Carthel Named Lockney Editor

Carthel, new editor of the Lockney Beacon and a Lockney resident, will assume the editorship of the paper on May 1, succeeding Jimmie Huggins, who resigned after 10 years at the Beacon Press in Lockney.

Carthel, a graduate of High School, was named editor of the Lockney Beacon by the board of directors at a meeting held at the home of J.D. Copeland and then joined the staff as bookkeeper and assistant to working editor Jimmie Huggins.

Carthel, who has been in the Lockney area for several years, is a former editor of the Hesperian in Amarillo. He has been in the Lockney area for several years, and he plans to continue that tradition, with your help, the new editor emphasized.

Sellmeyer, who ran the Hesperian for a month in May of 1978 while Wendell Tooley was out of the city, is a former weekly newspaperman and came to Texas Tech in 1979.

BAND KING AND QUEEN are Randy Davis and Brenda Williams. Runners up are Jackie Gaskins and Paula Teuton.

Lockney Band Names Its 1980-81 Officers

The Lockney High Band held its annual banquet Saturday night at the Elementary cafeteria. The theme of the banquet was a Japanese Tea Garden.

Several awards and positions were announced. Drum majors for the 1980-81 marching season are Ralph Scheele, head drum major; and Roxanne Ford, assistant drum major.

Band officers for next year are: Criss Carthel, president; Ralph Scheele, vice-president; and Roxanne Ford, secretary-treasurer.

Next year's staff club officers will be: Julie Frizzell, president; Roxanne Ford, vice-president; and Tony Nance, secretary-treasurer.

The band crew will consist of Sammy Silva, Ivory Harris, Donny Ferguson, Larry Davis, assistant manager; and Kenneth Rogers, crew manager.

Twirlers for marching season will be Julie Ferguson, Tonya Nance, and Dana Poole.

The recipient of the John Phillip Sousa Award was Randy Davis with Criss Carthel as the runner-up.

The title of Band King and Queen was bestowed upon Randy Davis and Brenda Williams. Jackie Gaskins and Paula Teuton were the runners up.

The percussion section was recognized as the outstanding section during the marching season, and the clarinets received the honor for concert season.

Twenty-one graduating Senior band members were presented with a gift and a short eulogy by director Raymond Lusk.

The Band Boosters also recognized their officers during the banquet. George and Jean Sparkman will relinquish their presidency to Kenneth and Juanita Brosech with Pat Frizzell, Wyletta Isom and Marjorie Ferguson filling in the other offices.

An insurance man and a farmer will be new faces on the Floyd County Commissioner's Court next year as they outdistanced opponents in a light Democratic Party Primary Saturday.

Sam Spence, a Floydada insurance man who worked 27 years with the Texas Highway Department, polled 301 votes to win a three-man race without a runoff for County Commissioner, Precinct 1.

Thomas E. Warren, a farmer and life-long resident of Floyd County, received 176 votes for County Commissioner, Precinct 3, against Larry Noland who received 108.

Both men fill posts where an incumbent retired, and both face no Republican opposition in the November general election.

Spence, who described himself as conservative and fair, outpolled two other farmers to take the election. His 301 votes represented 61 percent of those cast in the race.

Roger Dawdy received 110 votes, or 22 percent of the vote, and J.W. Becker received 81, or 16 percent.

Warren, who also served 11 years on the Floydada School Board, received 62 percent of the vote, while Noland garnered 38 percent.

In the only other contested local race, incumbent Walter Hollums received 682 votes to defeat soundly two women challengers for Justice of the Peace, Precincts 1 and 4.

Joyce Lipham, a homemaker who has taught music in the community for 25 years, received 104 votes, while Linda Morris, a business person and horsewoman polled 57.

The relatively light turnout disheartened Floyd County political observers.

The top vote getter on the entire ballot was incumbent Floyd County Sheriff Fred A. Cardinal, who received 1,004 of the ballots cast.

District Attorney John R. (Randy) Hollums ran second with a total of 927 ballots.

That was far more than the Democratic Party's front-runner for president, Jimmy Carter, was able to win in Floyd County.

Of the 1,053 votes cast in the party's beauty contest presidential primary, incumbent President Carter won 612, or 58 percent.

His primary challenger, Sen. Edward Kennedy, really took a licking by Floyd County Democrats. Kennedy could manage only 105 votes, or just under 10 percent.

He was whalloped by the vote for "uncommitted," which totaled 308, or 29 percent.

Defunct candidate Jerry Brown won a token 28 votes even though he has withdrawn from the presidential race.

The Democratic Party results looked like this:

Floyd GOP Voting Comes As Surprise

Heavy Republican turnout for the May 3 primary and an almost 20 percent Democratic uncommitted vote that day could signal a Floyd County Democratic switch in the Presidential elections come November.

Reagan is already two-thirds of the way with delegate strength nationwide as of Tuesday morning and Carter is running about the same with a Reagan-Carter choice. It will be interesting to see how Floyd County voters react this fall.

Republican County Chairman John Farris expressed surprise that Reagan carried Floyd County with 126 over Bush's 34 votes.

"I thought there would be less of a margin between them," Farris said.

Republican nominee for state representative in 1978, Bill Hale, said that he expects a "very heavy switch of Democrats to Ronald Reagan, if he's the man, in November."

Auto Mishap Fatal To City Youth

Joe Garcia, 12, of Lockney died in a one-car accident four miles north and one-quarter mile west of Lockney Saturday at 10 p.m. The car, a late model Pontiac, was driven by Joe Gonzales, 18, brother-in-law of the deceased.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning, May 6, at 10:00 a.m. at the Main Street Church of Christ in Lockney, with Jerry Klein officiating.

Burial was in the Lockney Cemetery under the direction of Moore-Rose Funeral Home in Lockney.

Garcia was born December 30, 1967 at Hereford, Texas. He moved to Floyd County two years ago from Burlington, Colorado. He was a sixth grade student at Lockney

Junior High School and a member of the Church of Christ.

No Cable TV Soon For Lockney

The question has been asked by many Lockney citizens as to why Lockney has no cable television when numerous other small towns in the area including Floydada have these services.

Monday the Beacon contacted D.H. Pope, one of the owners of Cable Television of Floydada. Pope said high inflation and high interest rates prevent his company from bringing cable to Lockney at this time and that he could not make any estimate as to when it might be possible.

Pope's company was awarded the cable television franchise in Lockney by the City Council in December 1977.

Pope explained that the initial capital investment needed would be about $200,000 and the first year's interest on that amount would be more than could possibly be earned in a year.

So unless the economic situation changes, his company will not be able to set up the system as planned, he said, adding that if another company wanted to bring cable television to the city, he would transfer his franchise to them.

COW CHIP TOSSERS—You might not have guessed it but this trio of women has done what few women have, tossed genuine "chips" in the annual national Chip Throwing Contest at Beaver, Oklahoma. Was it fun? See their comments in the accompanying story. From left is Ruby Higginbotham, Mamie Wood and Helen Dunlap, with a trophy from the "Cow Chip Capital of the World."

Females Tossing Cow Chips? You Really Must Be Kiddin'

Cow chip throwing? You mean they've made an event of regional and national proportion out of that!

You bet they have, and a Floydada woman and two South Plains residents can tell you first hand what it's like to be in Beaver, Okla., at the annual April event which attracts thousands from over the U.S., Mexico and even Argentina.

Mamie Wood, Ruby Higginbotham, and Helen Dunlap may have attended their first Cow Chip Throwing Contest, but considering the fun they had a few weeks ago doing it, it won't be their last!

"We got there on Friday, and on Saturday morning we were awakened by five huge hot air balloons hissing their way across town, a signal for the big awaited day to begin," Mamie said.

Beaver, billing itself as "the Cow Chip Capital of the World," has parlayed a prosaic idea into a money market for the little 2,000-person community, area 1880.

Over the 10 year history of the contest such things as an amateur talent show, midnight madness sale, coin and hobby show, horse elimination contest, music festival, rodeo, dance, coin scramble, beard judging, egg throw, antique show, square dance, and other events have been added.

"The parade they had was one of the best I have ever seen, and they had some unusual things, including a man riding a trained bull, said Helen." They also had a large replica of a cow chip on a scotter, just darting in and out of the parade. The group to come the longest distance with a float was from San Angelo, at least that I saw," she said.

As for the cow chip throwing contest itself, the trio of women allowed as how there is a real art "to tossing those things."

Did they actually throw "the real thing", or just plastic replicas of cow chips? "Oh, no, those cow chips were real, and they had hundreds of them. It was an art to pick out the right size and shape of one to throw. And you know, the old timers there said "you really can't throw them right unless you wet your fingers first," the three said laughingly.
The Floyd County women didn't win any prizes. "But we vowed to practice the art of chip throwing regularly until April, 1981, so we can bring back one of the 36" gold-plated trophies they give away," Mamie said, as the other two nodded quick agreement. The women agreed, too, that the many things they enjoyed about the contest in Beaver was the friendliness of the people who "certainly expressed the true pioneer hospitality in every way". The clean way in which all activities were carried out impressed them.
"Even the town and countryside are good examples of the cleanliness of the event, they commented. "There was something to be enjoyed by every one, from the youngest to the oldest. The parade was well planned and carried out," Ruby Higginbotham noted.
The women got to Beaver, it should be noted, and found out that the nearest motel rooms available were in Peryton, Texas, about 50 miles away. Fortunately a friend, Mrs. Ruth Babbs, lived in Beaver and had the three as house guests. Mrs. Babbs is the mother of Mrs. Dean Stewart who is postmistress of South Plains.

LARRY CUNYUS on farm north of Lockney is one of many farmers hurrying to plant cotton.

Planting Becomes Tense Time

BY NANCY CARTHEL

It has been said that the only sure things are death and taxes but in our area, one more item can be added to that list—planting time. Since last fall, the farmer has shredded stalks, plowed them under, chiseled ground, applied fertilizer and chemical, listed, and pre-watered. He has had to worry about the lack of moisture, financing, the price of fuel, the cost of irrigation, and what to plant. Now more decisions have to be made. Is the soil temperature right? Is there enough moisture to plant on? What kind of seed to plant?

The entire community can feel the change. Coffee shop business slows down, domino games are less frequent, and implement dealers know that the farmer will be coming in impatiently wanting their problem fixed yesterday. The farmer hurries to town to get seed and hurries back to the field with the back of his pickup loaded.

Wives have learned that their husbands tend to be a little grouchy and preoccupied. Although he appreciates the hot meal she has prepared, chances are he will not remember what he ate five minutes after the meal. He may not notice his wife's new hairdo or remember a birthday, but he knows exactly what is happening in every field between his farm and town.

Success of the entire year can depend on what the farmer does in this short span of time.

A great deal can be said for a farmer's character. After going through all this, he knows that chances are high that it will all be to do over next week. But this "comes with the territory" and he hopes that maybe this year he can get by without having to replant.

Miss Cynthia Moore and Mr. Richard Fuller were married at 10:00 a.m. Saturday May 3 in the chapel of the Floydada First Baptist Church. Rev. Hollis C. Payne officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Fuller. Both families reside in Floydada.

Miss Penny Bertrand, organist, presented a prelude of traditional wedding music. Guests were seated by Bill Moore, brother of the bride, of Canyon, and Ray Fuller, brother of the groom.

On each side of the altar were large brass candelabras decorated with yellow and white daisies.

Angie and Amy Fuller, nieces of the groom, of Lubbock, lighted the candles before the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white lustrous polyknit by Mi Deb. The moulded bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline trimmed with Venice lace and scattered with seed pearls. The Venice lace formed a cap sleeve. The A-line skirt had a panel of crystal pleats down the center front. Silk Venice lace formed a border encircling the entire hemline and chapel length train. She wore a wide brimmed hat with satin ribbon and white daisies.

Her bouquet was of yellow and white daisies. She carried out the traditional something old, new, borrowed, and blue. She wore a ring belonging to her paternal grandmother, Mrs. W.T. Moore. Her wedding dress was new, and she wore the traditional blue garter.

Mrs. Dean Watson, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a yellow floor length gown of polyknit. The sleeveless dress had a flowing chiffon cape. Mrs. Watson carried a bouquet of daisies.

The bride presented her mother with a long stem yellow rose as she approached the altar, and she later presented the groom's mother with an identical rose as she was leaving the chapel.

Deanna and Amanda Watson, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They wore identical yellow floor length dresses and carried white baskets of silk daisies.

Gary Fuller, brother of the groom, served as best man. Chad Quisenberry, nephew of the groom, served as ring bearer. A white ring pillow was topped with rings tied with yellow ribbon and accented with white daisies.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception in the Wall Street Annex of the First Baptist Church. The bride's table was laid with an ecru lace floor length tablecloth. Centered on the table was a silver candelabra with yellow tapers entwined with yellow and white daisies. The three-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with miniature baskets of daisies.

Serving the cake was Judy Payne. Mrs. Elaine Ruland presided at the silver punch bowl.

The groom's table was laid with a matching lace tablecloth. An arrangement with a single yellow taper was centered on the table. Miss Connie Self and Miss Julie Self, cousins of the groom, presided at the silver coffee service. An assortment of finger sandwiches and chocolate mints were also served. Mrs. Doris Ray and Miss Laura Campbell were members of the houseparty.

Mike and Shawn Moore, nephews of the bride, of Dumas, passed out rice bags. Mrs. Cathy Kuback, of Lubbock, registered guests.

The registration table held an arrangement of yellow and white daisies, the bride's book, and a white plume pen. Special guests were grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Etta Moore, of Matador, and Mrs. Vida Bumpus of Childress.

For a wedding trip to Galveston, the bride wore a yellow linen dress with a corsage of yellow and white daisies.

Alpha Mu Delta Honors Jaynette Harrison

Mrs. Jaynette Harrison was honored as First Lady of the Year of Floydada on Sunday with a reception given by sponsoring members of Alpha Mu Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Jaynette and her husband, Joe Max are parents of two teenage daughters, Debbie and Tracy. She is employed as the secretary of Charles Tyer, high school principal, and helps her husband with his farming operation. She was nominated by Lou Burleson.

Harrison has been a Girl Scout leader for the past 10 years. "She has literally been a mother to five girls who have gone from Brownies to Senior Girl Scouts under her tutelage. She has had a profound influence on these girls in teaching them values not found in books," said Burleson.

Working with the school Migrant program for several years before taking the high school job, Harrison acted as "nurse maid, entertainer and literally a mother to many underprivileged migrant children who were scared, hurt or sick and unable to speak English," related Burleson.

"The warm human, interested that Jaynette displayed to these children brought trust and love to their eyes. She has only to walk among them now to bring instant recognition and smiles to their faces and a glad 'Hello Mrs. Harrison' to their lips."

The Harrisons have been active Band Boosters for several years. They have served as officers of the booster organization and headed the concession stands.

They have gone on many of the out of town trips to football games, contests and band trips as bus driver and chaperone.

Jaynette has qualities as an individual that must not be overlooked. She has a smile and sense of humor that brings sunshine to every one she meets; and a personality that bubbles with enthusiasm that is contagious to all around her," remarked Burleson. "Dependability must also be added to Jaynette's long list of qualities that make her so unique."

The Harrisons are dedicated members of the Bible Baptist Church. "That dedication to service-serving God and her country has been a very real inspiration to me and the five Senior Scouts that I know about in this community," added Burleson.

TALENT SEARCH TUNES UP FOR SOME GOOD COUNTRY SONGS

Get out your eighth notes, brush off your treble clef and start to hammer out some lyrics. The Fourth Annual Kentucky Fried Chicken Country Music Songwriting Contest is about to begin.

The competition gives amateur songwriters a chance to hit it big in country music. Barbara Mandrell, Country Music Association Female Vocalist of the Year, will record the two first prize winning songs on a special label "45". The record will be released to country music stations nationwide.

The top two winners will be guests of Kentucky Fried Chicken at the Mandrell recording session in Nashville, and will return to Music City, U.S.A. for Country Music Week in October.

To enter the contest, send a cassette recording of your song to Kentucky Fried Chicken, "It's Colonel Country", P.O. Box 1014, Tinley Park, Illinois 60477. Tapes will not be returned.

Entries may not exceed 3 1/2 minutes in length. A written version of the lyrics and a statement of originality for both music and lyrics must accompany each cassette. Entry tapes must be postmarked by July 7.

Songs will be judged by country music experts on originality of music and lyrics, quality of composition and uniqueness of expression. Winners will be notified by August 31.

This year, it could be your tune that hits the country charts. Jim Kosloskey of Mt. Clemens, Michigan, and Doug Janzen of Sedwick, Kansas shared flip sides of the Mandrell recording last year, and their tunes earned rave reviews from country music professionals across the country. WTCR in Catlettsburg, KY wrote, "This kind of exposure is excellent for what appears to be a couple of bright talents ... welcome aboard!"

Red Cross Aid To Military Families

One of the original Red Cross services is Service to Military Families. This past fall, when Jim Gollihar's son was seriously injured in an automobile accident in Germany, the Floyd County Red Cross assisted the military in flying Gollihar to be with his son.

Gollihar was then Floyd County Deputy Sheriff. Due to the emergency nature of the problem the military officials requested financial assistance from the Red Cross to provide transportation for Gollihar from Floydada to New Jersey. He was then flown to Germany via military craft.

For the first time in 20 years, the Red Cross is conducting a drive in Floyd County. "We'll be winding the drive up the end of the week," Olin Watson, Drive Chairman, said.

He is asking that all who haven't sent their donation in try to do so this week. Donations may be sent in later, of course. The address is simply Red Cross, Floydada, Texas 79235.

The Red Cross was chartered in 1905 by Congress to provide emergency communications for military personnel and their families back home. The service has developed into a series of Red Cross offices on every U.S. military base in the world.

Messages relayed may be to obtain emergency leave for a service member due to critical illness or death in the immediate family or the message may announce the birth of a child. Service members may also receive financial counseling and guidance. Many of base Red Cross offices offer Safety courses in First Aid and CPR. Red Cross also sponsors large volunteer programs that help staff military hospitals.

In 1979 there were 738,395 separate services provided to help military personnel.

Legislation Signed By Carter For VA

An estimated 29,000 World War I and Mexican Border campaign veterans in Texas are now eligible for outpatient care (except dental treatment) at Veterans Administration clinics without regard to whether the medical problem is related to their military service.

The law gives VA the authority to contract for such care when the eligible veteran is at a clinic where there is no nearby VA medical center and there is a serious threat to his life or health. VA could pay for this kind of care previously in much more limited circumstances involving only veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Other provisions of the 1979 act are: *Eligibility for care under VA's Civilian Health and Medical Program, called CHAMPVA, was extended to the spouse or child of individuals who died on active duty who is not eligible for Medi care or the military CHAMPUS program.

*Medical benefits for up to two years or until age 23, were extended to children with illness or injury which precludes school attendance.

*VA was authorized to provide certain home health services to World War I and Mexican Border veterans receiving housebound aid and attendance benefits from the agency.

Gas Producing Enterprises Changes Name Changes

Coastal Oil & Gas Corporation is the new name for the principal exploration and production subsidiary of the Coastal Corporation.

Formerly called Gas Producing Enterprises, Inc., the company changed its name to reflect not only the Coastal tie but also the nature of its oil and gas exploration business. The parent company's name was changed at the beginning of 1980 from Coastal States Gas Corporation for the same reasons.

The company's office in Amarillo handles exploration and production operations in the mid-continent region, where another Coastal subsidiary, Colorado Interstate Gas Company, long has been an active producer and explorer.

Coastal Oil & Gas is a Delaware corporation qualified to do business in 22 states. The company is also the parent of several domestic and foreign subsidiaries which are active in exploration and development of oil, gas and uranium.

Before VA is authorized to pay more than $500 to a non-VA dentist for a veteran's dental care, in any 12-month period, a VA dentist must first determine that the care is necessary.

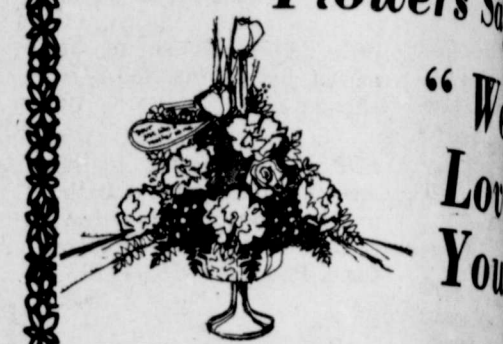

VA urged veterans having questions about the expanded benefits under the new law to contact the nearest VA medical center or regional office, veterans county service officer, or one of the national veterans service organizations in their community.

Looking Back

Just ramblin and turning back the clock!
Remember the old Hayhurst shed or tabernacle?
Loaded my old pickup truck, tied on to the trailer me and George, my old German short hair pointer. I don't speak German and George doesn't understand English. We headed for Grayson County.
We managed to get along. He pointed two Dairy Queens and one Doggie Best stop. I knew he was hungry and had to go.
Camped out that night just south of Howe, Texas, on the corner where the old Hayhurst Shed used to stand. Kinda took me back over sixty years ago. We would walk that mile to church. I don't remember the preacher's name....just called him Brother John.

[POEM]
It seems it was just yesterday, we were all at home.
Daddy had to leave us, and Mama alone.
We would walk to church on Sunday.
I can still hear Mama say, Brother John will eat with us today.

[POEM]
Brother John will eat with us today.
You all bow down your head.
Say please pass the chicken, the gravy and the bread.
Don't feed the cat from the table.
And watch what you say.
Brother John going to eat with us today.

I remember the songs that they sang, the straw hats that they wore, and how hot it was under the old shed. I could stay awake for awhile, then I would get an elbow in the ribs.
Brother John drove an old broomtail mare to a buggy, which had different colored wheels, always needed greasing. He always bragged on Mama's fried chicken and get the corner biscuits.

I would have to open the gate for him. I knew then that there wasn't room for me at the first table, that I would have to wait.
The songs that they sang, like "When The Roll Is Called Up Yonder" and "Stars In My Crown."
Awful hot, and dry that summer and before the close of his sermon he would pray for rain.
Brother John ate with us that Sunday, and his prayers were answered. It came the darndest rain I ever saw. I still remember going to the storm cellar, still smell the old kerosene smoking lantern and see the old chicken snake up in the logs above.

[POEM]
I still hear Brother John a preachin
And see all our hands a reachin.
I can hear Mama say, Don't feed the cat from the table, be careful what you say,
Brother John going to eat with us today.

I slept good that night knowing that I would not have to work the next day, that I might just go fishin' on old Hackberry Creek.
P.S. That was the night the lightning hit the old Boisdar tree and the little house out back. Not many left that went to church at the tabernacle or the old shed, as we called it.

WATERBEDS are a bag of convenience. Manufacture away with old short-comfort and search has produced a new waterbed. There are two types of waterbeds — one is a conventional mattress on a wooden frame — the other is a waterbed with a foam perimeter and a heavy vinyl frame — so it's not occur in case.

Waterbeds don't have a mattress as part of the design. The Do can buy complete waterbeds separately in stores and homes. Also, he may buy the frame and mattress himself. On the entire standard is available — with frame headboard and other pieces.

Waterbeds today offer "plus" and "therapeutic" features not found in a conventional bed. For today's "streamlined" waterbeds offer the best features of a conventional bed.

Waterbeds sleep about half as long as a conventional bed, since capacity of the reduced. Some have air-filled tubes — or baffles — for circulation. With 40 percent less weight, these models. Freedom of movement that the waterbed offers stem from a water mattress that has no stress on the "pressure points" of a conventional bed.

The various pressures restricts circulation, causes discomfort and "tossing and turning" because the water conforms to body curves, the pressure points are relieved. And here's another advantage: generally, when a person sleeps soundly, fewer hours of sleep are required.

Therapeutic advantages of waterbeds are many. Health-care professionals already recognize the therapeutic value of sleeping on a water mattress for burn victims and for long-term bed patients to prevent bedsores. In addition, because it relieves pressure-point stress, the waterbed can reduce the discomfort of arthritis and some back ailments.

In considering a waterbed, remember that a heater is a comfort "must." Heaters are usually recommended for today's waterbeds, since room temperature is lower than body temperature, heat is drained from the body. That causes discomfort, sore muscles and increased heartbeat.

Heaters for waterbeds eliminate that, and they prevent the possibility of condensation — along with the growth of mildew and fungus, which can cause odors and damage the vinyl and foam. Waterbed heaters are flat, flexible pads which must be placed under the fitted liner. Take special care to place the heater so it is not in direct contact with water. Make sure it bears the Underwriters Laboratory approval. Some heaters are preset to 85 degrees and are designed primarily to prevent condensation. Others have controls for adjusting the temperature from 70 degrees to 100 degrees.

In buying today's waterbed, remember that flotation-sleep systems have different qualities, just as conventional mattresses do. Quality will affect price and performance, however, so seek out the best you can afford with this type of major investment. Here's a short buying checklist: 1) Mattress — the mattress containing the waterbag or bladder should be made of heavy-duty 20 gauge vinyl with only a few seams. 2) Contour fitted liner — it should completely surround the frame and be permanently attached to the frame, so it will reduce the dangers of damage if a leak occurs. Make sure the liner will hold all the water from the mattress in case of a leak. 3) Heater — the heater should be an Underwriters Lab approved variable-control thermostat. 4) Frame — the frame should be sized for the mattress and WATERBEDS are a bag of trouble. Manufactured away with the old shortcoming research has produced comfort and relief.

There are two types of waterbeds — now on the market: the standard type, which accommodates a king-size bed — and the smaller, more compact waterbed. Most hydraulic waterbeds are more than 18 inches deep and have a heavy vinyl frame permanently attached to the waterbed.

Waterbeds don't support a mattress as part of the design. The Doan's can buy a mattress separately in a store and place it on top of the waterbed. Also, they may use a heavy vinyl frame — on the hybrid waterbed standard — which is available — with a headboard and other features.

For King- and Queen-size units, be sure there are center supports to prevent sag. Also, make yourself a performance checklist. It should include three points: For best performance, place waterbeds on heavy duty bed frames or specially made wood frames.

Remember to use extra center supports for larger sizes. Also, during installation, be sure to place the heater under the liner — never in contact with moisture.

NEWS & REVIEWS

Media Center

First Baptist Church Floydada

BY BETH PRATT

Wilson Bond reviewed "The Man Inside...Landry" by Bob St. John for us this week.

He said, "It is a lot about football, but interlaced with this is the strong Christian attitude, the discipline to set a good example and live a good life. Landry believes in standing for what is right in the type of world we live in."

Bond said the book reveals Landry as a man with close relationships with his team and his family, rather than the cold, unemotional character often portrayed by the media.

A disillusioned young college graduate began an incredible journey October 15, 1973. In "A Walk Across America" Peter Jenkins describes the walk across continental America with his dog Cooper that helped him discover the heart of his homeland.

He said, "I shared a majestic solitude with a hermit mountain man, and was nicknamed Albino by a loving black family. I almost died in a storm-pounded shelter on the Appalachian Trail and shoveled horse manure on an Alabama ranch. I was elevated by a nameless rider who gave me five red apples on a Virginia mountaintop. I strained my back in a North Carolina sawmill, and lived leisurely in a Montgomery mansion. I learned how to pray at a revival in Mobile. I came face to face with God and accepted Him as my own. I started out searching for myself and my country and found both."

If you read the excerpts of this story in National Geographic or Reader's Digest, you will enjoy the book even more.

A reading club will begin for grades one through six the first week of June. Participants will be searching for a lost planet, said Ilene Kendrick, who will direct the reading club this year.

Food Stamp Funding Rises

The food stamp program is on the brink of a funding crisis that could cause serious deprivation for millions of low income Americans who depend on it.

The food stamp program has funds to run only through May. Unless the Congress approves additional funds by May 15, I will be legally obligated to issue an order on that date requiring all states to suspend all food stamp benefits, effective June 1.

The administration submitted legislation to Congress nearly one year ago to resolve this matter, and I have repeatedly warned that the time for Congress to provide additional food stamp funding is running out. Now only 17 days remain before I must order the program to be shut down.

I am today contacting all Governors to warn them that it is likely Congress will not complete action in time. All states must have appropriate mechanisms to halt the provision of food stamp benefits on June 1.

The President has expressed to me his deep concern about this matter. He has written today to the Congressional leaders of both parties urging prompt action, and stating that the suspension of food stamp benefits would work severe and undeserved hardship on millions of low-income Americans and their families.

I fully share that view. The food stamp program is of vital importance to millions of our fellow Americans—the elderly and disabled, poor children, the unemployed, and working families who earn low wages. The program has had dramatic success over the past decade in easing the blight of hunger and malnutrition that not so many years ago was exacting a cruel toll on our nation's poor. Just 10 years ago, private and government researchers uncovered shocking rates of nutritional deficiency among the poor. In some areas of the U.S., these were similar to rates of malnutrition in underdeveloped countries. The food stamp program has done as much as or more than any other domestic program in recent years to improve the health and well-being of the least fortunate among us.

Keep It Cool

Trim your lawn to help your air conditioner work more efficiently.

Keep grass, weeds and other growth from the unit to allow free air flow and top efficiency, says Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Of course, trees over the unit to shade it also will help, since they keep the unit itself cool, she adds.

VA News

Many veterans and widows of veterans are now learning that they were paid larger disability or death pension benefits, according to D.G. Ayres, Veterans Service officer for Floyd County, are paid by the Veterans Administration to eligible wartime veterans and to the unmarried spouses of such veterans.

Most cases involving the overpayments are occurring where a veteran or widow elected to change from an old pension to the new one which went into effect January 1, 1979. Under the old pension laws administered by the Veterans Administration, certain types of income were not counted, and there were certain percentages of some income which were disregarded. Under the new pension law, provided by Public Law 95-588, practically all types of income are counted when determining pension eligibility. In addition, the new law calls for "family income," where previous laws referred to the countable income of the individual veteran or widow.

Under the new pension law, it is important that claimants keep the VA advised of any change in their income. This applies to all types of income with the exception of Social Security. Under the new law, VA pension benefits are geared to the current cost of living index, and when Social Security payments are increased on June 1 each year, the VA benefits are also increased. Thus, the VA knows when Social Security benefits are increased, so a claimant is not required to advise the VA of their particular change in the exception of Supplemental Security Income (SSI) it is the claimant's responsibility to notify the VA when income is increased. Under the law, the necessary change in payment rates of VA pension must be taken on the first day of the month following the date on which the income was increased. Thus, if the VA is not notified immediately, an overpayment will be created in the VA pension account, and future benefits will be withheld until the account is cleared. All new pension law recipients should be certain to notify the VA immediately when their income is increased for any reason other than for the Social Security increase. Early notification will prevent an overpayment and interruption of VA benefits.

Ramada Announces Vacation Bargain

Ramada Inns has announced a money-saving vacation offer for family travelers. By presenting a special coupon, as many as four persons can stay in a guest room at a participating Ramada Inn and pay only the single room rate. Depending on location and existing rates, guests should save at least 35 percent on the cost of the room, based on four adults per room.

"This inflation-fighting offer," said Juergen Bartels, president of the Ramada Hospitality Group, "is the perfect opportunity for families to travel economically but still stay in one of our comfortable, stylish rooms. Advance reservations are a must because we are certain that these coupons are going to be popular with today's cost-conscious travelers."

Ramada guests who present the coupon at check in will be charged the single room rate for each night's stay for as many as four persons in the room. Roll-away beds are available at a slight extra charge; cribs are provided at no cost.

The Ramada inflation-fighting coupons will be published in conjunction with advertising in many national magazines and local newspapers. They are also available by writing to Ramada Inns, Inc., P.O. Box 590-KJ; Phoenix, Arizona 85001.

"Many of our inns have undergone extensive refurbishment activities during the past 12 months and we hope travelers will use this money-saving opportunity to use our improved services and facilities," said Bartels. "We will honor these inflation-fighting coupons throughout 1980."

With about 95,000 rooms in nearly 650 hotels and inns, Ramada is one of the world's largest international hotel chains.

Floyd Philosopher Takes A Sidelong

Glance At Presidential Campaign This Week

Philosopher says some states are worried about census for Opposite reasons.....

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discusses the census and a few other things this week.

Dear editor:

For some people the U.S. Census, now underway, is a worrisome thing. As you know, the number of Congressmen a state has is based on the state's population. If a state loses population, it could lose a Congressman or two. If it gains population, it could gain one or two.

This has a lot of people worried. Some are worried their state will lose some Congressmen, others are worried their state will gain some.

The census figures don't affect Senators. Every state gets two, there's no way around it.

On a different subject, I read that the cost of a college education, the same as hamburger, is going up again. It now costs as much as $8,000 a year to keep a kid in some colleges, not counting feeding him when he's home for the summer. That's $32,000 for four years. More if he eats a lot.

This inflationary fact was being discussed by some coffee drinkers the other day and one of them said he knew a man who had six kids. Thinking about the $192,000 it'd cost if they all went to college, he called them in for a conference.

"Look," he said, "there's a large amount of honest work in this world that doesn't require a college education, and somebody has got to do it. In fact, it is the patriotic duty of a lot of us to stay ignorant."

Anything to fight inflation.

By the way, some people are still mumbling about the "mistaken" vote by the U.S. regarding Israel at the United Nations recently.

I don't know what all the fuss is about. Has any country ever paid any attention to a United Nations' vote? Moreover, what's so unusual about voting mistakenly? Millions of us have been doing it off and on for years.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

ZINC NUTRITION FOR PECAN TREES

Beautiful pecan trees and regular harvests of high quality pecans begin each spring with frequent zinc sprays. Good foliage is the secret to optimum growth, healthy trees and regular production. Mature pecan trees can have double the amount of foliage with three or four zinc sprays in April and May. Leaves on mature trees are full grown by June, so spray early and frequently. Young pecan trees can grow six feet instead of six inches in one year if zinc is sprayed onto the foliage every two to three weeks from April until August. This is of course in combination with a good management program.

There are two types of zinc which can be used in Texas, zinc sulfate or NZN. Each is effective. Commercial pecan producers have used zinc sulfate with good results for over 40 years. Caution will need to be used however because zinc sulfate can kill many types of plants, so spray it only onto pecan foliage. NZN is a new type of zinc which is a liquid. It was developed by Dr. J. Benton Storey of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. NZN is a soluble, less toxic to other vegetation and readily available at many garden centers.

The commercial rates of zinc for spraying pecan foliage in Texas are 2 pounds of zinc sulfate or 1 1/4 quarts of NZN per 100 gallons of water.

The homeowner should use 2 teaspoons of zinc sulfate or NZN in one gallon of water.

Other forms of zinc, such as zinc chelates or tree injectors, have been tested but have not been found to be an effective source of zinc for pecans in Texas.

Zinc is utilized by pecan foliage for the manufacture of a growth hormone called indole-acetic-acid. Without zinc and indole-acetic-acid pecan growth is greatly reduced. The leaves will be small and the shoots will be short and in clusters forming what is commonly called "zinc rosette". Zinc is not readily translocated from shoot to shoot; consequently, frequent zinc sprays are needed if new growth is to receive zinc. This is also why good coverage is important. Since aerial application does not give complete tree coverage, commercial growers have to depend on ground sprayers for zinc applications.
