Weddings

Miss Pinkerton, Van Bruce Miller Marry In Plainview

Miss Dianna LaVerne Pinkerton and Van Bruce Miller exchanged wedding vows June 15 in the 11th and Amarillo Street Church of Christ in Plainview. Davis Murr, church of Christ minister, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse J. Pinkerton of Olton Route, Plainview. Miller, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orba Miller of Floydada, attended West Texas State and is a farmer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza. The dress was fashioned with a queen Ann neckline, a Venise lace bodice and ruffle cap sleeves which adorned the empire bodice. A satin ribbon encircled the midriff and the full A-line skirt gracefully flowed into a chapel length train, also bordered in Venise lace. She carried a bouquet of white daisies atop a white bible.

Maid of honor was Helen Ann Hayes of Edmonson. She and bridesmaids Jana Marshall and Andrea Hayes wore floor length dresses of yellow dotted swiss with a square neckline and butterfly sleeves. The attendants also carried a bouquet of daisies.

Flower girl was Stacy James, and ring bearer was Callen Pinkerton. Lyle Miller, brother of the groom of Floydada, was best man. Ushers were David Pinkerton, brother of the bride of Plainview; Marcus Murr; Kent Marshall; J. Royce Bradshaw; Brad Hayes and Charles Lane.

Groomsmen were Mark Miller and Hugh Miller, brothers of the groom. An archway of greenery, bedecked with daisies and yellow tapers in spiral candelabras, provided a pleasing atmosphere as bridal music was presented by a double quartet composed of Mark Hayes, Tim Lane, Scott Pinkerton, Kelly Hayes, Rhonda James, Vicki Hayes, Gary House and Gladys Offield.

Cake and punch were served at the reception hosted by the bride's parents in the Hale County Bank Centennial Room.

Following a wedding trip to New Mexico the couple will be at home in Floydada.

Mrs. Van Bruce Miller

"Try not to become a man of success but rather try to become a man of value." Albert Einstein

From this area, those attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Dub Mercer, Mr. and Mrs. Hilburn Casey (the groom's grandparents), Mr. and Mrs. Donice Casey, Denis, Dena and Dee Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Duvall, Mrs. Robert McCray of Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Kellison, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bean, Casey and Brent of Silverton.

News And Reviews

Media Center by Beth Pratt

Some of the Sunday School students will be taking their lessons from the book of Revelations this month. There are as many views of this book as there are authors, almost. One of the best is Ray Summer's WORTHY IS THE LAMB. I like his presentation and format. He gives the various schools of thought and methods of Biblical interpretation, which much affect the conclusions drawn by the scholar. After reading this book, the reader is in a better position to evaluate some of the more popular books written about the book of Revelation. Hal Lindsey's THERE'S A NEW WORLD COMING is an example of these current writings.

Bubblegum Bible Brigade participants, remember that you can earn points by being present Sunday evening at 6:00 p.m. We will be giving you a chance to say Bible memory verses and will see another filmstrip that will teach us more about our Bibles. There are only two more weeks left to earn points and some of you need to check out for top point boy or girl in your grade. We will see you Sunday in the Media Center or at 6 p.m. for the Bubblegum Bible Brigade program.

Bride And Groom Cookware Guide

Not too long ago, after the honeymoon, the bride headed for the kitchen and the groom to his work. Not anymore. Today it's more likely that both make a beeline for the kitchen when they return home from their jobs. According to recent surveys, many young couples are sharing the cooking chores, and what's more, they're "cooking from scratch" with fresh ingredients.

This change in lifestyle has made husbands-to-be as concerned as their brides in choosing the right cookware for their new home. After all, pots and pans will be used every day, so it's important to check out performance, convenience and necessary upkeep as well as appearance. To guide future couples to the type of cookware that will best suit their needs, here is a rundown on the different kinds.

To begin with, most cookware is made of metal — aluminum, cast iron, stainless steel and copper — each has its attributes. By far the most popular metal for cookware is aluminum, for lots of good reasons. It's an excellent conductor of heat, cooks food fast and without hot spots, which means better browning and less scorching. Also, it's lightweight and easy to handle, and relatively inexpensive. Available either in a polished bright finish or clad in porcelain enamel in a range of popular colors, new aluminum cookware is attractive and functional. Another plus in some heavy-weight aluminum cookware is a thick, durable non-stick "SilverStone" surface that resists staining, chipping or peeling; it releases food easily and is a snap to clean.

Cast iron cookware has been around for centuries and with proper care, can last for centuries. It, too, is an excellent conductor of heat and cooks food slowly and evenly. However, it is extremely heavy and often rusts, so it needs frequent seasoning. Some iron cookware is coated with brightly colored enamel which eliminates the rusting problem but which adds to its weight as well as the price.

Stainless steel is sleek looking, strong and durable but a poor conductor of heat, prone to hot spots and scorching. To overcome this, most stainless cookware is combined with other metals. Some have copper bottoms, others a core of carbon steel or aluminum which helps to distribute heat evenly. To keep it looking its best, stainless must be polished occasionally with special cleansers. Prices for quality stainless cookware range from high to expensive. Copper is an excellent conductor of heat and makes superb cookware. It's also highly decorative but requires frequent polishing to keep it bright and shiny. Unfortunately, it is now so expensive as to be virtually out of reach except for professional chefs.

Some other things to look for when buying cookware: covers fit snugly, bottoms are flat or slightly concave; utensils have proper balance and don't slip; knobs and handles are heat resistant and easy to grasp; and utensil has no seams, cracks or crevices that will make it hard to clean.

Lastly, no matter what cookware you select, read and heed the manufacturer's use and care instructions. They will tell you if the utensils are dishwasher safe, can go in a hot oven and the proper cleaning products to use. Follow this advice, and your saucepans and skillets will reward you with a countless number of efficiently cooked meals.

Select beans, peas and lentils with a bright, uniform color, a consumer marketing information specialist recommends. Loss of color usually indicates long storage, lack of freshness and a product that will take longer to cook. Gwendolyn Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, points out.

Documentary Stars

To Speak In Lubbock

Dorothy and Robert DeBolt, the parents featured in the award-winning documentary, "Who Are the DeBolts — and Where Did They Get 19 Kids?", will be guest speakers at a forum on adoptions, slated Friday and Saturday, June 22 and 23 at Lubbock Christian College (LCC) in Lubbock.

On Saturday, participants may attend any four of some 20 group sessions which will examine specific problems and situations associated with adoption, child-rearing and the family.

Cost of the forum is $10.00 per person for both days (including banquet and lunch Saturday) or $5.00 per person for the banquet and lunch Saturday (including lunch). Child care, at a charge of $1.00 per family each day, will be available at the Green Lawn Church of Christ adjacent to the LCC campus.

Public Invited To Ranching Heritage Center July 4th Event

A flag-waving, whizz-bang 1979 Fourth of July, with singing, games and oratory in the best American tradition, will take Ranching Heritage Center visitors back to Independence Day celebrations of yesteryear. As many as 3,000 are expected to participate this July 4. Before the celebration, which lasts from 5-9 p.m., there will be dedications marking progress in the development of the Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University. Dedication ceremonies, for which there is no charge, will last from 4-5 p.m.

The Ranching Heritage Association will dedicate the Jewell House, a mid-nineteenth century limestone ranch house which stood roofless at the center until research could determine the roof contours.

A special time is reserved for nostalgia in the dedication of a live oak tree to the memory of the late Mayor Ray Bass, whose earlier Fourth of July oratories endeared him to Ranching Heritage Center audiences. His law partner for more than 19 years, Kenneth Hobbs, will speak at the dedication of the Roy Bass tree.

Dr. Leslie C. Drew, director of The Museum, said that guests will be invited to join the dedication procession which precedes the festivities. Following the dedications the site will be closed briefly and then reopened for the fun and games.

The celebration is sponsored by the Dozent-Volunteer Guild of The Museum. Cost is $2 a family and first and second place ribbons will be presented for all contests: watermelon-eating, seed-spitting, washer-pitching, horseshoe-pitching, three-legged and sack races. Competition will be divided by ages.

There will be patriotic singing by Dr. Moses Turner, director of the Lubbock Civic Chorale, Eddie Nicholson, the rocking chair philosopher, will perform as will the barbershop quartet, Music West, and the Lubbock Municipal Band.

Lemonade and popcorn, small flags and balloons will be available for purchase on the site, with all proceeds benefiting the Dozent-Volunteer Guild and the Ranching Heritage Association.

Wishing Wells and Well-Wishers

Few wishing wells left. Those that remain are preserved more by sentiment than superstition.

Lots of well-wishers, though! They guild the day with their cheery platitudes. They just know everything will work out right — without their getting involved.

Lord, grant me grace to be a friend — not a well-wisher. Give me courage to stand for something, and to stand with others who share the belief. Prime me with vision to build tomorrow . . . faith to know it will come . . . patience to await the dawn.

Deliver me, Lord, from the sentimentality of simply wishing . . . the polite indifference of well-wishing . . . the numbing temptation not to get involved.

Lead me! To church . . . conviction . . . commitment.

Care Center Family

By Yvonne Steele

The big news this month at the Lockney Care Center is the addition of a new card table and matching chair and a 1908 model A clock for the living room. Not only do we want to thank those of you who donated stamp books which helped us get these three items, but we also want to thank everyone who donated money for our new rocking chair. (However, we still need green stamps in order to get three more matching chairs for the card table.)
Our congratulations goes to Eula Thornton who will soon be celebrating a June birthday. Several ladies from the Main Street Church of Christ furnished refreshments for the monthly birthday party for our residents.
We were delighted to receive a letter from Lula Mae and Charlie Cottrell who recently moved to Oklahoma. They miss everyone here but are liking their new home and activities. Lula Mae really enjoyed the bingo, especially since she won two games. They would love to hear from their friends here. Their mailing address is Four Seasons Nursing Center, Ha-

A Dog Majority?

ONE OF THE PROBLEMS WITH CONTROLLING THE DOG NUISANCE IN A CITY SUCH AS Canadian is that there are a lot more dogs than there are dog owners. And while not all dogs constitute a public nuisance, a lot of them do...and not all of those who do lack owners. Dog owners are notoriously jealous of the privileges and quick to come to the defense of their pets when any law or law enforcement person threatens the life or liberty of free-running animals.
So the "dog problem" often becomes a "dog owner problem".
The first step toward a solution, it seems to us, has got to be to isolate the "owned" dogs from the "orphans". This can be done, under current city law, by removing all un-tagged (and therefore un-licensed) dogs from the city streets. To do this effectively would require a concerted effort, employing several people probably for several days to round up and pen up the strays, and to do away with all those not claimed within the time required by law.
Until this is done first, it is not going to be possible to isolate the problem dogs who are "owned". But it ought to be done, for the public safety and the public health, immediately after the annual vaccination and licensing day on May 12...which is Saturday.

It isn't going to be done unless a lot of public pressure develops, because city officials are notoriously reluctant to take any real action to do away with the dog problem in Canadian. But it ought to be done.
And it can't be done by the one animal control officer the city employs on a regular basis. To do the job effectively would require extra help on an organized basis for a few days. But it could be done, the cost would not be prohibitive, and it ought to be done.

The problem is obvious to many citizens...to those who like to walk, or jog, for exercise, for example. Canadian streets are not pleasant places, day or night, for pedestrian pleasures...except for those who enjoy having their progress heralded, block by block, by barking dogs...and occasionally impeded by attacking ones.

The problem is obvious also to children who ride bikes...and their numbers will be increasing as school classes are dismissed...because bicycles offer precious little protection from harassing dogs which challenge the right of passage, and more than one youngster has been bitten and countless others frightened by free-running dogs.

The problem is obvious, as a matter of fact, to almost everyone except some dog owners who resent any restrictions and city officials who are reluctant to enforce any. If the dogs were permitted to vote, there's no question about which side would win in a public election, because the dogs may well be in the majority right now, and their careless owners would surely be enough to tip the scales if they aren't.

But if the people who are concerned about the dog problem in Canadian would express themselves en masse at City Hall, they might make a sufficient impression to get action...and action to reduce the dog population and isolate the real problem dogs is definitely needed, and needed now.

—Canadian Record
We've been hearing in the past few days from a lot of concerned citizens about the high price of swimming in Canadian's beautiful new municipal swimming pool this season...and we hope our City Council members have been hearing from them, too, because it's the Council that sets the rates, not the newspaper.

Interestingly, the protesters seem to cover the whole economic and family spectrum...from those with a lot of money and those with little, from those with children and those without. Their indignation is generated by what seems to be inordinately high rates for use of the municipal pool which was built for the recreational pleasure of the whole community...rates which are more than double those charged last year.

Obviously it costs money to provide recreational facilities...to operate swimming pools, light playing fields, maintain parks. But surely no one expects them to be money-makers, or even to be self-supporting, any more than police protection, that's why we organize ourselves into communities, we vote bond issues and pay taxes...so that we can do, collectively, what we are unable to do for ourselves individually.

Sounds like socialism? In a sense, it is...but in a practical rather than a political sense. All democratic government is socialist to the extent that a majority of the citizens in a democracy vote to tax themselves collectively (and proportionately) to provide services which the community wants or needs. "Democratic" and "majority" and "vote" are the key words in this equation.

If all of these people who are objecting to the doubled-rates being charged this summer for use of our municipal pool make their voices heard by their elected representatives on the City Council, we expect Council members will heed and respond. That's the way a Democracy works.

But don't ask them to provide you with something for nothing. Let them know that you're willing to pay taxes to provide this service so that the charges for use of it can be kept within the reach of everyone. We need to pay taxes to build that $275,000 pool for community benefit...it seems to us that it is those who can afford those $140 rates for the season. If we stick with what we predict that the "operating deficit" will be greater than it was when the rates were lower.

A Tax Change

Governor Clements has signed the so-called tax reform bill which will indeed make a lot of changes for Texas taxpayers. Whether we will like all these changes once we get acquainted with them remains to be seen.

One big change is to set up a single tax appraisal board for all property within a county, except for the county government itself.

This means that the property in Ochiltree County will next year have to be appraised by an appraisal board and use the same figures for the school, city, hospital district, water district and any other taxing authorities.

The county can use this appraisal if the commissioners elect to do so, but as a matter of practical politics, we doubt it will be done.

This is for the simple reason that rural property is already appraised on the school tax roll at more than ten times what it is appraised on the county tax roll. It would take a politician with more political courage than most of us possess to jack rural property values ten fold at the stroke of a pen.

The new state tax law grants homestead exemptions for the disabled and the elderly. Family cars and household goods are exempt.

Farm and ranch land will be taxed on its productivity rather than its market value. Under the formula of capitalization announced by the state, it would mean a drop in taxes for some land on the school tax roll and an increase in all land on the county tax roll.

The school districts of the state stand to lose a lot of revenue under the new state law and the state will reimburse the districts for part of what they lose, leaving it up to local districts to figure out how to recover the rest.

It will take a lot of study on the new tax bill and as is always the case with a major change, some of us probably won't like it.

Farm - Jobless Link Shown

These graphs, which are based on government figures, show unemployment drops in this country when agriculture does well.

In 1915, for example, farm prices dropped to 74 percent of parity, and employment went up to 7.5 percent.

Two years later, farmers got 118 percent of parity for their crops, and unemployment dropped to three percent.

Farm prices plunged to 57 percent of parity in the Great Depression year of 1932, and 22 percent of the workforce had no jobs.

The most recent government figures, for 1977, show farm prices dropping to 65 percent, while unemployment jumped up to 8.5 percent.

Suggestions Offered In Mosquito Battle

PAUL W. TREPTOW III
CROSBY-FLOYD COUNTY
EXTENSION ENTOMOLOGIST

Recent rains have brought a mosquito problem to many Texas communities. Standing water from these showers makes an excellent breeding place for mosquitoes, noted County Extension Entomologist Paul Treptow.

Mosquitoes can lay eggs wherever standing water is available for a week or longer. "Old tires, tin cans, birdbaths, roadside ditches, rain gutters, temporary water containers and swampy places all can hold enough water to provide breeding sites for mosquitoes," the County Entomologist warned.

If mosquitoes are a problem, the first thing to do is eliminate their breeding sites.

Empty out old tires and place them where they cannot collect additional water. Flatten and discard tin cans.

Change the water in birdbaths every week. Clean out rain gutters, remove temporary water containers and see that rain barrels and water storage tubs are tightly covered. Drain standing water from ditches and swampy areas.

"If there is standing water that serves as a breeding site but cannot be drained or eliminated, treatment with a larvicide will be necessary," Treptow said.

One of the most effective larvicides is No. 2 diesel oil with a biodegradable spreader, applied at a rate of 20 gallons for each surface acre of water, or approximately 6 ounces per 100 square feet of surface.

Abate, malathion or Dursban applied to standing water at rates indicated on their labels also are effective larvicides, the county entomologist said. But he warned that labels should read carefully to determine the hazards these insecticides pose to persons applying them and to fish and animals that may use the water.

Adult mosquitoes around the home can best be controlled by space or residual treatments of insecticides such as malathion, Dibrom, methoxychlor, or Dursban, he suggested. Space treatments, generally fogs, have very little residual activity and require repeating at frequent intervals. Space treatment should be done during the cool hours of the night or early morning and when wind velocity is less than five miles an hour.

Residual treatment applied as mists or sprays to the resting sites of adult mosquitoes gives longer-lasting control than space treatments, the county entomologist noted. These should be applied to vegetation, eaves of roofs, under porches, and similar shaded areas where adult mosquitoes rest by day.

Soviets Indicate Continuing Large Purchases Of U.S. Grain

WASHINGTON —The U.S. Department of Agriculture today reported that, during regular consultations in Moscow May 31, officials of the Soviet Union indicated that relatively large purchases of U.S. grain would be continuing. These consultations continued a series held semi-annual pursuant to the U.S.-USSR Grain Agreement.

It was confirmed during the talks that purchases of U.S. wheat and corn for delivery in the year which began last Oct. 1 had reached a total of approximately 10 million tons, and that additional purchases for current year shipment will likely be made in coming months. This is the third year of the 5-year agreement.

The U.S. delegation was headed by Under Secretary of Agriculture Dale Hathaway, while the Soviet delegation was headed by Boris Gordeev, Deputy Minister of Foreign Trade.

Despite a record Soviet grain crop in 1978, it had until recently been anticipated that USSR imports of U.S. grain in the current year would total approximately 10 to 11 million tons, thus significantly exceeding the minimum 6 million tons specified in the Agreement. Now, however, as a result of recent Soviet purchasing and the May 31 discussions, the expectation is for a somewhat higher level of shipments, possibly 13 to 15 million tons. Shipments of U.S. wheat are not expected to greatly exceed 3 million tons.

Concerning prospects for the year of the Agreement, the general state of progress for the coming year grain crop appears less than that of one year ago. However, the tentative forecasts of grain exports for 1979 continued relatively large shipments to the USSR ahead.

The next regular meeting of the Agreement was scheduled for early October.

Shipping Fever Study Underway

Shipping fever costs U.S. cattle raisers a hefty 100 million dollars per year. For every four calves that are shipped, one gets the disease. Eight percent of those contacting the disease die. Finding a cure for this disease would cut production costs and supply a lot more beef for consumers.

Dr. Mike Irwin, research veterinarian at the Texas A&M Research Center at Amarillo, has been trying to develop control methods for shipping fever. In his study of the disease, he learned that cattle are handled very much the same in Australia as the United States. There is one big difference: Australian cattle do not get shipping fever.

Irwin contacted several scientists in Australia and made a comparative study of cattle raising, marketing and transportation in the United States and Australia.

In both countries cattle are shipped long distances from where they are raised. Irwin thinks there are some differences that prevent shipping fever in Australia. Vehicle design, speed and distances traveled are different in the two countries. In the United States trucks travel 70 miles per hour. This exposes the cattle to strong winds and a severe chill factor during cool weather.

In Australia, trucks only travel up to 30 miles per hour over unimproved country roads. Cattle breathe a lot of dust but are not exposed to severe chilling. After being trucked a comparatively short distance, Australian cattle are put on more comfortable railroad cars for transportation to the coast.

Irwin and his colleagues found that weather conditions during transportation vary in the two countries. The United States has more extreme variations of hot and cold than Australia. In Australia daytime temperature at the start of the trip will be very close to that at the end of the trip at the coast. There is, however, big variation in day and night temperature, the same as the United States. In the United States it is not uncommon to pick up cattle from the Southeast in 80 degree temperatures. After a 48 hour, 2,000 mile trip to West Texas, they may be unloaded in below freezing temperatures.

The marketing systems are different in the two countries and also could have a bearing on exposure to shipping fever. In the United States cattle are moved from farms where they are born and mixed with other cattle at sale barns. After the sale they are moved to an order buyers facility, and mixed with other cattle to make up a load.

This may take up to a week and during this time calves become weak because they eat and drink poorly. There is ample opportunity and time for exposure to disease. After this treatment, cattle are subjected to the stress and trauma of a long ride to a new unfamiliar home.

The marketing system is different in Australia. Cattle from the same ranch are shipped together. They are trucked to a rail head and are rapidly shipped to the coast where they are sold before they are mixed with other cattle. The stress of shipping comes before they are mixed with other cattle and possible exposure to disease. Irwin figures that cattle are more able to ward off disease under the Australian system than with methods used in the United States.

The scientists also made a careful study of disease organisms associated with cattle in the two countries. IBR, PI 3, and BVD are viruses commonly associated with shipping fever in the United States. Australian scientists found these organisms are widely distributed throughout the cattle population of Australia. This leads Irwin to believe that these organisms are as important as thought by U.S. scientists. In the United States associated with shipping fever are Pasteurella hemolytica and Pasteurella multocida. In Australia these organisms were not common. Australian cattle are not exposed to a variety of diseases prior to shipment. The United States do not cause shipping fever in the United States.

After studying all of the reasons why Australia has no shipping fever, Irwin speculates there are reasons why Australia has no shipping fever. First, the calves are not exposed to a variety of diseases prior to shipment. Secondly, the absence of Pasteurella hemolytica and Pasteurella multocida in Australia are common to cattle having shipping fever in the United States.

"Our studies with cattle systems in the United States have given us a number of ideas which may help in shipping fever in the United States," Irwin said.

MORE FEEDER CATTLE THIS FALL

Relative to feeder cattle should be considered available this fall.

According to Lloyd Cline of Lamesa, past president of the Cotton Producers' Association, current board chairman of Plains Cotton Growers, Lubbock, the Jones-Madigan all-risk crop insurance under consideration in Washington "has been improved but is still far from satisfactory."

Cline and PCG past president W.B. Criswell of Dallas represented the organization June 7 at a meeting of the Texas Association of Cotton Producers Organizations in Dallas where the bill was discussed.

The major producer objection to the bill is its "phase out" the disaster provisions of the current program which are now slated to expire with the 1979 year. As introduced the bill would have extended the program through 1981 but would have excluded from participation all farmers in counties where the new crop insurance was offered.

This was changed in a House Conservation and Subcommittee mark-up session to extend the disaster provisions for all producers in 1980 and only for those not offering all-risk insurance in 1981.

"One year is of course better than nothing," Cline said, "but we are continuing to work in the full House Committee and in the Senate for a two-year disaster program extension without restrictions."

The insurance feature of the bill calls for giving producers a choice of insurance coverage on 50, 65 or 75 percent of the farm's established yield with a 30 percent subsidy on premium up to 65 percent coverage.

TACPO reaffirmed its standing position, which is similar to that of PCG, asking that the disaster program be in full effect until such time as a workable, affordable, all-risk insurance program has been developed and proven effective.

Castro County farmer Charles Axtell of Route 1 Springdale has been named Chairman of the 1979-80 Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Finance Committee and has set the committee's first meeting for June 27.

The appointment was made recently by newly elected PCG President Joe D. Unfred of New Home. Axtell was replaced by Gary Ivey of Ralls, who now serves as PCG's Vice President.

Unfred named Henry Kveton of Route 2 Peterson, Hale County, as Vice Chairman of the 11-man committee. Others appointed include Alvia Calvert of Brownfield, Cline of Lamesa, W.B. Criswell of Idalou, Ivey, Frank J. J.D. Smith of Sudan, Dan Turner of O'Donnell, Jack Coahoma, and Kenneth Wofford of Lockney.

The PMC "Wedge-Wik" rope applicator applies contact herbicide to weeds growing taller than the crop. Although this is the primary use, many other possibilities are being considered.

PRINCIPLE OF OPERATION

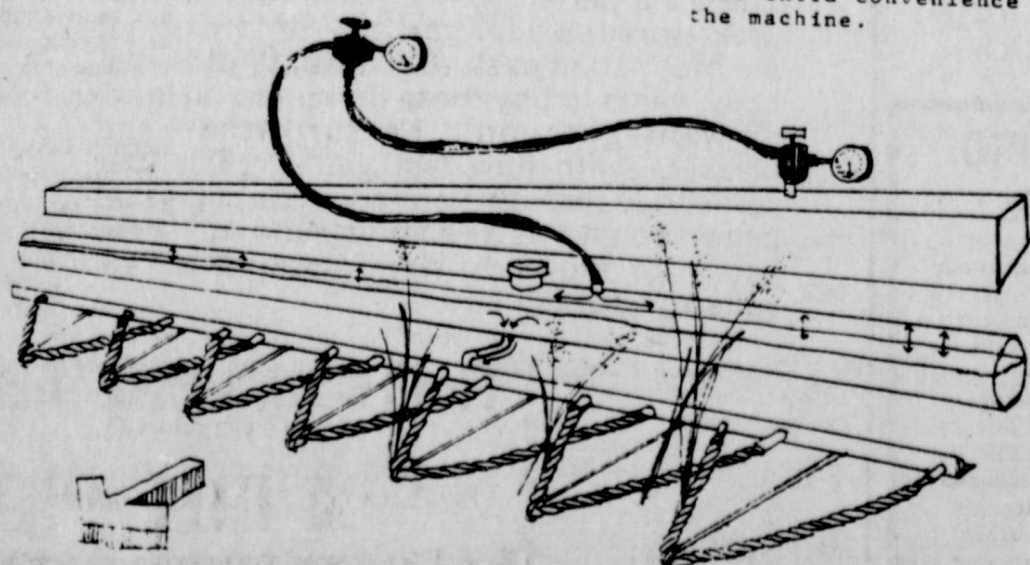

Compressed air is contained and held in the center section of the toolbar. Operational pressure is 3 to 100 psi. Optional air compressor kit maintains a steady pressure of 20-40 psi. Primary air pressure flows through manifold mounted on toolbar to cab-mounted precision regulator and special pressure gage which indicates secondary pressure from 0-60" water column. Regulated pressure then flows to the top of the PVC chemical tanks and forces the chemical out and into the hose manifold to which the ropes are connected. Varying degrees of rope wetness can be obtained easily and simply by adjusting the cab-mounted regulator.
