'Mailbox Improvement Week'

May 21-26 is "Mailbox Improvement Week," and Postmaster Meriwether urged all local customers to paint and repair unkept or damaged mail receptacles, in town and on rural routes.

"Customers should be sure their boxes provide adequate protection to the mail and are easily reached by carriers to help speed collection and delivery of their mail," Postmaster Meriwether said.

The Postmaster recalled that a man named Ira F. Collins was among the first to show interest in improving the appearance and security of the mailbox.

On April 29, 1903, he filed an application with the U.S. Patent Office for a two-part, cylindrical mail receptacle. It consisted of a detachable scoop with a weather-proof outer casing, and a metal flag that could be raised to indicate when mail was to be collected.

"Until Collins came along," Postmaster Meriwether said, "many makeshift receptacles — including tins cans nailed to trees — were used as mailboxes, particularly after rural mail service began in 1896."

Today, he said, a variety of approved commercial mailbox designs are available for use with decorative posts.

During Mailbox Improvement Week, residents should examine their mailboxes to determine whether they have been damaged by weather or vandalism — particularly those located along rural routes, city curb-lines, and highways — and should make any necessary repairs or improvements.

R. C. Mitchell, Farmer Extraordinary, Enjoys The Challenge Of Farming

by Felicia Applewhite
R.C. Mitchell knows Floyd County farming from the ground up. He knows what it is to feed hogs, to feed chickens, to raise milk cows. He knows what it is to do such things and walk a mile and half to school. He knows what it is to raise and to kill young cotton. He knows what it is to raise depression prices to hit the bottom. He knows what it is to wait for the rain to bring moisture for planting. He knows what it is to become a member of Chester White hogs and to be on the board of directors for two years.

He knows it is to raise champion northern cattle and have three of his champions win awards for F.F.A. boys at school competition.

Best of all, he knows what it is to spend 30 years growing and studying hybrid grain sorghum seed that's highly treated for insect and disease.

He came here as a four-year-old boy from Rannels County when his father had the farm equipment with the hogs and cows brought by rail to Floydada. The arrival of the family here was just before the "hard times" of the first home here was where the Pleasant Valley Community. Later 128 acres were added. Pleasant Valley Community was 1 1/2 miles away. R.C. Mitchell was walking that 1 1/2 miles to school where he graduated salutatorian of his eighth-grade class of four. Dr. McDonald, president of Wayland Baptist College gave the address for the graduation exercises.

One Pleasant Valley school experience took place on April Fools Day when he was in the fourth grade:

Mr. Jones was principal of the two-room school, which had a partition of sliding doors between the two rooms. A stage was in the end of one of the rooms. When the doors were pushed back, community gatherings were often there. When the doors were in place in the center, two class rooms resulted.

"We were called the 'little boys' in the 'little room'. The older boys were the 'big boys' in the higher grades, in the room where a stage was located.

"On April Fool, the big boys asked some of us little boys to play a trick with them by hiding under the stage from Mr. Jones. We went along with them.

"We sat under the stage from noon until school was out. Mr. Jones just sat at the desk near by grading papers and acted as though he had not missed us.

"When school was dismissed, we started to come out, but Mr. Jones just said 'You boys just sit there. I'll tell you when to come out.' It looked as though he was going to keep us there all night. He did let us come out, finally, after we were mighty tired of that place.

In 1930, our family had a winning ticket that drew an American Austin car. Chester had the ticket. Dad sold the Austin for $415 to a man at the oil mill.

Arthur Barker had a Model A roadster we bought for equal price that the Austin brought. We drove that Model A to high school for two years.

"In our early day, the nearest thing to a calamity was on a cable that was wired from the top of a windmill and ran to where it was anchored to the ground about 70 feet away.

"We had a pipe on the cable to hold on to as we slid from the windmill to a thrilling ride down to the ground.

"Our trouble began when we decided to go down head first. Due to friction, the cable broke, but it broke just as I landed on the ground instead of while I was in the air.

"Another thing that seemed like a calamity to me at the time came when I had a project of 125 laying hens. One night a freak wind storm developed.

"We went to the cellar and stayed until the wind was over, then came out to see whether there was damage.

R. C. MITCHELL

"The wind had laid my chicken house on top the combine. That chicken house was the only thing on the place that was touched. I knew the world had come to an end for me; however, there were not many chickens missing. The next day the neighbors came in and helped set everything in order."

R.C. was always interested in hogs. His father let him have one once. He fed and raised the hog for market. He was surprised that the price the hog brought was not enough to pay for the feed bill on the hog.

He remembered at that time his father had said, "Many people lose money on hogs and won't say anything about it."

"I have always remembered that," R.C. says.

"In those days, we had family visits to the relatives and from the relatives, and they were visits of note.

"When we went back to Rannels County in a Model-T Ford to stay two weeks at Christmas, we would try to get to Snyder the first night. Now we make the trip in three hours.

"Once, Chester and I emptied a bottle of 'bought' catsup on what we were eating. It was so different to home made catsup—it was good. It was our first stay in a hotel. Mother was embarrassed.

"Our relatives always came to see us, too. They would all come to stay with us in the summer. Once 26 came at one time. Dad killed a beef.

"The women and girls slept in the house, and the men and boys slept on pallets in the yard.

"Mother's younger brother, then our age, still is a preacher. Even then, we would play church at night and he was always the preacher and preached to us.

"My mother always did everything she could to make me a girl. But then we all had household duties in the kitchen and in house cleaning. We also brought in wood and kindling."

In the summer, Chester and R.C. sold vegetables. They had an old farm pickup and ran a regular route in Floydada.

They sold roasting ears for one cent each, tomatoes for 5 cents a pound and black-eyed peas for three cents a pound.

"One old lady would buy one pound of peas, three ears of corn and two or three tomatoes. Obviously, she was trying to help us out."

The old scales that the two boys used are still in R.C.'s possession. They have been highly polished and mounted in a frame by Ruth.

"Times were really hard, and Dad expected us to bring back the money. Maybe, he didn't know that Chester and I would sometimes stop at the drug store and have a malt.

"That vegetable money was what we ran the pumps on. Vegetable money could buy lots of gas then.

"In wagon and team days, I was sent to Lockney for some barrels of gas. Dad sent me by myself. Since I had a quarter and since I was in town, I dropped in at a hamburger place and used my quarter for six hamburgers to eat on the way home.

"I sat on one of the barrels of gas on my way. Even though I felt the gas on my pants when I first sat down, I didn't

Harmony Homemakers Consider Club Projects

The Harmony Extension Homemakers Club met in the community center May 14. The meeting was called to order by the President, Vivian Curtis.

Doris Snodgrass had charge of the program, "Special Club Project." The project she chose to discuss was the Floydada Nursing Home and the things we could do for the residents. She pointed out the things each of us could contribute.

It may seem like a little thing to us the things we do, but will mean so much to the residents.

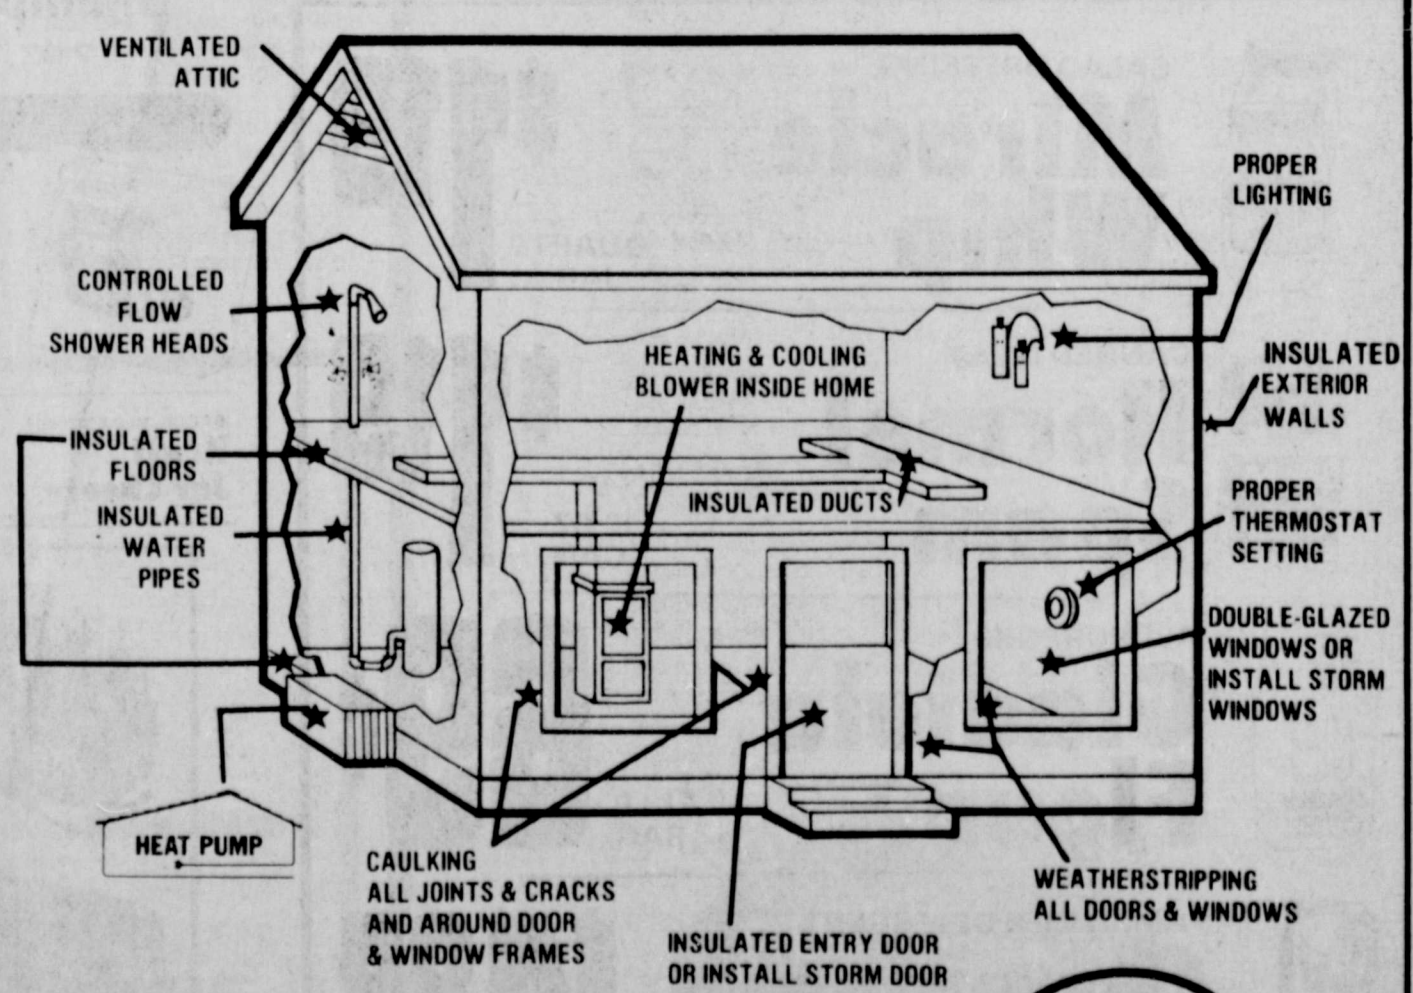

Doris also shared with us a project of hers. She collects butterflies and mounts them in boxes her husband makes especially for the butterflies. They are put in different settings with a mirror in the back of the box which enhances their beauty.

The following officers have been elected for next year:

president, Bess Carr; vice president, Doris Snodgrass; secretary-treasurer, Blanche Williams; and council delegate, Ruth Scott. Also delegate to state meeting, Wanda Turner, and alternate delegate, Vivian Curtis.

The members present were: Vivian Curtis, Wanda Turner, Blanche Williams, Frankie Montgomery, Annie Maude Hopper, Ruth Scott, Doris Snodgrass and Bess Carr.

MAXI-MICROWAVING

(Part one of three)

What is maxi-microwaving? Good question! It means making MAXIMUM USE of your microwave appliance!

Microwave cooking is a newer way of preparing foods requiring the cook to learn a new approach to food preparation. Cooking is controlled by time, not temperature.

THE MICROWAVE

A microwave is nonionizing, meaning it is a form of energy which causes a rise in temperature rather than a chemical change. Food is heated or cooked by absorbing microwave energy.

CONSTRUCTION

The principal parts of most microwave appliances are the magnetron, antenna, wave guide, stirrer and glass plate. These parts are completely enclosed in a metal box with a tight door and an enclosed cooking cavity.

The magnetron is the device that makes the microwaves. The waves are caused to vibrate and are discharged by the antenna into the wave guide. The waves entering the cooking cavity through the wave guide are stirred around by the stirrer which diffuses the waves in all directions throughout the cooking cavity. The glass shelf on the bottom of the cooking cavity is about 1 1/2 inches from the bottom so that the waves can get under the food. A filter is used to collect grease and a vent to let steam and moisture out during cooking.

COOKING METHOD

The method of cooking used in the microwave appliance differs from the conventional method. Microwaves heat neither the air nor the oven as in the conventional method, but still haven't had time to make plans on Tuesday, May 22, Lighthouse Room, from 10:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. Demonstrations of a variety of seafood, poultry, fruits, and others will be featured in this two hour program. The program is free and the Lighthouse Room is a natural Extension of the program.

Bob Ratjen Victim Of Two-Vehicle Crash

Accident West Of Floydada

The 41-year-old Floydada area man, Robert (Bob) Ratjen, died "about 15 minutes" after crashing Caprock Hospital from injuries he sustained in a two-vehicle crash which occurred about 3 p.m. Thursday in a two-vehicle crash west of Floydada.

Mrs. Nadine Stan McDonough, 46, of Route 1, Petersburg, was treated at Caprock Hospital and transferred to Central Plains Hospital in Plainview. Although she was wearing a seat belt on her recently broken right arm and may have fractured the arm, as well as having facial lacerations, she was not seriously injured.

The accident occurred 6.1 miles west of Floydada at the intersection of FR 784 and a dirt road, on which Ratjen was traveling. Both Ratjen and Mrs. McDonough remained in their vehicles. Each was riding alone.

Collision happened "near the center stripe," and there were no eyewitnesses to the crash, but several persons arrived at the scene immediately after it and summoned assistance.

The pickup rolled 1 1/2 times before coming to rest on its top. DPS Patrolman Bill Dawson said the pickup was 48 feet into a field and approximately 100 feet from the point of impact.

The car, which did not overturn, was in a narrow ditch 30 feet from the edge of the highway and 61 feet from the point of impact. Patrolman Dawson noted.

Ratjen, a retired farmer who was employed by Floydada Livestock Sales Co., was brought to the local hospital by Caprock Ambulance Service. He reportedly suffered a deep cut on his head and internal injuries.

The traffic victim and his wife resided south of Floydada in Blanco community.

Mrs. McDonough was taken to Caprock Hospital by Sheriff Fred Cardinal and received emergency attention before being transferred to the Plainview hospital.

FUNERAL SATURDAY
Memorial services for Mr. Ratjen were conducted at 3 p.m. Saturday in First Baptist Church. Dr. Floyd C. Bradley officiated, assisted by David Seay.

Burial was made in Floydada Cemetery, under direction of Moore-Rose Funeral Home.

Born February 8, 1898 in McGregor, Mr. Ratjen was married August 2, 1925 to Rubie Lee Taylor.

Survivors include three daughters, Ardis Daniel and Gleva Smith, both of Floydada, and Gloria Eden of Dallas; two sisters, Lydia Singleton of Colorado and Della Conoley of Amarillo; one brother, Amos Ratjen of Tulsa.

WRECKAGE of a two-vehicle accident — Thursday afternoon 6.1 miles west of Floydada — which claimed the life of longtime Floydada resident Bob Ratjen is investigated by DPS Patrolman Bill Dawson and others who happened on to the site. Ratjen was riding in the pickup (on top at right) and Mrs. Nadine McDonough was driving the car. Force of the impact carried both vehicles into a field adjacent to Farm Road 784.

electric heat pump

- heats
The electric heat pump is a remarkable device that uses about one half as much electricity to heat your home as a conventional electric heating system. This means substantial savings on your winter heating bills.
- cools
Operating costs for summer cooling are about the same as conventional central air conditioning systems. During summer a heat pump works like a regular air conditioner. A blower pulls hot air from the house and passes it through a filter to remove dust and dirt. The air then flows across a cooling coil to cool and de-humidify the air. It then moves through ducts to all rooms in your home.
- conserves energy
During winter months this cycle is reversed. For the heating cycle, the heat pump does an unusually efficient job. The only electricity it uses is to run the fan and the compressor. This is why heating costs are dramatically lower. Heat is removed from outdoors and pumped inside to heat the house. This is the feature that surprises most people, until they realize that there is always some heat in winter air.
- saves money
Original installation costs for a heat pump are usually slightly more than for separate heating and central air conditioning systems. But depending on your installation, costs may be about the same—or even less than for separate systems.
A properly engineered heat pump . . . large enough to do the job . . . will mean important savings to you.

WHOZITS . . .

Reed Lawson Is Lockney Whozit

The youngster in the boots and hat in last week's Lockney Whozit was Reed Lawson. Duard Reeves guessed it, as did a Mr. Cummings (sorry we didn't get the first name).

LOCKNEY WHOZIT — Look closely at this three-year-old grand prize winner in a "baby contest" and you can probably figure out who she is. Call The Beacon, 652-3318, Monday through Thursday to see if you're right.

Stanley And Lou Burleson Whozits

Stanley and Lou Burleson were the youngsters appearing as Floydada Whozits in last Sunday's edition. They were not correctly identified.

FLOYDADA WHOZITS — These two lads are sons of an early Floydada family. The brother at right is a present Floydada resident and the other brother lives elsewhere.

Attend the church of your choice this Sunday.

A lonely man finds excuses to work late or to be out of town a great deal to keep from being home and facing a marriage that seems worn out. At his home a lonely woman drops into bed, worn out from the responsibility of the children, only to find she can not sleep, and in the darkness tears roll down her cheeks.

What can be said that could generate a spark of hope in a man and woman who have vowed "for better or for worse...till death do us part" but have found they are unable to communicate and unable to love?

A rebellious adolescent, a bed-wetting child, a bitter woman, and a distraught, frustrated man vividly portray an unhappy marriage that affects the whole family. The serious side effect of an unhappy marriage is children with no direction and no inner feeling that someone is in control. These children grow up and act out these hopeless feelings with a family of their own who will be headed in the same destructive direction. If this were the whole story the situation would be hopeless. But there is more that needs to be told. How little we hear about broken marriages that are made whole!

The word "hope" seems to have disappeared from the hearts of men and women who think the choice is to "go on living like this" or "get a divorce". Most couples with serious marital problems believe that when they no longer feel love for each other the marriage is without hope.

NO marriage is without hope as long as both partners, or sometimes even one, will hope and work. The problems that ruin marriages go beyond money, sex, personality clashes, interfering relatives, or even unfaithfulness. These disruptions are symptoms of the real trouble rooted deep within the person.

The marriage of two people breaks down when the people break down. A marriage is meaningless when the partners have lost or have never found the true meaning of life. Marriages are mended when a man and woman learn the secret of living beyond themselves, when each can project himself to meet the other's need.

If you have a bad marriage it is really up to you to be honest enough to face yourself first or have your marriage and family become another statistic.

If you need help CALL US! Local information is available in Floyd County Courthouse, 983-2584.

Floyd Philosopher Says Humor Can Be Found Almost Every Place You Look

Dear editor:

I've concluded you can look high and low for something funny and find it in both places.

For example, the Supreme Court ruled last week that it is not unconstitutional to carry minnows from one state to another. The state of Oklahoma convicted a man for carrying Texas minnows across its state line. He appealed and when the case got all the way to the Supreme Court -- and how it could get that far is what's funny -- the High Court put on its black robes, pondered, and announced that the way it understands the Constitution, it's all right to carry a minnow from one state to another.

The court failed to say, in protection of the minnows, what size minnow-bucket is Constitutional.

Another example: when California adopted the odd-even gas rationing plan where car owners with license plates ending in an odd number can buy gas one day, those with an even number the next, wouldn't you know it wouldn't take more than 30 minutes for somebody with an odd number, needing gas on an even-number day, to figure out a way to beat the system? Just borrow a friend's even-numbered license plate and rush down to the service station and fill up.

I don't recommend this. The government will eventually capture you when the case gets to the Supreme Court there's no telling how the court will rule, after it gets through seining for minnows.

Yours faithfully,
 J.A.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

ASSOCIATION of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts' Soil Stewardship Committee watches as Gov. Bill Clements signs a proclamation designating May 20-27 as Soil Stewardship Week in Texas. Purpose of Soil Stewardship Week is to call attention to the fact that the care of soil, water and related resources is everyone's concern. Texas Soil and Water Conservation districts "are committed to improving our state through the wise use and development of soil, water and related resources."

May 20-27 Designated As Texas Soil - Water Week

"The citizens of Texas have a mutual interest in the soil and water resources which God has entrusted to our care," Gov. W.P. (Bill) Clements Jr. declares in designating the week of May 20-27 as Soil Stewardship Week in Texas.

Gov. Clements continues: "It is the concern and responsibility of Texans that soil and water resources be conserved and managed properly to assure the welfare of all citizens of this state."

"Soil and Water Conservation Districts throughout this state have dedicated almost 40 years to provide leadership through which landowners initiate a program to conserve and manage these resources properly."

"Soil and Water Conservation Districts are devoted to continuing their efforts to maintain the wise use and development of our soil and water resources in cooperation with landowners and operators, agencies and individuals."

"Soil and Water Conservation Districts are sponsoring Soil Stewardship Week as a commitment to protecting our renewable natural resources."

"Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas, in full appreciation of the value of the soil and water resources to the public welfare and desiring to honor those committed to protecting it, do hereby designate the week of May 20-27 as Soil Stewardship Week in Texas."

Rabies Increasing In State

Rabies, a disease all but forgotten by many people, is once again on the upswing.

Cases of rabies have increased sharply in many areas of Texas, points out Dr. Jim Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

There were more laboratory-confirmed cases in Texas last year than any other year since 1961. And 1979 is off to a rousing start.

The first quarter of this year produced over twice the number of cases reported in 1978's first quarter, notes Armstrong. He says 80 to 90 percent of the cases are in skunks. However, domestic animal cases are increasing.

Twenty-two rabid dogs have been reported in the El Paso area, possibly due to rabid stray dogs in Mexico, he says.

The veterinarian says the keys to rabies control are public awareness, pet vaccination (both dogs and cats) and stray animal control.

There are 3.7 million dogs in Texas, yet only 1.25 million rabies vaccinations are given annually by Texas veterinarians, Armstrong points out. A 70 percent vaccination level is considered the minimum necessary for rabies control.

During the first four months of 1979, laboratory confirmed cases through the Texas Department of Health totalled 370, compared to 183 confirmed lab cases for the corresponding period in 1978, representing an increase of over 100 percent.

"Of the 370 cases this year, 139 of them were confirmed in April alone. About 80 percent of all confirmed cases have been in skunks, and the Department of Health has announced that 46.2 percent of all skunks examined have been positive," notes Armstrong.

Cases confirmed through the laboratory during the first three weeks of April include: Skunks, 108; foxes, 2; bats, 4; raccoons, 2; cats, 1; dogs, 6; horses, 2; and cattle, 7.

Keep On Lookout For Cotton Seedling Pests

"Begin scouting seedling cotton early and at least once a week to closely monitor insect pest populations," advises Dr. Ray Frisbie, Texas A&M entomologist.

"This way, you won't be caught off guard if heavy populations of thrips and fleahoppers move into your fields and threatened to take your stand, and can quickly react by applying a foliar insecticide to reduce insect pressure and hold it down."

This combination of quick knockdown and residual control is one of the several advantages of a post-emergence, foliar-applied insecticide, he reminds Texas cotton growers.

Another economic plus for post-emergence insecticides: "They are more economical, compared with pre-plant and at-planting insecticide treatments," Frisbie adds. "Cost is only about $1 to $2 an acre — as against $3 to $6 the grower invests in at-planting insecticides."

Instead of automatically making pre-plant or at-planting insecticide applications for "insurance" purposes, increasing numbers of Texas growers are changing their tactics, he reports. They're waiting until they're sure of a stand and the level of insect pressure before taking steps to control seedling pests. Then, if treatment is called for, they apply a foliar insecticide to gain effective control.

"In some cases, your scouting reports may indicate that pressures haven't reached economic thresholds, and treatment may not be necessary," he continues. "This can add up to major cost savings for your cotton insect control program over the season — especially if you're a large-acreage operator. With pre-plant and at-planting insecticides, however, you've already made the treatment decision and investment — maybe unnecessarily."

The recommended post-emergence compounds provide effective early-season insect control.

In monitoring your fields for early-season insects, Frisbie offers these rules of thumb: Scout at least one week as soon as cotton comes in — 3 to 4 inches high. Spray when counts reach an average of more than one per plant; and when you find 50 adult and nymph fleahoppers per terminal and noticeable damage (15 to 25 percent damaged pinhead squares).

Choice fed beef prices are expected to remain strong due to high feed costs. This August feedlots will pay prices of $68 to $70 per hundred weight, expects Davis. He says even though Choice steer prices exceeded these levels, feedlot managers must still be cautious. "Do not place cattle on feed unless the 'pencil out' a $30-$40 a head profit," says the specialist.

Since the U.S. is the world's largest beef producing, importing and consuming nation, our market controls the world market," explains Davis. "Therefore, if our producers cut herd sizes, so will Australia and New Zealand, our primary foreign competitors."

In another attempt to lower beef supply pressure, the military will order 20 percent meat extenders in their beef supplies, Davis says.

What about the market picture in the months ahead?

"Feedlot marketings will increase proportionally to total cattle slaughter

'Cautious Optimism' In Beef Sector

Despite the rapid recovery of cattle prices, a livestock marketing specialist calls for "cautious optimism" among cattlemen.

Dr. Ernest E. Davis with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, believes that cattle prices will remain strong for the next few years but that prices won't continue increasing as they have. He doesn't expect choice fed steers to reach a dollar a pound.

From 1975 to 1978, beef herd liquidation rates were great due to cattle price drops, increasing production costs, and a severe drought. With beef supplies dropping from 129 pounds a person in 1976 to an expected 115 pounds a person in 1979, a corresponding jump in cattle prices for the producer should not be surprising, says Davis.

"Although the market outlook is good for the next few years, there may be no expansion in cattle numbers this year," speculates Davis. "Many cattlemen need to make loan payments while others may hesitate to expand due to possible government intervention with price controls and meat import quotas."

"High heifer replacement costs, possible brucellosis quarantines, and a tight money supply plus high interest rates will also hinder herd rebuilding," Davis believes.

As cattlemen enjoy favorable prices, consumers are faced with higher beef prices. Average retail beef prices have risen 33 percent above a year ago, says the specialist. Beef is one of the nation's most demanded nutrient sources. It is also one of the few agricultural products having an income elasticity approaching 1. For example, when the consumer's income increases 1 percent, his beef expenditures increase 1 percent, explains Davis.

Due to abundant supplies of pork, broilers and turkeys, consumers will switch from beef to these protein sources as well as soy extenders, contends the specialist. Bruce C. Ratner, with the New York Consumers Affairs Commission, recently called for "beefless Wednesdays" to cut beef increases. Davis believes more beef boycotts will occur this summer.

"In the meantime, cattlemen are closely watching the Washington scene. Although the nation's administration has promised no beef price controls this year, cattlemen are skeptical since similar promises have been broken in the past," says Davis.

President Carter has already suspended the 1979 beef import quota, allowing 1.57 billion pounds of foreign beef to enter the country. However, Davis questions whether or not beef exporting countries can meet this quota.

TDA Reports Grain Stocks Have Dropped 17 Percent

A 17 percent decline in Texas stocks of feed grains, including corn, oats, barley and sorghum, has been reported by the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA).

Stocks of other grains showed even further declines, TDA officials said.

The April 1 estimate, made by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, showed wheat stocks down 48 percent from the previous year, to 51.7 million bushels. Disappearance during the January-April quarter alone was estimated at 22.6 million bushels.

Only grain sorghum showed no change from the previous year, with stocks totaling 62.6 million hundred-weight.

Corn dropped 38 percent, to the 50.4-million-bushel level, while oats were down 60 percent to 2.7 million bushels.

Barley and soybean stocks were half, the report showed, with down to 211,000 bushels and stocks to 4 million bushels.

"Poor grain production during the state last year cut sharply crops," commented Agricultural Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, compliance with federal set-aside grains dropped production even further. Another factor was the devaluation of the dollar, which made the grain market look extremely good to buyers.

"With further reduction of stocks of these grains expected this year, hope to see our supply-demand situation reach a balance which will stabilize grain prices," he continued.

The threat of losing High Plains benefits from the Agricultural Weather Advisory Service has apparently been avoided, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The National Weather Service (NWS) had announced its intention to discontinue the service later this year. But PCG and other agricultural interests on the Plains voiced strong objections to Washington NWS officials, area Congressmen and Texas Senators.

"It is now almost assured," Johnson reports, "that the Lubbock office will be kept open by means of a cooperative grant agreement with the Texas A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center."

The NWS advised PCG that it was necessary to take the Lubbock agricultural meteorologist off its payroll in an effort to comply with restrictions on Federal employment, but has agreed to contribute $25,000 per year for a period of three years to permit continuation of the service on a cost-shared basis with A&M. A formal agreement between NWS and A&M is now being developed.

The agricultural weather service since 1964 has conducted soil moisture surveys, microclimate and hail studies, research into weather effects on cotton growth and fiber development, and other work to develop information used extensively by area producers and agricultural research scientists.

"We believe the service can continue to be effective under the grant agreement," Johnson said, "and we are grateful for the help of our Congressmen, Senators and others in making it possible."

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. is adding its voice to that of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) personnel who are urging farmers to be extremely careful that nothing is done or left undone this spring that will make them ineligible for farm program benefits this fall.

"We know it's hard to read ASCS newsletters and run a planter at the same time," says PCG President Joe D. Unfried of New Home, "but a little time spent at the ASCS office of reading ASCS instructions could pay big dividends at the end of the year."

Farmers, he says, should pay particular attention to staying within their established normal cropland acreage if any crop requiring set-aside is planted, accurate certification of crop acreage, timely destruction of wheat planted on terraces or in other areas not intended for harvest, and prompt reporting of hail or other crop losses.

"Dad wouldn't let Chester and me play football. He thought it was dangerous but he wanted me to box. His word was law, so that was the way it was. Times have changed in that way, but when our mother and dad said anything, that was law."

In 1932, he enrolled in Texas Technological College at Lubbock.

Room and board were a big expense, so R.C. took a milk cow from the farm and helped a family milk their cows in turn for the family's keeping his cow. From his cow, he traded three gallons of milk a day for his room and board at a boarding house.

The second year, he took a cow and sold milk. He gave a woman a quart a day for rent on her lot to keep his cow.

He sold 11 quarts of milk a day for 9 cents a quart. He bottled and delivered the milk and met his 8 o'clock class each morning.

He and his cousin "batched" and kept a record of stuff brought from the farm. They kept books on what each brought.

He peddled quarters of beef several different times while he was in Tech.

The next two years, he waited tables. The fifth year, he worked in the Animal Husbandry office for 15 cents an hour, to make $25 a month.

"I did everything that year, even pulled cotton for 25 cents an hour. I was Man Friday for that office. I waited tables that year two times a day. I did no dating because there was no money for dating. That left me free to study from five o'clock on."

His active part in livestock shows gave him trips to places like Fort Worth, Dallas and Chicago.

"I earned a T-T letter in boxing—the last one to be given. As a result, I have a free pass now to all Tech games—basketball, baseball and football."

"We had seven meets the year I won in boxing. I won all my fights except one. Boxing gave me confidence, so I wouldn't take a million for the experience."

R.C. spent 4 and 2/3 years at Tech. In 1946, he took his master's degree from there.

Following graduation, he taught Vocational Agriculture at Crosbyton, then five years at Alpine. The first year he taught in Crosbyton, his boys took top F.F.A. Chapter in Texas. His group was one of the top four in Texas three years in a row.

"While I was teaching in Crosbyton, I met Ruth Haney, who was completing her degree in West Texas State. She graduated in 1938. We married in 1940. Our son David was born in 1947."

"In 1946, I came back to the farm. All of us were farming here at that time. My two younger brothers were killed in a plane accident."

"I am the last member of my family still living. My father died in 1970 and Chester and mother died in 1972."

The grain sorghum program that was begun in the early 1950's is the one special farm interest that is in operation now. Swine breeding was given up some time ago. Just two years ago shorthorn breeding was given up.

"I have dealer outlets over the state for hybrid seed produced here on the farm. I have a routine that I follow."

In this routine, foundation seed are planted in male and female crossing blocks to produce the Mitchell Standing and Standmaster hybrid seeds. These blocks are carefully rogued to eliminate off-type plants.

The result of the program is high quality seeds characterized by less volunteer contamination, by early germination and standability and by resistance, by even height plants with minimum rogues. They have heavy test weight with easy harvesting and they have high yields.

The seeds are safely stored with the quality determined before packing. They are doubly treated for insect and disease.

The key to success for R.C. Mitchell has been his carefully supervised program where he guarantees that every sack of grain is the same high quality.

"To make a success of anything, you have to enjoy what you are doing. I have always enjoyed farming. It has always been a challenge to me," R.C. says with enthusiasm.

Senior Citizens Awards

Joe Foster and Olive Myers were recognized as Lockney's Senior Citizens of the Year for 1979 Tuesday at the Senior Citizens Roundup, which was held in the coliseum in Lubbock.

Lockney Senior Citizens who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Elva Perry, and Mrs. Bob Knox.

Several Senior Citizens groups presented programs, and the music and dancing were still going on when the Lockney group left, Mrs. Knox reports.
