

What kind of year was 1983?

1983 was the year of PIK. PIK (payment in kind) was the government farm program geared to reduce huge government stockpiles of farm commodities, in particular cotton. It is still in question how much PIK helped the government, but it has proved itself for the farmers.

This year weather was a major factor in every season for crop production. This spring when farmers hoped for rain, the sky remained clear and blue which meant farmers had to water young cotton. Then, in the summer when cotton needed hot dry weather, the rains came. With many of the rain storms came damaging high winds and large hail, leaving many area farmers wondering if there would be any cotton left to strip. And in September came the final straw: an early freeze on what appeared to be a good cotton crop. The freeze left much of the cotton damaged, cutting both the quantity and quality of cotton.

Due to having the PIK program many area farmers who otherwise might not have been able to stay in farming for another year were spared. However, the PIK program was not good for everyone connected with farming.

Both seed and fertilizer companies were hurt by the PIK program. Due to PIK, sales of seed and fertilizer showed a definite decrease. Many other businesses also showed a drop in business such as the aerial spraying companies who had a short season because of the reduce acreage brought about by the PIK program and the early freeze.

Wilbur Mize of Mize TV and Pharmacy reported a decrease in appliance sales for the 1983 year. He said that he felt that the drop in sales was due to the "farmers having less money to spend the past year."

He reported that prescription sales remained the same.

Brown's Department Store and Lee's Whites Auto Store reported their sales to have remained about the same.

Claude Brown reported a small increase in Christmas sales this year, but said overall business remained much the same. Carl Lee of White's Auto reported a slight increase in appliance sales over last year, but also said that his business had remained approximately the same. Barry Barker of Barker Real Estate reported that his business had showed an increase in the number of homes sold in town. He said he felt the increase was due to more people moving into town from the farms and from new people moving to Lockney. He also reported that farm sales for 1983 had stayed about the same as last year, along with the insurance phase of his business.

1983 has not been a bad year for tax collections. W.H. Hallmark reported that as of November the Lockney Independent School District had collected 62% of the taxes due as opposed to 59% for the same period in 1982.

Guy Hazlett, administrator of the Lockney General Hospital, reported that the hospital has had a good year. With two days left in the year, Hazlett estimated that deposits for 1983 would be about $1,258,543.00 as opposed to last year's total deposits of $1,161,741.00. This is an 8.3% increase in deposits solely from hospital operation.

Lockney General has also shown an increase in the accounts receivable with a collection rate of 98% for 1983 compared to 94% in 1982 of old and past due accounts. Due to the increased collection rate, the hospital has decreased the amount on the account receivable books from $109,993.00 in 1982 to an estimated $79,000.00 for 1983. A decrease of approximately $30,000.00 on supplies in expenditures has been shown "due to better utilization of the on-hand supplies," according to Hazlett. Several capital improvements were made, including the paving of the south and west parking areas of the hospital in August. Through donations made by the various clubs and organizations in Lockney several new pieces of new equipment were added to the hospital including a cardiac defibrillator monitor and a new infant incubator.

or. A new surgical table and a new paging system were also added.

The City showed an increase in permits issued for 1983. A total increase of $7,772.00 over last year's permits issued. In 1983 eight permits were issued for additions to homes, six for storage buildings, one for a shop, one for a new residence, and three for control buildings for the Mackenzie Water Project.

In 1982 10 permits were issued for home additions, two for storage, seven for mobile homes moved into Lockney, and one for a new residence. 1983 permits totaled $152,365.00 and for 1982 the total was $144,593.00.

Carroll Anderson, president of the First National Bank of Lockney reported that bank deposits for 1983 were down slightly from 1982.

Total deposits for 1982 were $27,408,000.00 and the total deposits for 1983 were $26,222,977.79.

Anderson also reported that the Certificates of Deposit were also down from last year. He said he thought the reason for the decrease was due to "farmers using more of their own money for farming rather than taking out larger bank loans."

Anderson reported that most all of the farmers will be able to pay out this year despite crop problems. He said that the PIK program was the one factor that saved many farmers this year. He also said that farmers required a little less operating money this year due to less spraying and less planted acreage.

Anderson said, "I am optimistic about the future. In the future farmers will be looking at controlled spending in farming and probably more farmers will eventually go to farming techniques that require less tillage. I think the main worry for 1984 is that there will be an overproduction of farm commodities. This will cause lower prices, similar to the 1981 crop year, when farmers had an excellent cotton crop, but they could not sell it at a profit.

3 Floydada women involved in accident

At 10:00 a.m. Tuesday morning Lockney Volunteer Department, Floyd County Highway Patrolman Ray Goodman, and Lockney Police Chief Ken Farrow were called to the scene of an accident 5 miles west of Lockney on Hwy 70 directly in front of the J.R. Belt home.

The car headed west on Hwy 70 and driven by 17 year old Tammy Leatherman of Floydada and carrying passengers Loretta Leatherman and Sandra Pate of Floydada hit a patch of ice on the highway and skidded out of control. A gas meter on the north side of the road was totally wiped out. In the accident the gas tank was torn out of the Leatherman's car.

Loretta Leatherman, mother of the driver, and Sandra Pate, also of Floydada, were passengers in the Oldsmobile. All three of the occupants were running across the road, fleeing the escaping gas from the broken meter when the 15-year-old Pate slipped and fell, striking her head on the highway.

A tractor trailer rig, driven by Anthony Stevens of Denton was approaching from the west. He slammed on the brakes of the truck and swerved to miss the Pate girl, causing the truck belonging to Elvis Long Trucking Company, of Carlton, Texas, to jack-knife and overturn.

Belt heard the impact of the wreck from his home and was one of the first on the scene. He assisted the truck driver out of the truck.

Stevens said, "There was nothing I could have done to avoid the accident. The truck was loaded with 38,000 pounds of corrugated cardboard, and with that much weight on the truck, I knew that the truck would not stop by the time I reached the girl, so I had to swerve the truck away from her."

No major injuries resulted from the accident. The Pate girl was treated for a bump on her head, resulting from her fall on the highway. Tammy Leatherman was treated for shock and released. Stevens was admitted for a short period of time for observation after receiving a gash and a bump on the head. He sustained severe bruises to his back, and one leg was swollen and bruised. Victims were treated at Lockney General Hospital.

DANA MARTINEZ, 2½ year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arcenio Martinez, Jr. of Lockney, is holding her Cabbage Patch Kid, given to her by Santa for Christmas.

Social Security News

by Terry J. Clements

The 1983 Amendments to the Social Security Act included changes that will affect ministers and church employees but in different ways.

Ministers continue to be considered self-employed and not as employees of the church. Therefore, the 1983 amendments that apply to self-employment tax will also apply to ministers. An immediate change, effective 1/1/84, is the increase of the Social Security tax to 11.3 percent of the individual's net earnings. Ministers are not subject to the new rules requiring Social Security coverage for non-profit organizations.

Employees of churches are affected by the provisions of the law dealing with non-profit organizations. Prior to 1/1/84, an organization that was exempt from income tax under section 501 (C) (3) of the Internal Revenue code was also exempt from Social Security coverage. Agencies could become covered under Social Security by filing a waiver of the exemption. However, beginning 1/1/84, all non-profit organizations are mandatorily covered unless some other exception applies. Payments from a non-profit organization must be at least $100 in a calendar year to be considered Social Security wages.

There is also a special provision that allows a "non-profit" employee not previously covered to become insured under Social Security with fewer quarters than would normally be required. The rule is called "deemed" fully insured status and applies to employees who are at least age 55 as of 1/1/84. Using only quarters accrued in 1984 or later, a person can be insured for benefits under the "deemed" provisions according to the table below.

Required quarters (deemed provisions)	Required quarters (regular rules)
Age 60 and over	6 34
Age 59	8 35
Age 58	12 36
Age 57	16 37
Age 55-56	20 38/39

If you have questions concerning this change in the Social Security law please call us at 293-4371. If you need to visit our office our address is 1401-B West 5th Street in Plainview.

AARON HERNANDEZ, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Hernandez of Floydada, was one of the patients in Lockney General Hospital on Christmas Day. All patients in the hospital on Christmas Day were presented Christmas ornaments (bottom of photo) by members of the Templo Bautista Salem Church.

going to ignore this, you're not a super-power any more."

President Reagan has denounced Iran, the Soviet Union, and Syria for their responsibility for violence in Lebanon. The three culprits have called for an American withdrawal from Lebanon. Abdallah Bouhabib said that the Soviet Union would love to see Western forces out of Lebanon.

The Lebanese are people hardened by a civil conflict that has claimed at least 50,000 in the past decade. Since the American and French bombings measures have been taken to improve the Marines security. One possibility is that much of the 1,600-man Marine force will be moved from Beirut airport to a less exposed location. A senior U.S. aide explains the Marine presence as being one of "symbolic" nature. He said, "What is important is that Gemayel can wake up in the morning and know we are around. But anywhere near Beirut will do."

Abdallah Boirhabib, the Ambassador and Lebanese Ambassador to the U.S. was recently interviewed. He was asked how should the U.S. eliminate the Syrians from Lebanon. He replied that America is a superpower not only because it has talented diplomats but also it has a strong military and economic power as well. So if you're

The German people have always intrigued me. However, today West Germany is a divided, unhappy nation, preoccupied with the U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms race and the deployment of American Pershing 2 missiles on German soil. Wolfgang Roth, deputy leader in Parliament, says they are terrified that Germany, bordering the Soviet block, will be the first battlefield in any military conflict, between East and West. Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany, in spite of political pressures, still supports deploying Pershings to counter the Soviet nuclear arsenal. There was an argument signed in Bonn on December 6, that stated that German troops will man a missile system which will defend American military forces in West Germany.

Many German youths are becoming disillusioned over the course their country is taking and are less impressed by America's wealth and the efficiency of U.S. military troops based in West Germany. The older Germans have a friendly attitude towards the Americans. They remember that the United States helped rebuild their country with Marshall Plan aid and later airlifted supplies to West Berlin when the city was isolated by Soviet forces. Maybe the day will come when German youths will appreciate their democracy. Despite all their trials and tribulations, I think of the German people as being synonymous with Strauss' classical "The Blue Danube."

Happy New Year to you! I hope you had a nice Christmas like I did. Lori came down for the resident Xmas party, and we drove home after the party was over. Tim, our older son who lives in Austin, flew up Xmas Eve. Larry and Dani drove up Xmas Day. So we had all our family together.

The Rev. Michael O'Connor's

Perspectives

An interesting letter to the editor appeared in Sunday's Lubbock paper. A man had written in to complain about some ministers who are breaking the law on the grounds of religious belief. The specific instances were a priest who was withholding half of his income tax because he felt he could not support the military portion of the government's budget. The other instance concerned a pastor who has opened his church to illegal immigrants from South America, giving them sanctuary, that is to say, he would protect them from immigration authorities and the police.

It was the writer's contention that these ministers, and others like them, and there are many like them these days, were violating the law, which christians should not do. He pointed out that Jesus said to render to Caesar the things that were Caesar's and to God that which was God's. The Bible also enjoins believers to submit to earthly governments because they are given authority from God. It should be remembered that all the governments these people knew about in Bible times were essentially what we would now call oppressive.

This concept of breaking the law is known as "civil disobedience." The basic concept is that if a law is unjust, or violates one's personal beliefs, one is bound to disobey it. The resulting punishment gives one the forum to proclaim one's belief that the law is unjust. If enough people join you in your cause, then perhaps the law will be changed. It is an old, old concept which is finding increasing popularity.

For instance, the draft dodgers of the late sixties and early seventies were exercising civil disobedience, as are those who refuse to sign up for the draft today. Some conservative groups practice civil disobedience when they refuse, as Lester Roloff once did, to obtain state licenses to operate institutions they run, or to get teacher certification for the teachers in their schools. Well known evangelical writer Francis Schaffer, along with his son and others from the L'Abri movement Schaeffer founded, believe we may well be in a time when civil disobedience is the only way to get our government to change its mind on abortion.

The sanctuary movement and the tax protest movements are a curious blend of both liberal and conservative religious groups. They are not always, of course, protesting the same things, especially in the tax protest groups, but they are using essentially the same techniques, and the same justifications. Interestingly, the liberal elements usually think conservatives are dead wrong in their reasoning, and the same holds true in reverse.

The question then remains: is civil disobedience a proper course of action for the Christian, and if it is, when is it proper? We will look at the question in detail next week.
