Jerry Johnson, 35, was characterized by last year's winner Kenneth Wofford as "the kind of man you find at the center of every activity in the commun-

The current fire chief of Lockney Volunteer Fire Department, Johnson is a 15-year member of the department and has served several previous terms as chief. The letter of nomination says that Johnson is the first one there whether it be fire fighting, weather alerts, civil defense, special patrols or the ambulance service.

Johnson has taken the first aid course three times to keep him qualified to make ambulance runs. He represents Lockney at meetings of South Plains Emergency Medical Service Inc., but has refused compensation from the city for trip expenses. The letter of nomination says that is another way that Johnson gives service to his community.

The member of First United Methodist Church operates an auto repair shop. He has coached Little League teams all his adult life and helped with the Scouts for the past two years.

Jerry and his wife Jessie have two sons, Jerald, 13 years old, and Jason, 4. He is the son of Mrs. Lavon (Hazel) Johnson of Lockney.

Dean Rippetoe

Speaks To

Lockney Chamber

Amidst a barrage of country jokes and stories, A.D. "Dean" Rippetoe, delivered some hard blows at the government, receiving applause several times and amens from the 350 Lockneyites at the Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night.

"Sixty percent of the federal budget is a give away," he said and then warned, "Folks are buying votes with Rippetoe struck out against the nations energy problems and laid the blame solidly on governmental policy of price controls and over regulation for the past 25 years. The nation does have a serious energy problem, "The situa-tion is real," he said, "not false or exaggerated." Foreign imports from unstable foreign governments means that, "50% of all gas (that we use) comes from a very shaky source." He said that if our imports are shut off there won't be one wheel turning. It will take that 50% to keep our homes warm and our hospitals running. Governmental control and punitive legislation has kept our nation from producing. "Stronger price controls are counter productive. We were warned in 1944 that price controls would eventually cause shortage. Right now the domestic price for a barrel of oil is $6.00. We are buying foreign oil at $40 plus, a barrel. Still on the subject of excess profits, Rippetoe, who has been employed by Shell Oil Co. since 1956, said, "since when was it a sin, under the free enterprise system to make a profit?' The shortage is real, he said, "you can't SEE RIPPETOE, PAGE 3

Pre-School And Kindergarten Registration Slated

The annual pre-school clinic and registration for kindergarten will be held Wednesday, April 9 from 1:00 until 3:00 p.m. in the Lockney Elementary School Cafetorium.

Dr. W. J. Mangold and Dr. Gary Mangold will be administering the physical check-up. Dr. Stewart Webb will be screening the children for vision problems. Dr. Don Grimes will be giving the dental check-up. Required pre-school immunizations will be given and dates set for follow-up shots.

This free clinic is for all children who will be five years old by September 1, 1980 and who will be entering kindergarten in the fall. Also, any child who will be six by September 1, 1980 and who will be attending school for the first time this fall should attend this

Mothers are asked to bring the child's birth certificate and immunization records. Members of the Athena Study Club will be helping with the clinic.

ELVIRA MUNIZ was named Woman of the Year at the Lockney Chamber of Commerce Banquet Thursday night.

Style Show Sponsored By FHA-Hero Chapter

"Spring into color" is the theme of a style show sponsored by the Lockney FHA-HERO Chapter to be held at the Lockney Elementary School Cafeteria on April 3, at 7:00 p.m.

Modeling this spring's fashions will be students from the FHA-HERO chapter and members of the Il Penseroso and Athena Study Clubs. The apparal worn by the models is from Skibell's in Plainview.

There will be entertainment provided by a local music group. This is the first style show put on by the chapter. It is being co-ordinated by Home-Ec. advisor, Treena Aston.

The money from the ticket receipts will be used to send the two chapter representatives to the state FHA-HERO convention in April.

Elvira Muniz Named

Woman Of The Year

Observing that she felt like Santa Claus, Marjorie Ferguson, Lockney's 1978 woman of the year, announced at the banquet that Elvira Muniz was the newest winner of that honor.

Mrs. Ferguson cited Mrs. Muniz as bringing meaning to the words "Christian commitment" through her unselfish service to family, friends, neighbors and even strangers. She said that the Lockney General Hospital aide cares for people, gives of herself and asks nothing in return. Mrs. Ferguson also commented that Elvira Muniz has used her day off from work to sit with a hospital patient so that the patient's family might have some rest, and has laundered patients' clothing at no cost.

Mrs. Ferguson quoted from one of the nomination letters these words: "In these days of materialism first, people second, Lockney is indeed fortunate to have among its citizens one who so readily exhibits those qualities exemplifying the Christian ideal."

The new honoree and her husband Nick are parents of Nicky, a sophomore at Lockney High School. The family attends San Jose Catholic Church.

Band Boosters To Meet Tuesday Night

Lockney Band Boosters will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 in the band hall. Main item of business will be to select a nominating committee to choose officer candidates for the coming year. Present presidents are George and Jean

The tickets may be purchased from any FHA-HERO chapter member or at the door. Ticket prices are: $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students. For

San Antonio Firm Honors Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bishop, Floydada, were honored in the home of their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Riley Teague, March 27.

A luncheon was given in their honor, followed by a small ceremony of repeating wedding vows after 75 years

The celebration was given by The Roegelein Company of San Antonio, Texas. After a six months search using various media, the Roegelein Company "hit paydirt." The Company sought to share their 75th anniversary with persons who would be married 75 years in 1980 and with senior citizens who were born in 1905 thus marking their 75th birthday in 1980.

Originally the Bishops were to be special guests at one of the many parties the Roegelein Company is hosting throughout Texas. After learning that the Bishop family wanted to have the event in Floydada, William Roegelein, Jr., firm president, agreed to fly with the company delegation to Floydada for the party and for the renewal of wedding vows.

The Roegelein Company is Texas' largest beef and pork processing plant. They will host over 2,000 citizens with their parties this year in honor of their 75th year of successful business and operations in Texas.

A delegation from the San Antonio based company flew to Lubbock and then drove by car to the Floydada festivities. Included in the party were William Roegelein, president of the company; Sam Riklin, president of advertising and marketing, Bonnie Place, marketing director of advertising and marketing service; Bonnie Tiner, media director of advertising and marketing; Dana Parish, photographer; Ernestine Sisk, from the office of the governor's committee on aging.

Local dignitaries, Parnell Powell, mayor; and Choise Smith, county judge met the visiting members of the Know why there are so many public phones in airports? Everybody has to let someone know where he is . .

Yes, we are dependent on one another for all kinds of support: "Please pick me up" or "I'll meet you in an hour" or "I'm finished here and moving on" or "What are my new instructions?"

One of the truths our churches stress is that we are dependent on God for support. We need a quality of support that is far above that which we have come to expect from one another.

Next Sunday when you see people on their way to church remember why there are so many phones in airports. Millions of us pray to God . . . to let Him know just where we are'... to ask His support in fulfilling our present mission . . . or discovering our next.

IDEAS FOR SHARING

HOUSEWORK Housework is not trivial. It is a fact of life. If we are to create a comfortable environment and a sense of "home," then certain housework will always be necessary to maintain that environment. Housework and how it is shared also tells children how valuable males and females are and what their time is worth.

What are some ways families can share household work?

1. Fifty-fifty -Split each job in half (you mop, I wax) -Split the total list of chores in half

-Split the time in half (you do everything Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays; I do the rest) 2. Your Turn, My Turn -Divide tasks fairly, then alternate who does what, when and for how long. 3. Laisses-faire -Everyone picks up after him/herself and pitches in around the house. Things may see this as a "free

DID LOSING BRING INSIGHT?

Livestock Show Lesson Valuable

By Kevin Bugoon McKinley County, New Mexico The young boy kneeled nervously by his purebred Dorset lamb.

The sheep judge paced back and forth clasping his hands behind the small of his back, studying the two lambs left in pronounced the champion lamb. contention for champion lamb. The boy's thoughts momentarily strayed from the arena to three days earlier when he washed and fitted his lamb.

The lamb stood motionless on the blocking table. Many hours of washing rested on the lamb's nose. and grooming had trained the wether to stand in silent calmness. The lamb was accustomed to the boy's touch, never too harsh but always firm. The lamb was clean but not all-together white (lamb's wool is naturally more greasy, often turning a yellowish color after washing). The young boy applied his wool card to the fleece and began "fluffing" the wool.

He reached down to the table and grasped the worn hand shears his prother had used so successfully a few years before, and began trimming the wool. Soon the lamb's fleece was smooth and had taken shape.

No Time For Games working feverishly over a Hampshiresome of his friends sat playing cards, but the younger boy had no time for games, he had hopes of placing high, possibly winning champion lamb.

The boy's flash back had lasted but a his lamb, poked and prodded the finish on the lamb's back aqud stepped back viewing both lambs. Momentarily the boy glimpsed to his left and caught the image of the same older boy showing the Hampshire-cross lamb in contention

Ten feet behind the boy was the adult, who had worked so long and hard on the boy's lamb shouting instructions and encouragement The older boy acted uninterested, more of a menial job rather than a responsibility. The younger boy had set a goal, not just a task, but a dream. He had often slept at night dreaming of the judge easing up to him and lightly slapping his lamb on the top of the rump signaling champion lamb.

Had he smoothed the fleece or cleansed the wool enough, so many doubts raced through his mind. The judge paced by and stopped, visually examining the lambs, thoughtfully, he scratched his chin with his left hand.

The judge's hand dropped to his side as he began to walk towards the younger boy's lamb. Stopping, he looked down at the lamb then took two steps to his right and slapped the older boy's lamb and stepped back. A muffled noise came from the crowd as he

The older boy's adult "helper" lept with joy rushing to congratulate the champion. The younger boy felt a sinking hard knot in his stomach, his head eased down so his forehead lightly

He must not be a poor loser, lifting his head he offered a hand shake to the winner. The older boy was too busy following the adult who was leading the lamb back to his pen. The younger boy had other shows and other lambs, but something just felt wrong.

Grooming Made Difference The judge gave his reasons including muscling; length, and conformation, but the most prevelent was grooming. The judge had concluded that the older boy had done a superior job.

No, it wasn't the end of the world, but for a fleeting second his dream was fractured, not by the older boy or his lamb, but by the adult. Reserve The boy couldn't help noticing an champion lamb was not disrespectful older man, perhaps a county agent, and he was consoled by his father who was watching from the crowd. The boy had a successful career in 4-H and F.F.A., raising and showing Registered Suffolk sheep. He helped and enabled other members to raise and show champion lambs. Always he remembered his promise, for the youth shows are for youth to raise, groom, show and win. A young person never loses if he or she works with their own animals and does simply the very best

The only losers in a youth show are the people who interfere so they can assure their own ego that they have won. These people are not to be praised or congratulated. The older boy should be corrected and taught the meaning of

Mexico Increases Grain Orders

Mexico will continue to be a major buyer of U.S. grain in the foreseeable future, according to GSPA Executive Director Elbert Harp. Sales of more than 60 million bushels of grain sorghum have been registered since October 1, 1979. Harp said, "Our neighbor to the south has become the second largest buyer of our grain sorghum. They are exceeded only by

Harp was in Mexico City March 19 -21 with a trade delegation led by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown and Texas Agricultural Products Marketing Director Ben Baisdon. The purpose of the trip was to express appreciation to the Mexican officials for their purchases and to discuss some problems which are limiting sales. The group had conferences with the top officials of Mexico's Department of Commerce and Industry; the national railroad; and CONASUPO, the agency which licenses and regulates grain imports. The team also met with major grain importers and officials of the U.S. Embassy in Mexico.

The Mexican government is determined to be self-sufficient in grain production. However, few observers believe their expansion can keep pace with the increased demand for meat, doing his best, that is real success; the adult, well he should be pitied.

The young boy, although he lost, was the real winner, and always he remembered his promise: Always to advise and assist, but never, never to do the work and grab the glory.

This is a true account, not fictional or exaggerated, and I know; for 12 years ago I was that young boy. We as adults must set not merely a goal, but a standard and a value that we can all

Scouting Pays Big Dividend COURT: The American Textile Manufacturers Institute has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn a federal supreme Court decision unhealding the

by James F. Leser, Texas Extension Entomologist

Traditionally, producers on the High Plains have not worried too much about insect problems in their crops. That's because insects haven't been a problem for most farmers until recently. But during the last decade, more and more growers have turned to insecticides to bail them out of pest problems. And there seems to be no end in sight.

The Texas High Plains has evolved from an area of relatively low insecticide use to recently achieve the dubious honor of using more than half of the pesticides applied to crops across the entire state. With greenbugs attacking sorghum, spider mites and southwestern corn borers on corn, and now increased problems with fleahoppers and bollworms on cotton, this shouldn't come as any surprise.

Increased pressure from pest problems, higher crop production costs and shrinking profits are forcing farmers to take a hard look at scouting and the benefits of the intergrated pest management (IPM) approach to crop protection. Scouting has got to be one of the smartest crop management investments a producer can make.

Field scouting involves more than just "checking for bugs." It involves obtaining representative samples or counts of insect numbers and their effects on the crops on a regular, once- or twiceweekly schedule. It is also just as important to monitor such factors as plant growth, beneficial insect activity, weather, disease and overall production

What are the benefits: Scouting is economical. By using field scouting, cheaper insecticides can frequently be used when applications are used at the most opportune time. Late applications are more expensive, less effective, and can not correct for damage already

Last year, cotton farmers who used scouts to check for bollworms were able to make $1.50 for every dollar invested. Some that didn't shredded their fields!

How can farmers obtain IPM services? Agricultural producers can either hire their own personal scouts, employ the services of a private cosponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Pest Management Association. At present, there are only two operating Extension IPM programs on the High Plains-one headquartered in Plainview, the other in Crosbyton.

Growers using their own personal scouts can get help from the Extension Service by attending the scout training workshop held each year around the first week of June. Training focuses on pest identification and seasonal biology. The workshop is expanding this year to include training in scouting, making management decisions, and selecting the proper control measures. Scouts do not make spraying decisions for the farmer. They aren't trained or qualified to make control recommendations. The decision to spray or not remains with the farmer. But scouts can help locate hotspots in the field.

As businessmen, few farmers can devote the necessary time to the increasingly complex and regulated technology of crop protection. They can employ professional advisory services in order to make crucial decisions on intricate pest control procedures.

How much are IPM services going to cost? The cost per acre must be considered in terms of amount of services required and delivered. The more time spent in a field, the more accurate the information will be. Since each field has its own identity based on soil type, planting date, variety and other production practices, there is no substitute for detailed field checking. Of course field time will depend on not only the crop, pest involved and degree of difficulty in making a decision, but also how fast a scout can actually get across a field. While I can frequently check an 80 acre cotton field for bollworm managment decisions in 30 minutes, most scouts would need more time. Depending upon their training an motivation, perhaps 50 minutes isn't a bad estimate.

Maximum benefit from IPM can only be obtained through the use of trained professionals. Accurate and cost effective management recommendations can only be delivered by individuals with an understanding of the present complex crop protection technolody and the experience to use it properly. It isn't enough to spray a field when needed. A good consultant will be able to use the cheapest effective chemical and the lowest rate for the particular situation. A poor consultant will rely on one material and high rate to cover for his mistakes.

There can be considerable differences in the quality and quantity of IPM services made available to High Plains producers. Consequently, per acre charges for consulting can vary anywhere from below $1 to over $5. In order to charge a low fee, a consultant must either supplement his income from other sources or check enough acreage to make up for low charges. To do this, he must spend less time in each field. There just isn't any other way. In areas where pest problems are infrequent or generally light, this approach may be the best. But, where pest problems occur often and are frequently severe, intense, twice-a-week services are the

How much money will scouting make me? That will depend on the pest problems and particularly on the amount of IPM services you decide to employ. Remember, you get only what you pay for.

Information on scouting programs in this area can be obtained from Paul Treptow, Extension entomologist for Floyd and Crosby counties. Paul is headquartered at the courthouse in Crosbyton and his phone number is (896) 675-2426. General information about the program can also be obtained from Jett Major at the Floyd County Extension Office (983-2806).
