Teachers, Coaches Rehired By Board

Lockney school district trustees hired coaches and teachers for the 1979-80 term Monday night during the regular monthly school board meeting. The rehiring followed an executive session in which the trustees discussed the school personnel. The resignations of principal Weldon Dodson, librarian Merle Mooney and Title I teacher Pat Peoples were accepted.

1979-80 SCHOOL CALENDAR

Also Monday night, the school board adopted the school calendar for 1979-80. The school year begins for teachers on August 27, 1979, when a week of teacher in-service days and in-service workdays starts. The first day of school for students is Tuesday, September 4 (there will be no school on Labor Day, September 3). Last day of school the 1979-80 will be Thursday. May 29, but teachers will have an in-service workday on Friday, May 30.

School holidays are scheduled next year on October 26 (teacher association meetings), November 22-23 (Thanksgiving), December 24-January 1 (Christmas-New Years), March 17-21 (spring break) and April 7 (Easter holiday). Students will also be dismissed on November 30 and February 18, when in-service days are scheduled for tea-

ELECTION CLERKS, BUS USE, TEXTBOOKS, TENTATIVE BUDGETS

The trustees Monday night approved the selection of clerks - Kenneth - for the April 7 school board election. Permission was granted for the Methoyouth group to Lubbock on a Friday or The Church is to pay the standard rate of 41 cents a mile and provide its own The incumbents - Mayor Claude insurance. The school board adopted Brown and councilmen Thurman Davis textbooks, as recommended by the and Bobby McCormick - will be the textbook committee, for next year and only candidates whose names will saw tentative budgets for the band, appear on the City of Lockney election choir, vocational agriculture and home economics departments for 1979-80.

First discussion of the new proposed budgets is scheduled for the April board

INSURANCE

Barry Barker met briefly with the board to discuss the school district insurance. Barker informed the trustees of changes in the school insurance premium rates and told them that only two claims had been filed by the school since September. Both were for minor school-bus accidents, and Barker said the record was "great, for this amount of coverage and exposure.'

WATER LINES

The school board passed a motion to pay half the cost, not to exceed $300, of new water lines to the Floyd County Fairground. The fair association directors had asked for help from the school district because the high school agriculture department's animal pens are served with water from the fairground lines, and leaks in the lines have apparently been the cause of high water bills in recent months.

Jack Samford, school tax assessorcollector, informed the board about legislation to implement the Tax Relief Amendment approved by Texas voters in November.

SCHOOL TAXES

Samford recommended that, if the state legislature passes a $10,000 homestead exemption tax law for persons age 65 and older, the local school district rescind its present 65-and-over homestead exemption policy.

In routine school-district matters, the trustee voted to pay current bills and make investments, and approved the monthly tax report and the minutes of the February meeting.

Present were trustees Tom Duvall, Austin Beedy, Jerry Williams, Eugene Tannahill, Kelton Shaw, Kenneth Broseh and Eddie Joe Foster; Superintendent W.H. Hallmark; principals Dodson, James Poole and R.L. Knox; Samford; and Athletic Director Jim

So They Say

THE BIG BITE It was late in 1977, and Congress could see an election coming; so with the prudence characteristic of men whose jobs are on the line, our representatives voted to defer until January, 1979, the massive Social Security tax hike they had just approved. It is now 1979.

The amount of the increase - the biggest in American history -is $227 billion, to be paid into the system between now and 1987.

What this means specifically is that workers earning $8,000 will pay $490, an increase of $6 over last year, and that those making $20,000 will hand over $1,404 up $155 from 1977. Until next year, when taxes go up again.

These figures evoke a couple of observations. The first is that, in absolute terms, the Social Security tax has increased fantastically since 1970, when the maximum that any worker paid was $374 (an amount matched, of course, by his employer).

If one wants to look farther back, the maximum paid in 1949 was $30 a year; a decade later, it was an astronomical $120. The logical conclusion is that Social Security, once an almost trival levy, has become dangerously expensive.

The second observation is that the middle-income brackets have been socked hardest — as usual — to bail the Social Security system out of impending bankruptcy and that the poor aren't faring so

Now $20,000 once seemed a fabulous sum, but inflation has rendered it just somewhat above average.

Within a few years, the ordinary American worker will be earning $20,000. That means he will be bearing the brunt of the tax increase. It is not the wealthy who are to be soaked - though the maximum tax will eventually hit $3,046 on incomes of $42,000 - but rather the average tax-

And what of the below average? They are hit proportionately harder. It may be that they pay no income tax.

But $490 deducted from earnings of $8,000 is nevertheless a goodly sum. It is almost a cliche to say there are no easy answers to the Social Security mess.

The halting of inflation would make a big difference; it would diminish the need for sharply higher benefits in the future. In any case, future benefits - scheduled to reach $800 a month for a 65-year-old retired worker, may have to be scaled Social Security was never meant to be a full pension system but rather a cushion for

But as the level of benefits and taxation rises, it more and more resembles the retirement programs of welfare states like Great Britain and Sweden, neither one precisely a model of economic progress.

It is reasonable to ask whether the '77 tax hike will stick. We are in the midst of a tax revolt, if any congressman needs reminding of that.

Last winter there was panic in congressional ranks when the home folks professed distress at news of the tax increase, which to be sure, had not even gone into effect. The House Democrats voted informally by a 3-to-1 margin to roll back the increases, though when the coast seemed clear the rollback was forgotten. The coast should be less clear henceforth. The increases are no longer pending. The first of them is here, and others, still out at sea, gather strength to roll in over us. Tax rebels, budding or fullblown. should take note. Dallas Morning News

MR. FARMER

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reflects on oil prices this

Dear editor:

As I guess it works, the Mid-East oil countries use a scientific method of arriving at the price of a barrel of oil. They flip a coin and if it comes down heads they raise the price $5 a barrel. If it's tails, they raise it $6. If they find some country running desperately short they combine the two and raise the price $11 a barrel.

Nobody, especially the people in Washington, knows where this will end. If the OPEC countries can still sell oil after they double the price to $13 a barrel, they may figure why not double it again to $26 or whatever.

So far, Washington's main answer has been: Tighten your belt.

I have thought how can a man tighten his belt is he's wearing overalls? Moreover, have you noticed the number of men now wearing belt-less slacks with an elastic waistband?

Belt-tightening could be part of the answer but Washington ought to get somebody else to deliver the message. It's not highly effective to have a $60,000-a-year government official being driven around in a chauffeured car telling people to tighten their belts. Also, there are always a lot of people who think tightening your belt means leaving it in the notch it's in and filling out midriff by eating

Another method of counteracting ever-rising oil prices would be for us to match it with ever-rising grain prices. They raise the price of oil, we raise the price of grain.

The trouble with this is the OPEC countries don't have a proper sense of humor. When they raise the price of oil they laugh while we look grim. If we raised the price of grain, they'd bust out laughing harder and buy it some place else. There may be something funny in this but I can't find it. That's what comes from not owning an oil

Since 1920 During the first seven years of this decade, the Figure 1. Farm Population, 1920 to 1977

Six Million Former Farmers Fertilized As You Do

U.S. farm populaton decreased by 1.9 million persons (19.6 percent). The number of persons living on farms in rural areas averaged 7,806,000 for the 12-month period centered on April 1977. These estimates were prepared cooperatively by the Bureau of the Census and the Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture. 1 The farm population has declined fairly steadily for more than half a century (figure 1). In 1920, when the farm population was first enumerated separately, 32 million or 30 percent of the Nation's populaton resided on farms. The proportion had fallen to about five percent by 1970, and has now dropped to 3.6 percent.

A birthday party was given by the Main Street Church of Christ ladies, represented by Wynonia Allison and Josephine Smith, to celebrate all residents' birthdays in March. Spice tea and cake were served as refreshments to honor Fred Warren, Henry Mills, Lela Wofford, Miriam Davis, Mae Crager, and Simplicio Leal. While enjoying the party, the employees were participating in a demonstration enabling each employee to personally experience the various disabilities of the residents.

One of the Cecil Bover Gospel Quartet singers had a death in their family as they were unable to visit us this past week. Our sympathy go to Homer Garrison and his family.

Our weekly Bingo Game group last Tuesday afternoon were pleased to have as their visitor, Irene Cottrell from Wynnewood, Oklahoma. Participants were Myrtle Burke, Alpha Kitchens, John Turner, Sally and Claude Carpenter, Bill Holt, Charlie and Lula Mae Cottrell. The double blackout winners, Alpha Kitchens and John Turner, shared the prize of cheese and crackers with the other players of bingo.

Members of the family in the Lockney hospital were Fred Warren, Lela Wofford and Roy Combee. We look forward to their return. We welcome as new family members, Roy Combee, from Clovis, New Mexico, Myrtle Payne and Emma Scott from Lockney.

HOUSEWIFE IS MARCH 10 years.

A Stamford area farm housewife who has "made the complete circle" has been named Stamford's Artist of the Month for March. Mrs. Garland (Barbara)

Cox grew up in the Stamford area and moved back here two years ago after living in the Texas Panhandle and in Northwest Texas. Now living five miles east of Stamford where her husband farms and she "runs errands," Mrs. Cox has been interested in painting since she was in high school and has painted regularly for about

The former Barbara Schoonmaker, March's artist is a 1953 graduate of Stamford High School. Following her marriage after graduation, she has lived in Lockney (16 years) and Paris (six vears).

Mrs. Cox's mother, Mae Schoonmaker, lives in Stamford and the Coxes have three sons - Perry and Kelton, both in Paris, and Ken, a Texas A&M student. After studying oil painting under Paul Carlton in high school, Mrs. Cox did not get to paint much while raising her three sons. During the last few years, she has enjoyed being a student of Miss Carlton - who is now Paula Carlton Vaden.

Since reviving her art interest about 10 years ago, Mrs. Cox has studied pastels with Keith Dodd. She also has studied china painting from Ora Russell since moving back to Stamford. "I love to paint. My husband says I'm not happy unless I have a paint brush in my hand," Mrs. Cox said. She has been considering teaching tole painting at the Little Gallery here. Mrs. Cox taught tole painting while living in Paris.

ARTIST RETURNS HOME - Barbara Schoonmaker Cox, Stamford's Artist of the Month for March, now lives within two miles of the farm on which she was raised after living both in the Panhandle and in Northeast Texas. She has been interested in painting for more than 25 years and has been able to devote more time to her hobby during the last 10
