Mackenzie Board gives 'go-ahead'

The Mackenzie Municipal Water Authority board of directors Tuesday night paved the way for bond elections in the four cities served by the authority. The board adopted an operating budget, authorized lake manager Neil Taylor to sign applications for federal grants to pay for part of $15,000,000 project, and adopted a resolution to apply for a $3,405,000 loan to complete the first (supply) phase of the project.

Total estimated cost of the supply phase is $4,405,000, but there is a good possibility of obtaining a grant of $1,000,000 from the Farmers Home Administration. The FmHA has indicated that it will make a five-percent interest loan for the remaining $3,405,000.

Nichols Engineers, Fort Worth, met with the board Tuesday night at the lake near Silverton. Once it receives a commitment from the FmHA, the Mackenzie board can call for elections in the four member cities to authorize the issuance of general obligation bonds to pay for the project. $1,255,000 in general obligation bonds is already authorized; the authority is counting on the million-dollar FmHA grant. That leaves some $2,150,000 in bonds to be authorized. The bond issue must pass in all four member cities — if voters in one city turn it down, the issue will be defeated. The earliest the election can be called is (See 'Mackenzie,' page 2)

gun stolen from Baccus Motor

Several new car and a handgun were stolen from a Baccus Motor Company sometime early Monday morning, Lockney police chief Bill were reported apprehended Wednesday afternoon in Plainview in another stolen car. McConnell said entry to the Ford dealership was gained by unscrewing a bolt to the lock on a window on the east side of the building. The keys to all of Baccus' new cars and pickups were stolen, and a .38-caliber revolver was taken from the office area, McConnell said. A 1978 Thunderbird, a demonstrator model, was driven from the car lot.

The break-in was discovered when owner Rusty Baccus and parts man Nino Garcia came to work Monday morning. The police chief said whoever did it apparently knew exactly what he wanted. The parts room was not entered, no tools were taken, and no evidence of forced entry was visible from the outside of the building.

School board seeks head coach

The Lockney Independent School District trustees Monday night instructed the superintendent W.H. Hallmark to start accepting applications for the position of Lockney High School head football coach.

Other action taken by the school board at the regular monthly meeting Monday night included adoption of a resolution to collect school district taxes on automobiles next year, approving payment of the LISD share of the county-wide tax appraisal, accepting a bid for school property, and officially approving the hiring of two new teachers. Warren's head coach/athletic director responsibilities end after the football game tomorrow night. Coach Steve Culwell was named interim head coach/AD when Warren accepted the junior-high principal's position in July, but Hallmark told the school board that Culwell has not been promised the permanent head coach job. The superintendent said he expects Culwell and

Floyd County telephone bills will go up soon

Floyd County telephone customers, along with other Southwestern Bell System users around the state will pay more for service soon.

The Public Utilities Commission last week granted a Bell request to raise the price of all telephone services.

Residential telephone bills will go up $1.15 for basic service under the new rate structure, still less than the $1.55 that the Bell company wanted.

Business telephone customers will pay an extra $3.45 a month for the basic service package. Pay telephones will cost a quarter.

The date of the rate increase is still in doubt. A company spokesperson in the Southwestern Bell Plainview office said Tuesday that they had received no information on when the new rates would take effect.

A high-ranking telephone company executive estimated, however, that the new rates would probably go into effect in about two weeks.

The rate increases also included "extra" services on business lines; such as PBX boards, Centrex, and Touchtone service.

The Public Utilities Commission approved the Bell request by a two-to-one vote last Friday. Commissioner Garrett Morris cast the dissenting vote.

The increase was $6.5 million less than the $145.2 asked for by the telephone company. The commission agreed to increase the company's yearly income by $138.7 million.

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — For many years now there has been a continuing controversy over the separation of powers between state and federal governments. Their lines of authority have been blurred as power has become centralized in Washington and local control has suffered.

Education has traditionally been an area where state and local governments have determined the allocation of resources. But in the last several years the tenancies of the federal bureaucracy have gradually increased their control over our schools.

Recently $4.1 million in scholarship money for Texas students was impounded by the Office of Education because of a confrontation over the states' right to maintain their own quality standards for higher education. The federal government was pressing states to broaden their criteria for participation in the State Student Incentive Grant program. This action would have forced Texas to share grant funds with an additional 34 nonprofit postsecondary institutions which were not accredited and were not recognized as institutions of higher education by the state. The end result would have been a weakening of the standards of quality that our state officials have sought to maintain.

It was the position of our educators to resist this federal intrusion into state authority. At the risk of losing these funds, the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System held firm. A legislative solution was worked out. The Congress passed a provision that would exempt states from the requirement to make all nonprofit institutions eligible for the State Student Incentive Grant program. This is one small victory for local control of education.

If this action had not taken place 10,000 students attending public and private colleges and universities would not have received their scholarship aid for the spring semester. It is indeed callous of the Office of Education to threaten these students because of bureaucratic dispute.

It is evident that most Americans are dissatisfied with the way the federal government spends our tax dollars. A recent survey done by the Opinion Research Corporation found that citizens believe the services rendered by Washington are inferior to those received by local governments. They found that only 29 percent of respondents believed the federal government is giving the taxpayers good services for the taxes collected. Certainly most people are in agreement that funds are better spent by local authorities. These people have a knowledge of the problems and can find the answers. I hope our educators will continue to resist interference by the federal bureaucracy. It is only by local resistance that the flood of federal control can be stopped. Rest assured we will be helpful whenever we can in the Congress.

Depression and crash effects are still being felt

The crash of the stock market 50 years ago this fall was one of the most terrible tragedies in the American experience.

The crash marked the beginning of the Great Depression and its heavy influence is still felt today in our country's economic policy decisions.

"What I remember most about that whole terrible time," one man said recently, "was my friend's suicide. He had invested $30,000 that he was supposed to be holding in escrow. He jumped right out the window on the 11th floor where we were working."

"Black Tuesday" — October 29, 1929 — was the day the bottom fell out of the market. On that day, at a Kansas City club, John G. Schwitzgebel fired two shots into his chest. "Tell the boys I can't pay them what I owe them," read the note he left behind.

Fortunes were wiped out. General Motors stock fell from $91 in 1929 to $8 in 1932. William C. Durant, the man who founded GM, wound up running a bowling alley in Flint, Michigan.

As Chairman of the Joint Economic Committee I recently presided over special hearings in observance of the 50th anniversary of the crash.

Three of our nation's most eminent economists were the witnesses — John Kenneth Galbraith, Walter Heller and Alan Greenspan.

Galbraith, described what happened: "...the great crash was the counterpart of the insane speculation in common stock in 1927, 1928 and especially in the summer of 1929 that preceded it."

"...Prices first went up." Galbraith said, "because of good earnings. Then they took leave of reality. The market was taken over by people for whom the only important fact was that prices were going up. Their buying then put the price up but with the certainty that when the supply of such speculators — and gulls — ran out, as eventually it would, the upward movement would come to an end and prices would collapse in the rush to get out."

A $10,000 a year salary was enormous back in those days, but the strong bull market of '27, '28 and '29 caused so many people to make so much extra cash that money became meaningless for many of them.

The stock market peaked in September of '29. Heavy losses were recorded on October 23, panic set in on the morning of October 24 ("Black Thursday") but a group of bankers pooled their resources and buoyed the market by having one of their number stroll out onto the floor and place buy orders.

Then, on October 29, the bottom fell out. "Black Tuesday." The most devastating day in the history of the New York stock market. The New York Times index fell 43 points and the market started a plunge that didn't end until July 8, 1932.

Clarence Birdseye, who started Birdseye Foods on a shoestring and sold it to General Foods for $30 million, was one of the worst victims. He put his entire fortune into the market shortly before the crash and it was obliterated. The economists at the special JEC hearing on the anniversary of the crash were in agreement that history is not likely to repeat itself.

More than 9,000 banks failed during the Great Depression, but we have deposit insurance today, substantially reducing the prospect of people lining up in panic to draw their money out. We also have unemployment compensation and an international monetary fund to cut out some of the gyrations that accompanied the crash and many other safeguards that cushion our economy against the threat of another depression.

We must not fail to note, though, that while our economic problems today are different from those of 1929, they are nonetheless very serious.

Excessive government regulation and a lack of research and development among other things, have helped fuel inflation and compound our economic woes.

The Joint Economic Committee has recognized these problems and is working to forge a consensus for resolving them.

Our economic problems in 1979 — 50 years after the crash — are real enough.

But there are incentives that can be provided. There are positive steps that we can take to put this country's economy back on track and send the greatest economic engine the world has ever known moving toward renewed prosperity.

Caprock Trappers slate turkey shoot for Saturday

The Caprock Trappers Association want to remind all our members and the public of our Saturday, November 17 all day turkey shoot at Dickens rifle and pistol club — 3 miles North of Dickens on Hwy 70. There will be trap setting demonstrations. Lure and Baits will be available for sale. (Watch for signs) We want to remind every one of our upcoming fur sales — 1st Saturday in January, 1st Saturday in February, 1st Saturday in March and possible the 1st Saturday in April, at the old high school gym in Roaring Springs, Texas, one block off of Hwy 70. Fur buyers from all over the nation are already contacting us. All reports indicate stable fur prices.

Hang on to those Non-target animals such as skunks, possum, badgers etc., with the current rabies status in Texas, Caprock urges you not to release these animals. Their fur can help pay many of your expenses and all indications show that Non-target animals are in over abundance which is the primary cause of the rabies epidemic. That is nature's way of thinning out the over-populated wildlife.

We urge you to wear rubber gloves in all your handling of the pelts as Dr. Board, of the Texas Department of Health states that skunk, possum, raccoon, etc., are the highest percentage of rabies carriers. If possible you should contact Dr. Board at the Health Department in Lubbock to receive the rabies prevention vaccine. Of the 20 or so of our members that have received this we have no reports of any side effects of the vaccine.

Mackenzie plan takes another step forward

The December meeting of the board.

George Sparkman, a Lockney representative on the Mackenzie board, said after the Tuesday-night meeting, "If all four communities don't wholly support it, we've just got a high-priced fishing hole." (Lake Mackenzie, where the dam and reservoir are already completed and the reservoir is over 30 percent full.)

Owen Thornton, the other Lockney representative on the Mackenzie board, said "It's not going to get any cheaper." Estimated cost of the supply phase of project has already increased from approximately $1 1/2 million in 1972 to the nearly $4 1/2 million current estimate.

If the bond issue is approved, the project will proceed, and Mackenzie taxes will increase from the present 55 cents per $100 valuation to $1 per $100. City taxes will not be affected.

Floydada board members Lon Davis, president, and S.W. Ross were also at the meeting.

In addition to the Mackenzie board members, representatives of three of the four city governments involved at the Tuesday meeting Tuesday night. The Floydada city council was having its monthly meeting and did not send a representative.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

Interest rates are rising and the end does not appear in sight. For many would-be homeowners, increased interest rates often spell the difference between being able to buy that dream house and having it remain simply a dream.

Studies have shown that in most consumer transactions consumers are not very concerned with interest charges; the main question most consumers have is what are the monthly payments? And, although interest rates may be high in many credit transactions, the total dollar amount frequently is low enough to make this type of consumer apathy understandable.

Homebuying, however, is different. A difference of one percent in the interest rate can increase the overall cost of a home purchased on a thirty year mortgage by thousands of dollars.

In November home mortgage interest rates increased from approximately ten percent to more than eleven percent. Shortly after the increase dozens of consumers called the Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division to complain that the homes they had purchased during the last few months were not "closed" until after the interest rates had increased. Many of the consumers who called "suspected" that their closings had been delayed so that higher interest rates could be charged.

Because of the number of consumer complaints filed, the Division opened a preliminary investigation so we can determine exactly what took place in each consumer's transaction. Since our investigation has just begun it it too early to tell whether the complaints have merit or whether they merely reflect the genuine frustration of having to pay more than was expected.

The Division's investigation will focus on obtaining answers to two principal questions: (1) were consumers promised a specific interest rate before closing or were they simply told that the interest charged would be the prevailing rate; and (2) if there was a delay in closing was it unavoidable, that is, the result of routine problems or was it intentional to enable the mortgage companies involved to charge the higher rates?

The volume of consumer complaints received also has underscored the need for all consumers to make sure that all representations made to them in the home buying process are reduced to writing. Although verbal promises to loan money normally are just as valid as legally as written promises, the chances of misunderstanding are much greater when there is no document that can be referred to to refresh people's memories. The need to have promises is doubly important when attempts are made after the fact to reconstruct the events that occurred. There is less room for suspicion; the "facts" are more quickly determined; and any controversy that arises is more easily resolved.

If you have a consumer complaint involving home buying or any other consumer transaction please contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division nearest you.

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on White River adds his two-bits to a current controversy this week.

Dear editor: As I understand it, Chrysler corporation needs financial help because it's been losing money making long cars when short ones are now in style, and Washington is coming to the rescue.

If it works out the government will arrange about a billion and a half loan. Private banks would put up the money and the government would guarantee repayment.

I guess this is all right but isn't it backwards? I mean, considering the financial shape of the government, wouldn't it be a better loan if it put up the money and the banks guaranteed repayment?

Now as to what Chrysler will do with the money, that requires some thought. In addition to cars it needs a flexible product easily adapted to a changing market, like for example women's dresses. If the style changes from long AUSTIN — Voters approved two constitutional amendments last Tuesday and rejected one which would have authorized the Legislature to override rules made by state agencies on certain matters.

Favored solidly were amendments changing the method of appointing notaries public and creating guaranteed loans for family farms and ranches.

Boosters of the farm and ranch loan amendment were fearful that the low turnout in rural areas would defeat the proposal, but urban voters in Houston, Austin and Dallas-Fort Worth voted for its passage. The bill's sponsor, State Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, had traveled the state seeking editorial backing and was not disappointed.

Legislating Aliens Gov. Bill Clements said he thinks the United States and Mexican governments will act soon to remove "illegal" from the term "illegal alien."

The reason: the large population of undocumented Mexican workers in the U.S. — estimated at 3 million — should be documented.

Clements said he expects the aliens to be given visas or work permits for three, six, nine and 12 months. "They would be given a Social Security number, pay taxes, be protected under the law, enjoy municipal benefits, and be paid a fair wage," Clements said.

Such documentation may also take the guesswork out of the problem of educating the children of illegal aliens, an issue recently complicated by a Justice Department brief charging the Texas Education Code is unconstitutional.

The code was amended in 1975 so that only citizens and legal aliens have the right to a free education in the public school system. It's the Texas practice of charging tuition to illegal aliens that is said to be unconstitutional, a matter under scrutiny with the 5th

Three men get prison terms

Floyd County Sheriff's Department last week transported three prisoners to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. The three were sentenced in Judge J. H. 11th District court last week.
Lara, 17, received a four-year sentence for his part in an automobile accident without the owner's permission.
Solis, a migrant worker living in Lockney at the time of his first arrest, still faces charges of robbery. A woman employee of the store was slightly wounded by a knife and employee and law enforcement vehicles' tires were slashed to delay pursuit in that incident.
Solis was to be tried on the robbery charges this week, but the judge granted a continuance until one of the defense witnesses would be available to testify. Solis was expected to once again face the bench in early January.
Jerry Don Pleasant and Murphy Robinson Jr., both accused of burglarizing a vehicle, and Alfred Mendoza and Rongelio Rodriguez, who were arrested and charged with burglarizing farmhouses, were expected to be tried sometime in December.
In other cases, the district attorney expected more please to be entered during the December court.

Cathy Barnett is contest winner

Cathy Barnett won the $10 first prize in the Beacon football contest last week. She missed two games, as did four other eligible contestants, but her guess on the tie-breaker score was closest. She was 24 points high on the Tech-TCU total, but everybody else was at least 29 points high. The teams managed only six points between them — three each — Saturday afternoon.
Second place and $6 in prize money went to Retha Wofford, who missed two and entered "35" in the tie-breaker total blank.
Boyd Lee took third place with two misses and a 42 guess in the tie-breaker section.
Bryan C. Bybee also missed two but was even higher with a 48-point estimate in the tie-breaker. Ann Lee submitted another two-miss entry with a 49-point tie-breaker guess.
Lisa Mosley would have won if she'd entered the contest in time. She missed two and guessed 28 points for the Tech-TCU total, but her mail entry was postmarked November 10 (Saturday), making it ineligible for consideration in the contest.
Kenneth Wofford's entry would have won third place had it not been for the "one-winner-per-family-per-week" rule which we stated last week would be enforced.
Three-miss entries were submitted by Rick Mosley, Dan W. Futch, Jack Ragland, Sterling K. Cummings, Carl Burt, W.L. Carthel (two entries), and Tommy Hulcy.

Miss Eure, Keith Gross vows pledged

The chapel of the First Baptist Church in Floydada was the scene Saturday November 17 of the wedding of Regina Eure and Keith Gross. Dr. Floyd Bradley officiated, with Chaplain Otho Eure, grandfather of the bride, giving the opening prayer.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eure of El Paso; and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gross of Canyon City, Texas.

Debi Gee, sister of the bride of Plainview, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length pink dress and a halo of flowers in her hair. Her bouquet was a pink and blue flower arrangement.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a dress of candlelight organza trimmed in lace, and a veil which belonged to her mother. Following wedding tradition, as something old, she wore her maternal great-grandmother's wedding slip of handmade lace. Something blue was her mother's garter; and something borrowed was the groom's grandmother's wedding band. As something new, the bride wore a gold necklace given to her by the groom.

The bridal bouquet consisted of a pink silk orchid atop a Bible given to her by the Order of Rainbow for Girls.

Music for the occasion was presented by Lee Finley, singing "Wedding Song."

She was accompanied by Miss Mona Dean at the piano.

Registering guests was Ms. Carolyn Smith.

John Gross, brother of the groom of Dimmitt, was best man. Serving as ushers were Robert Eure and Richard Gee, both of Plainview.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Serving were Mrs. David Seay, Kathy Burke, Elaine Gee of Plainview, Sandi Jupin of Abilene and Mrs. Dale Thompson of Lubbock.

The bride's table, laid with an ivory lace cloth, was centered with a crystal vase holding the matron of honor's bouquet. The three-tiered ivory cake was topped with bride and groom figurines. Silver candelabras holding ivory candles completed the decor.

The groom's table was laid with an ecru tablecloth. The cake was shaped like a black and white patrol car depicting the groom's profession. (Gross is a highway patrolman.)

Following a cruise to the Bahamas, the couple will be at home in Floydada, where Gross works with the Department of Public Safety and the bride is employed by the Department of Human Resources.

A rehearsal dinner, featuring turkey as the main dish was hosted by the groom in his home.

Athenians learn about calligraphy

Former Athena member Sheila Poole presented an interesting and educational lesson on "Calligraphy—the art of beautiful writing" to the study club which met Thursday night, November 8, in the high school home economics building.

Sheila demonstrated several styles of calligraphy, including the Old English and Italian Uncial. The twenty Athenians and seven guests present then tried their hand at the beautiful form of writing, which is really not writing, but stroking. Calligraphy truly is an art. It is also a skill, which one can perfect with much practice, according to Sheila.

Following the evening program, hostesses Peggy Hallmark and Jan Mize served delicious refreshments of miniature sandwiches, chips, and apple-sauce muffins.

Members answered roll call by showing handmade items, which then were auctioned as a money making project for the club. President Virginia Owens conducted the business meeting. The club constitution, which was revised by the constitution committee, was reviewed and voted into acceptance.

Athena's next meeting will be the annual Christmas Party, to be held at the home of Warren and Barbara Mathis on December 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Guests who attended the November meeting were Jerri McCormick, Jackie Lou Holt, Treena Aston, Cindy Dyer, Gay McPherson, Lucille Frizzell, and Elsie Sherman. Athena members present included a new member, Mary Holly. Others present were: Jill Golden, Charlotte Mitchell, Barbara Mathis, Kay Williams, Virginia Owens, Vida Hrbacek, Diana Koester, Martha Sue Lusk, Judy Hondeshell, Mary Ann Kring, Margie Fuiten, Donnie Meriwether, Karen Koonsman, Jan Mize, Judy Schacht, Kathy Hunter, Patti Tonnahill, Peggy Hallmark, and Janie Klein.

Miss Cooper honored with wedding shower Saturday

Guests were received by Mrs. Terrell, Miss Cooper, Mrs. Glen Cooper (mother of the bride-elect) and Mrs. Willie Jones (mother of the prospective groom). Mrs. Clar Schacht registered guests.

The serving table was covered with white lace over a pink cloth. The lace was gathered at various points and tied with burgundy bows. The centerpiece was pink, burgundy and white silk flowers in a lead cut crystal vase.

Miss Janie Carter and Mrs. Ken Watson served finger sandwiches, cookies, coffee and hot spiced tea from silver appointments.

Mrs. Tom Duvall was in charge of the gift room. The hostess gift was a set of aluminum cookware.

Shower hostesses were Mmes. Terrell, Duvall, Buck Kellison, Emma Thomas, Jerry Ford, Aubria Kent, Martin Bradley, Delvin Bybee, Claude Stallings, Gene Owens, Henry Sue, G.B. Johnston, Fred Byrd, Hazel Johnson, Dorothy Shipp, Donnie Jackson, Kenneth Murdock, Bill Crader, Elsie Pate, Dub Mercer, Thomas Marr, and R.H. Ford all of Lockney; Mrs. Joe Jones and Mrs. Eldon Mathis, both of Amarillo; and Mrs. Pat Layton, Plains.

Three generations visit in Rucker home

Visitors in the Ralph Rucker home the past two weeks were Mrs. Rucker's sister, Mrs. Nancy Lunn, her daughter Mrs. Lona Hampton, and her daughter Jayne. The three generations of relatives are from England.

The Ralph Ruckers and the Max Ruckers welcomed the trio of visitors at Dallas. Twenty-five years had passed since Mrs. Lynn had seen Max, who was serving in Vietnam when she visited eleven years ago. While here, the group went to Amarillo to visit the Patrick Ruckers.

Jayne, a teenager, went to Lewisville last weekend with the Max Ruckers, where she spent the remainder of their visit with the "younger set." She reported loving everything from hamburgers to cowboy boots.

Having commented favorably on the sunshine and the friendliness of everyone they met, the visitors left Dallas Saturday enroute to England.

Floydada Senior Club explore Tech Museum

Twenty-four Senior Citizens packed sack lunches, donned winter coats and headed for Lubbock to explore the Texas Tech Museum, Friday, November 9.

On arrival, they registered and explored one building. After they asked about eating lunch on the patio on the south side of the building, the girl at the desk got permission for them to eat in one of the rooms inside the building. The group was grateful and enjoyed lunch more than they would have outside, since it was cloudy, windy and cold.

After lunch, the Seniors went to explore the main museum. They especially enjoyed the talk about the mural in the foyer which was painted by Peter Rogers, a native of England. It was painted with india ink, and was to depict water and its uses in arid and semi-arid lands. It is beautiful and worth one's time to go to see it.

Some brave souls toured the Ranching Heritage Center where old ranch buildings

W.I.F.E. urges "a still on every farm"

W.I.F.E., Women Involved In Farm Economics, will hold their third annual National Convention, November 16, 17, 18, at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center in Lubbock.

Sarah McClendon of McClendon News Services and White House correspondent, and Dr. Frances Hill, professor at the University of Texas, will address this active agricultural association of women.

A highlight of the convention will be a working still producing alcohol to be used in the making of gasohol. Bob Soleta, director of the alcohol division of Iowa Corn Growers Assn., and Dr. Lance Crombie will give a presentation on the production of alcohol fuels.

National W.I.F.E. president Betty Majors of Osceola, Nebraska, feels that alcohol stills "could and should be constructed on every farm in the nation."

"Gasohol has been W.I.F.E.'s number one priority," said Mrs. Majors. "our purpose in having the still along with gasohol information is so we can go home with plans, knowledge, and expertise to enable us to construct alcohol fuel stills on our own farms and ranches."

W.I.F.E. welcomes all women who are interested in or involved in agriculture to join this fast growing organization to help promote the nation's number one industry...agriculture.

James R. Woodall

Son-in-law of E. R. Ruckers promoted

The United States Air Force recently announced the promotion of James R. Woodall to the grade of Major effective November 1.

Major Woodall is a senior pilot with over 3000 hours total flying time and 12 years active duty service. His career began as an instructor pilot and progressed through separate tours at Udorn, Thailand, and Ramstein, Germany. He is currently assigned to the 339th Tactical Fighter Squadron, Moody Air Force Base, Georgia, as a Flight Commander and F-4E "Phantom II" pilot.

Major Woodall is a 1963 graduate of Dumas High School and 1967 graduate of West Texas State University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Woodall of Dumas, Texas, and married to the former Linda Rucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.R. Rucker of Floydada. They have two sons, Daren, age 11, and Brady, age 7.

Long lasting finishes for wood structures

Long-lasting finishes for wood structures — as in "log cabins" — are here, and experts are giving them the "green light" and "high marks."

They're the penetrating finishes — the penetrating water-repellent preservative finishes and the penetrating pigmented-stain finishes.

"Penetrating finishes have the very distinct advantage of not flaking, blistering or peeling like varnish or paint, and so they're very easily maintained or refinished," says Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Mrs. Young is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Penetrating finishes are especially recommended for such wood structures as log cabins, on which the preferred finish generally is the "natural type of finish," she says.

PRESERVATIVE TYPES
Preservative-type finishes contain a fungicide, so they inhibit the growth of fungus (mildew) which is the primary cause of graying in wood.

These finishes allow the wood to weather to a very natural light brown or tan color, the specialist says.

An effective practical treatment includes thoroughly brushing the exterior of the cabin with the water-repellent preservative finish after the structure is built.

For log cabins, pay close attention to joints between logs, drying cracks and exposed-end grain, since these areas will trap water.

Give them a heavy application of the water-repellent solution every other year as a maintenance procedure.

This water-repellent preservative type of finish usually will last about two years before small gray spots of fungal growth start to appear on surfaces, indicating a need for refinishing.

PIGMENTED-STAIN TYPES
To get an even longer-lasting finish coat, use a penetrating pigmented stain — also very effective as a natural finish for log cabins.

These stains, when applied according to label instructions, can last 10 years or longer.

Penetrating pigmented stains change the color of wood, obscure part of the grain and are less natural in appearance than the preservative finishes.

AVOID VARNISHES
Experts generally do not recommend varnishes for log cabins or other wood structures, Mrs. Young says.

Film-forming exterior varnishes — even marine or spar varnish grades — are not recommended because of their short life when fully exposed to the direct sun.

Also, they pose difficulties in refinishing, she says.

Right to appeal IRS findings is available

Texas—Fewer than one percent of the 62,000 appeals of the Revenue Service are successful. The most common reason for the IRS' holding all the appeals is that you can only appeal the findings or the amount of the tax. And remember that you may, at any time, decide to agree with the examiner's findings by signing the waiver form provided.

If you have decided to use the IRS appeals system, an Appeal's Officer in your particular IRS region will arrange a conference with you at a convenient time and place. Conferences are conducted on an informal basis, but you or your representative should be prepared to discuss all disputed issues and present your views. Coming prepared will save the time and expense of more meetings. Chances are that you and the IRS will be able to reach an agreement here.

The IRS instituted a new appeals system in 1978 in which all taxpayers disputing a tax question would have a single administrative hearing before an appeals officer, who acts independently of the district office. The hearing officer now has full authority to settle a case regardless of the dollar amount involved, taking into account such elements as the hazards of litigation. One of the benefits the IRS foresees from the new procedure is a greater degree of uniformity in decisions.

If a written protest is required (not necessary if the amount in dispute does not exceed $2,500 or if the examination is conducted as part of the Individual Office Examination program or by correspondence), you must make it within the 30-day period granted in the letter. And remember that you may, at any time, decide to agree with the examiner's findings by signing the waiver form provided.

By Mrs. J.E. Green

Nov. 12—Were we surprised Saturday morning to find snow on the ground! It was still "cold and dark and dreary" on Tuesday.

Miss Vera Meredith's company the last few days were Mrs. Edna Patton who came Tuesday, the Clay Muncy's on Friday and Monday. Dan Jones of Kress came Friday to visit his wife, who is Miss Meredith's helper at this time.

Mrs. Ava Jackson and Mrs. Ethel Warren were dinner guests of Mrs. Leo Frizzell Monday. Monday was a holiday—a shift from Sunday the 11th, Armistice Day.

Little Tometha Barker of Stephenville is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Cumbie.

Mrs. May Field attended a club meeting this afternoon.

Our new Home Demonstration Agent is Mrs. Meriland Pate from Hereford. We hope she will like it here. We want to thank Mrs. Hillis for her faithful years of service among us, and wish her the best in her new home.

The Hal Thomases daughter, Sue, was not over with her family to visit her parents this weekend. She was with a group her boss was sending to Austin for two days' training. It was too cold for David and Milton to get out.

Birthdays are celebrated for young and older. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brewer were guests of a granddaughter, Sherry and her husband Ken Robison and family of Lubbock, honoring the birthdays of their small daughters, Karen and Suzanne. The other great-grandmother present was Mrs. J.H. Watson of Lubbock. Also present was the grandparents of the girls, Mrs. and Mrs. Millard Watson of Mt. Blanco. Other relatives present were Mrs.

Raines and granddaughter of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDougle and Sharon of Crosbyton, and the Dean Watsons of Floydada.

Friday afternoon Ma Green got a call from her daughter, Margaret Ryman of Hubbard. I was happy when she said "We will be starting up to see you as soon as they get off work at the hospital. We are all coming home who can, for the weekend to celebrate your and Daddy's birthdays (both in November)." "What! I thought, "No time to put the big pot in the little one, and I a foot!" Mrs. McPeak had already gone home. "But," said Margaret, "don't worry. We'll all take care of everything." The Dr. Ryman's came in after midnight during the snow.

Don Clark of Big Spring arrived alone about noon Saturday. His wife was not feeling well and remained home. Vic, Sue and son Jim of Plainview came in the afternoon bringing a birthday cake. Next arrivals were Mi. and Mrs. Anthony Latta, and later their sons David and Sam Latta and families. The Clyde Greens could only attend by "long distance". What a supper we had! About 8:30 there was a knock at the door and Susie and Nancy were admitted. They came for late supper and a hilarious welcome. All went home about 10 a.m. except the Ryman's, and all ten of them—including the son in law—attended church with me at Calvary Baptist Sunday morning. The last had left for home by 3 o'clock. A wonderful weekend—I can count my blessings.

ENERGY FACTS

The National Petroleum Refiners Association reports that a savings of 9.2 barrels of crude oil per 100 barrels of gasoline produced can be achieved by returning to the lead-tolerant cars. It is also logical to assume that similar savings can be achieved on lead-tolerant trucks versus catalytic converter trucks.

1979 OFFICERS — Recently elected officers for the Floydada chapter of the American Heart Association are Lynn Marler, president; Tom Farris, treasurer and Vicki Ralner, secretary. Not pictured is chapter vice president Elaine Gluck. The four will be engaged in fundraising for the Association and in community awareness programs.

PART II

How to appeal an IRS audit

What happens if the IRS appeals system does not work out? Your next step is the federal courts.

You have the choice of taking your appeal to the U.S. Tax Court, the U.S. Court of Claims or a U.S. District Court. If you don't want to pay the tax before going to court use the Tax Court, since it hears only cases where taxes have not been assessed. Once you decide to go to Tax Court and you've received your examination report from the IRS, ask IRS to issue a Notice of Deficiency. You'll have 90 days from the date the notice is mailed to file a petition with the Tax Court (or, if you decide to settle, to pay the tax). It's important to act within 90 days; otherwise, the IRS will automatically assess the tax against you, taking your case out of the Tax Court's jurisdiction. If you filed your petition on a timely basis, the Tax Court will schedule your case for trial at a location convenient to you. You may represent yourself before the Tax Court or you may be represented by anyone admitted to practice before that Court.

Incidentally, the Tax Court has a Small Case Procedure for disputes of $5,000 or less for any taxable year. If you choose this procedure, and if the Tax Court approves, you may represent yourself before the court. However, under the Small Case Procedure the decision of the Tax Court cannot be appealed. Information on the Small Case Procedure is available from the U.S. Tax Court, 400 Second St., N.W., Washington, DC 20217.

Generally, the District Courts and Court of Claims will hear your suit only after you have paid the disputed tax and filed for a refund. You choose which of these courts to petition. The Court of Claims is located in Washington, DC and cases before this court are decided by a judge. District courts are located in every state, the District of Columbia and some territories, and you have the choice of a jury trial there.

A claim for refund may be made by filing Form 1040X, "Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," with the IRS Service Center where you mailed your original return. File a separate 1040X for each tax year involved and attach statements supporting your claims. Form 1040X must be filed within three years of the date of the original return, or two years from the date the tax was paid, whichever is later. If the IRS rejects your claim, or if they do not act on your claim within six months, you may then file suit for refund. But you must file your suit no later than two years after the IRS disallows your refund claim.

You can obtain more detailed information about filing a suit from the Clerk of your District Court, or from the Clerk of the Court of Claims, 717 Madison Place, N.W., Washington DC 20005. The IRS has a free publication explaining its appeals process and your rights. Ask your local IRS office for Publication 556, "Examination of Returns, Appeal Rights and Claims for Refund."

Remember that at any IRS proceeding during this appeals process, you have the right to represent yourself, or be represented by an attorney, a certified public accountant or an individual enrolled to practice before the IRS.

Half-million dollar solar study launched by Southwestern Public Service, G.E.

A half-million dollar solar repowering study for the Department of Energy (DOE) by Southwestern Public Service Company and General Electric to determine the feasibility of a solar powered electric generating unit has been launched. The project could result in the installation of an $80-million solar-powered unit at SPS's Plant X near Earth, Texas.

A great deal of research has been done on solar-powered plants but not much has been done on the concept of adding solar units to existing plants. This study will determine the engineering and economic factors of repowering an electric plant — if it can be done on a large scale and if it would be more economical than building new solar plants.

In recent years, as the search for feasible alternatives became more intense, Southwestern Public Service Company began an effort to assess those options that might have practical utility application. Solar power was one of the alternatives selected for consideration. The Company's involvement began with a data collection and literature review program of the latest developments in solar energy. As early as 1975, Southwestern became an active participant in a solar program called the Southwest Project. The objective of this study was to examine the technical, economic and institutional barriers to the rapid implementation of solar energy. A final report was drafted in January, 1979.

Southwestern's second solar project involved participation in a General Atomic study (sponsored by DOE) of a 100 MW Line Focus Solar Central Power System (LFSCPS). General Atomic's Fixed Mirror Solar Concentrator tracks the motion of the line image of the sun. Southwestern provided information on utility load profiles, the present and future worth of conventional power generation, utility requirements that could affect the design of the LFSCPS and performed an assessment of the limitations of the proposed system configuration. This study was completed on October 1, 1979 and a final report from the DOE is expected soon.

Six utility-industrial groups, including SPS and GE, were chosen by the DOE to develop designs for combining a solar energy plant with an existing electric generating plant. Six similar contracts were awarded by the DOE for research on repowering units for industrial use.

The repowering of existing plants, both for electric generation and industrial use, is a relatively new idea and is being developed more as a fuel saver than an alternate fuel source. The proposed plan calls for about 60 percent of the thermal energy of the retrofit unit to be supplied by the sun, and, if feasible, could save approximately 1-billion cubic feet of gas annually. It could also increase or recapture the life of an existing plant. By adding an alternate fuel supply to an existing plant, that plant could last beyond the use of restrictive fuel supplies.

The proposed solar unit at Plant X would produce enough energy to drive an existing steam turbine. The steam turbine would, however, be capable of using natural gas or a combination of natural gas and solar power.

The solar portion of the plant would consist of a mirror field, a central receiver mounted on top of a 300-foot tower, a liquid sodium heat transfer system and three steam generators. The mirror field would include approximately 5,000 steerable sun-tracking mirrors called heliostats, occupying 276 acres.

The central receiver of the system will be cooled by constantly flowing liquid sodium, which will maintain a constant temperature. GE has been interested in the use of liquid sodium for many years and has found it to be a highly efficient source.

The liquid sodium as a heat transfer agent, could be a major area of consideration by the DOE when it begins reviewing the repowering proposals. Similar plant designs are expected to use water, molten salts and gases as cooling agents. Other factors DOE will be considering are efficiency, price and geographical location, for amounts of sunshine.

Nursing Home Happenings

This has been one of the most enjoyable weeks for myself and for the residents. Every day we had at least eight persons and most of the time fourteen for exercise time. We also broke a record of attendance in devotion Wednesday with 31 residents present.

We started a new activity this Wednesday afternoon. Datha Westbrook is having Bible reading. Those residents attending were Henry Love, W.C. Cates, Emmitt Lawrence, Alma Eubanks, Genedia Roberts, Susie Moonney, Verna McSwain, Myrtle Roy, Victoria Asher, Mammie Gray, Mollie Jones, Docia Manning and Ethel Collins.

Mrs. Leona Bell and Mrs. Josie Ross have enjoyed exercising this week. We hope they continue to feel like participating.

Mr. Lawrence sold two more owl plaques this week — one to his sister-in-law, Mrs. M.H. Hartness of Floydada.

Mrs. Mary Baker enjoyed a nice long visit this week with her two brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams of Boaz, Alabama, and Mr. and Mrs. O. Williams of Lubbock.

Top winners in bingo Thursday were Ray Reed, Mammie Gray and Emmitt Lawrence with two games. Victoria Asher, W.C. Cates, Alma Eubanks, Clara Williamson and Verna McSwain won one game each.

Visitors this week were: Mrs. Clarence A. Guffee,

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lancaster, Ruth Collins, Viola Mangum, Ollie McMinn, Alma Dunn, Bob and Jean Kendrick, Dana, Kim and JoLee Hartness, Mr. and Mrs. M.H.
