Consumers Fuel Assn. holds annual meeting

TIMOTHY MITCHELL draws the winning door prize numbers while R.C. Mitchell, Kenneth Broseh and Kenneth Wofford look on.

By Pam Armstrong

Tuesday, March 22, Consumers Fuel Association held its annual stockholders meeting. Following a buffet style dinner, President Albert Scheele opened the meeting and recognized manager Billy Joe Turner who welcomed guests and patrons and recognized the employees, Susie Brewer, Barbara Jo Ellison, Dale Ross, Andy Peralez, Archie Jones, Otto Hernandez, and Melton Castro who was not able to attend.

He then recognized the board members and their wives. Consumers board consists of President Albert Scheele, Vice President Kenneth Wofford, Kenneth Holt, Kenneth Broseh, and R.C. Mitchell.

The minutes of last years meeting were read by Kenneth Holt and approved by the members. The audit report for the 1982 year was given by Randy Swindle of Sandefur and Swindle accounting. Mr. Swindle stated that Consumers showed a net loss for the 1982 year of $48,044.87. He also said that $9000.00 of that would be recouped from the Internal Revenue Service in a refund.

Billy Joe Turner then gave the manager's report. He stated that overall operating costs were down by $5000.00, partly due to the release of some employees. He stated that the net loss was due to the decrease in sales in many of the products that Consumers carries.

Following the managers report Chester Carthel, chairman of the nominating committee conducted the election of directors. The two names which appeared on the ballot were Kenneth Wofford and Larry Adrain. Kenneth Wofford won.

During the election talling door prizes were given away. Timothy Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Mitchell, drew the winning tickets.

Winners were Glen Cooper, Wayne Ashburn, and Herb Dudley, oil changes and filters; G.C. Applewhite, a set of booster cables; M.A. Ulmer, 25 pounds of laundry soap; Harmon Handley, 25 ft. garden hose; Claude Stallings, a set of wrenches, and Mrs. W.L. Thomas, a self propelled lawn mower.

Under new business a new nominating committee was selected for next year. The committee members are Gene Belt, Donny Bybee, and Harmon Handley. Also Billy Joe Turner said that charter members of Consumers would be recognized.

The meeting adjourned at 8:35 p.m. Dinner music for the meeting was provided by the Lockney High School stage band under the direction of Mr. James Whitis. Students from Miss Cindy Ford's homemaking classes helped serve.

A WIDE VARIETY of arts and crafts will be exhibited at the annual event, sponsored by Il Penseroso Jr. Study Club. Well-known craftsmen to this area will make this exceptionally interesting.

Housing authority meets with opposition on housing units

By Carolyn Redding

City Hall became a focal point last Tuesday night, March 22, at the public hearing held in compliance with regulations.

About 40 townspeople, including children, assembled at the meeting to air their feelings toward the 20 low-rent public housing units to be constructed in Lockney upon HUD's appraisal and approval of three sites. The application is expected to be submitted April 8 or 9, with a response from HUD in approximately 60 days. Appraisals and approval of the three sites will be considered during the time interviewing.

Three petitioners who met with the Housing Authority board members were Jerry Johnson, Carl Lee, Jr., and Rosa Gonzales. They presented petitions that had been signed by 247 persons, according to Johnson, but he claimed only 200 because of some invalid signatures such as non-residents and duplicates.

Reasons given for objecting to the construction of the low rent housing varied from those who objected to having the complex near their homes to being a waste of the taxpayers' money. One major issue presented to the Housing Authority was that of the problems which might be encountered by the volunteer fire department.

Johnson pointed out that small children would be one problem, without a doubt, and that volunteers would have to exercise extreme caution getting to and away from the fire house. Another potential problem would be that of the volunteers' vehicles left unattended. In a later interview, Johnson said he would hate to see some member of a family bleed to death, a delay be imposed on a heart victim, a house burn down, or any other circumstance where even seconds are crucial while the firemen make their vehicles and office secure at 3 a.m. in the morning.

He further stated, "I am not mad at anybody. And I may be wrong, but if they would just bring it to a popular vote, I would be willing to help clean up the sites and get them ready for construction if it passed."

Another small group of townspeople felt they had not been given a fair consideration as property owners.

The three sites which will be submitted for HUD's approval are the areas behind the old Baccus Motor Company from the alley east to First Street, the vacant lot belonging to C.L. Henderson, south of the city hall, and the lot belonging to Lockney Coop behind the post office near the Rebekah Lodge.

Other objections included the excessive cost of the units and the three sites.

One man said, in a later interview, "I know that Lockney may not be a pimple in comparison with the whole nation, but the nation is broke, the social security program is broke; we're in serious trouble. There is always a day of reckoning. We have got to return to the basics. There has got to be a turnaround. Let it be here."

Some kind of comparison was made throughout the meeting to Lockney Housing Development Corporation which has 10 units. The 10-unit project is not comparable, in that it is privately financed with a low-interest FmHA loan, with a 20-year payback and is not subsidized, although it is for the low income. The units have been completed more than five years.

Linda Lemons, manager, reported that they stay full almost all the time. At the time of interview there was one vacancy. Payments were reported current with money in savings. Last year about $5,000 was spent on a new roof in addition to insurance benefits collected. An addition $4400 was spent on storm doors and windows that were not originally installed. The non-profit organization pays $1600 per year to Floyd County Insurance plus a $94 premium for liability insurance. Other local business generated by the project includes the purchase of stoves and refrigerators and plumbing or carpentry repairs.

Director of Lockney Housing Development Corporation is Carroll Anderson. Claude Brown, is vice president, and board members are Dub Hallmark, Pat Frizzell and Jim Huggins.

The Housing Authority, created in July 1981 has been headed by its chairman, Carroll Anderson, since it was organized in August of that year. He is presently serving with board members Kenneth Tate, Jinna Sue Turner, Claude Brown and Hamilton Gammage.

The six one-bedroom units, as the plan will be submitted to HUD, about April 8 or 9, will be built in three duplexes with access from Washington Street. These are especially designated for the handicapped and elderly. One of them has already been requested orally even though names have not begun to be accepted. Four of the two-bedroom units will gain access from Locust Street. Three duplexes containing the six 3-bedroom units will be built behind the old Baccus Motor Company. Duplexes to be built south of the city hall will have L-shape floor plans consisting of a 2-bedroom and a 4-bedroom unit facing east and south.

Double walls will separate adjoining units. The brick veneer complexes will have composition roofs and off-street parking, at an approximate cost of $50,000 per unit. A separate water line which will be billed separately to the Housing Authority to enable a grounds-keeper to properly maintain the area.

Rent requirements will be based on 30% of the family's income, with a utility allowance for gas, electricity, and water to be deducted from that figure.

The proposed low-rent public housing units were described as single family housing; not migrant housing. Some of the requirements stipulated for tenants to be considered include: the applicant's past performance in meeting financial obligations, especially rent and mortgage payments; records of disturbances to neighbors; records of property destruction; records of past living or housekeeping habits at past residences which may adversely affect the health, safety or welfare of surrounding residents; and a history of criminal activity involving physical violence to persons and/or property and other criminal acts which would adversely affect the health, safety or welfare of other residents in the area.

Anderson said, "Some of our people can pick up extra work where they don't have jobs now. Because there was no ginning season, we need this. The Mackenzie water pipeline should help in this area too."

He went on to add that the construction crews might live in the area during the construction period. "They will certainly buy supplies, gas, and meals here. Business going on is contagious."

The search for natural gas continues in Lockney area

By Pam Armstrong

A seismograph crew working for Cities Service Co. has begun work in the area around Lockney. The purpose of the crew is to collect data to make a geological underground survey of the area. The geologists who will be reading the collected data will be looking for natural gas and oil.

Before the crews can begin their work a permit agent must obtain permission from landowners and leasees, if any, to cross the land in question. Once the permit agent has gotten permission the work can begin. A survey crew is sent to mark the lines that the vibrator trucks will follow. The lines are marked by wooden stakes and also with wire stakes with colored flags attached. Once the lines are marked the seismograph crews come in.

First cables are laid out and staked to the ground. Magnets attached to the stakes will carry information to the transceiver boxes. Wires are attached to these boxes and the dog house truck, which is the data center.

After all the connections have been made, the vibrator trucks can go to work. These trucks run along the lines the survey crews have marked. They run four in a row. They are equipped with a steel pad attached to the underside of the truck. This pad is three inches thick and five feet square. When a radio signal is received the driver lowers the pads to the ground and vibrate the ground for 12 seconds. Vibrations are picked up by the magnets attached to the cable stakes. The data is then transferred through the cables to the remote data acquisition units. These units record the data until the trucks have completed 165 feet of vibrations. When signaled, the information is transferred to the dog house truck which contains the GUS-BUS II, a system containing a memory bank, a correlating system, and a recording oscillograph. The recording oscillograph simply takes the data from the trucks and prints it onto a graph.

The GUS-BUS system used by the Cities Service crew is made by Gus Manufacturing, Inc. of El Paso. The system works on an echo system, picking up sound waves created by the vibrator trucks.

The graphs are sent to geologists who, through mathematic calculations are able to make a picture of the underground area to determine their find.

After the vibrator trucks have finished along the line, a follow-up crew rolls the cable, and picks up the transceiver boxes, and leads them onto trucks until they are needed again.

Don Turner, field observer for the crew, said it had been a pleasure to work in this area because all the landowners had been very cooperative. The crews expect to work another 3-4 weeks in this area.

Lockney takes first in competition

Pam Armstrong
Friday, March 25, students from the Lockney High School traveled to Floydada to compete in the District 3-A one act play competition. The play Hopes, Words and Ordinary Things, written by Ronald Burke, is set in the 1940's, in a park in the spring. The Lockney students won first place and will now advance to area competition at Lubbock Cooper on Saturday, April 9.

Housing authority

Activity begets activity." In addition, he pointed out that the lower income spend more of their dollars in their hometown. "If a certain amount of growth is to be maintained by our town the low income will have to be there. The town cannot afford the higher income people, so they will not come or, if they do, they will not stay."

Anderson was careful to explain that Lockney had been turned down when they applied for Section 8 housing which would subsidize rent in local housing already available, because there was not enough low-rent housing available in Lockney.

"Payment in lieu of taxes could amount up to 10% of the rents, so there should be no reason to raise taxes. A manager and groundskeeper will be hired, their salaries to be paid by HUD from the subsidy and rents."

Claude Brown, an active member of the Housing Authority since its beginning, said he thought the proposed project of over $1 million would be an asset to the town. "We have never had adequate housing. I have been in business for 37 years here and have lost some really good prospective employees because of this."

He said the project should be attractive and well kept. "By the Housing Authority having control over the complex, we could not ask for better. After all, an individual could buy that property and put anything there such as a trailer park, and we would not have any control."

Brown pointed out some definite advantages that had been accomplished by the block grant directed toward improving the target area in the northeast part of Lockney: a paved highway from the Lone Star Highway to Lockney General Hospital for easier access and the collection of back taxes which was required for the residents of that area to receive any improvements. "This project was in the package when the block grant was approved."

Upon contacting Barbara Ellis, consultant for Parkhill, Smith, and Cooper, Inc., of Lubbock, she said the Housing Authority was created for this purpose. When questioned as to when the residents should have expressed their objections, she said they should have been particularly interested at the fall hearings in 1980. "There have been at least 10 opportunities. Notices have been posted at the city hall or published in the newspaper for that very purpose."

All those interested seemed to agree on one thing: If the manager hired for the complex enforces the options that are available, the project can be somewhat successful. Similar projects in Crosbyton and Floydada are reported to be self-sustaining.

Saturday's April 2 election should prove interesting with rumors of write-in candidates and injunctions.

NEW CONSUMERS BOARD MEMBERS are Kenneth Wofford, vice president; Kenneth Brosh, R.C. Mitchell, Billy Joe Turner, Albert Scheele, president; and Kenneth Holt.

JUNIOR VARSITY CHEERLEADERS for the 1983-84 school year are; Lisa Terrell Shandra Bybee, Christy Coffman and Nicki Race.

Students to compete in problem solving

By Pam Armstrong

Eight students from the Lockney Junior High gifted and talented program will journey to Austin to compete in the intermediate division of the Future Problem Solving State Bowl to be held from April 15-17 on the University of Texas campus. The students will be competing in two teams, the highest scoring team is made up of Margie Torres, Matt Mitchell, Boyd Jackson, and Carrie Parrish. The second team consists of Steven Cates, Joel Mitchell, Lisa Terrell, and Julie Davis. Coach for the lockney teams is Carolyn Whittington.

In order to be invited to compete in Austin the students sent in two practice presentations for critique before a third paper was sent in for judging.

The subject for the state competition is "Computers and Finance." The students will research the subject to determine the biggest problem in this area and then through a many step process will find a specific solution to that problem. Each team may study, research and make as many notes as they wish, however they may not take any written material into the actual contest. Once the contest has begun the teams will have three hours to complete a written presentation for judging.

In the intermediate division there were 301 team entries, of those only 33 teams were invited to compete. Most of the other teams were from 5-A schools.

The Future Problem Solving competition was originated by Dr. Paul Torrance. When he discovered that while most college students had the ability to learn factual information they were not capable of creative innovative thinking. Dr. Torrance is also an author of materials for the gifted and talented students.

Texas first entered into the Future Problem Solving competition in 1982 and placed first in the intermediate division in the World Bowl. The team that wins in Austin will compete in the Future Problem Solving World Bowl to be held in Cedar Rapids, Iowa from May 30-June 2.

Lockney Care Center Capers

By Vickie Hutton

The weather is sure unpredictable. We had planned our first picnic of the year last Monday but the weather was too cold so instead we had an indoor picnic. One resident remarked, "The food sure tastes better in different surroundings!"

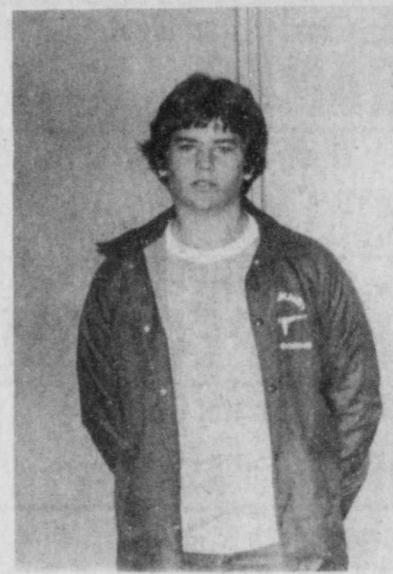

Mary Jo Fielding and Richard Latham were our blackout winners this week. Bingo is one activity we all enjoy. Competition is good for the soul.

We have almost completed making our Easter baskets. They come in two sizes and a variety of colors. We invite everyone to come and see what we have made. Our next project will be making octupuses and monkeys. We are really getting energetic. Olive came Wednesday and brought back the ceramic pieces we had finished two weeks before. It is always a thrill to see the finished piece. Olive really knows how to make ceramics enjoyable.

We would like to welcome Pearl Lanham of Silverton and Nena Loudermilk of Silverton to our family. We are very pleased to have them and hope they will become involved in our activity program very soon.

Lee Atchley and Mary McCracken are in Lockney General Hospital. We hope they are well enough to return home soon. Esker Pyle was able to come home Friday. When a member of our family is in the hospital they are truly missed. Until next time, think spring.

ANDY MURDOCK was the lucky winner of the freshman class drawing in which 100 gallons of gas were given away. The gas will be purchased from R.V. Webster Fina.

Bowling: a striking curiosity

A couple of weekends ago, I had the opportunity to watch a bowling match. This was the second time I have been in a bowling alley and the first time I watched a match in person. I am puzzled by the fact that this is one of the more popular sports in the United States. This is one of the few sports that the ball is neither thrown, kicked, or hit.

Bowling involves skills similar to golf. You must make the ball go where you want it. It also involves a great deal of luck because the ball doesn't just roll straight down the lane. It tends to drift to one side or the other.

People who bowl often, usually have one arm larger than the other. This is because the bowling ball is heavy, weighing about ten pounds. Ten pounds may not sound like much, but after rolling the ball down the lane several times, it gets heavy pretty quick.
