserted, "and we face the horror of losing weevil control chemicals in the future due to insect resistance developing or through regulatory action. In addition, most of the newer worm control chemicals, including the synthetic pyrethroids, are poor weevil killers."

"These factors," he said, "are realistic reasons why we cannot relax our efforts against the boll weevil. If we turn our back now or are lulled into complacency, the pest will surely surge back and spread to the point that it could literally destroy U.S. cotton."

WAYS TO QUIT SMOKING

Try replacing that hot cigarette with a hot, spicy drink. Tomato juice with Worcestershire sauce, pepper and other seasonings is excellent.

Take a deep breath instead of a cigarette before answering the phone if you have the habit.

Tell all your friends that you definitely are going to quit. This will help you from backsliding. You don't want to ruin your reputation. Promise someone a dinner if you return to smoking.

Change your smoking habits by changing brands. Keep switching to lower tar and nicotine cigarettes but don't increase your usage. The final change will make it easier to quit.

Discover what motivates you to smoke. Then build an even stronger motivation to stop. Be sure your decision is firm and your motivation is solidly based.

THOUGHTS

Are you really welcome in a non-smoker's home? Do people enjoy your company in their automobiles when you light up a cigarette?

Have you noticed the reaction around you in a crowd as you smoke? Do you smell nice or do you smell like stale cigarette smoke?

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q. Someone's old beat up car broke down in front of my house about two weeks ago. Is there any way I can have the thing towed off? It's a real eyesore. S.P., Austin

A. Contact the local authorities (either city or county depending on where you live) and pass the information on to them. They may declare the abandoned vehicle a public nuisance and attempt to notify the latest known owner. The owner then has a reasonable amount of time to remove the vehicle or the local authorities will tow it away.

Q. What can I do to stop the terminals on my car battery from becoming encrusted with corrosion? P.K., Farmers Branch

A. The first step is to clean them regularly. If you don't let the corrosion build up too much, the terminals are easy to clean and maintain. Remove the clamps from the terminals and clean them thoroughly with a wire brush. Make sure the inside of the clamp is also clean. After all the parts are free from corrosion, coat the terminals and the clamps (inside and out) with petroleum jelly before hooking the battery back up.

Q. The heater core went out on my car and the car overheated almost immediately. I had to call a tow truck and the driver said I could have by-passed the core and saved myself the cost of the tow. What does by-passing the core mean? J.H., Baycliff

A. By-passing the core is a convenient method of temporarily repairing your car so you can get to help. There is a rubber hose that leads from the engine block to the heater and one that leads from the heater to the block. Simply disconnect the hose that comes out to the heater completely. Then, connect the end of the other hose that leads to the heater back to the engine block where you disconnected the first hose.

COTTON TALK
FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS.

High Plains cotton producers, always interested in results that point to a stronger and more profitable industry, are certain to be pleased with promising developments in cotton variety studies.

This was the report of Donald Johnson, Executive President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, N.M., after attending a seminar on glandless cotton and demonstration plots. PCG gives financial support breeding studies, primarily done under the direction of Ray at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Station.

Dr. Ray in recent years has released a number of breeding lines to private breeders who in turn have commercial varieties.

Cottonseed contains large quantities of valuable protein in feed and food products has always been a ruminant animal because it contained a toxic gossypol. Thus cottonseed protein has been unable to compete with soybean and other meals for swine and poultry markets. People, too, are non-ruminant, and cottonseed has never been a factor in food products.

Except in the roots, gossypol is contained in plant glandless varieties, producing essentially gossypol-free cotton. Since 1973 have been evaluated in a special test program two commercial glandless cottons as checks.

According to Dr. Ray, "The findings of these studies that glandless cotton varieties compare favorably with varieties and are suitable for production on the High Plains."

Average lint yields of the glandless varieties significantly different from those of any of the glanded varieties except in the year 1976, Ray points out, "but the glandless varieties performed as well as the glanded the four-year period," he adds.

Generally, seed yield paralleled lint yield in the trial were exceptions. Some glandless varieties had higher seed to lint ratios, which, considering the higher price for glandless seed, could give glandless a decided advantage.

Gin turnout, fiber length, strength, micronaire and the glandless cottons also compared favorably with checks.

Currently available glandless cottons, researchers require certain changes in management because of susceptibility to insects and an apparent lack of certain herbicides.

Ray refers to these disadvantages as "manageable," on the High Plains where insects normally are a minor and effective herbicides that are not harmful to glandless cottons are available.

Parents, Teachers Should Know Each Other

COLLEGE STATION--Parents and teachers, know each other--for children's sakes, Patricia Lamson advises.

Work together as a team and share ideas about the child's needs and interests--to make learning more meaningful, she says.

Ms. Lamson is a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

A child's interest in specific areas can make learning more meaningful--both at school and at home, the specialist adds.

When parents and teachers inform each other of these interests, they can make those work for the child's benefit, she says.

Also, knowing child encounters place and how he helps both parents and teachers better understand the child, Ms. Lamson says.

For example, parents learn of a student or activity if they are interested in them, they can plan other activities, such as trips or extend the interest.

That, in turn, learning into the home life, she adds.

COTTON TALKS
FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS INC.

Plains cotton producers, always interested in research that point to a stronger and more profitable industry, are pleased with promising developments in variety studies.

was the report of Donald Johnson, Executive Director of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, Nov. 14, 1978. Johnson attended a seminar on glandless cotton and a variety trial plot. PCG gives financial support to variety studies, primarily done under the direction of the Texas A&M Research and Extension Service.

In recent years has released a number of glandless lines to private breeders who in turn have developed contains large quantities of valuable protein and feed and food products has always been restricted. Thus cottonseed protein has been unable to compete with soybeans and other meals for swine and poultry. People, too, are non-ruminant, and cottonseed oil has been a factor in food products.

and, in the roots, gossypol is contained in plant glandless varieties, producing essentially glandless cottonseed. Glandless cotton varieties compare favorably with those of glanded cottons as checks.

According to Dr. Ray, "The findings of these studies have shown that glandless cotton varieties compare favorably with those of glanded cottons as checks."

gint yields of the glandless varieties are generally different from those of any of the glanded varieties in the year 1976, Ray points out, "but the higher lint varieties performed as well as the glanded cotton-year period," he adds.

ally, seed yield paralleled lint yield in the trials, but lint yield was higher in the glandless varieties. Some glandless varieties had lint yields up to 10 percent higher than those of glanded cottons, which, considering the price for glandless seed, could give glandless cotton a distinct advantage.

urnout, fiber length, strength, micronaire and other characteristics of glandless cottons also compared favorably with those of glanded cottons, researchers are making certain changes in management because of the ability to insects and an apparent lack of tolerance to herbicides.

fers to these disadvantages as "manageable." The High Plains where insects normally are a minor pest and selective herbicides that are not harmful to glandless cottons are available.

Shari Lewis Speaks For Kids
Shari Lewis, TV's delightful puppeteer with an armful of charming puppets, says she is particularly pleased to be the 1978 Christmas Seal Chairperson for the American Lung Association. It's because of kids.
This year's Christmas Seals are created by youngsters. Christmas Seal contributions also help fight lung disease in children.
The cigarette habit is one for which Shari Lewis has great disdain. "I have never smoked," she says. "And neither has Lamb Chop (after all, she's a lamb, not a camel), but more and more kids are picking up the smoking habit. It's going to take all of our efforts to help them to love themselves enough to avoid being trapped into a lifetime of poor breath."
"This year," adds Shari Lewis, "tens of thousands of grade school children took part in the painting project which produced these Christmas Seals, and I'm sure millions of Americans will give generously to the '78 Christmas Seal Campaign."
Shari adds her punchline: "I like working for kids," she says. "As far as I can see, they are our best known source for adults."

Longhorn

Lockney Longhorns lost their football game Friday night, 22 to Idalou. The Wildcats took the opening kickoff and scored first, on a reverse. Earlee Mathis got a facemaking penalty and the Wildcats moved the Horns to the 21. They advanced to the 10 and stepped in and hosted Idalou with a 20-play, 100-yard drive which was interrupted by an exchange of punts. Buckles Bryan, a freshman, was out, and Scotty was good. Longhorns - and Alaniz - reached the end-around, but this time Alanez took the ball and lofted a 62-yard bomb. Rodriguez shook off the Idalou five-yard rush to the one, got the next play. Arjona's kick was good, giving the Horns two points.

A KICKOFF RETURN...Buckles Bryan of the Idalou 26. Wildcat teammate.

Boyle Warren

Boyle Warren, Floyd County agent since 1970, has accepted a position in Hidalgo County as agent and agricultural promoter. Warren's move, made today "with regret" by Billy C. Gunter, director of agriculture with the Agricultural Extension Service, has been an effective leader in this district for more than 10 years and has provided support to Floyd County and their families. Gunter is sorry to lose him, but continued success in his new duties.

Boedeker's Gr

Felicia Applewhite Boedeker doesn't have a problem when he is asked about the Providence Community Church. "I'm up of such family names as Scheele, Boedeker, Ratzin, Koenig, Quebe, Stoerner and many names. I suppose that one German came here in an early day then others through letter writing. There is one date connected with the Providence Community that I remember. In 1911, there were members to erect a wooden structure. Dad talking about living in the back of the church, he had stables for horses." Boedeker included a sanctuary in the Providence Community when his parents settled in Falls County. "My first home here from Falls County was first lived in the pioneer settlement where my uncle helped build the courthouse. It was him to handle unslaked lime, a white, caustic material was shipped in bulk in barrels. My mother says that one night, he would wash his hair and caked around his hair where he had heard we moved back to Falls County. I developed a lung trouble as a result of the lime. Boedekers move to a higher elevation meant a move back in 1913. Since Charlie had a family moved here, Charlie was old then.
