Band Wins Sweepstakes Again

Lockney High School Band added a sweepstakes trophy to its list of honors last Friday when the young men's band earned a pair of first-division trophies at the Region 16 UIL Concert and Sightreading contest in Plainview. The "ones" in concert and sightreading matched the rating the band received in marching contest last November and earned the band the sweepstakes award, its fourth since director Raymond Lusk returned to Lockney seven years ago. (In those seven years, the Longhorn Band has received only three second-division ratings in concert, sightreading or marching — the other 18 ratings have been "I" or superior.)

Here's how one judge commented upon the Lockney band's concert performance Friday: "...beautiful sound, nice style...and outstanding performance...a tight, balanced, clean sound...Outstanding!...Congratulations to the director and students..."

Another judge commented: "...fantastic sonorities and such excellent band sounds — beautiful music being made...Yea band — great job...you are simply a great group of kids with a very tremendous conductor...The pleasure was mine today in hearing you — Lockney should be very proud."

Of the band's sightreading performance, one judge wrote on his comment sheet: "A beautiful looking group — you make a great impression — you're polite, attentive and intense. Excellent instruction by director."

The LHS band's next competition will be in a concert contest at Durango, Colorado, the last weekend in April.

Churches and other organizations have been asked to nominate women for the honors, and men may also present names. Of the nominees, only those who have been recommended by the nominating committee will be considered. Nominations are more effective if reasons for nomination are listed.

Fire Knocks Out Phone Service

A fire Monday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Felan, 211 Southwest Second Street, Lockney, destroyed a garage and two older-model vehicles, caused minor fire and smoke damage to the Felan house, and knocked out telephone service to some Lockneyites for several hours. No one was home at the Felan residence at the time of the blaze, and no one was injured.

Jim West, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company manager for Lockney, Plainview, Floydada and Hale Center, said two exchange cables running behind the garage and into the phone company building just north of the residence "went down" as a result of the fire. About 30 feet of both cables — one designated a "300-pair cable" and the other a "50-pair cable" — had to be replaced, West said. Fortunately, both cables were "in stock," the phone company manager told this newspaper, and service to most of the affected phones was restored by 5 p.m. Monday. West said the phone company received out-of-service reports from only 100 customers, but he estimated about 200 phones were affected. Normal service was restored before the telephone company crews quit Monday night.

"We appreciate the patience of our Lockney customers," West said the following day. He apologized for any inconvenience caused by the interruption in service.

Mrs. Felan said she returned home Monday to find the garage destroyed and firemen still at the scene. She and her two children had gone to Floydada to feed some livestock, and her husband was at work at the time of the fire. The garage broke into flames again Monday afternoon, but firemen returned to the scene and quickly extinguished the blaze.

Damage to the Felan residence was confined to a small burned area on the northeast side of the house and smoke damage throughout the home.

Proposal Made To Cut Federal Spending

A proposal that would cut Federal spending by $26.4 billion during fiscal year 1981 was outlined by members of a bi-partisan coalition of Congressional members Wednesday, Congressman Charles W. Stenholm has announced.

At a Capitol Hill news conference, Stenholm commented on the proposal, saying he recognized that balancing the budget would not "cure inflation overnight." But he emphasized that "the 17.5 percent cut in the regulatory phases of our government, in my opinion, is going to have the most lasting influence in doing something about inflation."

"We recognize, or at least we give lip service to the fact, that today consumers are paying from $100-$200 billion every year in increased costs due to the increased regulations that we have perpetuated upon the people."

"I'm one of those who believes that the people pay these costs," Stenholm said. "The government does not."

The proposal, supported by 60 members of both parties of the House, has been sent to the House Budget Committee for consideration. The 53-page document contains specific budget reductions in more than 70 Federal programs and budget functions.

Among the major program reductions the Comprehensive Education, Training Act (CETA), was targeted for the largest single reduction, $3.9 billion. Stenholm stressed that the reduction would not include the training portion of the program, but concentrate in those areas where the program has been proven to be both ineffective and overly costly.

Also included in major program reductions was the $2.4 billion General Revenue Sharing fund for states. "At a time when the majority of the states are reporting budget surpluses, it simply makes no sense for the Federal government to be 'sharing' money we don't have," Stenholm explained.

In discussing other reductions aimed at eliminating Food Stamp duplications and budget reductions of other social welfare-type programs, Stenholm cited a recent report that overpayments have pushed past the billion-dollar-a-year mark in the largest welfare program, Aid to Families with Dependent Children. "These budget cuts are not designed to cut services to those really in need," he explained, "but to cut unnecessary and wasteful expenditures, while increasing benefits to the truly needy."

Included in the $5 billion-dollar reduction of Federal department overhead was a 10 percent cut of Congressional expenses. "Like any budget effort, we had to begin at home," Stenholm said.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White Attorney General

AUSTIN—In spring, young people's thoughts turn to romance; homeowner's thoughts, unfortunately, are more likely to turn to the more immediate realities of putting in a garden, adding top-soil, planting trees, shrubs and flowers—and, more importantly—finding someone else to do the work so our "natural" spring fever can be allowed to run its course.

There are many reputable yard care services doing business throughout the State. They provide a highly useful service to homeowners who, because of a lack of time, physical capacity or interest do not want to do their own yard work. Many homeowners find they are able to save money by hiring a yard care service since these businesses normally have the expertise and specialized equipment to do the job correctly the first time.

Unfortunately, the attorneys in the Consumer Protection Division warn that some yard care services are run by itinerant "con men (or women)" who appear each spring to prey on homeowners, then leave for another town after extracting a substantial sum of money for work that may be incomplete or unsatisfactory.

If you are contemplating hiring a yard care service, check with at least three firms for a cost estimate. Try to investigate the company you select by contacting the Better Business Bureau to make sure the company will stand behind its work. And, always withhold part of the total payment until the work is completed as agreed. Finally, if you are solicited by a yard care service who appears on your doorstep, remember that you have three days in which to think over the transaction before you are required to pay any money to the business. For those homeowners who decide to resist "spring fever" and do the work themselves, there still may be thorns lurking in the garden. For example, many consumers order plants or seeds by mail. Again, many old, reliable firms have been in the mail order nursery business for decades. They supply top-quality, healthy garden stock and have a standing policy of either replacing any plant that doesn't grow or refunding the purchaser's money.

Less reliable firms, however, have been known to supply poor quality stock which often fails to grow, much less look like the lavish color picture advertisements in some newspaper supplements and magazine mail-order sections.

Expert gardeners advise persons who are tempted by such ads to investigate further. If the plant size is not stated in the ad it usually means the plant is a cutting or newly rooted plant which may fail to survive.

The origin of the stock should be checked too. Many plants sold from nurseries in other states are unsuited to Texas weather.

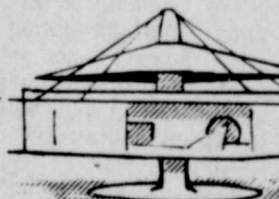

Similar problems may be experienced if you decide to purchase nursery or garden stock from itinerant salesmen who operate from trucks along the highways. Some of these salesmen have developed new, easy ways to get the trees they sell. They simply cut a tree off at a nice length, wrap burlap filled with rocks, glass—even beer cans—around its base and sell it to unsuspecting customers. When the customer takes home what he thinks is a bargain in a "balled and burlapped" tree that is ready to plant, he finds his new tree has no roots. Of course, such a tree will die in just a few days.

If you have a complaint about yard care services operating in your area or if you discover that the quality of the nursery stock you purchase does not measure up to representations made about it to you, contact the Consumer Protection Division's office nearest you.

Floyd Philosopher Examines The Plight Of Foreign Embassies This Week

Dear editor:

What to do about terrorist nuts and with embassy-capturing diplomats as hostages is a problem that's becoming more and more serious. Nobody seems to have an answer to it.

Like it is, a handful of people with some guns and a few rounds of ammunition and maybe a hand grenade or two can storm into an embassy without any trouble, capture everybody inside and hold up indefinitely, with nobody on the outside knowing what to do.

I have wrestled with this problem for some time and have come up with a solution which may not work because I don't know what foreign diplomats do. They're bound to do something useful because practically every country on earth has an embassy in every other country. Surely it's not just an ancient custom which nobody can explain, like wearing ties or high heeled shoes.

Nonetheless, all countries and with embassy-capturing about it.

The only solution I can locate all our foreign telephone booths on every country we do. Anybody in Iran, for example, to talk to our embassy steps inside a phone booth. It's possible a diplomat about as much from what's going on in Iran he were on the scene.

This positively will capturing of embassies believe there's a nutty enough to hold ransom.

Commentary: Sen. Lloyd

In the distant mountain village of Kerala, Afghanistan, a now-silent field holds the remains of a thousand or more men and boys — victims of a mass slaughter which occurred on a Muslim holiday last spring.

The CIA has assured me it is almost certain that this massacre occurred, under orders from Soviet "advisors." I had written CIA Director Stansfield Turner for confirmation of this, after reading press accounts of this alleged atrocity.

According to those reports, the Afghan troops were brutally murdered by Afghan troops under order from Soviet soldiers. The troops had accused the villagers of aiding Muslim freedom fighter who steadfastly opposed the Marxist regime.

After the soldiers rounded up the unarmed men and forced them to huddle together in the field, they ordered the villagers to chant slogans of praise to the Marxist regime. Instead, the men shouted: "Allahu akbar" — God is great.

The Soviet advisers ordered the troops to fire on the men. Then, in a manner reminiscent of the Nazis in World War II, a bulldozer reportedly appeared, burying living and wounded alike.

Western reporters received word of the massacre from Afghans seeking shelter in Pakistani refugee camps. They talked to the women who lost husband, brothers and sons. Those women emerged from a nightmare not unlike that of the infamous Nazi massacre at Lidice, Czechoslovakia, where the German troops in World War II murdered 179 villagers.

The Soviets in Kerala operated with the same tactics as the equally barbarous Nazis did.

In both cases, the oppressors coolly, callously photographed their destruction.

In both cases, the victims were unarmed, guilty only of refusing to yield to the demands for total subservience from a totalitarian oppressor.

But it's not the first time the Soviet Union has committed such atrocities in a bordering country.

Coach Steve Culwell said the Longhorn team had improved a great deal in the field events since the first meet of the season the previous week. Culwell mentioned the good showing by the Longhorn hurdlers, and stated "If we continue to improve, we'll challenge for the district title." The Lockney coach said the Floydada meet wasn't a true gauge of the district teams' relative strength because several of the relay events at Floydada were different from the standard UIL events.

Culwell named Arnold Alaniz "athlete of the meet" again this week. Steven Galvan earned "competitor of the week" honors.

Congressional Comment

FINAL CONSIDERATION of the so-called "windfall profits tax" was completed by the House on March 13, with the House-Senate Conference Report approved by a vote of 302 to 107.

THIS WEEK I announced my support for the Bipartisan Coalition to Back Efforts to Balance the Budget and its proposal to cut Federal spending by $26.4 billion this year.

The millions of words that have argued against the tax fall on deaf ears, as the drive to "punish the majors" now lacks only Senate approval. The fact that the tax will reduce — not increase — supplies of petroleum seems to have been a minor consideration. The fact that many small producers and royalty owners will be seriously crippled economically is a point that has gone ignored.

Among the reductions recommended was a 17.5 percent cut from 17 major regulatory agencies. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) was not among the agencies named and I would like to point out why: Agriculture has already been cut far more severely than any other department or agency. Just two years ago, agriculture's budget totaled $7.7 billion, compared to $2.8 billion in the 1981 fiscal year budget submitted by President Carter earlier this year.

One vote stopped an attempt to exempt the first 1,000 barrels of production from the tax, an exemption that would have given the small royalty owner and producer a needed break.

I particularly oppose further reductions in agricultural research. A cutback on research funding would return about $2 to taxpayers on a per capita basis, but in six or seven years, without additional agricultural research, food prices will escalate 10 to 15 times as much. That's being penny-wise and pound-foolish. It's time to cut the unproductive areas, not the productive.

A recent letter from a retiree who depends on the royalty income from his stripper wells, says it far better that I could: "Inflation of 16-18 percent and the windfall profits tax is going to destitute us. Without inflation, this tax is going to take more than 40 percent of our small royalty income. Worse still, this tax will very probably shut down the properties from which we get 90 percent of our income — stripper wells. This tax will render these properties unprofitable."

It makes no sense to tax out of existence 75 million barrels annually of stripper oil just to punish the major companies."

I fought this "consumer tax" (that is who will ultimately bear the tax) from start to finish, but unless it is rejected by the Senate and returned to the Conference Committee, the bill has passed.

I fought this "consumer tax" (that is who will ultimately bear the tax) from start to finish, but unless it is rejected by the Senate and returned to the Conference Committee, the bill has passed.

In a spirit of unity, Democratic Party Chairman Billy Goldberg welcomed them back into the fold, even as Republicans lamented losing them and Connally.

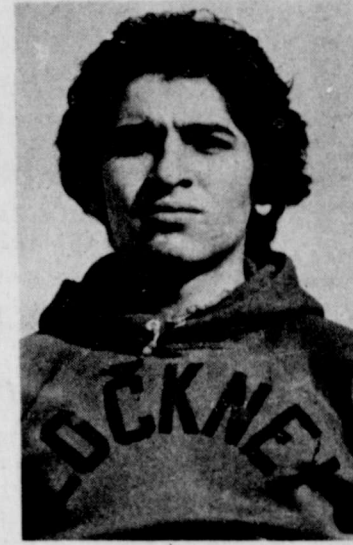

I fought this "consumer tax" (that is who will ultimately bear the tax) from start to finish, but unless it is rejected by the Senate and returned to the Conference Committee, the bill has passed.

However, as an extra attraction, Republicans are now going to give GOP primary voters a chance to voice opinions on two legislative issues: wiretapping and initiative and referendum. The State Republican Executive Committee acted positively to a request for such balloting from Gov. Bill Clements.

Why joggers ache

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — A physical education professor at The University of Texas knows why runners and joggers ache.

Head in clouds

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — A woman student at The University of Texas has reason to have her head in the clouds.

Because he has diagnosed hundreds of runners in UT's Rehabilitation Laboratory, Prof. Karl Klein says most running problems occur because one leg is shorter than the other, ankles turn inward, the tension between muscles on the front and back of legs is unbalanced, and many fail to run "pigeon toed" (a toe-inward position with the outside of the feet parallel).

Charlotte Smith is one of 10 women in the nation accepted for jet pilot training in the U.S. Air Force. A physics major, she is a cadet in the UT Austin Air Force ROTC, where she is deputy commander of the John H. Payne Squadron.

He advises stretching exercises for muscle flexibility and, in the running shoe, heel lifts (to balance posture) and podiatry-designed devices (to turn ankles outward).

It is no coincidence that she is interested in flying. Her father is a career Air Force pilot. She hopes eventually to become a flight instructor. Under Air Force rules, she is barred from flying combat missions.

The quicker you get your corn up, the quicker you'll get it out next fall. Your corn will be drier, test higher, and you just might beat a bad spell of late fall weather.

It all starts with selection of hybrids that shoot out of the ground fast, through the cool and wet weather of early spring. And keep growing into big, robust plants that can stand up to high winds and drought, then deliver big girthy ears filled with highest grain. Sound like your kind of hybrids? See me for the two listed here.

Wayland President Announces Retirement

Dr. Roy C. McClung, president of Wayland Baptist College since 1963, announced to the College's Board of Trustees Thursday his plans to retire from his position as chief executive officer.

In making the announcement at the regular spring meeting of the Board, McClung, 62, said his retirement would be effective on the day a new president is installed—possibly as early as July 1 (the 17th anniversary of his presidency) but no later than Jan. 1, 1981.

As a result of the announcement, a search committee to be appointed by Gene V. Owen, chairman of Board, will be established for the task of finding a replacement for McClung, whose relationship with Wayland began 21 years ago when he was elected to the Board of Trustees while serving as pastor of Plainview's First Baptist Church.

While explaining his decision at this time, McClung said, "The reasons behind the move, I think, are quite obvious. This is a very significant part of a personal,

Our Pets

BY WES ADAMS

...Went fishing again the other day. Always hated to go alone. Then I thought about Jake Von Swoggle...

My German short hair pointer.

Jake don't understand English. I don't speak German, but we managed to get along. Jake was a good traveler. Slept most of the time. Snored. Kick his back legs but we learned to communicate. He would smack his lips, I knew he was thirsty. Driving along—old Jake standing up in seat looking straight ahead pointed on my right was a new Dairy Queen. I knew then that he was hungry. Pulled in—girl took our order. Says "Oh, what a pretty dog."

Jake really fell for her. She said, "You can exercise your dog out back," a place for poodles, large dogs, male and female. Sign on a rock said "Lassie went here."

Neighbors won't mind. It will stay around the house."

Neighbor across the street buys him a dog. Pays out good money. Builds kennel, keeps up because he has money invested. Although we have dog laws, leash laws, no barking laws etc. Are they expensive. You say you buy your child a pet. Pay $50. He lives (if he's lucky). Yes, counting doggie doctor bills, dog food, collars, leashes, ect. at the end of seven years he has cost you around $700. Is it worth it? Yes, the enjoyment you get out of owning a dog of some breed, whether a child's pet, guard dog, stock dog, seeing eye dog or an old man's hunting dog. I was down south a few years back. Coming through (Cracker State) kept seeing bill boards K9 City ahead. City Limit sign population one thousand people and thousand good dogs. Sign said "We love our children. We love our hound dogs. Drive slow. The dog you hit might be your own." Another sign read "These streets patrolled by doggie police or Visa Visa."

Signs like "Hound Dog Hotel, Red Dog Saloon." Sign on doggie motel said "Lassie Slept here."

Pulled in to service station to get gas. I asked the attendant "Where is everybody." He looked at me and grinned. "Everybody's gone coon hunting. I'm the only one open today. The bank closed too. Yes, he said the bank owned the Hound Dog Hotel and the Red Dog Saloon." I thought to myself, "I would give anything just to hear some good old hound dog music on a hot coon track on a cold November night."

alone there was thousands of dogs living like people and vice versa.

The trouble and expense what we go through in order to keep our dogs. I read in the paper state a few years ago where a little boy and his dog went hunting his dog. Got hung between rocks after a coon. The whole town turned out to help dig him out. Would we all turn out to save our pet?

Are they a problem. No, not if we take care of them. The average mistake we make when given a dog, pure bred or mix breed pet or guard dog, is not having a plan to keep one. When given a dog or pet, the average dog owner will say "What the Heck. I don't have anything to keep him in. I'll just turn it loose."

Neighbors won't mind. It will stay around the house."

Young Children, Developing Concern

Parents can influence even very young children to have concern for others — if their message of concern is forceful, according to Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

While traditional child development theories hold that young children are selfish, ego-centered and unable to show behavior before ages five or six, recent studies are providing different evidence.

Studies conducted at the National Institute on Mental Health have indicated that children between the ages of 10 months and two and a half years can show feelings of compassion and empathy for others.

Mothers play a key role in development of concern for others, the studies also concluded.

Children of mothers who gave forceful messages about not hurting others were more likely to give help and comfort to those in need than were children of mothers who gave neutral, calmly reasoned explanations.

In addition, children of mothers who were altruistic in their behavior showed a greater tendency to be concerned about others.

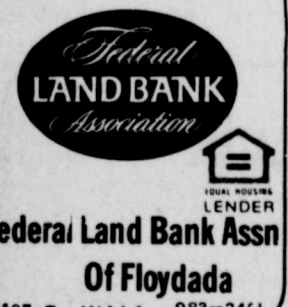

Hugs, kisses, soothing words and concerned behavior were replicated by their children.

"From National Institute of Mental Health research, it seems very likely that parents can influence even very young children to have concern for others."

"FACES"

The Face Of An Unhappy Marriage

THE FACE OF AN UNHAPPY MARRIAGE
A lonely man finds excuses to work late or to be out of town a great deal to get away from being home and facing a marriage that seems worn out. At his home a lonely woman drops into bed, worn out from the responsibility of the children, only to find she cannot sleep, and in the darkness tears roll down her cheeks.

What can be said that could generate a spark of hope in a man and a woman who have vowed "for better or for worse...till death do us part" but have found they are unable to communicate and unable to love?

A rebellious adolescent, a bed-wetting child, a bitter woman, and a distraught, frustrated man vividly portray an unhappy marriage that affects the whole family. The serious side effect of an unhappy marriage is children with no direction and no inner feeling that someone is in control. These children grow up and act out these hopeless feelings with a family of their own who will be headed in the same destructive direction. If this were the whole story the situation would be hopeless. But there is more that needs to be told. How little we hear about broken marriages that are made whole!

The word "hope" seems to have disappeared from the hearts of men and women who think the choice is to "go on living like this" or "get a divorce". Most couples with serious marital problems believe that when they no longer feel love for each other the marriage is without hope.

NO marriage is without hope as long as both partners, or sometimes even one, will hope and work. The problems that ruin marriages go beyond money, sex, personality clashes, interfering relatives, or even unfaithfulness. These disruptions are symptoms of the real trouble rooted deep within the person.

The marriage of two people breaks down when the people break down. A marriage is meaningless when the partners have lost or have never found the true meaning of life. Marriages are mended when a man and a woman learn the secret of living beyond themselves, when each can project himself to meet the needs of the other. This takes deep commitment (a word too often omitted when talking about love and marriage), thought, confrontation, honesty, humility all of the depth of attributes that dwell inside a person but which too often lie dormant under the self life of rejection, manipulation, pride, and self gratification.

If you have a bad marriage it is really up to you to be honest enough to face yourself first or have your marriage become another statistic.

If you need help CALL US! "FACES" is a monthly presentation of the Central Plains MHMR Center, 2700 Yonkers, Plainview, phone 296-2726. The Floydada office is located in the court house. Phone 983-2584.

Library News

"Knowing how to use the Floyd County Public Library and the Floyd County Branch Library at Lockney would vastly increase the knowledge of Floydada and Lockney Area citizens," according to librarians Jackie Walls.

"Relationships today are held together by person-to-person communication. Reading is probably one of the weak links in the chain. Many people spend about one-fourth of their time reading, not only reading poorly but merely glancing at what they are reading. Americans read at about 35 percent level of efficiency."

The 12,000 people in the Floydada trade area need to develop habits of reading materials which would go way beyond their interest levels. In this way, the citizen can have a more comprehensive way of understanding issues which confront the community, state and nation.

For example, the 200 section of the library covers religion. Proper use of this section will give a person a deeper understanding of his church and the person will develop a deeper spiritual sense of values.

The Floyd County Public Library is designed to help the citizens of this area to become better informed and better able to communicate with their fellow persons.

Energy Saving Can Mean Tax Saving

According to the Internal Revenue Service installing insulation, storm windows, solar heating and other devices can reduce the energy used to heat and cool your home. These expenditures can also reduce your federal income tax bill if you qualify for the residential energy credits.

There are two kinds of residential energy credits available to individuals: a home energy conservation credit for money spent on equipment to conserve energy in your personal residence; and a renewable energy resource credit for alternate energy sources such as solar, wind or geothermal devices. These are available to both renters or owners of a dwelling, provided they actually pay for the items.

Probably the most common ways to save energy are to install storm or thermal windows and doors, insulate the roof, floors, walls, and then the outside of your hot water pipes and water heater. Or you might spend a little more money modifying your furnace to burn fuel more efficiently, or adding an automatic set back thermostat to save energy when you're not at home.

The money you spend for these types of components is eligible for the energy conservation credit. You are entitled to a credit of 15 percent of the first $2,000 you spend on these components — that's a maximum of $300. The credit is based on the cost of items installed after April 19, 1977, and before January 1, 1986. The $2,000 limit applies to each new principal residence. But remember, in order for your home to qualify, it must have been built or substantially completed before April 20, 1977.

Some persons might install alternate energy equipment, such as solar collectors, windmills, or geothermal devices which are eligible for the renewable energy sources credit. This is 30 percent of the first $2,000 and 20 percent of the next $8,000. Unlike the energy conservation credit, this may be claimed for equipment installed in your personal residence no matter when it was built.

Certain items are specifically excluded from the residential energy credit. For example, drapes, carpeting, wood paneling and exterior siding may have an insulating effect, but are primarily structural or decorative. Other items that are not eligible for the credit include wood or peat burning stoves, heat pumps, fluorescent lights, and hydrogen fueled equipment.

You compute the residential energy credit on Form

5696, "Energy Credits" and enter the credit on line 45 of your Form 1040. You may not claim the credit on Form 1040A.

For more information, see the free IRS Publication 903, "Energy Credits For Individuals." It can be ordered by mail using the order form in the tax package, or by calling the IRS number listed in the phone book. If more convenient, it can be picked up at most IRS offices.

Answer: If the child is eligible in all other respects, a retarded child under 18 (or under 21 attending school) is considered disabled for SSI purposes and may be eligible for payments if his or her IQ is 59 or less. A slightly different definition applies to older retarded persons. A retarded child with a higher IQ also may be considered disabled, depending on whether the child has a physical

FIX IT FACTS

Painting a room accomplished in a room. First, cover the floor and floor with drop cloth and use oil-base paint over-lap marks by painting in narrow strips.

For walls, move furniture to center of room. Remove switch and plates, even if you are pulling out the wall. Pull off paint the upper corner along wall next to several feet. Then down corner, filling a square area as you go.

This keeps a "wet edge" and avoids lap marks. Use semigloss enamel for woodwork with a rag in one hand to wiping glossy flat wall paint.

REST HOME FLOYD BIRTHDAY SET 228

March is such a frisky month... To slow her down, NO way... So let us have a party And join her in her play!

We greet Geneda Roberts... Who counts from 1908... She always loves a party And wouldn't dare be late!

Our Mrs. Hallie Bertrand... Whose years are 86... Is a very lovely lady But STILL she keeps her "tricks".

Now Mrs. Ethel Collins Is a lady nice to know... She welcomes all her visitors And hates to see them go!

Mrs. Artie Newell To one and all who know her... On THAT you can depend.

Our Mrs. Jewell Jackson... Whose years are 88... Knows much about the "early days" And stories can relate.

Let's join these ladies With the HAPPY BIRTHDAY song... So join right in the singing And come out good and strong!

Thursday, March 13, was birthday time again at the Rest Home. The celebration was hosted by ladies of the City Park church of Christ. Residents were ushered into the dining room with the five honorees being seated at the "honor" table. Their places were marked with special birthday cards and the table was covered with a "birthday" cloth and centered with a lovely arrangement of silk flowers in spring colors.

The Hesperian photographer came for the picture taking, after which the poem was read and all joined in singing the "birthday" song. Mrs. Hallie Bertrand had as her special guests her daughter, Gladys Widner, and daughter-in-law, Laurita Bertrand. Seated with Mrs. Collins was her daughter, Mary Adams, and Dana Ellis, daughter of Mrs. Roberts, was her special guest. A beautifully decorated, chocolate covered birthday cake was served along with a delicious fruit punch.

The next party will be Thursday, April 17, 2:30. You are invited to be with us and please make a special effort to be there if you have a relative or close friend being honored.

CHEMISTRY IN OUR LIVES
How You Will Benefit

AN ONION A DAY?

Although it's probably premature to put an onion on your medicine shelf, scientists have found a substance in the humble vegetable that is known to lower blood pressure.

The new findings, reported at a meeting of the American Chemical Society/Chemical Society of Japan, marked the first time that one of the compounds called prostaglandins has been found in plants. Prostaglandin A₁ lowers blood pressure when injected intravenously. Whether the onion could actually lower blood pressure would depend on its untested ability to survive the digestive process.

Folklore has long held that eating onions could hold blood pressure down. Now scientists feel there may be some reasons to investigate.

Gardening In The

Despite the age of computers, it's unlikely that gardener's will be able to do all their chores by simply pressing a few buttons in the years ahead.

"Tilling the soil, hoeing weeds and spraying for bugs and diseases will probably be as commonplace during the 1980s as last year," says Dr. Sam Cotner, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"One thing is sure, though—gardening will be even more popular in this new decade, more and more people are taking to gardening in an attempt to cut grocery costs as well as to simply grow things and get back to nature," he points out.

Gardening offers economical as well as psychological benefits, contends Cotner. In the age of computers and a "dog-eat-dog" world, gardening can be "just what the doctor ordered," a chance to "get away from it all."

At last look, some 31 million American households had gardens in 1979, up from 27 million in 1970. And the number of people who come to work for the $1 billion-a-year horticulture industry is expected to rise to 1.5 million by 1990.

Whether you are a professional gardener or a hobbyist, there are many ways to get the most out of your garden. For example, you can save money by growing your own vegetables and fruits. You can also enjoy the beauty of a well-maintained garden.

At last look, some 31 million American households had gardeners in the total, or one out of every four families.

And gardeners are spending $1 billion a year on garden equipment, food freezers and other items. However, the dollars returns in the value of produce, notes the horticulturist, are about 11 percent of the cost of the fruit and vegetables consumed in the U.S.

Whether gardeners are fun or profit oriented, suggests detailing selecting a site, drainage and soil, and a small scale.

"Plant only what you can use, what you can eat, and what you can give away," says Cotner. "Gardening is a test of time and patience, and it's real down-to-earth."
