Wilson Photography starts new addition to present location

Wilson Photography has been a well-established business in our community for many years, but it is expanding and going to take on a new look.

The new addition to the already existing location is going to contain some 1700 sq. ft. of space. It will be housed in an A-frame construction and provide addition room for the reception and sales areas, a large camera room with two spacious dressing rooms, a large finishing room, for print finishing, mat cutting, framing, bookkeeping. Wilson's private office and classroom will be located in the loft.

Chuck and Joyce Wilson opened Wilson Photography in August, 1960, at 110 North Main in Lockney upon their return from Germany where they had been for three years of Wilson's six in the U.S. Air Force.

The business was moved to its present location in June, 1973. Looking back over their business, the Wilson's cannot even estimate how many weddings they have photographed. They feel that friends, and relatives visiting in the Lockney area have helped to place their photographs in homes all over the U.S., even into Alaska. They also stated that they had real strong emotions when they photographed their first second-generation wedding picture last year.

Working in environmental portraiture, inside and outside, commercial photography, weddings, and, of course, with the tots, their scope encompasses a vast area.

The Wilsons have attended many seminars, workshops, conventions and schools of professional photography. Wilson has served as president of the South Plains Professional Photographers Association, a member of the executive board of the Texas Professional Photographers Association.

He is in demand as speaker at seminars and conventions all over a wide area. Presentations have been made by Wilson at state conventions in Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas, Texas, California and Kansas. Later this month he will speak to the Illinois Professional Photographers Association Convention.

Wilson was awarded his Master of Photography degree in July, 1977, and is eligible for the Photographic Craftsmen degree. Both of the Wilsons have photographs in the National Traveling Loan Collections, which headquarters in Chicago, and have won numerous awards at regional, state, and national print competitions. They have also shown their photographic art at numerous art festivals and were awarded ribbons and cash awards at the Plains Art Association Annual Spring Show the last two years.

Wilson has designed a baby poser among his other endeavors, and photographers from all parts of the U.S. are using them. McDonald Construction Company of Lockney manufactures them.

CHUCK WILSON plans to do as much of the work as possible on the new 1700 sq. ft. addition to his present location. The new addition will provide space for a reception and sales area, a camera room, two dressing rooms, and a finishing room and a private office and a classroom in the loft.

A time to cherish, not regret

BY SHELLY HARRIS

May I share with you a valentine given to me by my oldest son, Dal, who is a sophomore at Texas Tech. It wasn't meant to be a valentine, but I consider it such and asked his permission to tell you the story.

When Dal was eight years old, we lived in Del Rio where the International dam between Mexico and the United States had just been dedicated. The dam blocked three rivers and formed, in an astonishingly short time, Lake Amistad, one of the largest man-made lakes in America.

As the lake filled and was stocked with fish, a boat mania seized the previously dryland inhabitants. Marinas were built, fishing equipment was stocked in local stores, tackle shops sprung up, and three large boat-dealerships sold every type of watercraft available.

Our neighbors began building high-roofed garages to store their newly acquired boats. They bought water skis and took lessons. They brought photographs of themselves proudly holding strings of the day's catch to the Del Rio News-Herald where I worked.

By the time Dal was twelve he wanted a boat badly. He talked about boats. He dreamed about boats.

I worked in advertising at the newspaper and the boat dealers were my accounts. I would bring brochures home to him and he kept them stacked neatly in a drawer in his room. Sometimes he would go with me when I called on the dealers and one in particular would take us all through his lot, treating us like customers, explaining boats, motors and their various features.

We attended boat shows wherever we found them and collected more brochures.

We would go out to the docks and watch people put their boats in the water, some of them in western boots pulling their boat trailers with pickup trucks. There were even a few times that friends took us out on the water with them.

But Dal never got his boat. His father was managing three large farms, 500 miles apart, and was away from home most of the time. Even if we could have made the sacrifice of buying a boat the sprawling, changing, new lake was no place for a woman, with no boating experience, and a 12-year-old boy.

Three weeks ago, for the first time, I mentioned it to Dal.

"The one thing that I regret most in your growing up is that we never got you the boat you wanted so much," I said as we were driving home from Dallas.

"Don't feel that way," he answered and patted me on the shoulder. "You dreamed with me about it, and that's what's important."

Suddenly I thought of the entire time differently. As we drove the last 200 miles home, I remembered...

On that particular lot Dal finally found the boat he wanted. It was a beautiful, blue and white, 16 footer. Evenings on our way home he would beg to stop. I would stand, putting off things that needed doing, and wait while he looked at "his" boat. Sometimes he would walk all the way around it, his fingers trailing across the smooth fiberglass frame. Sometimes he'd climb up on the seat and hold the wheel, sailing on an imaginary lake. Once he even pestered me into climbing in with him. I sat in the back, my arm over the edge, and could almost feel the spray on my hand.

There were the times we'd go out to the marina in the late evening. We'd stroll around the docks and look at the 30-foot, house boats with names like "Midland Mariner" and "The get-away-from-it-all" painted on their bows. There were the sailboats, their naked spires reaching to the sky, and the smaller, much-used, bass boats that filled the air with a pungent fish smell. We listened to the sound of waves lapping gently on the pilings under the floating docks that heaved slightly as we walked over them.

The night watchman would often walk with us, telling us about the people who owned the boats and the stories they brought back from the lake.

These memories are the valentines Dal gave back to me. A time to cherish, not regret. A valentine is a message of love, and what is love if not the sharing of dreams?

THANK YOU!

If I wrote notes and letters for the rest of my natural life, I would still never be able to express the way Jack and I feel toward our family and friends for all you have done during Jack's bout with Guillain-Barre' Syndrome.

The visits, the calls, the cards, the flowers, the gifts, the love and concern we could literally feel have made the whole situation not only bearable but heart-warming. We love and appreciate you all and hope we will be back in Floydada before long. God bless all of you.

Strake well received in Floydada

George Strake, republican candidate for Lt. Governor of Texas, shook hands and made a short speech at the coffee in his honor Tuesday morning, but his interest seemed to be in the questions and comments made by the citizens who packed the First National Bank Community Room in Floydada.

His campaign is reminiscent of the old time "whistle stop" tours where the candidate seeks out the rural population as eagerly as he does the citizens of the metro area.

He said that the Lt. Governor's job is not only one of the two most important in the state but that a recent article in the U.S. News and World Report stated that in Texas, the Lt. Governor has more power than in any of the other states.

The Texas Lt. Governor is president of the senate appointment committee and assigns all legislation, he said.

"He can virtually stop any legislation by putting it in an unfriendly committee," Strake said.

The Lt. Governor is chairman of the legislative budget and therefore oversees all budgets of state agencies.

Strake said that in the past decade, the state population has increased by 27%, but the state spending has increased by 251%. State employees have jumped from 110 to 160 thousand in the last ten years.

The Lt. Governor can have a direct influence on the state spending.

"My motivation for running for this office came about because of the three years I've been up there (state capitol) as Secretary of State," Strake said. "I could see no leadership on the part of the Lt. Governor at all."

"I have no animosity toward him (Lt. Governor Hobby) but the trouble is that we will be experiencing a tremendous growth explosion, 50% by the year 2000," he said and that the state must have the leadership to cope with that growth.

He said that he is particularly interested in the water problem. The recent water bill, known as the West Texas Water Bill, was poorly drafted and was hard for many to understand, he said.

Houston voted it down because they didn't think it pertained to them. "But without the shipments of West Texas grain, the Houston ship channel would be in trouble," he said.

MR. AND MRS. LONNIE PAUL KING

Double ring ceremony unites Lori Young, Lonnie Paul King

Double ring vows were repeated Saturday, February 20 between Lori Jill Young and Lonnie Paul King. The Reverend Nathan Mulder of South Plains, and pastor of the Wellington Baptist Church, performed the 6:30 p.m. ceremony in the chapel of First Baptist Church in Floydada.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Travis Young of Floydada, and Mr. and Mrs. Neal King of Divine, Texas.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Floydada High School and is presently secretary at M.B. McKee Co. of Amarillo. Her husband is a 1974 graduate of McArthur High School of San Antonio and attended Texas Tech and San Antonio College. He is training manager of Pizza Huts Inc. of Amarillo.

The traditional wedding vows were exchanged before a heart-shaped brass candelabra decorated in light blue and white glads, daisies and pom mums and flanked by brass urns holding palm arrangements of Colodore foliage. Flanking each side of the wedding scene were baskets holding arrangements of white glads, Killian daisies and white daisy poms. The bridal aisle was decorated in glass hurricane candelabra and garlands of silk lilly-of-the-valley foliage.

Guests were registered by Kathy Pitts, cousin of the bride, of Lubbock. A ceramic engraved wedding invitation of the bridal pair, a gift from Mrs. Vel Simpson, graced the register table, along with the bride's book and a blue feather quill pen and holder.

Candles were lighted and guests were seated by the bride's brothers, Kirk Young of Midland, and Kenneth Young of Floydada.

Piano selections were played by Darla Chappell and she also accompanied George Finley and Sharon Kinard as they sang "Endless Love", and then two solos, "The Sweetest Thing", and "Always and Forever" sung by Sharon and accompanied by Darla.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white luster sheer and chantilly lace. The fitted basque bodice was also of lace and highlighted with iridescents, styled with Bishop sleeves and a Queen Anne neckline. The lace peplum was overlaid with rows of sheer Chantilly lace ruffles, descending from the waist to a semi-cathedral train of matching lace. Her fingertip lace trimmed veil of illusion fell from a lace bandeau. She carried a white pearlized Prayer Book topped by a semi-cascade in all white silk flowers and foliage, accented in light blue streamers. The Prayer Book belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. V.D. Turner, has been used in other family weddings. Inside the Prayer Book was something old, a lace trimmed handkerchief which belonged to her great-grandmother Medley. The bride also carried out the traditional something new, her veil and also pearl earrings, a gift from her husband, something borrowed was her wedding gown, belonging to her cousin, Mrs. Bruce Kinast, and something blue was her garter. She also had a penny in her shoe bearing the birthdate of her husband.

Mrs. Danny Simpson, sister of the bride of Midland, attended as matron of honor. She wore a long sleeveless dress of teal blue accented with a long sleeve lace jacket of a matching color. Her bouquet was a cascade of mixed shades in light blues and white silk flowers.

The groom wore a royal navy blue tuxedo accented by a light blue ruffled shirt with a blue-tipped white carnation boutonniere. A friend of the couple, Gregg Null of Lubbock, served as best man, and he, the two fathers, and the ushers were all attired in the royal navy blue tuxedos.

Connie Ferguson of Plano, niece of the groom, was flower girl and wore a long dress of navy blue print and carried a light blue basket filled with blue and white petals.

Mothers of the bridal pair wore floor length gowns with matching corsages of silk flowers.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor.

The serving table was covered with an off-white lace cloth and under cloth and held a six branched candelabrum accented with blue and white carnations, daisies, and pom mums, and light blue tapers. The bride's and matron of honor's bouquets were layed at the base of the candelabrum to finish the centerpiece. Brenda Kinast, Shelli Johnson, and Carlen Beedy, all cousins of the bride, served a two-tiered wedding cake topped with a replica of the bride and groom. A silver service set and crystal appointments were used to serve punch. Blue mints, assorted nuts, and blue napkins accented the table.

The groom's table was covered with

Mrs. Allen Bigham hosts 1934 Study Club meeting

The 1934 Study Club met Tuesday, March 2, in the home of Mrs. Allen Bigham, with Mrs. Milton Ashton co-hostess.

As each member arrived they were greeted with a big Texas welcome and were given a Texas lapel tag.

The meeting opened with members answering roll call with something they knew about a Texas First Lady. This was followed with the group singing "Texas, My Texas."

Mrs. Dennis Dempsey conducted a short business meeting, after which Mrs. Kyle Glover introduced the program which was from the book "The First Ladies of Texas" by Mary D. Farrell and Elizabeth Silverthorne.

Jo V Bingham, dressed in the fashion of the early 1800's and carrying a ring of keys symbolizing the First Lady's role as chatelaine of the Mansion, told through anecdotes and slides some of the history of the women who contributed in a silent, supportive role to the dramatic pattern of the history of Texas.

As a group, these women have little in common. Yet they join in a sisterhood of devoted service to Texas and to the Governor's Mansion which was their realm. Slides of the mansion showed how it looked and changed through the years. Some of the slides included picture sketches of Margaret Lea Houston, wife of Sam Houston; Sue Ellen Murrah, whose life was one of tragic mystery, full of unanswered questions, still shrouded in mystery at her death; Annie Rattan Throckmorton, who quickly learned that frontier Texas was no place for a temperamental woman, and she learned self-control as a means of survival; Sarah Stinson Hogg, "the perfect chatelaine"; Miriam "Ma" Ferguson, not only a First Lady but a governor of Texas, as well; and Idanell Connally and Betty Jane Briscoe who rank as contemporary rather than historic First Ladies.

Appearing in a printed blue calico dress and bonnet, Frieda Simpson in the role of a friend, told the exciting history of Frances Cox Henderson, whose husband was the first governor of the new state of Texas. The outstanding feats and intelligence of this woman, who spoke eighteen languages fluently, amazed the audience.

Dressed in lovely modern evening attire, Margarette Bond, speaking in first person, told the story of Ima Smith Smith, wife of ex-governor Preston Smith, how they met while attending Texas Tech, married, and began a movie theater business in Lubbock, before entering politics.

Refreshments featuring Texas Pecan Pie were served to the following members: Mmes. Alan Benson, Wilson Bond, W.H. Bunch, W.L. Davis, Dennis Dempsey, R.G. Dunlap, Garland Foster, Kyle Glover, Anthony Latta, M.J. McNeill, J.P. Moss, Orval Newberry, Vernon Parker, L.D. Simpson, George Springer, L.B. Stewart, Jr., and Wade Warren.

The next meeting has been changed to Tuesday, March 23, at the home of Mrs. W.L. Davis.

1929 Study Club receives several thank you notes

With the members reciting in unison, "Honor to the Texas flag! we pledge our loyalty to thee, Texas, one and indivisible," the 1929 Study Club opened its March 4 meeting, Mrs. W.B. Parraack led in the pledge to the Texas flag.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. C.M. Meredith and Mrs. H.O. Cline at the home of the latter, Thursday afternoon. Club president, Mrs. Vance Campbell, read a letter of thanks from the Vernon State Hospital for the new and used items given by the club ladies at their Thanksgiving meeting. A letter was read from the Floydada Nursing Home thanking them for the Christmas door decorations made by the club in December. A note of thanks was read from their club member, Mrs. Weldon McClure, for the memorial made for her late husband.

During the discussion of new business, Mrs. Campbell read an invitation for ladies to volunteer as much as an hour a week to visit with rest home patients. She also read a letter from West Texas State University requesting their nomination for a Floydada woman as Outstanding Woman of the Year at the University's annual recognition banquet. Club members voted on a local civic minded woman and sent her name to Canyon.

After reading the treasury report, they voted $25 for the Annie Taylor scholarship fund.

Members all brought old sheets and towels, which Mrs. O.D. Williams took to the Floydada Day Care Center.

Miss Francis Mitchell showed a beautifully photographed slide show of her last summer's tour of Norway. Her tour guide was Ingrid Carter of Envoy Tours in Lubbock. The mountains, fjords, glaciers and lakes alternated with pictures of restored Viking open ships, palaces, stately, and sod roofed log cabins. A national holiday celebrated with planting a tree and Maypole dance on the longest day of the year showed colorful traditional costumes.

Following the program, the hostesses served refreshments from a table covered with white linen and lace. Tea sandwiches, cheese crackers, chips, and olives, fresh apple cake and coffee were served.

Other members present included Mrs. C.W. Denison, Clarence Goins, E.J. Morehead, S.W. Ross, Ben Whitaker, Ann Swepton, and Mrs. Norman Hamilton who brought greetings from Mrs. J.A. Arwine of John Knox Village.

DeLinda Glasson, Almeda Phillips, and Linda Holley for spending this time with us.

Our film of the week was "Parade - Parade." This film showed all the work it takes to organize a parade. We send a special thanks to Doylene Dipprey for supplying us with these informative films.

Our Bible study class is going strong. It is a great joy for all of us to learn more about the Bible. Brother Klein has really helped us to understand the Bible better.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

BY LINDA EMERT

Spring's almost here, and with it we can expect some sand, but when we have a good day in West Texas I believe it's the best place in the world to live.

It's been awhile since we've written our "Happenings," so we'll try to fill you in on what's been going on at Floydada Nursing Home.

We have some new Residents, Marvin "Slim" Goolsby in room 3 South and Lyndele "Wendy" Jackson in 9 North. Mr. Goolsby is from Matador, and Mrs. Jackson is from Floydada. If you know either of these Residents, come by and visit them.

Juanita Bailey and Cecil Griggs are still in Caprock Hospital. We lost a dear Resident last week, Ollie Miracle passed away in the hospital after a brief illness. She was a precious person, and we extend our sympathy to her family.

Monday was our Music Therapy Day, and Kim really started our week off right. We exercised with beautiful scarfs, which made exercise a pleasure. The Residents really enjoy Kim, she really has a way with the elderly.

Annie Mergone, one of the cooks, was named employee of the month for February. Steve Westbrook was elected Secretary for South Plains Chapter of Texas Nursing Homes Assn. which meets monthly in Lubbock.

Our Volunteer Program is progressing well, and the volunteers are really helping out. We sure appreciate these dear people.

I don't know what happened to our visitors list, but we sure do appreciate every visitor.

Gentry to represent Floydada in spelling

BY JOYCE WILLIAMS

Miss Tiffany Gentry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Gentry, will represent Floydada in the written spelling division of the Interscholastic League. Her team of fifth graders will go to Lockney, Thursday afternoon, for the county contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fite of Abilene visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Edwards, Sunday, and all enjoyed dinner at Kings. The Fites had visited their daughter, Jana, who is a student at Texas Tech University, and also with Frank's mother in Lubbock on Saturday.

The children of Pedro Barbosa who have been living in Post the past few years have returned to live here and are enrolled in Floydada schools.

Mrs. Riley Teague sees her father, Earl Bishop, daily and takes him around town on his business. Sunday, Lula and Roy met their son and family. Mr. and Mrs. James Teague, at Monterey Church of Christ for Family Day, featured four times a year. All enjoyed a basket lunch at the church at noon. In the afternoon they met again in the auditorium for singing, led by the young boys of the congregation, as well as more experienced song leaders. John Ramsey preached three sermons, morning, afternoon and evening services. The Teagues also visited their daughter, Sue Tillson.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mooseberg were hosts to two of their daughters and families last week. Alice and Ken Steele of Perryton were here from Thursday to Sunday. June Sherman and son, Roy, of Lockney were here Friday and Saturday to enjoy the warmth around the fireplace while the weather was so bad Friday.

Roy Dunavant of Bayfield, Colorado, has been staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Dunavant. He will go to work at Strothers Floral and gift shop in Plainview and plans to move there this week. The Dunavants visited with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Young in Plainview Sunday afternoon.

Miss Rebecca Redding was guest of honor at a family dinner Saturday evening in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Redding. Guests included her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Dunavant, and Roy Dunavant.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Watson and other square dance class students are looking forward to their Half-Way Dance in April. This will indicate they are half way through their series of lessons. They are held at the Massie Activity Center. Area square dance clubs will be their guests. Brenda and Dean will have their new black and white square dance costumes ready by then, as will the others of their group.

Mr. Holt Bishop took his father, Earl Bishop, out for Sunday dinner at Kings.

Mr. Katherine McDougall, and children of Kerrville, visited last week from Wednesday through Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Kendrick. Kathy stopped off in El Dorado to visit her sister, Becky Sterling, who longed to come along too, but her children's school had a different week for Spring Break from Kathy's children's school.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McCray are both home from the hospital and are back in their own homes now. The first week Mrs. McCray was home from Lubbock, she stayed with her daughter, Mrs. James Lee Nichols. Eva Lee looks in on them both everyday now.

Perry Zumwalt visited Mr. and Mrs. O.D. Williams Thursday evening to bring a set of horse hobbles he had plaited from rawhide. He cuts his own rawhide strips, in a circle from a full cowhide so there is a long continuous strip. The hobbles started out as eight strands, looped and merged into a sixteen strand plait for strength. He also makes his own boots, and has a full leather craft workshop in his garage at the parsonage beside the City Park Church of Christ where he preaches. He grew up on a ranch near Nogal, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Hammonds and Mrs. Louis Pyle visited Billy Hammonds in the hospital at Wichita Falls last week. He has undergone three body scans as doctors search for what ails him.

Mr. and Mrs. John Himmel of Crosbyton visited their long time neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Edwards, Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bunch met Mr. and Mrs. Darryl Bunch in Lubbock Saturday to hear their granddaughter, Brenda, play in the Jazz band festival at Texas Tech University with her school band, of Carrollton. All enjoyed supper at Furr's after the day of contests.

Mrs. Dean Watson went to Matador Thursday and brought her grandmother, Mrs. W.T. Moore, to the Tom Moore home. She was guest of honor at a 75th birthday dinner that evening. Cindy Fuller and Mike Moore also helped their grandmother celebrate.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nichols and children Cody, and Bryn visited in Estelline Sunday with Jon's grandmother, Mrs. Lena Freeze. Ross Freeze of Dallas was there visiting his mother, and the other relatives came to see him. These included his sister, Mrs. Joyce Smith and daughter, Terri, also David and Vicki Ware, Regina and Shannon. After lunch they all drove out into the country to the old family farm and walked around in the sunshine recalling when the Freeze family lived there and the good times they had.

Mrs. Georgia Mae Erickson donated a steer calf last week to ARCS, at Lubbock, for science scholarships to Lubbock Christian College and Texas Tech University. Georgia Mae, the steer calf, and her ranch foreman, Larry Johnson, were pictured on the society page of the Lubbock Avalanche Journal. Larry Johnson grew up in Lakeview where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Johnson, owned and operated the Lakeview store, and his grandparents were farmers. Larry lives on Georgia Mae's ranch on the Dickens highway, but looks after both of her places.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Watson enjoyed Friday night with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Watson, at Mt. Blanco. On Saturday, their parents took them to the Dallas Cowboys basketball game in Floydada. On Sunday afternoon the Watsons went to Lubbock for an 8th birthday dinner honoring Kris Robison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Robison. All the Watson kin

THE AMAZING HEAT PUMP

• I Don't Waste Energy • I'm Virtually Trouble-Free • I'm Easy to Adapt • I Can Save You Money • I'm Clean, I Won't Dirty Your Walls or Curtains • I'm Very Efficient • I'm Electric

Most heating units are inefficient because they have to create heat. I'm one that doesn't... I'm the Heat Pump. I move heat already in the area from one place to the other. In the winter I actually gather heat from outdoors to warm your home. In the summer I reverse myself and become an air conditioner.

Warm days enhance Center

BY MRS. J.E. GREEN

March 8, 1982: We had some warm days or afternoons, but we are again aware that winter is not over.

At Calvary Church Sunday our pupil was filled by a student from Wayland. A good sermon, but we missed Brother Payne who was sick. Our prayers for him and all the sick and bereaved.

Mrs. Clarence Ashton who was in the Lockney Hospital last week has been moved back to the Rest Home, which we hope, means she is feeling better.

Mrs. Sallie Carpenter's children of the Dallas area and other relatives who were at her bedside her last days, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Watson and the Dean Watsons were Sunday dinner guests with others of Lubbock, at the honoree's home, the Ken Robisons, to celebrate a great grands birthday.

Another happy get together.

The Gordon Mayfields were in Crosbyton Tuesday and again Saturday, attended conference.

Mrs. Frank Dunn arrived home Tuesday from where she was visiting her children.

Mrs. Ola Warren and Mrs. Fred Battey visited the Thomas Warrens Friday and the Burl Huckabys Sunday afternoon.

Three neighbor children visited Mrs. Green Saturday afternoon, and Mrs. Travis Lightfoot dropped in Monday morning.

Our church was sad Sunday. We missed the Larry Rowley family who is so faithful in attendance. For the husband and father was in a fatal plane crash Thursday. We grieve with the family and all loved ones. And trust the all wise is standing by.

Social Security News

BY RAY PURCELL

Courtesy, promptness and efficiency — these three qualities are stressed over and over again any time someone begins a career with the Social Security Administration. The overall goal of this agency is to get the correct check to the correct person in the correct amount. In accomplishing these objectives we are cautioned again and again to do so with the greatest degree of courtesy and respect for the people involved.

As with all efforts like these, it is often easy to assume you are doing an excellent job when in fact you are not. For this reason, Social Security periodically checks a random sample of our clientele to determine just how well we do or fail to do. For the most part these surveys return positive responses. And if they don't, we are encouraged to change the situation.

It is most gratifying when an independent group contacts a sample of the general public to determine attitudes concerning Social Security. Recently, the National Retired Teachers Association/American Association of Retired Persons conducted a survey. They found that 69% of those contacted rated Social Security high in efficiency. 78% responded positively in terms of courteous service.

We were very pleased with the results of this survey. And we are always trying to improve our service to the public. One way is through the increased use of the telephone.

You may ask questions, and even file claims by phone. This service is generally faster and eliminates the need for you to wait in a busy waiting room, as well as get outside in bad weather.

We have two numbers for your convenience. Our toll-free number, 1-800-392-1603 will connect you with someone to answer general inquiries. Our local number, 293-4371 is the one to call if you wish to file a claim.

Your responses to our efforts will help us improve service on a continuing basis, so that we may provide you with courteous, fast and efficient service.

Producing the "new" from "old" devices

Using windmills to generate electricity is a rather recent application of wind power, when you consider that windmills have been used to do man's work for more than 5000 years, reports Dr. Bill Cooper of Oklahoma State University.

A number of people in the southwest can remember when windmills dotted the western skies generating electricity for farms. Dr. Cooper reports that Oklahoma State University's Engineering Extension continues to receive requests for reports dealing with windmill generation of electric power. Some of these reports date back to the early 1930's Cooper noted. He also noted that the homes and farms using wind power to generate electricity in the 1930 time period did not have the large power demands that our modern homes of today require.

As a help to persons interested in the subject of wind electric power, Dr. P.M. Moretti of the Oklahoma State University Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering has written an article answering some of the most frequently asked questions.

His article also gives the names and addresses of a number of manufacturers of wind electric systems. The article concludes with a list of references for further study, reports, Dr. Cooper.

For a free copy of this informative article send a self-addressed and stamped envelope to Wind Energy, OSU Office of Engineering Extension, 512 EN, Stillwater, Oklahoma 74078.

Former Floydadian accepts new extension post with Texas A&M

Doyle G. Warren, Hidalgo County Extension agent since 1978, has been named district Extension director for the South District (12) with headquarters at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center.

Warren will work closely in coordina-ting educational programs with Sherry J. Mullin, his co-worker and district Extension director.

DOYLE G. WARREN

In announcing the appointment, Dr.

Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University system, said Warren will supervise activities of all county Extension agents in the seven-county area for which he is responsible—Cameron, Brooks, Duval, Jim Hogg, Live Oak, McAllen and Willacy. Mullin supervises work of agents in Hidalgo, Starr, Webb and Zapata Counties.

The two district directors recruit and train agents for the South District and plan and implementing educational programs for area citizens, Pfannstiel added. The county Extension staffs of the district plan and carry out local programs for clientele, including farmers, ranchers, agribusiness people, consumers, 4-H and others.

"Warren has had outstanding result demonstrations in the counties he has served, and has had strong 4-H and youth programs," Pfannstiel said. He also strengthened work with commercial agriculture and expanded the total agricultural program in Hidalgo County, the director added.

Warren began his Extension Service career in 1965 as a trainee in Lynn County. Later that year he moved to his first assignment, Dawson County, where he remained three years. He transferred to Floyd County in 1970 and remained until moving to Hidalgo County four years ago.

He received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents in 1978 for his leadership in Floyd County. In a five year period prior to the award Floyd County corn acreage quadrupled, due in part to his promotional efforts plus a sharp increase in soil sampling to better monitor soil fertility.

His strong 4-H program there led to a doubling of membership and a 600 per cent increase in the 4-H county budget for this activity.

Warren holds bachelor's and master's degrees in agricultural education from Texas Tech and has done graduate work at Texas A&M.

He was born and raised in Coahoma and attended public schools there. His parents still live near that Howard County farming and ranching community.

He participated in sports, 4-H and FFA at Coahoma High School and held area and district office in FFA.

Warren is married to the former Judith Ann Sanders of Hart. The couple resides on a small acreage north of Mission-McAllen with their four children, Michelle 11, Chad 9, Brad 6 and Ric 5.

In his new post Warren succeeds J.D. Selman, Jr., who moved to Travis County in December after 14 years in Weslaco.

TONY DE KING from Lanchire, England performed at Floydada High School Tuesday morning with an ad lib show combining comedy and music.

Tony's trademark is the original handmade guitars that he uses in his act. He has sixteen, but the one used Tuesday morning is carved to look like a woman's lips with wide white teeth and a cigarette extending from the strings.

He has traveled 2300 miles in America since coming to this country in September.

He has appeared on television in England where he has his own show. The high school circuit in the U.S. is mainly for exposure he said and he "hopes to be discovered" by some of the big names in music in this country.

Working couples to receive tax relief in 1982

DALLAS, TEXAS — Beginning in 1982, new provisions in the federal tax law will bring some tax relief to many two-earner families. Working couples generally pay higher taxes on their joint income than they would pay if they were single. This is called the "Marriage tax penalty."

Under the new law, working couples filing jointly may be able to deduct up to $1,500 in 1982 and $3,000 in 1983. They will not have to itemize deductions on Schedule A of Form 1040 to claim this deduction.

The new tax law will allow working couples filing a joint return to deduct from gross income either five percent of the earned income of the spouse with the lower qualified earned income, or $1,500, whichever is less, in 1982. In 1983 and thereafter, the deduction increases to 10 percent, but cannot exceed $3,000.

Also increased in 1982 is the Child and Dependent Care Credit. A taxpayer with an income of $10,000 or less and one qualifying child or dependent will get a maximum credit of $720, while those who make more than $28,000 get a $480 maximum credit. For two or more qualifying individuals, the maximum credit will range from $1,440 to $960. Under prior law the maximum credit was $400 for one qualifying dependent and $800 for two or more.

Also, for the first time in 1982 the new legislation will allow workers who are already covered by an employers' qualified pension plan to make deductible contributions to an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) or to the company plan itself provide that the plan provides for voluntary employee contributions and the employer agrees to treat such contributions as deductible. The maximum amount workers will be able to contribute is 100 percent of their earned income, up to a maximum of $2,000.

The old requirement limited the amount deductible to 15 percent of earned income up to a maximum of $1,500 and restricted its application to those individuals who were not active participants in employer retirement plans.

Another change increases the tax-free amount allowed for an IRA and spousal IRA from $1,750 to $2,250. A spousal IRA allows married taxpayers to set up an IRA for themselves and a separate one for their non-working spouses.

Taxpayers filing 1981 returns due by April 15, 1982 will not be affected by the new changes.

Information on the new tax changes may be found in IRS Publication 553, "Highlights of 1981 Tax Changes." It is available free by using the handy order form that comes with the tax package.

Hearing Test set for Floydada

FLOYDADA — Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Senior Citizens Center on Wednesday, March 17 from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon.

Barry Surratt, Hearing Aid Specialist, will be at 301 E. Georgia to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding words clearly is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which can be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out whether the latest methods of hearing correction can help them hear better.

The free hearing test will be given Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the Senior Citizens Center. If you can't get there on Wednesday, call 983-2032 and arrange for an appointment at another time. In-home testing is also available.

Cotton producers hear about growth in markets

Cotton producers have something going for them that no other farmers have, the president of Cotton Incorporated told about 200 cotton producers gathered in Raleigh, North Carolina Thursday (February 18) for the company's third annual producers' meeting.

"We constantly sell our product, cotton, to the textile industry of the United States and the world, and that's what cotton has going for it that no other agricultural commodity has," company president J. Dukes Wooters Jr. told the opening session of the two-day meeting.

As a result of that selling effort in the past crop year, offtake has exceeded the previous year's offtake by almost one million bales, he added.

Cotton has turned around its 15-year decline in overall market share, "because Cotton Incorporated has added to your product the dimension of service, so that when a mill buys your product, it buys a complete package of services," Wooters told producers from across the Cotton Belt.

"You already have the best fiber, but when you add the extra dimension of value by showing a textile mill how to make a profit off your cotton, you guarantee yourself a market," he explained.

During the day-long briefing, company researchers and marketers reported on current efforts to cut production costs for cotton producers and bring new mostly-cotton and all-cotton products into the marketplace.

Cotton Incorporated, the fiber company of American cotton producers, conducts a program of research and marketing using producers' per-bale assessments to cut production costs and expand markets for cotton. The company is governed by a board composed of cotton producers from the 14 cotton-producing states.

The producers came to Raleigh on Wednesday night and spent Thursday being briefed on company activities and touring the company's national research center there. On Friday, they visited nearby textile mills where they saw baled cotton turned into yarn and then into fabric.

Executive vice president J. Nicholas Hahn told the producers that Cotton Incorporated has succeeded because it has a philosophy of taking commercial advantage of research results, engaging in joint ventures in both research and marketing, and leading by providing example.

Paraphrasing Winston Churchill, he said, "our philosophy is to never, never, never, give up."

J.K. "Farmer" Jones, vice president of agricultural research and producer liaison, reported to the producers that the company has successfully tested in the last two years a mobile cotton trailer dumper that will make centralized modulating economical for producers who cannot justify individual ownership of module builders.

"Ever since we and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station developed the module system in the early 70s for handling cotton from the harvester to inside the gin, we realized that this system would not serve the smaller-acreage grower and gin," he said.

"So since that time we have worked on a way to develop an economical system to module cotton from the trailer on the gin yard to give the smaller-acreage grower the same advantage of increased harvesting efficiency," he added.

With insect control still one of the most expensive production inputs in much of the Belt, Cotton Incorporated is making a concerted effort in cooperation with state and federal researchers to improve controls for the Heliothis complex, the boll weevil, and the pink bollworm, Jones reported.

"In 1981, insect controls cost $424 million and yield losses averaged 6.7 per cent, so we have to be concerned about improving our controls," Jones commented.

Other areas targeted by agricultural researchers include breeding of high-yielding, high-quality cottons, early-yielding cottons, short-season cottons, multi-purpose cottons and hybrid cotton; weed control, control of soil erosion through the use of cover crops; stripper-mounted cleaners; improving gin efficiency; more uses of cottonseed for food and feed; and increasing the uses of cotton gin waste.

One of the most critical threats to cotton comes from byssinosis, a respiratory disorder caused by cotton dust that affects some cotton mill workers, he reported to them.

Preston Sasser, director of quality cotton research, reported on efforts to find the cause of byssinosis and to control cotton dust in the mills.

To keep textile mills using cotton or to help woo them away from synthetic fibers, cotton producers have had to service what they sell through their company, explained the vice president of textile research and development, Hal E. Brockmann.

"Our objective is to help the mills lower their manufacturing costs when they make mostly-cotton and all-cotton products and help them make better quality cotton products," he said.

The company works with mills in fiber selection, fiber cleaning, yarn manufacturing, knitting and weaving, and dyeing and processing, he explained.

"This past year we provided technical services for several hundred foreign and domestic mills. We responded to over 20,000 requests for samples or information," he said.

In the area of cotton knitwear, 14 mills have adopted doubleknit fabrics developed by Cotton Incorporated researchers. Four major knitting companies that used to be all-polyester have adopted cotton for their product lines, he reported.

Cotton Incorporated work on fire-resistant safety apparel resulted in its use by NASA Space Shuttle astronauts and test pilots. "Today, fire-resistant cotton is beating its synthetic competition 20 to 1 in the high-use areas such as foundries and utility companies," Brockmann added.

David W. Cox, the company's vice president of economic research and development, explained how the economists work to refine their analysis of cotton supply and demand worldwide to give producers an accurate picture of market dynamics so they can make better marketing decisions.

Company researchers are working with NASA scientists to use satellite-generated photos of selected cotton-producing areas to develop better estimates of cotton supply, he explained.

George W. Todor, the vice president of sales/marketing, reported that the company's "Natural Blend" fabrics—fabrics that are 60 per cent or more cotton with easy-care characteristics—are more successful than ever. "Natural Blend" shirts dominate the men's dress shirt market today," said Todor, "reversing the advantage that polyester used to enjoy in that market."

He reported that the nation's largest shirt manufacturer, the Arrow Co., is introducing a men's dress shirt called "Cotton Plus," that is 85 per cent cotton.

The company's Cotton Seal is continuing to provide a major boost for consumer sales of cotton, reported Robert J. Boslet, vice president of marketing services. The latest survey of consumers shows that 60 per cent recognize the Seal.

He briefed them on the company's new advertising campaigns, being waged under the slogans, "Once you get a feel for cotton, you won't feel like anything else," and "Come home to

The vice president of international marketing, Donald S. Kleckner, explained how the company is making American cotton more competitive with foreign cottons and synthetic fibers by providing more technical services to foreign mills. To better service foreign mills, the company is opening offices in London and Osaka, Japan, he reported.

The chairman of the Cotton Incorporated board of directors, W.T. Robertson of Holly Ridge, Mississippi, urged the producers, "when you return home, tell your friends and neighbors what you learned here."

"We'll have a great future, if we continue to work together," he added.

Survey shows moisture needed

The annual pre-plant soil moisture survey over the Southern High Plains area is now complete. The soil moisture deficit, a measure of how much water is still needed to wet the soil in the crop root zone to field capacity, ranges from less than two inches of moisture needed in some areas to more than eight inches needed in other areas.

The wide range of moisture deficits over the 18 county area surveyed is generally due to differences in each soil's capacity to store moisture and to local rainfall patterns.

Other factors also affect the amounts of deficit recorded. In addition to precipitation and soil types, moisture deficits may be different due to individual farm management practices, the type of crops grown in an area, and the amount of water a particular farmer applied late last growing season.

The soil moisture deficit was determined at 135 observation points, including over 50 new sites installed last fall, with the cooperation of the local landowners. Site selection was based on soil type and variation in the saturated thickness of the Ogallala aquifer.

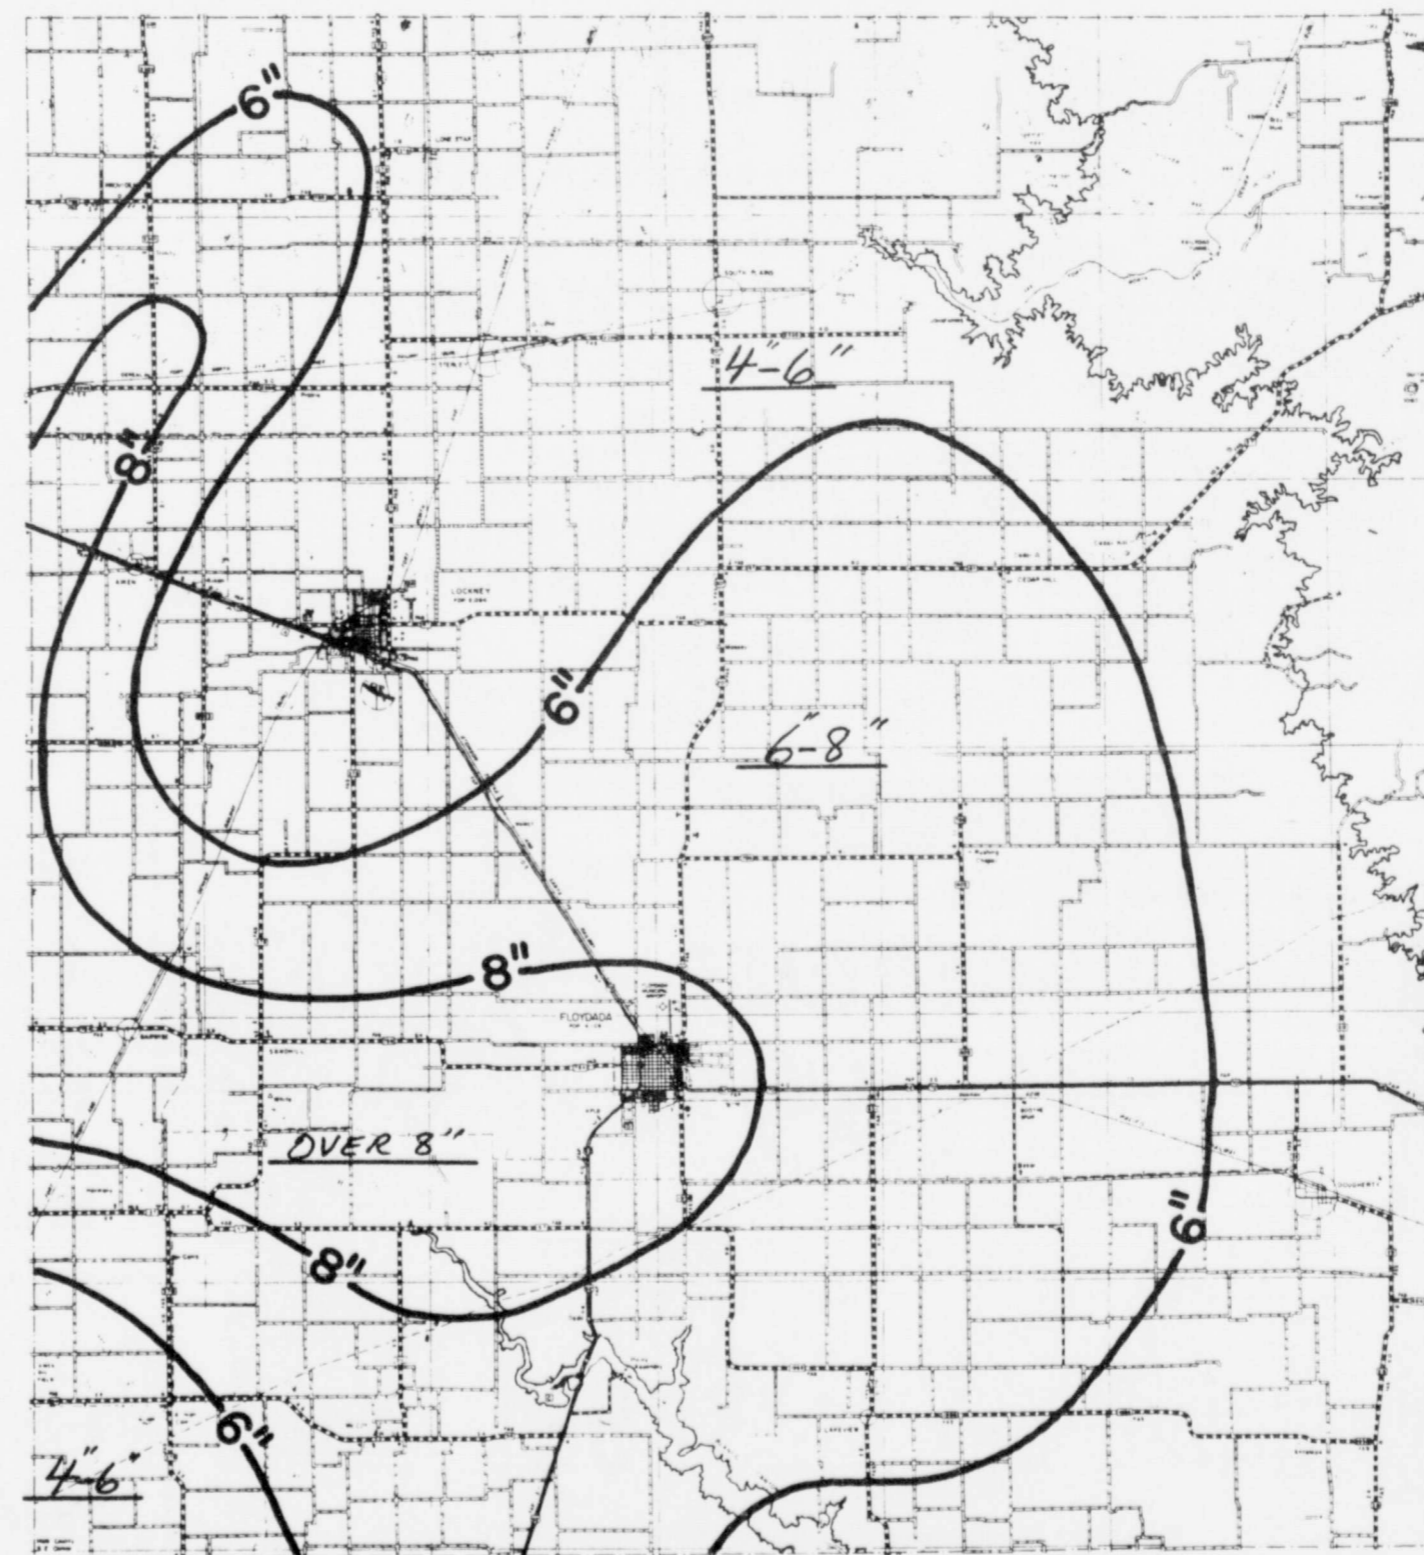

Crews used a soil auger mounted on a small trailer to core the seven foot holes at the new sites. At each site a neutron soil moisture probe was lowered down a two inch diameter, thin-walled aluminum tube set to a depth of seven feet below land surface. Readings were taken at one foot intervals at each site. Soil core samples were also taken at one foot intervals at each of the newly installed sites and tested at the soil physics laboratory at Texas Tech University, to determine their soil moisture content and bulk density. This information was correlated with data from the neutron probe readings at each site.

The survey is a cooperative effort by the Soil Conservation Service and the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District with support from the Texas Department of Water Resources. The SCS and Water District assumed responsibility for the program last year and developed a cooperative agreement to expand its data base. Oliver Newton, an agricultural meteorologist with the National Weather Service at Lubbock, developed the original survey and maintained it for 15 years with technical assistance from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, until Oliver recently retired.

The survey is an important tool for giving us a better picture of our soil moisture reserves over the entire area. It can help the farmer make more informed pre-plant irrigation decisions and help him avoid both over and under irrigating in the spring. It can also give an indication of potential dryland production.

The sample indicates general trends over the area, but does not predict exact soil moisture conditions on any given farm. Each landowner needs to check his individual farm soil moisture to determine his pre-plant moisture needs.

Taste of Texas dinner to highlight National Agriculture Day Celebration

The Food & Fiber National Institute of Achievement and the Texas Department of Agriculture are joining forces to celebrate National Agriculture Day, March 18, with a Taste of Texas buffet, entertainment and awards program. The dinner will emphasize the importance of Texas Agricultural Products and features a sampling of Texas foods from throughout the state.

The program, to be held in the Banquet Hall of the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, has as its theme, "Agriculture: It's Your Heartbeat Texas." A part of Food & Fiber's annual meeting, all proceeds from the event will be retained by Food & Fiber, a non-profit organization, for use in future educational programming and tickets are tax deductible.

This year's special guests include Texas Department of Agriculture Commissioner, Reagan V. Brown and Speaker of the House, Bill Clayton. Commissioner Brown will be cited for his leadership of the finest state department of agriculture and his many contributions to agriculture. Representative Clayton will be recognized for his many years of leadership while a member of the Texas House of Representatives. Clayton's actions and support of Texas agriculture has resulted in the passage of dozens of bills benefiting area producers and processors.

Additional citations will be presented to Food & Fiber board members Alton Brazell and Ed Breihan. Brazell, the outgoing president, is a recognized local leader in many areas of agriculture. Through his efforts and leadership, Food & Fiber's programming has been expanded over a broad area of Texas. Breihan, the Executive Vice President of Plains Cooperative Oil Mill, will be cited for his national leadership in agriculture and his recent election as President of the National Cotton Council.

"Food & Fiber has put together an outstanding program of good food, entertainment and fellowship to celebrate National Agriculture Day in Texas," said John Anderson, Food & Fiber's Executive Director. "To assure everyone a good time, we have booked the Maines Brothers to provide the featured entertainment following the meal and local personality, Byrne Bass to be our master of ceremonies. We have two objectives in mind as we celebrate our nation's number one industry: to provide an outstanding program for all to enjoy and to honor the many individuals who have made Texas agriculture a national leader, the producers and processors."

The Taste of Texas buffet will begin at 7:00 p.m. in the Banquet Hall. Immediately following the meal and the brief awards program will be entertainment by the Maines Brothers. Tickets are priced at $12.50 per person or $100.00 per a table of eight. Advanced reservations are now being accepted by mail through Food & Fiber, P.O. Box 10436, Lubbock, Texas 79408. Tickets include the meal and entertainment. The public is invited to attend this outstanding program and join us in recognizing all area farmers and ranchers for their contributions to agriculture. No tickets will be sold at the door. For additional information, contact Food & Fiber at (806) 747-1649.

The fruit tree you purchase in the nursery is an identical clone of a variety or type of tree which has been identified, tested and selected for possessing one or several desirable characteristics. A clone is a group of plants all of whose members are directly descended from a single individual. Cloning insures that all offspring are identical and possess the desired characteristics of the parent. Trees are cloned by taking a bud or some form of vegetation from the desirable parent tree and transferring it to a seedling (grown from a seed) tree. Desirable parent plants of some types can be reproduced by rooting vegetative parts. Cloning insures that all new plants will be the same as the desirable parent.

Is sex involved? Absolutely not! The sexual part of a tree is its seed. Trees are extremely hybridized and have many different characteristic potentials. This is apparent when one considers the different characteristics of seedling ash trees sold in Texas. Look at ash trees around your neighborhood — some are tall with sparse foliage, while others are short with thick foliage, and some lose leaves in October while others keep their leaves until frost.

Cloning and vegetative reproduction eliminate the variability involved with the sexual reproduction by using seed. This is why seeds of good-tasting apples, peaches, pears or pecans should never be planted in hopes of growing a tree which will produce the same fruit. The odds of growing a tree from seed which will produce the same characteristics of the fruit which produced the seed are 10 million to one. A grafted or budded tree is a sure-fire winner.

One advantage to cloning rather than using the seedling procedure is that the buyer gets two trees for the price of one. The rootstock or bottom portion of the tree also can lend certain desirable characteristics to the tree's overall performance. For instance, in selecting peaches and plums, homeowners should be aware of the rootstock on which the variety is budded. The rootstock on all peach and plum varieties grown in the home planting should be grafted on 'Nemaguard' rootstock. The rootstock is resistant to root knot nematodes, which are a major problem on peaches and plums.

The county Extension office has a list of the fruit varieties recommended for the area. For reliable results, select well-adapted fruit and nut trees with superior rootstocks.

Farm exports to be subject of T.V. special

Farm exports — how they are created; their impact on the U.S. economy — is the subject of a television special scheduled to air during American Agriculture Day in March.

The program features an in-depth examination of the work of the American Soybean Association, the U.S. Feed Grains Council, U.S. Wheat Associates and Cotton Incorporated. It examines the day-to-day effort of these commodity organizations to bolster the farm economy by building foreign markets for U.S. soybeans, corn, wheat and cotton.

Titled "Prosperity in the Balance," the special was created by Flanco Products Company, according to Group Vice President Robert M. Book. Book also serves as the current chairman of the U.S. Feed Grains Council. In that capacity, he saw the need to explore the relationship between agricultural exports and the national interest. Viewers should check their local listing for the time and day of showing.

Hosted by veteran actor Rex Allen, the half-hour documentary was shot on location. Highlights of the program include a segment on how the American Soybean Association (ASA) sold German consumers on the benefits of cooking with soy oil through a promotion program that included work with processors and a communications program targeted at editors and consumers. As a result of the program, soybean oil consumption increased 50 percent, creating an expanded market for U.S. soybeans.

The program includes similar success stories of increased feed grain usage in Korea, introduction of bread and noodles in China and technical assistance to textile mills in Europe.
