Local burglary occurs

On Tuesday, January 22, Schacht Flowers, Jewelry and Gifts was burglarized by unknown perpetrators.

Access to the store was gained by breaking the front glass door of the store with some heavy object. Glass was scattered across the width of the building to the west side. The break in was discovered by the Schachts upon opening the shop the following morning.

The perpetrators took an undetermined amount of jewelry from the display cases of the store.

The investigation of the break in is ongoing by the Lockney Police Department.

Rumors of residential burglaries have been received, but Police Chief, Tim Thompson, stated "I have heard that they happened, but if so, they were not reported to us." Thompson said that he knew a glass had been broken out of a home week before last but to his knowledge nothing was taken from the home.

Neighborhoods that have watch programs may want to make an exerted effort by contacting their block captain and others in the neighborhood, and make sure someone is watching for any strange activity in the area. The neighborhood watch programs were started in Lockney to protect the homes and citizens in Lockney.

Citizens may take certain steps to protect their homes while at work or out of town by making sure your doors and windows are locked, even if you are only going to be away from the house for a few minutes; unlocked doors invite trouble. Ask a neighbor that is home during the day to keep an eye on your home while you are at work.

In case one is away for the weekend, have a neighbor pick up newspaper thrown in your yard. Also let them use your driveway as this will give the appearance that someone is home. Use timers to have lights come on and turn off at various times during the day to give the appearance that someone is home.

This incident might be the provocation it takes to start a Neighborhood Watch program in your neighborhood if there is none. It serves as one of the best deterrents to crime.

A reminder in the area of permits: all door-to-door salesmen must have a permit. In case of a salesman with no permit or a questionable person, a call to the Lockney City Hall clears up the matter. Their records will reveal all current permits; permits are good for five days only from the date of issuance.

4-H AUCTION—The 4-H auction last Thursday evening was a huge success as the event raised over $7,000. In addition to all the chemicals and bags of cotton seed auctioned, Kenneth Broseh's Lockney Longhorn cap sold for $60. Tom Assiter, Jr. was this year's auctioneer.

4-H auction raises over $7000 for club

The annual 4-H dinner and chemical auction has been deemed a huge success by the county agent's office. According to Richie Crow, "Farmers came out in full force and spent $7047.00 on the chemicals auctioned off for the benefit of 4-H." Last year's auction netted about $3000.00.

There were 106 in attendance including 4-H members and their families, farmers and their families, the county agents, and three chemical company representatives present for the catered dinner of fish, chicken, and all the trimmings catered by Danny's Fins and Hens of Lubbock.

Following the meal county agent Richie Crow welcomed all the farmers, businessmen, and their families and introduced the chemical company representatives present including Suzanne Garnsey of Monsanto, Stan Grassel of Elanco, and Don Lain of Dow.

Auctioned off by auctioneer Tom Assiter Jr. were 23 different chemicals, one $100 gift certificate donated by the Lockney Coop, and six lots of Paymaster cotton seed. During the course of the auction several items were purchased and then resold. One 5 pound bag of Sencor by Mobay was purchased and resold six times and brought over $600 total for the 4-H program. Also auctioned off was Kenneth Broseh's Lockney Longhorn cap which brought $60.

The four door prizes given away during the auction were also donated to be resold. A gift box of relishes from Blair Davis Farms brought $50.00, a 3 pound box of 4-H pecans brought $160.00, a bottle of Orthatrol adjuvant donated by 4-H which sold for $20.00, and a portable air tank donated by 4-H and won by Cecil Jackson who put it up for sale and repurchased it for $65.00.

All in all it was a fun filled evening which, thanks to the farmers and businessmen, grossed more money for the county 4-H program than has ever been raised before.

Options seminar offered

In the scant decade or so since 1973, the financial world has witnessed an explosion in option products - exchange listed equity options, index options and futures options have all sprung up and expanded at an accelerating pace. And with good reason. Each one of these financial products fills a specific risk management need within an increasingly complex world economy.

For participants in the cotton industry, the staple form of risk management is the cotton futures contract traded on the New York Cotton Exchange. Since 1870, this contract has provided a means for all sectors of the cotton trade to hedge the price of the cotton they must buy and sell, in order to protect themselves from the potentially devastating effects of unexpected price fluctuations.

Today a new set of risk management tools is available to control the effects of cotton price fluctuations. These new tools, options to buy or sell cotton futures contracts, open a wealth of new hedging strategies built around the new options contract. The advantage is that buyers of cotton futures options can enjoy absolute price protection in the event of unfavorable price moves, while still sharing in the economic benefits of favorable ones.

Futures contracts alone can not provide this combination of downside insurance and upside potential - only options can. The opportunities that options afford for reducing risk and/or enhancing returns make them the most versatile of all hedging instruments.

In an effort to help producers better understand options a seminar will be held February 12, 1985 at the Lockney High School in the Ag building beginning at 6:30 until 10:00. All interested persons are urged to attend to help themselves to understand the options alternation. The seminar is being sponsored by the First National Bank in Lockney and for further information call 806-652-3355.

2 compete for show queen

This year Lockney's two stock show queen candidates are Sherre Kinard, representing the Lockney 4-H club, and Nicki Race, representing the Lockney FFA.

Both of these young ladies will be selling memberships to the Floyd County Stock Show Association. The young lady selling the most memberships will be named the queen. Two of the other candidates are from Floydada. Memberships are sold to help with the upkeep of the county stock show facilities. Members of the association have a voice and a vote on the operations of the Floyd County Junior Livestock Show.

Memberships are $5.00 per individual membership and $10.00 for businesses.

Sherre Kinard is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Roy Kinard and is a sophomore at Lockney High School. A twirler in junior high and high school, she has played basketball all through junior high and her freshman year. She was voted Most Attractive by her classmates the past two years. She is representing the Lockney 4-H club, of which she is a member.

Nicki Race is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Race. A senior at Lockney High School, she has been a member of FHA for the past four years. She was a band member her sophomore and junior years and is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. In addition to being a cheerleader, she was elected Lions Club Sweetheart her junior year. As queen candidate, she represents the Lockney FFA.

County fair cancelled

"I just don't have the time; it's too much work; You're not going to railroad me into being a Fair Board Officer; I've already done my time." These are just a few of the comments that the Fair Board Members have received in trying to gain new membership for the Floyd County Fair Board. After thirty-one years of sponsoring the Floyd and Surrounding Counties Fair in Lockney, it's a shame that there are only a handful of citizens willing to give their time and support in planning the details of the fair. Due to a lack of interest and participation from new board members, the officers see no alternative but to terminate the fair altogether for next year.

A Fair Board meeting was scheduled for Monday, January 21st to elect new officers. A notice was printed in both newspapers and invitation cards were mailed out to over forty-two couples in an attempt to gain new members for the Fair Board. Although a few of the cards were sent to people who are already currently on or who have previously served on the board, a grand total of 10 people came to the meeting. Six of those present were three of the officers and their spouses. A special thanks goes out to Kenneth Holt, Denise Blanchard, Sandra Cummings and Kay Martin for caring enough to come to the meeting.

The officers are aware of the fact that the fair requires a lot of work, but if more people were involved the work could be distributed evenly and not left to just three or four people. The catalogue committee was a perfect example of how-much easier the work load became when it was distributed among five people. All areas of the Fair could work that smoothly if more people could be counted on to help. The Fair Board has a strong backbone in past presidents and officers who are willing to advise and help the new officers but not enough interest was shown by the people in Floyd County to even make up a slate of names from which to elect new officers.

It is with a saddened heart that the officers make this news known to the people who have helped before and who look forward to helping again. The 1985 Floyd and Surrounding Counties Fair is officially cancelled for 1985.

76,000 bales ginned in Lockney area

With only three of nine area gins through ginning this year's cotton crop the bale count for this half of the county has reached 76,244 bales. Included in this count are Lockney Coop, South Plains, Sterley, Lockney Gin, D&J Gin, Evans, Barwise, Crume, Marble Bros., and Providence gins.

This count has already surpassed last year's total by more than half as last year's total bale count reached only 32,839. Even though farmers have produced more cotton than last year, this year's prices are considerably lower than they were last year and the farmers are experiencing some difficulty in selling their crops.

The 1983 cotton prices ranged from about 62 to 65 cents per pound. In December of 1984 this paper reported that prices were around 50 cents per pound, and they have dropped again to around 43 to 44 cents per pound.

This year's cotton crop held great promise for farmers until they tried to sell it. With prices so low, many area farmers could have problems with just paying their expenses that went into this crop.

The weather, for the most part, cooperated with farmers during the growing season in that much of the rain came when needed and the cotton crop promised to have the best yields in a couple of years. When farmers began to harvest their crops, the wet, freezing moisture came. Many farmers were kept out of the fields for one to two weeks at one time, waiting for the ground and cotton to dry enough to harvest it. When the cotton harvest resumed, farmers found much of their cotton had strung out of the bolls onto the ground. This cut down on the yield and the quality of the cotton, making it difficult to get a good price for the crop.

If the weather will remain dry for another week to ten days, all of the remaining cotton will be harvested. All but one of the gins are expecting to complete their ginning season by the first week of February.

Becky McPherson sworn in as assistant District Attorney

Becky Bybee McPherson, daughter of Donnie and Vera Jo Bybee of Lockney, was sworn in as the assistant district attorney for Hale and Swisher Counties on January 17. She is working with Ron Felty, district attorney for Hale and Swisher counties.

McPherson is a 1975 graduate of Lockney High School and was married to Steve McPherson, son of Gale and Gay McPherson also of Lockney, in 1977. She graduated from West Texas State University in Canyon with a bachelor of science teaching degree and is qualified to teach high school English and political science. She later enrolled in Texas Tech University and graduated with a law degree in 1982. While attending Tech, she was employed as a law clerk in the city attorney's office of Carr, Evans, Fouts, and Hunt.

For the past two years she has lived in Seagoville in Kaufman County, and has practiced civil law. McPherson commented, "I have had a civil practice, so prosecuting will be quite a change for me. I think I will really enjoy this kind of work, and I will be able to have a private practice also." In private practice she said she would only have time for wills, uncontested divorces, and other legal matters along those lines.

Before returning to the Lockney area, Steve had taught for three years. He then was employed by the Southland Land and Cattle Company. He presently farms with his father Gale.

Steve, Becky, and 4-month-old Matthew are living northwest of Lockney. Steve and Becky are both "glad to be back in the area."

In times like these... By Mary Jo Fielding

One can travel the length of South Vietnam a decade after it was overrun by Communist armies from the North and he will step in and out of eerie time warps. Still clearly evident in palm-shaded villages and the crowded markets of Ho Chi Minh City - as Saigon is called now - are the consumer goods and other holdovers of an American-dominated era that ended abruptly in April, 1975, when the Communists swarmed into Saigon.

Most striking on city streets, along country roads and in Vietnamese homes is the visual evidence of economic decline and austerity in this vibrant, reasonably prosperous country. Lack of foreign exchange to buy petroleum and spare parts has cleared away Saigon's traffic jams. The noisy streets where

Army trucks and Honda motor scooters once jostled for space now are quiet by - ways occupied mainly by bicycles and pedicabs.

There are grim "re-education" camps where many persons with past ties to the U.S. are held. There never has been an accurate tally of the total number of South Vietnamese sent to "re-education" camps in the chaotic months following the fall of Saigon in 1975. Some escaped or eventually were released to survive as best they could under a regime that considered them social and political outcasts. However, many estimates run as high as 40,000 - former military officers, Saigon government officials, and onetime political leaders still are held under harsh conditions, while Washington and Hanoi argue over terms for permitting them to enter the U.S.

Last fall, the Reagan administration proposed that up to 10,000 of camp inmates and their dependents be allowed into the U.S. on the same basis as other Indo-Chinese refugees.

Lockney Care Center Capers

By Linda McCullar

Here we are coming to a conclusion of another month. We have had a good month. We had birthday parties for all six of our birthday residents in January. We have had lots of fun activities including daily exercise every weekday and several films. We enjoyed popcorn once. A bus ride makes every Tuesday exciting.

We had a Fun Fundraiser to raise games and activities for the Care Center. Thanks to all who participated. We played lots of dominos and bingo. Thursday of last week we had a residents council meeting. Residents were happy and content; they seem to enjoy their life. Mavis Barton is president; Mary McCracken, vice president; and Nena Loudermilk is secretary.

The residents have made this month an enjoyable one. I really love and appreciate each one of them. We are looking forward to February. We have lots of activities in the planning. I know we'll have fun if we are together. Until next week.

Early Corn Hybrids That Yield!

These are the hybrids we've been waiting for in irrigated corn country. New 3377 and 3380 from Pioneer have both delivered outstanding yields. And, in many cases they did it on fewer irrigations than the fuller-season hybrids.

Pioneer has always taken the lead with corn hybrids to help you make the most of your conditions. Now, we have early corns that yield! See your Pioneer dealer right away.
