Lockney prepares for the computer age

Adult classes offered

Starting February 6 Lockney High School will be holding adult computer classes. Teacher for the class, LaDora Afill and high school principal, James Poole, were hoping to have enough adults interested in the class to hold two classes of 11 people each. However, they were not counting on the response being so great.

As of Monday 63 people had signed up for the classes. At the present time Mrs. Afill is planning to hold four classes between now and the time school gets out in May. She also said that it might be necessary to schedule two classes the first few weeks of summer to accommodate all of the people who have signed up for the classes.

The classes are scheduled for 2½ hours per night, on Monday and Thursday nights for four weeks. Those taking the classes will receive 20 hours of instruction and all of that time will be spent at the computers.

Lockney is apparently the first town in the area to offer computer classes outside the college level for adults and several people have signed up not only from Lockney, but also from Plainview and Floydada.

Those taking the classes will be instructed in basic computer programming, much the same as the high school students are learning. Mrs. Afill had given some thought to offering an advanced class if there were enough people interested after the basic classes were completed but as it stands now she is only worried about getting all of the people signed up for the basic classes taught. The advanced class may have to wait until a later date.

The 1980's have been referred to as the computer fad era. 1980 has seen an increase in the sale of home computers for home bookkeeping, home sales people, and also to farmers, all of whom find it easier to keep complete detailed records of business transactions.

The home computer can be used for several different things. To some a home computer brings to mind a gadget that attaches to the TV set to play games on. Others have found it to be a great source of help in home record keeping.

Many computers are being purchased for educational purposes also. The Lockney school system has 15 computers for student use. The junior high has four and principal Raymond Lusk added that they hope to add more. The high school has 11. All the computers used in the Lockney school system are from Radio Shack.

The teaching of computers in the Lockney school system puts us somewhat ahead for if a bill pending before the Texas house is passed it will require students going toward an academic diploma to have one credit in computer literacy.

Some have said the computer age is coming but it has been here for some time, from the digital alarm clock that wakes us up in the morning, to microwave ovens and childrens toys. Even the newer cars on the market have computerized options.

The computer age is definitely here and Lockney has a head start for students and adults by offering computer literacy courses.

A tour of 8 European countries

Our September Song ...

Editor's Note: The following is an account given by Faye Barker, in cooperation with Dottie Stansell, of the travels by Art and Faye Barker of Lockney and Dewitt and Roberta Seago of Arlington in the European countries during the month of September 1983. The Seagos are former residents of Lockney and Floydada. This is the third account of several that will be printed in the upcoming editions of the paper.

After breakfast we went by bus around the lake through small villages of Swiss Chalets to the depot where we boarded a cogwheel railway to lofty Mt. Rigi. We ate lunch at the top and shared that time with the Seago's and our new friends the Chanoch Lautmans from Natania, Israel. They had joined our group in Paris and they seemed to themselves most of the time. We learned later that his wife spoke very little English, but he spoke several languages. German being his native tongue. One day on the bus Art offered Chanoch some fresh fruit, and he immediately returned the favor with a selection of dried fruit they had brought with them from their homeland. Later they gave us pastries she had made. They were tiny, barely sweetened date and fruit filled, different and delicious.

This day the six of us shared a round table as we ate the most generous servings and the best tasting soup and sandwiches anyone can imagine.

It was very cool, misty and cloudy that day and we were denied our view from the top. There were groups of young children in their typical Swiss clothes, short leather pants, boots and caps for hiking. It was a time we will long remember as we listened to Chanoch talk in broken English. "It doesn't make any difference if we don't see from the mountain top, what we see is much better, all those children having such a happy time growing up."

He had come from "the camps" - the concentration camps of Germany since he and his family were German Jews. He had lost his entire family during the Holocaust and after spending seven years of his life in the camps he weighed 73 lbs. when he was released by the Americans.

He loved America, and had given their youngest son a trip to America, at the end of his required military service to Israel. His wife was from Jerusalem, and had served in the military also and they had met when he was sent to a hospital in Israel. They were an interesting couple and we had a Christmas greeting note from them with a begging invitation to visit them in Israel.

The trip down the mountain was made by cable car and as soon as we broke through the clouds, the view was breathtaking as we hung high over those Alps, coming down toward the lake. Across the lake was a very private, very steep and very expensive mountain. Royalty has large homes there as well as Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. Now I wonder how they split that and how many times.

The afternoon was free for shopping and looking and chocolate sampling. We rode the streetcars to our hotel and back. If only we could stop all those Swiss watches, for time was passing all

Chamber of Commerce banquet set for March 2

The date for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet has been set for March 2. The banquet will be held in the elementary cafeteria and will start at 7:00 p.m.

In addition to the annual selection of a Man and Woman of the Year, the Chamber will also be selecting an Outstanding Family of the Year. Clubs, churches, and individuals and organizations in Lockney are urged to nominate persons and families they feel are worthy of this recognition. Chamber of Commerce selection committee members have indicated that it is a rewarding experience for those nominated for these prestigious community awards, but also for the members of the Chamber for recognizing outstanding citizens for their outstanding services to the Lockney community.

Recognition of the outstanding citizens is an annual event sponsored by the Lockney Chamber of Commerce.

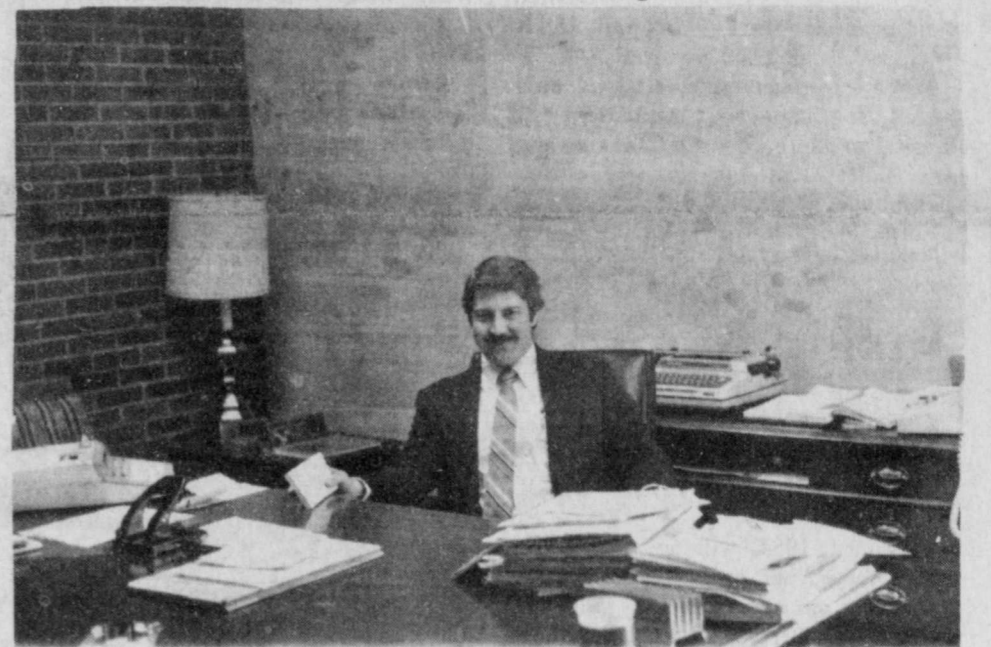

Members of the selection committee will meet February 23 at the First National Bank in Lockney at 7:30.

Nominations for Outstanding Man, Woman, and Family of the Year must be in the hands of the chairman (Raymond Lusk) by February 22. They may be mailed in, handed to the chairman in person, or may be turned into any member of the Chamber of Commerce. No letters will be accepted the night of the selection committee meeting.

Tickets for the annual event are on sale now from any member of the Chamber and are priced at $5.00 each.

Speaker for this year's banquet will be Kenneth Wyatt, western artist and ex preacher of Tulia.

Make plans now to attend the banquet and support the Chamber in this annual endeavor. Also be there to support this year's selections of our Outstanding Citizens.

KIM KING

Kim King joins staff of First National Bank

For those who have recently visited the First National Bank, you may have noticed a new face. Joe Kim King began his duties as a loan officer on January 2.

King comes to Lockney from Brady, Texas, where he worked for the Brady National Bank as a loan officer for four years.

King comes to Lockney with his wife of seven years, Robin, and their son Riley. The Kings are no strangers to the West Texas area. Robin is a Brownfield native and King attended Texas Tech University in Lubbock. He graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Animal Science in 1976. While at Tech, he served as the Red Raider mascot.

He also attended A&M University and graduated from there with a Master's Degree in agriculture.

After graduation from college, he wanted to stay in the Brady area near his family and was given the opportunity to work for the Brady National Bank. He had some experience in land appraisal and also had an interest in ranching. After having worked for the bank for some time, he found the work interesting and decided to continue in the banking field.

In addition to his work, King enjoys horses and anything to do with ranching and agriculture. He has some ranching interests in Brady and he and his father, a veterinarian in Brady, have some land which they were working together.

When asked why he chose Lockney, King said that after interviewing with several banks, Lockney impressed him. He said he "liked the overall operation of the bank and liked the people connected with the bank, especially Carroll Anderson, president of the First National Bank." He also stated that he felt that he had alot to give to the operation of the bank. King said that he has been busy since his first day on the job and he enjoys his work.

When asked how he liked Lockney, King said that he and Robin have found the town and the people very enjoyable.

15 students chosen for All-Region

Hale Center was the site for the 1, 2, and 3 A North Zone All-Region Band tryouts. The tryouts were held January 14 and seven Lockney High School students were chosen to play with the All-Region Band in a concert that was held Saturday at Lubbock's Monterey High School.

Those chosen for the band were Tamara Elam, tenth chair flute; Betty Kay Cates, fourteenth chair clarinet; Paul Castro, second chair baritone; Julie Davis, twelfth chair corone; Keith Owens, trap set; Jason Hill, tenth chair trombone; and Monty Teeter, first alternate baritone.

Participants rehearsed daily. They played in the concert Saturday night.

Several Lockney Junior High students were also involved in All-Region tryouts. Tryouts for the Class Junior High All-Region Band were held Saturday, January 21, in Otton. Eight students from Lockney were named to the band.

They include Kathy Davis, first chair clarinet; Margie Torres, third chair clarinet; Tricia Steele, fourth chair bass clarinet; Ruth Elaine Wilson, first chair tenor saxophone; Maria Saucedo, seventh chair french horn; Joel Mitchell, fourth chair trombone; Boyd Jackson, seventh chair tuba; and Clay Adrian, first alternate alto saxophone.

Congratulations to all of these students on their hard work and efforts.

I'm not sure the world is getting much better, but one thing is certain. It sure is changing.

We are indebted to an ad in the Wall Street Journal for the information that the Intel Corporation has developed a device designed to make contented cows even more contented, not to mention the dairy farmer who owns the cows. According to the ad, a tiny "transducer" is strapped to the cow's neck. When she enters the barn door, a signal is sent to a microchip somewhere nearby, and the feed for that particular cow is properly mixed and doled out in her feeding stall. It's all based on the individual cow's personal history, her metabolism and whatever. She is supposed, thereby, to get a perfectly balanced diet and produce to her optimum capacity, poor thing. When she is finished, a signal flashes and the door opens for her to head for the pasture. I suppose what she eats there is her own business.

The Intel Corporation paid the Wall Street Journal about $7,000 to bring us that news in a full page ad.

I learned most of what I needed to know about dairy cows when I was a kid, many years ago. Primarily, I learned there was probably an easier way to make a living. But the ad did remind me of the importance of reading the ads. When I first started out in the newspaper business, as a farm reporter, I developed the usual bias that editorial or news types have against the advertising side of our operation. Those of us who spent our days trying to ferret out things we thought the people ought to know resented the seeming favor heaped on the paper's advertising personnel by our publisher. Later, when I became the editor, it all came to a head in a discussion with the Publisher, who promptly sat me down and educated me with some revealing statistics. Many surveys, or polls as they are now called, indicated that a very large percentage of those who buy newspapers, do so to read the ads. People do want the news. They do want to know what is happening, but they also want to know who is selling what, and where the best place is to buy what they want. The statistics were somewhat startling to a young reporter who thought the world was out there hanging on his every word, but I always try to adjust to reality.

It was all brought back home a few months ago, when I told my wife to cancel our subscription to the Austin American-Statesman, now probably the sorriest newspaper in the entire state. The paper is now owned by a giant out-of-state corporation based in Atlanta, Georgia, and residents of Austin are treated to daily tirades against the president and all his policies. They would criticize him if he committed suicide by shooting himself. They would complain that he should have done it with a knife.

But my wife objected. She needed the paper for the ads. How would she know where to shop for the best bargains when she was in Austin? (She does the same thing in Floyd County.) So we still take the Austin paper. She reads the ads when we are in Austin and I read other papers. When we are in Floyd County we have no problem. We both like the ads, and neither of us complain about the editorials.

In times like these.....

By Mary Jo Fielding

Here it is January of 1984, and the U.S. and its allies are preparing additional security precautions - not only in the Mideast but at home as well. Events in this year such as the Los Angeles Summer Olympic Games, the New Orleans World's Fair, and the national political conventions are possible targets for terrorists. A bomb in December damaged a Navy's recruiting center on Long Island. The group claiming credit was a terrorist organization opposed to U.S. intervention in Latin America.

The Secret Service has added 200 agents to help protect presidential candidates and many, many foreign dignitaries who will attend the 1984 Olympics. The games will be played under the heaviest security ever.

Measures are under way to tighten security at the White House and other public buildings. Now there are permanent concrete barricades at the White House, the State Department, and the U.S. Mission to the United Nations. They are there to prevent vehicles loaded with explosives from crashing through entrances. At the White House dogs sniff trucks and cars for bombs, and even officials are screened by metal detectors.

At the Marine headquarters in Beirut, where a truck bomb killed more than 240 men last October security is so tight that in December 15 Marines fired on a cab that by mistake had been driven through an unauthorized entrance. Its Lebanese driver and a television reporter from North Carolina were wounded.

Other governments also acted. At the presidential palace in Paris the gates were closed and patrols added to streets where key officials live. Japanese police stepped up surveillance of groups suspected of violence.

In the U.S. Senator Daniel Maynihnan stated, "The prospect of 1984 being the year they bring the war to our shores is real."

February, 1984, will be an exciting month for us her at the Care Center. Along with our other activities, we have a Valentine's Party scheduled February 14th. To get our residents and employees in the mood for Valentine's, we are having a Share Our Love Door Decorating Contest. The residents and employees will choose partners to help decorate the individual doors in the Care Center. There will be an impartial person to come and judge the doors. Prizes will be awarded during our party at 2:00 p.m. We will also crown a King and Queen of Hearts and a Sweetheart Employee during the party. We will be honored to have our families come and share this event with us. Spend the afternoon with one of our special sweethearts and share your love.

During January, we had several new residents come to join our family here. We want a chance to welcome them and let the rest of our families become aware of our new admissions.

Wilber Miller, a life-long resident of Lockney, is now residing in room 3A and is a very congenial gentleman. He enjoys taking part in all the various activities here at the Center and never misses one of our Monday afternoon bus trips. Wilber is 86 years young.

Texie Jo Clark, a life-long resident of the Flomot area, resides in room 13B. Texie has not been with us very long. She has known many of the other residents always from Quitaque and Silverton. We are glad to have Texie with us and hope she is enjoying our activities and visiting with old acquaintances.

Juan B. Sanchez, a new resident from Plainview, came to live with us last week. He is residing in room 2B. Juan enjoys taking part in most of the activities and interacts real well with the other residents. Juan's granddaughter, Jane Martinez, is one of our medication aides. I know they enjoy seeing one another as often as they do now.

Betha Cunyus, a local resident of Lockney, was transferred to the Care Center last week from Methodist Hospital where she had been recovering from a broken hip and broken wrist. She will be staying with us while she is convalescing from her broken hip and wrist. We are very glad to have her as part of our family.

We, the residents and staff of Lockney Care Center, would like to express sincere sympathy to the family and loved ones of Melvin Thacker.

South Plains News

by Mrs. Murray Julian
 South Plains, January 30:
 The whole past week has been sunny although cold and windy, with snow melting slowly in the streets of the towns around. The parking areas were icy and dangerous, but now are about back to normal. The sun looks so good.
 Mrs. Ruby Higginbotham went to Lubbock on Saturday to spend the week end with her son Bud Higginbotham, and she was to be home Sunday night. We understand that Bud has a new location with his store, and we wish him the best of luck.
 There will be Treflan meeting at the South Plains office of the Lockney Coop Tuesday noon, January 31, with a dinner of fish and fin, and a short meeting to follow this. All members are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartman and Ann are getting their lovely new home ready for occupancy east of outh Plains, on the spot where the former Hartman home place stood. Their home is a two bedroom home, and they will be moving there when it is ready. We wish them happiness there, and it is so good to see a house go up where the farm house originally stood.

Don Dell Mulder of Albuquerque, New Mexico came here Friday night with in his truck, so that he could get the windmill that stood so long on the Arby Mulder place, and was used for so many years. He has been visiting Mrs. Letha Mulder, his aunt, and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Mulder and children over the week end. Don Dell will put up the windmill in his yard at Albuquerque.

Mrs. Jewel Fortenberry had the misfortune to fall and hurt herself in the recent cold spell, and was taken to the Lockney General Hospital on Monday, January 23rd. We understand she had a broken pelvic bone, and we send our best wishes, and hope she can soon be able to get back on her feet again.

We all miss Mrs. Vera Rogers at the Baptist Church where she has been a regular, and we find she is in Lubbock with her daughter, Mrs. Oddie Probasco, and is helping her. Mrs. Rogers was at her home in Lockney a short time the past week end.

Mr. Otho Sanders was taken to the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock January 17th, on Tuesday, after he had fallen in his home. Drs. found he had broken his hip in two places. His wife, Ophelia Sanders, has been with him as other members of his family have, but he is getting along as well as possible. We are very sorry to learn of his illness, the Sanders have had so many sorrows recently, in the death of Iva's father, and with Curtis, Richard and Roger's grandmother's death, Mrs. C.E. Bartlett.

The South Plains Hobby Club will have the February meeting of the Hobby Club at the home of Mrs. Navolia Kinslow on February 8th, at 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday, with a program on candle wicking.

Mrs. Maurine Parks of South Plains is home again after knee surgery last week at Lubbock. We are sending best wishes to her, and Sparky.

We wish to send congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. C.V. Blake of Lubbock who are parents of their first child, a son, who was born to them on Christmas Day, December 25. He was named Bryan Paul, and he weighed seven pounds, 2 ounces and was 21 inches long. The baby now weighs 9 pounds, 8 ounces. C.V. lived here at South Plains with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Fred Blake. C.V. is attending Texas Tech University at this time.

Coming to visit their new grandson and their daughter, Mrs. Atha and Sheldon Sue, and Mr. and Mrs. C.V. Blake and the baby are Rev. Fred and Jenet Blake from Winslow, Arkansas, where he pastoring a church. The Blakes arrived Thursday of last week, and will be here about a week.

Tuesday evening here at South Plains the Scouts will hold their Blue and Gold Banquet at the Baptist Church in the recreation room, or Fellowship Hall.

JESSICA MARKS goes up for 2 as the 7th grade girls played Post last week. The girls lost by only 1 point.

JV boys come up short

The junior varsity boys took on the Slaton JV last Tuesday in Slaton. The JV lost the game, with a final score of 58-22. Coach Randy Josey said, "this was the poorest game the boys have played this year. They had cold shooting trouble, and he said that foul trouble was also a contributing factor for the poor showing against Slaton in the game."

High pointers for the game were Johnny Torrez with 8, David Sutterfield with 5, Joe Torrez and Ricardo Bernal with 3 each, Manuel Rendon with 2, and Ted Flores with 1.

Women to learn firearms

Lockney Police Dept. will sponsor a firearms class for women in the Lockney area interested in learning basic skills with a handgun for self defense. Only 20 participants will be accepted; if more interest is exhibited, a second class will be taught.

The class will be instructed by Lockney Police Sergeant Ray Macha. He is a certified police firearms instructor recognized by the State of Texas and the National Rifle Association. The class will be open to women who reside in the Lockney area.

The course will require 10-15 hours of class and range time. Classes will be held in the evenings during the latter part of February 1984. The exact dates and location will be announced at a later date.

The course will include such topics as how does a handgun operate, safety, Texas law concerning handguns and the use of deadly force, and actual range instruction which will require the student to perform with a handgun satisfactorily. There will be a small fee of approximately $25.00 to pay for the expenses/equipment for the course.

In cities across the nation, such courses have been taught to women, resulting in lowered incidents of residential burglaries and attacks on females in their homes when such courses were publicized.

"It is the goal of Lockney police dept. to help in the prevention of crime," said Ken Farrow, police chief. "We feel that a large response to this course will be a detriment to criminal behavior directed at females, and homeowners. Women interested in this class are asked to contact the police dept. during regular business hours at 652-3548 or call Ray Macha at 983-2401 and leave your name, address, and phone number to reserve a place in the school."

Varsity lose to Childress

The Lockney Longhorns boys have yet to score a win in district play. Friday night the boys played against the Childress Bobcats and scored another loss. Final score of the game was Childress 71-Lockney 50.

Coach Randy Josey said that the boys played a poor defense in the game. He said that the boys did play very well in the first and fourth quarters but that they have not played a good four quarter game in a while. The coach also said that Buffo Rodriguez played an excellent offensive game scoring 23 points. Buffo was followed by Ritchie Thornton with 8, Jackie Cunyas with 6, Brent Hallmark with 4, Jerald Johnson with 3, and Abel Salas, Scott Poole and Paul Moats all with 2 points each.

Slaton defeats Varsity

The Varsity boys traveled to Slaton last Tuesday. The Horns came home with another loss for this season with the final score being Lockney 47 and Slaton 71. Coach Josey said, "The Horns hustled throughout the game, but couldn't withstand the fourth quarter of Slaton." He also commented,

"Ritchie Thornton and Buffo Rodriguez played very well until they fouled out of the game."

Scoring for the Horns were Ritchie Thornton with 13; Buffo Rodriguez, 12; Paul Moats, 10; Brent Hallmark, 6; and Scott Poole, Abel Salas, and Jerald Johnson, 2 points each.

JV boys win over Childress

The Lockney Junior Varsity boys rediscovered their winning ability in Friday afternoon's game against Childress. The boys won the game with a score of 38-20, over the Bobcats.

Coach Randy Josey said the boys came back in the second half and played like they had earlier in the year. "They blew the game open in the fourth quarter outscoring the Bobcats 17 to 3", he said.

High pointers for the game were Johnny Torrez and Raymon Cortez, both with 11 followed by Joe Torrez with 8, and Manuel Rendon. David Sutterfield, Ronnie Ford, and Ricardo Bernal all with 2 points each.

GWEN LANE passes the ball to Lacinda Mahagan in last weeks 8th grade game against Post.

Coach's Comments

By Nancy Reay
Another week of basketball - two more district games past. The Varsity girls have been playing outstanding defense. Tuesday night against Slaton we lost by 15 points playing a good man to man defense but then only shooting 30 percent from the field and 50 percent from the free throw line. Fouls got us into trouble as 3 starters fouled out in the fourth quarter and we had 22 team fouls on us compared to their six team fouls. I was encouraged in how well we did do on our defense and generally played the entire game. Then Friday night we lost to Childress again by 6 points. We played weak 2nd and 3rd quarters and were down by 17 points with 2 minutes, 38 seconds left - we started a come back here scoring 13 points compared to their 2 points but it was just too late. Shawnda Brock really started doing well scoring all 10 of her points in the final minutes of the game.

McCormick and Holt each had 8, while Foster had 7 against Childress. Against Slaton, Karyn Foster was high point with 14, while McCormick and Holt had 6 apiece and Brock and Carthel each too soon. The main dish at dinner was der wiensniztel, which is really very tender veal inside with a crusty outside. European der wiensniztel is always veal. After dinner we went to a Swiss fondue party in the cellar of a hotel downtown. It was a Trroelen evening for a small group and everyone participated in the fun. The excitement of the evening followed us back to our hotel where we and the Seago's climbed those 6 flights of stairs to our charming attic rooms. Looking back on our day in Switzerland, Art and I soon had the map on the table looking for the nearest airport to see how that someday soon we could perhaps return to beautiful Lucerne.

these ideas, but separately. Gabriel's daughters name was Mercedes and she was killed in an accident. When Benz and Gabriel's sons merged it became Mercedes Benz. The laurel became the three pointed star insignia that the Count had earlier written his wife saying that one day this product would rule the traffic of the land, air and sea. Between East and West Germany is barbed wire and mines. East Germany has little traffic because of the economy. Only eleven imported cars in one year. Our guide said, "Wouldn't it be a good idea to ship out any dissatisfied liberals in your country and let them live in East Germany for six months, and they would become converted conservatives?"

FROM SWITZERLAND the Barkers went to Germany. There they saw many interesting sights like the Heidelberg Castle pictured here.

We went past the 13th Century castle which was the summer residence of the Bishops of Nice. Many of the vineyards here looked blue because of blue nylon that was over them to keep the birds off them. This is a sign of a better crop and these grapes are left on the vine to crystallize naturally to make a better and more expensive wine. After passing many castles, we crossed the Rhine into Frankfurt which looks almost out of place in this Old World. It is a city completely destroyed during the war and rebuilt in a very modern way.

After an enjoyable dinner, Art and I sat in the lobby for some time and visited with the Lautmans from Israel. We listened as he conversed in German with the desk clerks and others in the hotel. Even back here in Germany where he had suffered so, he said he had no bitterness towards the Germans, but he did say that it of course had left its scars. How can we ever complain here in America? We were so proud of being American and felt a real surge of loyalty to our U.S. of A.

After a night at a big and modern American Holiday Inn, we feasted on a huge American breakfast, but kinda missed those hard cold rolls!
