1980 babies arrive at both county hospitals

FIRST-BORN — Stella Escobar of Lockney holds her son Eric Ray, the first baby born this year in a Floyd County hospital.

SECOND-BORN — Haydee Mata, born at Caprock Hospital on Jan. 3, is pictured with her mother, Yolanda Mata, of Ralls.

Both Caprock and Lockney General Hospitals delivered babies in the first week of 1980, with the Lockney child coming a little more than 24 hours sooner than the Floydada-born youngster.

Both infants were born to parents residing outside Floyd County. The first birth of 1980 at Lockney General was recorded at 2:10 a.m. Wednesday (Jan. 2) with the arrival of Eric Ray Escobar. Eric Ray is the fifth child of Stella and Rudy Escobar, 1008 El Paso St. in Plainview.

Lockney General's 1980 "New Year's Baby" weighed seven pounds, three ounces at birth. The youngster has three sisters, Sandy, eight; Debbie, seven; Chris, three; and a brother, Rudy Jr., aged four.

Mr. and Mrs. Juan Burrell, of Plainview, are the baby's grandparents.

Young Eric Ray's father works at Grain Exchange in Plainview.

If past years' averages hold up, the Escobar infant is the first of about 200 babies expected to be born at Lockney General in 1980. Births at the hospital last year totalled 197, a figure hospital spokespersons said was "about average or slightly below."

Haydee Mata born to Yolanda Mata, of Ralls, on Thursday, was the first infant born in Floydada in 1980.

Haydee was born Jan. 3 at 7:30 a.m. in Caprock Hospital. She weighed six pounds, seven ounces.

Drs. Seung Hong and Brian Wonnacott assisted in the delivery.

A total of 19 births were recorded at Caprock since July, 1979, when the hospital began accepting maternity patients.

Council has short meeting

Lockney city council met Thursday morning at city hall. The regular monthly meeting for January was a short one — the only official action taken by the council was to "pay the bills" for the month.

advised them to raise liability insurance coverage, but they took no action on the matter Thursday.

Attending the council meeting were aldermen J.D. Copeland, Thurman Davis, Pat Frizzell and Paul Reece, Mayor Claude Brown, Lyle, and city secretary Erma Lee Duckworth.

Edwin Nutt announces for county commissioner, precinct 1

Edwin Nutt this week became the first Floyd County resident to announce his candidacy for public office in the 1980 elections.

Nutt, who is 42 years old and lives west of Floydada, informed the Beacon that he intended to file as candidate for county commissioner of precinct one. Aaron Carthel currently holds that seat on the commissioners' court.

Nutt told the Beacon that friends and neighbors encouraged him to make his first bid for public office.

The candidate farms in the Sandhill and Barwise communities. Presently he is vice president of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce and president of the Floyd County Junior Livestock Show.

A native of Hale County, Nutt graduated from high school in Hale Center in 1955. He moved to Floydada in 1962 with his wife, Barbara, and their family.

The couple have three sons, Danny, a senior at Floydada High; Mark, a sophomore at the same school; and Zachary, a second-grader at A.B. Duncanson Elementary School.

The Nutts attend the City Park Church of Christ.

Official filing for county-wide offices was scheduled to begin Saturday at the county courthouse.

FIRST TO ANNOUNCE — Edwin Nutt is the first announced candidate for county office in the 1980 elections.

FmHA to resume making housing loans, grants

After a short suspension, the U.S. Department of Agriculture will resume making housing loans and grants, according to Alex Mercure, assistant secretary of agriculture for rural development.

Programs affected were the Section 502, low-to-moderate income home ownership, Section 515, rural rental housing, and the Section 523 technical assistance grants and self-help site programs expired Dec. 1, 1979. New authorization became effective after Congress passed the Housing and Community Development Act and President Carter signed it into law Dec. 21.

FmHA invested nearly $14.7 billion in rural areas programs in 1979, according to Mercure.

These programs represent most of FmHA's rural housing lending authority, Mercure said.

Congress appropriated $4.9 billion for all FmHA housing programs for fiscal year 1980. That represents a slight increase over the FY 1979 budget.

FmHA invested nearly $14.7 billion in rural areas programs in 1979, according to Mercure.

Corn, soybeans eligible for FCIC programs

Corn and soybeans grown in Floyd County will be eligible for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) volunteer protection programs for the crop year, according to Ben Deal, regional director of the FCIC.

This action is in response to a continued demand by farmers and other segments of the farm economy to provide adequate Federal crop insurance protection when droughts, excessive rainfall, disease or other natural hazards cause widespread crop failure, said James Deal, national manager of FCIC.

Deal added that all FCIC programs for 1980 have been streamlined for faster and better service, making them more attractive to producer participation.

"We have provided three levels of protection for each crop insured and three price elections to value any production lost to natural hazards under the insurance plan. This permits producers to tailor the protection to their individual needs," Deal said.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

not only provided immediate relief to consumers in the marketplace, but also represented the beginnings of the responsibility for consumer protection away from the federal government to the states.

The Consumer Protection Trust Division of the Attorney General's Office was created during the 1970's and has since become an important source of assistance to thousands of Texas consumers. It would be impossible to list each of the significant strides of the consumer movement in the 1970's. An accurate summary of progress made is contained in the report, "Consumer Protection and Setbacks," published by the National Quarterly, Inc.

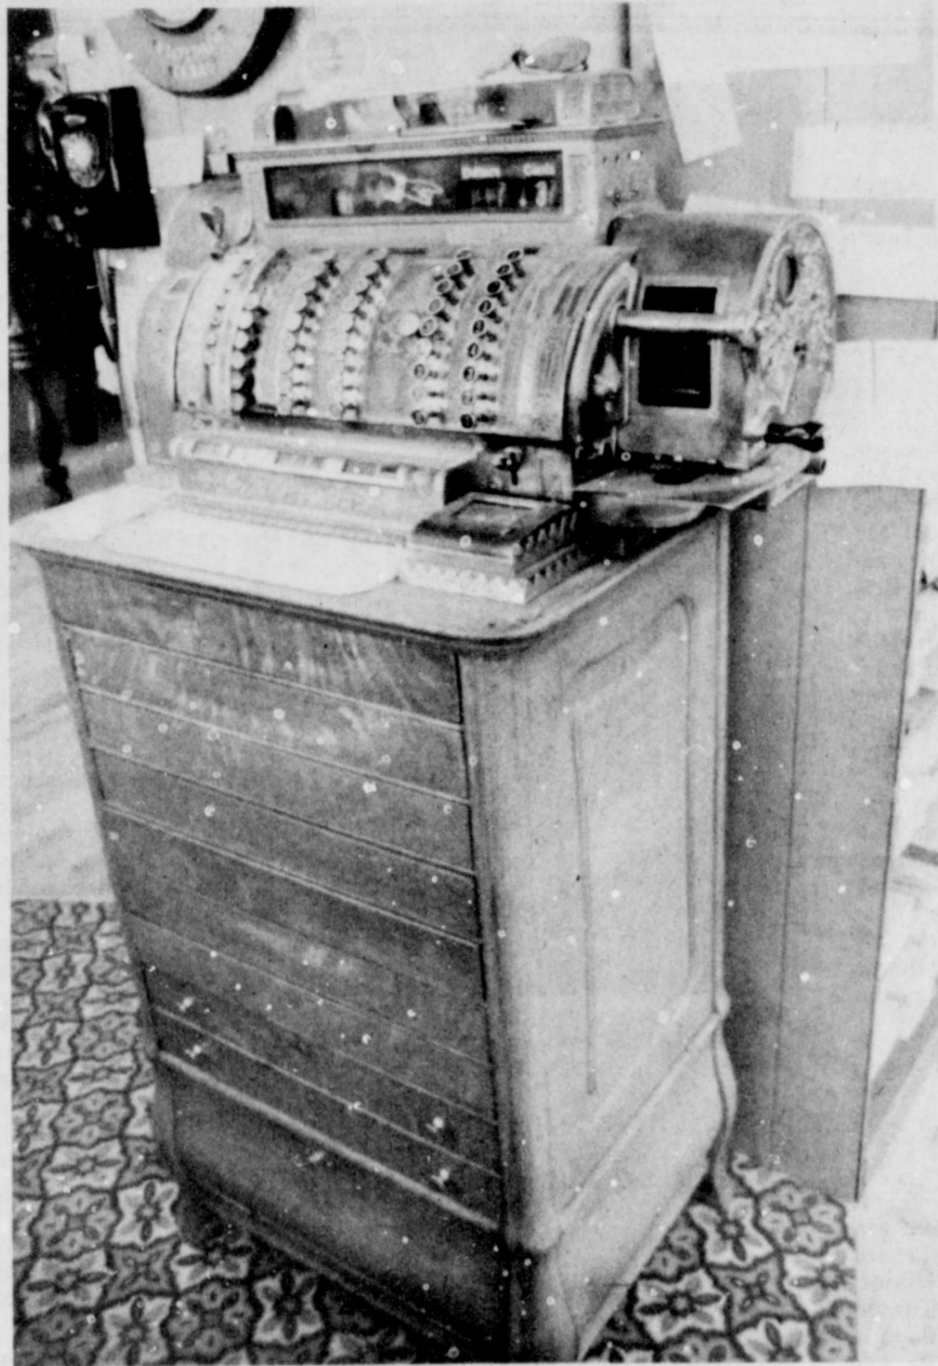

"Perhaps the most significant achievement of the consumer movement has been an attitudinal change in the public. People are more concerned about shoddy services and more careful about what they buy in the marketplace. There also has been a recognition that effective consumer protection helps the business community as much as it does consumers, insuring that those few who engage in unlawful, harmful practices do not remain a part of the business community.

The decade of the 70's has been a time of renewed concern for consumer protection. Our goal now is to continue moving forward with a renewed sense of fairness and confidence because of the progress made in the 1970's, consumer protection will stay.

BY BUT SURE — This linotype machine, estimated to date between 1910 and 1911, is at Script Printing. An almost completely obsolete piece of equipment, linotype was used to print the Hesperian during Homer Steen's management of the newspaper.

CASH SALE — This unique cash register was manufactured in 1913. It was purchased from Martin's Drygoods in 1945 and placed in Hale's Department Store. It has not been used for its original purpose since 1945. Registers of similar model usually had only one or two cabinet drawers but this one has nine.

FIVE POUNDS, PLEASE — This old scale, date of manufacture unknown, also has a place at Kirk and Sons.

RENOVATED — This display case at Sue's Gifts was discovered in the shop when the building underwent remodeling. The case was restored along with the shop. The case is estimated to be 80 years old.

ELECTRICITY FROM COAL...

It's good to know there's something we can depend on.

Almost all of us depend on electricity in our homes, factories, and offices to provide for more jobs... greater productivity... and a higher standard of living. Yes, electricity plays a big roll in the scientific and technological developments that make these things possible.

The constant striving for these innovative and advanced ideas and achievements of tomorrow means we will need more electricity. That's why Southwestern Public Service is continuing the building program of new electric generating plants that use coal as fuel. Because it's good to know there's something we can depend on.

Homeowners

Homefurnishing Tips
 Area rugs, folding screens, bookcases and etageres are subtle yet effective area definers that do not check the spatial flow, says Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Fire Drill to Safety
 In the event of a fire, could your family escape uninjured? Plan and practice a fire drill with your family so they know all possible escape routes, advises Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Gas price per liter
 Because most gas pumps cannot display per gallon prices higher than 99.9 cents, the U.S. Metric Board is studying conversion of gas pump equipment to show the price of gas per liter, reports a family resource management specialist.

One liter is about one-fourth of a gallon, says Nancy Granovsky with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Canned Safety
 Discard canned foods immediately if the contents are gassy, mushy, moldy, or have a disagreeable odor, advises Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist. Never taste food with a spoiled appearance, Mrs. Sweeten cautions.

Color Fast Labels
 Look for the words "color fast" on labels when selecting fabric or apparel, suggests Beverly Rhoades, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This is your guarantee that colors will not fade, she explains. Fabrics fade due to the kind of dye used or lack of process used to set colors. Once colors fade, little or nothing can be done to set or restore colors, or to remove one color faded on another, Miss Rhoades adds.

When you master the food processor, the microwave oven and the hair corn popper another wizzard appears on the scene. In this case it's a convection oven, an established piece of professional equipment that has been modified into an appealing item for the kitchen.

Today's consumer can purchase a convection oven in a countertop model or as a full-size range. The manufacturers are using convection oven technology to nearly equal the power of the microwave oven market in 1980. The price of a convection oven is about two (2) times that of a microwave oven.

WHAT IS CONVECTION COOKING?

Convection oven cooking is a hot air oven or electric oven that circulates the same way that an ordinary oven does. The main difference between the two is that a convection oven utilizes direct high speed air currents throughout the oven cavity. As heat is transferred from the air to the food, the cooled air that is recycled by the fan and re-circulated by the oven. The movement of the air speeds up the cooking process and reduces the cooking time. The forced-air system is the same as the wind chill effect on a cold, windy day. It is much colder than the actual temperature of the air because the wind is blowing. The opposite is true in a convection oven resulting in efficient use of heat.

In a conventional oven, the heat is lost as it moves away from the main heating element. Without a fan to keep the air moving, the gradually cooling air takes longer to penetrate the food and also loses intensity as food absorbs the heat.

Microwave ovens cook food with microwave energy. The microwaves, produced by an electron tube, penetrate the food and agitate molecules of fat, sugar and liquid inside the food. The molecules vibrate at an extremely high rate, producing sufficient heat to cook the food.

Portable convection oven units are less expensive than most microwave ovens, and require no special cooking utensils. The air flow system browns food more evenly than a conventional oven and unlike a microwave oven, less time is needed to cook food in some cases as compared to conventional or microwave cooking. Small quantities cook fastest in the microwave oven, but larger quantities (such as 10 potatoes or 1 pound of bacon) will cook faster in the convection oven. Cooking temperatures are 25-75 degrees lower than in a conventional oven.

If you are considering purchasing a convection oven, come by the Floyd County Extension Office for more information on the features available. We are currently revising the mailing list for Home Economics educational information sent out from the Floyd County Extension Office. If you would like to have your name added or deleted from the list, please call and let us know. Your help will make this task much easier.

I am looking forward to getting acquainted with everyone here in Floyd County. Please drop by the office for a visit!

Around the County

By Jett Major
Floyd County Extension Agent

The Floyd County Junior Livestock Show Association's Board of Directors are scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, January 8th, at the Light-house Electric Cooperative in Floydada to make preparations for the 1980 Floyd County Junior Livestock Show. Vocational agriculture teachers and county extension agents in the county will also be present at the meeting.

Anyone that would like to offer any suggestions concerning this year's county show should contact their representative directors before the meeting so that their suggestions can be discussed and acted upon by the board.

BRUCELLOSIS ERADICATION PROGRAM TO BE HELD

There will be a meeting held at the Agricultural Center in Plainview on Wednesday, January 9th at 9:30 a.m. concerning the new brucellosis eradication program which is being implemented by the Texas Animal Health Commission.

These meetings are being held to provide area beef cattle producers with information about how this program will affect their operations. Any Floyd County producers interested in attending this program are invited to accompany the County Livestock Committee to Plainview. The committee will meet at the Courthouse at 8:45 a.m. on January 9th to leave for Plainview.

Feeding Rumen "Bugs" Key to Cattle Performance

When feeding cattle producers need to know that they are actually feeding little "bugs" in the animal's rumen or stomach. These microscopic organisms turn forage into something cattle can use.

According to Dennis Herd, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, rumen bugs need 6 to 7 percent protein to function properly. If hay has this much protein or more, no supplemental feed is necessary for adequate microbial activity and good digestion. However, with low quality hay or forage of 3 to 4 percent crude protein, a protein supplement will increase digestion, total feed intake and daily gain.

Classes of cattle such as growing heifers, fattening cattle or cows nursing calves require protein levels of 10 to 12 percent for good production—levels above those needed by rumen bugs.

One way to determine if cattle are getting an adequate protein diet is to examine their droppings, notes the specialist. If droppings are dry and tall, it's a good sign of constipation and lack of protein in the diet.

Small amounts of supplemental phosphorus and protein stimulate these bugs and the digestion process so that mature cattle can use low quality forages that are available this time of the year. A pound of 30 to 40 percent protein supplement and a few ounces of a good salt-phosphorus mineral can change poor animal performance into acceptable maintenance performance on low quality forage.

However, young cattle do not have the digestive capacity to use low quality forage effectively. They need higher levels of protein and energy supplement, higher quality forages or both for acceptable growth rates.

Hay varies widely in feeding value, and hay from each cutting is different from every other cutting. However, hay for a single cutting is similar in protein content and digestibility. Once feeding value of a bale or two from a cutting is determined, the general value of all bales from that cutting should be similar. Since feeding values of different types of hay are going to vary widely, a forage test is essential to help determine if supplemental protein is needed and how much.

A forage analysis is a chemically determined value of the hay's protein content. A forage test provides a protein feeding value that can be used to determine feeding and supplementation needs for each class of animals fed. A forage test of each different type of hay to be used this winter will pay dividends in better animal nutrition.

For more information on how forage tests are run and where forage can be analyzed, call the Floyd County Extension Office.

THE FOREST AND YOU

This article has been prepared by Georgia-Pacific, the growth company interested in protecting our natural resources.

This seedling will become a giant using only the sun's energy. When the tree has matured, harvesting it and turning it into plywood and lumber will take a fraction of the energy needed to manufacture other building materials; only 430 kilowatt-hours per ton for steel and 17,000 kwh per ton for aluminum.

In the home, the wood will save even more energy because it insulates six times better than brick, 15 times better than concrete, and 1,600 times better than aluminum. In a test comparing wood-frame and masonry homes of the same size, the wood-frame home used 23 percent less heat energy, and 30 percent less energy for air conditioning.

It would appear then, in terms of energy savings, that money can, indeed, grow on trees.

BENTSEN PLEASED Senate completes action on Beef Import Bill

The U.S. Senate last week completed congressional action on a counter-cyclical beef import bill proposed by Senator Lloyd Bentsen and sent it to the White House for the President's signature.

The counter-cyclical import quota concept was originally proposed by Bentsen in 1978, given overwhelming approval by Congress later that year, but vetoed by the President. This year Bentsen introduced a slightly modified version of his original bill in the Senate and Congressman J.J. Pickle introduced a companion measure in the House. Bentsen ultimately steered the House version through the Senate.

"In addition to agreeing to sign this modified version of the counter-cyclical beef import bill, the administration has also asked that it be passed and sent to the President as quickly as possible," Bentsen said in remarks during consideration of the legislation.

"Meat import quotas are determined and allocated among the various countries on a calendar year basis. These quotas will very shortly have to be announced for the year 1980 and the Department of Agriculture needs this legislation quickly to avoid confusion and uncertainty."

The counter-cyclical approach in the Bentsen-Pickle bill would allow fewer beef imports into this country when domestic beef supplies are abundant and more imports when domestic supplies dwindle. The pro-cyclical approach in existing law—the 1964 Meat Import Act—has the reverse effect, allowing more imports as domestic supplies increase.

The Senate approved the bill unanimously.

"The current pro-cyclical formula is not good for consumers or producers. When prices are rising the 1964 Act cuts off imports and drives prices even higher. When prices fall it pushes them down further," Bentsen said.

"This new bill will provide a measure of stability in the cattle market that has long been needed. I am pleased that it has now been approved by Congress," Senator Bentsen said.

There were 55 articles written with regard to energy supply, shortage, prices, management, controls, etc. The conclusion of all information available indicates that energy problems are a result of government meddling and interfering with the production, distribution and pricing of energy. These subjects include government regulations in the area of safety, environment, taxation, foreign relations and supply management.

There has been much talk about developing alternate fuels in an effort to solve some of the shortage problems. However, the central facts still prevail that substitute energy, such as alcohol, solar, synthetic, etc. will be no more successful than current energy sources, if the government is permitted to manage them.

Out of the discussion of farm programs, pricing, exports, imports, and

'79 Farm Bureau Wrap-up

Cooperatives

Farm organizations come in many forms. There was an attempt this year to provide guidelines for analyzing organizations. It is a common belief among agricultural producers that production can be organized in such a way as to provide for mandatory pricing of agricultural commodities. This is a fallacy as all such movements must finally rely on central government for the power to restrict and manage production in such a way as to produce a given price. Central government will never transfer complete monopolistic power to any group of producers. The government in 1979 made a determined effort to restrict some of the federal authority now exercised by marketing cooperatives.

Diary

A number of subjects were discussed with regard to the dairy industry. As the struggle continues to "stabilize" the price of dairy products, per capita consumption continues to decline and a larger part of the fresh market is being shifted to manufactured products and imports.

Significant changes were made in the milk promotion program financed by producers which may affect the pattern of dairy and dairy products consumption, distribution, profits, etc.

Education

Considerable time was devoted to the discussion of the subject of better education for less money. Interest in this subject was generated by a program at the state convention in December of 1978. Generally speaking, the conclusion is that if public education is to be improved, it will be necessary to redirect the goals in two areas: (a) basic consideration of the U.S. Constitution, reading, writing and arithmetic and (b) teaching results.

The most important subject dealt with was the creation of a U.S. Department of Education. The net results of this new department will be increased federal money tied to an ever-expanding interference with local school programs.

Still another important issue in this area was the taxation of private schools. The U.S. Congress has, for one year, at least, preserved the right of a private school to tax exempt status.

Energy Supply

There were 55 articles written with regard to energy supply, shortage, prices, management, controls, etc. The conclusion of all information available indicates that energy problems are a result of government meddling and interfering with the production, distribution and pricing of energy. These subjects include government regulations in the area of safety, environment, taxation, foreign relations and supply management.

There has been much talk about developing alternate fuels in an effort to solve some of the shortage problems. However, the central facts still prevail that substitute energy, such as alcohol, solar, synthetic, etc. will be no more successful than current energy sources, if the government is permitted to manage them.

Farm Programs

Out of the discussion of farm programs, pricing, exports, imports, and other subjects, comes the central theme: who is going to speak for agriculture? The various movements in 1979 are no different from earlier years in that agriculture producers were divided by selfish interests. For example, should grain sorghum producers be permitted to establish a fair price by a way of a federal farm program? This is a worthwhile goal, but it can never come to pass, because when the power of federal government is used to establish price, all citizens' interest, as determined by administrators, including consumers will be considered. Those who claim to represent consumer interest made extensive progress in directing federal government action in the area of farm programs.

Field Crops

In the area of field crops, an attempt was made to report the farm program provisions of importance to producers including domestic distribution and foreign trade. Little notice was made of the fact that federally directed wheat promotion programs got underway in 1979.

Food

The U.S. Science and Education Administration established in compliance with Public Law 95-113 a Food and Nutrition Information Educational Resource Center. The goal of the center is to direct the use of food, as determined by administrators.

Fruits and Vegetables

The big story in 1978, with regard to fruits and vegetables, seemed to be the dumping of Mexican vegetables on the American market. Government continued its movement to reduce the tariffs and trade restrictions on the U.S. side without corresponding considerations on the other side.

U.S. Government

A great deal was written in FACTS FOR YOU this year with regard to the United States government extension into the private affairs of its citizens. As far as agriculture is concerned, the biggest news was the collective farm project. Probably the second most important advancement was the United States' establishment of an international trade commission connected with the U.S. Consumer Affairs office. This will bring foreign consumer influence on U.S. policy.

There are two U.S. Constitutional amendments under consideration by states: equal rights amendment; District of Columbia representation in Congress. Thirty-five states have approved the equal rights amendment, including Texas and six states have approved the Washington, D.C. amendment. Thirty-eight states must approve an amendment before it is added to the U.S. Constitution. Four states have attempted to withdraw their approval of the equal rights amendment. The time for approval of the equal rights amendment has been extended to June 30, 1982. The Washington, D.C. amendment deadline for state approval is August 22, 1985.

Labor

The movement to unionize agricultural labor continued to make progress in 1979. There were a few encouraging court decisions indicating some enforcement of existing law with regard to the use of union dues for purposes other than collective bargaining. Boycotts, violence and other disrupting action continued in 1979.

Research projects definitely proved that U.S. government is financing some of the labor union projects in California.

Federal Legislation

The big news is the creation of a U.S. Department of Education. The Beef Research and Information Order was developed and recommended by USDA.

Livestock

The control of brucellosis and predators were some of the most important subjects discussed. A great deal of time and effort went into the development of a new state-federal cooperative brucellosis control program which is to be released in the near future.

In summary, the battle is to keep the livestock industry free from federal management. It is getting increasingly difficult for livestock producers to trust the market place to manage their affairs when so many other areas, such as supplies, feeds, foreign trade, are regulated by government.

Miscellaneous Subjects

A number of subjects were covered in 1979 under the general heading of miscellaneous. The family system developed in America became the most efficient system available. This system will continue to be a dominating system in American agriculture until government management of the agricultural industry removes the individuality of choice. Summary, when it becomes more profitable to cooperate than to produce profit the family farm will go. The amount of talk will preserve the farm.

Prices in Farming

Various discussions dealing with and parity seem to be most important. In summary, prices are a result of supply-demand situation that depends on the consumer will ultimately determine the price level. The problem in American agriculture is not the price but the destruction of the market. There can be no parity in agriculture until the money system is stabilized. Sound basis. For example, one ounce of gold would have purchased tons of ammonia sulphate (fertilizer) in the 1935-39 period and in 1978, it purchased 1.78 tons.

Religions

Religions ran rampant in the 1970s. As far as agriculture is concerned it appears that churches meddle in politics is by far the most important issue. The problem is that leaders place their interpretation of the Bible's meaning with regard to matters as labor, income, prices, etc. If a church or religious organization maintained an active educational program, permitting its members to participate in the determination of this situation would change. Good called preachers to manage affairs. He only told them to preach the gospel, or good news. In other words, religious leaders are no more interpreting world affairs, as to individuals, than any other individual.

Socialism

Many of the subjects discussed the heading of socialism has considered under other subjects. It does seem important to our readers the development of humanistic studies in the United States during 1979. There are many accepting the theory of socialism without giving thought to the proposition that a human being is a product of evolution and that values are grounded in earthliness.

Tariffs and Trade

The big item in this area was foreign trade agreements. The Agreement on Trade and Tariffs, summary, agreements are not important, as their interpretation and administration. In plain English, the States continues to get the short end of the trade agreements, in that administered to the advantage of foreign countries.

Taxes

State taxes was, no doubt, discussed subject among Farm leaders in 1979. In summary, now has a revised and comprehensive property tax law. There are changes in the property tax law in this is a subject local leaders should study in order to protect interests under the new law. The new code are available in state office, along with the regulations developed by the state.

USDA

This is the year in which the States Department of Agriculture manipulated agricultural production determined by the department. An example is the use of agricultural program benefits, as a "discouraging" producers to produce with production plans, designed to conserve soil moisture, etc.

STATE RIGHT TO WORK

The National Right to Work Defense Foundation reported in December 5, 1979, that a state law protecting employment from compulsory unionism may be overturned on property ceded by the federal government. This was by a U.S. District Court in California. A laborer on a Cape Air Force Station. This ruling seems to overturn or weaken a ruling which indicated that state work laws could not be applied on property ceded by state federal government.

CARD OF THANKS
We appreciate the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our beloved mother.
Your prayers, words of consolation, visits, cards, the floral tribute, and food brought for the family showed your compassion for our sorrow.
May God richly bless each of you, and give you good friends to share your joy and sadness.

Mama Mattie
I remember Mama
So very well.
Each day of her life
Had a story to tell.
She cared for Daddy
As a good wife should do,
But she also cared
For Grandma, too.
When she was in pain,
But she never
Never did complain.
A jolly, happy person
Was she.
And I can still hear her
Tease and laugh with glee.
Memories are treasures that
We have to store,
And I know you have
So many more.
So when you are lonely
And feel so sad,
Think on memories and
Be very glad.
Her life was pleasant
Her life was rare,
Now she's in Heaven
With no pain or care.

Texas Laws specifically states that everything of value unless it be specifically exempt by law comes within the meaning of taxable property. Courts have ruled for example that where cattle are being fed, pastured, or otherwise cared for on property owned or leased by another, the owner or lessee is responsible that the cattle be rendered properly, or he may be assessed for the cattle himself and under certain conditions applies to lease, merchandise on consignment, and almost any type of personal property, controlled by persons not the owner.

Homesteads are covered by a new law and no longer includes anything but the home, such appliances as are necessary for the occupation of the home, (Garage pump home, etc) and such land as may be designated (fenced or marked off) for the containment of such home and appliances. Must own the home, and must reside there.

To be eligible for age 65 or Disability exception the applicant must be eligible for the regular Homestead exemption as defined above. Ag production use applicants must deduct homesteads and or other homesteads as non-production land.

All application must be completed in full detail by State Agencies they must be denied. Forms are being mailed and are also available at the Lockney Independent School District Tax Office, corner of College and Main Street, Lockney, Texas.
