Area resistance rising to nuclear waste disposal sites

An ever-increasing number of people and organizations are joining an intensive campaign to prevent the storage of nuclear waste in the Panhandle area. The latest organization to join the battle is 'Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping' (STAND), which was organized in Tulsa recently.

STAND will offer an informative program on the storage of nuclear waste in the Tulsa High School Auditorium. State Representative Chip Staniswal is will be present as well as aides from the offices of Jack Hightower, Kent Hance, Bill Sarpalus and Reagan Brown. These have been confirmed and we are waiting to hear from our other elected officials.

Recent telephone conversations with Senators Benton and Tower have indicated that they may have representatives present. Governor Clements' office has been contacted but no reply has been received as of this date.

The DOE already has had a 4,500-ft. test hole drilled six miles northeast of Tulsa, and reportedly has signed a contract with a landowner to drill a 3,000-ft. hole two miles south of Happy.

The DOE reportedly is looking for a deep, stable salt formation in which to dump high-level nuclear waste — spent fuel from nuclear reactors and by-products of nuclear weapons.

"The reasons the Tulsa area is so suitable, they said, are compactness of the core sample, relative dryness and a stable geologic formation.

The reasons this area should be concerned are (1) if the nuclear waste material radiates or leaks into our underground water it will ruin it; (2) the nuclear waste will have to be transported by truck or rail, and there's always a chance for an accident; (3) the proposed site is near Mackenzie Dam and could contaminate that; and (4) it could ruin farmland because nuclear waste can radiate through soil.

Also, the site would require 160 acres, plus a restricted area five miles around, plus prohibition of oil drilling or mining for 12 miles beyond that.

One reason that DOE can go ahead and drill is that Gov. Clements has not opposed it. Nearly all the other governors of affected states have opposed it.

There are three levels of nuclear waste. Low-level is exposed clothing, gloves, and so forth. Medium-level waste is what is used in hospitals for radiation therapy, and other such specific uses. High-level waste is spent fuel from large reactors and by-products of weapon systems.

This site would be for disposal of high-level radio-active materials, and this would be the first such dump.

The people in Swisher County are trying to get support from all the surrounding counties and towns.

She added that the Dept. of Energy is planning to conduct public meetings on the proposed nuclear dumpsites in January in Swisher County.

In-depth information on the problems of nuclear waste disposal may be found in articles in the April 1979 National Geographic, the April 1974 Reader's Digest, the June-July 1980 National Wildlife, the September 1981 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, or the May 7, 1980, issue of US News & World Report.

Record numbers participate in Food Contest in Lockney Saturday

Record number of 4-H members participated in the annual Floyd County Food Show held at the elementary school in Lockney.

Thirty-three 4-H members exhibited their dishes Saturday with the show beginning at 4:30 p.m.

First place winners were named and will compete at the District Food Show in Lubbock this Saturday.

Members who win at District will be sent for state competition.

First place winners and their divisions are: Matt Williams, Jr. Snacks and Desserts; Kellie LaBaume, Jr. Main Dish; Lisa Terrell, Jr. Breads and Cereals; Jodie Smith, Senior Snacks and Desserts; Deon Zumwalt, Senior Fruits and Vegetables; and Heather Holt, Senior Breads and Cereals.

Purpose of the Foods and Nutrition Project is to provide opportunities for members to learn basic nutrition, food buying, meal planning, food preparation, and storage information.

The scoring is based fifty-percent on the youngster's knowledge of nutrition. Twenty-five percent is on the food they have prepared for the show. This includes how the food is exhibited and how it is garnished.

The remaining quarter of the judging is based on the 4-H members preparation of a well-balanced one day menu. They are also judged on their project record from the different food classes they have been studying during the fall.

Four alternate 4-H members were chosen and will exhibit in Lubbock Saturday in the event one of the first place winners is unable to attend. The alternates are: Kristy Dawds, Jr. Snacks and Desserts; Donna Vernon, Jr. Main Dish; Ana Cuahitli, Jr. Breads and Cereals; and Jody Ansley, Jr. Fruits and Vegetables.

This year, for the first time, a group of nine boys were given a bachelor's survival course. The group was led by Charlotte Mitchell of Lockney. The outstanding chef award was earned by Joel Mitchell.

The outstanding rookie award was given to Valenev Zumwalt. Adult leaders in the foods projects were Linda Terrell, Mary Ann Kring and Ethelvn Vernon, all from Lockney. The Floodada leaders were: Jodie Smith, Kay Dean Smith, and Deon Zumwalt.

Participants compiled a recipe book of the dishes they had prepared. Their dishes are also featured in the Floyd County Cookbook.

Beacon Beams

BY BILL SAYERS

The Beacon is not beaming too brightly this week. We strongly suspect that our head has gone to sleep for the winter. Anyway, the following was presented to us this week and we thought we would pass it along as a "picker-upper" during the hectic Christmas season for all you ladies who have passed your 39th birthday.

If I Were Santa (For women past 40) I'd dump these valuable gifts at your door. The gifts you have lost, that you cherished of yore.

I'd deliver to you all the maidenly vigor That goes along with a size 14 figure.

Restore the ole color that once graced your hair Before rinses and bleaches took residence there.

I'd bring back the contours with which youth is gifted So that things now suspended need not be uplifted.

I'd draw in your stomach and smooth down your back 'Till you'd be a dream walking in close fitting slacks.

I'd remove all the wrinkles, leave only one chin So you wouldn't spend days rubbing grease on your skin.

You wouldn't have flashes or queer dizzy spells You wouldn't hear noises or ringing of bells

No searching of closets to find all your clothes No hunting for spectacles right on your nose.

No shots in the hip or the arm or the fanny. By a doctor who thinks you're a nervous old granny.

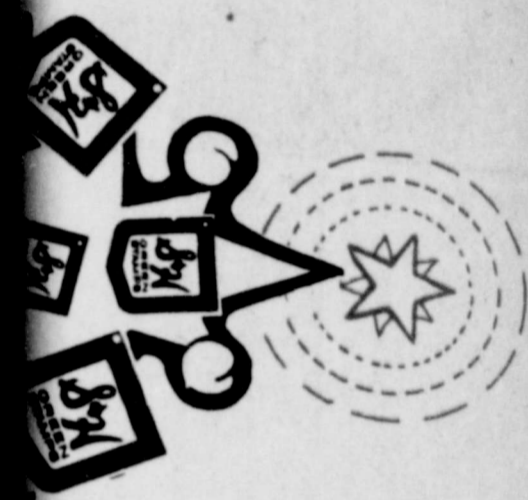

Yes, if I were Santa, these things I'd deliver The romance of Cupid with his little quiver.

The lift of the heart when the wolves start to whistle. The joy of the spirit as light as a thistle.

But, alas, I'm not Santa, I'm simply just me The matronest matron you ever did see.

I wish I could tell you the symptoms I've got. But I'm due at the doctor's right now for a shot.

Willson installed as Grand Master

Different titles are worn by different Floydadians. On Saturday night one of our citizens was bestowed with a title that is the only one of its kind in the state of Texas.

That title was given to J.M. (Jimmie) Willson as he was installed as Grand Master of Texas Masons. It is the highest office attainable in the Texas order.

Willson was elected from the 225,000 membership during a two day meeting of Masons in Waco December 4th and 5th.

The session ended Saturday with the installation ceremony. Many members of the Floydada Lodge attended the meeting.

Willson was born in Hale Center, attended school in Floydada, and graduated from Southern Methodist University in 1943 with a BBA degree. He served in the army from 1942 to 1946.

Willson, and his wife, Ann, have five children; and six grandchildren.

They are active members of the First Methodist Church of Floydada where he has served as Sunday school teacher for 18 years. He also serves as trustee of the church and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Methodist Home in Waco, and serves as treasurer of that body.

Active in community affairs, he has served three terms on the City Council of Floydada and two terms as mayor.

He is a member of the Rotary Club and has held many offices in that organization.

A past president of the Floydada Jaycees, he is also a past director of the Floydada and West Texas Chambers of Commerce.

He is a past commander of the American Legion Post in Floydada, and has been registered with the Boy Scouts of America for forty-eight years, having received the Eagle, Silver Beaver, and Distinguished Eagle Awards.

Willson was raised a Master Mason in Floydada Lodge 712 on February 22, 1947, and served as Worshipful Master during the 1956-57 year. He served as District Deputy Grand Master of District 96 in 1958.

Other areas of service include three years as State Regional Conference Coordinator; three years as Area Workshop Chairman, Area E-3; and Chairman of the Finance Committee in 1978. He was elected Grand Junior Warden in 1978.

Sock Factory Opens In Crosbyton Saturday

Open House at the newly completed Texas Knitting, Inc. building in Crosbyton is this Saturday. Owners of the facility which will manufacture knit socks are natives of Floyd County.

Danny Bradford, president of the company, is the son of Marion Bradford, Floydada. His wife, Diane, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fry, formerly of Lockney, but who now live in Lubbock. David Brotherton, the vice president, is the son of Mrs. C.L. Mooney, Lockney. His wife, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Smith, Lockney.

The plant was opened on a temporary basis in Crosbyton in April of this year. The permanent facilities were constructed at the Crosbyton Industrial Park, 2 1/2 miles south of the town.

The plant will be open for inspection from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, December 12. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

The installation, which has eight workers, and only one shift, is still in the infant stages.

The concept began as a dream of the two young men and Dr. Calvin Brints, a Crosbyton native and owner of Brints Cotton Co., Inc. in Lubbock. He had envisioned a sock producing factory in West Texas "for several years." He was introduced to Bradford and Brotherton who also had visions of a sock plant.

The result was Texas Knitting which will initially specialize in white athletic socks.

Bradford says that "as far as we know" this is the only such facility "west of the Mississippi."

Dr. Brints serves as chairman of the board of the new company. In addition to Bradford, who is the acting secretary-treasurer as well as being president, and Brotherton, the vice president, other stockholders are W.W. Brints of

The Rev. Michael O'Connor's

Perspectives

BY MICHAEL O'CONNOR

In the paper last week, there was a report about a couple, I believe in California, who were suing their doctor because he told them that one of their children would be born with normal hearing. The child turned out to be deaf, and the parents feel they are entitled to some kind of compensation for being wrongfully convinced their child would be "normal."

A suit was also filed on behalf of the child for "wrongful life" as the couple would not have had the child if they had known the child would be deaf. That suit was thrown out because the state has no law on "wrongful life."

This action represents a major problem within our society. The right to die, beneficent suicide, euthanasia, and some factions of the pro-choice movements, as well as the concept of "wrongful life" stem from a desire to provide "the good life" for all human beings.

What the good life is remains to be identified, but in most instances where the right to have it is asserted, the definition tends to depend on the circumstances of the person advocating such a life. In most instances, people feel that some sort of abnormality in themselves or in others is working undue hardship in their life, and that abnormality must be compensated for or eliminated.

The problem comes in defining what is normal. And where do we stop? There have been bleak periods in human history when men have placed limits on what constitutes proper human existence, and yet we have failed to learn from them.

I am not being alarmist when I say that we are headed in that direction again. "Wrongful life" suits are a symptom of that kind of mentality. We must not let our pursuit for the good life mean the elimination of any life that does not fit our goals.

MRS. JAY WALLER

Tana Boydston, Jay Waller exchange vows

Miss Tana Wynette Boydston of Ralls became the bride of Jay Earl Waller of Floydada in a double ring ceremony performed at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, November 28, in First Baptist Church of Ralls. The Rev. Floyd Hadlock, pastor of First Baptist Church in Seagraves and formerly of Ralls, read the vows.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Boydston of Ralls. Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Waller of Floydada are parents of the bridegroom.

For her marriage, the bride chose a formal gown of white organza fashioned with a Queen Ann neckline. The empire bodice had an overlay of plau-de-ange lace and was adorned with seed pearls. The full bishop sleeves had lace motifs and band of lace at the wrist.

The A-line skirt had bands of lace extending down the front side and the back had tiers of permanent pleats and lace. A deep ruffle of permanent pleats was at the hem line that cascaded into a chapel length train. The headpiece was a picture hat covered with matching lace and seed pearls holding a fingertip veil of imported illusion.

The bride wore a pearl necklace that belongs to the bridegroom's mother and pearl earrings. She carried a cascade arrangement of silk mauve ruben lilies and apple blossoms in burgundy, stephanotis and baby breath and white piquet satin ribbons.

Jim Boydston presented his daughter in marriage.

Chree Boydston of Ralls attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carol Frost of Italy, Texas, a cousin of the bride; Gail Wimmer of Slaton; Karen McDonald of Hatfield, Massachusetts; and Stacy Vandever of Ralls.

Tasa Taylor of Cedar Hill, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Rings were carried by Jayson Boydston of Tahoka, another cousin of the bride.

J.E. Waller of Floydada served as his son's best man. Groomsmen were Jim Waller of Floydada, brother of the bridegroom; Clinton Ware of Lubbock; and Blake Kitchens of Levelland.

Guests were seated by Brady Phillips of Lubbock, Zane Reese of Ralls, and Jamie McNeill of Crosbyton. Angie Taylor of Cedar Hill, a cousin of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Junior groomsmen were Tyler Reese of Ralls.

The church was decorated with a candle tree with spiral candelabra with plumosa and baby's breath. Burgundy and pink carnations completed the decor. Aisles were decorated with plumosa and baby's breath with mauve satin bows. Choir rails were decorated like the aisles.

Soloist Gayle Binder of Ralls sang "True Love" and "Surround Me With Love." Rick Sudduth of McAdoo played "The Lord's Prayer" on the fiddle. Organ music was provided by Ann Apple of Ralls.

RECEPTION

Following their marriage, the couple was honored with a reception in the Ralls Elementary School Cafeteria. Decorations included a gazebo with English ivy entwined in it, fig tree plants around the gazebo, with white bells hanging in the gazebo.

The bride's table featured a white floor length pleated cloth and around the top of the table mauve and burgundy ribbon with English ivy around the bows. The table was decorated with the traditional three-tiered bridal cake, fountain punch bowl and candelabra with pink and burgundy carnations and greenery around the pink

Tips for the cotton producer

In the face of a projected record-breaking cotton harvest, Murray Williams of Altus, Oklahoma, Chairman of the Cotton Board, and W.T. Robertson of Holly Ridge, Mississippi, Chairman of Cotton Incorporated, recently offered their views on how producers can aid their own industry.

Their advice stems from experience. Both cotton producers, Williams, who farms in southwestern Oklahoma, and Robertson, who farms in the Mississippi Delta, are strong supporters of cotton's research and promotion program.

"Considering crop projections, we have to do everything we can to promote demand," said Williams, who will complete his second and last term as Chairman of the Cotton Board on December 31. "At the same time, we must continue research to reduce costs and improve efficiency from the farm to the mill so that cotton can regain adequate profitability."

"We all know the tremendous challenges that the cotton producer faces today: low prices, high interest rates and a huge crop. The fact is there has never been a more important time than now for cotton research and promotion programs," Williams explained.

A concern expressed by Robertson is the research and promotional push behind synthetics. Currently, the synthetic industry's research and promotion budget out-paces cotton's by almost $15 to $1.

But, thanks to advances made by cotton's "self-help" program, both Williams and Robertson are optimistic about the industry's future.

"When adding up that a 15-year decline in overall market share has been arrested; that just as new equipment and systems have solved old problems, existing problems can be overcome through continuing support of the program. There is light at the end of the tunnel based upon long term projections for increased demand," stated Williams.

Robertson is quick to add that, on the research side, cotton has made good progress ranging from expanded technical assistance to foreign textile mills to research into hybrid cottons and cottensed. Programs are continuing to improve efficiency in production and processing.

In addition, emphasis is being given to combat byssinosis which both producers call one of cotton's most serious problems. Toward this end, Cotton Incorporated is currently in an $8 million accelerated program involving both government and industry.

Robertson also reports that greater emphasis will be given to international markets in 1982. Cotton Incorporated's first European office will open in London next year. And the Cotton Board has recently received approval by the Secretary of Agriculture for Cotton Incorporated to open an office in Osaka, Japan, to serve the growing Far Eastern market. This office is scheduled to open in early 1982.

These new overseas offices will complete Cotton Incorporated's network to more effectively provide worldwide technical assistance to textile mills and to expand U.S. cotton's share of these markets.

"All of us must work together," Williams stressed, "in building the most successful cotton and research promotion program possible. The reason is clear: if cotton is to continue to make strides then greater advances in cotton research and promotion must be made.

"Some producers feel that the 'other grower' should carry the burden. Obviously, with the challenges we face, we need total producer support. In my opinion, the per bale assessment is a real bargain today, even in this time of inflation. Believe me, the grower gets his money's worth."

Funded and directed by U.S. cotton producers through per bale assessments, the Cotton Board based in Memphis, Tennessee, oversees the cotton research and promotion program and contracts with Cotton Incorporated to carry out actual projects. Cotton Incorporated has marketing offices in New York, research facilities in Raleigh, and additional offices in Dallas and Los Angeles.

RESEARCH AND PROMOTION WORKS — Cotton producer Murray Williams (right) of Altus, Oklahoma, chairman of the Cotton Board and Holly Ridge, Mississippi producer, W.T. Robertson, chairman of Cotton Incorporated, discuss the importance and need of total producer support of cotton's Research and Promotion Program in light of a projected record-breaking cotton harvest.

IT'S A FACT

Dallas boasts a lot of horses—some 35,000. To help the many horse owners keep their horses healthy and happy, county agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, conduct innovative educational programs and make effective use of television, radio, newspapers and newsletters. These efforts to help "metroplex" horse owners enjoy their animals more is another example of "The Extension Way—People Helping People."

Volunteerism-A key link in extension programs

Without hard-working volunteers, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System, would be much less effective in carrying out its informal educational programs in agriculture, home economics, and community and youth development.

"Each state boasts a Cooperative Extension Service, and it's been said that this organization makes greater use of more volunteers than any other entity existing today," points out Dr. Ken Denmark, an Extension staff development specialist.

"County Extension agents pride themselves in the way they involve volunteers in planning, organizing and implementing local educational activities," says Denmark.

This year alone, some 63,000 Texans have been involved as Extension volunteers. This includes about 18,000 serving on county program building committees, 23,000 in organized home-makers clubs and more than 22,000 in 4-H programs and activities.

For Extension's agricultural programs, farmers and ranchers volunteer their land, labor and equipment to test and demonstrate new ideas for the benefit of their neighbors. They voluntarily provide information about their farming and ranching operations and in many ways contribute their time and talents to the success of Extension programs, notes Denmark.

IT'S A FACT

A well trained horse for farm and ranch work is hard to find. So the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has developed a "Ranch Horse School" to help producers learn how to breed and train top quality work horses. This may suggest that even the popular "three-wheeler" can't replace the versatile ranch horse. Helping farmers and ranchers to raise and train work horses is another example of "The Extension Way & People Helping People."

Similarly, the adult home economics program conducted by the Extension Service depends on volunteers. These volunteers take special training to pass the knowledge they gain to their neighbors. They help less fortunate families improve their home life, and they work together in many ways to expand the efforts of Extension programs.

4-H Extension's program for youth between the ages of 9 and 19, depends almost totally on volunteers who give generously of their time, talents, facilities and money, points out the specialist. Adults and older teens lead and teach 4-H members, organize clubs and project groups, and provide facilities, equipment, supplies, recognition and awards.

Extension's community development programs also are heavily dependent on the energies and minds of volunteers to develop stronger and better communities.

"A part of Extension's conventional philosophy is to 'help people to help themselves,'" notes Denmark. "During the process of solving their own problems and developing their own opportunities, Extension volunteers develop their abilities to help others with similar problems and opportunities."

Thus volunteers in Extension programs are really "helping people to help others" while they enjoy the self-satisfaction that their involvement brings.

"In today's world of hustle and bustle, getting people to volunteer becomes more and more difficult," says Denmark. "Most volunteers prefer specific, short-term commitments with a meaningful involvement."

So, for continued effective contributions, volunteers must be developed through a systematic approach whereby they are identified or recruited, selected for the right job, provided orientation and training, and then involved and recognized.

Local Hesston Farm Equipment dealer telecast of National Finals Rodeo

Floydada Implement Co., Floydada, will join Hesston Corporation and over 1,000 other participating Hesston Farm Equipment dealers across North America in sponsoring a special telecast of the 1981 National Finals Rodeo from Oklahoma City.

The program will appear locally on KCBD-TV (11), Lubbock, December 17 at 7 p.m.

Billed as N.F.R. TELECAST VIII, this makes the eighth consecutive year that the Hesston Corporation has telecast the National Finals Rodeo. The N.F.R. is recognized as the "World Series" or "Super Bowl" of professional rodeo and climaxes nearly 600 Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (P.R.C.A.) sanctioned rodeos held throughout the country during 1981.

To qualify for the National Finals, entrants must rank among the top 15 money winners in their respective event(s) for the year. The cowboys that come out on top during the National Finals then win the coveted World Champion title in their event. The telecast will carry the six standard pro rodeo events: bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, team roping, saddle bronc riding, calf roping and bull riding. Girls' barrel racing will also be featured.

The telecast will feature a 30-minute "Countdown to Glory," highlighting the top action from the nine performances of the 1981 N.F.R. that lead up to the Final Championship Performmance. This "Countdown" will be immediately followed by 90 minutes of all the action of the tenth and Final Championship Performance. This 90-minute segment is exclusively sponsored by Hesston Corporation and participating Hesston Farm Equipment dealers. World championships will be decided during this performance, including the 1981 All-Around World Champion Cowboy.

Commentary during the "Countdown to Glory" will be provided by country-western artist, Red Steagall, and veteran rodeo announcer, Hadley Barrett. Commentary of the Final Championship 1981 NATIONAL FINALS RODEO will be telecast on KCBD-TV at 7 p.m. The finals are being sponsored by Hesston Corporation and participating dealers, including Floydada Implement Co., Floydada.

Farm Bureau announce contest winners

Awards for the annual county Farm Bureau public relations, safety, and membership contests were presented during the Texas Farm Bureau state convention in Corpus Christi last week.

A record high membership of 276,247 member families has been achieved by the state's largest farm organization. This was a gain of 13,029 member families during the past fiscal year which ended October 31. This was the 28th consecutive year for Texas Farm Bureau to gain in membership.

Ten counties were presented with plaques for outstanding achievements in public relations activities. Winners included Colorado, Fayette, Tom Green, Ellis, Johnson, Gillespie, DeWitt, Karnes, Bexar, and Hardeman counties.

Kimble County Farm Bureau won the 1981 Texas Farm Bureau Safety Award for its safety education work throughout the year. Colorado, DeWitt, and Fayette counties received honorable mention awards.

Special membership awards were given in four categories for the largest gain in membership, the highest renewal percentage, the most new members, and the longest continuous gain. Winners in the largest gain in a county were Orange, Rusk, Jefferson, and Harris counties. Receiving awards for the most new members were Orange, Rusk, Jasper, and Harris counties. LaSalle, Archer, Llano, Nacogdoches, and Lampasas counties were presented with awards for the longest continuous gain, and highest renewal percentage winners were Briscoe, Burnet, DeWitt, and Jackson counties.

The honor district award went to District 10 in South Texas for the largest membership gain and having every county gain for a Farm Bureau district. J.R. "Bubba" Day of Uvalde is state director for District 10. The counties include Atascosa, Bandera, Bexar, Blanco, Comal, Dimmit, Frio, Gillespie, Hays, Kendall, Kerr, Kinney, LaSalle, Live Oak, Maverick, Medina, Uvalde, Webb, and Zavala.

Counties recognized for continuous gain in membership were: 30 years — Nacogdoches, 25 years — Wise and Harris, 20 years — Van Zandt, Houston, Liberty, Austin, Fayette, Fort Bend, Wharton, and Jackson, 15 years

Hightower requests farmer foreclosures stopped

Congressman Jack Hightower called on the Secretary of Agriculture, John Block, in an urgent telegram, to "stop the wholesale close-out of farmers and ranchers and to use the tools available to the Farmers Home Administration to get farmers through this extremely tough period." Hightower's action was prompted by the continuing deterioration of the financial situation of many farmers and by reports of impending large-scale farm liquidations.

"If farmers are forced out of business in the blind manner that Farmers Home seems to be proceeding at this time, we are going to lose thousands of farmers and needlessly jeopardize the investment the taxpayers have in these loans," Hightower said. "With the current prices and high interest rates, farmers are likely to receive only a portion of the actual value of the land and equipment they'll be forced to sell," Hightower continued. "We are facing a farm depression equal to the early 1930's and it should be treated as such," wrote the Congressman. "I will not stand by and see the lives of so many good people disrupted and destroyed without a fight."

Section 1981 of title VII of the United States Code sets forth the Secretary of Agriculture's authority to refinance debts, to stretch out repayment dates, and even postpone a year's payment and interest when the facts justify doing so. The Conference Report of the 1982 Agriculture and Related Agencies Appropriations bill, signed by all conferees of both parties, recognized the very serious financial squeeze many farmers and ranchers face because of low farm prices and increased costs. The report instructed the Secretary to use his authority under the law to prevent thousands of farmers from being forced to give up their land.

"I am requesting that the Secretary place a temporary moratorium on foreclosures and forced sales, at least until the harvest is over and they can look at the situations," Hightower said. "Farming has always taken creative financing and today this nation cannot afford for the Farmers Home Administration to stick its head in the sand and foreclose just because it may be easier in the short run," Hightower warned. "For years, farmers have been looking over their shoulder in fear that they'd be replaced by large agribusiness corporations; now it seems they're about to be eliminated by Farmers Home..." Hightower said. "What good is it going to do for the country or for our food production with the FmHA holding the deeds to hundreds or thousands of farms?" the Congressman asked.

Hightower went on to say that he was looking forward to a quick reply.

Cotton harvest continues at South Plains

BY MRS. MURRAY JULIAN

South Plains, December 5: Sunday and Monday here at South Plains were perfectly beautiful days. Sunny days, and cold night are making all the cotton open that isn't already open. Some farmers have stripped all their cotton, and are already plowing their fields.

Mrs. Cecil Osborne of South Plains is still not feeling up to par. She is having much pain in one of her shoulders. Her daughter Mrs. Karen Mauvey who has been here for Thanksgiving and the holidays was taken to the plane at Lubbock Saturday and has returned to her home in Dallas.

Several from our area were in Lubbock Saturday afternoon to attend the 1981 Scout-O-Rama which was held at the Lubbock Civic Center on Saturday December 5th. Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Mulder and family, Cindy, Penny, Jimmy and Cory and Tim Julian were among those who attended from here.

Kristi Julian was home for the week-end from Texas Tech at Lubbock and Miss Millie Mitchell of Tecu was a guest here with her at Kristi's home.

Mrs. Mamie Wood, Mrs. Gertrude Smitherman, Mrs. Letha Mulder and Mrs. Ruby Higginbotham went to Amarillo Saturday, December 5. They attended the Trailways Tourama which was held at the Civic Center in Amarillo that night. At the banquet Mrs. Higginbotham won the big prize which was a 9-day trip to Old Mexico, and Mrs. Wood won a prize of a tote bag and Macademia nuts. Prizes were drawn during the banquet.

Mrs. Jim Harper, who was admitted to the Caprock Hospital on November 17. He is from Haskell.

Hobby Club of South Plains will meet for their Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Carolyn Marble on Thursday evening, December 10, with a holiday supper and gift exchange.

Several neighbors have visited in the Central Plains Hospital at Plainview with Mrs. J.P. Taylor (Trudee) and Saturday reports were that she may get to come home soon. She is gaining strength, and feeling better. She has been there over seven weeks, and had such a rough time of it. We all hope she can soon be home.

We offer our sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClure in the death of her brother-in-law, Eddie Branch of Irving. He was on his way to Baylor Hospital Thanksgiving morning, and officials think he had a heart attack, for as he started down the ramp at the hospital he hit the ramp and was killed. He

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Conner and Mrs. Peat Kelley accompanied Norma Welch to Hart last Friday to attend a Christmas Cheer in the home of June Ware Brown. The entire house was beautifully decorated and many Christmas snacks were served. There were around three hundred guests who visited Mr. Conner's sister, Gertrude, in the nursing home. Here they also visited with Christine Larson, Charles and Alta Mae Higgins, relatives, Norma and Mrs. Kelley visited Richard Fortenberry and the group went by the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Fortenberry.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

BY LYNN DANIELS
 Greetings to each and everyone of you! We hope your week has been as bright as ours.

Following the "Big eat-in" last Thursday, there hasn't been one dull day.

Congratulations Steve Westbrook for being selected employee of the month! Keep up the good work!

Monday was the first day on the job for our new activity director. That day was spent getting to know all the lovely residents of our home.

Tuesday at 2:00 p.m. the residents got together and had an extremely interesting Bible discussion on Revelations.

Wednesday was our bus trip day. We took a trip to Lockney to reminisce and then back to Floydada thru Sandhill to check out the crops. Our hearty thanks to Grady for a safe and comfortable trip.

Thursday we had a bingo party, one of the residents favorites. The winners were Clara Williamson, Emmit Lawrence and A.G. Eubanks. Prizes were given and a good time had by all.

Friday we enjoyed a nice movie, popcorn and juice was served.

A special thanks to each church group and individual who came to share their love, time, and talent with us.

Our Christmas party is scheduled for the 22nd at 6:30 p.m. hope to see you there.

Visitors for the week were: Dana and Jo Lee Ellis, Ronnie Ledbetter, Mindy Matsler, Mr. and Mrs. M.H. Grandson of Lockneyites to be on t.v.

Brady Smith, 11 year old son of Paulette (Kropp) Savage, has been selected as a member of the "Brain Battle" team from Vidor Jr. High. The team consists of four members and an alternate selected from a 6th grade class of 530 students. "Brain Battle" is a television program presented by the Junior League of Beaumont in cooperation with KFDM-TV (Channel 6).

Beaumont. Teams from 30 schools in the Golden Triangle area have been invited to participate in "Brain Battle - 1981". Sixth graders from Vidor Jr. High competed against sixth graders from Saint James Private School, Pt. Arthur, Vidor Jr. High won 240 to 90. The program was taped October 31, 1981 to be aired

December 20, 1981 at 3:00 p.m. on Channel 6. Last year, Brady was one of 30 students chosen from the fifth grade from Vidor Elementary to test a classroom situation for high achieving students. The program, Advanced Pupil Training, was such a success that A.P.T. is currently being offered from grades 3 through 6 in the Vidor Independent School District. Brady is also a member of another winning team. He is a halfback on the Freebirds Soccer team, which recently won Orange County Championship in the 10 and 11 year old division. Araujo named to Tech T.T. Dolls squad

Tryouts for the fifth Texas Tech Double "T" Dolls squad were held recently and the 1982 squad has been announced. Selected on a basis of tryouts and interviews, the bat-girls will represent Texas Tech at baseball games as well as other university events during the upcoming

The Double "T" Dolls are annually selected from more than 400 applicants and after applying, each contestant is judged in shorts by a group of judges that have participated in judging Miss Lubbock and South Plains Maid of Cotton Pageants. A select few are chosen from the large group and brought back for a brief interview where judges determine each applicant's poise, appearance and personality.

Texas Tech's bat-girl duties include the routine of picking up bats at baseball games and retrieving foul balls at Texas Tech home games. The Double "T" Dolls also sell the official Texas Tech baseball program and do radio and television commercials urging fans to attend Red Raider baseball games.

The 1982 squad was rated No. 2 in the nation in a competition conducted by Collegiate Baseball Magazine. Oklahoma State's Diamond Dolls were rated No. 1

Unplanned pregnancy service expanding to Lockney area

Lutheran Social Service of Texas is expanding its unplanned pregnancy services to Lockney, according to Jim Jensen, director of the Panhandle/South Plains Office of Lutheran Social Service.

The Lockney Information and Referral Center is one of eleven new offices being opened by the agency in the Texas Panhandle. Jensen states it is the agencies' goal to "become truly available to all those in the Panhandle/South Plains area for whom pregnancy is a crisis which brings confusion, pain and loneliness." Anyone in need of counseling or desiring information should call 293-3009.

Lutheran Social Service of Texas believes that individuals faced with an unplanned pregnancy have the right to be treated with dignity and respect. Their situation is extremely complex and the decisions which must be made are often difficult. The agency seeks to offer, through its expanded network of centers, genuine help, understanding and support. Trained personnel at each center will offer initial help in the assessment of individual needs. In-depth counseling services will be provided by professional social service staff members.

An unplanned pregnancy involves both the reshaping of lives and the beginning of life. Lutheran Social Service of Texas, after over thirty years of working in this area of need, offers to the Lockney area a uniquely valuable resource.
