

Floyd County Farm Situation 'Better Off' After Moisture

...a little cotton, but we're better off than we were before the heavy rains in northern Floyd County Tuesday morning following the previous day.

Extension Agent Steve Herber said people lost a little cotton.

mainly water standing on low ends, but I don't believe there was enough lost to offset benefits of the rains," Herber said Thursday after looking at some land and making phone calls to other areas. He terms losses as "relatively small."

Herber added that Floyd County farmers in certain areas have lost wheat and young crops to hail within the past 10 days. Acreage was wiped out Thursday of last week in an area "north of the Matador highway" east of Floydada, and north of the Floydada cemetery.

Hail hurt crops in the Lone Star area Monday.

PLANTING MOISTURE

Herber believes the rainfall will be beneficial in most areas. It will allow enough moisture over all the county to plant dryland acreage.

Looking at the overall crop picture, Herber says "I feel real good about it," pointing out the "real good underground season." This area has more underground moisture than in recent years at this time.

"With any in-season moisture at all, we should be in real good shape," the county agricultural Extension agent adds in summing up his feelings.

Covered Wagon To Jet — Edna Lackey Keeps Abreast The Times

EDNA LACKEY of Lockney, 82, believes in keeping busy.

by Felicia Applewhite

Edna Lackey has more than three-fourths century of working and traveling to her credit.

She was born in 1897 in Hood County, Texas. Only seven years later, she did her first traveling and it was by covered wagon.

That wagon trip with her family took her from Hood County, Texas to Lone Wolf, Oklahoma three years before Oklahoma was admitted to the Union. At that very young age, she was doing her part of the work necessary to maintain a family.

Among the hazards on the road on that trip were the swollen creeks. On the first such crossing when the water came up on the wagon bed, Edna was a frightened child. When it was explained to her that her father had tied the wagon bed down, she lost her fright.

"We stopped at Archer City where my aunt and uncle lived. It rained cats and dogs, so we had to stay until it fairly 'rained' up," she remembers.

"After we left Archer City, we made a stop for supper. It was funny, when we put out feed for the horses, peafowls came in numbers and began eating the horses' feed. I was assigned the job of scaring those beautiful fan-tailed birds away so our horses could eat. That was just an example of the jobs that were given me until I was older and could do the work of an adult."

At Lone Wolf, Edna was impressed by where her grandmother lived. It was a half-dug-out with an upstairs. The main point of interest over the half-dug-out was that you climbed the steps out of the dug-out on the east side and went around to the west side to climb the stairs up to second story.

Here, as before, Edna was "run in" on flunky duty. Now, it was for her grandmother.

"Grandmother drew water for the stock by the use of a pulley at a well. After I got there, she would sit on the well and hold to my dress tail to keep me from falling in the well while I drew the water.

"My grandmother's place was a little back from a road. All day long Indians were up and down that road. Some were in old, trappy wagons, some walking, some were women carrying babies on their backs. They scared me.

"My dad rented a place about a mile from Grandma's. Since we didn't have a cow, I was sent to Grandmother's for milk. It was a frightening chore. I could just see Indians all along the way in the tall grass ready to get me.

"When we went to the 4th of July picnic, an old chief with a baby the same age as my brother, wanted my dad to change babies with him. It was a joke with him. He knew my father well

Schwertner Visits Austin In Support Of Marketing Bill

Sandhill farmer Arnold Schwertner was in Austin Monday lobbying for the "Interstate Compact on Agricultural Grain Marketing Bill." The bill, HB 1971, was sponsored by Rep. Betty Denton of Waco, representative for District 35-A. The bill passed by an 83-55 margin. Two representatives abstained from voting and two were not present. "HB 1971 was opposed by big grain companies, big feedlots and the Farm Bureau," the Floyd County man stated. The legislation, which "reconciled marketing differces," needs sponsorship by five states to become law. Texas was the third state to offer sponsorship, following Kansas and Oklahoma, which have already passed the measure.

SETS PRICES

Basically the bill sets grain prices after learning the size of foreign crops and helps stabilize prices received by producers. Schwertner says. "The net effect is sharing information with other states."

Rep. Denton, while addressing the House on the bill, said "the market price will not be adequate by itself. Farmers must have adequate information prior to planting." This allows pre-planting decisions and permits producers to devote acreage to other needed crops.

HB 1971, which went to the Senate Thursday, allows for a commission, states: "The commission shall conduct comprehensive and continuing studies and investigations of agricultural grain marketing practices, procedures and controls and their relationship to and effect upon the citizens and economies of the member states."

WHALEY VOTES 'YES'

Rep. Foster Whaley voted in favor of the bill. Sen. Ray Farabee told Schwertner that he plans to vote "yes" on the Senate bill. The Sandhill man believes that the efforts of farmers were instrumental in passage of the bill. American Agriculture Movement and Farmers Union lobbied for passage, and Farm Bureau opposed it.

Approximately 40 farmer proponents of the bill went to Austin. This included 13 Farm Bureau members, along with five county committeemen and five state delegates.

"Leaders of Farm Bureau do not necessarily represent the views of grassroots producers as evidenced by Monday's vote on HB 1971," Schwertner stated.

WHOZITS . . .

FLOYDADA WHOZITS — This husband and wife are Floydada community residents who attended public school here. One hint: they are a ranch family. If you would like to guess at their identity, please phone 983-3737 or contact our office from Monday to Wednesday.

Winfred Payne And Brother Whozits

Mrs. Winfred Payne correctly identified her husband and brother-in-law as the Whozits appearing in last Sunday's Hesperian.

Emily Johnston guessed the Whozits were "the Hales". She believed one of those shown was J.S. Hale because she thought one of the mystery personalities looked like one of her former students, Kent Hale.

LOCKNEY WHOZIT — Anybody recognize this youngster from a snapshot taken... oh, not too long ago....? Call The Beacon, 652-3318, to see if you guessed right.

Ann Foster Was Whozit Last Week

Ann Belt Foster was the Lockney "Whozit" subject last week. Beth Kropp, Ritchie Thornton, and Barbara Mathis correctly identified her.

Inflation is running at 13 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices increased another 1 percent in March, led by sharply higher prices for food, housing, clothing and gasoline, the government said today.

Prices during the first three months of 1979 increased at an annual rate of 13 percent, the highest quarterly rise in 4 1/2 years and far above the administration's target for this year of 7.4 percent. The increase for the 12-month period ending in March was 10.2 percent.

GASOLINE PRICES

Prices during the first three months of 1979 increased at an annual rate of 13 percent, the highest quarterly rise in 4 1/2 years and far above the administration's target for this year of 7.4 percent. The increase for the 12-month period ending in March was 10.2 percent.

nearly four years. Both housing and food costs were up by 1 percent.

The March increase in the Consumer Price Index, which followed a 1.2 percent rise in February, means that the nation's 35 million Social Security recipients will receive a 9.9 percent increase in benefits to offset the impact of inflation.

It was still at a level that reflects the success of the Carter administration's anti-inflation program.

President Carter's top inflation advisers, Barry Bosworth, told the Associated Press that if inflation does not begin to cool soon, it is likely to get much worse as workers demand higher wages.

Reflecting an increase in supplies of lettuce and tomatoes because of weather conditions, the price of these vegetables rose 1 percent in February.

Prices for various other goods followed by the 12-month period ending in February were down from 1978.

nearly four years. Both housing and food costs were up by 1 percent.

The March increase in the Consumer Price Index, which followed a 1.2 percent rise in February, means that the nation's 35 million Social Security recipients will receive a 9.9 percent increase in benefits to offset the impact of inflation.

It was still at a level that reflects the success of the Carter administration's anti-inflation program.

President Carter's top inflation advisers, Barry Bosworth, told the Associated Press that if inflation does not begin to cool soon, it is likely to get much worse as workers demand higher wages.

Reflecting an increase in supplies of lettuce and tomatoes because of weather conditions, the price of these vegetables rose 1 percent in February.

Prices for various other goods followed by the 12-month period ending in February were down from 1978.

Sheep Suggested To Bolster Farm Income

Farmers analyzing every possible opportunity to widen their profit margins might do well to consider sheep, according to Dr. Frank A. Hudson of the Texas Tech University animal science faculty.

"The wool crop brings in one income and lamb has had a high and stable market price at the producer's level," he explained.

The key to making sheep pay is good management, but that can be learned, Hudson said.

"Dollar for dollar, facilities cost less for sheep, and the animals can subsist for most of the year off crop residue. Sheep are just a good supplement to almost any farming operation."

Hudson has found the major problem in handling sheep is the necessity for better quality fencing. The electric fence which serves a cattle operation will only hold sheep as long as they are contented, he said.

"Wool insulates them from the shock of a one-way fence, and, unless the nose hits the wire, there is little to keep them from moving through the barrier."

While the market for breeding stock has gone up, Hudson suggested a shoe-string operation might begin with aged ewes from the range that would serve for two or three years.

"With careful selection of lambs, a flock could be regenerated and put a beginner in the sheep business."

Historically, according to Hudson, people wanting to get into the livestock business have found sheep a good way

PLAN FOR FALL HUNTING

Spring is a good time to begin plans for this fall's deer hunting. A wildlife specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service, A&M University System, said the history of good hunting will be early. Regardless of the weather, it's best to get it in writing.

GSPA Calls For USDA Investigation

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association has called for a Congressional investigation of USDA's failure to administer the 1979 Feed Grain Program, according to the law passed by Congress in 1977. The House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture Chairman Thomas S. Foley, was officially requested to conduct a formal hearing into the problem, in a letter (dated May 21) from GSPA Executive Director Elbert Harp.

The purpose will be to insure that USDA administers the Feed Grain Program as Congress intended. The Agriculture Act of 1977 established a formula for determining grain sorghum target prices. Grain Sorghum Producers Association is asking that this formula be applied.

Dr. Howard Hjort, Director of Economics of USDA, recently admitted to the Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains, "There is in fact a discrepancy. The $2.30 will have to be increased very likely to $2.35, in order to be consistent with the law." GSPA contends that the increase should be 10 to 18 cents (depending upon which USDA cost of production figures are used.)

Harp told the Chairman, "The grain sorghum farmers of the United States are in critical economic condition at this time. They need all possible help to survive the present low prices. The tenant farmers in the United States produce over 50 per cent of the grain sorghum. USDA's latest figures on cost of production to tenant farmers is $5.02 per hundredweight. On May 15, 1979, the average price received by producers throughout the United States was $3.62 per hundredweight, and this is after paying storage and interest on grain from harvest time until the middle of May. This is an average net loss of $1.40 per hundred, plus storage and interest. The 59 cent deficiency payment for the 1978 crop certainly does not bridge that gap. The loss will probably be larger in 1979, due to the increased cost of production and the prospects for another bumper crop. We need your help."

CATTLE GRUB CONTROL OUTLINED

Each year between May and September, Texas livestock producers can control costly cattle grubs by applying systemic insecticides.

During late fall and winter, the cattle grub appears on the backs of animals. It's too late to begin control measures then since most of the damage has already been done.

However, applying a systemic insecticide—one which is absorbed into the animal's bloodstream—can control grubs effectively between May and September.

In addition to controlling cattle grubs, the insecticide will also provide contact control of horn flies for two to three weeks. This makes the overall cost of treatment favorable.

The cattle grub is the larval stage of the heel fly. The fly has no mouth parts, so it causes no pain to the cattle. However, it frightens cattle, making them difficult to manage. Animals often seek relief by standing in shade or deep water.

The life cycle begins when the heel fly lays its egg on an animal. The eggs, glued to hairs, hatch within a few days, and larvae (worms) enter the skin at hair follicles. The worms then migrate through the animal's body for six to eight months and reappear in the animal's back in the fall and winter, forming knot-like marbles or cysts.

Cattle grubs cause greater losses than any other cattle pests. Besides damaging meat and hides by their burrowing, they lower beef cattle gains and production throughout the year. Profit losses are estimated in the millions of dollars each year.

COTTON TODAY

After a one-year reversal in 1978 of a downward trend set in 1972, Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) values for predominant High Plains cotton qualities, relation to the base Strict Low Middling 1-1/16 inch, 52 to 4.9 micronaire, declined again for 1979.

Discounts for the shorter staples and lower grades this year are up as much as 35 points (.35 cents) over 1978. Most increases, however, are in the 15 to 25 point range. Discounts for low micronaire cotton are up from five points for 3.3 through 3.4 micronaire to 40 points for 2.6 and below.

Loan premiums and discounts for the 1979 crop, recently by USDA, apply to a national average base rate of 50.23 cents per pound for SLM 1-1/16 inch, 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire at average location. The base 1979 loan is 2.23 cents above last year's 48-cent loan.

Premiums and discounts assigned to the loan program according to USDA, reflect spot market quotations for the August through April period of the previous marketing year.

The chart below shows a comparison of premiums and discounts in the 1978 and 1979 loan programs.
