Two 4-H students and one FFA student take top three places in Lockney Show

Adrian, Golden, and Sutterfield take top honors

The Lockney Junior Livestock Show was highlighted this year by a new award being given by the Silver Spurs Rodeo Club. The award is a traveling award that will be presented annually to a Lockney student who takes a show animal from purchase to show and does all the work himself to prepare and take care of the animal.

This year's winner was senior Gary Bigham. Bigham will keep the award until next year when it will be presented to another student.

A brief rundown of how the Lockney show came out is: the Grand Champion barrow was shown by Erin Adrian and the reserve Grand Champion was shown by Ricky Brotherton. The barrow Showmanship award went to Wymon Rexrode.

In the lamb division the grand champion was shown by David Sutterfield and the reserve was shown by Eric Anderson. The lamb Showmanship award went to Gwen Lane.

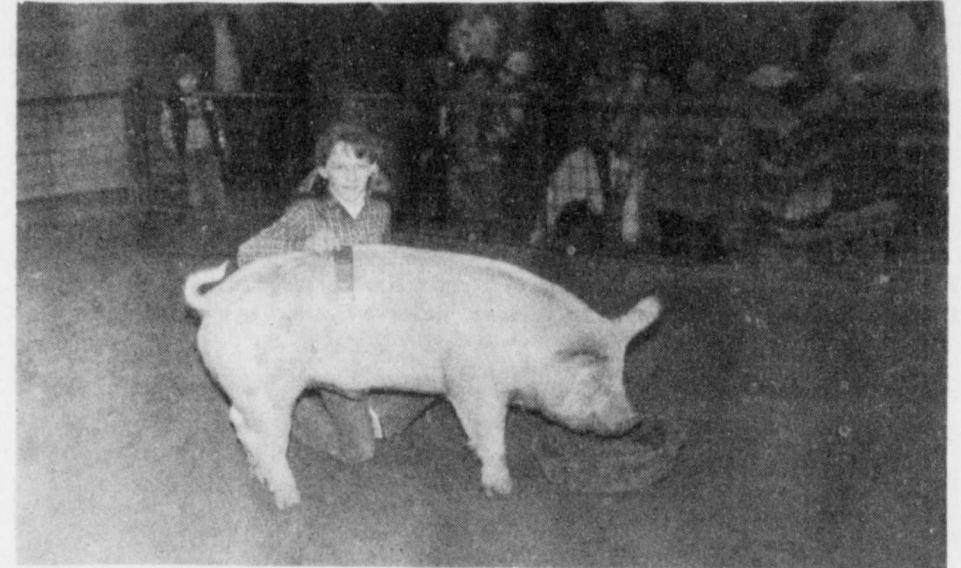

The Golden family showed both the grand and reserve champion steers. The grand champion was shown by Chad Golden and the reserve was shown by Colt Golden. Showmanship in the steer division went to Gary Bigham.

More complete results and pictures follow in the Beacon.

The Floyd County Stock Show will wind down with the awards banquet held tonight in the Lockney Elementary Cafeteria and is sponsored by the Floyd County Farm Bureau.

CLAR SCHACHT presents Gary Bigham with the new award from the Silver Spurs Rodeo Club. This is a traveling award and will be given annually.

ERIN ADRIAN: 1st place Crosses, Breed Champion Crosses, Grand Champion Barrow.

Lockney school board extends four contracts

In the regular meeting the Lockney Independent School board voted to extend the contracts of R.L. Knox, elementary school principal, Raymond Lusk, junior high principal, James Poole, high school principal, and Bob Pursler, athletic director and head coach thru 1986.

They also approved G.B. Johnston Jr. to act as the election judge for the April election.

In other action the board approved the 1984-85 school calendar and the resolution to tax automobiles. The students will attend school 175 days, including 22 days of teachers work days, Christmas holidays, and comp days. For full details refer to the school calendar.

James Whitis, band director, was present to discuss his band program with the board. Whitis said that the 2-A rating would be an asset to the band program in that the band will now be competing with bands who have a comparable number of band members. He said that he felt that the band had improved due in part to his improvement as a teacher and also that the students' attitude had improved. Whitis volunteered his budget would be less for the next year because the band needed no new equipment. He did stress that the band library is out of date and that he was going to concentrate on up-dating it with new music.

Whitis told the board that the band boosters are considering purchasing new uniforms for the band department. The present uniforms are seven years old and need to be replaced soon. The new uniforms will cost about $200 each, and it may be a while before the band boosters will have all the necessary funds but they are working toward that goal.

The board discussed and instructed the building committee to meet and draw up some specifications on completing the closing in of the windows in junior high and high school. The building committee will also be discussing redoing the high school classroom walls. The walls would be done in the same manner as the halls in high school.

The board also voted to increase the fee for the drivers' education classes. The past fee was $40.00 and has now been raised to $75.00, which will cover the classroom and driving instruction. The teachers' rate was also raised from $5.00 per hour to $7.50 per hour.

Discussion was brought before the board to offer adult Spanish classes. These classes would be taught by Mr. Vera. He has taught some Spanish classes during the teachers in-service classes in the summer months; therefore he is equipped with all the necessary materials to teach these classes.

The board also discussed the great response to the adult computer classes. There are 96 people signed up for the class and the first session was started on February 6 with La Dora Aull teaching the classes.

Those present for the meeting were Eddie Foster, Eddie Teeter, Bill Race, Jim Bob Martin, Clar Schacht, Keith Jackson, superintendent W.H. Hallmark, and principals James Poole and Raymond Lusk.

Kenneth Wyatt to speak at annual Chamber banquet

Kenneth Wyatt, renowned Western artist of Tulia, Texas, will be the featured speaker for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held March 2 at the Lockney Elementary Cafeteria at 7:00 p.m.

Wyatt, an ordained Methodist minister, deacon and elder who pastored his first church at the age of 14 in Stephenville, Texas, and since has pastored in 10 other Texas churches until 1971 when he retired to paint after discovering a talent he didn't know he had. He retired from the ministry at that time and began painting full time.

Wyatt describes himself as a writer, poet, and artist working in oils, pastels, watercolor, pencil, charcoal, and sculpture. His works for the public include originals, prints, Christmas cards, greeting cards, note cards, limited edition prints, and limited edition bronze sculpture.

Wyatt's works are owned by such personalities as the President of the United States, the Queen of England, movie personalities, religious leaders, political figures, and nationally recognized foundations and collections.

Wyatt has recently finished a Bicentennial painting commemorating the 200th year of the American Methodist denomination. In the painting John Wesley is sending the Rev. Thomas Coke to America to ordain Francis Ashbury. Prints of the 4x6 foot painting will be offered to each of the United Methodist Churches in the United States to commemorate Jubilee year.

Wyatt's accomplishments, in addition to being a renowned artist, include being the first President of the Texas Cowboy Artist Association, Cultural Representative from Texas to the Bicentennial Celebration in Philadelphia, West Texas Chamber of Commerce Cultural Achievements award, and the Tulia Man of the Year in 1979.

As an artist, Wyatt has received several award including Best Water Color award in 1976-1977-1978 at the Texas Cowboy Artists Annual Show and in 1978 he also received the Best Oil and the Best of Show.

Wyatt owns the Y-8 Bronze Foundry and the Y-8 Publishing Company, both located in Tulia.

He is an interesting and entertaining speaker so make plans to attend the banquet and hear him.

The banquet will be highlighted by the naming of the 1983 Man and Woman of the Year, and for the first time the Chamber will also recognize a Family of the Year.

The meal for the evening will consist of chicken fried steak, creamed potatoes, green beans, cole slaw, apple cobbler, hot rolls, and tea, to be prepared by the lunchroom staff. Members of the Lockney Homemaking Department will serve.

Tickets are $5.00 per person so make plans to attend the banquet and see your friends and neighbors be recognized for their outstanding community service.

CLAR SCHACHT of Floyd County Farm Bureau presents Assltant Lockney Fire Chief, Craig Ellison, with a check for $150.00.

Fire Department receives 150.00 from Farm Bureau

The Lockney Volunteer Fire Department received a check for $150.00 recently from Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies as an expression of thanks for the Department's work on the property of Buster Terrell.

The money will be used for their purchase of equipment.

The Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies pay fire departments this amount when the department works at a fire in rural areas, involving property insured by them.

The Insurance Company believes fire departments have contributed to reduce the amount of loss involved by fire and more importantly, to prevent fires. It is their hope this money will help the Lockney Volunteer Fire Department in their program.

Our September Song...

Editor's Note: The following is an account given by Faye Barker, in cooperation with Dottie Stansell, of the travels by Art and Faye Barker of Lockney and Dewitt and Roberta Seago of Arlington in the European countries during the month of September 1983. The Seagos are former residents of Lockney and Floydada. This is the sixth account of several that will be printed in the upcoming editions of the paper.

Cornwall, is famous for its clotted cream which is so good! No part of this area is more than 12 to 13 miles from the sea and is known as the English Riviera because of its beaches in seaside resorts with picturesque cliffs over fishing villages on one side and the wide expanses of moorland on the other. We looked out at St. Michael's Mount which was a fortified Benedictine house (14th century). The castle seems to grow out of the 200 ft. high crag with the village and a small harbour clinging to the rock at the foot. It is a complete island at high tide, but one can walk across at low tide and by the English Channel.

The chief town of the Cornish Riviera is Penzance, a lively resort and shopping center which attracts visitors in both summer and winter. We thought of the Pirates of Penzance as we looked at this old and beautiful place. It has a population of 14,500 and here the train terminates, for it is only 10 more miles to Land's end. The Harbor is full of small boats with larger ships further out. There is a large swimming pool in the ocean. Our lunch here was finished with hot apple pie topped with that delicious clotted cream. There are lots of little coves around the harbour of Penzance for pirates and smugglers. The mayor was at one time a well known smuggler. The smugglers used to tie lights on donkeys and put the animals on rocks to fool the ship Captains into thinking there was a harbour in which to dock thus wrecking the ship with its goods. The story was told of a preacher who was preaching when someone came to the door and yelled "wreck, wreck!" The preacher gave a lecture on how it was wrong to do this wrecking business and told everyone to sit back down. He then went to the door and hollered "Wreck, wreck!" This way he wasn't the last one out and would have his better than fair chance at the ship's cargo.

We have our first sight of heather, dotted among yellow flowers in the fields surrounded by hedge rows with wooden gates leading in and out. Signs along the roads tell us there is clotted cream for sale at many of the cottages. Cornish Pastries are also native dishes and the recipes are on tea towels, tiles and many tourist items. Lands End is just that. It is the most westerly point of England apart from the Scilly Isles (which can be seen on a clear day). It offers beautiful cliff top walks above a very rugged and dangerous coastline. The Lighthouse is 1 1/2 miles away, and Wolf Rock Light House is 8 miles away, which we could also see. It has a flat top now for helicopter landings, and there are always three men at the light house now-just for safety reasons.

Tin and Copper are mined near here with 2/3 of the world's copper coming from this area. In the 1950's there were 110 copper mines. The first steam engine was also developed here. As we go toward St. Ives, we passed through St. Just which is a mining town. One time the sea water broke through, killed all the miners, and for miles the sea was red from the reddish residue from the copper and tin mines.

Now as I was going to St. Ives - I kept looking for a man with seven wives. St. Ives, is a really beautiful fishing port with a bay filled with boats. As we walked around watching the young fishermen mending their nets by hand, we realized what a different way of life we daily live. On the way back to Plymouth we pass through one of the most curiously named places in England. Mousehole (pronounced Mow-sal) which is a picturesque fishing village also. We go through mountains of white clay where pottery is made. After another dinner and night at the Duke of Cornwall Hotel in Plymouth, we leave via another short tour of this old town and learn that it was called Sutton Harbour when it was just a fishing village. It became a city even without a cathedral, which is a criteria for English cities. Going toward Dartmoor, we see the moors covered with heather and yellow flowers. Horses were grazing and lots of small ponies, some of which are kept for small children; but most goes to Paris for horse meat. The timber had at one time been used up here, so the forest commission has planted millions of trees. Now the moors reach 2.3 miles to the south and 30 miles to the west. This used to be the most populated spots in the United Kingdom, but because of this miserable conditions, it is not so anymore. It is very easy to get lost, the temperature drops 30 degrees in just a few minutes and there is lots of bog and quicksand. The wind blows in the wintertime and sometime the snow gets 30 feet deep. To look at it now with all its beauty, it is hard to believe. The low walls that separate the plots of land are dry stone walls which means that the weight of the stones hold them in place without any mortar at all. Most farms still use oil lamps and draw water from the brooks. As we stopped to see the moors more closely, I finally picked my first piece of that beautiful heather (and thought of Heather Holt). That yellow flower we had been seeing is Gorse. The air is so clean and crisp. Our next stop was Moretonhampstead, where an old almshouse was built in 1638 and it has a church just for the elderly. At Dartmoor National Park we see tents and campers along the streams and waterfalls. What a beautiful place to stay! Exeter, is still surrounded with a portion of the old Roman Wall. Here is the famous Exeter Cathedral with its two massive towers surviving from the earlier Norman Church. Exeter was the most westerly town in the Roman Empire, and is the only one in England which has been continuously populated since pre-Roman times. It was the last city to fall into the hands of the Normans.

The River Exe, which we cross continually, runs into a canal here. The Countess of Devon built a wall across her property here to keep the ships from going across. We traveled down the old stage coach road following the River Exe past more thatched roofed houses and meadows of grouse, pheasants, geese and ducks. We go over the

Lockney Care Center Capers

By Mavis Barton & Mary Jo Fielding

Last Tuesday, February 14th, the residents of Lockney Care Center celebrated Valentine's Day by having a party. There were several families and friends present to help us celebrate. The residents were served red punch and a cake baked by Tina Nuncio, a member of our staff. The cake was decorated in a Valentine theme and after being served refreshments and visiting with one another, Valentines were passed out to the residents and several games were played. Our King and Queen of Hearts elected by fellow residents for the day were Esker and Rose Pyle. Rose had been admitted to the hospital prior to Tuesday so a "special" recognition day is being planned for our couple when she returns.

It was also a special day for the employees. The residents made the staff members "Sweethearts for the Day." Each staff member was given a special Valentine and a candy treat.

Every year the Care Center has a door decorating contest. The doors are decorated prior to Valentines and judged for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place. Winners this year were: 1st - Maria Segovia, 2nd - Pauline Monroe, and 3rd place - Gwen Orozco. The residents enjoy the doors and it makes the staff take pride in our Care Center, too!

We are glad to have Manema Hutsell and Rose Pyle home after their stay in the hospital. We all hope they continue to recover and become stronger every day.

We have a new resident at the Care Center and wish her the best, too, Mrs. Ruby Busby, a sister to Nora Ayres, moved to the center last week from Levelland. We are glad to have you with us, Ruby.

In times like these.....

By Mary Jo Fielding

American military leaders have always regarded President Reagan as a good ally in promoting stronger defense but now they are distressed by two White House policies. The first one was President Reagan's statement that he assumed responsibility for security short comings in the terrorist attack on 241 Marines in Beirut. By doing this critics say, he thwarted the traditional system of accountability in the armed forces. The President absolved all military commanders of responsibility when he said that they had "suffered quite enough." No one could have anticipated a terrorist attack. The other source of concern for military leaders is the decision to keep the Marines in Lebanon. They were sent there as a peacekeeping force but now are involved in a virtual combat situation.

The Long Commission which has been investigating the terrorist attack for the Defense Department suggest that the leathernecks are being asked to perform a job in Lebanon better handled by diplomats. President Reagan response has been a policy of maintaining a Marine peacekeeping contingent in Beirut. In spite of an order instructing the Marines to begin their pullout from Beirut, President Reagan orders that five hundred Marines, Army trainers, and other U.S. personnel are to stay in Beirut to guard the U.S. Embassy, train the Lebanese, and perform other duties.

Homecoming 1966 is recalled

Editor's Note: This is a reprint of the reunion held in Lockney in April, 1966. Since Lockney's Homecoming is being planned for Sept. 28, 1984, we thought particularly recalling the good times had at one reunion would remind each of us to make our plans so that we could attend the next scheduled reunion.

"A good time was had by all" may well be said of the reunion of the classes of 1917 and 1918 here last weekend. Though the group has been out of school 48 or 49 years, they greeted each other affectionately, greeted each other affectionately, talked for hours, held a banquet at which nostalgic talks were held, group pictures were made, attended church together Sunday morning and generally had a good time.

Headquarters for the early day graduates was the Baker home, located just a block west of the store, where the same group romped when they were still in high school. Mrs. Dimple McGavock, the former Dimple Baker, played host to the old timers and even kept many of them overnight.

The graduates and ex-students began arriving several days before the reunion but most of them came in Saturday. Highlight of the affair was the banquet Saturday evening in the Rebekah Hall, served by members of the Rebekah Lodge. Some 45, including husbands or wives of the ex-students, and other guests, were present for the gala affair.

Goldie L. Burns, one of the two male members of the class of 1917, acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. Burns has made a name for himself first as prosecutor and later as judge of judicial circuit in Indiana. He is now retired but still is active as a special judge. He is the son of an early day Lockney blacksmith and worked in the shop himself during his school days here.

Speaker for the occasion was Dr. Lawrence F. Hill, now of Colorado Springs, Colo., who was superintendent of the Lockney schools when the two classes graduated. Dr. Hill recalled that he came here as a young man of 25, knowing little about school work, that the school building burned soon after he came, that he and the school board sold the people on at $50,000 bond issue and that a new building was constructed. He also recalled coaching "The Bloomer Girls", a basketball team who won all their games. He stated that Dimple Baker at 99 pounds was the best basketball player he ever saw. Others on the team were praised by the former superintendent.

Dr. Hill also recalled that the school managed to secure 13 1/2 units of accreditation while he was superintendent, the first time it had any subject accredited. He later served as an instructor at Iowa State College for 37 years but said that of the 8,000 or 9,000 pupils he had instructed, including 21 PhD candidates, he never had a group he loved as much as he did "The Bloomer Girls."

Dr. Hill also paid tribute to Dr. Earl Sparks, who was principal of the high school, to Will McGehee, who as president of the school board, and is now deceased, to his widow, who was present for the meeting, to the "Burns Boys", to Omar Kirk of Floydada, a teacher in the early day school here, and to a man by the name of Ludlow, who was present of the Lockney Christian College at the time. Dr. Sparks also spoke of the old days, told of some of his experiences, and said that he is now a Dakota farmer who spends his winters in Florida.

Omar Kirk, now a Floydada merchant, also spoke briefly, expressing his appreciation for the invitation and telling of his enjoyment in teaching in the local school system. Mrs. Kirk accompanied him to the banquet.

Tribute was paid time and again to Mrs. McGavock and Miss Ruth Ford of Lubbock who did most of the work in arranging the reunion. Mrs. Guy Sams and Mrs. Jeffie Griffith of Lockney also assisted.

Nicholas Welcomes
Supt. H.H. Nicholas gave the welcome to the group and spoke of his amazement that the reunion could be so successful. He pointed out that there were 15 members of the class of 1917 at graduating time, all are still living and 13 of the 15 were present for the reunion. In addition the superintendent of schools, the high school principal and one teacher were also present for the reunion.

The class of 1918 had 12 members, four are deceased and five of the eight remaining members were present for the reunion. In addition there were several other ex-students and later graduates who attended the reunion. The group attended church at the First Methodist Church Sunday morning because that is where their Baccalaureate service was held previous to their graduation.

Mrs. McGehee Honored
Mrs. Will McGehee, now 93 years of age, was accorded special honor by the group. She had a son and a daughter who were members of the class of 1917 and the exes recalled her cookies and kind hospitality during their high school days. Mrs. McGehee was active in community affairs along with her husband when they lived in Lockney. She was a charter member of the Lockney Order of Eastern Star. She recalled, in speaking to The Beacon editor, that her husband put down the first irrigation well in Floyd County and used a big Fairbanks-Morse engine to pull the pump.

In attendance were Judge and Mrs. Goldie L. Burns, Valparaiso, Ind.; Ruth E. Ford, Lubbock, Texas; Lillie Mae Cooper Daughter, Ft. Sumner, N.M.; Mrs. Jeffie McGehee Griffith, Lockney; Mrs. Beatrice Burgan Harkey, Flagstaff, Ariz.; Mrs. Bessie Wilson Hudson, Pocatello, Idaho; Mrs. James L. McAtee (Edith Smith), Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace L. McGehee, Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. D.T. McMahan (Clara Quillen), San Antonio, Texas; Mrs. L.S. Rosser (Beryl Visor), Ropesville, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Stark (Helen McGehee), Hereford, Texas; Mrs. Audrey Earl Walar (Earle Blanton), Kosse, Texas; Mrs. E.T. Williard (Daisy Zimmerman), Labanon, Mo.; all of the 1917 Class.

Members and guests of the 1918 class were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sams (Pauline Sims), Lockney; Mrs. Dimple (Dink) McGavock, Lockney; Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Dumas (Wynette Britton), Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Mobley (Myrtle Miller), Lubbock, Texas; Mrs.

Ollye Jordan (Ollye Queen), Floydada, Texas.

Other guests were Dr. Lawrence F. Hill, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Dr. Earl S. Sparks, Centerville, South Dakota; Mr. and Mrs. Omar W. Kirk, Floydada, Texas; Mrs. William McGehee, Hereford, Texas; H.H. Nicholas, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Smith, Lockney; Emery A. (Big Man) Burns, Los Angeles, California; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Hays, Lockney; Mrs. Ruth Julia Burnett, San Antonio; Neva Sygart, Pampa, and Wilma Fyfe, Amarillo; J.M. Daniel, Floydada; Judge Clements and Mrs. Charlie Clements, Plainview; Gernice Baker, Plainview; Roy Riley, Pampa; Miss Betty Clements, Plainview.

The banquet tables were laid with maroon cloths and accented with maroon miniature red with miniature maroon lamps, place cards with stand-up graduates, white napkins printed in red. An arrangement of white mums tied with a maroon bow centered the speakers table. White program booklets were lettered in red. Plate favors for the women was French perfume, contributed by Hemphill Wells, Lubbock. Women who served wore white and red bonnets and aprons.

American Ag Movement has light showing for Lockney meeting

The American Agriculture Movement held a free chili lunch and meeting in Lockney last Friday at noon. Turnout for the meeting was very light but the meeting was informative.

Arnold Schwertner, of Floydada, and delegate from District 2, first addressed the gathering by stating that since the inception of the Movement the organization has gone from a loose, inefficient group to an effective, tight, and well organized organization. The Movement now has a National office located across the street from the White House in Washington, D.C., they have also recently received their own computer and they publish the American Agriculture Movement Reporter, a twice monthly publication for members.

In addition to working for better farm programs the Movement was granted the contract to distribute the government surplus cheese and butter.

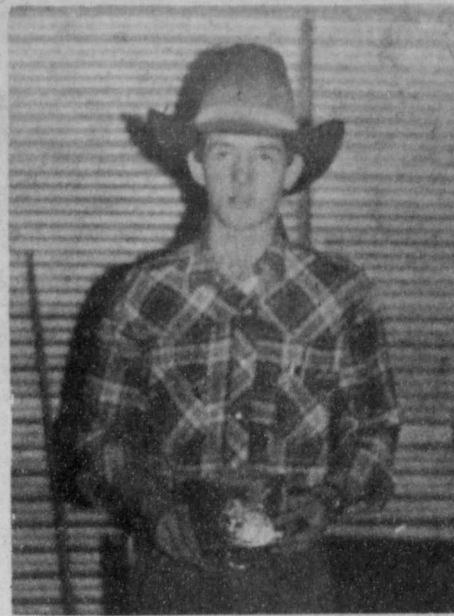

David Senter, a dairyman from Burleson, Texas and an avid member of the Movement then addressed the group. He said the Movement originated from the frustration of farmers at the prices they were receiving for crops and from the government farm programs. He said that the tractorcade in 1979 got the governments attention to the farmers problems but he also said that having farmers in the government has done more good than displays such as the tractorcade. The American Ag. Movement has obtained much support from legislators of late and this will help farmers. The Ag. Movement learned through a trial and error process that working with the system (government) instead of against it is the best way to get the farmers message across. He said the Movement supported the PIK program and that they will continue to support mandatory production controls in order to obtain fair market prices for farm crops.

Wayne Cryts of Missouri then took his turn addressing the gathering. Cryts said that since his involvement with the Ag. Movement he has studied past farm movement groups and in his studies he has found that they all failed and his explanation for the failures is that most of these groups were 5 years ahead of their time and they worked against the system instead of with it.

He said that part of the present problem is that legislators who now govern the farm programs are going from their experiences in farming and some of these men have not actively farmed in 20 years. Cryts said that through support and education of present legislators the Movement has 61 votes in the House of Representatives. These men vote to support farm programs that are also supported by the Movement. Cryts said that the Movement is presently working to have the mandatory cover crop portion of the 1984 farm bill changed. He said that they are working to let the county ASCS offices govern who must plant cover crops and who will be allowed to clean till land that is laid out. They are working but do not know when or if they can get this changed.

Cryts ended by saying that if farmers want to swing legislation to the farmers that farmers must work as a team with their Congressmen. This entails handwritten letters to Congressmen letting them know how you feel about the issues. He also said that phone calls to these men would not hurt.

Cummings' cousin takes first Olympic gold medal

America's first gold medal winner at the Winter Olympics in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia was Debbie Armstrong, a cousin of Sterling and Kendall Cummings of Lockney.

Miss Armstrong is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Cummings, who left Floyd County about 1935. Sidney was a brother to Z.C. (Zach) Cummings. Debbie's mother, Dollie, was born in Floyd County about 1931. Dollie and her husband, Hugh Armstrong live in Seattle, Washington. Hugh is a ski instructor.

Debbie, 20, was a surprise winner in the giant slalom, as she had never finished above third in previous races.

As a high school senior, Debbie skied for the Alpentel racing team and won the 1981 National Junior Olympic giant slalom. The victory earned her a European trip with other Junior Olympic standouts for a series of spring races. U.S. ski team coaches liked what they saw and she was invited back for summer and fall training and for the opening of the World Cup season.

Competing primarily in downhill, Armstrong made no headlines but turned in some solid performances. She learned and improved, and was making a strong bid for a spot on the 1982 U.S. World Championship team when her leg was fractured in a training accident at Schladming, Austria, in late January. The injury ended her World Cup campaign, but Debbie was back on the slopes in March, winning two North American ski trophy series giant slaloms in her first comeback races.

Last winter, as a member of the U.S. junior team, Debbie scored her first two World Cup points in the season-opening meet at Val d'Isere, France, with a 14th place finish in giant slalom.

Last winter was Debbie's second season in international ski racing. She skied erratically but led the U.S. women's team in World Cup downhill points. She was the team's fourth overall point scorer, behind World Cup champion Tammy McKinney, Cindy Nelson and Christin Cooper. Her efforts earned her a promotion to the United States B team, and to a ten-day training camp this past summer on the Huehue Ranch in Kailua, Hawaii. The camp marked the start of training for the Olympic season and stressed physical and mental conditioning.

by Terry J. Clements

The Medicare hospital insurance deductible, the amount a Medicare patient is responsible for when he or she first receives hospital inpatient service in a benefit period, will increase to $356 for 1984.

The 1983 deductible is $304. Also scheduled to increase are the per day amounts patients are responsible for after certain lengths of stay in a hospital or skilled nursing facility.

Medicare rates go up after 60 days of inpatient hospital care in a benefit period in 1984. Medicare will pay for all covered costs except $89 a day. The 1983 figure was $76.

For each reserve day of inpatient care, Medicare will pay for all covered costs except $178. The 1983 figure was $152.

After 20 days of care in skilled nursing facility, Medicare will pay all covered costs except $44.50 a day. The 1983 figure was $38.

Also scheduled to increase is the basic monthly premium for Medicare medical insurance, the part of Medicare that helps pay for doctors' services and other medical services. The basic 1984 premium will be $14.60 up from the 1983 figure of $12.20. Some people will pay more because the basic premium is increased 10 percent for each year a person could have had this protection but did not.

Finally, the basic premium for hospital insurance, paid by people who do not otherwise qualify for this protection, will rise to $155 for 1984, up from the 1983 figure of $113.

Nance celebrate 60 years

Mr. and Mrs. M.C. Nance were honored recently on their 60th wedding anniversary by their children and grandchildren with a quiet surprise celebration.

A spring bouquet of flowers was sent by their daughters, Mrs. L.B. Brandes and Mrs. C.E. Flippin of Lockney and Mrs. LeeRoy Peterson of Ft. Worth. A granddaughter, Mrs. Lanny Barnett of Lockney presented them with a beautifully decorated anniversary cake which she had made. Family, close friends and neighbors called in the afternoon to celebrate this milestone in their lives. A host of other friends showered them with beautiful anniversary cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Nance were married February 9, 1924 in the Aiken community of Floyd County by the Rev. J.H. Weathers. She was Ruth Hackney and came to Floyd County from Springtown with her family at a young age. Mr. Nance came to the Lone Star Community, north of Lockney, with his family from McGregor at an early age.

Mr. and Mrs. Nance farmed for many years in Floyd and Hale counties, living in the East Mound Community, east of Plainview, until they moved to present home in Plainview upon his retirement from farming in 1964. They are members of the First Baptist Church.

"Marlys can go in a pen of year-old calves and they come to her," Ken says.

The Thyens (pronounced Taen), along with children Heather and Bryan, came from South Dakota dairying country where Ken's parents owned and operated a dairy near Watertown in the northeastern section of the state.

Since two or three hutches were blown apart, it was necessary to do some doubling up in hutches.
Following the time spent in a hutch, the calves are put in larger pens for dry feed and hay.
